

TRUE TO HIS LEGAL TRAINING

To Judge, the Beauty of Poetry Was Froth, and He Had to Get to the Facts.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathizing with a poet friend...

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, "are naturally becoming rare."

"This judge was recommended by a poet friend to read Shelley's 'The Sensitive Plant'."

"And what do you think of it?" said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of "Ephiphany."

"Well, well—oh, yes—I dare say it is," said the judge, "but what I want to know is, when are we going to get to the facts?"

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Hoop of Wilton, Pa., suffered from Drupry for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering and was nearly exhausted at the least exertion.

After using Dr. Hoop's Pills the kidney pills the "stagnation" and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dr. Hoop's Pills.

Dr. Hoop writes: "I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Hoop about this wonderful remedy."

Not Much of a Mystery.

Two newspaper men looked on the street of one of the larger cities...

"The man who is the editor of the Trumpet, was found dead in his office last night." "Yes, so I hear," answered Brown. "Fool play is suspected of course."

"Does your husband treat you unkindly?" asked the lawyer. "Certainly not," said the substantial woman.

"Then why do you want a divorce?" "I don't actually want a divorce, I merely want to apply for one."

"What a debt we owe to medical science!" he said as he put down the paper.

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Haven't you paid the doctor's bill yet?"

NOT A MIRACLE.

There are some quite remarkable things happening every day, which seem almost miraculous.

"Some persons would not believe that a man could suffer from coffee drinking so severely as to cause fits and unconsciousness. And to find relief in changing from coffee to Postum is well worth recording."

"I used to be a great coffee drinker, so much so that it was killing me by inches. My heart became so weak I could not fall and lie unconscious for an hour at a time."

"My friends, and even the doctor, told me it was drinking coffee that was the trouble, and I could not believe it, and still drank coffee until I could not leave my room."

"Then my doctor, who drinks Postum himself, persuaded me to stop coffee and try Postum. After much hesitation I concluded to try it. That was eight months ago. Since then I have had but few of those spells, none for more than four months."

"I feel better, sleep better and am better every way. I now drink nothing but Postum, except a touch of coffee, and as I am seventy years of age all my friends think the improvement quite remarkable."

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. Life and 2c. packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. As temperature rises, it dissolves in a cup of hot water, and with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 10c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Directors Pass Resolution Calling for Winding Up of Business Affairs.

15,000 EMPLOYEES LOSE JOBS

Head of Concern Declares That Decision to Liquidate Has Resulted Largely From Reduction of Rates That Took Place

New York City.—The first knock-out experienced by big business as a result of the trust busting crusade took place when the directors of the United States Express Co. passed a resolution calling for the dissolution of their company.

Will Inform Shareholders. "Resolved, that pursuant to the power and authority conferred upon the board of directors of the United States Express Co. by its articles of association, the board unanimously declares that it is for the best interests of the company that the company be dissolved as soon as may be, but not awaiting the expiration of its term of existence, and that its business and affairs be settled up and its assets adjusted and distributed as may be done. The president is directed to inform the shareholders of said action of the board."

D. I. Riley, president of the United States Express Co., declared that the decision to liquidate had resulted largely from the reduction in rates which had taken place in the past. But for this he declared the company would have continued in business. Mr. Roberts said that no directors' action had been taken to proceed with the liquidation, which would be handled by himself and the board of directors.

Mr. Roberts, when told that there was a feeling that the company might not liquidate if it could revise its contracts with the railroads, despite the action taken, said:

Condition and Not Theory. "The United States Express Co. is in a condition and not a theory. Our action is largely based on the recent reduction in rates and not on the far distant future. The reduction in the parcel post had been competing as first inaugurated, and if the reduction in rates made Feb. 1, last, had not been taken, the company would have continued in business. As the parcel post was originally started and intended we could compete against it. The reduction in rates has been taken to proceed with the liquidation, which would be handled by himself and the board of directors.

Washington, D. C.—The house interstate and foreign commerce committee has just presented to the house its draft of the bill creating a federal trade commission to supervise the operations of interstate commerce corporations excepting railroads and common carriers.

The measure is redrafted by committee and presented to the house.

Would Supervise the Operations of the Interstate Commerce Corporations Excepting Railroads and Common Carriers.

Washington, D. C.—The house interstate and foreign commerce committee has just presented to the house its draft of the bill creating a federal trade commission to supervise the operations of interstate commerce corporations excepting railroads and common carriers.

Investigations shall be made also at the direction of the president, attorney general or either house of congress. Reports of such investigations shall be made to the president, together with recommendations where restraint of trade or violation of law has been ascertained for readjustment of business that the corporation may maintain its organization, management and conduct of business in accordance with the law.

Each corporation shall furnish the commission with information, statements and records of its organization, stockholders, financial condition, relation to other corporations, its business and its practices while engaged in commerce. Failure to comply with the law as to the making of reports subjects the corporation to a fine of $100 each day of default. False reports subject the offender to $5,000 fine and three years imprisonment. Should the commission discover in its investigations unfair competition or practices not in violation of law, it may report to the president to assist the latter in making recommendations to congress for remedial legislation. Courts hearing suits in restraint of trade may refer any question or proposed decree to the commission for investigation and report.

FRONT EDITOR SLAYS BY WOMAN

Gaston Calmette is Killed by Wife of French Minister of Finance.

BODY RIDDEN WITH BULLETS

Scribe Pays Penalty of Unwritten French Law Which Forbids Honorariums in Shabby Draggings Into Public Controversy.

Paris, France.—Gaston Calmette, the brilliant editor of Figaro, paid the penalty just after midnight of the unwritten French law which forbids that the honor of a woman shall be dragged into a public controversy. He was assassinated by a body riddled with bullets by Mme. Henriette Calliaux, wife of Joseph Calliaux, minister of finance, who had been the object of bitter personal attacks published in Figaro and signed by Calmette. He died later.

Victimates Her Honor. The Calliaux-Calmette feud had held the attention of Paris for a long time. The Calliaux family had been the finance minister of political corruption. The feud reached its climax recently when the Figaro published the Calliaux family had been the finance minister of political corruption. The feud reached its climax recently when the Figaro published the Calliaux family had been the finance minister of political corruption.

It was not to avenge the attack upon her husband, but to vindicate her own honor that Mme. Calliaux started out to shoot Calmette. With a Browning pistol concealed in her muff she went to the Figaro office at the busiest time of the evening and set up her card to Calmette.

Paul Bourget, the famous novelist and academician, was with the editor when her card was received. Calmette was not at home when he learned the identity of his caller.

Shot Five Times. "Do not see her," M. Bourget advised. "This is a woman," Calmette replied. "I must receive her."

Bourget thereupon wished his friend good night and withdrew. As he left the door Calmette saw a woman who seemed perfectly calm and showed no evidence of the mission upon which she was bent.

After entering the room Mme. Calliaux raised her arm and fired five shots at a distance of six paces. Calmette fell without a word and the woman disappeared apparently lifeless. After the fifth shot the attendants seized the woman, who retained perfect self-possession.

"Den touch me, I'm a woman," she said. Several members of the Figaro staff rushed into the room. As they raised the wounded man he murmured: "I only did my duty. I have no personal malice."

They were summoned, but as they rushed into the building Mme. Calliaux walked calmly out to meet them. She surrendered.

MASCOT OF ROAD IS VICTIM OF OWN DETERMINATION TO RIDE ON TRAIN. West Chester, Pa.—"Bob," the thoroughbred bulldog mascot of this division of the Pennsylvania railroad, well known for some years, is dead, a victim of his own determination to ride on passenger trains.

He was killed by a train at Westmont, and his taking off spreads genuine grief among the members of the "No-more-Bob" edict.

"Bob" disobeyed the new regulation of which he had been warned frequently. He was to ride no more on passenger trains, because he persisted in disobeying the order to confine his presence to baggage cars. Frequently in his trips alone to New York, Washington or Harrisburg.

"Bob" is now dead, and his personal friends in every car, had mandered mostly into coaches and Pullmans, where his most indignant detractors were to be seen. Hence the "No-more-Bob" edict.

When "Bob," as per orders, was put to "go home," he refused. Flashing to climb back up the steps of a moving car he was thrown under the wheels and fatally hurt. Brought to the hospital, he was found to be past human aid, "Bob" died. He was buried here with cash clipped in by conductors, brakemen and others.

Pirates Take $30,000. Hong Kong, China.—Pirates boarded the "Siam" steamer, a British steamship, off the coast of the value of $30,000, after overpowering, binding and gagging the crew. The steamer was carrying 200 passengers, and as she was lying outside the armed desperadoes sprang overboard and fled. The steamer was then taken to the harbor and the crew was freed. The interior of the vessel was badly damaged by the hand-to-hand fighting.

PLANNED REVOLUTION AGAINST UNCLE SAM

ARMY OF 500,000 INTENDED TO SEIZE FEDERAL ARSENAL AND TAKE WASHINGTON.

"Gen." Charles Kelley's Band of 1800 Was Part of General Movement, According to Report Made by Gen. Forbes.

Sacramento, Cal.—An army of 500,000 men planned to commandeer every railroad running out of Chicago, move on to Rock Island, Ill., seize the federal arsenal there and equip themselves for a revolution against the government, according to a report made to the war department in Washington by Gen. Forbes of the National Guard of California.

The Charles Kelley's army of 1,800, just dispersed in Yolo county, across the river from here, was part of the general movement to meet in Chicago, the report says. After arming themselves at Rock Island, the army of a half million planned to seize all railroads running eastward and descend at once on Washington. The federal government would be at the mercy of the invaders.

The plan was then to spread a nationwide revolution against employers of labor, depose all civil and military authorities and install the army's leaders as supreme.

The California army was to have been only the first of many to converge at Chicago for the seizure of the Rock Island arsenal.

Lieut. Franklin Grimes of a Sacramento company of the state guard, who joined "Gen. Kelley's army" dispersed in the industrial Worker of the World, and gained the confidence of the "general" and his lieutenants. Lieut. Grimes learned every detail of the alleged plot and reported it in full to Gen. Forbes, who in turn informed the war department at Washington.

CARMODY REPORTS ON EXPENSES INCURRED BY THE STATE IN PURSUING THAW.

Albany, N. Y.—Attorney General Carmody went to the legislature Tuesday to disclose the amount on the expenses incurred by the state in pursuing Harry Thaw since his escape from Mattawan.

The amount is $43,615, of which $25,000 is Jerome's fee, plus $1,250 for his expenses. Large sums went to Canadian lawyers, as follows: T. C. Casgrain, Montreal, $1,000; Hector Verret, Coquit, $1,500; Jacob Nicol, Sherbrooke, $200; and Jacobs, Hall, Montreal, $200.

Bernard Jacobs of Lancaster, N. H., got $500 counsel fees. John Langon, a detective of New York, charged $1,450. In his report the attorney general gave a full history of the proceedings which now rest on a habeas corpus writ before Judge Aldrich in the federal court at Concord, N. H.

Administration's Peril. In their own actions way the pupils in the grade school of the Yont saw watching history in the making. In one of the schools where a large number of foreign-born children attend the teacher was asked by a little fellow what she thought of the administration's scheme to apply the literacy test to immigrants. The teacher merely explained what the literacy test meant, thinking that was what the youngster wanted. When she finished a little while he said: "The administration had better watch out or the black hand will get him."

SPLIT ON CIVIL SERVICE LAW

JUDGE DILLON'S OPINION

Attorney General Says Law Not to Be Stretched to Cover Individuals or Press Bureau.

(By Donny Dumovan.)

Columbus, O.—Drawing its way through the mazes and uncertainties of the civil service law, which has been in effect less than three months, and whose full provisions there has been no judicial definition, the Franklin county grand jury probe struck a disagreement between Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Turner and Attorney General Timothy S. Hogan. This brought about a perusal interpretation of the law's provisions by Common Pleas Judge E. B. Dillon, Republican nominee for governor in 1912, who said that the substance of Section 25 of the act of Ohio legislature passed April 28, 1912, is that "any officer or employe in the classified service of the state, the counties, the cities and city school districts thereof, who shall directly or indirectly receive by letter, solicit or receive or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political party or for any candidate for public office, or for any candidate for public office, etc."

Wanted First Grade School. Over-zealousness to put their high school in the first grade class has placed members of the school board of Huntington township, Gallia county, in deep waters of trouble, and as a result a bank is holding the bag for $223.49 and the school board members are required to pay the same.

Judge Wanamaker Dissents. A vehement protest was voiced by Judge R. M. Wanamaker in dissenting from the judgment of the county court in which it reversed Mahoning county courts in denying probation to John J. Danahy, a 21-year-old boy, who had been arrested on charges of burglary and larceny.

Example of Honor Methods. "Honor" methods employed by Warden Thomas in dealing with prisoners of the Ohio penitentiary were further advanced, when Al Fellows, a prisoner, was permitted to leave this institution without having secured a guard or official, to visit his 95-year-old father, who is lying at the point of death at his home in Gallon.

No Wagon Sales of Beer. In reply to an inquiry from A. J. Kennel, Secretary of the Cuyahoga County Liquor License Board, Secretary R. S. Hayes, of the state board, wrote that salesmen can not sell any legal peddle beer from a wagon.

Deficit is Reported. The Merchants and Miners Private bank, as reported by the State Superintendent of Banks Lathrop, has a deficit of $14,000 reported by State Bank Examiner J. A. Horgan and John J. John. The owners of the bank turned their books over to the State Examiners and agreed to the liquidation. The bank is closed.

"Honor" Certificate Revoked. Acting under authority of a new law, the State Board of Charities has revoked the certificate of the Perry County Children's Home, granted some months ago. The certificate was granted as a result of what Secretary R. H. Shaffer termed a "chronic state of insubordination." The home can not receive children and the children are to be placed in other homes.

Unpaid Bills For Rentals. W. A. Marker, Secretary of the State Board of Public Works certified to State Auditor Donahy bills aggregating $24,000 for water and land rentals to various corporations and individuals who use the water of the Miami and Ohio and the Miami and Erie Canals, Indian Park Lake and the Lake Erie Canal, adjacent land, which is the property of the state.

The names of O. C. Barber, of Barberton, Ohio, a millionaire match manufacturer, appears on the list of alleged delinquents. The state alleges he owes money in connection with the erection of an aqueduct in Wolf Creek, near Barberton. The Public Works Department declares that Mr. Barber and a company agreed to furnish $500 each toward the building of the aqueduct if the state would furnish the remainder of the necessary amount. State officials say that the state built the aqueduct and that the company fulfilled its part of the agreement, but that Mr. Barber has refused to pay his share.

State Aids in Preventing. Introduction of dangerous contagious and pest diseases in the state. The State Agricultural Commission called upon railroads, express companies and steamship companies to give notice of all shipments of nursery stock consigned in Ohio. Upon receipt of this notice, if the commission thinks it necessary, it will send its inspectors to examine the stock to determine whether it is free from insects and disease. The shipments from the New England States, where the brown-tail moth thrives, will be watched closely. It is said to be one of the worst foes of plant life extant. The commission anticipates the introduction of a law to arrange for exhibits at county fairs has decided that each division of the commission shall have a separate exhibit of the products of the large exhibit for all the divisions. The exhibit will be sent to the fairs upon application. The committee will make the assignment of exhibits.

Belmontaine, O.—Two officers were wounded, one of them seriously, and an aged recluse was killed in a tragedy enacted in a woods between Hugarville and the Lewisburg road, near Logan county, on the morning of Samuel Godwin, 62 years of age, who lived in a house built on dead, was the central scene. Godwin is dead, his body divided by a bullet from the gun of a farmer's posse formed after Godwin had shot the sheriff. Sheriff Robert Cook, of Logan county, perhaps fatally injured as the result of his attempt to arrest Godwin. Police Sgt. Willis Polley, of Belmontaine, has some scattering buckshot in his neck fired from Godwin's arsenal. His condition is not serious.

FAVOR DIVORCE INVESTIGATION. Cincinnati, O.—Central W. C. T. U. endorsed the movement to have a woman investigator of divorces appointed, in the hope of reducing the number of divorces in this city. The president, said that the investigator could look up details of every uncompleted case, and if the cause for separation is "trivial" very many more homes could be saved. Mrs. White said that many cases of juvenile delinquency are from homes where the parents are separated or divorced, and for the interests of the children an investigator could work to good advantage.

FIGHT FLOOD PREVENTION PLAN. Belmontaine, O.—At a meeting of protest steps were taken by farmers and others to fight the flood prevention plan as outlined in the conservancy act for the Miami valley. The Logan county commissioners called the meeting and representatives of Shelby, Miami and Green counties were present. The proposed dam at Port Jefferson, Shelby county, is objected to by Logan county people. It being said that if the water ever reached the height that it did a year ago, the towns of Quincy and DeGraff would be inundated. The county Resolutions scoring the act were passed.

PASSES CENTURY MARK. Xenia, O.—Mrs. Violet Hatch, of Xenia, Ohio, probably the oldest woman in Ohio, died here at the age of 103 years. She was in good health until a few days before her death. She was able to do most difficult labor work without the aid of glasses. Last summer she took many automobile rides and expressed a desire to take a ride in an airship. She came overland by horseback from Virginia when a girl of 15.

ENGINEERS GO ON STRIKE. Wellston, O.—Stationary engineers employed in hotels at the iron manufacturing plants at Jackson walked out when their demand for an increase of 15 cents per hour was not granted. The engineers employed at the light plants have not as yet joined the strikers.

TOWNSHIP VOTES DRY. Newark, O.—Pallburg township, Licking county, voted dry under the Deal law by 15 majority. One saloon at Pallburg was voted to be closed. Utsa, this county, a village of 2,000, voted March 7.

APPEAL TO PEOPLE

OHIO TAX LEAGUE WILL INVOKE INITIATIVE TO CHANGE TAX LAWS.

Advocates Seek Exemption of Public Bonds, Smaller Assessment on Stock and Mortgages. Western Newspaper Union News Service. Columbus, O.—With the statement that hidden wealth can be fully reached for taxation only by levying different rates of interest on different classes of property, officers of the Ohio Tax League announced it is about to circulate a petition for submitting to a vote of the people a proposed amendment to the constitution authorizing the legislature to classify property for taxing purposes and also to exempt from taxation public bonds "and such other property as the legislature may deem best for the public good."

TRAGEDY IN WOODS

Aged Recluse Resents Arrest on Insanity Charge With Buckshot.

Belmontaine, O.—Two officers were wounded, one of them seriously, and an aged recluse was killed in a tragedy enacted in a woods between Hugarville and the Lewisburg road, near Logan county, on the morning of Samuel Godwin, 62 years of age, who lived in a house built on dead, was the central scene. Godwin is dead, his body divided by a bullet from the gun of a farmer's posse formed after Godwin had shot the sheriff. Sheriff Robert Cook, of Logan county, perhaps fatally injured as the result of his attempt to arrest Godwin. Police Sgt. Willis Polley, of Belmontaine, has some scattering buckshot in his neck fired from Godwin's arsenal. His condition is not serious.

FAVOR DIVORCE INVESTIGATION.

Cincinnati, O.—Central W. C. T. U. endorsed the movement to have a woman investigator of divorces appointed, in the hope of reducing the number of divorces in this city. The president, said that the investigator could look up details of every uncompleted case, and if the cause for separation is "trivial" very many more homes could be saved. Mrs. White said that many cases of juvenile delinquency are from homes where the parents are separated or divorced, and for the interests of the children an investigator could work to good advantage.

FIGHT FLOOD PREVENTION PLAN.

Belmontaine, O.—At a meeting of protest steps were taken by farmers and others to fight the flood prevention plan as outlined in the conservancy act for the Miami valley. The Logan county commissioners called the meeting and representatives of Shelby, Miami and Green counties were present. The proposed dam at Port Jefferson, Shelby county, is objected to by Logan county people. It being said that if the water ever reached the height that it did a year ago, the towns of Quincy and DeGraff would be inundated. The county Resolutions scoring the act were passed.

PASSES CENTURY MARK.

Xenia, O.—Mrs. Violet Hatch, of Xenia, Ohio, probably the oldest woman in Ohio, died here at the age of 103 years. She was in good health until a few days before her death. She was able to do most difficult labor work without the aid of glasses. Last summer she took many automobile rides and expressed a desire to take a ride in an airship. She came overland by horseback from Virginia when a girl of 15.

ENGINEERS GO ON STRIKE.

Wellston, O.—Stationary engineers employed in hotels at the iron manufacturing plants at Jackson walked out when their demand for an increase of 15 cents per hour was not granted. The engineers employed at the light plants have not as yet joined the strikers.

TOWNSHIP VOTES DRY.

Newark, O.—Pallburg township, Licking county, voted dry under the Deal law by 15 majority. One saloon at Pallburg was voted to be closed. Utsa, this county, a village of 2,000, voted March 7.

TEACH "SAFETY FIRST."

Columbus, O.—Schools for the teaching of the "safety first" motto are to be held in the schools for the purpose of teaching the children the importance of safety. The schools will be held in the schools for the purpose of teaching the children the importance of safety.

ADDED EVENTS OF FAIR

Purses Worth While as Encouragement To Breeding Interests of State.

Columbus, O.—Gov. Cox and the state agricultural commission have been considering for some time a change in the speed program at the Ohio State fair, which would bring about more "encouragement" for the breeding interests in the state. At a meeting held in the governor's office, Saturday, President Sandley, of the agricultural commission, W. H. Goeschler, Hartford, Conn., secretary of the National Trotting association; H. J. Kline, Cleveland, Mr. W. A. Barber, Springfield; and J. W. Fleming, secretary of the agricultural commission, it was agreed to add two distinct features to the racing events. First: The Governor's stake for three-year-old trotters owned by residents of Ohio at the time the nomination for the event is made. The purse will be $1,500. Two heats out of three, and a cup to be known as the Governor's cup will be presented by Gov. Cox.

SUFFRAGISTS HOLD CONFERENCE

Dayton, O.—Mrs. Harriette Taylor Upton, president of the Ohio Woman Suffrage association, attended the meeting of the executive committee. Many of the most prominent suffragists of the state were present. The meeting was held Friday afternoon at the Algonquin hotel. Miss Mary McDowell and many other noted supporters of equal franchise spoke in behalf of the movement. Mrs. Upton is a reformer and has been active in the cause of equal franchise since 1870 while preparing an architecture tour.

D. T. & I. SHOPS MAY MOVE

Lima, O.—It is practically agreed that Lima is to be one of the principal division points on the Detroit, Toledo & Erie line. The company has decided. Plans were laid whereby it is believed the shops now located at Jackson can be secured for this city. Jackson is in the southern terminus of the road, while Lima is central between Detroit and fronton, the terminals. With this prospect in view the petition for the location of the shops on East Market street has been withdrawn.

WILL BUILD MODEL HOMES

Cincinnati, O.—A co-operative store, an assembly room and a kindergarten will be the novel features of a new building the company build a model homes to be built by the Cincinnati Association for Improved Housing, according to an announcement made by J. G. Schmidlap at a meeting of the Social Service club of the Y. M. C. A. The homes will be built on Walnut Hill.

WAGE CUT RESULTS IN STRIKE

Marion, O.—Following the cut in the wage scale of the section men of the Erie and the Ohio and Erie street between Marion and Dayton only three men stayed on the job, and nearly all the forces east and west of Marion are on strike. The strike can be held on $112.4 a day. A storm would mean a big tie-up on the Erie railroad.

HALF-MILLION FARMERS ATTEND

Columbus, O.—Nearly 500,000 persons, or one of every three residing on farms in the state, attended farmers' institute meetings held this winter under the direction of the state agricultural commission. President A. P. Sandley, of the commission, said, "About 1,000 institutes were held. The institute session is closed in all except a few counties of the state."

TAKE UP CARE OF INSANE

Dayton, O.—A state-wide movement, demanded by the legislature in the plans of treatment of the insane was launched here by about 40 social workers, led by Dr. Gertrude Pelker, Dr. Martin Greberhard and Mrs. C. N. Christman.

WANT TO FOREST IT

Dayton, O.—Owing to objections on the part of citizens, the proposed observance of the first anniversary of Dayton's tragic flood of March 26, 1913, will not be held. The Greater Dayton association had planned a big celebration.

TO SMALL BOWS BROW

St. Clairsville, O.—Judge Lynch held that a circus allowing wild animals to be placed in the hands of children for damages that may result through frightening horses. Attorneys for the Barrows circus held that such a judgment would be a violation of the law. A horse of the Bellaire Livestock Co. became frightened at a camp of the Barrows circus and killed the horse when a child was caught in the trap.

MME. MERRI'S ADVICE

ENJOYABLE GAME FOR WINTER EVENING IS "UP JENKINS."

Idea Originated in the East, and is Sure to Afford Lots of Fun—Various Flowers of the State—Given From Memory.

Have you ever played the exciting game of "Up Jenkins"? If not try it; I was initiated last summer while at an eastern resort, and even the quite grown up lads and lassies enjoyed a round at it and the hotel living room used to ring with merry laughter. I hope I can make the rules clear so you can all understand, and the faster it is played the more fun it is. The players are divided into sides with front and back seats at a table on opposite sides of a table. A toss up is made for the first start, and it is the place of the leader of the "in" team to say what shall be done by the "out" team, who have a coin to quarter (best) which means they must endeavor to keep the coin.

The players on the "out" side pass the coin from one to another beneath the table, leaving it hidden with one of the members.

The player on the "in" side calls "Up Jenkins" and raises his hands over his head, the opponents follow his example with their hands closed. He says "Down Jenkins" and brings his own hands down on the table. The "out" team follow his example and now the leader must say under which hand the quarters is concealed. "Grin" which means off the table, he touches each hand which he thinks is empty and leaves the hand which he suspects has the coin until the last. If he is mistaken and the coin is beneath one of the hands he has ordered "off," his side loses and the other team is "in." If he is right the quarters should happen to have the quarter, the game is won and another turn is taken. The "in" team say "Up Jenkins" and the "out" team say "Down Jenkins" and the "in" team say "Up Jenkins" while his hands remain on the table and the hands of his team go up the opposite table to the order, nor if all hands are held up and he calls "Down Jenkins" without his suiting the action to the command. The leader's example is followed, not his words, and here is where many players get caught. For all mistakes made by the "out" side a forfeit is paid. If the "in" team's hands are brought down on the table hard to another the ring of the coin.

States and Their Flowers.

Some time ago I had a request for the state flowers and did not have the list at hand. I am very glad to publish it now. I find in some cases the state legislature has adopted the chosen flowers, and in some instances they have been selected by a vote of the school children.

I do not give this as an authoritative list, but print it all as it came to me: Alabama, golden rod; Alaska, forget-me-not; Arkansas, apple blossom; California, golden poppy; Colorado, columbine; Connecticut, mountain laurel; Delaware, peach blossom; Florida, orange blossom; Idaho, sryngia; Illinois, violet; Iowa, golden rod; Kansas, sunflower; Kentucky, golden rod; Louisiana, magnolia; Maine, pine cone and tassel; Maryland, black-eyed Susan; Michigan, apple blossom; Minnesota, meadow; Mississippi, magnolia; Missouri, white rose; Montana, bitter root; Nebraska, golden rod; New Mexico, cactus; New York, golden rod; North Dakota, prairie rose; Ohio, scarlet carnation; Oklahoma, mistletoe; Oregon, Oregon grape; Rhode Island, violet; South Dakota, anemone; Texas, blue bonnet; Vermont, red clover; Washington, rhododendron; West Virginia, rhododendron; Wisconsin, violet; Wyoming, gentian.

New Photograph Frames.

Small photographs, frames made of nickel or brass are arranged to hang on two small uprights in the fashion of little easels, so that they can be tilted to any angle.

CLOTH AND SILK COATEES

Little Garments Have Returned to Favor in More Alluring Forms Than Ever Before.

Coatees are with us again and in a far more alluring form than when they first came out a few seasons ago. They extended below the waist line, but nowadays they scarcely cover it at back and sides and put at all the front. In fact, they are glorified expressions of the demure Eton jacket, turned up in one of the new rough-surfaced fabrics of a vivid shade like sapphire blue, carmine red, or hazel green, and lined with hand-embroidered about silk gauze, resembling brocade materials. Plaided and Roman striped soft silk coatees are being made up into adorable little garments lined with a solid bright color and to go with these more apologies for wraps there are bell-veers broad enough to extend well below the waist line and far enough above it to give an empire effect to the transparent blouse worn beneath the jacket. "This belt in plain-colored corded silk is severely tailored, appears to close in front (it actually hooks at the back) with a double row of tiny silk-covered buttons, and at either side has a small lapped waist pocket.

Both the cloth and the silk coatees are worn with white serge frocks at the southern resorts, while those of plaided or striped pattern are also intended for use with black satin house skirts.

PRETTY SPRING HAT

Model of English straw trimmed with large roses.

SET OFF THE PEACHY SKIN

Excellent Reason Why Black Velvet Patches on the Skin Have Met With Such Favor.

Black velvet patches are more favored than are the older-fashioned patches in court-plaster, because they are so much more becoming to their wearer. Their soft denseness makes a sharp contrast on a peachy skin—and in these days every fashionable woman's cheek is peachy, either naturally or artificially. Black velvet patches are round, diamond or crescent shaped and so tiny that only with the utmost difficulty are they noticed while being put on. But once attached to the cheek, the chin or the brow, they stick tightly for they are mullage-backed. The true coquette will not wear a patch that does not patch those days with her evening gown and sometimes she places one of them upon her shoulders or her back, depending on which of these parts of her anatomy is the most beautiful.

TAKE UP ORIENTAL TURBAN

Latest Fashion of Fashion Has Met With Favor—Easily Made From Strip of Tinsel Net.

Back to the turban has gone Dame Fashion. Not to the well-known head-covering of Madame de Stael and her train of followers, but to the turban of the Orient, than which nothing is easier to make. It is merely a wide strip of tinsel net, folded lengthwise and then cut in two to separate, so that it may be folded neatly in banded manner about the forehead to expose a strip and very fast head dress.

To go with the turbanlike coiffure, consisting of a long and thick strand of unwaxed hair, brushed about the crown of the head, and which is brought close to the forehead, there are some charming fairy hairpins in brilliant settings of gold or silver. Their tops are shaped like plain oval, horse-shoe or half-moons and they keep the coiffure firmly in place. They are also most effective when used on oriental turbans in white gauze.

Black Ornaments.

Black ornaments are becoming more and more the fad. The fashionable girls are out to be seen of having a greater vogue with every week that goes by. Black velvet bracelets, clasped with rhinestone monograms, are worn in sleek abundance. The wrist. Huge, black-velvet neckties are pinned against afternoon frocks and the latest Paris ornament is a black-velvet scarf, which may be worn in a variety of ways. The latest of the scarf material is a white tulle scarf at the best.

THIS SET THE LATEST

In turquoise matrix for daytime wear.

Colors From Argentina.

Unless all signs for the coming spring is to be a cheerful season if feminine garb can make it so for the newest colors are exceptionally vivid, up to say glaring. The Argentine daisy is responsible for a shade of yellow, enriched and deepened with tones of red, called the "Argentine daisy." It is a queer tone of pink, some what resembling "Nell rose" which shades into orange, blends beautifully with black or brown and is characteristic of the new blue. The new blues are exceedingly intense, the greens are vivid as tropical foliage and the scarlets are of a rich, glowing hue. The new colors have a yellow-red undertone which gives them a peculiar brilliancy.

James B. Forsythe, a young man about eighteen years of age, residing on a farm about a mile north of Rome, was fatally scalded when he fell into a pan of boiling sugar water about 10 o'clock Tuesday evening. It seems that the young man was engaged in adjusting a ventilator near one of the large pans in which the sap was boiling, and into which he fell. His brother was with him at the time of the accident and rendered what assistance he could until doctors arrived. He lingered until the following day, when death ended his suffering.
One of the pleasing social events of the season was the dance and card party given by the local order of Eastern Stars at Hamilton's Hall, St. Patrick's Day evening, the attendance being upward of 200, guests being present from Shelby, Chicago Junction and Shiloh. The hall was very beautifully decorated in the national colors, while green was very much in evidence, in honor of the Patron Saint. A large banner across the front of the stage bearing the letters O. E. S. in the order's colors was very tasty, and added materially to the decorations. Stewart's orchestra of Norwalk furnished delightful music for those who desired to dance, while the spacious K. of P. hall was thrown open for those who desired to indulge in cards. Hot coffee and sandwiches were served to each of the guests, the whole combining to make the evening thoroughly enjoyed by the large company in attendance.

SYNOPSIS.

Rudolph Van Vechten, a young man of leisure, is astonished to see a man enter his house...

BOOK II.

"I see that you are," he reported carelessly, "and I am sorry that you have to intrude. But you always are engaged, you know, and it would be foolish to wait. I'll hurry up and get through."

"The forceful regard rested pointedly upon the young man's monogrammed cigarette. Unmoved, Rudolph flipped it away."

"Fardon me," he said, "I forgot your aversion. I came to see you about Paige."

"Perhaps ten seconds it was that Mr. Van Vechten considered. Then—

"Can you take dinner with me?"

"Home?"

"Yes."

"This was an invitation which any one of New York's industrial captains would have coveted. Nevertheless Rudolph hesitated. Mentally he ran over his engagements. He knew there was nothing of sufficient importance to interfere with an acceptance, but he did not fancy dining tête-à-tête with his uncle in the gloomy Fifth Avenue palace—unattended, save by the latter and an army of servants, with a conspicuous gentile that took in the two men (though he did not so much as glance at them), he said:

"Can't you check it?"

"Check it!" echoed Mr. Van Vechten, blankly.

"Yes. Postpone for a minute or two whatever you are doing now. It's too beastly hot to go anywhere."

"The Man of Iron simply glared. What words could affect such subtly unconscious checks? He had two strangers, who knew that they were not the objects of that look, eat with bated breath; but Rudolph seemed scarcely aware of the situation."

Rudolph's request, however, from his standpoint was not impudent. His uncle was under more of an obligation to concern himself with Paige's career than he was, for Paige was the older man's niece and ward. Young Van Vechten recognized the fact that the younger Van Vechten was a man of multitudinous affairs; he was willing to make any reasonable sacrifice to accommodate him; but when it came to throwing over all his own plans and losing here in the city without definite information concerning his cousin's intentions, he was not prepared to had a right to protest when and where he chose. If he only knew upon what basis the intended sailing, it would be an easy matter to run down two doors for a day, meet her and Mrs. Devereaux and carry the two away with him. It was the uncertainty that rendered him wary and impatient."

Gradually Mr. Van Vechten's brain bridged the wide gap between matters considered and those immediately affecting one himself, and he recognized the justice of his nephew's attitude. The thin, inflexible lips even shadowed a smile at the irony that had cast about for a trite phrase when an alert, assured young man accented him.

"May I have a few words with you, Mr. Van Vechten?" the stranger politely inquired, extending his card. Van Vechten accepted it and experienced a twinge of apprehension as he read:

T. JENKINS Representing The New York Sphere

Nevertheless he presented a smiling visage to the reporter.

"I can't imagine what you should want with me," he returned pleasantly enough. "If you think because you saw me come from my uncle's office that I can tip you off to anything, why, I know less about him and his affairs than do those truck-brokers yonder."

While speaking he had signaled a cab, which now drew up at the curb. It offered a means of escape that he was not loath to avail himself of.

But the reporter's next words stayed him.

"It is not about your uncle or his affairs," said Jenkins quickly. "I don't want to detain you, Mr. Van Vechten, but I would appreciate it very much if you would give me some information about Miss Carew."

Van Vechten could not restrain a start of surprise at the unexpectedness of the overture, which, he knew, did not escape the other's keen eyes; but he promptly recovered himself and considered briefly. Then:

"Why do you wish to know why you come to me for this information?" he asked, apparently unmoved, but profoundly curious—"why you are so much interested in Miss Carew?"

"Why, this way," returned the alert young man, but paused and

cast about for a trite phrase when an alert, assured young man accented him.

"This intelligence alarmed his recipient, but he did not show it. He merely suggested, suavely: "London, as you are aware, is not all England. In fact, it is a part of England at all times to anybody seeking quiet and rest."

"True enough. But it is the central information bureau when it comes to glowing news about anybody that is anybody, wherever they may be in the United Kingdom—or out of it, for that matter."

Mr. Jenkins' laugh was of a nature to disarm resentment and thrive confidence.

"Come, Mr. Van Vechten," he continued brightly, "you can be franker with me than with those newspaper astronomers results—can't you? You will if you pause to consider my point of view. Here it is:

"Miss Carew's social position is the very highest; she is a distinguished figure not only in New York, but her beauty and charm and talent—her social position—have made her a sought after all over the country. For a week or more cablegrams were fired in to the papers dilating upon her brilliant performance as a courtesan. Next it is announced that she is to come home shortly—an event even for New York. And then—dead silence."

"The help of our God-given crown? You please I sincerely deny; I look for some princely prod and high to share your splendor and renown."

Her palms against her brow were pressed. She listened for the prince's word. And deep within her beating breast hid the thunders of her own mind.

Her eyes were wet with tears of shame. But she turned and to get her name.

"The proud prince knelt before the king. A. and a. trembling, heard his stern decree. The monarch, stern and towering, A hand stretched over his scion's head. He loudly spoke in accents of Of those 'divinely given' thrones."

"The door she waited whom. The prince had returned. As one who had loved to her doom. She heard the regal pair at the foot of the throne."

"I had a horse slain by accident by pulling, and he was so lame he could not carry four all. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and put it on four times. In three days he started to leave, now all and made a thirty mile trip before he was better."

"I have used Sloan's Liniment on a first time for my horse. It cured him. I had a horse that was lame in the third bone I've cured. Have recommended it to my neighbors. I had a horse that was lame in the third bone I've cured. Have recommended it to my neighbors. I had a horse that was lame in the third bone I've cured. Have recommended it to my neighbors."

"Sloan's Liniment is a quick, safe remedy for pointers, rump, cancer and bunions. Try it."

The opportunity of securing fine homesteads of 160 acres each, and the low priced land of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will soon have passed.

Canada offers a hearty welcome to the Settler, to the man with a family looking for a home; to the farmer, to the man who wishes to wish to live under better conditions.

Canada's grain yields in 1913 is the best of any year. Canadian Cereals give cheap fodder for large herds; cost of raising and fattening for market is a trifling.

The sum realized for Beef, Butter, Milk and Cheese will pay fifty per cent on the investment.

Nevertheless he presented a smiling visage to the reporter.

"I can't imagine what you should want with me," he returned pleasantly enough. "If you think because you saw me come from my uncle's office that I can tip you off to anything, why, I know less about him and his affairs than do those truck-brokers yonder."

While speaking he had signaled a cab, which now drew up at the curb. It offered a means of escape that he was not loath to avail himself of.

But the reporter's next words stayed him.

"It is not about your uncle or his affairs," said Jenkins quickly. "I don't want to detain you, Mr. Van Vechten, but I would appreciate it very much if you would give me some information about Miss Carew."

Van Vechten could not restrain a start of surprise at the unexpectedness of the overture, which, he knew, did not escape the other's keen eyes; but he promptly recovered himself and considered briefly. Then:

"Why do you wish to know why you come to me for this information?" he asked, apparently unmoved, but profoundly curious—"why you are so much interested in Miss Carew?"

"Why, this way," returned the alert young man, but paused and
