His Life's Work Ended.

Lorenzo D. Crum, son of G. W. and Catharine Crum, was born in Butler township, Richland county, O., March 28th, 1852, and departed this life Oct. 24th, 1914, aged 62 years, 6 months and 5 days. He leaves to mourn his death, his devoted wife, aged mother, one brother, a sister and many other relatives and a host of friends.

When a child, he with his parents moved to Williams county, O., then to Findlay, returning to his home county where he was young man.

He was married April 2nd, 1879, to Mary A. Tomlinson. To this union, in 1875 was born a daughter, who died in infancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Crum have spent their lives married, except a few years and a half in Findlay, in this community. For a number of years he was a teacher in the public schools. Forty years ago he and his wife were converted at Delphi in special meetings conducted by Rev. C. C. Bar. After some time they were joined by the church of God at Bloominggrove Bethel. Later their membership was transferred to the New Haven church, it being nearer their home. On their removal to Findlay in 1907 they united with the College church of that city. Mr. Crum's religious life has been identified with the religious life of this community, a faithful helper in all christian work. The Sunday School was dear to his heart, and several Sunday Schools were organized by him and he was for about twelve years the able and efficient president of the Ripley Township S. S. Association. After his conversion he was always a teacher or superintendent, holding this office in Delphi at the time of his death. He loved children and they in turn dearly loved him.

Although a sufferer for 10 months he was patient, cheerful and hopeful. He peacefully fell asleep as the sunset's glow faded in the west, to awaken in that beautiful home where shadows never come. He will be missed as an example of the highest type of citizenship, as a counselor and friend, but where will he be missed as in his home, where love reigned supreme. He believed in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man. His greatest desire was to help others to a higher, better life. He leaves as a monument to his memory a living testimony to the power of God and the faith and hope that the Father implants in the hearts of his children.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth; yes, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." Oh, weeping friends! Could we but lift the veil That hides the future from the finite mind, Then we would know and understand His purposes are wonderfully kind. The power that marks the sparrow's fall, Bids moons and stars to earth their beauty lend. That power protects his noblest work And keeps us patient to the end.

The funeral sermon was preached by Dr. Chas. T. Fox, of Findlay, O. Rev. E. S. Tompkins of Norwalk, Rev. Neff of New Haven, and Rev. Hughes of North Fairfield, were present and took part in the services.

Storage of Apples and Vegetables.
The house cellar frequently offers good conditions for the storage of apples and vegetables, and is used for this purpose more or less by many families. However, when there is a furnace located within the cellar the air becomes too warm and dry, except probably for pumpkins, sweet potatoes and squashes, and it is necessary to partition off a storage room. The partition wall may be built of brick or concrete, or of brick, or of concrete. The wall will be more satisfactory if it is double, allowing for some insulating material or an air space in the middle. Ventilation may be procured in the vegetable room by having an opening near the floor through which cold air may be admitted and another opening near the ceiling through which the air may pass outwards. As a further precaution and especially where a special fruit and vegetable storage room is not provided, the furnace pipes should be covered with asbestos, thereby preventing too much heat from radiating into the cellar delivering more heat in the rooms above.

How You Can Tell How Disease.
Ohio farmers seeking to safeguard their crops against foot and mouth disease are given the following directions by Dr. John H. Mohler, head of the pathological division of the bureau of animal industry:
The disease is characterized by the eruption of vesicles in the mouth, under the hoofs or between the toes and upon the teats of sucklers. The vesicles are expressed, and milk flow diminishes and the animal loses flesh and becomes lame.
After a day or two the blisters break and peel off and leave a raw surface that may heal soon or remain sore for a long time and lead to complications.

"The disease is conveyed by exposing healthy animals even for an instant to stables, pens or pastures occupied by affected animals."
"The most important safeguard is to prevent infection of cattle not yet exposed. Don't buy new stock. Exclude all outside animals from the herd. Keep stables and pens clean and disinfect them thoroughly with a five per cent solution of cresol compound."

"The disease is not usually fatal to cattle, but it makes the flesh undesirable for food and causes heavy loss of weight by animals before the disease has run its course."
"Because of its extreme contagion it is considered best to slaughter infected animals and destroy their carcasses in order to check its spread."

SCHOOL NEWS.
(Conducted by the Superintendent.)
A few high school boys have completed two cement floors in the basement for the manual training work rooms. Several evening classes at school and two Saturdays constituted the time. The work was well done, and the boys deserve much credit. One floor is 15x25 and the other is smaller. The actual cost in cash is $16.61.

The masque party given by the high school last Friday night at the "gym" was a decided success. A grand march and street parade was one of the features. There were some "stunning" make-ups. The refreshments consisted of apples, cider and doughnuts. Another feature of the party was fortune telling, by Miss Lizzie Mittenhubler. We take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to Miss Mittenhubler for her services, which contributed much to the entertainment. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to look into the future. We think many of the guests were satisfied and are living "in hopes."

There were some very good numbers on the program Oct. 23. Some of the people of Plymouth are missing some good things by not attending the rhetorical. The next program will be rendered on Wednesday afternoon before Thanksgiving.

We hope to boast of a high school band soon. This will be a musical organization composed of school boys and girls. Grade pupils may belong. Parents, consider this. It will be a success. We will not allow it to fall through. Beginners will practice next Monday evening for about an hour or less just after school.

On account of the long list of pupils perfect in attendance and punctuality that cannot be published, there was some very good music and some good acting last rhetorical day. Patrons, come out next time.

Attempted to Clean Revolver.

"F. E. Stone," says the Norwalk Herald of last week Friday, "who came here recently from Gallon to work for the Logan Natural Gas Co., accidentally shot himself early this morning, while attempting to take an old revolver apart."

Stone, who has charge of a regular mine away between this city and Monroeville, was endeavoring to remove the pin that held the chamber of the weapon in place, failing to remove the cartridge before doing so. In some manner the hammer was pulled back, causing one of the cartridges to explode. The ball struck Stone in the jaw on the left-hand side of his face and plowed through the flesh and tissue upward and backward through the lower part of the orifice of the ear, lodging at the base of the brain.

Dr. Wyant was called and attended the man, after which he went to a hospital in Gallon, unattended, taking the electric line by way of Mansfield.

It Really Does Relieve Rheumatism.

Everybody who is afflicted with rheumatism in any form should by all means keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. The minute you feel pain or soreness in a joint or muscle, bathe it with Sloan's Liniment. Do not rob it. Sloan's penetrates most immediately right to the seat of pain, relieving the hot, tender, swollen feeling and making the part easy and comfortable. Get cents of any druggist and have it in the house, against colds, sore and swollen joints, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

Mr. C. N. Petersen, dealer in fine boots, shoes and cigars, No. 122 South Main St., Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I cannot tell you how much good Peruna has done me. Constant confinement in my store began to tell on my health and I felt that I was gradually breaking down. I was relieved by my physician, but obtained no permanent relief until I took Peruna. I felt better immediately, and five bottles restored me to complete health. I have been in the best of spirits since, and feel that I owe my health to it."

Catch Cold Easily.
Mr. Arthur G. Peterson, L. P. F. 1, 21, Box 21, Onro, Wisconsin, writes: "I was in the habit of catching cold easily. It says: 'It has been several months now since I have taken any Peruna and I haven't felt the least touch of cold since, and I am positive that I am now rid of the tendency to catch cold. Peruna is a wonderful remedy.'"

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

under shelter. Exposure to the elements is far more injurious to farm implements than well directed use. Therefore, the farmer who takes good care of his implements will have them for use much longer than his neighbor who allows them to remain under the old apple tree all winter. Mow any weeds that may be standing around the homestead and driveways. The dead weeds and rubbish in the orchard should be piled up and burned, as such material affords a fine place for orchard pests to pass the winter.

In a week of shopping, with all its strain, you will not find a better gift than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion. It offers its service, its clean entertainment, its fine suggestiveness week after week; and the end of the year, which finds many a gift in the attic, dust-covered and forgotten, brings the Companion again, with all the charm of last Christmas.

No American monthly at any price offers the same amount of reading, and none can offer better quality. Less than four cents a week provides this best of Christmas gifts—$2.00 a year. If you subscribe now, all the remaining issues of the year will be sent free, and The Companion Home Calendar. A copy of the Calendar is also sent to those who make a gift subscription. YPRES SET ON FIRE BY SHELLS

Town Reported to Be Little Better Than a Ruin—Deserted by People.

BELGIANS IN OSTEND

Germans Concentrate for Decisive Action in Vicinity of Ypres and Dixmude—Russian Forces Cross Teuton Frontier—Fortress of Tieling Tao Surrendered to Japanese.

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—It is reported from Berlin that preparations are making at Potsdam for Emperor William's return and that his headquarters will be transferred there.

With the Belgian Army, Nov. 10.—Ypres is in flames. The greater part of this fine old Flemish town is a ruin. The Germans managed early in the day to get the range with their heavy artillery and from dawn onward 12-inch and 14-inch shells were poured into the city.

The town itself is deserted and no loss of life resulted from the heavy shelling.

The chief object of the Germans appeared to be the Halles, the most notable Gothic edifices of its kind in Belgium. Much of the structural work dates from the thirteenth century.

In the northern quarter of the town, where were many fine old buildings, considerable damage was done by fire and shells.

Belgians Reach Ostend.

Advance patrols of Belgians have penetrated to Ostend, which means that the coast line from Dunkirk to Nieuport and Ostend is relieved from the menace of the last two weeks.

Germans Renew Offensive.

The Germans have renewed their offensive in the vicinity of Ypres and

A dispatch from Berlin, received here tonight by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, says:

"Main headquarters reports that several of the enemy's ships again attacked our right wing yesterday, but were rapidly driven off by our artillery."

Official French Statement.

The text of the communication issued in Paris follows:

"On our left wing the Germans have undertaken again an offensive movement on Dixmude and in the region of Ypres. Particularly to the south-east of Ypres their attacks have been repulsed."

"At the end of the day, referring to the entire front between Dixmude and the Lys, we have made progress along the major part of the line. Nevertheless our advance is slow on account of the offensive movements undertaken by the enemy and because of the strong organization the enemy already has had the time to effect around his points of support. Since the beginning of the fighting the fog, furthermore, has made operations difficult, particularly between the Lys and the Oise."

War Cuts Austria's Trade.

Vienna, Nov. 9.—How severely the trade of Austria has been affected by the war is revealed in an official report of the Austrian ministry of commerce, a copy of which has just reached here from Vienna. During the first nine months of the year, making the comparison with 1913, imports decreased $24,000,000 and exports $65,000,000.

Turks Shell Russian Fleet.

Amsterdam, via London, Nov. 9.—An official dispatch received here from Constantinople says that the Turkish fleet shelled near Kozlovo, on the Black sea, a portion of the Russian fleet, which, however, managed to escape with the Turkish ships in full pursuit.

RUSS NOW IN GERMANY.

Kaiser's Forces Retire From Poland, and Czar's Army Follows.

Petrograd, Nov. 10.—What is described as a continued and irresistible offensive of the Russian army, resulting in the evacuation of Poland by the Germans, is reported today as Austro-German rear guard on the outer line of the fortress of Cracow. The Russian cavalry, which invaded Posen, has pierced the left flank.

Along the south Polish frontier the Russians attacked the Austrian rear guard at Pinczow, which commands an important crossing on the upper Vistula, 25 miles from Cracow. It is asserted here that a general retreat of the Austrian forces on Cracow as a new base is now apparent.

Berlin Reports Russian Repulse.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The following German official statement was given out today:

"In the eastern war theater an attack by strong Russian forces north of Wysztyer lake has been repulsed with severe Russian losses. Four thousand Russians and ten machine guns were captured."

German Troops Being Shifted.

Amsterdam, Nov. 9.—The correspondent of the Tjrd at Antwerp says: "The movement of German troops from the western theater of war is now progressing on a big scale. A large number appear to have been withdrawn from the Yser. Long military trains filled with men and munitions are moving into Germany by way of Brussels and Louvain."

Many Prisoners Reach Kieff.

London, Nov. 9.—A Russian dispatch from Kieff, Russia, says: "Three thousand German and Austrian prisoners, including 90 officers, together with 50 guns and several thousand rifles, captured in the recent fighting, have arrived here."

GO TO FALKLAND ISLANDS.

British War Vessels Reported Passing Through Straits of Magellan.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 10.—The British cruiser Glasgow, which was engaged with the German squadron in battle of the Chilean coast on Sunday, November 1, and the British transport Otranto have passed Delgado Point lighthouse in the Straits of Magellan.

The two vessels are bound for the Falkland Islands, a British possession to the east of the extreme southern point of South America.

This information is contained in advices received here by the admiralty from the naval authorities in the Straits of Magellan, who said they had seen the Glasgow and Otranto passing through the straits toward the Atlantic.

(After the cruiser Good Hope had been sunk by the German battleship, it was so badly damaged that it appeared unable to steam away, according to the British admiralty report of the sea off Chile, the Glasgow accompanied the Monmouth as it drifted away in the darkness. The admiralty said the Glasgow was not extensively damaged and had few casualties, although during the battle it had fought the Leipzig and the Dresden while the Scarborough and Gettysburg were taking the two largest British vessels. The Otranto, the admiralty said, was not engaged in the fight.)

Emden Escapes British Cruiser.

London, Nov. 9.—A Sydney, N. S. W., dispatch to the Evening News says that the skipper of the steamer Parom, arriving from Singapore, reports that after the German cruiser Emden's success in sinking the Russian and French warships at Penang the German warship and two store-ships were overtaken by a British cruiser. The speedy Emden fled, but the British man-of-war sunk one store-ship and captured the other.

JAPANESE TAKE TSING TAO.

Germans Unable to Hold Out Against Overwhelming Assault.

Tokyo, Nov. 8.—It is officially announced that the German fortress of Tsing Tao has surrendered to the Japanese and British forces.

The first step in bringing about the surrender of the fortress occurred when the infantry charged and occupied the middle fort of the line of defense. In this operation they took 200 prisoners.

Casualty List Issued.

"Complete casualty lists containing the names of the killed and wounded in the operations around Tsing Tao are being prepared by a British officer. The reports of the surrender of the fortress show that the British lost two killed and eight wounded, their wounded including two majors, and that the Japanese lost 200 killed and 878 wounded.

History of Struggle.

The capture of Tsing Tao loses to Germany her last foot of possessions on the Asiatic mainland. For nearly three months the little German garrison, amounting to 7,000 men and nearly wholly composed of reservists who were living or doing business in China, has held out against the land and sea attacks of the Japanese. In certain British detachments of both white and Indian troops that found themselves in the East at the outbreak of the war.

What the losses of the garrison have been is not known.

New Troops Asked From Canada.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Ottawa says that Earl Kitchener, British secretary of war, has asked Canada to furnish 100,000 men for the war against Germany.

planes are surveying. There should also be no firing, for the flash of a gun betrays its position to the air squadron.

"The success of the French attack, which has caused such marked success, is due, first, to their quickness in determining the positions of our batteries. To equal them it is necessary that our observations should be pushed like theirs, far in advance of the lines, by men of courage who are not afraid of shot and shrapnel."

CRUISER EMDEN IS SUNK IN SEA FIGHT

German Terror of the Pacific Is Sent Ashore, on Fire From Stem to Stern, by Australian Warship.

ANOTHER BRITISH VICTORY ON WATER

Touton Protected Cruiser Koeningberg Bottled Up in the Ruffij River, on German East African Coast—Emden Destroys $10,000,000 Worth of Allies' Ships.

London, England.—The cruiser Emden, German terror of the Pacific, whose raids upon British shipping, and even upon merchant ships, have been a constant source of humiliation to the British admiralty, is no more.

Finally forced into battle by the Australian cruiser Sydney, the Emden was sent ashore, on fire from stem to stern. Her grave lies in the Cocos Islands, in the Indian ocean, south of Sumatra, where she was driven by the Sydney after a sharp fight.

The news of the destruction of the Emden was announced by the admiralty Tuesday. Almost at the same time came word of another British sea victory, when it was announced that the German protected cruiser Koeningberg was bottled up in the Ruffij river, on the German East African coast.

Emden's Career Most Picturesque.

The admiralty announced that the British cruiser Chatham, a ship of exactly the same type as the Sydney, which destroyed the Emden, sighted the Koeningberg and pursued her so closely that she took refuge in the Ruffij. There the British man-of-war blocked her by sinking several vessels in the river channel.

It is believed here that the loss of life aboard the Emden must have been heavy. She carried 321 men.

Officials here, however, state that Capt. Von Muller and a majority of the crew of the cruiser Emden are believed to have been saved. It is also reported that the Emden succeeded in cutting the British cable from the Cocos Islands before she was destroyed by the Sydney.

Her destruction has avenged the sinking of the Russian cruiser Zemtchug and the French destroyer Mousquet.

The Emden's career has been the most picturesque in the Kaiser's navy. Commanded by Capt. Karl Von Muller, she has swept the Pacific, capturing or sinking more than a score of merchant vessels of allied nations and brought her raids to a climax by boldly entering Penang harbor, where she sank the two allied warships.

Destroys $10,000,000 Worth of Ships.

So far as known the German cruiser Emden has captured, sunk or driven ashore 24 vessels, including 100,000 tons of allies' ships in the Pacific ocean. They are the Russian cruiser Zemtchug and French destroyer Mousquet, and the following steamers: Collier Bursk, Indus, Lovat, Killin, Diplomat, Trabbuch, Kabinga, Craftsman, Clan Matheson, Tymbic, King Lad, Ribera, Poyle, Chikama, Tredan, Benmore, Clan Grant, Exford, Ponnarble (a dredger) and two unnamed ships.

Not including the Tymbic, the Ponnarble and the two unnamed ships, the tonnage of which is not known, the victims of the Emden represented a total tonnage of $5,900,000 and a value of more than $10,000,000.

Weight of metal obviously told in the fight between the Emden and Sydney, as the Australian ship carried the heavier guns. Once on the trail of the German raider, the Sydney was not to be deterred.

The Emden escaped when the Australian first came in contact with her a few days ago. The German vessel on that occasion lost both of her store ships, one being captured and another sunk, but she herself fled, refusing combat. Sydney continued her pursuit finally overtaking her and forced her to battle.

A fleet of at least 70 warships had been combing the Pacific in search of the Emden. But she eluded pursuers just when it seemed she must give battle and go to her doom before her pursuers. When reported in one section, she would suddenly appear in another and capture, or send some merchantman to the bottom.

Emden Flights Enemy Gaily.

That the Emden fought to the last for her life is evidenced by the fact that the Sydney did not escape without loss. Three men were killed and 15 injured.

When the Emden went ashore she was hopelessly out of commission, but the Sydney made sure of her work by firing more shots before drawing off.

Every officer and member of the crew of the Emden had been awarded the Iron Cross by the Kaiser for his brilliant work on the sea.

Capt. Von Muller and his men realized that sooner or later they must be Den's Mts. of Revenue.

Washington, D. C.—The commander of the Turkish forces at Beirut, in a formal note addressed to the American consul general and intended for the British and French governments, declares that for every Mussulman killed in the bombardment of any open and unfortified port three British or French warships will be immediately executed. The Turkish note says the commandant declined to take the responsibility for any uprising against Christians, which might arise from such a bombardment.

GERMANS REOPEN ATTACKS ON FOES

Teuton's Violent Assaults Against French and British Troops Are Repulsed, Says Bordeaux Statement.

ADVANTAGE SWAYS BACK AND FORTH

Newly Arrived Reserves of Kaiser's Army, Who Take Place of Veterans Withdrawn to Eastern Frontier of Conflict, Are Giving Good Account of Themselves.

Paris, France.—The Germans reopened their local attacks with great violence on the left wing of the allies all along the front from Noyon to Dixmude, according to the official statement issued by the war office in Bordeaux. What they failed to accomplish with seasoned troops they are now attempting with young men and old, most of the veterans of the western campaign having been withdrawn to the eastern frontier, according to dispatches repeated here from London. But the newly arrived reserves are giving a good account of themselves. If anything their courage is just as reckless and they are just as contemptuous of death and just as disdainful of the effect of the allies' fire as were the tried troops who lived among the flying lead and shell, wading and slipping during the hundred odd days they have been giving the French, British and Belgians desperate battle in France and Belgium. Either the invaders are making a great effort to cover the retirement of the troops ordered withdrawn or they are making a supreme and definite effort to drive through Ypres. In the former, the allies are ready to pounce upon the enemy as soon as he has tired of his attempt to cover the movement in his rear. If the latter, the Germans have their work cut out for them.

With the eastern situation critically threatening the Kaiser, the Germans must either push through to the coast or retire to a more easily supplied line, nearer their base, in the opinion of military experts here. If they delay much longer the troops they need to withstand Russia's attacks on the east cannot be spared from the western line, because every man will be needed to maintain the line from Noyon to the sea.

Attempts to drive through at three separate points were repulsed by the allies, according to official report issued from Bordeaux. At Bischoets, at Ypres and at Armentieres the advance was repulsed, pendulum-like, as the offensive was taken by one side and then the other. The day ended with the allies' position considerably advanced. The fighting was much more violent than on the previous day, the lines clashing in close contact, with the bayonet in use frequently.

One of the wonders in connection with the work of the Emden was the system under which she was kept supplied with coal and provisions. At times, when it was believed certain her raids must cease because of lack of fuel, one of the Emden's storeships would appear and she would be ready for additional work.

Put to Death as Spy.

London, England.—Karl Hans Lody was executed, shot by a firing squad, in a courtyard of London at 10 a. m. today. Lody, alias Charles A. Ingalls, who, although a German citizen, had masqueraded as an American, was convicted as a German spy by a court-martial. The court-martial, the first held in England since the war with the United States, was presided over by Lord Chelmsford, a retired major general in the army, who married his wife, a French girl, an American.

OBJECTION PLACED ON AGE

But Young Lady's Idea Was Altogether Different From What Corporal Had Feared.

"What pensions, what millions and billions in pensions, this horrible war is going to entail," said Major Fitzerald of Boston. He added:

"And some of these pensions will go on longer than they should, because some of the pensioners in their old age will marry young girls—for an old pensioner makes a good party, since his pension, you know, falls on his death to his widow.

"I heard the other day about an old Civil War pensioner who proposed to the hired girl next door, a very pretty girl of twenty or so. But she refused him.

"Perhaps," he stammered then, stroking in his embarrassment his long and snow-white beard, 'perhaps I am too old'.

"No," said the pretty hired girl calmly; 'no, corporal, you're too young.'"

A Fine Night.

Maudie Marie was a sentimental miss of twenty summers, who seemed to look on the world with a gentle sigh. Her relatives the Kansas City Star, John Henry, who thought her some sweetest was almost cruelly practical. One evening they were leisurely rambling along the country road when John Henry noticed that Maudie Marie's thoughts seemed afar off.

"You look like somnambulism, Marie," remarked the young man. "Where are your thoughts?"

"I was thinking of the night, John, dear," tenderly replied the fair one. "Isn't it sublime? Isn't it glorious? Isn't it the most wonderful night you ever saw?"

"Yes," was the startling rejoinder of the practical John. "It is just the kind of a night to shoot cats."

BRITISH IN THE TRENCHES AT LIERRE

Dixmude, where several previous attempts to break through the allied lines and gain the coast of France have been repulsed after the most severe fighting of the war.

There has, however, been no decisive action fought along the whole front, but each side is making gains which may count when the crisis is at hand. With the tremendous forces which may count when the crisis is opening each other any progress must necessarily be slow in these days of siege battles, but both the allies and the Germans express satisfaction with the way in which the battle has gone.

Claims Made by Germans.

The views of the Germans are told in the following report issued by general headquarters:

"During the evening a sortie of the enemy from Nieuport, which was repulsed during the night, completely defeated the obstinate resistance our troops offered, and Ypres are progressing steadily."

"The hostile counter attacks southward have been repulsed and several men taken prisoners."

It is stated by a statement by the admiralty of war, which at Nieuport is standing advantage to us, and is being commanded by the successfully establishing itself in German territory at Pleschen, 15 miles west of the Russo-German frontier.

In addition the Germans are said to be generally relinquishing their stand along the Warthe river, and it is believed they have given up their first plan of offering resistance to the Russian advance on the positions which they had prepared.

Cavalry Outflanks Germans.

The Russian advance was accomplished, it is stated, by a cavalry movement outflanking the German left.

Russian penetration of German territory to Pleschen, Prussia, northwest of Kaiser, upon which latter point the Germans appear to be withdrawing, threatens the German line of communication.

The cavalry operations with strong defensive preparations of the Germans inside the Polish frontier. The Russians now hold without resistance the great line of entrenchments running from Constantow southward on Cracow and northward on Kaiser. German reserves and local forced labor had been employed for a month in digging and equipping these works, which were built and buttressed like underground dwellings. Now all are abandoned.

Attack on Cracow Begins.

The Russians are now attacking the uniforms, because of the density of their formation, while the French know how to protect themselves perfectly from aerial reconnaissance.

"During a fight our troops must make use of the narrow files among the trees, at the edges of villages and near the shelter of houses, avoiding the formation. Above all, absolute silence must be maintained in extreme places. At the approach of an enemy all movements should be stopped and it is also necessary to have a movement of batteries which planes are surveying. There should also be no firing, for the flash of a gun betrays its position to the air squadron.

"The success of the French attack, which has caused such marked success, is due, first, to their quickness in determining the positions of our batteries. To equal them it is necessary that our observations should be pushed like theirs, far in advance of the lines, by men of courage who are not afraid of shot and shrapnel."

CALLS ON BUCKEVES TO THINK ALMIGHTY

Gov. Cox Issues Thanksgiving Proclamation, Setting Thursday, Nov. 26, for Citizens to Be Grateful.

TELLS OF BLESSINGS BESTOWED ON US

Points out How America Has Fed Countries Now at War and Has Sent Many People Abroad to Do What They Can to Relieve the Distress.

Columbus, O.—By proclamation of Gov. Cox, Thursday, Nov. 26, will be observed as Thanksgiving day by the people of Ohio. "The world is more sorely afflicted today than it has ever been," says the governor in his proclamation. "There is more desolation. Greater misery hath no man witnessed than is to be witnessed at this time. Yet, throughout it all, America has escaped serious consequences. We are at peace with our fellows from near and far. We have had thrust upon us the burden of feeding half the world. So it seems that this year, more than for many years, we have reason to follow the precedent set down by our forebears and set aside a day of thanksgiving."

"Appreciating the blessings bestowed upon them by nature, and through their own industrious efforts, our forefathers set apart one day of the year upon which they assembled about their altars and in their homes and gave thanks to Almighty God. In doing so they left to us a precedent which, rightly followed, should give unto every one of us renewed determination to so live and to so conduct our affairs that great shall be our rewards."

"The world is more sorely afflicted today than it has ever been. There is more desolation. Greater misery hath no man witnessed than is to be witnessed at this time. Yet throughout it all America has escaped serious consequences. We are at peace with our fellows from near and far. We have had thrust upon us the burden of feeding half the world. We are called upon for alms for the suffering, and many of our people have gone abroad to do what they can to relieve the distress. So it seems that this year, more than for many years, we have reason to follow the precedent set down by our forebears and to set aside a day of thanksgiving—not a day of rejoicing that we are better than our brothers; not a day upon which to arrogantly call attention to our own virtues in comparison with the virtues of that lack of them in others; but a day of real thanksgiving, when we can lift our faces toward unknown worlds above us and to the Maker of those worlds and this one and give thanks for the peace and prosperity with which we have been blessed."

"As chief executive of the state of Ohio, I do, therefore, proclaim this day, Nov. 26, 1914, as a day of Thanksgiving and call upon all citizens of the state to observe it as such. "In testimony whereof, I have heretofore subscribed my name and caused the great seal of the state of Ohio to be affixed at Columbus, this 25th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen. "JAMES M. COX."

Doctor Warns Ohio People.
Dr. Eugene F. McCampbell, executive officer of the state health department, has issued a general warning against the possibility of the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease from cattle to human beings. His warning statement says that children and others who come in contact with infected animals frequently become victims of the disease. He recommends that all suspected herds, holding of all suspected milk, disinfection of all troughs and stables where diseased animals have been and other precautionary measures. One of the significant statements of the state medical officer is that human beings may become afflicted either by drinking the milk of infected cattle or by contact. Domestic animals, in addition to cattle, are susceptible to the plague, which first makes itself known by eruptions on the mouth and feet of hoofs, according to Dr. McCampbell. In animals the characteristic later features of the disease may be emaciation and anorexia. Most of the affected animals recover, but some die from the complications that ensue. The disease manifests itself in man by a moderate degree of fever, the development of vesicles in the mouth and various lesions about the feet. However, some cases are so mild that outward symptoms are lacking. Denman May Land Job.

MURDERER SCARES HIMSELF TO DEATH

Man Who Chopped Wife to Pieces Thinks Over and Over Penalty of Crime and Escapes Electric Chair.

Trenton, N. J.—Angelo Ceriello is dead. This fact is important only as a matter of psychology and physiology, for Angelo would not have been alive, in any event, after 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. But psychologically and physiologically Angelo assumes considerable importance in the roll of a man who was actually scared to death.

What Angelo was afraid of was a knock on his door—on his cell door—for Angelo was a ward of the state of New Jersey in the penitentiary here. That knock would have announced to him the entry of a man in a black suit, accompanied by a priest, who would have started him. He was afraid to wait for the words that the priest who accompanied the man in black would have begun to murmur as he took up his short march.

Just Think and Think.
For at the other end of the little journey he knew he would have found a chair. Something like an arm chair it would have been, but there would have been some dangling straps around one leg, and more dangling straps around a bent piece, something like the head rest of a barber's chair, but different, somehow. And Angelo knew that when he and the man in black—and the priest—had made that brief march, the man in black would help him into that chair and would make him hold on to the chair before the dangling straps on the chair head around his bare leg and would fasten the other dangling straps, on the headpiece, around his forehead. And he knew that would be the last thing he ever would know, for he knew that soon after the straps were fastened a man he had not even been cruel to them in life, the fatal rick would have been hastened by the pale wrath of a woman who once was Angelo's wife. For the chair was waiting for him because, some time ago, he fell on Mrs. Angelo and chopped her to pieces with an ax.

Perhaps, if there is anything in this theory of ghosts coming back to haunt the persons who have been cruel to them in life, the fatal rick may have been hastened by the pale wrath of a woman who once was Angelo's wife. For the chair was waiting for him because, some time ago, he fell on Mrs. Angelo and chopped her to pieces with an ax.

WOULD SAVE TOWN PUMP

OHIO VILLAGERS RAISE A STORM OF PROTEST AS DRINKING FOUNTAIN IS PLANNED.

Masillon, O.—After over 100 years' continuous service, the town pump on the square in Navarre, a village five miles south of here, has been removed to make way for an ornamental iron drinking fountain to be supplied by the municipal water system. Patrons of the old well have raised a storm of protest. They declare the village water is unfit to drink, but that the old well gave a supply cool and pure.

Recolector square merchants are planning to establish a rival fountain. The fountain craze started in Navarre recently when farmers who went to market complained they were forced to pump water for their horses and cattle.

OFFICE SEEKERS SWARM CAPITAL

Men Wanting Jobs Under the Incoming Administration Arrive on Every Train and Crowd Lobbies of Hotels.

FAMILIAR FACES AMONG THE NUMBER

Nobody Can Guess How Many Positions Will Be Available, Considering Civil Service, Tenure of Certain Office Holders and to What Extent Retrenchments Are Made.

Columbus, O.—Incoming trains are bringing vaguely familiar faces here. The hotels are filling. Lobbies are getting crowded. Gossiping groups of men with a strangely political air can be seen almost everywhere. At night the corridors of the Nell house and other hostilities give the impression of the advent of a political convention. The Republicans are coming back! People who haven't been seen in Columbus for a decade have suddenly reappeared and the after fall of the election is being replaced by a buzz of eager whispering and an indefinable whirl of confusion. Looming indefinitely on the horizon but nevertheless clearly is a wilderness of jobs. Nobody can guess just how many places will be available at the new pie counter considering the civil service, the uncertain tenure of certain office holders, the inability of anybody to predict to what extent retrenchments may curtail patronage. But everybody knows that there are many, many positions, big and little, classified and unclassified, and the influx of candidates is on. The general assembly for one thing is to be reorganized. From Democratic it changes to Republican. Presto! Out go Democratic sergeants-at-arms, Democratic stenographers, Democratic porters and pages, Democratic attaches of all sorts. On the Republican plan tree these vacancies save an estimate. A score of eyes is fixed on every one. Even for the honorary jobs of speaker of the house and president pro tem of the senate there are many eager seekers. When the Democrats were in power the minority leadership in the senate was Secretary of the United States. He got it without strife. But when erent while minority leadership means the sometime presidency of the upper house there is a noisy scrambling for the place. Four candidates, or all but one of the re-elected Republican senators are after it. It is the same all the way through. And not all of the members of the throng now invading Columbus are candidates. Many of them are the friends of candidates or the friends of friends of candidates. But all have their eyes on certain positions.

OHIO ELECTION FIGURES

HOME HEAD TALKS AT PURITY MEETING

Miss Margaret Luther Addresses Congress on 'The Girls Who Go Through the New York Courts.'

BLAMES HOME CONDITIONS FOR EVIL

Points Out That Most of the Girls With Whom the Tribunals Have to Deal Are Not More Than Eighteen Years Old—Not All Are Wage Earners.

Kansas City, Mo.—More girls go wrong because of home conditions than for any other reason, asserted Miss Margaret F. Luther, superintendent of the Florence Crittenton home, New York city, in an address before the International Purity congress here.

Miss Luther, who spoke on "The Girls Who Go Through the New York Courts," pointed out that most of the girls with whom the courts have to deal are not more than 18 years old. "Statistics show that the larger number of girls who go wrong are not alone in the world," she said. "Nor are they all wage earners. Girls come to us from all stations and all conditions of life. In most of the cases the minds are polluted in early childhood. Home conditions are responsible. Out of 450 girls who were brought before the New York women's night court, 289 were not more than 18 years old, while 116 of them were only 16 years old."

Stories of locked doors and barred windows in connection with white-slavery are largely imaginary, according to Miss Luther. "The men who live on commercialized vice are the men you see standing on the street corners," she continued. "Their victims are usually silly little girls they win by wiles. And the girls such a man can enslave soul, mind and body, is worse than any physical slave."

Home Conditions Responsible.
"A judge recently told me that 90 per cent of the men he had sentenced for white slavery were less than 22 years old. Home conditions are responsible for this situation."

"Some people are inclined to say that if we had better laws we would have better living and better home conditions. Character is formed in the home long before man goes to legislative halls to make laws, and the home makes the man who makes the laws. Speaking for New York, I do not believe it would be possible to have better or stronger laws. The thing we need there is workers—persons who make a specialty of fighting commercialized vice."

Right Rev. C. J. Kephart of Kansas City declared that social purity always would be dependent upon the status of the church as an institution of uprightness. "The church is not responsible for the present power of the saloon and the prevalence of vice," he said, "but it will be responsible for both unless it does the full measure of its duty in suppressing them now."

WILL SERVE OUT TERM

YOUNG MAN WHO ESCAPED FROM PRISON VOLUNTARILY GIVES HIMSELF UP.

New York City.—When Burdett G. Lewis, deputy correction commissioner, reached his office a man who had been waiting for a long time was ushered in.

"My name is Louis Davis. I am 26 years old," said the caller. "I was sent to the workhouse for six months by Magistrate Cornell last December for disorderly conduct. On Feb. 17 I escaped. Since that time I have been hiding here and there and have been out west. I am tired of dodging and want to finish out my term. I believe are the greatest things in the world. I'm married and soon I expect to have a child of my own. If I start right in serving out my time now I'll get out by March 1, and when the baby comes I can be home with him, and won't have to be watching all the time for detectives. This is the real reason I'm back here. My wife will need me later on and my little boy will want to see his pop."

Dry's Attackers Sentenced.
Sharon, Pa.—Nick Salanti, a Farrell merchant, and Nick Gedasch were sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Judge Williams for assaulting and attempting to kill Carl McNavitch, a dry detective of Akron. Gedasch confessed and said Salanti employed him. McNavitch had obtained evidence against Salanti for running a blind tiger.

Fears Devil, Kills Self.
Denver, Col.—A man so fearful of the devil that he had completely possessed his life that he had unparadoxically offended heaven and would be led to kill not only himself but his sister, as well as S. S. Williams, city health inspector, fired a bullet into his heart. "I'm doing this because I could not help it," a letter said. "No one else is directly or indirectly responsible for it. I will say, however, that modern religious thought led me up to the poisoned fountain from which I drank."

DEFENDS POPULAR REMEDIES

Speaker Says Newspapers Should Investigate Merits of Medicines Before Barring Advertisements.

That an organized attempt has been made to blacken the reputation of the popular family remedies of this country, and to mislead the newspaper publishers into rejecting the advertising of such medicines, was the charge made by Carl J. Ballett, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the convention of the Advertising Affiliation at Detroit.

Mr. Ballett is a director of the Proprietary Association of America, which includes in its membership two hundred firms which make the popular prepared medicines of America.

Mr. Ballett pointed out that it is the duty of the newspaper publisher to refuse the advertising of any fake or fraudulent medicine, just as it is his duty to refuse any fake or fraudulent advertising, but it is not right to shut down on all medical advertisements because there have been some fakers, any more than it would be right to refuse to publish all department store advertising because certain stores have a bad practice of lying about their bargain sales.

Disease and death are mysteries. People who are perfectly well are skeptical. They laugh at the time-worn patent medicine jokes, just as they laugh again and again over the many varieties of the operation joke. "The operation," said the speaker, "the patient died." This so-called humor has perhaps hurt the medicine business with well people, but when the hitherto healthy man feels a severe pain or illness, he immediately writes a check and will bless the regular doctor, a homeopath, an osteopath, a Christian Scientist or patent medicine. There is nothing more deadly than disease; nothing more honorable than to cure it.

Mr. Ballett refuted the idea sought to be spread about that patent medicines are unpopular by showing that from 1900 to 1912 the amount of prepared medicines consumed in America increased from $100,000,000 to $160,000,000 annually. He showed that, although the American Medical Association was writing of an organization that exterminate so-called patent medicines, the family doctor, individually, is not fighting them but prescribing them. He estimated that 40% of the prescriptions written by doctors today include proprietary medicines.

The criticism of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, he said, have also aimed to destroy confidence in proprietary medicines; but that Dr. Wiley's ideas are not infallible is shown by cases where his analyses were entirely wrong. Mr. Ballett mentioned a case where, with all the power of the Government, he fought a preparation as being dangerous to health, and was ingloriously walloped.

There has been spread the idea that a clever faker can mix a few useless ingredients and by smart advertising, sell tons of it and win success. It is, whereas, as a matter of fact, the medicine business is notoriously difficult, and, where there has been one success at it, there have been a hundred failures. Any medicine which has no merit cannot live, because persons who are duped into buying it once will not buy it again, and the profit from advertising a medicine can only come from repeat sales to the same, satisfied people. Therefore, any medicine which has been on the market for a number of years, and is still advertised, must have merit behind it to account for its success.

In conclusion Mr. Ballett declared that no newspaper is doing justice to its readers in the matter of medical or other advertising, unless it invests gates, not only the wording of the advertisement offered for publication, but the merits of the article advertised. He pointed out that the few newspapers who have been deluded into the policy of barring out medical advertising have adopted this general policy, rather than to form an investigation bureau of this kind which could in a constructive and useful effort, investigate and decide what is a good product and what is a fraud, in not only the medicine business, but in every other business which advertises its wares to the public.

The audience seemed to agree with Mr. Ballett's ideas on the subject and the chairman decided the question at issue in his favor.

 That honesty is the best policy was never more clearly demonstrated than in a little incident that occurred here last week when Marie Lenhart, who part of the time assists in Beckwith's ice cream parlor, found a five dollar bill on the floor, which had been accidentally dropped by F. She finally located Mr. Brewbaker after considerable search and returned the money, and who as a reward for her honesty presented the young lady with a dollar, realizing the fact that if it had fallen into any other hand it would have been the last of it.

The third victim of the accident jumped from the engine and was only slightly scalded. The dead are Leo Burr, aged 27, fireman, and J. C. Humphrey, aged 38, switchman.
 By Sunday night the first coat of concrete road way for 1914 will have been laid in Huron county. This will be the first coat of concrete road way laid in Huron county since the Huron county board of supervisors authorized the project. The road to be laid is from the intersection of the main market road and the road to the Lorain county line. The road is 1.5 miles long and will be completed and will be opened up some time next week. This gives a magnificent road from Norwalk to the Lorain county line in fact it completes the Main Market Road No. 1 clear across Huron county. There is a miserable stretch of the road left unrepaired in Lorain county, due wholly to the squabbling of officials in that county. Reflector.
 One of the most successful as well as the most unique affairs given this season, took place last Saturday evening when the members of the New Idea Club entertained their husbands at the "Masonic Dancers" held at the Smith Hotel. The first big event of the evening was the seven o'clock dinner at which covers were laid for thirty. The address of welcome was very cleverly given by our own Ladaska, who was dressed as a Colonial Belle, and as usual presided as toastmistress in a very dignified manner. After calling on the members, and guests for a few remarks, which were responded to in a very original way, and after all had done justice to a very elaborate dinner, the grand march, accompanied by Raver's orchestra, led to the Masonic Club room, where the Maskers were permitted to display their talents in vaudville and fancy dancing. It will be an evening long remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present as guests of this very hospitable club.

HOW TO CURE A CHRONIC COUGH

Told in the Following Letter by a Jackson Man Who Knows from Experience. His Word is Good.

Jackson, Miss.—"I am a carpenter, and the gripe left me not only with a chronic cough, but I was run-down, worn out and weak. I took all kinds of cough syrups but they did me no good. I finally got so weak I was not able to do a day's work, and coughed so much I was alarmed about my condition. One evening I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Before I had taken a quarter of a bottle I felt better, and after taking two bottles my cough is entirely cured, all the bad symptoms have disappeared and I have gained new vim and energy."
 —JOHN L. DENNIS, 711 Lynch Street, Jackson, Miss.
 The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because the active medicinal principles of cod liver oil contained in Vinol rebuilds wasting tissues and supplies strength and vigor to the nerves and muscles while the tonic iron and wine assist the red corpuscles of the blood to absorb oxygen and distribute it through the system, thus restoring health and strength to the weakened, diseased organs of the body.
 If Vinol fails to help you, we return your money.

Up along the hillsides and after the fugitives they ran with vengeance eager, racing each other for the higher ground and the first shot at the robbers.

First Alvarez on his white horse would be ahead, and then, as they encountered rocks, the Yaquis would surge to the front. It was a race and at the same time it was a rout, for at the first glimpse of that oncoming body of warriors, the cowardly followers of Bernardo Bravo took to their heels and fled.

But over the rocks no Chihuahuan, no matter how scared, can hope to outdistance a Yaqui, and the pop, pop, pop of rifles told the fate of the first luckless stragglers.

Patner and Foster came the shots as the pursuit led to the north end, as Hooker strained his eyes to follow a huge form that intuition told him was Amigo, he was awakened suddenly from his preoccupation by the touch of some unseen hand.

Daily for a moment did he stand before her gaze, and then he caught up his saddle and spoke soothingly to his horse. They rode out of the corral together, closing the gates behind them and passing down a gulch to the rear. All the town lay silent below as they turned toward the westward pass.

The time had come. Well he knew the dangers that lay between them and the American line. Dangers not for him but for her. In the hills and passes and on the cactus-covered plain were thousands of men with whom he was not safe for the last instant, and against whom he must guard her that she might be delivered safely to Phil.

And he loved her then as he had not believed it possible to love a woman. He loved this woman that he was attempting to save for another man, a "partner" who had at the best been reckless of every trust, who had been unfaithful to every promise.

And across the border this man was waiting for the woman he Hooker loved. That he take her to him was a more severe test of his manhood than any to which he had before been subjected.

"Where are you?" asked Gracia, dropping stiffly to the ground. "But of course we go," she added. "I've been thinking of some time."

They still watched expectantly for the road, the evening quickly passed. They had no opportunity for conversation, for the trail was too narrow to permit of their riding side by side.

First the slanting rays of the sun struck fire from the high yellow crags, then the fire faded and the sky glowed an opal-blue; then, through dark blues and purples the heavens turned to black above them and all the stars came out.

It was no new task for him, this watching and waiting for the dawn. For weeks at a time, after a hard day's work at the branding, he had stood guard half the night.

Phil was not different in all their ways. To ride, to fight, to find the way—there he was more than he did, but Phil's ways could be more attractive to her.

Phil was not different in all their ways. To ride, to fight, to find the way—there he was more than he did, but Phil's ways could be more attractive to her.

How to Waken Her, Even That Was a Question.

It would be hard now if the rurales should prove too many for him—if a bullet should check him in his flight and she be left alone. But how to wake her? He tramped near as he led her to the summit, then, at last he knelt at her side.

"Wake up!" he said, shaking her gently. "Wake up, it's almost day." Even as he spoke he looked back to the phrase of the Cancion which he had memorized.

"Why—what is it?" she cried. Then, as he spoke again and backed away, she remembered him with a smile. "Where are you, anyway?"

"About ten miles from Fortuna," answered Hooker soberly. "Too close—we ought to be over that divide."

"Don't know," murmured Bud. "Didn't know I was. Say, let me get them saddle-blankets, will you?"

"I'll get them for you," said Gracia, smiling. "I'll get them for you."

"I'll get them for you," said Gracia, smiling. "I'll get them for you."

"I'll get them for you," said Gracia, smiling. "I'll get them for you."

of the ground threw him to the east and there were no passes between the hills. The country was rocky, with the parallel ridges extending to the north and when he saw where the way was taking him Bud called a halt till dawn.

By the very formation he was being gradually edged back toward Fortuna, and it would call for fresh horses and a rested Gracia to outstrip their pursuers by dawn.

Guest Who Didn't Care for Salmon Was in Fair Way to Have Hot Breakfast.

In some parts of the Canadian back country the recurrence of boiled salmon, broiled salmon, salmon cutlets, and salmon steak at every meal becomes, after a few weeks, a trifle monotonous.

"Well, then, fire into the mustard," was the rejoinder.

Comparative Values.

"I suppose you had the usual trouble in Europe this summer," said Mrs. De Jinks.

"Yes," said Mrs. von Slammerton, "chiefly in the matter of getting money, however. Why, would you believe it, Mrs. De Jinks, a letter of credit over there wasn't of any more value than a treaty of neutrality!"

Too Good.

Reggy—Sweet Arline, will you be mine?

Sweet Arline—Before I answer your question let me ask you one. Do you swear when you lose your collar stud?

Reggy—Never!

Sweet Arline—Then it cannot be, I cannot marry a man who has no spirils in the world.

Humani Nature.

"Now, Ethel, Harold says he's sorry he broke your doll, so I want you to forgive him."

"I'd feel more like forgiv'ng him, maw, if I could swat him one first."

A Rebellion.

Food Demanded.

The human body will stand a lot of abuse, but sometime it will surely rebel and demand proper food in place of the starchy, greasy stuffs on which it has been made sick.

Then is the time to try Grape-Nuts, the most scientific and perfect food in the world.

Parisians Wearing Colored Beards.

Colored beards (for men) are reported to be coming into fashion in Paris. The green wig was a means of feminine adornment. It is not supposed to have had a lasting impression, but it attracted attention. Now men are coming into their share of the color in hirsute decoration.

The Making of a Man.

No university can make a man. Men may end themselves with poverty, they stop beneath the weight of their accumulations, and yet fail to lift a care from the heart of the way, or impel a single soul an inch on the way to God. The real building of a man is within.—Dr. Clifford.

BURIAL PLACE OF KING JOHN BUT NOT ON THAT MACHINE

Writer Declares Interment of Famous English Monarch Took Place at Worcester.

In the American Law Review there appeared an article in which the writer made an allusion to King John of England, and said he went to his unlamented rest at St. Wolstan's.

It was: "I'll come around some Thursday and take you out in the machine."

"Oh, she twittered, picking a hair from his coat collar. "What Thursday, Mr. Dickdocker?"

"How does some Thursday next week suit you?" he replied.

"Oh, the first, please!" she exclaimed.

"That Thursday she stood, with her new auto coat on, waiting at the parlor window for two hours."

"I realize he's ugly as sin and has fourteen gold teeth," she mused, "but with wild goggles on he surely won't look so bad and he'll probably keep his mouth shut on account of the dust."

CHAPTER XXV.

Though the times had turned to war, all nature that moralized was at peace, and they rode through a valley of fowls like knights and lady in a pageant.

They were looking at him now as he searched out the trail ahead, but he pretended not to hear. One man in that pass was as good as a hundred, and there were only two things he could do—shoot his way through, or turn back.

Measure May Be Introduced By the Dry Forces To Increase the Tax on Saloons.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Columbus, O.—By a plurality that may reach as high as 25,000 Chief Justice Hugh L. Nichols was endorsed by the voters in the election for a continuation for six years as the head of the state's judicial organization.

Upon the official reports that were sent in from 72 counties of the state, including all the large urban counties, he had 302,770, as against 277,874 for his nearest opponent, Judge Frank Taggart, of Wooster, nominated by the Republicans.

The Socialist choice, John C. Madden, of Ottawa, had 162,248 in 60 counties. He even carried Cuyahoga county as above both the other contestants. Only with great reluctance did the Republican state committee admit that the chief justice had been approved by the voters. It was their only regret of the election.

With Judge Nichols on the bench the court will stand four Democrats, two Republicans and one Progressive. A special investigation of every branch of the state government, with the view to obtaining information of service in the preparation of a general plan for economical administration, is to be made at the request of Gov. E. Frank Willis. It is to be conducted by experts and will be prosecuted quietly.

The results will be placed in his hands prior to his inauguration, in time for him to make recommendations in his initial message to the general assembly.

The dry headquarters here has figures which show that the prohibition proposal received a majority in 71 counties of the state. Of these counties 28 are now wet under the license system. The same figures show that two dry counties, Miami and Warren, voted "no" on prohibition.

The same figures show that it was the masses who voted in Cleveland and Cincinnati decidedly in favor of the 28 counties in the state. The proponents of another state-wide fight.

The wet counties which gave majorities for prohibition and against home rule are Jefferson, Columbiana, Mahoning, Washington, Licking, Tuscarawas, Stark, Coshocton, Perry, Fairfield, Marion, Wyandot, Mercer, Darke, Crawford, Henry, Scioto, Allen, Athens, Clark, Lorain, Huron, Lawrence, Putnam, Richland, Ross, Shelby and Muskingum.

LAURELS AND SUNBONNET

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS.

Madge Lester had won her crown of laurels with comparative ease. From a slip of a country girl, playing in amateur theatricals, she had ascended to the heights of dramatic art.

When Sir John Giltroy was presented to her at the home of Lord Danvers, at whose home a house party was given in her honor, he knew that the one woman had entered his life.

During the fortnight following he courted Madge with British determination. Before accepting Lord Danvers' invitation Madge had asked the privilege of solitude for an hour or two a day that she might study up her part for the forthcoming production of her new play.

"You see I am a slave to my dear public—even when on a holiday," she had told Lord Giltroy. "I must work when you are all shooting grouse and landing salmon. And you know so little of me. I am deeply honored by your love, but I feel that our paths are so different; they are so widely separated that it would be difficult to get the best out of life under those conditions."

Without knowing it, Madge awayed slightly toward him. His arms went swiftly about her and his lips covered her own before she could stir. "I will give you another fortnight to think it over," he said. "You will know then if you love me."

He let her go then, and Madge went quickly to her room.

Having returned to her apartment in town Madge became entirely occupied with her new production. She had decided when she first saw her part that the little trunk full of clothes with which she had come to Broadway from the country would costume the role as no other clothes would. The trunk was always with her. It was the closest link with the past and a treasured possession.

When Madge opened it to look over its contents she had not realized that a tumb of emotion would sweep over her. The longing to get back to the old farm brought tears to her eyes, and when she picked up the old pink sunbunnet that had clung to her curly head through rain and through shine Madge wept softly into its faded depths.

"No, No," she told herself vehemently. "I could not marry a titled personage and the myself down to conventional city life." She gazed fondly at her slinkings and quaint little frilled petticoats and her Sunday hat with the pink lilacs on it. They were admirably suited to her part in the new play and Madge decided that if the play was a success she would play her season in London and a farewell in New York, then retire from the stage.

She pulled down her masses of auburn hair, dressed it in ringlets, put the pink sunbunnet on her head and Sunday slinkings and viewed herself in the mirror. Madge laughed with delight. Surely she had gone back to nature and she drew in a deep breath in imagination seeing the apple blossoms.

So engrossed was she that she had not heard the bell ring nor did she know that her maid had admitted Sir John Giltroy.

She turned suddenly and looked into his laughing eyes. He took both of her hands in his own and surveyed her from head to foot.

"Well, if I had known you when you were a girl like that you would never have been crowned by theatrical laurels and I would never have married you and kept you out on the farm with me."

"You—not a baronet? How could you help it?" Madge questioned the man who realized that she must give this man his way whether that way led through town mansions or country lanes.

"I won my title," he said, simply. "It is a degree of honor and not hereditary. At heart I long for the vastness of country life. I am a farmer by birth and a baronet by endeavor." He drew Madge nearer to him and looked fondly beneath the sunbunnet. "I have come for my answer, dear," he said.

"My answer," whispered Madge, softly, "is—yes." (Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Put That Pain to Use

The network of nerves in your body, like the network of wires in a burglar alarm system, give quick warning when anything is going wrong inside. Looking at it in this way a pain is a useful alarm. Now, kidney weakness is a dangerous thing—a condition not to be neglected—and it is wise to know and pay attention to the early alarm signals of sick kidneys. Backache is a common warning of congestion or inflammation in the kidneys. It may be dull, nagging pain, or a sharp twinge when stooping or lifting. There are likely to be disorders of urination, dizziness, headaches, and drowsy, despondent, tired feelings. It is very hard to strengthen weak kidneys at first, but neglect invites rheumatic or neuralgic attacks, gravel, dropsy, and fatal Bright's disease. As a special medicine for weak kidneys Doan's Kidney Pills have been used for years all over the civilized world, and surely are considered reliable. The patient can always help the medicine immensely, however, by dieting lightly, using little or no liquor, tea or coffee, keeping regular hours and drinking lots of pure water.

"I can hardly straighten up."

As to Doan's Kidney Pills, read the following enthusiastic endorsement by one who has tested them.

PRAYED FOR DEATH

NEW YORK City Man Endured Aural Agency from Kidney Trouble. E. J. Dunn, 412 W. 11th St., New York City, N. Y., says: "I don't know how I ever managed to endure the suffering I did from kidney complaint. For six or twelve years it kept getting worse until I was as weak as a baby. Had my back broken I couldn't have hurt me worse. When I tried to turn over in bed the strain was so fierce I had to scream. Mornings I couldn't bend over to my shoes. I got so little sleep that I was exhausted. I often prayed I might die and have my suffering end. I had terribly dizzy spells and often the kidney secretions were retarded. The passages were painful, just like scalding water. Every step I took sent sharp stabs of pain across my back. I had to quit work and although I took medicine after medicine and was treated by doctors, nothing helped me. My wife read about Doan's Kidney Pills and on her advice I tried them. I have since felt like a different man. I have gained my strength and ambition, have no pain whatever, and sleep like a child. My appetite is good and my kidneys have given me no trouble. (Statement verified and signed) OVER A YEAR LATER Mr. Dunn said: "My cure is permanent and I can't get over how wonderful it all is. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me and I couldn't possibly praise them too highly."

SOME TERRIBLE WAR BILLS

That of the United States Government Heads the List in Point of Size.

The war bill of Napoleon in 13 years cost France $1,000,000,000 writes Wendell Phillips Dodge in Leslie's. Our civil war expenditure of the federal government amounted to $2,400,000,000 or nearly thirteen times as much as Napoleon's. The Franco-German war cost France $1,580,000,000, besides an added war indemnity of $1,000,000,000. This same great war, which lasted only 190 days, cost Germany $450,000,000 for an average fighting force of 1,250,000 men. The other big European war of the past half century, the Russo-Turkish war, cost Russia $76,140,000, but she had two years' fighting for her money. The war in the far East cost Japan $650,000,000 and Russia $72,000,000, not counting lost ships. Only toward the end had either side anything like a million men in the field. Italy's little war with Turkey cost $400,000 a day, allowing for a mere 60,000 fighting men; and the Boer war, in which England's army averaged 200,000, cost $1,055,000,000 in two and a half years.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is which contains no dangerous narcotics or alcohol. It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, such as excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fever, for the run-down, anemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing.

EASTERN CITIES TO BE INVADIED.

Seven Special Trains to Transport Ohio's Army.

Washington, Philadelphia and New York City are to be invaded during the first week of December by an army of Ohio citizens. The Buckeye Corn Special tour has developed into a great state excursion in the interest of education.

In response to an appeal upon the part of parents, teachers and others interested in civic and educational advancement, the Agri cultural Commission has let down the bars. This year the Buckeye Corn Special Tour will be open to all, old and young.

The party will be transported by seven special trains made up of the best railroad equipment obtainable, all standard steel Pullman sleeping cars, electric lighted, a team heated, safe, sanitary and comfortable. Each car will have its colored porter ready to respond at the press of the button. Meals enroute will be served in dining cars. The party will stop at the best hotels in Washington, Philadelphia and New York. It will be traveling as millionaires travel.

There will be two full days of sight-seeing at the National Capitol, including a boat trip up the Potomac to Mount Vernon, the home and tomb of George Washington. On Wednesday, Dec. 2, the party will be received by President Wilson at the White House.

While in Philadelphia the Buckeye Corn Special party will stop at the Bellevue-Stratford, the hotel at which princes, presidents and other notables are entertained. The mayor of Philadelphia will deliver an address of welcome in the courtyard of the Municipal Building. The sight-seeing in Philadelphia will consist of a tour of John Wanamaker's store, the Curtis Institute, the Curtis Publishing Company building, the home of the Saturday Evening Post, The Country Gentleman and The Ladies' Home Journal, Congress Hall, Independence Hall, where many of the relics of the Revolutionary War are exhibited, including Old Liberty Bell, the Grave of Benjamin Franklin, the Betsy Ross House, the home of the American Flag, etc. The afternoon will be spent by a boat trip to League Island, Uncle Sam's greatest Navy Yard. There a special military drill and band concert will be tendered the Buckeye Corn Special Party. Following that entertainment, an opportunity will be afforded for spending an hour upon a great battleship.

A banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford, and a theatre party at Keith's will constitute the evening's program of the day spent in Philadelphia. The special trains will be boarded at 11:00 p. m. for the run to New York City.

The day in New York promises to prove the red letter day of the tour. The day will start with breakfast at the famous Waldorf-Astoria. The sight-seeing includes St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Grand Central Terminal, Bronx Zoo (the largest collection of animals in the world) a ten mile ride under the city on subway trains, the Aquarium, a boat tour of New York Harbor, affording a view of the Atlantic Ocean, Statue of Liberty, Immigration Island, Brooklyn Bridge, etc. The boat trip with luncheon aboard is complimentary entertainment by the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York. Hon. Seth Low and other notable men of New York are manifesting great interest in this unique movement.

After the boat trip the party will tour the sky scraper district and then board elevated trains to be carried to Hotels Martiniqne and McAlpine, where the party will banquet in two divisions. The evening will be spent at the Hippodrome (New York's largest theatre). From the theatre to the Penn's R. R. Station the party will walk down the "Great White Way." At 11:00 p. m. Friday, Dec. 4, the Buckeye Corn Special party, in seven special trains, will start on the homeward run.

The going trip will take the party through the mill and mine district of Pittsburgh by night. Pittsburgh by night reminds one of Dante's Inferno, with its brilliant lights, those mighty tongues of flame and smoke. On the return trip the Allegheny mountains will be crossed shortly after daylight and many of the party for the first time will see a mountain.

T. P. Riddle of Lima, Ohio, has been selected by the Agricultural Commission of Ohio to direct the tour.
