Miller-Kansinger.
The wedding of Miss Lois Marie Miller to Rev. Albert C. Kansinger, of Crestline, Ohio, was solemnized Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Trinity English Lutheran church.
Rev. Dr. A. C. Miller, pastor of the church and father of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Dr. H. K. Fenner and Rev.
Courtland Miller, of Ann Arbor, Mich., brother of the bride, who also gave her in marriage. The double ring ceremony took place in front of the altar, which was banked high with ferns and standards filled with hydrangeas, and a white satin bridal prieuile was used.

Preceding the ceremony, a musical program was rendered by Miss Elizabeth Robbins and Mr. Peter J.
Schlicht, with Miss A. Overman at the piano and Mr. Louis Speaker at the organ. Mrs. Courtland Miller, of Ann Arbor, was the matron of honor, and Mr. Arthur Kansinger was his brother's best man. Messrs.
Irvin Gernert and Henry J. Kraus-gill were ushers.
The bride, who entered with her brother, Rev. Courtland Miller, wore a gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed with princess lace and pearls; her tulle veil was worn off the face with a bandeau of orange flowers, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and white sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a gown of yellow crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses and lavender sweet peas.

An unusual feature of this wedding was the number of ministers present, who were Dr. A. C. Miller, Dr. H. K. Fenner, Dr. S. S. Walz, Dr. C. A. Wilson, Rev. Karl Kramer, Rev. B. S. Mosner, Rev. Courtland
Miller and Rev. Albert C. Kansinger.
Immediately after the ceremony, Rev. and Mrs. Kansinger left for a trip on the lakes, and will be at home after July 15, at Crestline, Ohio.— Louisville (Ky.) Herald.

The bride was a former Plymouth girl, and her many friends here exchanged hearty congratulations and well-wishes.

Has Your Child Worms?
Most children do. A coated, furred tongue; strong breath; stomach pains; circles under eyes; pale, sallow complexion; nervous, fretful; grinding of teeth; tossing in sleep; peculiar dreams—any one of these indicate child has worms. Get a box of Kickapoo Worm Killer at once.
It kills the worms—the cause of your child's condition. It is laxative and aids nature to expel the worms. Supplied in candy form. Easy for children to take. 25c. at your druggist.

Some Railroad Invitations.

To the Editor of the Columbus Dispatch: Sir: I once wrote a book called "The Sky Line," which was about railroads and the wonderful things they had done, were doing and were going to do for mankind. In it and some proposed new matter I invited a number of railroads to build through Columbus, as for instance, the Wa-basha, the Louisville & Nashville, the C. & O., the Chicago & Alton, which runs with the Clover Leaf, the C. B.
& Q., the Illinois Central, the Erie, and the Santa Fe. I have not been able to get a single road, though I got some nice letters from some of the presidents thereof. I sometimes quote those from the president of the Burlington and also of the Wa-basha, and make some comments thereon, in sending out letters, etc., occasionally about the book. I will quote a part of the comments on the letter from Mr. Delano, president of the Wabasha, as I think it refers to things we often lost sight of:
"In the beginning of things one can do but little more than think of them and speak of them. Very often, thoughts as suggestions, acting on the mind and leading to things understood psychological principles, take root and grow, and later appear in a wondrously changed form, as the iron and steel, the bridges, embankments and the locomotives of the vast railway system. There is a good deal in trying to do a thing—even in beginning to do a thing. Many a man has been astonished at what all came from a little trying, and so who knows what all might come about were we all to try to get some of the builders of the mighty West, the South and the Southwest to come our way in the unwinning of their destinies? Were they to come, even a part of those invited, we would soon hear that other city coming in another city larger than Columbus which they would start to hauling in but they would probably tear out a goodly portion of the west side of town, and make some of our people think that they were destroyers, rather than builders. However, I will call them "the builders." Just now railroads are "down in the mouth," as it were, but when the next revival of business comes it will be found that our east and west and north and south railway facilities are too little. We were nearly at that point just before the last panic. Were we to commence to build in the east now in preparation of the next revival of business and of that far reaching development of the great West and Southwest, which forces trade with the East, we could hardly get ready in time. As Columbus is on the line of this commerce, east and west, and north and south, there is every reason why we should be busy with our invitations, all kinds of invitations, even to great railway systems which have hauled whole states out west and carried whole cities and towns over the country. In this connection why not try to get the C. & O. and the L. & N. to build up from the Ohio river?

Take the C. & O., for instance. It has recently been shaken loose by the courts, from the Hocking Valley.
It certainly wants to reach the northwest markets. It will probably have to build to them or go without them.
If it builds, why should it build close up to another line of road? Why could and should it not start from a point on the Ohio river, west of Portsmouth, keeping as far away from the N. & W. as possible, and build through West Union, Pain-bridge and Frankfort to Columbus, and from here through Mt. Pleasant, Galion, Plymouth and other towns to Norwalk, where it could branch for Cleveland and Toledo. It would be going where a railroad is needed, and it would, south of here, develop a new territory. It would give a new route to Cincinnati, as well as a line to the east. To Cincinnati would be a little longer than the other lines, but it could be advertised as "The Scenic Route Along the Ohio River," and this would get its share of passenger traffic. By this survey, if I may so call it, the C. & O. can get a Cincinnati line from Columbus, as well as a line from Columbus to both Cleveland and Toledo, and from Cleveland to Toledo.

I once computed, roughly, that such a road, not counting the Cleveland extension from Norwalk and the cost of terminals in the larger towns, could be built for but little more than what was alleged it owned in the Hocking Valley. I do not think that my estimate could have been more than a million or two out of the way, for a million or two will build a lot of embankments through a comparatively level country, lay a lot of steel rails and build some few bridges. In much the same way the L. & N. could be built along its location and Cleveland. This piece might be some fiction, but it has some philosophy.

REFORMERS OF LEGAL PROCEDURE

ARE NAMED BY GOVERNOR UNDER THE SPECIAL OHIO STATE STATUTE.

REFORMS WILL BE WORKED OUT

Will Investigate Causes of Delay in Administration of Justice in Civil and Criminal Actions.

(By Danny Donovan.)

Columbus, O.—Two justices of the Ohio supreme court, one judge of the court of common pleas, five attorneys of recognized ability, character and standing and two laymen will constitute a committee which will work out the law and judicial procedure. Acting under a special law passed at the extraordinary session of the Eighteenth general assembly, the committee was named by the governor.

Some Startling Statistics.

A colorless skin, dilated pupils, a constant nervous fear, continued adjustment of the collar or necktie and repeated thrusts of the right index finger under the nostrils; these are the symptoms of a "doper," according to W. R. Hoover, chief drug inspector of the state, who has been making these days to prevent the illegal sale of narcotics by druggists and others.

Support of Civil Service.

An organization for the support and defense of the civil service law and the merit system was organized in Columbus. It is to be known as the Ohio Civil Service association, and is to become a part of the National Civil Service Reform association.

State Highway Commissioner Marker scolded the county commissioners in several Ohio counties who have gone on "junketing" trips to Detroit, Chicago and other cities at taxpayers' expense.

Against I. W. W. Movement.

Columbus, O.—The activities of the I. W. W. organizers among the miners of eastern Ohio has resulted in thousands of letters of protest from miners by the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly, condemning the I. W. W. movement and urging them to renounce their allegiance to the organizers of America.

Test the Law.

Fearful that he would be forestalled by the prohibitionists, who have already a candidate for supreme court clerk in the field, Frank E. McKean, the incumbent, again has changed his mind and will test the validity of the statute that seeks to transfer the office from the elective to the appointive class.

Ohio Has Some Cash.

Cash in the treasury of the state of Ohio at the close of business June 30 amounted to $174,702.29, according to a statement of the state treasurer, Treasurer Brennan and State Auditor Donahay.

Farm Courses Arranged.

Farm boys who are obliged to remain at home during most of the year will have a splendid opportunity to attend the Ohio State University's course in agriculture to meet their special needs.
