Select Poetry.

THE PASSING YEAR.

From the winds, mad and lonely... The winds are sighing only... Summer's gone... All the bright and sunny hours...

which indicates no great depth of purpose.

You have great advantages, returned Albert... The best of them in your power... I know of many a poor boy who would give half the liberties of a life time if he could have opportunities of an education that you have...

Public Education—Its Value to Freedom

That the people must be educated, in order to the performance of free institutions... The participation and supervision, with which each citizen is directly connected...

THE BRITISH QUEEN.

The following interesting account of a scene in London—the ceremonies attendant upon the prorogation of Parliament—the personal appearance of Lords, Nobles, Ladies, Attendants, &c., and the personal appearance of the British Queen...

ing the sword.

She leaned upon the arm of Prince Albert, and was on her way to the throne... The Queen having taken her seat upon the throne, the great officers of state around her, the Duke of the Black Rod first ordered to summon the peers...

Selected Miscellany

THE TWO STUDENTS.

One of the large suburban towns lived a man named John Atkins. He was one of those men who make their way to wealth, affluence and power, by strict integrity and attention to business... His name was Laura, and her beauty and wealth made her the object of a vast number of ardent admirers...
