

The Plymouth Advertiser.

VOL. 62.

PLYMOUTH, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1915

NO. 37

Communicated.

The following communication has been received from Anna E. Higgins, secretary of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, with department headquarters at Cleveland:

To the Ed. of the Advertiser,
Dear Sir:—Would it be possible to enlist your service in giving a little news item in your publication, which would be greatly appreciated, I am sure, by many of your townfolk. We all recognize the power of the press in reaching people whom we never meet.

In the near future a patriotic society, known as the Ladies of the G. A. R., will be organized in Plymouth, all wives, sisters, daughters, granddaughters, nieces and grandnieces of civil war veterans are eligible to membership. The need and work of this organization is manifold, especially in small cities where the ranks have been invaded by death so many times that the remaining few veterans have no post. The lineal descendants of these men who crushed the greatest rebellion that the earth ever saw and saved a Republic, are the ones who must unite to perpetuate patriotism, and it is only fitting that we who have a heritage given to us by our relationship to the men whose valor and love of country renewed the life of our nation should establish an organization to assist our living heroes in all their undertakings. There is so much the woman can do. It was our own Lincoln who said: "All I am or ever expect to be I owe to my angel mother."

Love of country, honor and reverence as taught by object lessons have a lasting impression on the youth of our country. What is more beautiful than the little school children out on Memorial Day with the soldiers? My mother has so instilled this beautiful work, the work for the G. A. R., into my heart that I am filled to overflowing in words of praise for the soldiers. My own uncle, Little Billy Ward, the drummer boy of the 60th O. V. I., rests in Plymouth and each Memorial Day his grave is decorated. Next year it will be by the Ladies of the G. A. R.

Sincerely,
MISS ANNA E. HIGGINS.

Jeffrey-Hosteller Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Jeffrey of Plymouth and Roy Hosteller, of Cleveland, was celebrated this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Emma E. Bowman, 236 W. Fourth street, Rev. E. M. McMillin officiating. Only a few of the intimate friends of the happy couple witnessed the ceremony. Miss Jeffrey is the daughter of Mrs. W. A. Jeffrey. She is well known in Mansfield, having frequently visited here. She was extremely popular in social and church circles of Plymouth. Mr. Hosteller has a prominent position in the general offices of the Erie railroad at Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Hosteller reside at the fashionable Burgovne apartments, Cleveland.—Mansfield News of Wednesday.

The bride has resided in Plymouth pretty much all of her life, was quite popular and taught in our public schools last year. She has many friends here who extend hearty congratulations.

Hot Weather Rules for Teamsters

Load lightly and drive slowly.
Stop in the shade if possible.
Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay.

Do not use a horse hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell shaped does more harm than good. Watch your horse. If he stops his sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre in a pint of water, or give him a pint of warm coffee. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice wrapped in a cloth.

If it is so hot the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot well stand the next day's heat. Boston Work-horse Relief Association.

COME!

COME!

WITH BARNS FULL OF STOCK

Didn't Look Much Like Hard Times in Western Canada.

A. Meyer, who left one of the best Counties in Minnesota, probably because he got a good price for his excellent farm, and left for the Canadian West, writes in his local paper, the Bagley Independent. His story is well worth repeating. He says:

"To say I was greatly surprised when I reached Saskatchewan and Alberta would be expressing it mildly. In a country where so much suffering was reported, I found everyone in good circumstances, and especially all our friends who have left Clearwater and Folk counties. They all have good homes and those who were reported to have sold their stock through lack of feed, I found with their barns full of stock, and it did not look very much like hard times. They have from 160 acres to two sections of the finest land that can be found.

Those that left here two or three years ago have from 100 to 400 acres in crops this year.

Prospects for a bumper crop are splendid. It is a little cold now, but nothing is frosted, either in gardens or fields. Land can be bought quite reasonably here from those who volunteered their services in the European war. Here are certainly the best opportunities for securing a good home with a farm and independence for life in a short time. Before I started I heard that prices were so high. Flour was reported at $12 per hundred it is $4.25 here. In the west all the groceries can be purchased for nearly the same as in Minn. The only article that I found higher was kerosene at 35 cts per gallon. When I saw the land I wondered why people do not live where they produce enough from the soil to make a comfortable living. We visited T. T. Sater, John Dahls, W. J. and R. D. Holt's, Martin Halmen, Ole Halvorson, Wm. West and Geo. Cobly, all from Bagley. We found well and prosperous farmers who wished to be remembered to all their Bagley friends." (Sgd.) A. MEYER.—Advertisement.

The Proper Term.
"I'm going to celebrate my wedding tomorrow," said the sandy drummer.

"You mean your wooden wedding, don't you?" queried the grocer.

"No, I mean just what I said," answered the s. d. "It will be five years ago tomorrow since I asked a girl to marry me, and fortunately she said she wouldn't!"

Beauty and the Beast.
"A deucedly pretty girl!"
"Stunning."
"And a hideous buldog."
"True. She ought to have a man along to lessen the contrast between herself and the dog."

Wife Changing His Mind.
Wife (during the spat)—During our courtship you said you would gladly die for me.

Husband—Well?
Wife—Well, why don't you?

Domestic Warfare.
Little Lemuel—Why are there so many divorces, paw?
Paw—Possibly, my son, because the sea of matrimony is infested with floating mines.

Not Definite.
"My husband," remarked Mrs. Barker, "is a peculiar man. I have to nuzzle him with gloves."
"Boxing or rubber?" queried her friend Mrs. Barker.

Only Vegetables for Him.
"So you're an applicant for the position of gardener?"
"Yes, sir."
"Had experience with vegetables?"
"Oh, yes, sir; ten years."
"I have a horse and cow you will have to take care of."
"Oh, I couldn't do that, sir. You see, I'm a strict vegetarian."

Hubby Will Economize.
"But your fiancé has such a small salary; how are you going to live?"
"Oh, we're going to economize. We're going to do without such a lot of things that Jack needs."

The Purpose of Thrift.
"Save up your pennies, my boy."
"What for, dad?"
"And when you get 25 of them either your mother or I will borrow them for cars."

Applied Callisthenics.
"I'm a retired scroob," explained the tramp at the door.
"Then," replied the stern-faced feminist, "you can go to the woodpile and do the split for your dinner."

Pleasing Father.
"Jinks" rather wanted him to go into uplift work when he left college.
"Well, did he?"
"Sure, he did. He took the check the old man gave him to begin with and bought an aeroplane."

Economizing.
"George, dear, I've succeeded in reducing expenses. By having every thing charged I find I have spent very little money this week, and still you say I have no business sense."—Judge.

THIRTY DAYS' NOTICE REQUIRED

TO EFFECT NEW RATES IN OHIO, MUST BE GIVEN IN FUTURE.

REFUNDS ON COAL CHARGES

Government and Western Lines to Show Cause Why They Should Not Be Enjoined.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Columbus.—The Winans law, enacted by the last General Assembly, is now in effect. This measure compels railroads to give 30 days' notice by filing schedules with the Public Utilities Commission, before changing rates. The commission then is authorized to suspend those rates for 30 days or even 60 days if that amount of time is needed for investigation. Heretofore the commission could conduct hearings and inquiries only when complaint was made by a shipper, and then had no powers to suspend the operation of the new schedule pending the outcome of the investigation. Under the new Winans law the commission can make such an inquiry of its own initiative and can prevent operation meanwhile. The burden of proof that new rates are necessary also is thrown on the railroads. Under the existing law this burden was on the shipper who made complaint. The new law applies alike to rates, classifications or railway regulations and practices.

Money is Mostly Needed.
Money is what the Adjutant General's Department needs most to fill its stores in the Southern Ohio mining districts, where miners and their wives and children are in destitute circumstances. Assistant Adjutant General Bryant stated, "Chillicothe sent word that a carload of supplies was being used up there. A soap manufacturing company in Cincinnati notified Colonel Bryant that 25 boxes of toilet soap had been shipped to Nelsonville for distribution among the miners. Soap, the Colonel said, was one of the great needs. One carload of provisions was sent to Nelsonville from here by the Adjutant General's Department and another will soon follow to be distributed in the Glouster district. Governor Willis issued another appeal for supplies for the idle miners."

Business Methods Poor.
The first complete examination ever made of the Ohio State Board of Embalming Examiners covering the period from July 7, 1902, to April 13, 1915, was reported to Auditor of State A. V. Donahy. The examination was made by A. B. Dawson, state examiner, and Joseph P. Hogan, his assistant. There are numerous findings and there is considerable criticism of the board's methods of doing business. The examiners attribute these in large part to the method of doing business by the state which allowed boards to handle their own funds instead of compelling them to transact the business through the state departments. Since the Mooney law was enacted there has been little complaint. Part of the report was made before there was given out an opinion from the attorney general which renders part of it useless.

8,000 Are Ready For War.
In case of war the state military department could get in touch immediately with probably 8,000 young men. The age of 23 and 30, who have received military training in Ohio colleges and universities, Adjutant General Hough declared. He referred particularly to graduates of Ohio State University and Ohio Northern University, where two-year courses in military drill and tactics are given.

Discrepancies Are Big.
According to a report made to the state auditor the total amount of the collections throughout the 88 counties of the state resulting from disclosures of the state bureau of inspection of public officers was $296,509 for the 7 1/2 months between November 16, 1914, and June 30, 1915. According to Auditor Donahy this amount is more than the total collections for the entire four years from 1909 to 1913.

Ruling On Assessors.
Attorney General Turner has given an opinion to Secretary of State Charles Q. Hildebrand, in which he holds that in cities which have adopted home rule, ward assessors may be nominated by petition instead of at primaries. This also holds good in charter cities, where municipal primaries are not provided for in August.

Censors Not To Bar Films.
The state movie censors approved two one-thousand-foot reels of the Eastland disaster. The proceeds from a newspaper film will be donated by the newspaper to the sufferers of the disaster. The matter was brought to the attention of Governor Willis, who said he would not interfere with the censors. The films show the Chicago river being dragged for bodies from tanks. Four or five times the drag is suspended in its cables and bodies of men are dragged over the side of the boat.

Governor Is Consulted.
The desire of the members of the state board of agriculture to have the secretary of their hands was the principal cause of an agreement being reached to make the selection at once. Difficulties in the way having been ironed out, Renick W. Dunlap, of Pickaway county, was selected to the $4,000 position as secretary on the first ballot. There had been a plan to have President John Boggs, of Columbus Grove, act as secretary for a few weeks, but it was found to be untenable. The objection was raised that a younger man should be chosen. The many candidates also objected on the ground that they wished the matter determined now. The board went for a conference with Gov. Frank B. Willis, who had declared publicly that he would take no hand in the selection. It was suspected, however, that he leaned toward Dunlap, who had the indorsement of the State Grange executive committee and the old grange in general in agricultural organizations. Dunlap was only recently defeated for master of the State Grange. Dunlap is not unacquainted with the work of the position, having been dairy and food commissioner when the place was an elective one. He is said to have been aided by an agreement among candidates for secretary for distribution of the minor places. A large part of the opposition came to him from his own county, the opposition being led by Appellate Judge Walters, who brought out a rival candidate in Maj. George P. Florence.

Provisions For Miners.
Liberal donations of money, food and clothing reached the Adjutant General's office, in response to Governor Willis' recent proclamation appealing to the public for relief of those thousands of destitute families of unemployed Hocking Valley coal miners. These cartons of provisions were shipped at noon at the Adjutant General's office to the mining regions. They contained four days' rations for 1,800 persons. One officer and two privates of the Ohio National Guards were assigned to each car. They will add the local miners' relief organizations in the work of distribution. In response to a request from Governor Willis, the state utilities commissioner decided to advance the date of hearing relative to the complaint filed by miners alleging their unemployment is largely due to alleged excessive and discriminatory freight rates favoring West Virginia coal as against Ohio mined coal. The hearing will be for some time during the first week in August.

Twig Blight on Apple Crop.
Damage to the apple crop in Ohio by reason of the twig blight will amount to from 10 to 20 per cent, according to N. E. Shaw, head of the orchard bureau of the state board of agriculture. Shaw's inspectors have reported that the danger of further damage has practically passed and that the blight does not appear to be spreading. His reports do not indicate that heavy damage has been done to apple or cherry trees, but that the curtailment of this year's crop. Pear trees in many parts of the state are permanently damaged and it may be necessary to cut them down, he says.

Injunction Is Granted.
Legal test of the right of the state medical board to carry out its purpose to compel the registration of optometrists, under the limited medical practice act, was begun here. In the Franklin county common pleas court Judge M. Z. Evans granted a temporary order of injunction, and the matter will be heard at the fall term. The suit is by Francis P. Barr, of Lancaster, Henry P. Lorbach, of Circleville, and Otto Bower, of Zanesville.

Want Good Roads Day.
Containing the request that they urge Governor Willis to issue a proclamation designating some day next month as "Good Roads Day." A. P. Sandies, president of the recent state agricultural commission, has sent letters to the 88 county auditors in Ohio.

Ohio's Gift to Belgium.
Ohio citizens have contributed $175,000 in money and provisions for the relief of war sufferers in Belgium, according to a report filed with Governor Willis by I. K. Shlimansky, representing the Ohio organization in charge of the work.

Ruling On Idiots.
Attorney General Turner has ruled that superintendents of state hospitals for insane are not compelled to admit as patients persons known as idiots that is those defined by law as "foolish from birth" or not having any mental powers.

Action Is Postponed.
No action on the proposition to reduce the price of admission to the Ohio State Fair from 50 cents to 25 cents will be taken by the state board of agriculture until August 6, the date to which adjournment was taken at a meeting of the board.

Insurance Fund Sound.
M. J. Duffy, of the Ohio Industrial Commission, in an address before the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, at Cedar Point, defended the work of the commission. Mr. Duffy asserted that the insurance rate offered by the state to employers—42 cents to every $1,000 paid in wages—was one of the lowest. "The financial stability of the Insurance Department is indicated by the fact that if we closed up business today we would have a surplus of over $500,000," he said.

Canada is Calling You to her Rich Wheat Lands

She extends to Americans a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

This year wheat is higher than Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help to feed the world by tilling some of her soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think what you can make with wheat around $1 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. Military service is not compulsory in Canada. There is no conscription and no war tax on lands. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. The letter B that has appeared on the cats blades this year has alarmed people over the country, thinking it meant war and bloodshed. Those who are not overloaded with superstition may there be nothing to it.

A small bottle of turpentine should be kept in every house. A few drops where roaches congregate will exterminate them at once, also ants, red or black. Moths will flee from the odor of it.

All signs are failing, and especially weather signs. That prediction that August would be a month of fair and hot weather has been passed up after only a few days trial.

Attorney General Edward C. Turner has given State Auditor A. V. Donahay an official opinion which is designed to make the suit men up. He recommends an end be made of the custom of cancelling bonds as soon as the public official under bond has left office.

In nearly every case boys who bring sorrow and disgrace upon their parents are those who are allowed to run the streets at night. With the shades of night around, to a boy comes the opportunity for bad associations that do not tempt them in the broad light of day.

The state agricultural commission has arranged for the various farmers institutes to be held in Ohio the coming fall and winter. According to the present arrangement there will be five institutes held in Richland county next winter.

Doan's are praised in thirty thousand signed statements, published in 3,000 communities. Plymouth people are no exception. Here's a Plymouth statement.

I have used Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally since, when my back has been lame and my kidneys haven't been acting regularly. I have always had prompt relief."

Is Sickness a Sin?

If not, it's wicked to neglect illness and means of relief. It's wicked to endure liver ills, headache, indigestion, constipation, when one dose of Po-Do-Lax gives relief. Po-Do-Lax is Podophyllin (May Apple), without the gripe. It arouses the liver, increases the flow of bile—nature's antiseptic in the bowels. Your constipation and other ills disappear overnight because Po-Do-Lax has helped nature to remove the cause. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Get rid of your constipation over night.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our dear sister and mother, also the minister for his words of sympathy, the quartet, and for the beautiful flowers.

It will be a surprise to those who have regarded the past month of July as a record breaker in precipitation. While the precipitation, 6.6 inches, has been excessive, it has been exceeded in two instances in the past eleven years. Also the number of days on which rain fell has been exceeded once.

The one who loves you most, the one who is the most loving, is the one who is the easiest to please. And that is the reason children can please their mothers, when they cannot please any body else. The river here Monday afternoon went on a sudden rampage and in a short time overflowed its banks and completely inundated the low lands, the water reaching a height of nearly that of the March flood of 1913, the sudden rise being caused by cloudbursts east and southeast of this city, in which locality fields were covered with water to a depth of one and two feet, doing a great amount of damage to crops, while fences, hay and wheat stacks were floated away.

Plymouth possesses many advantages of which every citizen of the town may well feel proud. Comment these advantages to strangers at every possible opportunity. You will be a real Plymouth booster if you will speak of these advantages now and then. At the same time every one should work for the things the town needs, the most important of which is a public rest and toilet room.

Plymouth autoists who are accustomed to visit Sandusky will do well to note that the city council there has passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of the muffler cutout, except for the purpose of starting the engine; also providing that dimmers must be used on head lights while operating the machine in that city, and that cars be not parked within fifteen feet of a street intersection. Fines of from $10 to $100 are provided for violations.

If there is any truth in the old German proverb, August will be a fair and warm month. According to the proverb, weather for the ensuing month is regulated by conditions existing on the last Friday of the preceding month. Inasmuch as it was fair and rather warm that day, those conditions will probably prevail during the month of August. All weather signs are failing this year, however, and the contrary may prove the case in August weather.

There is very much of a misunderstanding among some automobile drivers in the city as to which has the right of way. It is pointed out that according to traffic ordinances vehicles driving east and west have the right of way over those going north and south at street intersections. A person driving on a north and south street is required to exercise more care at a street crossing. In case of a damage suit resulting from a collision this point is taken into consideration.

The one thing wanted now is favorable weather and Plymouth will be in fine shape for celebration of her one hundredth anniversary this coming week. All details have been worked out and everything will be in readiness for the opening day—Tuesday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be given over to visiting and reunion and band concerts, while the various concessions will hold "open shop." The remaining three days will be the big feature days, at which afternoon and evening throngs of people who are expected here will be entertained with high-class open air free attractions on the public square, none of which have ever heretofore appeared in a town so small as this. The two big feature attractions will be the famous Royal Hawaiian Troupe of six people in their wonderful acrobatic and aerial exhibitions, carrying tons of equipment required for their acts. Another is Rhelanders circus and educated pigs, which was the one crowning event at the North Randall fair, Cleveland, last fall, and never fails to amuse and please. Both of these attractions will be seen twice daily, afternoon and evening. Then on Friday afternoon comes the big civic and industrial parade which promises to eclipse any thing of the kind ever dramatized in Plymouth. Band concerts and other attractions will fill up the intervening time, so all come prepared to have a good time and see a good live one hundred year old town which likewise has been a town one hundred years old. The Masonic club room has been secured as a rest room for the ladies, where all ladies will be welcome and their comfort looked after by competent attendants. There will be pioneer meetings and addresses in the various churches, in which all are welcome to participate.

Printing Press in Church.

"The possession of a church with a printing press is a novelty claimed by the village of Ashley in Delaware county. This printing outfit is used to prepare announcements of special meetings, invitations to church socials and to print the weekly church bulletins. The pastor of this congregation, Reverend C. L. Cole, is putting energetic business methods into the running of the church and his people are solidly behind him in the idea. Reverend Cole will be one of the speakers at 'Country Life Week' at the Ohio State University, August 2 to 6."

The above was taken from the Ohio State University News, and the divine referred to was a former Plymouth boy, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cole residing no. 4 of town, but for several years has been engaged in the ministry.

News, items and advertisement copy that can just as well be handed in early in the week, but are held off until Thursday—and often late that afternoon—are becoming too frequent occurrences for convenience to the editor and workmen. There is still a whole lot of people who hold the idea that a paper is set, printed and mailed in one day. Usually by Wednesday evening arrangement of forms for the week's issue is all planned, and what might seem just a little change to the customer, makes a whole lot of bother and delay.

About a dozen automobiles carrying the band, girl singers, Camp Fire Girls and citizen's left here Thursday morning on a boosters trip, advertising the centennial celebration here this coming week, taking in the towns of Fairfield, Greenway, and all those in the northeast section, returning home for dinner. In the afternoon several more automobiles were added to the number, the towns covered in the afternoon being Shelburne, Tiro, New Washington, Attica, Chiles, Fulton and home. It was a good live crowd and, too, all boosted for the centennial and attracted much attention in all towns visited.

GEBERT

THE GREAT BATTLE LINES IN THE WEST

The first general engagement in the West, sometimes known as the battle of Mons-Charleroi... The German right wing was broken up and forced back...

FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR IN THE WEST

The first month and a half of the western campaign was made up of startling, swift moves. On September 12, after the defeat on the Marne, the Germans took up defensive positions along the Aisne river...

of Ypres, when the Germans suffered enormous losses in attempts to break through the line in Flanders and reach Calais. They succeeded in pushing back the allies only a little and the invasion of Silesia by the Cossacks finally induced them to desist and send re-enforcements to Russia.

The Germans in September had performed the feat of pushing a salient into the French line south of Verdun, which terminated on the west bank of the Meuse river at St. Mihiel; while the French had taken the offensive with some success in Champagne at about the same time.

For the most part throughout the winter the fighting consisted of regular siege warfare, with heavy artillery combats and mine and counter-mine.

The flooding of the River Aisne from winter snows gave the Germans a chance to entrap the French troops on the north side of that river in the vicinity of Soissons for a considerable distance and kill or capture most of them (January 14).

While obtaining some successes in counter-attacks on the advancing Germans at Peronne and at Guise, the French were obliged to fall back rapidly to the line of the River Marne.

On the left the French had withdrawn to below Paris and the western-most German army, under Von Kluck, followed.

The garrison of Paris was put in thousands of motor cars and hurried on Von Kluck's flank. The latter was not taken entirely unawares and met the attack strongly, but at the same time the army of General Foch attacked the German army on Von Kluck's left and drove it back.

The Germans had begun the battle with five armies in line. The withdrawal of the two farthest west now caused the retreat of the third, fourth and fifth in that order, each in turn finding its flank exposed by the withdrawal of the troops on its right.

At the same time the movement on the east end of the German line was accelerated by a strong attack from the French fortified zone of Verdun.

The German retreat was as orderly as that of the French and English had been. The invaders took up an admirable defensive position. It ran just north of the Aisne river, on a series of bluffs, then just north of Chalons and through the wooded, rough regions of the Argonne and the Woivre, joining hands here with the troops besieging Verdun.

Both combatants now tried to turn the west flank. Enormous bodies of cavalry. On the part of the French Flanders. On the part of the French there was largely no desire to link up with the Belgians, now being attacked in Antwerp. The mighty siege attacks of the Germans made short work of the Belgian coast, however, and it fell on October 9. The remnants of the Belgian army retreated along the sea coast and the Germans in a final rush reached Ostend (October 15).

The battle line of the Aisne was now extended to the sea, the Germans holding the important French city of Lille, while the allies kept Ypres in Belgium, and, partly by flooding the lowlands, held the position of the Tuer river and some of the islands in the Scheldt.

From October 16 to November 10 was fought the desperate first battle of Ypres, when the Germans suffered enormous losses in attempts to break through the line in Flanders and reach Calais. They succeeded in pushing back the allies only a little and the invasion of Silesia by the Cossacks finally induced them to desist and send re-enforcements to Russia.

FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR ON THE SEA

At the end of the first year of war not a German fighting craft, except submarines, is known to be at large outside the Baltic sea. The Austrian warships are confined to the Adriatic and the Turkish fleet to the Sea of Marmora and adjacent straits. The merchant marine of the central European powers has disappeared utterly from the ocean highways. Sixty million dollars' worth of German shipping lies idle in the docks of New York, while several times as much is bottled up elsewhere. At the same time the German submarines have inflicted enormous losses of allied shipping. While both sides have probably concealed many losses, the following is a fairly accurate summary of the number of craft which have been destroyed:

Table showing ship losses for Entente Allies, British, and Teutonic Allies, including battleships, cruisers, submarines, and gunboats.

THE CHANGING BATTLE LINE IN THE EAST

The Germans again have penetrated as close to Warsaw as the star which marks the high tide of last autumn.

CAMPAIGNS OUTSIDE BIG WAR THEATERS

In a score of regions there has been fighting which would have worldwide attention were it not for the mighty battle lines in France and Poland. Servia's own war was a greater trial to her than either of the two preceding Balkan struggles. Assisted by Montenegro, the little Slavic nation threw the hosts of Franz Josef beyond her borders and inflicted losses of about 330,000 men, but she suffered severely herself.

The Austrians invaded Serbia in great force about August 15 and penetrated to the Jadar river, where a great five-day battle ended in the rout of the Teutons.

The Austrians returned soon in stronger force. They reached Valjevo, where on November 17 the Serbians met a defeat. With their supply of artillery ammunition exhausted, the Serbians now had to retreat. The Austrians, believing them crushed, withdrew six army corps for re-enforcements against the victorious Russians in Galicia.

Shells and English tanks with naval guns reached the Serbians, and on December 5 they turned on the Austrians and cut them to pieces. The entry of Turkey into the war was followed by British foehdary attempt to invade Egypt. Great Britain's Indian and colonial troops threw the invaders back with heavy losses.

British and Japanese troops invested the fortified German port of Tsingtau, China, and after a siege of a few weeks the defenders gave up the hopeless position.

A section of the Boer population of South Africa revolted. The revolt was put down by a Boer Premier Botha. He then invaded German Southwest Africa, and after a long campaign in the waterless deserts captured a greatly outnumbered German (July 13).

After taking three-quarters of a year to arm himself to the teeth, Italy attacked Austria this spring. The effect of the entry of Italy upon the arena has not yet been marked.

FIRST YEAR COST OF WAR IN MEN AND MONEY

Table showing the cost of war in men and money, including casualties and expenditures for various nations like Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey, France, etc.

FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR IN THE EAST

The first twelvemonth of fighting between the Russians on one side and the Austrians and Germans on the other is a story of great changes of fortune, both combatants being repeatedly driven back only to show the greatest resiliency in defeat and soon to resume the offensive in a most surprising manner.

The end of the year, however, finds the pendulum swinging strongly against the czar. He may recover and take again the roads to Cracow, Vienna and Berlin, but just at present he is on the whole in worse plight than an any hour since the war started.

Russia's losses in the first year of the war are not approached by those of any nation in any war of history. According to reliable estimates, she has had between 2,500,000 and 4,000,000 men killed, injured and captured. Despite these horrible gaps made in her ranks she still has millions in the field, and her great reservoir of personnel does not seem to be running low. It is not men she lacks, but guns, shells and brains.

Slow to Mobilize. On August 1, 1914, Germany declared war on Russia. Almost immediately the Germans crossed the frontier at Thorn and the Austrians south of Lublin. They were practically unopposed because of the slowness of mobilization in Russia. The Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch was forced to gather his main armies well to the rear of the line of great fortresses running through Kovno, Grodno, Ostrowo, Novo-Georgievsk, Warsaw and Ivanogrod.

On account of his desire to do all he could to relieve the French who were being driven from northern France by the amazing German rush through Belgium, Nicholas started earlier than he otherwise would have done. As a result, he met two disasters.

He sent General Samsonoff into East Prussia from the south and General Rennenkampf into East Prussia from the east, the latter winning the first large engagement of the war in the East at Gumbinnen.

At this moment the Germans believing that the French were well in hand and about to be surrounded on their eastern frontier, quickly withdrew 250,000 men from France and hurried them to the East. The Russian line, which they fell upon Samsonoff with crushing force in the great German victory of Tannenberg (Aug. 28).

Meanwhile, the Austrians, leaving only a few troops in Galicia to hold back the Russians advancing from Turinopol on the line of the Dniester, sent the Russians en masse at Krassnik and routed them to Lublin.

Most Bloody Drive of War. With two armies in difficulty, the grand duke decided to abandon one to its fate and save the other. He threw re-enforcements into Lublin and ordered the line of the Gnila-Lipa river to be forced at any cost. In one of the most bloody drives of the war the Russians advanced into eastern Galicia and occupied Lemberg.

The Russians then advanced to Rawa Ruska and took the Austrian armies in Poland in the rear, cutting them up frightfully. Meanwhile, Von Hindenburg had completed his victory over Samsonoff by turning on Rennenkampf and clearing East Prussia of Muscovites. But though Rennenkampf had been defeated and Samsonoff almost annihilated, the Germans.

The Russians were now as far west as Tarnow in Galicia, while their Cossacks were able to make raids into Hungary farther south. Hindenburg concentrated a great force suddenly in Silesia and began a drive from the west against Warsaw and Ivanogrod. The Siberian corps arrived in the nick of time to save Warsaw from the enemy.

High Tide of Russian Invasion. Hindenburg then drew off the northern section of his army in Poland to the north, thinking to take the pursuit ing Russians in flank with the southern section. But the Austrians were too slow to carry out the field marshal's plans and the Russians, slipping into a gap in the lines between the Germans and their allies, slaughtered the latter. The result was the high tide of Russian invasion. The Austrians withdrew over the Carpathians again, leaving Przemysl to be besieged a second time. The Germans withdrew to Silesia and the Russians, following closely, were able for a brief moment to raid the rich province at Pleschen. At the same time they entered East Prussia again.

But again the German strategic railways proved their undoing. Hindenburg concentrated at Thorn and drove into the right flank of the Russian main forces, throwing them back on Lodz.

He advanced too far, however, and when he had the Russian forces nearly surrounded, he suddenly found Russians in his own rear. In this extremity, the Russians say, he telegraphed for re-enforcements.

But before the re-enforcements sent from Flanders arrived the Germans had managed at frightful cost to hack their way to Lodz. This was the bloody battle of Lodz.

Wins Second Victory. With stronger German forces opposing them the Russians withdrew to the line of Buzza. Here and there the Russians attempted to debouch from the Carpathian passes, were driven back everywhere, leaving 50,000 prisoners.

With January Hindenburg made a third desperate attack on Warsaw. For ten days both night and day the Germans came on. Then, having lost probably 50,000 men and the Russians nearly as many, they gave it up.

Unable to reach Warsaw, Hindenburg concentrated twice Sievers' force in East Prussia, and won his second overwhelming victory. The enormous captures of Russians were made and the fortress of Grafovo was attacked farther west, from Oswowet to Pultusk. The Germans retreated to Miawa and then tried to flank the Russians at Praszany, which city they took. But the Russians again routed the flanking party, as they had done at Lodz and won an important success (February 22-23).

In March and April, the Russians pressed through the western Carpathian passes and entered Hungary. Just when their future seemed bright, the Russian line broke in the Russian line in West Galicia and led through enormous forces.

Pressing westward irresistibly, they took the Russian Carpathian armies in the rear. The latter tried to retreat, but vast numbers were captured. Przemysl, which had succumbed to the Russian besiegers March 22, fell again into the hands of the Austro-Germans.

Great German Maneuver. From Przemysl Von Mackensen drove east through Moszciska and Grodek and captured Lemberg, the Galician capital. Then he turned north to the Carpathians and the Gnila-Lipa to the line of the Zlota-Lipa from the south.

At the same time the Russians in southern Galicia, putting up a desperate resistance, were driven by Von Linsingen first to the line of the Dniester, which they crossed the Gnila-Lipa to the line of the Zlota-Lipa.

Reaching the vicinity of Krassnik in their drive to Warsaw from the south, the Austrians sustained a severe check in the scene of their triumph of the previous summer. Field Marshal Mackensen then crossed the Gnila-Lipa from the north and took the town of Praszany (July 14).

The Germans now began the grandest maneuver ever seen in the history of human warfare. From the Windava river in the Baltic provinces all the way along the border of East Prussia and in a gigantic sweep through the vicinity of Radom, west of the Vistula, and a line south of the Lublin-Cholm railway they delivered smashing blows and have reached the very gates of Warsaw.

The Cass Highway Act.

The law of greatest length enacted at the last session of the legislature is the Cass highway act. It contains 303 sections and covers in pamphlet form 120 pages.

It seems paradoxical to say that a law so voluminous is in the interest of clearness and brevity, and yet such a statement is strictly within the limits of truth. The act contains the place of about one thousand that for years past encumbered the statute books to the confusion of those interested in highway construction and improvement and even to the lawyers themselves.

These laws have been brought into logical arrangement, greatly reduced and clarified by the elimination of conflicting provisions.

It will now be comparatively easy for the average citizen, even though he be unversed in the intricacies of legal lore, to acquire a fair knowledge of the highway laws of Ohio.

The Cass act not only brought together and simplified the laws previously scattered through many volumes, but it has introduced new features that will stimulate local interest in highway improvements and to remove the conflict of authority between the state on the one side and the county and township on the other and thus encourage harmony and co-operation among the friends of the good roads movement in Ohio.

When 40 per cent of the roads of any county have been improved, that county, if it so desires, may have turned over to it its portion of the levy for intercounty highways to be expended in the improvement of such roads in accordance with the plans and specifications of the state highway department. In this way the uniformity of the state highway system is maintained while local authorities may have, if they so desire, an opportunity to supervise the expenditure of their moneys.

The county surveyor is made the county highway superintendent and his powers and duties are greatly increased. This change is in the interest of home rule and will render unnecessary the employment by the state highway commissioner of so many inspectors and agents to travel over the state and supervise the work on intercounty roads.

The state highway department will have entire control of the construction and improvement of the main market roads of the state. Contracts for work on these roads must now be let by competitive bidding. Under the old highway law this was not required.

Every day adds to the popular interest in public road improvement. It is a problem that affects the convenience and welfare of every citizen of Ohio. It is generally conceded that the Cass law will aid greatly in the solution of the problem. There has been no criticism anywhere of the law itself. In the absence of any possible basis for this, partisan opposition to the Willis administration has had to console itself with the "discovery" of imaginary "sleepers and defects" which will not be heard of after the dog days.—Mansfield News.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building- tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it. Scott & Borne, Bloomfield, N. J.
