ERUPTION DISFIGURED FACE

Lock Box 25, Maurice, Ia.—"In the spring of 1911, little daughter, age five years, had a breaking out on her lip and part of her cheek that we took for ringworm. It resembled a large ringworm, but it differed in that it was covered with water blisters that itched and burned terribly, made worse by her scratching it. Then a scab would break through and let out a watery substance. She was very cross and fretful while she had it and had very little rest at all. When the eruption was at its worst the teacher of the school sent her home and would not allow her to attend until the disfigurement of her face was gone.

Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic drug and which is poisonous.

Scientists have discovered that the female brain begins to lose weight at the age of thirty, but that the male brain does not deteriorate until the age of forty. Considering the small amount that some folks have to start with it is not surprising that the disappearing point before they are fifty.

If the average voter knew as much about the science of government and the records of the candidates for whom he votes as he does about the science of base ball and the batting averages of the ball players this would be a wonderful country indeed—and politics would be mightily renovated.

An entirely trustworthy citizen writes to assure us that with all the presumed killing off of roosters in this state recently the most of those that have been murdering sleep for him off in the stilly night and again at early dawn seem to have been spared as they continue their crowing at the old stand.

Over 500 men in the Ohio State university are at least partly working their way through the institution. In other words, 15 per cent of the total enrollment are doing a little or no financial backing. The same thing is, in a large measure, true of the other colleges of the state. It simply means that a college education is now in reach of every boy who wants it badly enough and has the requisite amount of spinal column.

Here is good news for the young man who will not reach his twenty-first birthday before August 11, the date of the primary elections, but will before the general elections in November. A recent special statute according to Chief Deputy Supervisor of Elections Carl Miller, will permit their voting at the primary elections even though they are not yet twenty-one. This will undoubtedly affect a number of young men who by this law will be able to vote in August whereas they would be barred if the age limit of 21 years held good.

Growth and development is the natural law of life. The child must and will learn and if his mind is not fed upon wholesome mental food it will feed on trash. In the last analysis the content of a child's education depends almost wholly upon the parent. If the child is not provided with interesting literature and music at home but is permitted on the street at all hours there can not be much question as to the final result. The school of the street is always open and its course of study is inviting. The school and the church can not counteract its effect. The parent is there and will do its work. It is high time that parents should recognize their responsibility in this matter.

Dancing is enjoyed here, on one of the largest and best floors in the middle-west, with music furnished continuously for the dancers by two orchestras. In the park theater, Vaughan Glaser and his company, the most popular and successful stock organization in the United States, is now filling an engagement. The company is a splendid one, and the plays to be presented during the park engagement are the best. Performances are given every night, with matinees Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

NOTHING that we could say would so thoroughly convince you of the value of Chamberlain's Tablets as a personal trial. We can tell you of thousands who have been permanently cured of chronic constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver, but this will have little weight with you as compared to a personal trial. That always convinces.

GIRDLES ARE LEGION

CHOICE OF DESIGN IS LEFT TO THE INDIVIDUAL.

Many Are So Voluminous That They Might Almost Be Termed Bodices—Worn With Every Kind of Gown.

A girle leads this year an exciting life as a Dumas heroine... It is surprising to see how many adventures it runs through in the course of a trip up Fifth avenue...

Going down a few doors you find a suit of white serge whose bodice is set in extended into ends which cross in front and meet behind with jaunty effect of a real girle...

There is a strong tendency toward the girle which extends both above and below the hips in puffed collars, and there is an even more pronounced impulse toward the tafetta tunic falling from a cointure extending into fullness at the bodice.

Everywhere—in tailored suit and lingerie frock and evening gown, the girle is pre-eminent. Blouses, for instance, achieve distinction, perhaps, merely through the agency of a belt...

SIMPLE FROCK

The color scheme is white and vivid blue on a black ground; the sash, tied in a loose knot at the back, is of vivid blue charmeuse. The material is striped tafetta.

GIVE "FINISH" TO COSTUME

Art of Dressmaker Shown in the Pretty Touches That Adorn the Models Most Popular.

While tailors use pique for completing gowns and coats, dressmakers prefer sheerest lingerie effects for furnishing walking or home dresses.

Very pretty too is a white crepon with two deep gathered founces at the waist in spotted crepon, also white. The waistcoat, deep collar and wide cuffs are in the spotted crepon...

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

When you breathe deeply your muscles gradually strengthen, your eyes glow like twin stars, your chest becomes full and rounded and your cheeks are stained a vivid red.

White Fur. White fur on black velvet gowns or on white velvet, chiffon or lace frocks is very fashionable at the moment, and it reminds one a little of that quaint style of trimming with swansdown which was in vogue many years ago.

FOR WINDY DAYS

green being a favorite combination. Flowered fabrics will be seen in abundance in the materials for warm weather wear, and in the meantime flowered nylon holds its own, whether as linings for coats or, more important, as coatings themselves.

Prill for Trimming. Fruit is a popular trimming for the early summer hat—which is quite as it should be. But the smart fruit hat trimming bears little resemblance to the natural produce of the tree.

SOFTNESS ADDS TO CHARM

Softness adds to charm. The wind makes one's hair fly about one's face, and the hair that is so soft and so easily managed is the most desirable.

The UNLOOKER HENRY HOWLAND The CLEVER BOYS

Tommy's such a clever boy. He's dancing something fine. The girle make haste to get in line when he goes to the ball.

Freddy's such a clever boy. Or so the girle declare. His suit is very rich and rare. His smiles are immense.

A Long-Felt Want Filled.

"Why in the world have you put all those seats along the wall in the upper hall?" "That's a little idea of my own. The architect didn't want to do it, but I insisted on it. I think it would be a fine thing if everybody who builds a new house would adopt the scheme."

Every Day.

There's warbling in the fedges, the valleys ring with song; The sun sets busy early and stays on duty long; There's music in the marshes, the children shout at play; The world becomes a little more pleasant every day.

The Wise Man and the Fool.

"A fool can squander in a day what it has taken a wise man a lifetime to accumulate." "Yes, and the wise man is generally the one who gives the fool the chance to do the squandering."

Lack of Fact.

"That man is about the most tactless person I have ever known." "I agree with you. He would have no more sense than to get a barber to subscribe to a fund for the purpose of providing a monument for the inventor of the safety razor."

STRENGTH.

"Do you know that one egg has all the strength of a pound of beef?" "I've come in contact with eggs," replied the other, "and I know the strength of the stockyards."

Foiled.

He's in his tomb, but that is not the reason why his widow died. She wedded him for wealth, she thought. He left behind a lot of debts.

Plenty of Time to Reform.

"George, do you know that you haven't got home before 10 o'clock any night this?" "Well, whatever complaints about this is only Thursday."

Just Look at Those Two Old Folks.

Just look at those two old folks sitting in the lounge. They're the same people who were sitting in the lounge when they were young.

AFTER MANY YEARS Loving Hearts Finally United, Though Long Separated.

Seventy-Five-Year Trueth Ended in Marriage—Romance That Was Begun in the Early Days of Childhood.

After an engagement to wed lasting over 50 years, R. S. Hall of Brokenridge, Md., and Miss L. H. Carr of Hartsville, Ind., were married. Many might suppose that this is a record breaker with respect to long engagements, but had a century of waiting for the person has been exceeded, says the Detroit Free Press.

Harold Shepherd of Little Rock, Ark., became the steady beau of Winifred Miller when both were seventeen. He was too poor to support a wife, and she had to care for a widowed mother who was an invalid.

The war over, Shepherd stepped at Little Rock for a week and paid constant court to Miss Miller. Her mother was dead, but they decided that they could not afford to get married. They kept in constant communication, however, year after year.

In 1928, when they had reached the age of 71, a brother of Shepherd died and left him $10,000. He went to Little Rock immediately, and the same day he and Winifred were made one after an engagement of 55 years.

But perhaps the most unusual case of all is the 75-year engagement of Charles P. Russell of St. Paul, Minn., and Harriet S. Mabee of Denver, Colo. When Russell was five years of age and Miss Mabee four, they lived in adjoining houses in St. Paul. Their parents jointly engaged them that the youngsters as they grew up would not consider it a joke. They sought no other society and remained sweethearts.

WANTED TO KNOW THE FIGURE

Fortune Hunter's Mother Was Not Dealing in Uncertainties, If She Could Help It.

Miss Jeannette Gilder, the brilliant critic, toyed with a pink and gold mustache cup at the mustache cup-a-concuring the Bad Taste exhibition in New York.

In 1904 a device that Russell had patented and which had been wrangled over in the courts for many years was declared his invention. Thousands of dollars poured into his purse.

Russell took the first train to Philadelphia. There was no more need for weekly letters. He was eighty and she seventy-nine, but they were married.

"This was the game, Plimston," asked Wilberly. "I don't ask the ground-plimston. Just as I was starting for the park a man came in and insisted on talking business to me the whole afternoon."

"The Reason. Why is it that young Runderer is such a slow pay? Because he is so fast."

Post Toasties

For That Bedtime Snack. The kiddies need something that is dainty and appetizing, don't they? And you want to be sure that they have a food that is easily digested—one that will not disturb their sleep.

Post Toasties are surprisingly good at any time. They are made of the hearts of the finest Indian corn, perfectly cooked, delicately sweetened and salted, rolled into thin, ribbon flakes and toasted to a crisp, golden brown.

They have that indescribable flavour—sweet and delicious, that so delights the taste. Just pour from the package and add cream and sugar, or sprinkle over fresh berries or fruit.

Easy to serve and mighty good. "The Memory Lingers" —sold by Grocers everywhere.
