

The Human Automobile

The human body, like an automobile, changes fuel (food) into power. The fuel is too rich, or the mixers and valves are out of order, waste products clog the machinery and reduce the power.

The kidneys, like exhaust valves, should carry off the waste (uric acid), but weak kidneys can't. Uric acid in excess causes headache, weak eyes, rheumatic pains, gravel, dropsy and fatal Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid. It is the best-recognized special kidney remedy.

A New York Case

Miss Minnie Winslow, 24 E. 84th Street, Kingsford, N. Y., writes: "I have pains across the small of my back, kept me from resting. My hands and feet were swollen, to such an extent that I had to wear special shoes. I had a headache and dizzy spells, and when a friend told me of Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them. They relieved me of the swelling, rid me of the pain and put me in good health."

Escapes in Heat of Battle.

Reports indicate it sometimes takes a lot to kill the modern soldier, the New York World states. Sergeant Fougere of France received eight bullet wounds, a broken arm and other injuries, and although shot in the calf, thigh and ankle, escaped being captured by Germans and limped ten miles to his regiment. Another French soldier received six bullets and three bayonet wounds and is recovering. The French war office estimates only two men are killed out of every one hundred hit. The penetration is so clean one soldier did not know he had been hit for three hours, and another bullet went through two soldiers and lodged in a cavalryman's saddle.

SMALL GIRL'S TRESSES

MANY BECOMING FASHIONS OF ARRANGING THEM.

Hot Curling Irons Should Never Be Applied to Child's Hair—Curly Locks Ought Not to Be Braided at Any Time.

Small Marjorie having arrived at the schoolgirl age, it is considered proper to allow her hair to grow, since childish rompers having been abandoned, bobbed-off hair is also under the ban. But, alas, what a discouraging stretch there is between the "bobbed" period and tresses long enough to be trimly tied back with the ribbon of young girlhood.

If the little maid has curly locks the problem is much simplified, but if her hair is straight and shows a tendency, as it lengthens, to cling against her head in limp straggles, there is often great difficulty in keeping it tidily arranged in becoming fashion. It is an imposition on happy childhood to torture the growing hair with curling devices except upon those important occasions when waved tresses and curling locks seem really necessary to match a gala costume.

No mother should apply hot curling irons to a child's hair, and the "doing-up" process at night often causes real torture to little heads that cannot lie comfortably on the stumpy "done-up" knobs that promise tomorrow's curls.

If the little girl's hair is straight, the best way to arrange it tidily for September school days will be to part it at one side and tie the topknot at the opposite side of the head with a ribbon.

When the locks have grown long enough to reach the shoulders two braids may be made, the hair being parted evenly from forehead to nape of neck. The short braids should be turned back and fastened firmly with bits of baby ribbon—never use elastics on a child's hair or the tender ends will split and the healthy growth of the hair be interfered with—and over the stubby little braids the big bows of crisp ribbon.

This arrangement of twin bows is very becoming to a bright childish face; and the neatly braided and tied hair will remain in presentable condition all day long.

If the child's hair is curly and falls about her face and on her shoulders to soft waves and lovely curls, the braiding process, which takes time, is unnecessary. In fact, curly hair should not be braided at all, since braiding will tend to destroy the curl in the hair. Part the locks far over at one side of the head and draw the hair softly and loosely across the top, fastening it at the opposite side over the ear, with one of the small shell pins. The ends of the drawn-across lock will form a loose curl, hanging a little shorter than the other curls which rest on the shoulders.

Over the shell pin, if desired, may be tied a perky ribbon bow. Since the constant tying and untying of the hair bow soon reduces ribbon to a limp rag, one resourceful mother has made a little band of ribbon which snaps fastens around the pinned-back hair. A crisp bow is sewed firmly to the ribbon band and there is no necessity for untying the bow when the hair is arranged.

When the hair reaches below the shoulders and the girl has attained the dignity of ten or eleven years, another coiffure is ready for her. The front hair is softly parted in the middle and drawn back in loose waves to the crown, where a shell pin holds it. Then all the ends, curly or straight, are caught together just below the shoulders under a bow of wide ribbon.

Zibelline is being used for winter coats.

Charming Accessories.

It is the accessories of this suit that are most interesting—although the suit of blue lines is smart, but it is the charming parasol of port wine, the exaggerated stand-up collar with the black ties and the suede and patent leather shoes that lace at the sides that are especially worth attention.

Hints About Shoes.
New boots of calf should be placed over a fire before being worn, this helps to expand the leather and makes them softer. When a boot or shoe pinches, a sponge dipped in hot water and placed on the part of the boot which draws most will expand the leather and make it more comfortable.

TO DECORATE FLOWER POT

Ordinary Receipts May Be Made Fit for the Adornment of Any Room.

Flower and plant pots, as they are in their natural state, are not suitable for all rooms, so they need putting in better pots. This, of course, means that we cannot have as many plants about as we should like, for nice pots are expensive. However, by a very simple device the ordinary plant pot can be so decorated as to suit any room. In these days wallpaperers are very artistic and refined in coloring, and after the decorators have been in a house there are always spare pieces of paper at hand.

Choose the most suitable of these papers, and simply cover the pots with them, using ordinary paste. If the pot has a top rim, that should be done first, taking care that the paper lies quite flat. For sitting and bedrooms a pretty sprig patterned paper looks very dainty for a dining room a dark embossed paper is effective. Stamps and scraps can, of course, be put to the same use.

When the paper is quite dry on the pots, it should be brushed over with a panish called white hard spirit varnish. This gives a beautiful clear gloss.

ROUGH BATH TOWEL.

A bath towel that is advertised to bring vigor and good circulation to the skin of mankind is now sold. It is made from strips of fabric of a rough weave, woven loosely together, and it must not be ironed after it is washed. Indeed, any bath towel is better if it is rougher, and for ironing smooths down the threads and makes it softer, and the primary function of a bath towel is to increase the circulation by irritating the skin. These new towels are especially useful for getting up a good circulation. The same material is made into strips to pull back and forth across the back and shoulders, and into wash cloths.

FLOUNCED DRESSES IN WHITE

Embroidered Muslins Are Perhaps the Best Liked—Scarves Properly Completed the Costume.

The white embroidered muslins are much admired. The flounces decrease in circumference as they near the feet, and give the peculiar silhouette of the moment that everybody who wishes to be fashionable tries to imitate.

It is, however, only the best dress-makers who seem to succeed in making a graceful line.

These flounced dresses are either in white muslin or white embroidered net over a very thin white foundation. A scarf crosses the bust and ties at the back. It is in black satin of the nonchalant order. Sometimes the scarf is worn over one shoulder and sometimes tied around the waist in the bayadere fashion, but invariably in black.

In this instance the hat worn was in black satin with a large bow, and in many cases large black hats in the morning order. Sometimes hats are seen with white dresses.

New Cross Stitch Work.
There is a new sort of cross stitch work which is used for bed spreads, table covers, cushions and other big articles of household decoration. It is made on heavy cream linen, with threads of gold-colored cotton.

The design has Japanese heads worked in gold frames of color and a floral design here and there as well.

If a man would pose as a woman later he must cut out fatality.

Finally Captured Eagle.

After defying a score of traps and as many guns of farmers, who have sought vainly to impose summary sentence for the loss of hundreds of chickens over a period of six months, Old Baldy, a monster eagle, was caught by a man with a lasso. He lay waiting in the shadow of his chicken house for the chicken thief for more than eight hours. The bird swooped down shortly after daybreak. The lasso was thrown around the eagle's neck. The man wanted to capture the bird alive, but it fought so desperately that he was forced to shoot it. The eagle measures eight feet seven inches from tip to tip, and weighs 73 pounds.

It Helps a Lot.

Eve, for the first time in her married life, was telling Adam just what she thought of him.

"This is the original rib roast," chuckled Adam.

And that was the beginning of the saving grace of humor—Judge.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups for children's complaints contain opium or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stifle, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and always fever.

DIDN'T APPRECIATE THE JOKE

Girl Made Victim of Hoax by Mischievous Friends Went Home in a Fury.

One day several of my girl friends called to see me. We started to make some candy when I discovered that we didn't have any chocolate in the house and said that I couldn't possibly make it without a speck of chocolate.

Many one of the girls said "Why, what kind of chocolate is that—couldn't you use any other kind?" One of the girls gave me a punch and I said "Oh, no, I couldn't use any other kind. It's just a new kind. You telephone the grocery and order some. Mary and I will start the candy. Now be sure and order Aspecka."

So we fled to the kitchen and left Mary to telephone. We sat in the kitchen holding our sides with suppressed laughter while she called up one store after another trying to get Aspecka chocolate. She finally gave up in despair and then we told her. Needless to say, she went home in a fury as mad as a wet hen. She barely spoke to us for weeks after that—Chicago Tribune.

LIGHT BOOZE.

Do You Drink It?

A minister's wife had quite a tussle with coffee and her experience is interesting. She says: "During the two years of my training as a nurse, while on night duty, I became addicted to coffee drinking. Between midnight and four in the morning, when the patients were asleep, there was little to do except make the rounds, and it was quite natural that I should want a hot cup of coffee about that time. I could keep awake better."

"After three or four years of coffee drinking, I became a nervous wreck and thought that I simply could not live without my coffee. All this time I was subject to frequent bilious attacks, sometimes so severe as to keep me in bed for several days."

"After being married, Husband begged me to leave off coffee for he feared that it had already hurt me almost beyond repair, so I resolved to make an effort to release myself from the hurtful habit."

I began taking Postum, and for a few days felt the languid, tired feeling from the lack of the coffee drug, but I liked the taste of Postum, and that answered for the breakfast beverage all right.

"Finally I began to feel clearer. After a year's use of Postum I now feel like a new woman—have not had any bilious attacks since I left off coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 10 and 20 packages. Instant Postum—a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 50c and 10c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Approaching, but Not Close.

"When I left Havana on my way back to England," says Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, "600 French soldiers lined up on the dock and sang 'God save the King' in English. By the nine gods of war! as our own General Bingham would say, this incident, taken in connection with the Belgians stopping to the front chanting 'It's a Long Way to Tipperary,' seems to indicate the approach of the much-touted brotherhood of man."

According to the state agricultural bulletin issued at Columbus Wednesday the wheat crop this year is 1,500,000 bushels more than last. The average yield per acre this year was 15 bushels as compared with 17 bushels last year. The total yield this year was 25,766,528 and the quality was 93 per cent.

The Clayton anti-trust bill, as agreed on by the conferees of the house and senate, is one of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the present Congress. The bill makes guilt individual by providing imprisonment for convicted officers or directors of corporations who violate anti-trust provisions, and prohibits large banks from having interlocking directorates.

A groceryman in Kansas has started a second store in which he sells all goods at ten per cent less than at his regular store. In his new store he sells for cash, makes no delivery of goods, has no telephone and contributes to no enterprise of any kind. In this way those who want to pay cash and deliver their own goods can save 10 per cent that he claims it costs to collect bills, pay delivery service and telephone and give to charity.

Postal employes throughout the country are to be held accountable for damage resulting to parcel post packages while in their possession. An order was issued by Postmaster General Burleson at Washington Friday, instructing the employes to use greater care in handling packages. The order followed receipt of numerous complaints. Burleson says in many instances the parcels were not properly packed and in others the damage was due to carelessness in handling.

Washington has backed up the statement of the officials of the San Francisco exposition to the effect that the big show will be pulled off according to schedule next year. Apparently there are a good many thousands of people throughout the United States that ought to "see America now" and the affair at San Francisco will give them an opportunity to travel on their own account. After all, the European war may really be a good thing for the exposition people. The experiences some Americans have had in Europe may also help home travel some.

You remember Noah had to work a long time on the ark. It was up hill business, too, at best, building a boat away out on dry land, while the local anvil and hammer club sat around spitting tobacco juice upon his lumber, whittling up his pine boards with their jack knives, and telling him what a fool he was for expecting rain in a country that was too dry to grow alfalfa, but he kept at it. Finally the flood came, every mother's son of the croakers every dropped. This is the only instance we know of either in sacred or profane history where a bunch of knockers got exactly what was coming to them.—Tipton Times.

The wet's proposed amendment to the state constitution seeking to prevent statewide prohibition and repealing the Rose county local option law will occupy first place on the ballot containing the various proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at the November elections. The second place on the ballot will be occupied by the proposed taxation amendment classifying property for taxation and limiting the tax rate to one per cent. This proposition will go to the amendment granting equal suffrage to women. This places the "dry" proposal for statewide prohibition in last position. In determining the relative positions of these proposed amendments on the ballot the secretary of state followed the order in which they were filed in his office.

Listen, daughter. Whenever a town girl gets too proud to marry a man with 100 acres of land and 20 red pigs, just because he wears blue jeans and can't tell the tango from a sloe gin rickey, you can set it down as a fact that she will either die an old maid or marry a six dollar a week clerk with a head full of ozone and only one change of holoprops. We would rather see her married to some fellow who wears decent overalls and knows when to hit the top of the market than to be yoked to some Cuthbert who plays the mandolin, smokes Turkish cigarettes and lives off his father's pension. Still there's no accounting for fate. That's why they are establishing courts of Domestic Relations here and there.—Ex.

Don L. Hudson, 33 years old, was arrested at Greenwich last week by Sheriff Trimner on the charge of bigamy, preferred by Louise Weller Hudson, now a resident of Miami county. The warrant for Hudson's arrest was sworn out in Jackson county where the ceremony took place June 25, 1913. It is charged in the warrant that Hudson was united in marriage to Francis Davis, March 20, 1911. Hudson, who was employed as a cheese maker in a factory at Greenwich, was taken to Norwalk and lodged in the county jail to await the arrival of an officer to take him back to Michigan. He waived extradition papers.

A rumor is current throughout the country and neighboring towns that Plymouth is undergoing a siege of diphtheria. Why such a rumor should become spread is beyond reason, as there is no diphtheria here nor has there been. It is true we had one case of membranous croup, and the authorities immediately took the matter in hand and quarantined two or three homes, which since has been lifted, and no more danger is anticipated from this source. Schools and all public gatherings have been going on as usual, and as far as diphtheria is concerned there is no case now nor has there been any, so no one need hesitate about coming here on this account, nor insofar as other contagious diseases prevail here.

The offering at Wonderland Theatre Wednesday evening will be a gripping western drama, "The Outlaw Reforms," in four reels, featuring Charles Gebhardt and Jeanie McPherson, who star with the Vitagraph Co. The play is filled with all sorts of daredevil riding; thrilling and exciting scenes; comedy, and a happy ending. Synopsis: "Tex," foreman of the Diamond Ranch, meets the young son of an old squatter, just as the boy accidentally discovers silver. "Tex" hastens to file a claim for the land. A few days later the old squatter is killed from ambush and eventually the silver claim is stolen from the boy. Embittered by the harshness of his life, he takes particular delight in spreading terror and eluding capture, just for the sheer pleasure it gives him. After many escapes he receives a slight wound, in a fight, which Mary, the sheriff's daughter, dresses. The touch of a woman's hand has a wonderful effect on the outlaw, and is the beginning of the end of his wild career.

The Undertaker a Developer.

There are in many communities successful business men and farmers who stand like stumps in the highways of progress and in such a situation the undertaker is an important factor in development. Scarcely a day passes but they do not add a new citizen to the death by refusing to join the noble spirited citizens in a movement for the upbuilding of their communities or by their indifference to the welfare of the community and there is no sadder sight in life than a few noble spirited citizens staggering under a load of dead timber. The undertaker is oftentimes a developer.

September usually found the old time woman with a full supply of roots, herbs and barks on hand, then she brewed teas which were bitter. They were bonest and yarrow tea for stomach, sarsaparilla for the blood, mullein leaf tea was sure to cure the most severe cold. Pennyroyal, catnip, peppermint and henbane all had their uses and sassafras tea was known to knock rheumatism higher than Mr. Gilroy's kite. These were the simple remedies of our ancestors but who can say that they were not just as well off as we are now with our indiscriminate use of drugs.

Frank Webber, eldest son of our fellowtownsman, Fred Webber, who for several weeks past has been in a Cleveland hospital, suffering from Bright's disease, and where it was thought he was on the road to recovery, suffered a relapse and died Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. His remains were brought here over the B. & O. on No. 17 Friday forenoon and taken to the chapel, from which funeral services, conducted by the Masonic lodge, at 2 o'clock were held, after which the body was interred in the family lot in Greenlawn cemetery, alongside that of his mother, who preceded him to the life beyond less than two months ago. Frank was born and reared to manhood in Plymouth, learning the machinist trade, and a number of years ago went to Cleveland, where he held a lucrative position until his last illness. He was aged 37 years, and is survived by his father, one brother and one sister, besides numerous relatives in this vicinity.

Chas. Silliman had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday evening in front of the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Chapman at New Haven. He had just driven Mrs. Chapman to her home, and as a storm was approaching he was undecided whether to continue on home or put his horse up until the storm passed over. While debating this question an automobile approached from the north and one from the south, the one from the south, which was being driven slowly, catching the rear of his buggy throwing Charles out upon the ground, directly in front of the machine, but which, however, was stopped before it reached him. He held onto the lines and succeeded in getting to the horse's head and pacified the animal. He managed to get the horse to the barn, when he collapsed. He was later placed in the gentleman's machine and taken to his home, where it was ascertained he had received a severely bruised hip, and other bruises of a minor character. The owner of the machine was from Arkansas and proved himself a perfect gentleman in rendering whatever assistance he could.

To a casual observer, one would think several members of the High School foot ball team were veterans returning from the European war, as two of the members, Paul Smith and Homer Buzzard, have each a broken little finger on the left hand. Paul having received his in the game last week Thursday and Homer in a practice game Sunday. Paul wasn't quite satisfied with his and while wandering along the railroad track Sunday stumbled and fell, jamming it into the earth with the result that it was broken over again, and he is now satisfied it is a complete job. Arthur Brumback also came out of the scrimmage last week Thursday with a badly sprained right thumb, which at the present time is swollen to nearly as large as a good sized saw log, while others of the club are nursing bruises and sores and trying to regain lost cuticle.

HALT FRENCH DASH TOWARD BELGIUM

BATTLE OF THE AISNE A DRAW

Bordeaux Reports Fierce Teuton Attacks in Region of Lassigny Were Repulsed, While at Other Places Alternate Advances and Retreats Were Reached.

Paris, France.—The Germans in a surprising show of offensive strength are attempting to cut off the left wing of Gen. D'Amade and surround it. Aviators returning from an aerial reconnaissance early Tuesday reported large masses of German cavalry in the vicinity of Lille, which, the observers declared, was screening a large force of infantry and artillery moving through the region north of the line from Tarcou, 10 miles northeast of Lille to Amiens, 25 miles to the westward of Lille. The route of the march of this force was westward and crossed the lines of communication of the French with northern Belgium and the lines reaching toward Dunkirk, where the English expeditionary force was disembarked, and Ostend, the nearest important port in Belgium. Both these ports are within 40 miles of Lille. Thus has this body of newly arrived reinforcements effectively blocked the French dash for Belgium and threatened the allies' lines of communication with the coast.

Simultaneously, according to the midnight official report, the German counter attack north of the Oise, in the region to the south of Noyon, was renewed with terrific violence. From this general locality the army of Gen. Frensch-Breslau reached north and the army of Field Marshal Sir John French stretches east.

The German strategy evidently is based on the hope of their success in driving a wedge through the allied line at this point, dividing the French army, facing east, from the British army facing north, the latter to concentrate against that part of the line facing north while holding the French in their northern positions, or effecting a counter flanking movement by hurling the troops from the north down upon the French left flank and bending it back toward the west. There still intervenes between the most northerly advanced position of the French left and the newly assumed offensive line of the Germans north of Lille a distance of between 30 and 40 miles.

French Extend Battle Front. That the French tactic of extending their battle front steadily more and more to the northward, while battling with unceasing artillery and small arms fire at Von Kluck's right has not been abandoned because of the appearance of the new German army facing north, was indicated by the official report that steady gains had been reported in this direction.

The report admitted, however, that where previous advances had been described as "northerly" the directions now had veered to the northwesterly, meaning that the pressure brought to bear by the German flank had been too great to permit of the Kaiser's line being bent eastward, as would be necessary if the enveloping maneuvers of the French were to prove successful.

That the newly appeared German detachment force north of Lille was withdrawn from the front at Amiens, as indicated by official reports received at Bordeaux from the Belgium temporary capital to the effect that the vigor of the bombardment of Antwerp's forts had diminished perceptibly.

New Developments Three-Fold. The new developments in the front are threefold and remarkable. The strange situation is presented of the Germans withdrawing pressure from Antwerp to cut off the French forces going to Antwerp's relief while at the same time trying to relieve Von Kluck's beleaguered army. The official French bulletin adds that the allies' right has succeeded in gaining a little ground to the north of the heights of the Meuse, while along the center relative calm prevails. Early reports were that the fierce German attack in the region of Enghien had failed.

On the right bank of the Aisne, north of Soissons, a desperate attempt was made by the Germans to drive a wedge between the right flank of the French and the allies' center army. Out of the battle of the Aisne there has developed the battle of the Seven Rivers. The battle of the Aisne may be said to have reached its conclusion with the result practically a draw, as no decisive gains have been recorded along the lines originally established.

Germans Offer No Resistance. Tokyo, Japan.—The navy department has just issued the following official statement: "The Japanese squadron delegated to destroy the German fleet in the Pacific has landed blue jackets on Jaluit Island, the seat of government in the Marshall archipelago, which was annexed by Germany in 1886. It is believed the German base was destroyed and that the fortifications, arms and ammunition were seized. A British submarine in port was refused permission to land and was treated with no resistance to the Japanese."

BERLIN CLAIMS THAT GERMANS TAKE FORT

Says Five French Officers and Over 500 Men Are Made Prisoners.

Berlin (by wireless telegraph to Sayville, L. I.).—An order of the day written by Gen. Von Hoehen, published officially, says that Fort Camp near St. Mihiel, after a number of hard fights, has been taken by the Germans. Five French officers and more than 500 men were made prisoners. The remainder of the French force perished in the ruins of the casemates. "It is officially stated that the Russians were completely defeated near Suwalki and Augustow, on the East Prussian frontier, Oct. 1 and 2. The Germans made 3,000 prisoners and captured 12 cannon and many machine guns."

"In a situation, it is announced, is most hopeful everywhere for the Germans and Austrians. Press matter derived from official German sources says: "Surprise generally is expressed at the amazing activity of the German cruisers stationed abroad. Though it was generally expected that the vessels would fall easy victims to British warships within a fortnight after the declaration of war, Germans now are astonished to learn from reports in the British and French press of the damage they are doing to the merchant ships in the vicinity of Tahiti, Society Islands, Bremen, Emden, Karlsruhe and Leipzig are the names of the German vessels whose successes have caused the liveliest satisfaction in Germany. In addition, the cruisers Scharnhorst and Goeben, stationed in the Pacific are reported to have been busy in the vicinity of Tahiti, Society Islands, where they succeeded in destroying the French gunboat Zelee."

Simultaneously, according to the midnight official report, the German counter attack north of the Oise, in the region to the south of Noyon, was renewed with terrific violence. From this general locality the army of Gen. Frensch-Breslau reached north and the army of Field Marshal Sir John French stretches east.

The German strategy evidently is based on the hope of their success in driving a wedge through the allied line at this point, dividing the French army, facing east, from the British army facing north, the latter to concentrate against that part of the line facing north while holding the French in their northern positions, or effecting a counter flanking movement by hurling the troops from the north down upon the French left flank and bending it back toward the west. There still intervenes between the most northerly advanced position of the French left and the newly assumed offensive line of the Germans north of Lille a distance of between 30 and 40 miles.

DRIVE GERMANS BACK

RUSSIANS REPORTED TO HAVE FORCED TEUTONS FROM FORTIFIED POSITIONS.

London, England.—A dispatch from Petrograd transmits the following official communication: "The German retreat continues along the frontier of East Prussia. The Germans have been forced to evacuate their fortified positions between Wierzbolo and Lyck. The Russian offensive campaign continues. The fortified positions (of the enemy) on the frontier are under a heavy artillery fire. The enemy has received reinforcements from the garrison at Konigsberg. There has been particularly desperate fighting in the vicinity of Bakalargow. Railroads in East Prussia are crowded with troop trains and our aerial scouts report an uninterrupted movement of Germans in a westerly direction. German columns under German troops are withdrawing across the frontier."

A second Russian army is now threatening the town of Huszt, in Eastern Hungary, according to a news dispatch from Rome. Huszt is 40 miles from the boundary of Galicia, which is here the crest of the Carpathian mountains.

The Germans in their report said the battle was proceeding successfully for them. In both London and Paris there is the greatest confidence, although some surprise is displayed at the success of the Germans in preventing the outflanking movement. There is a feeling, however, that the Germans cannot extend their line much further north without weakening it at some point.

MESSAGE FROM VIENNA

SAYS THAT AUSTRIAN ADVANCE THROUGH SERBIAN TERRITORY IS SLOW BUT SATISFACTORY.

New York City.—The Austro-Hungarian consul here made public a cable message from Count Berchtold, secretary of foreign affairs, which announced the Austrian advance through Serbian territory was slow but satisfactory. The message read: "The clearing of Bosnia of Serbian and Montenegrin troops, both regular and irregular, has been energetically commenced. A whole battalion was surrounded and captured."

United States Soldier Wounded. Naco, Ariz.—Private Leroy Bradford of Troop G, Tenth United States cavalry border patrol, was struck in the breast Tuesday by a bullet fired from the trenches occupied by troops of Gen. Hill, defending the town of Naco, Sonora, from the attack of General Bradford.

A small force of the allies has succeeded in temporarily destroying the Germans' railway communications in the rear of their northern army. The result has been noticeable in the sudden cessation of activity of the German aeroplanes, which were left short of petrol. The attempts of the Germans to break or weaken the allies' grip round the whole curve from Noyon to Arras have been foiled.

Fail to Pierce German Line. Paris, Oct. 5.—The allies advanced in the neighborhood of Albert today, but according to an official French war office statement issued tonight a detachment which went out of Arras was forced back by the Germans, although it kept a position to the east and north of that city.

The activity about Arras shows the extent to which the fighting in the western area of the battle of the Aisne has been pushed northward by the allies in their turning movement on the German right wing. The allies' forces now are about thirty miles from the Belgian border.

Germans Are Confident. Berlin, Oct. 5 (by wireless to London).—The situation throughout the entire theater of war is daily becoming more favorable to Germany. Full confidence is felt in Berlin and a great decision is expected soon.

The main headquarters of the army reports that the encircling movements attempted by the French against the German right wing on October 2 were repulsed and the enemy's forces driven from their positions.

RUSS LOUD IN CLAIMS

Petrograd Insists That the Enemy Has Been Defeated All Along Their Battle Line—Conflicting Reports Come From Antwerp—Minor News.

On the Battle Front, via Paris, Oct. 6.—The allied armies, after having permitted their adversaries, as they thought, to exhaust themselves by continued attacks to a most vigorous offensive today. The British and French encountered such a strong resistance, however, that their most advanced detachments on the western wing were compelled to fall back.

Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposing troops actually come into close contact. The allied armies are continually extending toward the north and bending eastward toward the Belgian frontier, thus compelling the Germans, in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army to move large forces from the center and so keep pace with the allies, whose position menaces the invaders along the whole line.

The allies' plan, it is thought, may compel the Germans to release the pressure on the Belgians. Von Kluck Turns Tables. London, Oct. 5.—General von Kluck, re-enforced with troops from the German center, continues to make a detour to the north and the attempt of the allies to outflank him.

The French, who officially reported Sunday that all German attacks in this region of the battle in France had been repulsed and that the allies had resumed the offensive, announced today that the battle north of the Oise, which began seriously about September 25, continued with great violence with no decisive result and that at certain points the French troops had been forced to yield ground.

The Germans in their report said the battle was proceeding successfully for them. In both London and Paris there is the greatest confidence, although some surprise is displayed at the success of the Germans in preventing the outflanking movement. There is a feeling, however, that the Germans cannot extend their line much further north without weakening it at some point.

Along the rest of the line the French communication says there has been no change. The rapidity with which the French change positions is considered remarkable. Two entire divisions of infantry marched nearly thirty miles Saturday and twenty-eight miles Sunday.

The Germans, however, by means of their aviators, who are continually flitting over the lines despite numerous casualties discovered the movements and brought up re-enforcements to meet them.

As the Germans occupy the inside of the circle, they are able to reach an appointed spot with much shorter marches. It was this that enabled them to force the advanced guards of the allies to cede a small amount of ground until further assistance came.

Allies Cut German Railroads. A Point in France, Oct. 6.—Twice a small force of the allies has succeeded in temporarily destroying the Germans' railway communications in the rear of their northern army. The result has been noticeable in the sudden cessation of activity of the German aeroplanes, which were left short of petrol. The attempts of the Germans to break or weaken the allies' grip round the whole curve from Noyon to Arras have been foiled.

FROM LETTERS OF SAILORS

Feelings of British Seamen on Fighting Ships May Be Judged by Their Epistles.

London.—How a black cat saw the British fleet sink several German warships off Helgoland is told in a letter from Alfred Bishop, who was in the 'fight.

The cat is the mascot of one of the British cruisers and was on deck throughout the engagement. She is immensely popular now and in danger of becoming spoiled.

"Our dear little black lucky kitten sat under our foremast gun during the whole of the battle and wasn't frightened at all, only when we first started firing. But afterwards she sat and licked herself. We all blessed her afterwards," writes Bishop.

"Before we started fighting we were all very nervous, but after we joined in we were all happy and most of us laughing till it was finished. Then we all sobbed and cried."

A gunroom officer in a battle cruiser writes: "The particular ship we were engaged with was in a pitiful plight when we had finished with her—her funnels shot away, masts tottering, great gaps of daylight in her sides, smoke and flame belching from her everywhere. She sank like a stone, stern first. So far as is known none of her crew was saved, but she was firing till the last. Let it be said, she was firing till the last, her gun barrels till they could bark no more."

Gen. Jean Rousseau Dead. On the Battle Front, Oct. 5.—Gen. Jean Rousseau of the French cavalry died today of wounds.

Antwerp Forts Succumb. Berlin, Oct. 5 (by wireless to Sayville).—An official report from the German army headquarters says that in the siege of Antwerp the forts of Lierre, Waelhem and Koningshoek and the intermediate redoubts, with 30 guns, have been taken.

"This breach has been made in the outer circle of forts," the report adds, "rendering an attack on the inner circle of forts and the town itself possible."

Inlet Forts Stand. London, Oct. 6.—According to official announcement made in Antwerp today the situation of the fortified position around the city remains without change.

New German Chief of Staff. Amsterdam, Oct. 6.—The German emperor has dismissed the chief of the general staff, Field Marshal von

DRANK BICHLORIDE, SAVED FROM DEATH

Man Who Swallowed Enough Poison to Kill Two Horses Is Absolutely Cured.

Stomach is Washed Out Five Times but Kidneys Become Paralyzed and Then Doctors Resort to Baking Treatment—Only Case on Record.

New York City.—David E. Beach drank a glass of water three weeks ago and dissolved in it was 22 grains of bichloride of mercury, enough to kill two or three horses. Tuesday, however, Mr. Beach opened his desk in his brokerage office at 78 N. William-st and went to work, absolutely cured.

His case is said to be the only one on record where a cure has been effected after the kidneys have stopped their functions. The cure was accomplished by the simple method of injecting hot saline solutions and baking Mr. Beach for intervals of half an hour at a time in an electric oven heated to 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

Goes Into Heated Oven. "The doctors told me I had one chance in a hundred thousand and asked me if I was game to go into the oven," said Mr. Beach. "Then they turned on the heat."

"It seemed as if they had all the heat in the world in that oven, and a couple of times it got so hot that I fainted I had died and gone somewhere else. But here I am and they say all that is necessary for me to do to live as long as anybody is to be a little careful of my diet."

Drank Poison by Mistake. Mr. Beach drank the poisoned water by mistake before the law went into effect which compels the coloring of poison tablets so they will tinge water when dissolved in it. As he was waiting the last gulp he detected a metallic taste, became alarmed and investigated. Dr. Paul Pilcher arrived within five minutes and applied the stomach pump, subsequently washing out Mr. Beach's stomach five times with milk and the whites of eggs. Notwithstanding the promptness of the treatment Mr. Beach's kidneys became paralyzed and then the baking treatment was decided upon.

FORMULATES DECISION

BUCKEYE STATE UTILITIES COMMISSION RULES IN BUCYRUS LIGHT RATES.

Columbus, O.—Admitting that its ruling in the Bucyrus Light & Power Co. case will not go guiding light for other cases, the state public utilities commission has formulated its decision.

The appeal to the commission was made by the company against an ordinance passed by the city council revising the rates. The council contended there were few real reductions, but a requirement that made the charges more equitable. It will be the finding of the commission that even on the basis of its valuation, recently made, the plant would be unable to earn a fair rate of return—presumably 6 per cent—on the schedule of rates established by the council. It is declared the company is not on equal terms with the public in Bucyrus because its attitude has been decidedly out of date with the advanced ideas of utility management. The commission also finds the council rates are not high enough to yield a profit.

SNAPSHOT OF SALLY

By MOLLIE M'MASTER.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Elfreda returned from her two weeks' holiday at the seashore she had acquired a wonderful lot of freckles, very sunburned neck and arms and many rolls of exposed kodak films. Snapshots were Elfreda's hobby. Her small wage from the department store did not permit her to indulge as freely as she would have liked, yet she managed to take considerable pleasure during her annual fortnight away from the ribbon counter.

When she returned to her small room in town she had, therefore to await a few weeks until her savings permitted her the extravagance of having her films developed and printed. Elfreda chafed at the delay, but that state did not raise her salary nor give her more pin money. She did, however, curtail her luncheon orders and by the end of three weeks she found enough in her small room bank to pay for the developing of at least one roll of film.

Elfreda was delighted on her way home from the photographer's that she had stepped into this particular kodak shop, for a most engaging young man had served her from behind the counter.

"My pictures have never been so perfect," she told the good-looking young man. "There is not a failure among them."

"Your grouping is very artistic," said Derrick Vane, and thought it a pity that Elfreda might not use herself as a model. "It was three weeks before Elfreda again made her way to the photographer's. The riot of freckles was beginning to fade away and Derrick Vane more or less regretted their departure."

"These are some of my very best," she told him as she handed her roll of film over the counter. "I want them to be particularly well finished."

They chatted a moment and Elfreda made her way to the department store to think of Vane and speculate as to his home life and whether or not he was married.

Elfreda found her way along Broadway and into the kodak shop. The young man was smiling, as usual, and they looked over the pictures together.

Suddenly the man glanced at an snapshot Elfreda was showing him and his face grew a shade pale.

"Isn't she lovely?" questioned Elfreda. "She is the most beautiful girl I know, and I have taken at least a dozen snaps of her."

Vane was startled at the unexpected likeness to Sally Drew.

"Where did you take this?" questioned Vane with an interest so deep that Elfreda answered quickly.

"Down at Asbury. Sally Drew was one of our crowd. She came back to town when I did. I am going to see her Sunday," she added while her own heart sank. That Vane was in love with Sally was all too evident.

"Do you know her?" she asked.

"Yes," he spent some time at the seashore also and Sally was one of the crowd. I played the part of a fool, but I was jealous of her other admirers. We parted and I have not seen her since."

"I am sure I could arrange for you to see her," Elfreda told him with her rarely beautiful smile coming bravely forward.

"Will you?" he asked eagerly, and unconsciously put his hand over the slim fingers on the counter.

"That's easy," laughed Elfreda, and added lightly, "I always thought Sally had a secret love affair. She took the most lovely likeness of Sally from her packet of photographs and gave it Vane." "There—you may have that. It really is quite romantic, isn't it?"

"More than romantic!" exclaimed Vane. "It is humorous. I have considered myself in love with Sally for some two years and now, when I have the opportunity of seeing her, I have not the slightest desire." He continued to search Elfreda's face with his keen glance. "You will not be offended if I do not go to see Sally, will you? It was good of you to—"

"No, I will not be offended," said Elfreda in her frank manner. "Why should I?"

"She smiled then, and Vane's hand again covered her slim fingers as they lay on the counter. He loved the girl and she knew it."

"I am happy," Elfreda's eyes said.

No Inducement. "Madame Imhoff's engagement at the Palace last night was billed as her first appearance here."

"Fahaw! I dare say she will be back again next year." The total receipts were only $37.20.

Mr. Harding was elected to the Ohio state senate from the thirteenth district in 1899, and was re-elected to the same office in 1901. In 1903 he was elected lieutenant governor of Ohio, but lost in his contest for the governorship in 1910.

Leaving the university, he was engaged with his father in the book and stationery business in Wilmington until 1890, when he was elected clerk of the courts of Clinton county, in which capacity he served three full terms and an interregnum of six months, in all nine and one-half years. While serving as clerk of courts he was nominated to congress by the Republicans of the sixth congressional district, was elected and re-elected in 1902.

Mr. Hildebrandt is one of the younger generation of that fine old thoroughbred Clinton county Republican stock, whose forefathers have been loyal to country and party for a century. An earnest, ardent Republican, he has been an active worker in behalf of his party from the time he became of age.

MARK YOUR BALLOT LIKE THIS

ADVERTISEMENT

SAMPLE BALLOT CORRECTLY MARKED.

If you believe in HOME RULE you should be sure to vote not only "YES" on the first amendment appearing on the ballot, but also "NO" on the last, thus:

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution.
X	Yes	ARTICLE XV., SECTION 9a Home Rule on the Subject of Intoxicating Liquors.
	No
	Yes	ARTICLE XII., SECTIONS 1 and 2 Limitation of the Tax Rate and for the Classification of Property for Purposes of Taxation.
	No
	Yes	ARTICLE V., SECTION 1 To Extend the Suffrage to Women
	No
	Yes	ARTICLE XV., SECTION 9 Prohibition of the Sale, Manufacture for Sale, and Importation for Sale of Intoxicating Liquor as a Beverage.
X	No

If the majority of the votes cast on each of these two amendments is "YES," then the amendment receiving the greater number of "YES" votes will become a part of the Constitution and the other amendment will be dead.

That is why YOU should vote "YES" on the Home Rule amendment and "NO" on the State-wide Prohibition amendment.

Every "NO" vote on the Prohibition amendment kills one "YES" vote on that amendment. Failure to vote "NO" on it amounts to half a vote "YES" for it.

Don't fail to ask for the separate Constitutional amendment ballot when you go to the polls.
