

In Memoriam.

Frederick Layer, son of Frederick and Rosina Layer was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, on June 15, 1853. He died at his home in New Haven, Ohio, after a lingering illness at 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of August 28, 1915, aged 82 years, 2 months and 13 days.

Mr. Layer in company with his parents, brothers and sisters came to America when a lad of 13 years. After residing in Pennsylvania for one year, the family moved to Kosciusko county, Indiana, where Mr. Layer lived until twenty years of age. He then came to New Haven, O., in which village he has spent the remainder of a long and useful life.

The deceased was united in marriage with Miss Louise Vogel of Warsaw, Ind., on May 15, 1854. To this union there were born George W., who died in infancy, Louise S. Byers, Anna M. Beelman, Fred, Jr., and Rosina, the wife of G. W. Hoffman of Chicago Junction, who is now the only surviving member of this family, the mother being called to her rest on January 12, 1899.

The deceased was again united in marriage on September 9, 1869, with Miss Sarah Houston of New Haven. To this union were born Avis, wife of F. C. Stephens of Newark, Emma, wife of P. J. Doud of New Haven, Wm. Allen of Mansfield, Edna, wife of George Smith of New Haven and Ella, wife of Thurman Watts of Columbus. All the children of this union are living to mourn the death of their father.

Since their mother's death, March 7, 1908, his daughter, Emma, has had charge of the home and has tenderly cared for her father. Three sisters, two of whom are living in Junction City, Kansas, and Mrs. Anna Woodruff of Norwalk, are also among those who are left to mourn, as well as a large circle of relatives, including twenty grand-children and thirteen great grand-children.

Mr. Layer was a valued citizen in the community in which he lived. He has served in many capacities. In New Haven's more prosperous days he was engaged in the general merchandise business in the firm known as Mills & Layer. He was also postmaster of the local postoffice. In the early days he carried the mail between New Haven and Norwalk on horseback through what was then a wild and rugged stretch of country.

In the civil war he was enlisted in Company I, 1st Regiment of U. S. Volunteers. He was honorably discharged from service July 1, 1865. He was a member of the Plymouth Post of G. A. R., and one of the oldest members the New Haven I. O. O. F. Mr. Layer has been a devoted member of the Methodist church for many years. Although a man of modest and retiring nature, the silent influence of his life as a consistent and conscientious christian man has made itself deeply felt in the lives of all who have been associated with him in any way.

About two years ago Mr. Layer was compelled to give up his active duties on account of the infirmities of old age and malignant form of disease. During the days of his illness he showed the same kindly disposition for others that he manifested all through his life.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church at New Haven on Tuesday afternoon, August 31st, 1915, at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Akers. At the close of the church service the I. O. O. F. brethren took charge of the services.

Interment was made in Maplegrove cemetery south of New Haven, members of the I. O. O. F. order acting as pall bearers.

Valuations Are Reduced.

The valuations placed upon several of the railroads passing through Huron county, as fixed by the state tax commission, has been forwarded to District Tax Commissioner Griffin to be by him placed on the county duplicate.

The work is not yet complete, neither the New York Central nor the Big Four lines having yet been reported. Of seven roads or branches thus far reported, the figures, with one exception, show a decrease in valuations. The Akron and Chicago Junction road, a part of the B. & O. system, is the only road where the valuation has been increased. The increase amounts to $35,000, in round figures, while the decrease in the other six roads amounts to $310,000 a decrease of $275,000.

The roads returned with their valuation for 1915 and 1914 are as follows:

- Akron & Chicago Junction—1915, $2,486,510; 1914, $2,462,100.
- Baltimore & Ohio—1915, $1,185,740; 1914, $1,328,870.
- Nickel Plate—1915, $419,430; 1914, $427,000.
- Sandusky, Mansfield & Newark—1915, $1,272,710; 1914, $1,179,790.
- W. & L. E., main line—1915, $1,727,380; 1914, $1,805,130.
- W. & L. E., Huron branch—1915, $99,530; 1914, $118,550.
- Northern Ohio—1915, $186,070; 1914, $196,390.

Brought Home for Burial.

John Christian Hass, a former well known Plymouth farmer, but who for several years has been a resident above place last Wednesday, following an extended illness of nearly three years. About three years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time his health had gradually failed. The direct cause of his death was called a dropsy.

The funeral services were held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the family home on Second street, Shelby and were conducted by Rev. J. H. Neuhauser, pastor of the Lutheran church. The body was brought to Plymouth where interment was made in Greenlawn cemetery.

John Christian Hass was born in Germany, May 24, 1850, and was aged 65 years, 3 months and 4 days at the time of his death. He came to this country with his parents, when he was a small boy and since that time had been a resident of Richland county. He had lived on a farm near Plymouth for 25 years then moved to a farm near Shiloh where he resided a short time, going to Shelby three years ago.

School Notes.

The Plymouth schools will open Monday, Sept. 6 at 8:30 a. m., for a short session. The balance of the day will be given to arranging the program and classifying pupils.

The prospects of a successful and profitable school year seem very encouraging. We sincerely hope the year will be successful from the viewpoint of the patrons and teachers, and profitable to the pupils.

The board of education has a ruling that no children be allowed to enter the primary school unless they are six years old by January 1, January 2 will not do. Not that one day makes any difference in the mentality of the child; but there must be a discriminating date.

A certain educator said that education consists of three processes: retention, attention, and retention. We can see that the neglect of any one of these elements means failure. Pupils in school do not usually fail because of feeble-mindedness. Failure is usually due to the disregard of one of the above processes. Let each pupil do his or her best each day, remembering that all this work is for his or her own betterment, not the teacher's, and success will follow, "as the night follows the day".

ROBERT WARWICK IN THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

A Five Act Drama to be Shown at Wonderland Wednesday Evening.

The particular "graft" that Mr. Broadhurst attacked is a scheme on the part of the "graft" and showed financial records of the New York City council which would give to a traction company a group of perpetual franchises. The passage of that bill would be a great pecuniary gain for many parties, while it ties the city up forever so that competition for franchises would be unknown. Election is near at hand, and in looking about for a suitable candidate for the mayoralty, who could be "handled," young Garrison, who has earned for himself a large fortune, is selected as the most likely man. The young man is in love with the niece of the financier, and she has told him that before she could promise to become his wife, he must prove himself and do something. The mayoralty is his opportunity. He accepts the nomination, and after a strong fight is elected. The franchise bill in the course of time passes the council and comes to the mayor for his signature. But Garrison, realizing that it is a steal, steadfastly refuses to sign. All sorts of pressure is brought to bear, and for a time it would appear that his course would cost him not only his love, but his entire fortune, but take her from him. In the end strict honesty proves to be the best policy, and despite obstacles, which seem almost insurmountable, Garrison wins his sweetheart.

Free Correspondence Course in Farming.

With the starting of the 22 correspondence courses in agriculture which have been prepared by instructors in the college, Ohio State University is taking upon a large scale an entirely new line of extension educational work. Each course, arranged in from 4 to 13 lessons, is designed to give a working knowledge of the particular branch of agriculture treated. Each course is free to any resident of Ohio interested in farming, whether or not he is engaged at present in agricultural work. A bulletin describing the 22 courses will be sent, upon request to J. E. McClintock, Director of Correspondence Courses, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

What You Should Weigh.

Life insurance companies are becoming more and more strict in their physical requirements of those who would take out policies. Any material falling in weight from their table or normal weight statistics is in itself sufficient to cause them, in most cases, to regard the applicant as an "undesirable risk." The following table of normal weights enables both men and women to know exactly what they should weigh to conform to the average for various heights:

Confederate Sergeant Wyatt of the Princeton artillery... meets a mountaineer named John Taylor...

CHAPTER IV.

Into the Enemies' Hands. The major lay dead with my blood-stained revolver... Dawn would reveal the deed...

I stood there, lamp in one hand and rifle in the other, staring down at the dead face of the major... The front door was fastened and barred...

I intent now on my own purpose of discovery, my mind active and alert... I began a rapid search of the house...

I entered my own position precariously. Harwood had surely ventured into this doubtful region without a single soldier...

Thinking now only of my own escape unobserved, I felt my way into the night with my bundle...

Not a light gleamed in any direction and I could recall no other house near by...

There was nothing I could do but flee swiftly through the night... I permitted myself to give my alarm...

I rode toward Hot Springs as rapidly as I dared... I was an hour later when we came suddenly to the fork...

on into the night, feeling I had escaped from immediate danger... I took to be the tavern corner I discovered...

I must have looped along thus for ten minutes, all thought of pursuit already dismissed...

"In God's name! where did you come from? Here, Snow, see what this fellow looks like..."

"I have no objection to telling you my name and rank," I said coldly...

The rather contemptuous tone of voice employed had greater effect on the fellow than the evidence of his eyes...

"So I see," but with no cordiality in his words... "But that is hardly convincing..."

"Third United States cavalry; on recruiting detail. I was to meet Harwood at Hot Springs..."

"Well, this stumps me!" his voice growled suddenly harder... "It doesn't sound straight..."

"I drew the official envelope from my pocket, and held it out to him calmly..."

"The flame lit up their faces—the officer a thin-faced man with mustache and imperial, his teeth oddly prominent..."

"Oh, I see—you are Lieutenant Raymond. Got to you as earlier than you expected. Find many recruits north?"

"No," I answered, taken completely by surprise, but managing to control my voice...

"I described him minutely, hoping for some recognition, but the captain did not appear to recall any such character..."

"We have only been in this region a few months," he said, in explanation... "I don't remember any such chap..."

"Only man like that I've heard of, sir, is old Ned Cowan, and it ain't likely he's left the mountains to go into 'Old Jack's' camp..."

"Hardly. Cowan is too well known to take the risk. Either side would hang the bound on sight. Well, let's ride along into Hot Springs..."

There was no excuse left me, no reason that I could urge for riding on alone westward... I could clearly collect my thoughts...

J. BARLEYCORN, BAD DRIVER

His Hands Shake, His Knees Wobble and His Conscience is More Than Half Asleep.

John Barleycorn is a bad chauffeur. His hand shakes, his knees wobble, his eyesight is poor and his conscience is asleep...

That is why little sympathy is felt for the Baltimore man just sentenced to two years in the penitentiary because, while intoxicated, he ran down and killed a woman...

One does not have to be intoxicated to deserve prison for reckless driving. Nor does one have to be rich, as the Baltimore man is...

Merchants doing business in Russia are advised by the Merchants' association of New York to use the Russian language in preference to the French...

"Not Robbery, for Here Is Money and a Watch." Turn the body over, Green—the poor dealer was knitted. Here, a half dozen of you, unslung carbines and follow me—there's been dirty work done...

I advanced with them up the driveway, fearful that if I held back it might later be commented upon. The front door refused admittance, but we entered from the rear...

"Dead for hours," he exclaimed in a tone of horror, turning his gaze upon me. "Struck from behind—see, Raymond. What in God's name can this mean?"

"I began searching the pockets. "Not robbery—for here is money, and a watch. But the papers are gone, every scrap of them..."

"Yes, sir," and the young, boyish soldier addressed straightened up. "I was with him when he put on citizen's clothes and he slipped a big buff pocket into his pocket..."

"Do you know what that packet contained, captain?" I questioned. "I do not know. Harwood expected to meet Taylor here at Hot Springs..."

"There was nothing further to be discovered, and Fox realized the necessity of haste. His orders were prompt. Four men were detailed to bury the body, and then rejoin the column as soon as possible..."

"It was an hour later when we came suddenly to the fork of the road, leading over a long clay hill, the west along a rocky ridge. Fox sprang to the ground and followed the faint prints of the horse we were pursuing...

for a hundred yards on foot. Some cattle had passed southward, but there was no definite sign of the animal Taylor rode clearly revealed in the clay. The captain came back, a grim smile on his lips...

"The cuss was no Johnny Reb," he said shortly. "That was what I was afraid of, but now I know what to do. We'll have our horses, men, for this is going to be a long haul..."

"About the best thing I can do," I replied readily, "my orders were for Green Briar and Fayette..."

Silently, as they for the jingle of accoutrements and the clink of horses' feet, we rode westward, sunlight flecking the dusty uniforms. The pike dipped down into a hollow and, climbing the hill beyond, appeared the figures of the four scouts...

BEFORE PRUNING AFTER PRUNING

Just as your boy John seems wholly different from his brother Richard and your daughter Helen has to be either coaxed or punished while Mary is obedient to the slightest parental suggestion...

If apple growing is to reach its maximum possibilities, pruning must be carefully practiced, horticulturists agree, but specific rules universally applicable cannot be laid down...

There are certain general principles, however, and these F. S. Merrill, assistant in horticulture in the Kansas State Agricultural college, emphasizes. Not only young trees, but neglected ones, are discussed by Mr. Merrill...

Condition Governs Pruning Time. "The time for pruning," says Mr. Merrill, "will be governed largely by the condition of the orchard..."

The effect of heavy winter pruning is to promote a heavy wood and watersprout growth. The reason for this is that the roots have been unchanged while the top has been reduced...

To restore the balance that normally exists between the top and the root system, a vigorous growth takes place. This is important in rejuvenating old or neglected trees...

Improving Form of Tree. "The pruning for the second and third years will consist in improving and developing the form of the tree..."

"After this time, the formation of the fruit spurs should be started. If the growth is very rank, the spurs that grow back through the center of the tree should be removed..."

"The pruning from the third year should be done so as to form a compact tree. "After this time, the formation of the fruit spurs should be started..."

APPLE TREES ARE INDIVIDUAL PROBLEMS

The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubbery
Their Care and Cultivation

Beautiful Home Grounds.

BEAUTY OF HOME YARD

By H. H. SHEPARD.
The immediate grounds about the home can be made beautiful, and an effort should be made in that direction. The home grounds should be simple, as large as is consistent with the size of the dwelling.

An acre is not too much. Some think that an acre of land is too much to waste on a simple home yard, but the better the home grounds the better will be the life of the family. It is a wrong estimate of life and property to be forever making money to enlarge the farm in area, in buying extra tracts of land for future use, and not improve and make the most of the ground where the wife and children spend nearly all of the best of their life.

Some look forward and prepare too much for pleasure to come, and do not expend any means on making the present the very best that it can be. They let the home grounds and surroundings remain shabby and unimproved, spending the extra money on property to be handed down to the children or putting it in the bank.

This is wrong when there is any neglect in home improvement. If the children need help, by all means, they need it now while they are helpless more than when they grow up and will be able to fully care for themselves, perhaps much better than we ever shall be able to care for them. They need the comfort, healthful, neat and beautifying influences of good homes and surroundings in order to make them healthy, strong, beautiful and good. These are infinitely better than inherited real estate, personal property, or money.

The child whose home life is perfect for physical and mental development will go out into the world with a rich heritage.

The grounds around the home should be well drained and graded to suit the location. The main open part of the space should be lawn of good grass and be kept mowed low at all times so that the air and sunlight may purify the soil.

Abundance of flowers, shrubs and trees are essentials for completing the picture, but flowers and shrubs must be grouped in clumps and borders along the sides and the trees must be grouped in one place, somewhat removed from one side of the dwelling.

HIGH AND BRIMLESS

AUTUMN HATS NOT FAVORED BY AVERAGE WOMAN.

Latest Millinery Creations Savor Unpleasantly of the Reign of Louis XI—Silk Top Hat of Eton is Being Adopted.

There is no longer any doubt that the autumn hats will be almost brimless and unusually high. Neither one of these features recommends itself to the average woman. She does not possess the face to wear such a hat. Youth, glorious, insolent youth, which in these recent days has been able to take unto itself any of the sartorial bravados of the hour, will, probably, adopt these hats that savor, unpleasantly, of the reign of Louis XI, whose era was enlivened by the wit of Francoisillon and by the hemlin which brought its obdurate wearers a stern rebuke from the church.

Any and all kinds of high, brimless hats seem to be on the milliners' shelves. The silk top hat, worn by the schoolboy at Eton, is among the number and has already been worn over here, much to the amusement of the bystanders, who thought it was merely a theatrical trick. It appears now that it was a genuine forerunner of a new fashion.

It goes with the broad Eton collar of stiffened linen which the shops have been trying to make popular since April. When a young woman adds the hat and the collar to a short Eton jacket of velveteen, it is a pity that the excessively narrow skirt has ceased to be, for its addition as a final touch to the costume would be an excellent mimicry of British boyhood.

The Eton jacket, by the way, is not at all amiss in the fashions of the day. It has an original counterpart in the loose bolero that the French are putting on their newest evening frocks, boleros of beaded embroidery, of tulle embroidered, of crystal net under which shine the colors of a soft sash.

Another point about the new hats—to get back to the subject—is the promised use of flowers. This is done in Paris to give plentiful work to the thousands of flower makers among the women and girls, and it may spread over here. Everywhere one sees evidence now of the employment of available and needy human material by the French fashion creators.

Higher Heels.

Heels of women's shoes are to be higher than they have been before. This will give the effect of short dresses even than fashion has decreed. This decision of shoe designers applies only to the higher grade of shoes for dressy wear.

DRESS TRIMMINGS FOR FALL

Applique, According to Predictions. Will Be Popular for Fall and Winter Gowns.

Applique trimmings are predicted for fall and winter gowns. One gown of silk has black velvet leaves applied to its bodice and skirt, the leaves being bound with silk-covered cord.

Silk braids are used extensively to bind seams to form bands around the bottom of the skirt and to give a military effect to coats and gowns.

Fringe is also used to a considerable extent, and hand embroidery is also enjoying popularity. The work is done usually with heavy rope silks or wool. An interesting feature of the hand embroidery that is used on the best type of gowns is that no particular design is followed. In fact, the worker has full sway to let her needle wander where it will. This makes it possible for the home sewer to introduce a prominent feature on one or two of her gowns.

Narrow ribbons in great quantity are applied in a variety of ways on many dresses. Entire bodices are sometimes composed of rows and rows of ribbon. Ruffles of ribbons about three inches wide are employed in some cases to produce an artistic effect on the newest skirts. Such a treatment is truly economical, for it saves the cost of extra material to form an entire apron.

Fancy buttons in colors to correspond with the trimming or with the gown material frequently give the finishing touch to many of the new garments.

FROCK IN SATIN AND TULLE

Design That is Excellent for the Making Over of Last Year's Dress.

This drawing shows a fetching satin and tulle evening frock whose design is excellent for the making over of a last year's frock. The skirt of cream tulle hangs over an underskirt of pink satin and is decorated by five bias bands of white satin. The bodice is made up of lace, tulle and satin, the latter material in the form of a deep girdle forming the principal part of the bodice. A novelty is the introduction of narrow picot edge ribbon in marine blue, which is draped about the waist and on the skirt, where it is held by tiny pink satin roses.

LAST WORD IN 'KERCHIEFS

Lavender, Straw, Pink, Clue and Nile Green Are Colors Affected in Trimming.

Handkerchiefs with a frill of white cotton are popular, as are also lavender, straw, pink, blue and Nile green handkerchiefs. Round corners are seen as well as square. Val lace corners are smart. Pure white handkerchiefs are seen with a band of cotton net above a hem with a platted frill of the net edging the hem. The light ly-tinted handkerchiefs are certainly enjoying favor, as well as fine handkerchiefs in pure white with a scalloped edge and corners in eyelet work. All embroidery is light in effect. Second mourning handkerchiefs have a frill of violet net on a white core. First mourning have black hems and clustered cords. Another style has a black net or lace frill on a white center. Clusters of short bars in black above the hem look well and there is always the plain black hem of various widths.

Military and Tactful.

Of blue taffeta, and very military as to line and trimming, is a coat for summer wear. Indeed, so closely but toned to the neck and so long is it cut that one wonders whether the fair wearer conceals anything more beneath its sheltering lines than her lacy petticoat and camisole. It might very well answer the purpose of a dress, and no one would be any the wiser. Dull gold stars ornament the collar and cuff corners, while tanned gold braid makes very military-looking and sturdy buckles for the taffeta cartridge belt which holds the folds of the coat trimly in place.

For a Sunburned Baby.

Bathe the inflamed skin with a solution consisting of one teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a pint of water. Cold cream is also helpful in taking out the burning sensation.

Clothes Trees For the Kiddies.

Much work and confusion may be avoided when the children dress at night if each one is made the proud possessor of a small hat tree or clothes tree, or costumer, as they are called. These come in white enamel, mahogany or any other finish of wood, stand four and one-half feet high and have eight branches, a branch for each article of wearing apparel. Clothes will be well aired, the room kept in neatness and order, and everything ready in place in the morning. The children love them and it is a good way to teach them orderliness and hygiene. They are inexpensive. Surprise them some morning with one.

A Morsing Smock.

On the lines of the smock coat for morning wear is a short smock slip to take the place of breakfast jacket or morning blouse. These short smocks fall just to the hip and have a loose blouse belt to hold the loose, smocked garments in trim lines on the figure. The smartest models are of white or tan khaki-look, an all-silk pongee, with the smocking done by hand with brown or leaf-green silk. Elbow sleeves and a low turnover collar make the smock comfortable on summer mornings.

Pretty Narrow Brail.

A pretty narrow brail is quickly made of ordinary mercerized crochet cotton, or coarse silk; Chain 2, a double in first chain, * chain 1, a double in left-hand, outside loop of previous double; repeat from * to required length. Suitable for lingerie tape, drawstrings, or trimming. Needlecraft.

The General Says:

Know why and how are essential to any success. Every officer that has to acknowledge that the same sort of military preparedness that fits a nation for its defense is the most effective principle in making an industry of any kind serviceable and profitable both to manufacturer and consumer.

This Great Roofing Organization Is Trained Like an Army
Three enormous mills—offered and manned by the best trained force ever enlisted in an industrial army—three huge factories that are run like clockwork. Military exactness in the securing and selection of raw material, and in every step from them on until the finished product is distributed and sold.
Constant readiness—being prepared every minute for the work to be done the next—Right there you have your finger on the great, essential reasons for the unflinching satisfaction every user finds in

Certain-teed

Slate Surface SHINGLES

This roofing certainly has no superior. It is the best roofing that can possibly be made and it is manufactured in and guaranteed by the largest Roofing and Building Paper Mills in the World. 1-ply is guaranteed 5 years, 2-ply, 10 years, and 3-ply, 15 years, and this guarantee means the minimum life of the roofing. Thousands of Certain-teed Roofs all over the country are outliving the period of the guarantee.

When the General first entered the field the cost of roofing was two or three times more than it is today and the quality was not as high as Certain-teed is today. By reason of his enormous output the General has not only been able to bring down the cost and selling price of roofing, but he has also been able to raise the quality to its maximum. Today every fifth roll of roofing sold bears the Certain-teed label.

Certain-teed roofing, shingles, wall boards, felts, building papers, etc., bearing the General's name, are sold by your local lumber or hardware dealer at very reasonable prices. Don't send your money away for these goods. Patronize your home dealer.

There are 253 negroes in Richland county, according to an announcement which has just been made by the census bureau at Washington. The negro population of all Ohio counties is also made public. Fifty-one Ohio counties have more negroes than Richland county, the report shows, making Richland rank fifty-second in the list. In Ohio there are 111,452 negroes of whom 57,950 are males and 53,500 are females.

Fifteen hundred state civil service employes automatically lost their jobs Monday when the new Barnes-Moore civil service law became effective. However, they will remain temporarily on the payroll as emergency Attorney General Hogan, in behalf of the ousted job-holders, has filed in the common pleas court a petition for an injunction preventing the civil service commission from enforcing the new law.

Applicants for certificates to teach school must inform themselves as to the dates on which the county examinations are held according to the ruling received by the county boards of examiners from the attorney general. The board has no right to advertise the dates. It has been the custom to publish regularly the date of examinations but the attorney general holds the law fixes the time of examinations and those who teach must inform themselves.

The Blas law became effective last week and will probably result in a deluge to the anonymous political circulars and booklets that have been features of recent political campaigns in the state. Under that law every political publication of that sort must bear the signature of the author. Posters and political advertisements must bear the names of the officers of the organization putting them out. Violation brings a fine of from $100 to $1,000 and up to one year imprisonment. The author is Norman Bliss of Cleveland.

H. Moore, a well known passenger conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad running between Newark and Sandusky, saved the life of a passenger at Mt. Vernon yesterday. The man tried to board No. 4 as it was pulling out of the station. The motion of the train swung the man between the coaches with no foothold. The conductor seized the man by the collar just as he was going down under the wheels and dragged him to the step and then up into the vestibule. A "safety first" talk followed.

Horse thieves are thicker in Ohio than pickpockets, according to the state penitentiary census. During the eight months ended July 1, 25 horse thieves were committed to the pen, while only 19 "dips" were enrolled. But one person was sentenced for stealing an automobile. During the same period 11 men with loving dispositions received the pen to serve time for bigamy. The census shows 53 prisoners were committed for murder, 214 for burglary and larceny, 69 for robbery, 38 for forgery, 31 for abandonment, 29 for carrying concealed weapons and 27 for getting into traps. Cuyahoga county with a record of 79, ranked first in number of prisoners sentenced; Franklin was second with 67 and Hamilton third with 59.

For this purpose a single application of Sloan's Liniment not only kills the pain but destroys the germs. How would you like to live in a town without a single store? How long would you live in such a town? And, yet, if everyone sent money, away for goods, as some do, there would not be a store left in this town in sixty days. Loyalty is a God given trait, and should be freely given to the community that gives you shelter and sustenance.

"Oysters—the Food That Has Not 'Gone Up'" is the title of the Government's latest cook book, issued through the Bureau of Fisheries. It contains 100 recipes for preparing the bivalves. The book says that "an animal food which practically has not increased in cost for 25 years, and the production of which has kept pace with the growth of population."

The movement for giving distinctive names to farms is making headway in every direction, and it is a good thing. Some state agricultural bodies are now giving lists of names suitable for farms, and while there seems to be a sameness in the lists printed, yet the fiction is wise. There is, perhaps, not a farm but what has some distinguishing feature about it that may easily suggest an appropriate name by which the farm may be known. Certainly, or for sentimental reasons only, it is good to have a farm name.

A carrier pigeon, known as Ben Bolt, which was shipped from Los Angeles, Calif., to Norwalk several days ago, and which was liberated from the top of a piano factory at Norwalk last Wednesday, stands as the new champion today, having made the record flight of 2,200 miles in 5 days, 9 hours, 31 minutes and 10 seconds, the greatest distance ever covered by a trained bird. A special from Los Angeles says: "Shortly after noon Ben Bolt swept down from a great altitude and fluttered into his pen in the rear of the home of his owner, George H. Skofield, 4610 South Gramery place. He had made the flight in a little more than five days, and showed no ill effects of the long flight."

It will be good news to the many friends of Dr. A. C. Miller, a former pastor of the Lutheran church here to learn that he has resigned his charge in Injuria, Ky., last Sabbath to accept the pastorate of St. Matthews church on Park Avenue, Mansfield, the change to be effective October 1st. Those who know the doctor can realize at once what is in store for the congregation at Mansfield, where a live, energetic, christian worker, such as he has proven himself to be, is needed at present. The Mansfield charge is certainly to be congratulated on the wise choice they have made. The Louisville church, under the administration of Dr. Miller has doubled in its material strength and has made friends and stirred along all lines of christian work. The many friends of the Dr. and his estimable wife, welcome them back to Ohio and are certainly pleased to know that they will be located so near Plymouth once again.

A new 90-foot balloon has been purchased by Lutz & Silver, of Lexington, in which to make ascensions this fall. It will be remembered that the balloon used by this combination was burned up after a flight during the centennial celebration at Plymouth. The new balloon is a much larger one and claimed by its owner to be the largest in the state.

If time hangs heavily on your hands, or if you want to avoid growing old or unhappy, take up some new study with a view to mastering it—music, a new language, shorthand, typewriting, or anything you please. What you learn can not hurt you and may be of some practical value to you, but above all it gives a new zest and interest to life just to be learning something new.

When you run across a creature who is nothing but a wreck; who looks as if the universe had hit him in the neck. Don't mutter to yourself, "I'll bet the cause is drinking rum," or "I know it is some bad habit that has put him on the bum." Just remember that you don't know how he was born and raised; you do not know his history, or how his soul was crazed. Perhaps if you had come the way, that this old cuss had come, you too, would long ago have been completely on the bum.

Many new faces will be seen behind the desks and tables in the Richland county court house next Monday, provided the court house is open on that day, which is a legal holiday, being Labor Day. The offices which change on that date are the county recorder, surveyor and treasurer. John M. Woerth will be succeeded by Chas. J. Stecker as recorder, C. L. Fisher will be succeeded by Emmett A. Merkel as county surveyor and Joseph W. Hale by Herman E. Homberger as county treasurer. Each will appoint deputies but these have not been announced.

A Family Reunion.

On August twenty-sixth, sixty-seven members of the Brown family met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cole, for their third annual reunion.

Since the weather-man kindly withheld the rain for that day the meeting proved a veritable lawn party with a noontime feast of good things to eat, and an outdoor program of recitations and music. Members were present from Fairfield, Greenwich, Sandusky, Tiffin, Chicago Junction, Milan, Du Quoin, Attica, Ashley, Cleveland and Plymouth.

Officers for the coming year are: Pres. Frank Brown; Vice Pres. Henry Cole; Secretary, Elsie Brown; treasurer, James Brown, Sr., program committee, Elsie Brown, Cora Newman and Jessie Cole.

The next meeting will be held August 18th, at the home of Mrs. Clara Laws, at Milan.

Methodist Notes.

The rain last Sunday evening again interfered with holding the service out-doors.

Next Sunday morning the pulpit will be occupied by a representative of the Anti-Saloon League. The pastor will preach in the evening.

Two Sundays remain before the pastor leaves for Conference. If you have not as yet made your offering for Missions and the various benevolences of the church, there is still time.

The Epworth League announces a picnic for Labor Day, Sept. 6, to be held north of town near the river. A Rally service will be held next Sunday evening at the League meeting at six o'clock. All young folks are invited to be present.

GERMANS ARE HELD BACK BY THE SLAVS

Toutons Operating in Galicia Are Meeting With Stubborn Resistance by Foe. DESTROYER OF LINER ARABIC IS SUNK

London, Eng.—The Germans, continuing their efforts to fold back the two extreme Russian wings, in the Courland and southeastern Galicia, are meeting stubborn resistance by the Russians. A message from Lodz, in Russian Poland, states that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has launched a million men, including huge forces of cavalry, against the Russian positions on the Niemen and the Bobro and that a terrific battle is raging around the Friedrichstadt bridgehead, the key to Riga.

Aim to Capture Riga. These operations are under direct command of Hans Von Beseler, the "battering ram" of Antwerp and of Novogorodsk and aim at removing Riga, the great Russian naval base, as a menace to the German rear. The news that vast forces have been diverted to this section, enabling the Germans to regain the offensive which was lost recently through the Russian successes in the naval action in the Gulf of Riga, has caused pessimism in military circles here for the results to the Russians.

It is feared that unless large forces can be so disposed by the Grand Duke Nicholas that they will be in a position to strike at the German flank. Friedrichstadt cannot be held without grave peril. With the loss of Friedrichstadt, Riga, it is believed, could not be held, and semi-official advices from Petrograd are to the effect that the Russian public is being prepared for the evacuation of the city and naval base.

Slavs Launch Counter Attacks. On the other wing the Germans and their Austrian allies are meeting with heavy resistance by large Russian forces, which have launched counter attacks from strong positions along the Strypa river, east of the Selota Lina. Heavy fighting is proceeding for the passages of the river. Further to the north the Teutons report gains in the region of Ruzichow, where regiments of the Buda-Pest division of Hungarians stormed strongly fortified Russian positions.

Disputes from Vienna also report a decided advance on the fortress of Louisk, Austrian troops operating to the north and northeast of the fortress from the direction of Kovel, having driven the Russians away. West of Grodno the Germans have pressed their advance to within 12 miles of the fortress, reaching the Novoy-Kniza line. The Russians are reported by German aviators to be steadily evacuating the stronghold, which is the objective of two armies converging from the west and southwest and is not expected to hold out much longer.

Arabic Destroyer Is Sunk. Liverpool, England.—The German submarine which sank the White Star liner Arabic was sunk the following day by a British patrol boat. This fact was confirmed here. While the submarine was engaged in trying to hold up the Leyland liner Nicolson, a British patrol came up and shelled the submarine. All the members of the submarine's crew lost their lives.

Blast Is Fatal to Three. San Francisco, Cal.—A train carrying 7,000 pounds of dynamite ran off the track at Pinole, Cal., and blew up, killing three men. The dead are Harold Bennett, engineer; Bert Talbot, fireman; and an unidentified laborer. Nothing remained of the train. Nearby powder plants were not damaged. Pinole is on the shore of San Francisco bay, 15 miles from here. The shock of the explosion was felt in San Francisco and Oakland.

FAMOUS 'LOOP THE LOOP' AIRMAN DIES

'Daredevil' Pegoud, Noted for His Many Hair-Raising Exploits, Is Killed.

TOOK PROMINENT PART IN THE WAR

Hurled From His Machine Bombs With Almost Unfailing Accuracy on German Munition Depots and Gun Positions.

Paris, France.—Adolphe Pegoud, the famous "loop-the-loop" aviator, was killed Tuesday. "Daredevil" Pegoud, so called because of his many hair-raising exploits in aeroplanes, was the man of whom a member of the French general staff said recently, "His value to the French army is equivalent of a whole army corps."

Executed Feats of Daring. Long before the war Pegoud was acclaimed as the premier aviator of the world. He was the first man flyer to execute the famous "loop-the-loop." But he was not satisfied, and almost weekly startled the world with new feats of daring and cool-brained work. The new machine with aerial somersault worn off, he resorted to lateral movements as a variety, and an example of his complete mastery of the monoplane—his favorite machine was a Bleriot—was given during an exhibition flight at Brooklands, in England. Three months ago, when he amazed great throngs of British spectators by flying, not only upside down and sideways, but dived 3,000 feet in five seconds, finishing his performance with a double loop-the-loop. Other favorite gyrations included flying for a quarter of a mile upside down, while strapped to the seat of his machine, describing vertical loops and making spiral half turns while his head hung downward.

Received Medal for Valor. When the war started Pegoud was in Hamburg awaiting the arrival of three new machines with the intention of proceeding to America. He at once offered his services to France and soon became a terror to Germans on and behind the fighting line. His audacity and his skill quickly earned him the title of "the falcon of the Taube." From his quarters he was hurled with almost unfailing accuracy on German munition depots and gun positions, captive balloons directing gunners were smashed, convoys were wrecked, railroads and depots demolished, and with apparent impunity. He flew both day and night, without schedule, and never a day, but he got his bag. To sight an enemy aeroplane was a signal for combat. Only last March he was decorated with the military decoration said.

On several occasions he pursued enemy aeroplanes and on Feb. 3 attacked at a great height and caused the fall of a German machine. Soon afterward he attacked two other air craft, causing one to fall and the second to land. In April he brought down a German Taube near Saint-Menhold while alone on patrol and then captured and brought in as prisoners the German pilot and observer. Earlier in the same day he had driven off three German machines in an air battle.

BODIES TAKEN FROM F-4

SEVERAL CORPSES OF MEN WHO DIED IN U. S. SUBMARINE ARE FOUND IN VESSEL.

Honolulu.—Several bodies of the 22 men who sank to their death in the United States submarine F-4 March 25 in Honolulu bay, were found Tuesday entangled in the mud and debris in the vessel's hold. One body was preserved. Others, in a bad state of preservation, were found later. The body which has been taken from the vessel has been identified as that of George E. Ashcroft of Los Angeles, gunner's mate. It is thought identification of the other bodies never can be made unless some distinctive mark on the men's clothing will make this possible.

Washington, D. C.—Serious weaknesses common to all four of the navy's "F" type of submarine are pointed out in the report. Just made public by the board of inquiry which made an investigation of the vessel immediately after the loss of the F-4. The report praises the men who went down in the F-4 as efficient and as having shown ability to operate the submersible with as much safety as the type of boat permitted.

John Brown's Aid Dies. Madison, Wis.—Edward P. Bridgman, aged 81, one of the few survivors of the band that fought under John Brown of Ossawatimie, Kan., in 1862, died at his home here.

Sixteen Miners Killed. Johnstown, Pa.—Sixteen miners, most of them foreigners, were killed by a gas explosion in the Oreanda mine of the Merchants' Coal Co. at Bonifield. Three of the men were working in the mine at the time of the blast, and it was first believed that all had escaped with the exception of one, Joe, Mentok, who was instantly killed. When the debris near the entrance was cleared, however, rescuers found the bodies of 14 others, who had been overcome by the after-damp.

FIXES BLAME FOR COLORADO STRIKE

Member of U. S. Board Puts Responsibility on Shoulders of Operators.

Charges John D. Rockefeller and Kin With Selecting Incompetent and Reactionary Agents as Executive Officials of Company.

Washington, D. C.—The responsibility for the strike of coal miners in Colorado in 1913 and 1914 for the disorder and suffering that followed is placed squarely on the shoulders of operators in a report by George P. West, just made public by the commission on industrial relations. The Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., controlled by John D. Rockefeller, is declared to have been the leader in formulating and carrying out strike policies. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are charged, first, with the selection of incompetent and reactionary agents to serve as executive officials in this company, and, second, with giving their heartiest endorsement and support to these officials after they had taken action that precipitated the worst of the troubles. Rockefeller, Jr., is charged with having approved measures to coerce the state government of Colorado and with having flouted the will of the president of the United States.

Write Letters of Praise. The report says: "During all the seven tragic and bitter months that preceded the strike, Rockefeller wrote letters after letters to the press, in which he lauded the good deeds of men who acts during this period had precipitated a reign of terror and bloodshed. It was only when the Ludlow massacre filled the press of the nation with editorial denunciation, when miners in black silently paraded in front of his New York office, when cartoons in the conservative press pilloried him and his father before an angry public, that at last complicity gives way to concern in his letters and telegrams to Denver."

Mr. Rockefeller's responsibility has a significance beyond even the slender results of his policy in Colorado. The perversion of and contempt for government, the disregard of public welfare and the defiance of public opinion during the Colorado strike must be considered as only one manifestation of the autocratic and anti-social spirit of a man whose enormous wealth gives him infinite opportunity to act in similar fashion in broader fields.

"Fighting a Good Fight." "Mr. Rockefeller writes to Mr. Bowers: 'You are fighting a good fight, which is not only in the interests of your own company, but of the other companies of Colorado and of the business interests of the entire country.'"

"And Mr. Bowers, with whom Mr. Rockefeller obviously is in full sympathy and agreement, writes letter after letter picturing the growth of trade unionism as a national menace against which the business men of the nation must combine. Now for the campaign of 1913." The slogan with which one of these letters closes, and Mr. Bowers is unsparing in criticism of a president who would tolerate a former official of a labor union in his cabinet."

Four Are Burned to Death. San Francisco, Cal.—Mrs. John J. Pershing, wife of Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, was burned to death with three of her four children at her quarters in the Presidio, San Francisco. The children, whose lives are lost are, Helen, eight; Anne, six; and Margaret, five. Her husband is at El Paso, in command of troops along the western border.

POWDER MILLS ARE WRECKED BY BLAST

Dupont and American Plants Destroyed, Police Probing Alleged Plot.

TWO BODIES ARE FOUND IN THE RUINS

One Tremendous Concession Rocks Entire City of Wilmington, Del., While Other Explosion Holds Up Work on Large Orders.

Wilmington, Del.—Two men were blown to pieces and Wilmington was thrown into a state of consternation when two explosions, which the population for a time feared was an earthquake, wrecked the Hadley yard plant of the Du Pont Powder Co. on the outskirts of the city.

Investigating to ascertain the cause of the terrific blasts, which shook houses and shattered windows for miles around, the police are giving consideration to the fact theory that the explosion was a plot carried out by German sympathizers.

Suspicious Strangers Are Seen. It was reported that several suspicious strangers had been observed in the neighborhood of the Du Pont plant for several days. This report has led to close investigation on suspicion that the destruction of the works was arranged to reduce the supply of black powder manufactured here and shipped abroad for the use of the allied armies.

The tremendous concussion that rocked the entire city a few minutes before half of the people of Wilmington were astir, and hundreds, fearing that it was an earth shock, jumped from their beds and in many instances rushed half clad into the streets.

The explosion was followed almost immediately by a fire with calls for the police and fire department, and thousands of citizens hurried to the scene. Neither firemen nor police could do anything on their arrival.

All that remained were two smoldering holes in the ground. Various other nearby buildings, however, were not damaged and the management took steps to safeguard these structures.

Searching the ruins, the police and firemen found the bodies of the two men who were killed. The bodies were immediately buried in the presence of the police and fire department, and the remains were taken to the morgue.

Large Orders Held Up. Acton, Mass.—With a shock felt within a radius of forty miles, the glazing mill of the American Powder Co. which has been working to capacity, blew up. So far as is known nobody was killed.

The actual money loss to the company was not heavy, but it was stated that work on large orders probably will be held up several weeks. Property which is in the hands of the company, particularly in Maynard, were heavy losers because of shattered windows.

The mill had been closed down since Saturday afternoon, and police of this town and Maynard expressed their interest in the advisory board. An official of the company pointed out that the glazing mill, where the powder enters upon its last stage of manufacture, is the only part of the plant whose loss would stop the output.

Armed guards have been stationed about the works for several weeks.

WALSH MAKES REPORT

HOLDS THAT LOW WAGES ARE THE BASIC CAUSE OF INDUSTRIAL UNREST.

Kansas City, Mo.—Low wages was found to be the basic cause of industrial unrest in the report which Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the federal commission on industrial relations, and the labor members of the body, will report to congress as a result of the commission's two-year investigation into the subject. The report, embodying the personal findings of Mr. Walsh and concurred in by Commissioners John B. Lennon, James O'Connell and Austin B. Garrett, was made public here today. "The workers of the nation, through compulsory and oppressive methods, legal and illegal, are denied the full product of their toil," it was declared in the report, and the result is to have reduced the standard of living to a point where it already menace the social good will and the peace of the nation. Responsibility for the condition under which they live was placed primarily upon the workers themselves, but the report also pointed to the strength and oftentimes the despair of their followers, who have suffered exploitation and the invasion of their most sacred rights without resistance.

GEN. PASCUAL OROZCO DIES DEATH OF BANDIT

Leader of First Revolt Against Madero and Later One of Huerta's Aids Is Killed by American Cowboys.

El Paso, Tex.—General Pascual Orozco, leader of the first revolution against Madero and later one of Huerta's ablest generals, died the death of a common bandit on Monday when he and four Mexican companions were killed by American cowboys near Sierra Blanca, Tex., after they had robbed an American ranch house. American officers who knew Orozco well identified him Tuesday afternoon as one of the slain, according to advices received here from Van Horn, where the bodies have been taken. Full details of the killing are lacking, but it is known that the Mexicans resisted arrest when a posse of 20 cowboys and deputy sheriffs surrounded them Monday morning in a canyon of the High Lone mountain, southeast of Sierra Blanca. They opened fire on the officers, who returned it. Not one of the bandits survived it.

Sunday night the five robbers, led by Gen. Orozco, appeared at an American ranch house and ordered the employees on the place to cook them a meal. This was done and the Mexicans sat down at the table. While they were eating a deputy sheriff dived into the ranch and the Mexicans opened fire on him. The deputy went to the surrounding ranches for help and a posse was quickly organized. Early Monday morning the bandits were discovered in the canyon by the posse. When they were ordered to surrender, the Mexicans opened fire.

UNSIKABLE WARSHIP FOR U. S. IS PLANNED

Craft Will Have More Than Double the Present Number of Compartments in Parts of Hull Below Armor Belt.

Washington, D. C.—The next battleships to be built for the United States navy will be of an unique type with more than double the present number of compartments in the parts of the hull below the armor belt. The object of the new type is to prevent the sinking of the ship even after the hull has received very serious wounds, either from shells or torpedoes.

Experts stated that the plans for such vessels have the approval of the most prominent members of the general navy board and the advisory council of the navy department. The new type has been adopted after practical experimentation with models of the necessary reduced comparative scale to represent actual warships that battleship building, so far as protective armor is concerned, had about reached the limit. This armor protection, he said, was, of course, limited to the upper part of the hull and of about eight feet below the water mark. The armor as it exists, he said, would be ample protection even against the opening up of large parts of the hull of a vessel, and this danger, he said, was increased in inverse proportion to the number of air-tight compartments.

READING COUNTS FOR MUCH

Matter of Which Too Little Attention Is Paid by the Ordinary Man or Woman.

A certain low form of aquatic animal life anchors itself to a rock and feeds on whatever the current brings. The average man feeds his mind in much the same way. He falls into line with current assumptions. He reads only current literature. He listens to what happens to go by. He makes but little systematic attempt to shut out the unit or to put himself in line for the fit.

The result is, says the Minneapolis Journal, a defective grade of human life that rarely elevates society and often degrades it. If a man would make the most of himself, and that is manifestly the supreme purpose for which he was put into the world, it is worth his while to do his daily work where unclean things, mental and physical, are not made common.

QUEEN GREET'S VILLAGE BRIDE

Bulgarian Ruler, in Company With California Girl, Attends Humble Wedding.

The hearts of a pretty village bride and her family were filled with gratitude by the presence of Queen Eleanor of Bulgaria and Miss Helen Scott Hay, formerly of Pasadena, Cal., at the marriage ceremony in a small village near Sofia recently, according to a letter received by members of Miss Hay's family here.

The queen and Miss Hay were out motoring together when they saw a great crowd of folk in holiday attire at the village home. They went in to see what was the matter. The young groom and wished for the little bride a life of wedded happiness and thereby won her love and everlasting gratitude.

Miss Hay, with the personal assistance of Queen Eleanor, will soon establish a training school in Sofia. In company with queen she has visited practically all the big hospitals in Bulgaria.

Mystery of Charm.

Certain men and women, immediately on our first meeting them, make us desire to meet them again, not because they have uttered remarkable thoughts, or seen the Venus or Apollo, perhaps they have said nothing that you and I couldn't say, and we may know people much better looking. But they radiate—what is it that they radiate? We feel it, we bask in it, it bows over us. It isn't sunlight or moonlight, but a fair-light of their own. When these shining creatures come into the room, happiness enters with them. How do they do it? It gets us nowhere to say that there is "something" in the tone of their voice, or "something" in the look of their eyes.

Take Things Calmly.

Some people act as if they were always just a few minutes behind time. They could catch up their lives should be serene. But they never do catch up. Breathlessly they go through the day as if in pursuit of a phantom. Often they live under a great nervous tension. At the end of the day they are exhausted. One hears them speak as if they were subjected to great trials, including overwork. But, as a matter of fact, the trouble lies wholly within themselves. If they would only calm down and do quietly and serenely what they have to do life would take on a wholly different aspect for them, becoming, instead of a torment, a source of peace and happiness.—Exchange.

Star Systems All in Action.

It is known that all of the star systems are in nightly action. All are whirling within themselves, and also as entities of systems, whirling throughout the unfathomable unknown, but whether they are tending in an insensible to human comprehension, notwithstanding the wonderful astronomical accomplishments of astronomical science aided by marvelous instruments, as comprehension of time and space. The assumption that the central pivot of revolution is Canopus is as imaginary as the assumption that the earth is the center of the universe, gravitation and the throne where sat the eternal Deity directing all of the labyrinth of star systems with an omnipotent thought.

CHADWICK, CHAUFFEUR

ANONYMOUS.

Aunt Betty, who is not really an aunt at all, but only a very dear friend of our mother's, has made her home with us for twenty years. She has been with us ever since she lost her little boy and her husband in a forest fire in Canada. We were very fond of her in spite of her queer ways. One of her ideas was that some day her son would come back, alive and strong, and that he would marry Dorothy. She kept the half of a coin that had been hers since her courtship days. The other half had been tied round the neck of her husband, who had vanished in the smoke. She would fetch it out of its hiding place every little while and fondle it, saying: "My little white shall never see again, but my son will come and bring the other half of this coin to Dorothy, just as his father brought it to me."

Dorothy, who is my sister, took it all in good part, and never let Aunt Betty catch her smiling at me when her future husband was mentioned. I certainly was surprised when she took it into her head—but I am going too fast.

One would have thought that Chadwick was the last of people to cause any disturbance in our quiet, well-ordered life. He was an ideal chauffeur until his wife came and was engaged in the business of receiving. Chadwick came, however, everything went smoothly, especially the car. Chadwick was a clean, upstanding American of far above the average intelligence. Dorothy liked him, she liked him because he had a perfectly straight nose.

Either the nose or the fascination for motoring made Dorothy sadly neglect her horses for the sake of the automobile. None of us thought anything of it until one day Dorothy said she was going to see the Johnsons, who lived about twenty miles away, and sent off with "Chadwick" in the automobile. About half an hour later Aunt Betty made up her mind that she would like to go to the Johnsons also. I borrowed Tony Spencer's machine and took her along. About ten miles from home we came up with our own car, which was empty in the road.

I pulled up and jumped out to find what was the matter and came on a scene I shall never forget until my dying day. Dorothy and Chadwick were both seated on the ground. He had his arm round her waist, and she had a luncheon basket in her lap. She was just putting a piece of chicken into his mouth, and they were laughing about it. Think of it! A daughter of the American republic, my own little sister Dorothy, feeding her chauffeur on chicken in the public highway—or nearly?

"They both looked up, and then, seeing who it was, they scrambled to their feet. "Mercy sakes!" cried Aunt Betty, who had followed me. After that there was a silence which Dorothy was the first to break. "I don't care," she said, "I just gave him a piece of chicken that fell sobbing on Aunt Betty's motherly breast. I was wild with rage."

"What right have you to touch her to so much as look at her?" I asked Chadwick. "You—a greasy mechanic, just putting a piece of chicken stinky with the oil of machines, what sort of a home could you give her? A stucco dwelling in a back street, with the neighbors children clambering over the front porch—the neighbors weekly wash flapping in the bay window—the ward me out without flinching, though I could see every word I uttered hurt. Why I stopped for breath, he began to speak. "My God, Miss Henderson! You don't have to tell me that. But what are we to do? We love each other. I swear to you I mean no harm. I swear that I will give him the best secret." He was tugging at my dress as he spoke, and then he drew from under his shirt the half of a coin exactly like Aunt Betty's.

"Where did you get that?" screamed Aunt Betty. Dorothy and I stood apart and said nothing.

"I've had it since I was a boy. My father put it round my neck just before he died. I remember his saying, 'Go, take the old token to your mother, lad.' I have been trying to find my mother ever since."

"My son, my son!" cried Aunt Betty, and she raised her arms.

I shall never forget the expression on my mother's face when I brought Chadwick down to dinner with me and introduced him as Aunt Betty's son, and Dorothy's fiancé.

"The Jag Remedy. "I noticed the soldiers in Europe are using bath trains," remarked Mr. Gadders.

"How interesting!" exclaimed Mrs. Gadders. "Are there also Turkish bath trains in your country?"

"Nothing on the U. S. A. Englishman (to British museum)—This book, sir, was once owned by Cicero. American Tourist—Pshaw! that's nothing. Why, in one of our American museums we have the lead pencil which Noah used to check off the animals as they came out of the ark."

Mr. Treadwell's Vacation

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Elisha Treadwell about the 1st of April saw in a newspaper among advertisements for summer hotels and boarding houses one that arrested his attention. It was this:

A widow with several grown sons and daughters, owning a country home, would like a few boarders for July and August. A small acre, tennis grounds and other means of amusement will be at the disposal of guests; references required.

Mr. Treadwell inferred what was not stated in the advertisement—that a guest would be received as a member of the family. He was obliged if he went on a vacation to go alone. Consequently he had no desire to go, for he was much dependent upon associates. In this country place he fancied he would obviate this difficulty. The "sons and daughters," especially the latter, seemed inviting. He entered into correspondence with the advertiser with the result that he engaged a room for his vacation in July.

He arrived in the evening about 8 o'clock, which was shortly before dark. A negro butler announced that most of the family had gone to a party and he expected them home at any minute. Miss Clara was somewhere about, but he didn't know where. Treadwell said he would wait. He went into the living room and, seeing a lounge, on which some one had evidently been reclining, for there were an Afghan and a pillow on it, he sat down for a rest. The twilight deepened. There seemed to be no one about to light the lamps, and the young man soon found himself in the dark. Tired from traveling, he stretched himself on the lounge. The first thing he knew, or rather, didn't know, he was asleep.

He was awakened by a hand laid on his forehead—a soft hand, which he felt sure was feminine.

"Feel better?" The voice of the speaker was a melodious soprano.

Now, there was something extremely pleasant about this petting, which was, of course, intended for another, and Treadwell was not minded to bring it to a termination, so he simply said "Um!" without opening his mouth.

"I've brought up some supper for you. Do you want it?"

"Um, uh," grunted Treadwell, giving a negative intonation.

Meanwhile the hand was removed from the forehead and slid down to one of Treadwell's. This was becoming a member of the widow's family with a vengeance. Treadwell was somewhat troubled about the result of his accepting these attentions, but both the hand and the voice were so soft that he thought only of how to avoid interrupting them.

"I wish they'd come," the lady continued. "Mother said they'd surely be back by 7 o'clock, and it must be 9. I'm going to light up."

"Uh, uh," grunted Treadwell, as though his throat were out of order, she holding on to his hand.

"Rather lie in the dark, eh? That's the way with me when I'm sick. I wonder what's become of the man who was to arrive this evening. If he should come and find the house dark it would be a poor reception. He might turn around and go back to the city. I wonder what he's like."

Treadwell could hardly help saying, "He's a fellow, and when you see him you will have met your fate," but he refrained. He was thinking that he would excite suspicion by silence when there was the sound of an automobile and a babel of voices approaching. Withdrawing his hand from her, he rubbed his eyes, started up and exclaimed:

"I must have fallen asleep."

There was a subdued shriek. The girl hustled about and struck a match. She saw a strange man looking at her as if just awakened from sleep.

"Beg pardon," he said to "m Mr. Treadwell. I was waiting for someone to come in when I dozed off. I suppose."

"Are you sure you've been asleep?"

She raised the chimney of a lamp and touched the match to the wick. At the same time a noisy party of picnickers came up the steps and poured into the room.

"Mother," said the girl who had been petting the guest, "this is the gentleman that was to arrive."

"I'm Elisha Treadwell," said that gentleman.

"Am happy to see you, Mr. Treadwell. I'm sorry you've had such a doleful reception."

"Don't mention it."

"Ethel, why didn't you light the lamps?"

"Why, mother, Jim was in here on the lounge, or I thought he was, and I didn't think he wanted a light. He had gone up to his room."

"He didn't," said Treadwell—"I mean I didn't mind sitting in the dark at all."

Mr. Treadwell was taken into the dining room, where a hot supper was served—with plenty of light—it was evident to him that he had struck just the place he needed for a vacation. Now and again he caught Ethel looking at him suspiciously, but he put on an expression of unconscious guilt—if that expresses what he was trying to do—so that at last she seemed satisfied. The month of July passed only too rapidly for Mr. Treadwell, who found the companionship of the family very pleasant.

There is nothing more to this story barring the commonplace, except that Treadwell went back to the city at the end of his vacation engaged to Ethel.

HARRIS BOOSTS AMENDMENT

President of Cincinnati Board of Sinking Fund Trustees.

LEADER IN PUBLIC THOUGHT

Was Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Ohio Direct Legislation League, Giving Both Time and Money to Cause—Helped Frame State's New Constitution in 1912.

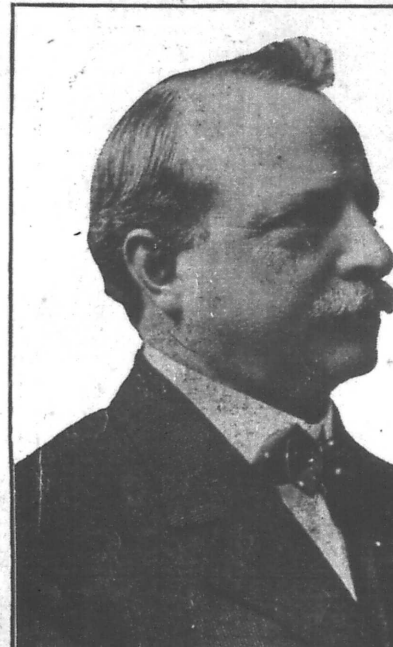

Columbus, O.—(Special).—The promoters of the proposed constitutional amendment to limit elections on propositions which have been twice rejected by the electors since 1912 to intervals of six years have secured a valuable ally in the person of Hon. George W. Harris, president of the board of sinking fund trustees, Cincinnati, and prominent member of the last state constitutional convention.

There is no abler champion of the principle of the initiative and referendum, etc.

The requisite number of names for the petition, etc.

I am a firm believer in the principle embodied in the initiative and referendum, and consider it the most important political instrumentality for the preservation of our representative form of government. Ten years ago, when there were not in Ohio near so many converts to the now recognized political sanity of the principle of the initiative and referendum as there are today, I was chairman of the executive committee of the state of Ohio of the Ohio Direct Legislation League. I contributed of my time and money to arouse the interests of the people of Ohio in this much needed amendment to the constitution. I have at no time lost my interest in the work, nor has my belief changed. The initiative and referendum is one of the fundamental safeguards for the preservation of our democratic governmental institutions. As a member of the fourth constitutional convention of Ohio, I helped make the principle of the initiative and referendum a part of the organic law of the state. It is because I fear that the principle of the initiative and referendum may be obscured or destroyed by the abuse of the right to use this political instrumentality, that I am in favor of the conservative limitations on its use that are set forth in your proposed amendment.

The success or failure of your efforts to have this amendment approved by the people of Ohio will depend on your ability or inability to avoid entangling alliances. If you stay straight to the line, and devote all your efforts toward securing the adoption of this amendment, and do not pay the slightest attention to the wishes of any political party, or any special interest, and be not guided in the advocacy of your cause, whether dum than Mr. Harris, but he thinks that frequent elections on the same question will bring the I. and R. into disrepute.

The following letter from Mr. Harris to the Constitutional Stability League, with headquarters at No. 8 East Broad street, represents the attitude not only of Mr. Harris, but also of a great element always ready to follow his judgment on economic questions. The letter reads:

The Constitutional Stability League, Room 1102, No. 8, E. Broad St., Columbus, O.

Gentlemen—I have your circular letter of the 10th inst., with proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution, which I heartily approve. I shall be very glad to sign the petition when it is presented to me. I also enclose my check for $300 towards defraying the necessary expenses in securing the success of it will please, or displease any particular organizations, you will probably carry the amendment by a very decisive majority.

You must appeal to the common sense of the people of Ohio by showing that it is their duty and to their interest to vote for this amendment, even though it may for a few years interfere with the submission to the people of some particular principle of government, which they may sincerely advocate. If their own proposition is sound, it will gain in strength by that most efficacious and only real method of winning, namely, education of the people on the particular issue.

The proposed amendment does not in any way interfere with the advocacy by public discussion at any and all times of any proposal. It simply prevents voting on it by the people for a short number of years, and that only after the measure has been twice before voted on and twice defeated.

Yours very truly,
GEO. W. HARRIS.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.
