The city council at its special meeting Tuesday evening to consider the report made by the Logan Natural Gas Co., after considerable discussion by members of the council and several citizens, finally adopted the following resolution: Resolved, That for the next ten years: For the first five years 35c, after which it will jump to 38c, with 3 per cent decrease in either case if paid out to be for the 12th of each month, with a minimum rate of 2,000 feet.

On next Friday evening, April 24, the Young People's Choir of the Lutheran church will give Gaul's sacred cantata, "Ruth." For several weeks the young people have been practicing this cantata, which will be one of the best things ever given in Plymouth by local talent. The words of the beautiful Bible story of Ruth are set to music that clearly portrays the spirit of the theme. Mrs. J. M. Elder, soprano, of Chicago, O., who is very favorably known here, has been engaged to sing the title role of "Ruth," while Miss Ruby Clark will sing the part of Orpah, Mrs. E. E. Weatherly, that of Naomi and Mr. R. H. Wilson, Boaz. Prof. A. E. Willett will assist the young people in the choruses. Mr. J. A. Root, organist, and Mr. E. B. R. C. Price, the Marion eyesight specialist, will visit Plymouth next Monday, April 20th, fully equipped to examine eyes. Dr. Price's friends will be pleased to learn that he has met with no small measure of success in Marion and has greatly increased his stock and equipment, and added a complete lens grinding plant where he grinds all his own spectacle and eye-glass lenses. And, owing to his Marion practice requiring so much attention he will not make as frequent visits to Plymouth as in the past but will spend only one day each month here. Announcements of his dates will be made through the Advertiser. Dr. Price's work is too well known to require comment, he having fitted several thousand eyes during the eight years he was located here, and those in need of glasses should avail themselves of this opportunity to have their eyes examined, next Monday, April 20th, at his father's Jewelry Store.
The water situation here remains about the same as it has for some time past and what the ultimate outcome will be is hard to determine, but that we must have a larger and better supply is an assured fact. A gentleman was here Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and put a proposition up to the council that is evidently the most logical of all, and if carried out would result in a great saving to the town. His proposition was to sink wells and guarantee them to have a pumping capacity of 240,000 gallons per day for the sum of $20,000. This would relieve the city of any chance, do away with the construction of a filtration plant, which at the very lowest could not be constructed for less than $10,000 and at the same time give us an abundance of water both for sprinkling and domestic purposes. The matter is to be further considered and as the gentleman is willing to take a chance, as he has been up against similar propositions in other near by towns, we would think this to be the logical termination of our water question, provided it would meet with the approval of the state board of health.

DRESSING YOUNG GIRL

HER CLOTHES ALWAYS SOME-THING OF A PROBLEM.

Wise Mother, at This Stage of Her Daughter's Life, Will Provide Pretty Things and Teach Her to Take Care of Them.

There is no period in a girl's life when it is so difficult to dress her successfully as the ages of fourteen and seventeen, and though the problem of finding suitable clothes is one that faces all mothers of growing daughters, one seldom finds any very wide selection of ready-made garments suited to this purpose.

In choosing frocks, a great deal depends on the girl herself; for it is no good buying dainty attire for the young person who considers the cure of gowns and has a perfectly unnecessary waste of time. Miss Straton, with opinions of this kind, needs a certain amount of training before any respect for her garments can be instilled effectively, and though the taste of girls today are as anxious to be as well turned out as their grown-up sisters, the tomboy accident still remains, and the difficulties of clothing her accordingly.

"I have often heard," said a mother recently, "that rough and serviceable materials, serge and hollands in dark colors, and such like, are all that should be used in a schoolgirl's outfit, but this, I think, is a great mistake. No girl will ever care to take her things and take a pride in her appearance if only supplied with garments of a workmanlike but ugly type. An occasional pretty gown, a becoming hat, soft solers, and light materials will, by their very charm, teach her better than a hundred wordy sermons the necessity for care where her possessions are concerned."

This being the case, it is wisest to exercise great care in choosing a girl's clothes, and what is more, she should be allowed to make her own suggestions and have her individual ideas carried out so far as they are compatible with good taste and common sense. Mothers who do this are laying the foundations of a practical knowledge in the details of dress and expenditure that will prove invaluable in after years.

LARGE TRAY ALWAYS BEST

Of Much More Importance Than the Table When One is Serving the Afternoon Tea.

The woman who lives in a small apartment finds the large tray and small table the best solution of her afternoon tea problem. When every inch of space counts in the appearance of a room, a daintily equipped tea table constantly in view rather "tableaux" up things—as the New England housekeeper would put it. But a generously roomy tea tray, accommodating teapot and cosy jugs for cream, sugar and hot water, several cups and saucers and plates of cake and sandwiches or the thin bread and butter which is so delicious at tea hour, may be carried in and set down on a cabinet, set, small folding table, or even the piano stool at a pinch.

If one does not possess a handsome hammered brass tea tray or one of the inlaid mahogany, a bamboo Japanese tray will answer very well. It should be furnished with a large teacloth and small napkins to match, of drawn-work or hand embroidered linen.

It is the daintiness of the tea service and the delicious character of the tea and cakes that makes most impression on a guest; the table really counts for little. Admirable for the small room are nested tables of mahogany. These are furnished with a large teacloth and small napkins to match, of drawn-work or hand embroidered linen.

SLEEVES FOR VARIOUS GOWNS

Not Much Latitude is Allowed, But Designers Have in Instances Varied Their Offerings.

Though the sleeves in modish gowns are so alike that they grow monotonous, the designers do depart occasionally from the stereotyped and vary their offerings. A group of sleeves for several different styles of gowns is shown in the illustration. The right is a sleeve designed for cotton dress, the middle one for the one in the upper

WITH DESIGN OF SPIDER WEB

Pretty Little Pincushion That is Something Just a Little Out of the Ordinary.

Novel ideas are difficult to make, but in our sketch we show something quite new in the shape of a quaint little cushion made to resemble a spider's web. It can be carried out in any size to suit different requirements; and in making it, in the first place a circular piece of stiff cardboard must be cut out. This card is well padded with cotton wool on the side which is to be the front, and the wool should be arranged so that it is much thicker in the center than at the sides. It is then covered with cream-colored satin, the material being stretched tightly over the wool and fastened on at the back of the card with a strong adhesive. The spider's web is worked upon the material with gold thread, and this should of course be done prior to covering the card. The web is finished off at the edge with a gold silk cord carried into three loops at the top, and by the center loop it can be suspended from a nail in the wall. To complete this very novel cushion one of those little paper Japanese spiders can be procured and tacked upon one side as suggested in the sketch.

Quaint little novelties always attract attention at a bazaar, and a number of these cushions made in different sizes will look very pretty on a stall and should command a ready sale.

This cushion could, of course, be made equally well and fast upon the dressing-table if preferred—Young Ladies' Journal.

BEAUTIFYING NECK AND ARMS

Method of Treatment That Will Keep Them White and Cool During the Entire Evening.

To make neck and arms look white and plump in evening dress under a strong light, first bathe them with a soothing lotion, wipe with cotton and powder freely, putting on a thick layer of powder. Do this as long before dressing as possible, and leave the powder on for as long as you can then the last thing wipe off the powder thoroughly with cotton, or leave just the merest trace of it if such is your habit.

So treated, the skin will keep white and cool through the evening. Do not use water or cream, as they are inclined at times to cause a greasy look. Wipe off the powder, and have the purposes should be used some hours before going out. A layer of cream chignon worn as a gulfine is good to wear freely for mere cleansing, and results under a strong light and which is the effect produced unless one's skin is very plump. Chignon gives the appearance of plumpness.

BOODIES ARE TIGHT

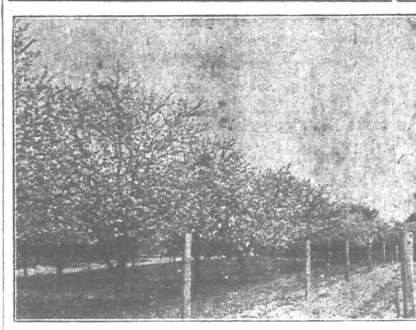

Bodices that are tight and buttoned in front are a feature of some of the new frocks. They are a sudden change from the shapeless, baggy bodices of the present, and perhaps for that very reason are likely to win certain interest and liking.

CORSET IS OF IMPORTANCE

Fashionable Outline Makes It Important That a Good Deal of Attention Be Accorded It.

Although waists are things of the past, let no one imagine that the corset is no longer a necessity, for in any way a negligible quantity. Far from it, it is a modern paradox that in order to attain the natural figure greater attention than ever must be paid to the corset. These wonderful nearly straight lines from the arm to the hips, or rather to the knees, for the knees are due more to the art of the corsetiere than to any dietary or exercise. The latest thing in corsets is very lightly boned, and has no bones at all over the hips. It is made in most instances of tricot, either in a cotton or silk mesh, and is extremely supple and comfortable to wear, fitting without a wrinkle. Their variety is infinite. There are special models for athletic wear, for riding and dancing, and this graceful come for wearing wear under draperies, and a more sturdy kind for general wear under millinery. With the coming fashion of the corset, it will be of the greatest importance, for so much of their gracefulness will depend on it.

USE ARSENATE OF LEAD AS INSECTICIDE

A Beautiful Apple Orchard in Bloom, Showing the Result of Spraying.

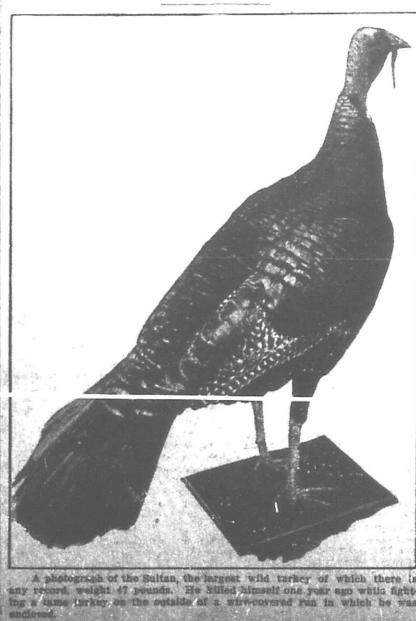

(By L. M. BENNINGTON) The great question among fruit growers everywhere is "Shall borers be replaced by the lime-sulphur as a summer spray?" Mr. Everett Wallace, the lime-sulphur expert who has conducted many interesting experiments along this line, announces that his observations indicate that heavy drenching is a common cause of injury to foliage. He says that most of the injury by the burning of apple foliage last summer following the application, just after the blossoms fell, was due to previous scale infection of the leaves. He has found that arsenate of lead is the only insecticide which may be used in the lime sulphur with safety. It not only decreases the burning, but actually increases the fungicidal value of the mixture by 50 per cent. Injury to both fruit and foliage by the lime sulphur is much less serious than that caused by bordeaux under the same conditions, and the addition of lime or the presence of sediment does not materially affect the burning qualities of the lime-sulphur one way or another. Another important point noted is that cultivated trees will withstand foliage injury much better than neglected orchards.

PRACTICAL HINTS FOR CHICKEN YARD IN EARLY SPRING

Poultry Will Not Prosper on Scanty Rations—Close Up All Drafts in the Henhouse. Should Be Transplanted in Tin Cans When 4 to 6 Inches Tall—Some Use Boxes.

You will not make anything by pinning the poultry down to scanty rations. Can't be done. Everything must have enough to eat that makes a profit for you. Remember that. Close up the drafts in the henhouse. The hen that sits in a draft of cold air all night is in no shape to do business the next day. Have you plenty of dust for the hens to rustle in? If not, you can use some finely sifted coal ashes. Not all of us can make a success of growing fancy stock. We may be too far from market or the centers of business. For as the production of eggs and poultry for table use is best. Wheat, as warm as the hens can comfortably eat it is the finest morning ration I know of. If you feed bran mash at all, let it be at night. Wipe off every egg that comes into the house. They not only look better and bring a better price by two or three cents a dozen, but they are more healthful to eat in stock. It does not take much to disturb hens. Keep out everything and every body that looks like an enemy. See to it that the doors are kept well closed yet awhile. It is not warm enough yet to let the chilly air in at night. Every farm garden should have its hotbeds.

PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

1413 E. Genesee Ave., Saginaw, Mich.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me of a very bad disease of the face without leaving a scar. Pimples broke out all over my face, red and itchy. They festered and came to a head. They itched and burned and caused me to scratch them and make sores. They said they were seed warts. At night I was restless from itching. When the barber would shave me my face would bleed terribly. Then scabs would form afterwards, then they would drop off and the so-called seed warts would come back again. They were on my face for about nine months and the trouble caused disfigurement while it lasted. "One day I read in the paper of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it was so much value to me that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment at the drug store. I used both according to directions. In about ten days my face began to heal up. My face is now clear of the warts and no scar is left." (Signed) LEROY C. O'Brien, May 12, 1913. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. SKIN BOOK. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment.
