Methodist Notes.

The record for the second term of the Go-To-Church Band will begin next Sunday. The beginning was postponed from last Sunday to give the largest number possible a chance to unite with the band. We invite every boy and girl member of the Sunday School, and especially every boy and girl member of the church to join this band. The only requirement of membership is church attendance once each week, and this pledge is already taken by every church member.

The Junior League started off encouragingly last Friday afternoon with over a score present. Mr. Mott and Mrs. Young are the leaders. Every boy and girl under sixteen is invited. The time is immediately after school.

Notice is hereby given to all who have canned fruit for the Epworth League barrel for St. Luke's Hospital, to kindly bring it to the church as soon as possible. It is desired to ship it within a week or ten days.

The Bible study class has held two meetings, Thursday evening and prayer meeting. All who have not as yet joined the class are still urged to do so. The prayer meeting begins at seven and continues for the first half hour after which comes the Bible study class. Come and be a booster for Bible study in Plymouth.

The first quarterly conference will be held next Monday morning, Oct. 11, at nine o'clock. This is an important meeting and every official member of the Plymouth, the McKendree and the New Haven churches, as far as possible should be present. The District Superintendent, Dr. Gallimore of Norwalk, will preach at Plymouth next Sunday evening and be present to conduct the Conference Monday morning.

A mass meeting of all temperance workers of Plymouth and vicinity will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday evening, Oct. 13, beginning at seven o'clock. Speakers will be present from Shelby and Mansfield. You are invited.

MILLION OHIO PEOPLE

Live Outside State, Buckeye Natives Dwelling in Indiana Would Form Large City.

One-fourth of Ohio's population live in other states of the union, figures just compiled by the federal census bureau say.

While 1,166,018 Ohioans live outside the state, only 607,352 natives of other states live in Ohio. There are more native Ohioans in Indiana than in any other state, 157,119.

Of natives of other states now residing in Ohio those from Pennsylvania lead with 145,872.

If the Ohio people who at present are residing in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Indianapolis, Detroit, Kansas City or Pittsburgh, should all be assembled they would make a fair sized city of themselves.

The trend of emigration from the state seems to be toward the west rather than the east. While Chicago claims over 4,000 Ohioans, New York 17,000, Denver over 9,000 and Seattle over 8,000; New York heads the list of eastern cities with but 16,000, Philadelphia with 5,000, Boston with 1,500 and Buffalo 4,000.

Other cities which contain a large element of Ohio are: Louisville, 11,211; Indianapolis, 15,308; Detroit, 15,296; Portland, 7,547; and San Francisco, 5,143.

Autumn.

There is a quality in the air that comes only with autumn, a sharp contrast with the sunset, a crisp, frosty flavor at sunrise. At night the stars shine more brightly from a sky of luminous purple. There is comfort in blankets, a new quality of soundness in sleep.

Against the pale blue of the sky the trees are contracting an increasing variety of color. The green of the leaves is darker and dashed with pale yellow, ruddy gold, crimson and the deep red of the swamp growths. There is a pungent smell of bonfires in the air.

West of the village the flat reaches of the slough are tawny where the reapers have passed, but green still marks the boundaries of field and pasture. A pool of water catches a sudden blue from above; yellow hay stacks rise abruptly from the marsh lands, there is a soft haze which dims the horizon.

Fragrant spicy odors of drying grass and leaves and moist earth are on the breeze. There is a noisy chatter of birds gathering for their long flight. In a few weeks I shall hear the wild geese calling through the night as they fly down from the lake.

In a cloudless sky the sun sets abruptly in a flame of gold; the yellow afterglow fades from the deepening blue, a sudden chill rises from the marshland and the mist creeps out from the darkening trees. With my feet ringing on the hard road I walk home to dinner and a book before an open fire of fragrant logs.—The Trimmed Lamp.

In the Man Who Found Himself.

The story is as follows: James Clarke, young cashier, robs his employers in order to provide medical attention for his sick sister. She dies and a fellow employee of Clarke's discovers the theft and blackmails him. Both are eventually found out, prosecuted and sent to gaol.

By a series of chances, James Clarke escapes from gaol, gets a job, is earning an honest living and has won the love of a girl whose life he saved.

Payton, his fellow thief, after serving his full sentence, discovers Clarke and once more blackmails him, attacking the happiness of his fiancée and her brother, and taunting Clarke with cowardice.

From this terrible situation Clarke escapes by voluntarily returning to gaol to serve the remainder of his sentence.

He has "found" himself. He knows that when he finally leaves the gaol, Catherine, who has promised to be his wife, will be waiting to help him start life afresh.

A Clogged System Needs Attention.

Are you bilious, dizzy and listless? Dr. King's New Life Pills taken at once seize upon constipation and starts the bowels moving naturally and easily. Moreover it acts without gripping. Neglect of a clogged system often leads to most serious complications. Poisonous matters stay in the body poorly functioning need immediate attention. If you wish to wake up tomorrow morning happy in mind and entirely satisfied, start your treatment to-night. 25c a bottle.

Cost of Rains.

The heavy rains of the past few months will cost the state of Ohio at least $20,000 in the purchase of potatoes alone for the 22,000 wards of the state under the board of administration. It was expected that the crop of potatoes would be sufficient to supply the needs of the board for all state institutions, but the heavy rains during the first of September caused the vines to rot and the potatoes did not develop as they should. The tomato crop is also a failure and another $10,000 of the state's money will be spent for canned tomatoes and catsup during the coming year. The fruit crop is the only one that is above the average on any of the state farms.

The Colds of Hankland Cured By Peas.

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their babies and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life. If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength. Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

Scouts Off on Long Hike.

With flags flying from a two wheeled trek cart built especially to convey their camp equipment and food supplies across the continent, six boy scouts under the leadership of H. S. Sorrels, former scout executive at St. Paul, recently left St. Paul for a 2,800 mile hike to San Francisco.

They expect to reach the end of their journey about Sept. 1. Sorrels said that every foot of the distance will be walked. Attached to the cart are six ropes, which the boys will use to haul the vehicle.

The Commercial club equipped the boys with cots and ponchos and has provided two signs to be displayed on their cart reading, "Boy Scouts of America of St. Paul, Minnesota, Hiking From St. Paul to San Francisco; Distance 2,800 Miles."

Carrots and Peas.

Cut carrots into dice and boil in salted water. Mix with an equal quantity of cooked green peas. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of flour, salt, pepper and half a teaspoonful of sugar and two tablespoons of butter. Add a cupful of water in which the carrots were cooked, and simmer until thick. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve hot.

THE GREAT MIST A TALE OF CIVIL STRIFE BY RANDALL PARRISH ILLUSTRATIONS BY C. D. RHODES

SYNOPSIS. Confederate Sergeant Wyatt is sent as a spy to his native county on the Green River. He meets a mountaineer named Jim Taylor. At a house beyond Hot Springs they meet Major Harwood. Wyatt is sent to bed. He becomes suspicious. He finds that Taylor has murdered Harwood and escaped. Wyatt is changed to U. S. uniform and to a detachment of Federal cavalry. He identifies himself as Lieutenant Raymond. This is the cavalry. Captain Fox finds Harwood's body. The detachment is ambushed by the rebels on the Green River country and goes to the house where he finds Noreen Harwood. He introduces himself as Lieutenant Raymond. Parson Nichols comes to the house and tells Noreen of her father's death. Wyatt forces Parson Nichols to the land in dispute between the Cowans and Noreen's dead father. Anne Cowan and her gang arrive and find the greener born in a closet. Wyatt and Noreen have concealed themselves in the attic.

CHAPTER X—Continued. I was obliged to loosen it by the insertion of my knife blade, yet the clamp yielded with but little noise, and I peered eagerly down the opening. There was a lamp burning in the lower hall, the reflection sufficiently bright to reveal the general situation. No men were visible, nor did I hear any voices in conversation. One thing was certain—the upper hall was completely deserted, for I could see along its entire length. I lifted my head, and glanced back to where the girl remained silent, and motionless. My eyes long accustomed to the darkness, could distinguish her outlines, even the dim contour of her face. She sat upright on the rough flooring, apparently regarding me intently.

"Do you find the way left clear?" "So far as the upper hall is concerned—yes. There is a light burning in the lower hall, but I can perceive no movement. They may be in the dining room, but I do not believe they will search up here again."

"No?" The slight rising inflection struck me. What did her action mean? Why should she so suddenly assume that tone with me? The sooner I knew the better.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Harwood," I said quietly, "but I fail to understand why you should speak to me in this manner. You have shown confidence, trust, in my former efforts to serve you, and I am just as eager now to be of service."

"You mean you wish me to have complete confidence in you?" "Certainly. I can do nothing otherwise."

There was an instant of silence, in which her breathing was plainly audible. Hence the shadow of an uplifted hand I felt that her eyes were upon my face.

"Very well, then," she said finally, her voice more expressive of interest. "It is surely no more than natural that I should desire to know whom I have the honor of talking with."

"But do you not know?" "No," firmly and decisively. "You heard what those men said—yet you go on pretending to me. You are the officer they referred to, are you not?" "Yes; I escaped when Fox's command was attacked."

tating slightly, "arose because there was something about you so oddly familiar; I—I felt that I ought to recognize your face; that somewhere we had met before—have we?" "Yes, Miss Noreen; I am Tom Wyatt."

"Why? Why, of course!" the swift expression was one of intense relief. "How stupid of me! Oh, I am so glad that I know." To my surprise she held out both hands impulsively. "You being a spy doesn't make any difference now that I know who you really are. It is no wonder I did not recognize you—why you were only a boy—"

"Not when you rode by my mother and me on the pike." "A year ago? I remember; yet I hardly caught a glimpse of you through the dust. You were just a boy when you were here last. Why you had long curls."

There Was the Sound of Chairs Being Pushed Hastily Back.

lawless deeds, and to assist in working out schemes of revenge. They are neither Federal, nor Confederate; they are robbers, murderers, and thieves. Is Anne Cowan here tonight for any purpose but his own? You realize what that purpose is."

"I have heard enough to make me certain," I answered. "He would force you into marriage to thus gain control of this property. The killing of Major Harwood was part of the plan."

"You know then of my father's death? You know that report to be true? Why, you said you were with Captain Fox at Hot Springs! Is it so?" "Yes, Miss Noreen, it is true. I saw your father's body, and that of his servant Tom. I came across the mountains with the man who killed them both. I supposed him to be a scout. He called himself Jim Taylor, and when they first met your father addressed him by that name. They met by appointment at a house a mile south of Hot Springs. Your father said nothing to you of such a man."

"No; I saw him but for a moment as he passed through Lewisburg on his way east. He was to meet a scout beyond the mountains, but no name was mentioned. What did the man Taylor look like?" "I described him to Captain Fox, and one of his men, a sergeant, instantly pronounced the fellow to be old Ned Cowan."

through the scuttle hole, but nothing moved along the hall below. The house seemed absolutely deserted, but the lamp continued to burn, and yet, even as I lit the staircases of such intense silence, a door slammed some where in the distance, and a gruff voice spoke.

CHAPTER XI. Waiting the Next Move.

"Anne—Kelly, are either of you there?" There was the sound of chairs being pushed hastily back from a table, and rapid steps on the floor.

"Yes; what's wrong? Have you found something?" "Sure; Bill an' I saw them; they were a tryin' ter git the boss; but before either of us could fire, they sorter slipped 'long back o' the fence, an' got away. It's darke'n' bell out thar, an' Bill sed fer me ter cum in yere an' tell yer that if you 'en Kelly wud cut across the road, an' sorter head the cusses off we'd bag the two easy."

"What's the rest of the boys?" "Ridin' the Lewisburg pike accordin' ter orders, I reckon. Leastwise we ain't seen 'em since yer tol' us ter watch their stable. Bill an' I can't round them up alone."

"All right, Dave. Where are they now?" "In thar orchard, a creepin' 'long the fence. Bill's followin' 'em up, an' all you got ter do is run 'long the road an' git ter the corner ahead o' 'em. They can't go no other way."

I caught a glimpse of the two as they crossed the lower hall hurriedly. The lamp flickered in the draft of the opened door, and one fellow swore roughly, as he stumbled over some obstacle. Then the door closed, and the flame steadied. In the silence we could hear again the beating of rain on the roof over head.

"Who do you suppose they could have seen?" she asked. "Shadows likely enough. Let them hunt. We know no one in the house is deserted, and can find more comfortable quarters—perhaps even slip away before anyone returns. You will go with me?" "Of course; I am not afraid of Tom Wyatt."

We passed the ladder down slowly, and crouched until the lower end rested securely on the floor below. If Nichols had recovered from the effect of the severe blow, he had made no sound, and I had almost forgotten his presence. I drew back, and permitted the lady to descend first, holding the upper supports firmly until her feet touched the floor. It was a struggle for me to force my larger bulk through the narrow opening, but I succeeded finally, and stood beside her. In the brighter light I could perceive more clearly the expression of the girl's face, realized the friendliness of her eyes. My frank confession had won me her confidence; no matter where her sympathy might be in this strange my allegiance to the cause of the South was no serious barrier between us; even the fact that I was masquerading there in a stolen uniform and under an assumed name, had not greatly changed her trust in an old playmate. My heart beat faster to this knowledge, yet, in some way, although I rejoiced, the recognition brought with it a strange embarrassment.

"It sounds as though the storm was harder than ever," she said. "Where shall we go?"

"My choice would be to hide in one of these rooms for the present, at least. We could scarcely hope to get the horse out of the stable unobserved, and, even if we did, we would be likely to ride into some of the gang."

"But they will return to the house." "Before they leave—yes; but it is hardly probable they will search here again. Anne will be in ill-humor enough when he decides we have really escaped, but will never imagine that our hiding place is in the house. They will give up by daylight, and then the way will be clear."

"And where will you go?" "Why," in surprise, "I could not leave you alone until I placed you in the care of friends."

"At Lewisburg, you mean?" "If that is where you wish to go." Her eyes met mine frankly, but with an expression in their depths I failed to fathom.

"Not wearing that uniform," she said quietly, "or under the name of Lieutenant Raymond. Do not misunderstand. There is friendship between us—personal friendship, the memory of the past, the knowledge of the intimacy between your father and mine. More, I am grateful to you for the service you have been to me this night; nor do I hold it against you that you risk your life in the cause for which you fight. But I am Union, Tom Wyatt, and I cannot help you in your work, nor protect you. When daylight comes I am going to say good-by—and forget that I have even seen you."

"But," I protested, "why could we not part if we must, at Lewisburg, after I know you are safe?" "There are Federal troops at Lewisburg. They know me, and their commander knows my acquaintance with the officer whose name you have assumed."

"Yet, in a measure, at least, you trust me? I want you to consider me a personal friend."

Can there really be someone hiding there?" "They are certainly firing at something—there speaks another rifle farther south. Those fellows will be back presently, and we must be out of their way. What room is that beyond the chimney?"

"It was used by the housekeeper. Do you know where Parson Nichols was left?"

"In the room at the head of the stairs; why yes, your room. Could they have killed the man?" I pushed open the door, which stood slightly ajar, and looked in. Nichols had partially lifted himself by clinging to the bed, and his eyes met mine. The marks of the savage blow with which Cowan had floored him, were plainly evident, and the man appeared weak and dazed. Yet he instantly recognized me, and crouched back in terror. I stepped into the room, and gripped his collar.

"Stand on your feet, man! Oh, yes, you can; you're a little groggy yet, no doubt, but with strength enough for that. Come; I'll hold you. Now, out."

I Flung Him Down on the Bed.

into the hall. Miss Harwood, may I trouble you to open that door—yes, the housekeeper's room; we'll hide ourselves in there. By Jove, that sounds like a regular volley!" I pushed the man forward, and flung him down on the bed, still retaining my grip on his collar.

"Not a move, or a sound, Nichols! Attempt to betray us, and your life is not worth the snap of a finger. Miss Harwood close the door, and lock it."

"The same instant a vivid flash of red lit up the whole interior, the light glaring in through the unshaded windows, and reflecting from the walls. Nichols started up with a little cry of terror, but I forced him back.

"It is not the house," I said sternly. "They must have fired the stable. Keep down out of sight. Miss Noreen creep across to that nearest window and take a glance out—be careful that no one sees you. I'll keep guard over our preacher friend."

TAKE PRIDE IN NORSE ORIGIN

Natives of Orkney Islands Refuse to Admit That They Are of Scottish Blood.

Miss Elinor Root, who has been visiting the little-known Orkney Islands, tells us that the natives are very proud of their Norse origin, indignant repudiating the idea that their forbears were Scottish.

"People do not speak here with nearly so broad an accent as the people in Scotland," Miss Root remarked to her hostess, "and I notice the names do not sound Scotch—Cutt, Twatt, Flett, Cursitor, and so on. How is that?"

"My hostess stiffened visibly. "They are not Scottish. We are not Scotch. We did not come from Scotland. Have you never heard of the Norsemen from beyond the seas? We are the descendants of them. We are not of Scotch blood. Ye do not call the Irish English; ye're not to call us Scotch!"

"I beg your pardon," I returned humbly, "and I refer to the subject, plunged into the theme of afforestation. The venture was an unfortunate one, as trees refuse to grow in the islands."

"Trees spoil the scenery," declared my hostess. "We would not have them if we could. If you go to the southward, you cannot see anything of the scenery for the trees. We like to see scenery."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Battle Famous in History.

The capture of Warsaw antedated by a day another historic anniversary in German history, the battle of Woerth, August 6, 1870. Here the French under Marshal McMahon, fresh from their defeat by the Prussians at Welsensburg, ten miles away, were again overwhelmed by the victorious Germans. The fiercest fighting occurred in the village of Fresnoy, which had to be stormed, the struggle in the streets being of the most desperate character as may be judged by the fact that the Prussian loss was 10,000 and the French 8,000 with 9,000 prisoners.

Just Picks the Kind-Hearted. "George, you're always happy and smiling. Is everybody good to you?" "No, I wouldn't jes' say dat, boss. Dere's some pow'ful mean folks in dis worl', but when I discover 'em I jes' uncharlerly don't 'sociate wif 'em."—The Iron Press.

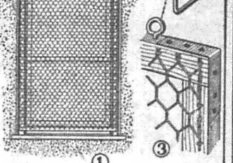

HANDICRAFT FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

By A. NEELY HALL and DOROTHY PERKINS

FOR CITY LOT BASEBALL. FOR A GIRL'S ROOM.

There would be less objection to vacant lot ball games if adjoining property owners could be relieved of the fear of broken windows. Show an owner this article, and call his attention to Fig. 1, that he may see exactly what you propose to do, and it is not likely that you will have difficulty with him.

Make each frame to fit the window opening. In the manner shown in Fig. 1.

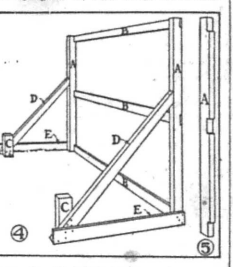

2, using 1x2 inch "furring strips," lapping the ends, and re-enforcing the connections with strips of tin (Fig. 2 and 3). Then buy enough chicken wire netting at the hardware store to cover the frame.

For hanging the screens in place, purchase a pair of hooks and a pair of screw-eyes, for each, and screw the eyes into the top edge of the frame, and the hooks into the top of the window frame.

A wire covered backdrop will not only save you boys lots of chasing after "passed balls" and "fouls," but also give protection to adjoining property.

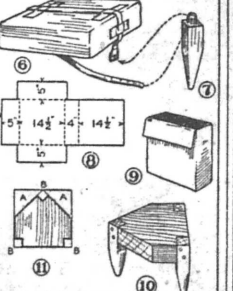

Fig. 4 shows the completed framework. The first portion to build is the front frame, which consists of the two 2x4 uprights A, and three horizontal pieces B. Eight feet square is a good size for this frame, but make it wider if you can. Cut a notch in each end of uprights A, also one in the center of the length, of the right width and depth for the horizontal members B to fit in. Then place the uprights A upon the ground, and spike pieces B in their notches. Before raising the frame, buy wire netting and staples, and cover it.

Have several boys raise and support the framework on the spot it is to occupy, then quickly drive stakes C into the ground, and connect them and uprights A with diagonals D, and the ends of D and A with pieces E.

Base sacks almost as good as the best to be bought, can be made of eight or ten ounce cotton duck, stuffed with excelsior (Fig. 6). Fig. 5 shows a diagram for cutting the cloth. Use a doubled coarse linen thread. Sew up all but one end, lapping the edges about one-half inch, and sewing with a double row of stitching. Then turn the sack inside out, stuff with excelsior moistened to make it pack solidly. Get a strap long enough to buckle around the sack, and fasten this to the sack with straps of canvas sewed across it (Fig. 6). Prepare a stake with a staple in its top (Fig. 7), and drive one of these into the ground in the proper place for each base.

Usually almost anything at all serves the purpose of home plate, in primitive ball games, but if you want one of regulation form, make it as shown in Fig. 10. Taking a square piece of plank (Fig. 11), cut off corners A, and notch corners B; then cut a tapered stake to fit each notch, and nail in place as shown in Fig. 10.

What girl would not like to own the set of shelves shown in Fig. 1, to hang upon the wall in her room. The shelf boards should be about three-fourths inch thick and ten inches wide, by whatever length you wish to have them. Buy eight half-inch screw-eyes and screw one into each corner of each shelf; and get some heavy wrapping-twine on which to string the corner spools.

The illustrations show how the spools are strung, with a spool below the screw-eyes of the bottom shelf, and another above those of the top shelf, with a knot tied upon the lower end of the cords, and a loop upon the upper end, to hold the spools together. The cords must be pulled tight, and the loops tied close to the top spools, to make the corner stiff.

Every girl needs a work box like that shown in Fig. 3. The only carpent work necessary is the fastening together of the cover boards with a couple of strips nailed across them as shown in Fig. 5.

The box must be covered to conceal the roughness of the boards. A pretty figured cretonne looks well for the outside, and a plain colored lining is best for the inside.

Fig. 4 shows how a cloth pocket and elastic tapes should be tacked to the inside of the cover; also how to make a spool rack by driving nails into the cover and slipping rubber bands over the nail heads (Fig. 6) to keep the spools from dropping off.

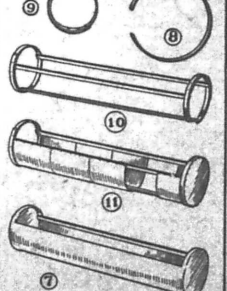

A bolster roll to encase the pillow is quite the proper thing for a girl's bed, and a roll like that shown in Fig. 7 is not difficult to construct. Get two barrel hoops for the ends, and three wooden strips one-half inch thick and one and one-half inches wide with which to connect them; (Fig. 10). The length of the strips should equal the width of the bed the roll is made for.

The diameter of the hoops must be made 11 inches from outside to outside. Remove the hoop fastenings, turn in the ends until the right diameter is obtained, and re-nail (Fig. 8 and 9). Connect the hoops with the strips, spacing these equidistantly around the inside.

Two-thirds of the framework must be covered with cardboard, the other third is left open. Cardboard boxes may be used for covering material. Bend this around the framework, being careful to curve each piece the same, and tack to each strip. Also cover the barrel hoop ends with cardboard (Fig. 11). Then re-enforce the cardboard with paper pasted lengthwise, both inside and out, to conceal the joints between the pieces of cardboard; also tack padding over the edges of the barrel-hoops. Then cover the entire roll with cambric lining.

Ten-cent sodas may spring into existence in many Ohio cities because of the recent ruling of the state board of health which following the filing of many complaints has held that all glasses, spoons and dishes used in soda fountain work must be sterilized in boiling water, with live steam.

It is predicted by those in a position to know, that the price of gasoline will in a short time soar upwards to a price never before known. This will be consoling to auto owners and those who use gasoline in large quantities. The price the past summer has been very reasonable, considered with other commodities.

Ever since Nov. 1, 1903, Charles Watson alleges in his petition for divorce that his wife has been living separate and apart from him. Plaintiff further states that he has been a faithful husband and that he is willing now to have her return to him, but she refuses to do so, even after he had on several occasions personally asked and even implored her to return to him. The couple were married in the year 1880 in Ripley township.

A thoughtful school man expresses the sentiment that every American boy should be so trained that after the age of fourteen he could make his own way in the world should circumstances throw him upon his own resources. A college president in Ohio makes the statement that after he was twelve years of age he earned all the money that was paid for his books and clothing, and his efficiency as a college man is certainly not less on that account.

Any agent coming to your door whom you do not know, may be a scoundrel and he may be as honest as the day is long. But you don't know and it is your duty to be prudent, and not nibble at every bait. You don't want to be caught, yet many are by signing "orders," "agreements," "receipts," or other innocent looking paper for strangers.

A sentiment is being agitated about the country for establishing guide boards or sign posts at all the principal corners of main roads for the benefit of the traveling public. The request is most reasonable and the suggestion of erecting the signs at the earliest possible moment will meet with general approval. It is a necessity in traveling about the country that one knows he is on the right road, and the signs would put at rest any doubt in the matter.

Here's a humble suggestion to our farmer friends and others who have machinery or implements of any kind. When you have finished with them for the season, why not clean them up carefully, oil them to prevent rust, and house them in some way or other to keep them out of the destructive winter weather? Rains and wind and snow do more harm to them than the work you accomplish with them. It is simply a matter of horse sense and economy.

The last Michigan legislature passed a cigarette law that takes care of the cigarette business in the right way. It will cost $50 or 30 days in jail to sell, give or furnish a cigarette to a minor. Arrest of minors smoking or using a cigarette in any public or business place may be made by any officer, and the offender fined $10 or five days in jail. Any person harboring a minor cigarette user or who gives privilege of cigarette using to such minors on his property is liable to a fine of $50 or 30 days in jail.

The bird never destroys its own nest. The nest is its home, where it deposits its eggs and rears its young. It builds, but does not destroy. Are we superior in intelligence to the bird, or is the bird superior to us? Are we seeking to build up and maintain our nests—our stores and shops, and various other industries? Or are we unintentionally seeking to destroy them by making our purchases from people in other cities who thrive upon the misfortunes of the local merchant or dealer? Think of the bird and then of yourself.

Did you see your friend toss a newspaper down the street? It is itself a little thing and not of any great consequence. But when everybody, or a great many bodies, do the same, it litters up the public places and gives the town an appearance of backwardness and squalor and decay which operates as a detriment in the minds of all progressive people, especially when those people are from a distance. But instead of throwing down the papers, and kicking other refuse into the street, suppose each citizen should make a practice of keeping the town clean, and bright, and attractive, wouldn't it be good for the eye to see it? It's easy to do—if we want to do it.

Fourteen neighbors and friends of Mrs. Sarah Pittenger gave her a complete surprise when they called at her home last Saturday evening. The surprise was given her as Mrs. Pittenger was 90 years old Sunday. The evening was spent socially and a light luncheon was served. On their departure they all wished Mrs. Pittenger many more happy birthdays. Showing her appreciation to the guests who were there, she gave each a carnation, Sunday.—Shiloh Review.

October 1 the general delivery of the postoffice ceases to be a vehicle for the "hit and the fictitious note writer." The correct name will have to be given beginning that date and all business men and others whose offices or homes can be reached by carrier must receive their mail that way or rent lock boxes at the postoffice. An end is to be made of the delivery of letters to persons giving assumed names. Many persons have been using the general delivery as a convenient way of keeping their identity hidden, but the department says "cut it out."

Twenty members of the Twentieth Century Circle, and one guest, met with Mrs. W. M. and Sept. 27th. A song—"America," sung by the club members, was the first number, followed by two interesting papers, "A Journey Through Brazil," Mrs. Searle, and "Rio de Janeiro," Mrs. Southard. Mrs. McClintchey read the first chapters of an original serial to be named by the club when concluded. Roll call was responded to with "Dates Worth Remembering," after adjourning to meet with Miss Shutt, Oct. 11th. A social time with the serving of fruit by Mrs. Timmer and daughter, was much enjoyed.

Letters embodying suggestions for personal safety in crossing railroad tracks are to be sent to automobilists periodically by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad under a plan to redouble the efforts to prevent motor vehicles from being struck by trains at crossings. This method of making a personal appeal to the public was decided upon because of the alarming increase in such accidents during the past year, when according to figures prepared by C. W. Galloway, general manager, there were 29 automobiles struck by trains, an increase of 17 accidents and 23 deaths. A heavy toll in lives has also been paid by trespassers who used the railroad right of way as a highway or were negligent of their safety when crossing the tracks, as 1,466 trespassers have been killed and 6,767 killed and injured during the five years 1911-15.

Communicated. One of our readers contributes the following: The Plymouth township trustees should be decorated with the iron cross for the manner in which they have left the Spring Mill road. If the Plymouth township trustees are not going to leave the Spring Mill road they should at least scrape it and fill in some of the mud holes. This road is in the city limits and is also a mail route.

H. R. Sykes, a member of the village council has herewith written and asks us to publish the following correction: "In last week's issue we stated that the village council was having High street between Plymouth and Railroad streets cut down and the surplus dirt was being used to fill up the low lots along the street. We find that we were in error, as no dirt was put into any lot but all of it has been used in grading and leveling up the street to put it in condition. All dirt used in filling the lots has come from other streets and will be paid for by the property owners."

Mr. H. I. Von Wicklen, of Mt. Vernon, was in Plymouth Wednesday looking over the town with a view of establishing a 5 and 10 cent store, but with what determination we are not informed. In his early youth he was a resident of Plymouth, leaving here with his parents forty-one years ago, and this was his first visit here in all these years. He was very favorably impressed with Plymouth and was surprised at the progress the town has made, and also to know we enjoyed all the conveniences of much larger cities.

Her remains, accompanied by her brother, John Tenney, Jr., of Chicago, Ill., were brought here for burial on Tuesday of this week. Esther was born in Weston, Ohio, July 2, 1891. She was of a bright, active nature, and had fitted herself for efficient service as a trained nurse. In May, 1919, she graduated from the Minnesota Hospital Training School for Nurses, of Pueblo, Colo., and since that time has been actively engaged in her work. At the time of her death she was acting as district nurse in the city of Milwaukee. To Mrs. Tenney and family their many friends of Plymouth extend deep and heartfelt sympathy.

The concrete work on the Broadway street improvement will not be commenced before some time the coming week, this work having been delayed on account of the breaking down of a car on which the mixer was shipped. However, this does not delay the improvement in the least as the other work will be cleaned up by the time the mixer arrives and then this work can proceed without interruption.

Work on the 20x760 foot building at the Honey Creek Poultry Farm is moving nicely along, all the wall being in and about one-half of the structure enclosed. The stock and feed building, another mammoth structure, with the exception of the lower floor, which is now being concreted, is also complete. In order to give some idea of the immensity of this building there is over 5000 feet of floor surface in the lower floor, being done by Contractor C. L. Hills, and a nice job would be hard to find the county over.

PACKERS' CARGOES GET NO CASH

American Goods Seized by Great Britain Are Disposed Of by England.

ACTION HELD AS VIOLATION OF LAW

Whole Proceedings Is to Be Made the Subject of Most Vigorous Protest Made by the United States to England.

Washington, D. C.—The state department has been informed officially that Great Britain has sold most of the packers' cargoes which were seized by the English prize court, that the packers have not been paid for the cargoes and that the sale by Great Britain was made before the privy council of England, to which an appeal was taken, had passed on the validity of the prize court decree.

Strong Protest From U. S. The whole proceedings, beginning with the original seizure of the packers' ships and cargoes before, as well as after the issuance of the order in council, is to be the subject of the most vigorous protest yet made by this government to Great Britain. The climax of the illegal act under the order in council was the seizure of the vessels. In this instance, the British admiralty's violation of arrangements previously made by the British government, ordered to a prize court a vessel which had cleared for Rotterdam, with a cargo consigned to the Overseas Trust.

Attorney Charles J. Faulkner and Henry Weeder of Chicago, representing the packers, had a conference with Acting Secretary of State Polk. Afterward they called on Chandler Anderson, special international law adviser of the state department, who is preparing the protest to Great Britain. The packers' attorneys were furnished with the text of the decree of the British prize court.

Packers Demand Redress. The state department has received from the packers a statement setting forth their reasons for demanding redress through the state department. It is stated by an official that the two principal claims of the packers are: That they are entitled to immediate payment for the goods which have been appropriated.

That this government should maintain the right of their cargoes to proceed to neutral ports unmolested, except in cases of reasonable doubt as to proof on the part of the capturing vessels that the goods have an actual ultimate destination in Germany. The state department has just made public the text of a note received from Sir Edward Grey, denying that Great Britain is interfering with American trade with such neutral countries as Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway, is taking advantage of the blockade to increase her own trade with those countries. The British foreign secretary admits that export of many staple articles from Great Britain to these countries has increased greatly since the war, but he contends that American exports of the same articles have shown a still greater increase.

U. S. COURT DISSOLVES ALLEGED MOVIE TRUST

Federal Government Wins a Sweeping Victory in One of its Important Anti-Combination Cases.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The United States government won a sweeping victory in one of its important anti-trust cases when Judge Oliver B. Dickenson in the United States district court here handed down an opinion dissolving the alleged movie picture trust on the ground that it was violating the Sherman law regulating interstate and foreign trade.

The decision was rendered against the Motion Picture Patents Co., the General Film Co. and many other concerns and individuals manufacturing motion picture films and accessories or controlling the rights of their manufacture. Many millions of dollars are involved in the business. It was charged that the alleged monopoly was formed in 1908 by virtually all manufacturers of moving picture films in the country. Under an agreement made by these concerns, it was alleged, the Motion Picture Patents Co. was made the holding concern of nearly all patents that have been issued.

AN ULTIMATUM TO BULGARIA

24 Hours Given Balkan Nation to Send Home German Army Advisors.

RUSSIA WILL RECALL HER MINISTER

Semi-official Advice State Russian Minister Has Been Ordered to Leave Sofia Unless Bulgaria Breaks With Germany.

Petrograd, via London, Eng.—The semi-official news agency says the Russian minister has been ordered to leave Sofia unless within 24 hours the Bulgarian government openly breaks with Austria and Germany and sends away the Austrian and German military officers now in Bulgaria.

The news agency gives the following note, which the minister at Sofia has been ordered to hand to M. Radoslavoff, the Bulgarian premier:

"The events which are taking place in Bulgaria at this moment give evidence of a definite decision of King Ferdinand's government to place the fate of his country in the hands of Germany. The presence of German and Austrian officers at the war ministry and on the staff of the army, the concentration of troops on the Serbian border and the extensive financial support accepted from our enemies by the Sofia cabinet no longer leave any doubt as to the object of the military preparations of Bulgaria.

"The powers of the entente, who have at heart the realization of the aspirations of the Bulgarian people, have, on many occasions, warned M. Radoslavoff that any hostile act against Bulgaria would be regarded as an act against themselves. The assurances given by the head of the Bulgarian cabinet in reply to these warnings are contradicted by the facts.

Ordered to Leave Bulgaria. "The representative of Russia, which is bound to Bulgaria by the imperishable memory of her liberation from the Turkish yoke, cannot sanction by his presence preparations for fratricidal aggression against a Slav and allied people. The Russian minister therefore has received orders to leave Bulgaria with all the staffs of the legation and consulates if the Bulgarian government does not, within 24 hours, openly break with the enemies of the Slav cause and of Russia and does not at once proceed to send away officers belonging to the armies of states which are at war with the powers of the entente."

MORE SAILORS FOR NAVY

18,000 to 20,000 MORE MEN ARE NEEDED FOR NAVY IN VIEW OF INCREASE OF FLEET.

Washington, D. C.—One of the most important questions to be settled at the conference today at the White House between the president, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee is the best method of getting 18,000 to 20,000 more sailors for the navy. Navy officials said the cost of the addition would be $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 annually, but that it was of prime importance in view of the increase of the fleet already determined upon, irrespective of the new proposed naval construction program.

Y.—The board of directors of the First National bank of Jellip, it is announced, have sent to President Wilson and to Federal Judge Chaffield copies of a resolution charging H. Hoff is out on $100,000 bail under a federal grand jury indictment charging him with falsifying his reports.

ARMIES GRIPPED IN A DEADLOCK

Fierce Artillery Duel in the Artois and Champagne Sectors Again On.

NO ADVANCES MADE ON EITHER SIDE

British Fleet Is Bombarding German Positions as a Prelude to an Advance Movement on the Flank of Germans.

London, Eng.—Fighting in the Artois and Champagne sectors has again developed into a fierce artillery duel with the hostile armies gripped in a deadlock which is awe inspiring for the effectiveness with which the opposing armies are holding their respective positions. Official reports of the day from Paris are barren of any claim of advances made, while Berlin mentions only one success, the recapture of a sector of trenches and the French took Tuesday to the north-west of Givenchy.

British Repulsed. British attempts to retrieve their losses of the day before by attacks against the German fortifications north of Loos were repulsed with "very considerable losses of killed and wounded," according to the German general staff.

The center of artillery fighting in Artois has moved from the section between Souchez and Grenay to a point further south, and now the big guns are engaged in construction along the front immediately north of La Scrape and to the east of Arras.

Bombard Gun Positions. While the two mighty armies are attempting to reach a solution of the issue in trench-to-trench warfare, the British fleet is hammering daily at the German right, bombarding with shells of every caliber the German gun positions at Westende and Middlekerke. Reduction of these works or their enforced withdrawal is considered here to be a necessary prelude to an advance movement on this flank which the Germans are endeavoring to stop.

Rome, Italy.—In the Tonale zone, on the evening of the 3d, one of the Italian mountain divisions scaled the precipitous Torrione summit, dispersing the Austrian detachments on that height and destroying the defenses under process of construction along the slopes. The troops returned to their own lines under heavy artillery fire, the enemy being prevented from reoccupying the summit by the fire of batteries mounted on the approaches to the height.

Petrograd, Russia.—In some sectors the Russians are harassing the enemy and by energetically developing separate engagements are gradually improving their positions. Attempts to reach the Saray railway junction, north of Rovno, were checked by the Russians, who successfully crossed the River Stryl at Polemne, the point where the Kovel-Saray railway crosses the river.

NO RESPECT FOR FLAG

TURKS ARE WAGING A HOLY WAR OF EXTERMINATION ON THE ARMENIANS.

New York City.—Turks and Kurds are waging a holy war of extermination on the Armenians, according to 16 American missionaries who arrived here on the steamer Helligang. Neither of the combatants respected the American flag that was raised over the mission buildings, and only the arrival of a Russian contingent saved further massacre of the Armenians.

Ernest Yarrow said that 1,500 Kurds held out against 5,000 Kurds on the Turkish company from April 29 to May 13, when the Russian relief party arrived.

"We sheltered large numbers of Armenian women and children," said Yarrow. "but as soon as the Russians drove the Turks and Kurds away all of them turned out to look the Turkish houses and to be full of ammunition that had been practiced on them. Neither of the combatants showed any regard for the American or Red Cross flags that were flying over the mission house."

Several Armenian professors at Ephrates college at Harput were beaten and killed by the Turks, and Mr. Yarrow said that many of them were suffering from typhus and other diseases when he left for home.

BIGGEST GUNS IN THE WORLD

Planning to Construct Battle Cruisers Which Will Be Fastest Afloat.

WILL SACRIFICE ARMOR FOR SPEED

There Has Been No Decision as to the Number to Be Constructed and Much of the Expense Will Be Greater Than Heretofore.

Washington, D. C.—The United States navy is to have two or more battlehips which will be faster than any war vessel afloat and will carry the biggest guns in the world. Secretary of the Navy Dagny L. Moody admitted that the plans for the battle cruisers have been prepared. They are designed to make 35 knots, or 40 1/2 statute miles an hour, and they will carry six 16-inch guns. The new vessels, in common with all ships of the battle cruiser type, will sacrifice armor for speed. Their armor will be eight inches in thickness. They will be driven by turbine engines of tremendous horsepower.

No Decision as to Number. Secretary Daniels' announcement followed his conference at the White House with the president and Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee regarding the naval construction program to be submitted to congress. The secretary said there has been no decision yet as to the number of dreadnaughts, battle cruisers, torpedo boats, submarines and aircraft carriers to be built. The decision is to be made by the president.

The conference had before it the opinions of the general naval board. From what is learned the board wants four dreadnaughts, two battle cruisers and 24 destroyers. Whether a program headed by six ships will eventually be decided upon by the president as proper to send to congress remains to be seen. Heretofore the general naval board has had its estimates cut in half by the higher authorities because of the fear that congress would not appropriate for a full program. Although congress has been told that if four dreadnaughts were not constructed annually the American navy would continue to retrograde.

Construction Will Be Expensive. Navy officials said the situation demands the full program, even if it is necessary to get the money for the increase by a bond issue and let the normal annual expenses of the navy establishment be provided as usual by congress.

Secretary Daniels said that all construction will be very expensive. He said that while a dreadnaught heretofore has cost about $15,000,000, the cost this year will be from $18,000,000 to $20,000,000, largely due to the higher prices for steel. He estimated the cost of a battle cruiser at the same figure. Four dreadnaughts and two battle cruisers, therefore, would also cost from $108,000,000 to $120,000,000.

For this reason some of the experts expressed the fear that probably the final recommendation to congress would be for only two dreadnaughts and two battle cruisers at an approximate cost of $15,000,000. This would leave a margin for the auxiliaries recommended by the general naval board.

The new vessels, battle cruisers and battlehips alike will have the new type of hull construction designed for torpedo protection.

PROTEST TO ENGLAND

STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS AND PACKERS' COUNSEL CONFERS AS DEMANDS.

Washington, D. C.—Conferences were held Monday at the state department between Councillor Polk of the state department, Chandler Anderson, the special legal adviser of the department, and C. J. Faulkner and Henry Weeder, representing the packers of Chicago, looking to a protest to Great Britain on the seizure, detention and sale of packers' cargoes.

In the case of 29 vessels, the state department is expected to assert that the seizure was illegal because the ships were bound for neutral ports and the detention was illegal because the established regulations of visit and search were not observed.

In the attack by the United States on the order in council, as it appears in the general note of protest, the general question of the seizure and detention of ships bound for neutral ports is taken up and vigorously discussed. The issue is squarely made with Great Britain that the order in council and the blockade of neutral ports are illegal.

WILL PAY FOR THE LIVES LOST

Germany Disavows Act of Submarine Commander Who Sank the Arabic.

WILL BE NO RECURRENCE OF INCIDENT

Opens the Way to Satisfactory Settlement of All the Points in Controversy Between the Two Governments.

Washington, D. C.—The most critical of the incidents between the United States and Germany was amply settled Tuesday when the German government, through Ambassador Von Bernstorff, disavowed the act of her submarine commander who sank the White Star liner Arabic on Aug. 19, and offered indemnity for the 290 American lives lost on that occasion. Formal assurances were given also that the orders under which the commanders of German submarines are now operating are so strict that there can be no recurrence of similar incidents.

Accept Demands of U. S. This was an acceptance by Germany, without qualification, of the demands of the United States and opens the way to a satisfactory settlement of all the points in controversy between the two governments.

The next question to be taken up is the disposition of the Lusitania case. It was announced that the diplomatic negotiations in this case will soon be resumed. The impression prevails that Germany will be unable to formally disavow the act of her commander in sinking the Lusitania because of her claim that he was acting under general instructions, but she will express her sincere regrets for the incident and will offer indemnity for the loss of the Americans who went down with the ship.

With his receipt by Ambassador Bernstorff's note to Secretary Lansing there now exists a full understanding between the two governments regarding the conduct of Germany's submarine warfare in the future—an understanding so complete in detail that the repetition of any of the incidents which have threatened the friendly relations of the two countries. An outline of this definite understanding, from a most authoritative source, is as follows:

German Submarine Warning. German submarines will not torpedo liners without warning and without provision for the safety of non-combatants, provided the vessels do not try to escape. Only a most positive demonstration that a vessel intends to ram a submarine or destroy it by means of its own guns will justify its in torpedoing it without providing for the safety of non-combatants. German submarine commanders have been instructed to give merchant vessels the benefit of the doubt, and if possible to maneuver out of the way or submerge instead of sinking them. If they are resisted, the submarines will hereafter observe the recognized practice of international law in giving warning to merchant vessels and will fire shots across the bows of the vessels which they wish to halt. The display of arms, however, will not be considered sufficient warning.

The extent to which Germany has yielded to the United States is shown by a comparison of her communication submitted to the state department and a paragraph in her note of Sept. 7, in which she said: "The German government is in a position to acknowledge an obligation to grant indemnity in the matter, even if the commander should have been mistaken as to the aggressive intentions of the Arabic."

It was said that under no circumstances will there be a return to the exchange of formal notes unless something develops which is not now anticipated.

Navy Advisory Board Meets. Washington, D. C.—The first general meeting of the board of civilian inventors and technicians appointed by leading scientific societies at the request of Secretary of the Navy Daniels to assist in improving the United States navy, took place here today.

Question of Time. Uncle Osius Pike cleared his throat, shifted his chair, seized his chance to get a word in edgewise and began:

"About the war—" "A murmur of protest checked him. But again he began: "About the war—" "When a dozen determined men drew in their breath and a hissing sound, such as the snake makes before it strikes, you know what it means. Uncle Osius knew what it meant. But he did not lack courage. Again seizing his moment, he exclaimed:

Her mother tucked her in bed, and then went into the next room, leaving the door open. Little Betty toss restlessly about for five or ten minutes. Mr. Ohio Farmer, You will keep down your taxes by voting "NO" on Prohibition. Under Home Rule, the Ohio Liqueur Industry in 1914 actually drew on its checking account for taxes:

Under Prohibition in 1917 and each succeeding year, that check would not be given, and farmers, with other property owners, would have to make up the loss. As farmers pay 30 per cent of the taxes raised in Ohio, the 1917 check of Ohio farmers for extra taxes would be:

Tree Planting Time at Hand.

Hunting time and tree planting time come almost together. From now until the middle of next month, orchard trees may be set out, and with care will be in little danger of winter freezing. With a large number of farmers taking up oring and small fruit growing each year, and with the prospects that prices will continue high and the market certain, it is profitable on any farm to set out an orchard. When used as a side line to general farming, it enables the farmer to increase his profits and keep his help employed for longer periods each year. Whether in the "hills and hollows" or in the level country, an orchard started this fall will make money for the owner and increase the value of the land.

Birds Get Feathers Early This Year Which Means Long, Cold Winter.

If the advices of farmers and poultry breeders are to be taken in good faith the winter of 1915 and '16 is to be the longest and coldest in many years.

Farmers gain their first hand information from the chickens. They say the birds are putting on feathers earlier than in several years. Also they are putting them on heavier.

This, according to an old time adage heralds the coming of a long, cold winter with much ice and snow. As a usual thing the poultry does not put on its winter clothing until late in November. This year however, the report says many of the birds are completely feathered for the winter.
