FARMERS INSTITUTE.

Big Attendance And Very Successful Throughout.

The initial meeting of the Farmers Institute held in Hamilton's Hall on Friday and Saturday of last week was one of the most successful efforts to establish an institute that has ever been made in this vicinity.

Large crowds attended every session and by their eager interest spurred the state speakers to their best efforts. From the opening address by President B. O. Stock to the final number Saturday afternoon there was not a dull moment.

Splendid music was rendered by the Unique Quartet, composed of Messrs. A. E. Willett, R. F. Wilson, Philip Willett and Mrs. E. E. Westberry, as well as the High School Orchestra and chorus.

The state speakers were, Dr. Mary E. Anderson, G. C. Housekeeper and Frank Blackford, all of whom were both the average and experts in the different lines.

The opening session was called to order by President Stock at 8:30 a. m. today and after music by the quartet, Rev. R. H. Balmer of the Methodist church, invoked the divine blessing. President Stock then delivered the opening address in which he stated that the officials of the institute had worked hard to bring it to Plymouth and asked the members to help make it interesting and efficient. He also stated that he had been assured that the state agricultural society had been prepared for Plymouth for one week during the winter of 1914-15, owing to the activity of the institute officials.

He then introduced G. C. Housekeeper, who in an address on Fertilizers gave some pertinent facts to the farmers present. He laid great stress on the value of barn yard and stable manure, and stated that fully one-half of this valuable asset to fertility was wasted by the farmers. He gave a technical explanation of manure and fertilizer values which provoked a lively discussion at the conclusion of the address. This was followed by music by the quartet.

Dr. Mary E. Anderson was called upon to discuss "What to Eat," and in the address that followed she dealt with the health of the human family and the care of the children at home. Her address was followed by a discussion that was lively in the extreme. The quartet then entertained the audience with another selection.

Frank Blackford closed the morning session with "Pork Problems, the present of which he said was tragic. He outlined the best methods and discussed them at length. The address was closed with music by the quartet and adjourned to meet at one o'clock.

The Friday afternoon session was begun with music by the quartet, after which President Stock appointed the regular committees as follows: Committee on Resolutions, E. Stock, J. S. Stine, J. C. K. Johnson, J. L. Leburger, Sam'l Bachrach, W. B. Parnell and C. S. Carnahan. These committees were ordered to report on Monday.

sentiment of the institute was expressed when the president courteously acknowledged the warm words of welcome from the mayor, which were timely.

The quartet sang a comic selection and responded to an encore with another short selection, and G. C. Housekeeper took up the subject, "Success," as the basis for a most excellent lecture. Many pleasant thoughts were expressed during the address. He said, "fit yourself so that the work you are to do will be done right. First secure an education and learn to know the value of a dollar. Too many young people are brought up so that these two essentials are lost sight of in the hustle and bustle of life." Some of the bad habits of the rising generation of young men were reviewed. The man who is addicted to the drink habit is fast having the door of opportunity closed against him, and it behooves the young man of today to keep busy from the cup that inebriates. The smoking of cigars is a growing evil, which is fast ruining the boys and young men of today. The speaker advised the young man in search of a wife to not marry a young lady for her beautiful complexion, for very frequently that can be wiped off with a rag. His advice to the young ladies was not to marry a young man who filled the air with profanity and smoke. Marry to make a home and make that home pleasant.

The quartet sang a lively selection which was a word picture of an amusing episode in a country school and Miss Oleta Young gave a recitation. The orchestra rendered a fine selection and Frank Blackford then took up the topic, "Opportunities for Social Life and Culture Open to the Farmer," in which many pleasant phases of life were set forth. Social life among the aristocracy was strongly contrasted with that of the farm. A visit to a city church was also related in a marked contrast with that of the country church. The moral to be drawn from these two features was clear and concise and to the detriment of the city mode of living. The social life lacking in the city is depreciated by the difference shown in the country. The going to the country church was deplored in strong terms. Some very wholesome facts were expressed in the lecture, which at times was very amusing; at intervals the audience was convulsed with laughter at the comic situations depicted in word pictures of a high order.

The quartet sang "Poor Little Lamb" and John Lyon told the story of the crooked path which in after years became a trail and eventually a road. The orchestra gave the closing number and the institute adjourned until 9 a. m. Saturday.

The inclement weather had a tendency to decrease the attendance at the Plymouth Farmers' Institute, Saturday morning, although a fair sized audience was present when it convened shortly after 9 o'clock. The quartet sang a selection and Frank Blackford took up the subject of "The Hog." The hog is a machine which will convert the raw material into finished product cheaper and more economical than anything else on the farm. The subject was treated from a farrowing time to the moment that the animal is considered ready to put on the market. The different varieties of hogs were mentioned, and the preference of the producer was stated to be a factor in the success to be attained in the hog industry. Farrowing in the open field will have a tendency to prevent hog cholera. Cholera germs will not propagate where the sunlight has full sway. The discussion of the topic which had heretofore remained untouched. The quartet sang a selection which was of a comic nature, and Miss Beatrice Stock gave a recitation entitled "Ohio," which was highly appreciated.

"Improvement of our Public Highway," was the topic of a splendid address by Sam'l Bottenfield, in which some practical advice was given. He mentioned the road built, away back before the birth of Christ, which was still in good shape. Some of the modern ways of building were mentioned at some length, which was full of interest, and he created much applause by his claim to priority in the discovery of the fact that roads have drains, in common with the ill of the human family. The discussion of the hog brought out some practical things of a profitable nature.

The quartet sang a sentimental selection, and the general discussion of the matter of encouraging country boys to stay on the farm was discussed. The quartet sang a selection among those who took part in the discussion was E. K. Johnson, John Stine, J.

the farmers and their wives present. Some explicit advice was given along the vegetable production for home consumption. Don't raise vegetables which no member of the family will eat. It is a waste of time and ground space to do it. The orchard for the farmer was the principal theme of the address and was handled in a most interesting manner. The mode of planting and care of the fruit tree was covered in a profitable way, calculated to be applied by all who were present. The diseases of the tree was given considerable scope. It is profitable, it was stated, to make a specialty of a certain variety of fruit, and follow it up. He said that Richland county was adapted to fruit growing, and no where in the state can it be produced better than here. Some instances were related in which large fortunes were made in fruit growing, and there is no reason why Richland county farmers cannot do as well.

After the High School Boys' Chorus had rendered a selection the institute adjourned until 1 p. m. At this time the hall was filled again, and the program was opened by a selection by the quartet.

The reports of the various committees were called for. The committee on nomination reported as follows:

For President—B. O. Stock.
Vice President—A. E. Morse.
Secretary—J. Howard Clark.
Executive Committee—Mahlon Nimmons, H. S. Myers and J. C. Woodworth.

The committee on resolutions reported at great length as follows, after a lengthy preamble. Resolved that we tender our hearty thanks and are especially grateful to the Mayor, officers and citizens of Plymouth for their support at this institute, and to the members of the High School pupils for the beautiful and inspiring music rendered, also to the lecturers for their interesting and valuable addresses so ably presented, and further to all others who have aided to make the institute the grand success that it has been.

2nd. That we favor the enforcement of the Heights road law for the improvement of the country highways.

3rd. That we favor the return of the automobile tax to the county from which it was derived to be used as a fund to repair pipe roads in the county.

4th. We favor the exemption of mortgaged land from taxation to the extent of the mortgage.

5th. We favor the enactment of a law requiring all notes and mortgages to bear a government stamp, so they will not escape taxation.

6th. We further favor the establishment of a County Experiment Farm, and that the proper steps be taken to bring that matter before the voters of Richland county at the November election of 1914.

7th. We favor the selection of a resolutions committee one month prior to the convening of the institute.

8th. That we have the aid of the government to abolish hog cholera.

M. K. Johnston, Chairman.
A. A. Ross, Committee.

The resolutions were adopted by a vote of the institute. A cornet duet was rendered by P. L. S. Foght and his little son, and was encored. The little lad responded with a cornet selection. G. C. Housekeeper then took up the subject of "Corn, Fertilizers and Tillage," in which the culture of that cereal was fully covered. Some good hints were secured at various stages of the address, all of which can be applied with profit by the Plymouth farmers present.

Builder of Panama Canal is Named by Executive of the United States.

COLONEL TO HAVE FULL CHARGE

President Wilson Signs Order Putting Into Operation Permanent Government for Ditch After April 4—Nine Departments Under Governor.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson has just signed an executive order putting into operation April 4 a permanent government for the Panama canal zone and naming Col. George W. Goethals as the first civil governor. Secretary Garrison made the announcement as he carried away the executive order from the White House. The permanent government of the zone, headed by a civil governor, eliminates the commission which in the past has managed the canal zone. The commission are to be retained, however, until the opening of the canal, as a committee in charge of the arrangements for the celebration incident to the opening, though without any administrative functions.

Nine Departments.
The president's order establishing a permanent government for the Panama canal zone creates these departments: Operation and maintenance, purchasing, supply, accounting, health, departments and an executive secretary. These departments will be managed as follows: Maintenance, army engineer officer; transportation, naval officer; electrical engineer, army engineer officer; captain of terminal ports, army officer; superintendent of shops and dry docks, naval constructor; chief health officer, army medical officer; superintendent of hospitals, army medical officer; chief of the quarantine division, officer of the public health bureau; chief quartermaster, army officer.

Goethals Expresses Pleasure.
Panama.—The news of the signing by President Wilson of an executive order establishing a permanent government for the canal zone, with Col. Goethals as governor, reached here and brought with it a feeling of relief at the canal zone. When word was conveyed to Col. Goethals that he had been appointed governor, he expressed pleasure, but declined to make any statement in the absence of official notification. It is believed the plan submitted by Col. Goethals through the secretary of war has been followed. This will give the governor control of all features of the administration.

New York City.—Calmly telling the witness story of having been implicated in two murders, a score of bomb outrages and the abduction of young girls for white slave purposes, was Lehman, 27, who has been arrested and court spectators here. Lehman disclosed the operations of one of the most desperate "blackhand" gangs, the police officers encountered, because he believes other members of the gang betrayed him after a bomb was planted in Lyndhurst, N. J. Lehman was arrested in connection with a recent explosion at a party given at a hotel in New York City. He said he had taken part in a score of bomb outrages, had burned two Brooklyn houses for insurance, and taken part in two murders. A Chinese was killed in one robbery, he said, and he received $2,000. Two men with him, who did the actual killing, got the same amount, he said. Lehman said both conspirators were connected the men doing the work $50.

Shot in Fight With Man

Grimm, with whom he had got into an altercation. Passengers on the car stampeded for the rear door and Grimm to fight his battle alone. The first two bullets went wild, and Grimm closed in on Murray. The third shot went a bullet into Grimm's leg but the conductor struggled on until he at last placed Murray's two arms to his side. The car was stopped and Murray was sent to the city prison.

ALASKA BILL WINS

MEASURE THAT GIVES PRESIDENT POWER TO BUILD ROAD WINS IN SENATE.

Wilson is Given Broad Power—Can Construct or Buy $40,000,000 Railway—Sale of Lands to Provide Necessary Funds.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The senate on Saturday passed the Alaska railway bill directing the president to purchase or construct 1,800 miles of railroad in Alaska at a cost not exceeding $40,000,000. The vote was 46-18. The bill places upon the president responsibility for the selection of the route from Sitka to the interior of Alaska, and the construction, equipment and operation or leasing of such lines as he may construct or buy to constitute the route. The broadest powers are conferred upon the president in carrying out his duties. The bill provides for a redemption fund into which shall be paid 75 per cent. of all monies derived from the sale of public lands in Alaska, or the coal or mineral contents thereof. Machinery utilized in the construction of the Panama canal is made available for the construction work.

Unavailing efforts to reduce the $40,000,000 appropriation authorized for the work were made during the closing hours of the debate. Senator Hoke Smith sought to have the appropriation reduced to $25,000,000 and Senator Smart to $20,000,000. With the consent of the territorial committee the bill was amended before passage to require the senate's approval of the appointment of civil engineers receiving over $3,000 per annum, to forbid any payment for the good will or existing railways, giving injured employees the right to sue the government and limiting the government's defenses to those provided for in the federal employers' liability law of 1908.

BANDIT ROBS A TRAIN

ROBBER TERRORIZES PASSENGERS ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

Compels Pullman Porter to Assist Him in Gathering Cash From Occupants of Bertha.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Thrilling stories of how a lone bandit—a slender, nervous young fellow with a big revolver—held up Michigan Central passenger train No. 7, west-bound, at 1:44 a. m. on Friday, near Jackson, Mich., robbing and terrifying passengers in one Pullman sleeper, among them several Chicagoans, were told in Chicago when the train arrived. The uniqueness of the robber's methods—some of the members of the train crew who had them come—confronted the bandit with a gun in the hold-up in his escape. Although he artfully drove passengers with it of a covered porter, he succeeded in getting less than $300 in money, jewelry.

At the time the bandit forced the porter into the limelight—was in a terrific role and the other in the hero's garb. It was "Louis" Thome's coolness and precision that prevented further operations of the robber and caused him to leap from the train near Farmington, Mich., while it was slowing down. In the country about Parma and in the city of Jackson the bandit is believed to have been seen in patches, by Sheriff J. F. Greble and a well-armed posse. They say the fugitive cannot escape. The Michigan authorities believe the man retraced to Jackson after escaping from the train. Three other men who are reported to have left the train when the robber departed are believed to be tramps stealing a ride.

THE EDWARDS GOVERNMENT

SENATORS SAY WILSON IS NEARLY PREPARED TO LET MEXICAN REBELS BUY ARMS. READY FOR INTERVENTION

President Discusses Problem With Committee on Foreign Relations at White House Conference That Ends at Midnight.

Washington, Jan. 26.—President Wilson and members of the foreign relations committee of the senate held an important conference on Monday on the external affairs of the government. The discussion covered numerous subjects of pressing moment. The most important being the Mexican situation.

Some of the committee declared that they expect the president will within the next few days take action toward raising the sharp on the constitutionalists and other rebels who for the last several months have been deprived of the opportunity of obtaining arms in this country and the weapons and munitions they need. The president it is said, believes that the time has come to let down the bars and to permit constitutionalists to obtain all the arms and ammunition they require.

Secrecy was enjoined upon all those present at the conference by the president and it was understood that the conference broke up shortly before midnight that anything to be said would be said by the president himself. He gave any one to the situation respecting our relations with the republic south of the Rio Grande. The president said that the conference as here stated is most significant. It indicates that matters are certainly approaching a crisis—if the crisis is not averted by the time the next domestic developments may be expected at any moment. One senator, on leaving the conference, said: "I would not have been so great a deal, but feel that the patriotic duty I owe to the American people is not to say anything. If anything is to be said, the president is the one to say it."

Conditions in Mexico for some weeks have been almost intolerable and, although pressure has been brought to bear on the president from foreign as well as domestic sources to intervene for the protection of lives and property of Americans and other foreigners, the president has refused to do so. The internal situation in Mexico until it is absolutely certain that intervention by the United States will be of any good or solving the problem. While the foreign governments and financial and commercial influences have been willing to wait definite action by the United States and have refrained from taking independent action.

The Huerta administration has been in dire straits for the last several weeks, but prospects of any improvement. Practically the only part of the country where he holds undisputed control is in the City of Mexico and the surrounding district. His armies in the north have been defeated and many federal soldiers have been driven across the international border into Texas. Practically the entire tier of states along the northern border are independent of control from Mexico City. Guatemala and brigandage prevail in the rest of the country.

In addition the economic conditions are bad and the people are bordering on starvation due to the repeated ravages of the pest which has been the cause of the most serious and consecutive revolutionary movements of the last few years. In Mexico City the foreign residents are not sure of their safety.

With this condition confronting the administration practically every military precaution preliminary to intervention has been taken. For the last several days there has been a strong belief in official circles that "something was going to drop" in regard to Mexico. The White House conference and the secrecy imposed by the president upon the members of the senate committee after their departure tended to strengthen the belief that some important action by this government is in almost immediate prospect.

Among the other diplomatic subjects discussed at the conference was the ratification of the limited arbitration treaties with Great Britain, Japan, Italy and Portugal, which has been pending in the senate since the committee for several months. The president urged their prompt approval.

An Honest Dependable Medicine
It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Lowell, Mass., for a confidential letter. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Laugh Away the Clouds.
Mistakes are to be laughed at. If one were to take seriously every little error he would be a burden to himself and a burden to his family. Laugh at your own little mistakes, and do not feel grieved if others laugh at them. Laughing will help you overcome them and give you another time quite as well as giving away to serious regrets. Some people are forever taking themselves to task for some shortcomings. They are the over-conscientious ones. If we act foolishly on the impulse of a moment, it is no more fair to punish ourselves than to punish a child for a little mistake. It is right to look for the error and acknowledge it. If one has made a mistake it is temptingly easy to do more careful; thus put it out of mind. To grow morose and solemn is to make a mistake in the eyes of the world. Do not do any good to yourself or others by constantly eating the bread of penitence. The only time to remember a mistake is when one is tempted again to the same fault. Daily and hourly keeping up self-reproach, one is worn out. This does not mean severe to listen to the words of conscience, but to see the fault, start afresh and keep cheerful and hopeful.

FRIENDLY TIP

Restored Hope and Confidence.

After several years of indigestion and its attendant evil influence on the mind, it is not very surprising that one finally loses faith in things generally.

A N. Y. woman writes an interesting letter. She says:

"Three years ago I suffered from an attack of indigestion which left me in a most miserable condition. For over two years I suffered from nervousness, weak heart, shortness of breath, could not sleep, and was unable to do any work. My appetite was ravenous but I felt starved all the time. I had plenty of food but it did not nourish me because of indigestion. I had a medical treatment but it did not help. I got discouraged, stopped medicine and did not care much whether I lived or died."

"One day a friend asked me why I didn't try Grape-Nuts food. I got drunk coffee and saw Postum. I had lost all interest in life. I saw a bottle of Grape-Nuts food. I bought it and tried it. I was so glad to see my health was better than before the attack of indigestion."

"I am now feeling fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name as you like. I am proud of what your medicine has done for me."

SEVERAL DEMAND MODIFICATION OF TAX AND LIQUOR LICENSE ACTS. ONE BILL SURE OF PASSING

The Flood Protection Measure Goes Through House and Friendly Action Promised by Senate—Favorable Urged to Capitalize "Good Will"

D. A. DONOVAN, Special Columbus Correspondent.

The legislative session that has been brewing under the direction of the minority members of the general assembly is fairly broken. The Republicans have their hand. They are not going to allow and permit the administration program slide through the special session without having something to say here and there—in fact, much to say. And they are counting for aid in the program upon the Bill Moores and so-called insurgent Democrats. The minority leaders are saying that the governor has asked them what they want in consideration for non-resistance to the special session. They have replied that they have been given. They will have modification of the liquor license law, modification of the new taxation law and a general license law. The interpretation being placed by the administration upon that part of the state constitution which limits the work of a special session and directs specifically mentioned by the governor. The governor already has given an intimation that he won't consider requests for a special session for a sixth year are very bright. The Republicans demand for modification of the license and tax laws is based on the contention that the laws should be administered by officers elected by the people in each county instead of by state officials, appointed by the governor. This is the contention made when the laws were being passed. It is indicated that the Republicans also will ask for a lessening of the salaries now paid the license officials and the tax officials. It is difficult to predict the outcome of the situation. There are two alternatives left for the administration. It may compromise with the minority or it may attempt to crush the minority with overwhelming numbers. In the latter alternative the Republicans expect reinforcements from insurgents on the Democratic side and from the handful of independents and Progressives in the assembly. At all events the prospective clash is going to make matters decidedly interesting from now on.

House Passes Flood Bill. Favorable action on the part of the house and promised friendly action by the senate place the Vanderhoef food protection bill in a fair way toward final enactment. This is the same measure which the senate almost absolute power to bond themselves in making improvements against future flood disasters. Flood protection bills in flood districts are to be carried out by directors appointed by the common pleas court and such directors have sweeping authority.

Governor's Recommendation. That the state release its claim for illegal interest, amounting to $25,000, against the defunct Columbus Savings & Trust Co. is the first measure made by Gov. Cox in a message sent to the general assembly Friday. This money will be divided among 9,000 depositors and will be paid in the form of a dividend of 3 per cent. It is expected that the legislature will pass a bill at once releasing the claim. The depositors will realize a sum in excess of their claims against the bank, according to prospect.

First Bill to Become Law. The first bill in Governor's list is that of Representative Behne of Williams which allows the auditor of state to issue a duplicate warrant if the original should happen to be lost. The senate put it through Wednesday afternoon. The house passed it earlier. When a duplicate is issued, the person getting it must give a receipt. This is the state in the event that the original should turn up and be cashed by mistake.

Colleges and universities which provide state aid are affected by the measure bill, passed by the senate, which requires that all funds collected for the state by schools, colleges, or institutions shall be turned into the state treasury once a week. Under special statutes boards and institutions have been authorized in receiving their own receipts. The educational institutions are among those who have been making an return of money.

Third Special Message. Gov. Cox sent his third special message to the general assembly Wednesday afternoon at 11 o'clock. It was Greenleaf and Home.

Gov. William A. Greenleaf, the new presiding officer of the assembly, is particularly pleased with the session. He urged that business be conducted with all possible expedition and he kept the assembly on the move. The first bill to become law is that of Representative Behne of Williams which allows the auditor of state to issue a duplicate warrant if the original should happen to be lost. The senate put it through Wednesday afternoon. The house passed it earlier. When a duplicate is issued, the person getting it must give a receipt. Trade Commission Instead of Corporation Bureau Would Report Violations of the Statutes—Rigid Inquiries Urged.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Ordered the program laid down by the president in his recent message. The administration's trade bills were presented to congress.

The bills have received the approval of Mr. Wilson and the Senate. With little modification they will be enacted into law. Their purposes are: 1. To prevent competition between banks, national banks, or banking associations, or other banks or trust companies which are members of any reserve bank or other bank or trust company and a person who is a director in any state bank or trust company not operating under the provisions of the reserve bank or other bank or trust company operating under the provisions of the law.

To create or carry out restrictions in trade or to acquire a monopoly in any interstate trade, business or commerce. 2. To limit or reduce the production or increase the price of merchandise or of any commodity.

3. To manufacture, make, transporting, selling, or purchasing of merchandise, produce, or any commodity. 4. To make any agreement, enter into any arrangement, or arrive at any understanding by which they directly or indirectly undertake to prevent a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or among any purchaser of such merchandise, produce, or transportation of any product, article, or commodity.

5. A penalty for violation of the law is fixed at not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for one year or both. 6. Guilt is made personal for the act of the corporation, and the officer or agent shall be guilty of the violation of the law if the offense shall be deemed to cover the individual directors, officers, and agents of such corporation as authorizing, ordering, or doing the prohibited acts, and they shall be punished as prescribed above.

7. A paragraph prohibiting holding companies is to be added to this measure. 8. Covers Unfair Trade Practices. The bill forbidding unfair trade practices declares that to discriminate in price, between different purchasers of commodities, with the purpose or intent to injure or destroy a competitor, either of the purchaser or of the seller, shall be deemed an attempt to monopolize interstate commerce.

9. It is specifically declared that the law is not intended to prevent discrimination in price between purchasers of commodities "on account of differences in the grade, quality, or quantity of the commodity sold, or that makes only due allowance for difference in the cost of transportation."

10. Further, it is prescribed that nothing contained in the act shall prevent persons from selecting their own customers, but this provision shall not authorize the owner or operator of any mine engaged in selling its product in interstate or foreign commerce to refuse arbitrarily to sell the same to a responsible person, firm, or corporation, who applies to purchase.

11. An attempt at monopoly also is declared to exist for any person to make a sale of goods, wares, or merchandise at a price charged therefor, or discount from or rebate upon such price, on the condition or understanding that the purchaser thereof shall deal in the goods, wares, or merchandise of a competitor or competitors of the seller.

12. A judgment against any defendant is a suit brought under the anti-trust law if the plaintiff shall constitute an agent, or a defendant, or a co-defendant of the same facts and be conclusive as to the same issues of law in favor of any other party in any civil proceeding brought under and involving the provisions of the law.

Elizabeth Wyandt Sherman.

The Great Silence fell upon the earthly life of Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, Thursday morning of last week, and left desolate, save for beautiful memories, a home of whose daily work and thought she had ever been the center.

Elizabeth Wyandt was born near Plymouth, March 29th, 1839, died at her late home in Plymouth, January 22, 1914, after a brief illness of a little less than a week, having been stricken with apoplexy, and apparently without warning and seemingly in the midst of health. But she came quickly, peacefully with little conscious suffering, resting close of an active and useful earthly life.

On September 18, 1861, the deceased was married to Jacob Christian Sherman, who died March 19, 1913. They married life extending over a period of fifty-one years, and one son, Edward Sherman, of Plymouth, and one daughter, Mrs. Amelia Ferrell, of Saginaw, Michigan, are the surviving members of the family.

The earth life just ended, deserves more than passing notice, yet her wish would be to have the record in unassuming phrases. Early in life she identified herself with the Lutheran church and with Christian Society, gave to her service of forty years, being a member in its Sunday School at the time of her death. Her characteristic qualities were best exemplified in the home. In and around this cherished spot, her activities were centered and from it radiated the cheer, helpfulness and love of her lifelong service to others. Her most cherished cordial hospitality her home had ever its open door of welcome to her many friends and relatives.

The quality of life is always missed in the greatest measure by those nearest to such a loving heart. To the devoted daughter and son, who thoughtfully and tenderly ministered to her through her declining years, the richest heritage of a true mother's love is in the lives of her nephews, who in early life were called to miss a mother from their homes, she has left the tender memory of her motherly interest and care in and over them. All who grew closely within the circle of her family life will surely miss her interest and thoughtful care. She has left the sweetest memory—a name honored and revered.

Funeral services were held at her late home January 23, conducted by Dr. John G. Mansfield, a former pastor and warm friend of the family, assisted by Rev. Mansfield, of the Lutheran church, of Plymouth. Interment in Greenwood cemetery.

AN INCESSANT COUGH.

A severe cough is always a grave symptom. It may not indicate organic disease of the lungs. Even though the cough is a functional disturbance it is of sufficient gravity to demand prompt attention.

The dropping of mucus from the back part of the nose into the throat indicates catarrh, sometimes it goes on a long time before the patient pays any attention to it. It is a warning of the danger of mucus dropping into the throat in this way is apt to excite catarrh of the stomach, any ray the condition ought to be corrected as soon as possible.

Mrs. Boardman, of Franklin, Texas, found after using Furin that not only did the incessant cough disappear, but the dropping of mucus into the throat had also ceased. Read what she says:

"For over three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My nasal system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing alarming attacks of hemorrhages."

"I tried many remedies, which were all without success, until I used Furin. I had had tried Furin, and in three days I was relieved of the bowel troubles. After using Furin, I was entirely cured."

"I must especially recommend Furin to all who are suffering from chronic catarrh."

People who object to taking such a large quantity of medicine should take Furin.

A Carelessly Treated Cold

is the source of most sickness because drugged pills, syrups and alcoholic mixtures are uncertain and unsafe.

Scott's Emulsion has been relied upon by physicians for forty years as the safe and sensible remedy to suppress the cold and build up the debilitated forces to avert throat and lung troubles.

Don't tolerate alcoholic substitutes, but insist on the Genuine Scott's Emulsion. One bottle usually lasts longer than a cold. Every druggist has it.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE ALL THE TIME

IN DAINTY NEGLIGEEES

FASHIONS WERE NEVER MORE VARIED OR CHARMING.

Height of the Piqueeque in the Gracious Drapery Arrangements Shown—Small Coat to Be Worn With Tea Gown.

The shops have shown unusually attractive tea jackets, matinee, sack and piqueeque combinations this season, but the most exquisite developments in the realm of the negligee are among the more elaborate tea gowns or robe d'intérieur models.

The picturesque and graceful drapery arrangements, the lines in veuve and the softness and beauty of the materials and the wonderful color harmonies all conspire to make the latest some type of negligee more beautiful than ever, and one hardly knows where to begin in discussing the lovely things.

These robes usually consist of a clinging slip of satin, crepe or other sheer fabric with tulle or similar dra-pey of tulle, lace or chiffon. There are many exceptions to this rule, however, in the form of brocade or embroidered crepe and silks, and the models may be ornamented by a wealth of embroidery, though the tendency now is to extract the essential of the gown to line color and material rather than to trimming; though trimming is lavished upon a robe of this character it is apt to be of lace rather than embroidery.

CORD TO HOLD IN KIMONO

Device That Very Properly May Be Said to Fill a Long-Felt Want.

The long kimono seems to have been permanently adopted from Japan, so it is so delightful a garment to slip on in a hurry. There is no adjusting, no hooking, no buttoning, but haven't there been times when you've longed for a grille of some sort to confine the flowing folds to the figure? It gets you in the way at times! Yet how ridiculous any such expedient look upon it! But the wise old samurai, which, of course, is a part of the real Japanese garment. And the old, while appreciating the fastenings, in two places and needs also much adjusting for people in a hurry.

That if girls are out of the question cords are not, and in a Japanese woman recently took to making cords for her kimono, says the New York Times. The effect remains one somewhat of the flowing, somewhat of the worn in the middle ages. The cord is brought from the back around to the front, or vice versa, and is loosely knotted.

To make the cord secure about eight yards of common cotton cord are used, and with the help of the kimono. To do this, make a slip of blue strip and tuck it into the cord through it with a bodkin, or join the cord ends, and secure with the cord.

Worn over this charming tea gown was a coat of pale pink chiffon bordered with white tulle. The coat fronts fall open down the front and were trimmed with frills of cream shadow lace, the frills beginning at the waist line and extending down the front and around the bottom of the garment. The sleeves were also trimmed with a frill of lace.

Another model also had a chiffon coat arrangement bordered with tulle. The entire under robe was formed of shadow lace. Chiffon roses ornamented the coat at the fastenings at the waist line and at each side below the hips where the coat draped toward the back. The ends of the coat were draped again toward the front and tied in a loose knot, giving the robe the fashionable narrow effect at the bottom.

MAY LEAVE OFF THE CORSET

Present-Day Styles Permit the Doing Away With That Garment, If Desired.

The woman who has always detested wearing corsets has at last come into her own. She can lock the hated articles in the deepest drawer of her closet and prepare to be happy in her own way, for no longer are stiff lines and snugly girded waists the fashion. To be sure this cheering bit of news applies only to the woman of slender or average figure. She who regretfully admits to real "embonpoint" must still put her faith in stays.

The new gowns demand that all our soft curves should show, but in restraint, as it were, and while the corset may be discarded, you need not think you can get along without any aid from the corsetier. No, indeed! For while your waist should be supple, your bust must not lack the slightest appearance of flabbiness, and there must be no sagging or sloppiness of line about hips and abdomen.

If you are to be a correct woman you should add to your wardrobe at once a "slip-on" and a brassiere. A slip-on is quite the newest thing, and there are many varieties, some of which are merely modified corsets, boned and laced, but to style for the slender woman who is turning her back on stays is a delicate laceless webbing and extends merely from the waist to about the length of the ordinary corset. It is in one piece, and slips on either over the head or is pulled up over the legs, chorus girl style. It holds the hips firmly, while permitting the uncorseted effect so sought after. With this our beauty seeker should wear a dainty brassiere to keep the bust in form. You can get that the way in which you wish, and unconfined. For that reason a few exercises to keep any superfluous flesh from settling at the waist line should be followed.

Herein lies the persistence of the kimono sleeve, the blouse without a shoulder seam for which artists have always contended.

Styles Are Straight. The line of the fashionable garment is loose, also, seeming hardly to touch the body.

When it becomes necessary to break the long line of the garment the break is placed where the natural break of the body occurs, the bust, hips or bows, so that the garment becomes a logical arrangement rather than a hit or miss cutting up of whole cloth.

Most garments are now manipulated from big squares, thus giving the beauty of the fabric and of the design as much opportunity as possible.

Add Slipping. To keep white slip gloves from turning cream color, wash in cold water with castile soap and add a little of the blue, rinsing water and dry in the shade.

ATTRACTIVE MILLINERY

end to cover the fastening of the ends Attach the center of the cord to the center back of the kimono, and it is ready to knot about the waist.

Not Much Relieved. "I suppose you felt when you got back from Reno as if a great weight had been lifted from your mind?"

"Oh, no. I really didn't notice much of a difference. You see he hadn't made any effort at all to get possession of the children."

"His Greatest Day." "George, who do you regard as the greatest day of your life? The day you married me or the day our boys were born?"

"The day I married you, dear. It did not seem as if my presence was needed then."

The Advance of Culture. People who are inclined to doubt that culture is making headway in this country should be reminded of the fact that nearly everybody knows how to pronounce Lord Gray now.

The ONLOOKER BY HENRY HOWLAND The WINNER

You hate to see others getting along. You are pained when your neighbor is winning prizes. You look for slights and think all is wrong. Because you are skulking in gloomy ways. Because you sit in the dark and write. You think the sun has refused to shine.

You think you are cheated when others win. You are glum when another has cause to smile. You hunt for trouble and drag it in. You are always sure that your luck lies with you.

In a cave that is gloomy and damp you hide. And think that the world is dark outside.

You grope at fate and you call it chance. When others receive the rewards they earn. You call it the evil of circumstance. When others have done you a pain-fol turn. You shut the sunlight out of your soul and think that the world is gloomy and dim.

You feed your passions with selfishness. You covet envy and hunt for slights. When you hear that your neighbor has won success. You imagine that he has infringed your rights. But the sun is managing still to shine. So come out of the dark and cease to whine.

Dreams Do Come True. "Have you ever had a dream that came true?"

"Yes. I had one only a few nights ago that came true. I dreamed that I was going to receive a telegram which I would be afraid to show to my wife."

"And you got it? Was it from another woman?"

"Yes. Say, old man, I never supposed you would be guilty—"

"What? It was from my mother who notified me that she was coming to visit us for two or three weeks."

Satisfied. He never grumbled when he ate. He took things as they came. When his wife asked him to plate. He gave no body blame.

He did not kick when things were high. Nor fret when they dashed. When others rose he held his right. At all things left behind.

He thought the world was simply grand. He heard from day to day. His wife sang in opera, and he let him draw her up.

Consistency. "Hacon is one of the most consistent optimists I have ever met."

"Constant! What do you mean by that?"

"He is always cheerful himself and willing to believe other mean it when they say they are satisfied with the kind of weather that happens to be prevalent."

Not Much Relieved. "I suppose you felt when you got back from Reno as if a great weight had been lifted from your mind?"

"Oh, no. I really didn't notice much of a difference. You see he hadn't made any effort at all to get possession of the children."

HIS FIRST YEAR AT FARMING IN SASKATCHEWAN

Win Premiums and Prizes in Competition With the World.

There are thousands of young men filling positions in stores and offices, and in professional occupations throughout the United States, who in their earlier life, worked on the farm. The attainments of city life were attractive until they faced the stark reality. These people would have done better had they remained on the farm. Many of them, convinced of that, are now getting "back to the land," and in the experience, no better place offers nor better opportunity afforded, than that existing in Western Canada. Many of them have taken advantage of it, and there are to be found today hundreds of such farmers in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The conditions that surround farming operations today are so much superior to those of the former times that the farming days that there is an attraction about it. Improved machinery, level and open plains, no rocks to be dug and covered and the heavy stretches with miloing furrows, elevators to handle the grain, railways to carry it to market and bring almost to their doors the things necessary to operate. Splendid grazing areas, excellent opportunities for raising cattle. These things are all so different from what they once were that they are now son to speak of the attractions. If it Crossman of Kindersley Saskatchewan was the man who won a splendid prize at the International Fair Farming Congress held at Tulsa, Oklahoma, last fall, grew the prize grains during his first year farming. Up to 1913 he was an engineer and the heavy snow edge he had of farming was that obtained when he was a boy. That was very useful. In fact it was valuable to him. He had not forgotten it. "Thousands with a little experience as he had can do well by taking up the 16-acre grants offered by the Canadian government." Advertisement.

THE RIGHT SOAP FOR BABY'S SKIN

In the care of baby's skin and hair, Cuticura Soap is the mother's favorite. Not only is it untraced in purity and refreshing fragrance, but its gentle soothing properties are usually sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness, roughness and chafing, soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and hair health generally. Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, it is most valuable in the treatment of eczema, rashes and itching, burning, itchy eruptions. Cuticura Soap works to a safer, often outlasting several cakes of ordinary soap, and making its use most economical.

It was a busy day in Fulton street. Lines of trucks were backing each other east and west, when out from a produce store came a fat and dandified mother cat, and dangle with which she sought to cross the street. Each time she started she had to turn back because of truck, and her efforts soon attracted a crowd of idlers.

Down from the corner came a policeman, he soon saw what was the matter and while there was nothing to the traffic regulations to cover point it took the bluecoat only a moment to decide what to do.

Going into the street he raised his hands in the way that truckmen have learned means "Stop." They stopped. ---Chiropractic---

The human body is a complete machine and when first created was perfect in all its parts, its intricate mechanism working in perfect accord. This was health. For many reasons these conditions were short lived. As the human family became more and more dominated by what we term civilization, methods of living changed and in the present generation a well preserved is rarely to be found. The remedy is not to do away with civilization and its advantages but to modify the phases that are injurious to good health and conforming to rules that are conducive to that end being the physical condition of the race up to the level of the intellectual. The body has within itself, when its parts are in correct relationship and functioning properly, everything necessary to produce perfect health.

So logically the first thing to be done when sickness exists is to put the parts of this machine as nearly as possible in correct relationship with each other. This is what Chiropractic does. The word means to work with the hand. By becoming absolutely familiar with the body in all its parts the Chiropractor, in order to regulate its mechanism and with the hand to apply force in such manner as to put parts in proper relation.

All life and animation is the result of stimulus transmitted from the brain through the nerves to all parts of the body. Any interference by displacement, however caused, with the transmission of stimulus results in abnormal conditions which implies suffering in the parts of the body dependent on such nerves for their animation.

The Chiropractor first examines the vertebral column because it forms the channel containing the spinal cord from which emanate the nerve trunks on the way from the brain to different parts of the body. The vertebral column is composed of twenty-six vertebrae superimposed one upon another and is the part of the body most liable to serious subluxations with consequent impingement of the nerves issuing therefrom.

Dislocation of the vertebrae is not confined to the bony parts of the body but is often found among the softer tissues. Diseases, no matter of what nature, chronic or acute, are the result of the same cause, occlusion of nerve stimulus, and hundreds of cases daily prove the efficacy of the Chiropractic method in the correction of these abnormal conditions. For the demonstration of these principles or for further information see

COUGH TWO YEARS OLD

Yields to Vinol. Read Why.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your run down condition again? Mrs. D. A. Mideo of Wareness, Mass., says: "I had a chronic cold and cough which kept me awake nights for two years and I felt tired all the time. Vinol cured my cough and I feel stronger in every way."

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building in aid.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say. P. S.—For itching, burning skin try our Sazo Salve, We guarantee it.
