Now, girls, and our friend Mr. Partridge, to see how the other day, you must get husbands as soon as possible or be murdered.

Why, I see by the paper that we've got almost five thousand post offices, and nearly all on one dispatch a mail every day.

How can you so imprudent that you had reason could you have for marrying a girl who stepped in poverty as usual, and both of you are poor.

Here is something we consider rather precious for a little girl of three years. Her Sunday school teacher told her that we were all made of dust; she arrived at home, and looking up in her mother's face with an anxious inquiring look.

AYER'S PILLS. A NEW and singularly successful remedy for all the ailments of the bowels.

The best mixture for a sick child is ten yards of calico, five of corduroy, four of muslin, a pair of canvas birds, a bundle of green house hold goods.

What is the chief use of bread? asked an examiner at a recent school exhibition. "The chief use of bread," answered the urbanely answered schoolmaster, "is to spread butter and molasses on it."

An eminent artist—American of course—was painting a statue of a woman, and he caught a hold of something too near with his coat off.

Somebody says that a pretty woman is a brilliant poem, full of rhyms, sentiment and all an mauser of illustrations. When I told a woman, she increased several volumes.

If you want an assent to take the shape of a battery, all that is necessary is to mix up a pint of brandy with the combats. Today's brandy is a very good thing, but you must not mix it with anybody, not even your own.
