

Ohio Votes Saloons the Way Out

The people have voted John Barkevorn all the way out. The majority for the Drys will hover around 15000, which means that all saloons in Ohio will close on the night of May 26, 1919. Plymouth gave the Dry cause the biggest vote in her history. Her majority was 99, which is more than double her previous highest majority. This will mean a bigger and better Plymouth. It will mean more trade, more civic improvement. It will mean less friction in her municipal affairs, and the absence of the saloon as a question of politics or policy. This is the history of all towns, especially the smaller ones, for it is the small towns that profit most by the absence of the saloon.

Don't be scared. Nothing direful will happen. The saloon will simply pass, and as the town accommodates itself to the change the improvement will be noticeable. People will come and go just the same. They will buy shoes, clothing, furniture, and provisions as before. The saloon contributed nothing worthwhile. When it goes out it will take nothing worth while. The big and sensible thing to do is to keep sane and mellow. There is no occasion for brag or boast. It was a square, fair fight, and the majority has spoken. When the time comes for quitting the thing to do is to quit, obey the law, and turn all our energy to the good of Plymouth and her trade and industries.

Election Notes.
Huron county gets back in the Republican column by electing every man on the Republican ticket.
Plymouth demonstrated that she can vote dry 182 to 83, or 99 majority.
Roese, Republican candidate for sheriff of Huron county was the high man in Plymouth precinct, getting 4 votes more than Governor Willis.

Rev. Smith was called to Bolivar, Ohio, this week because of the illness of his mother, but he desires us to say that there will be the usual church services at the Lutheran church next Sunday, and especially desires a generous attendance by members and friends of the congregation.

This Sounds Good.
How's trade? This question was put to Miss Elnora Taylor this week when we entered her store for news.
"It was never better," came the direct and very positive reply. Miss Taylor is a good business woman and speaks her mind as if it was unused to hesitation or apology.
She had the best trade in the history of my business in Plymouth," she continued, "and customers are coming from a greater distance than ever before."
That's fine. It was music to us, for we want old Plymouth to widen her trade area, and grow stronger in the confidence of the people as the years go by.
Miss Taylor's store is one of the best ordered stores in northern Ohio. Others may carry larger stocks, but none carry better grades, nor sell on closer margins. Besides it's as clean as a pin, and inviting to customers. No wonder it comes from great distances, even from neighboring towns, for it affords a delightful place for shopping.
There is such an array of quality, such a wealth of variety, and such a cleanliness in appearance that customers settle right down to liberal buying the moment they enter.
A good progressive store is very much like a magnet when it comes to bringing trade to town, and Miss Taylor is an adept in buying and stocking the grade and quality that particular buyers demand. No wonder her trade is the best in the store's history.

Letter of Sympathy.
The letter below was received by Mrs. Fred Searle, of Buckingham, Fla., and is self explanatory:
Battery E, 318 F. A. France.
Mrs. Fred F. Searle.
Dear Madam:
The death of your husband Private 1st Class, Fred F. Searle, on October 12, 1918, of disease, has been the keenly augmented to you through other channels.
This simple letter is to convey to you the sympathy of officers and the men of this battery and they were truly heart-felt.
It may perhaps be of satisfaction to you to know that your husband's conduct was always that of a good soldier and upright man.
We hope you will realize that his death was for his country none the less because his death was not accidental, but heroic.
Very sincerely yours,
H. L. Elliott, Commander.
Battery E, 318 F. A.

It was a quiet day and the finest weather imaginable, and everybody on their good behavior.
Jim T. Begg defeated Congressman Overmyer and will sit in with the boys down in Washington. Begg is a clever fellow and clean as a wallnut tooth.
It is now Representative C. G. Taylor, as well as receiver for the S. N. & M. Claire has resigned from Richland county by just 42 votes. Anderson was certainly after him.
Minor K. Johnston came under the wire as representative from Richland county by just 42 votes. Anderson was certainly after him.
Richland county elected everything democratic except the board of commissioners, which were solidly Republican, in Pulver, Dickerson, and Robinson.
Street Commissioner McEntire took his coat off in behalf of James W. Galbraith for Common Pleas Judge of Richland county, and his influence is reflected in the vote in the precinct on the Richland side. Galbraith though a democrat, carried that Republican stronghold by 21 majority.
Missouri sends Judge Selden P. Spencer, Republican, to the U. S. Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Wm. J. Stone, a democrat, and who in life had strong pro-german leanings.
The political complexion of Ohio's Congressional representation has been reversed. Before the election we stood nine Republicans to thirteen Democrats. Now we stand thirteen Republicans to nine Democrats, a net gain of four.
It pays to keep your word. Down in the Sixth district Chas. C. Kearns made specific promise that he'd ask for only two terms. He broke over and ran for third term in Congress, but the district sent A. G. Turnipseed, Democrat, instead.
Uncle Joe Cannon was re-elected to congress from the old Danville Illinois district, making his twenty-second term in congress, interrupted however by two defeats.
Meyer London, of New York, the only socialist member of congress was defeated by Seigel, democrat, running with Republican support. Another socialist comes in, however, in the person of Victor Berger, of Milwaukee, under indictment charged with violating the espionage act.

Our Pie Bakery.
Alright you did fine with the Advertiser pie. If A. P. Donnenworth will call at Russell Thomas Chappell's grocery he will be given two pounds of salt mackerel, and when the Donnenworth family surround the dining room mahogany for breakfast all we ask is that the credit for the fish be given to the head of the house of Donnenworth.
Miss Jessie Cole was the first to tell us the brand of our second baking which was Multitudes' concrete within Plymouth for Commodities Exchange, and the prize was a can of Alaska Salmon.
If Miss Jessie will call at Clark Brothers' Quality Grocery she will be given the salmon, and then she can call in a company of friends some evening for a Salmon supper. Garnish the salmon with strands of crisp lettuce, and encircle the edge of the plate with slices of lemon. Serve tea and oven heated waters and tell fish stories for diversion.
Let it be said that many solved the last baking. Our telephone rang a score of times. We were even called out of bed, but we didn't care for that.
Now here's another baking. If you get this one you are a dandy. Lookout for Donnenworth. He's a pie eater for fair and came with in 18 minutes of copping of the salmon. Here's your service:

Will Move To Windsor.
Plymouth loses a good citizen by the removal of Wm. W. Howard and family to Windsor, Ash-tabula county, to which place they are going about November 15.
Miss Mildred Howard, the daughter, has been appointed postmistress of Windsor, and this fact led to the decision of the removal of the family. Mr. Howard, who is a mason by trade, has purchased a farm near Windsor, and will give his attention to its cultivation, but will not occupy it while Miss Mildred is engaged as postmistress.
Mr. Howard has sold his property on Nicholas Ave. to the Root-Heath Mfg. Co., and in this issue lists personal property for sale.
Mr. Howard leaves Plymouth reluctantly, but goes with how the change will prove to his advantage under the circumstances.

On Ten Day Furlough.
Armin Clark is here from Camp Sherman and looking as trim as a major. He's gained in weight since his going into Camp life and his friends think it steps just a little toppler than before. Of course he found his way behind the counters of the Quality grocery during rush hours.
Did You See It?
Karl Webber has the best flu in the ten states. It not only kills the germs, but opens up the nasal passages all the way down to the bifurcation of the trachea and a little beyond.
Course Karl came straight to work to the Webber office to tell all the people that he had a bang up flu killer, and we run the camp, and even bought the inhaler that we might know its virtue, but imagine our chagrin when this same Karl tackled us to know why his ad did not appear.
With the assistance of Albert Kirpatrick and last week's copy of this example of journalistic alertness, we convinced our good friend that we were faithful to the trust confided.
The inhaler is a humdinger, and we'd give up a quarter any time, for it not only keeps the flu away but helps mightily when you are in its grasp.

What About That New Well?
A recent typhoid outbreak of 44 cases in a southwestern Ohio city was used recently as a text before the State Department of Health in a statement pointing out the danger in an impure water supply.
This reminds us that recently we were told of a new well with pure wholesome water right from the rock.
When will it be turned into the drinking water, and other wells be drilled to reinforce the supply of pure water.
Plymouth has no cases of typhoid and has had none for a long, long time, but the source of water supply is not the best in the world. It is used but little for domestic purposes but the use of it for drinking water and increased revenue would be available if these new wells would materialize. We'll pass any information to the public that may be given us.

Relentless Fate.
Just as a Plymouth boy had almost completed his course in military preparatory to trimming the kaiser, the German army took to their heels and it looks now like an unconditional surrender of the foe would leave him all around round with ribbons, veivets and feathers, to say nothing of other sins that are not so easily learned.
Well, if you can't fight, Pomp, the military training may enable you to take the management of a good trimmer.

Death Marvin R. Weller.
On Monday of this week, and at 11:30 a. m., occurred the death of Marvin R. Weller, bookkeeper for the Farmer's Farm Co.
Mr. Weller had been sick for about 10 days, suffering from an attack of influenza, later developing pneumonia that defied treatment.
Mr. Weller enjoyed the confidence of his employers to an enviable degree, and was highly regarded for his integrity and uprightness. He came here about two years ago from Attica, in the hope that the change would improve his health for he was not of a rugged constitution.
He leaves a wife and young babe three weeks old. The body was taken to Richwood, Ohio, Wednesday for burial, under the auspices of the Attica Lodge of Masons, of which the deceased was a member.

Occupying New Home.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nimmons are now living in their new modern home on Sandusky street having completed the transfer of their household goods Tuesday.
This is one of the prettiest in Plymouth and the friends are congratulating them on being so comfortably located.
With The Home Folks.
Private George Smith, all drolled out in new uniform, came up from Camp Sherman to spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith, and to renew his acquaintance with mother's cooking. Confidentially George told us that the home fare wasn't much improvement over the Camp chow, but far be it from us to speak disparagingly of the Smith larder for the fact is that not many domestic tables are as generously well served as the Smith's.
George has promised us a letter for publication, and we are looking for something pretty good if he can get it. The censor, however, we have read some of his reports from the camp and not much escapes his observation.
Later: A telephone message Wednesday evening from George to his parents said that he would leave Camp Sherman this Thursday morning for Camp Johnson, Jacksonville, Fla., where he will complete course in officers' training school, quartermaster's department.

Breaks The Record.
Working with Judge L. G. Dill, Pike county War Savings chairman, John C. Lee, retired farmer of Waverly, has sold $62,000 in War Savings stamps in the last five months. Considering the size of the community, this record is believed to eclipse that of any individual in the state of Ohio.
Chairman Dill recently "decorated" Mr. Lee with a medal showing credit for "valorous service."

Early Epidemics in Columbus.

The epidemic of influenza which is now evidently subsiding in Columbus, makes the story of other serious epidemics that have prevailed here interesting. The grip of a quarter of a century ago was by no means so serious as the present epidemic being fatal chiefly only in the cases of elderly persons.

Probably not since the cholera epidemics here about the middle of the last century and earlier, has there been an epidemic as alarming as the present one in Columbus. Cholera first made its appearance here in 1833. It was in the old canal days and the disease entered the city by that highway, making its first appearance below the city, in Madison township.

The first case in the city was discovered on July 14 and from that time until the first of October it raged in the little state capital which at that time had a population of less than four thousand. It is estimated that two-thirds of the people died of the epidemic disease.

The next appearance of cholera in Columbus was in 1849. On June 21st of that year George B. Smith died in Jewett block on Rich street with unmistakable symptoms of that disease. As that block had been a center of the disease in the earlier epidemic it was suspected that the germs had rested dormant there through all the intervening years. There was the usual hegeira of all who could leave the city, and the epidemic raged until the middle of September during which time there were 162 deaths among the prisoners of the penitentiary. Columbus had at this time a population of about 18,000. The next summer the disease appeared again and resulted in 209 deaths. There was no cholera in 1851 but the next year there were several cases, and while none occurred in 1853 there were several again in 1854, and then it disappeared never to return.

When Peace is Reached.

There need be no apprehension of materially lower prices for live stock when Europe goes on a peace basis. In the case of grains, the situation is somewhat different. An immense wheat acreage and an accumulation of grain in the southern hemisphere, which will automatically become available, are likely to be reflected in the future scale of prices.

However, there is no meat surplus in sight anywhere, not even during the next half decade. Only in the case of hogs is a bare sufficiency likely.

The bare shelves of European larders must at least be replenished and this task will naturally devolve on the United States.

The mission of the International Live Stock Exposition at this crisis is to stimulate production of beef, pork and mutton on the most economical basis, to instruct breeders and feeders in recent developments to inspire ambition to expand and demonstrate that live stock raising is profitable, otherwise, it could not prosper.

Europe after the war will need American stock cattle. It must come to this market for cows for breeding purposes and for seed stock of all the species and breeds.

There never has been a more opportune moment for renewed endeavor in the sphere of animal husbandry and the International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held from November 30th to December 7th, is the chief exponent of the industry.

Another Liberty Loan Coming.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has announced that, no matter what the results of the pending overtures for peace may be, there will be another Liberty Loan. To use his expression, "We are going to have to finance war."

There are over 2,000,000 United States soldiers abroad. If we transport these men back to the United States at the rate of 300,000 a month, it will be over half a year before they are all returned. Our Army, therefore, must be maintained, victualled, and clothed for many months after peace is an actuality.

UNCLE SAM ASKS FARMERS TO UNITE ON ONE PLAN FOR FOOD PRODUCTION

JOIN YOUR COUNTY FARM BUREAU
DURING THE FOOD LOAN CAMPAIGN
THANKS TO THE NATIONAL BUREAU OF FOOD PRODUCTION

BUCKEYE FARMERS will take part in a national rally of all agricultural forces during Thanksgiving week. Crop reports show that despite upward labor shortage and insect pests, Ohio farmers have maintained crop production and in many cases greatly increased the average yield. In accordance with growing approval of the service and a proclamation by the government, it is expected that all Thanksgiving weekend the services of farmers toward winning the war. This is particularly true at a time when farmers all over the Buckeye States will enthusiastically support themselves to another big food production effort. Plans and federal agricultural officials are advised to give notice to send our five million fighters, as well as to help food our allies, our food producers will have an enormous task. The killing of allied men power is increasing the number of consumers and reducing the number of food producers. As food is an absolute war essential, more efficient means of production is the only solution to the problem. Uncle Sam's plan is to leave the farmers line up on a county, a state and a national food production program. He is working through the county farm bureaus, with which he and the state colleges of agriculture regularly co-operate. The county farm bureaus will conduct the campaign and formulate the program. Each farmer who lines up during the drive will have an opportunity of showing evidence of his support for the war by his county farm bureau. By so doing, he will not only receive the assistance of his county agricultural bureau, but be able to help in the production of his county's food. The plan is to have the best production show that has not in the world which the war.

Riches are oftener no impediment than a stimulus to action, the adds diffi-

TO SUCCESSFUL COUNTIES

Who Broke Taboo as Evidence of Exceeding Stamp Quota

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—To every Ohio county exceeding its 1915 quota of War Savings Stamps, the Ohio War Savings Committee will present the following bronze tablet carrying this caption:

In Recognition of the Patriotism of the People of _____ County, Ohio, Who Overachieved Their War Savings Quota in 1915

This tablet will be given a place in the collection of those counties reaching and passing their allotment of War Savings Stamps this year. It will be a permanent memorial and testimonial to the patriotism of the people of each county.

Already 24 Ohio counties have marked the bronze tablet. These counties have exceeded the allotment of War Savings Stamps. Thirty other counties are in a position to reach the goal within the next few weeks.

Special appeal has been issued by the state War Savings Committee to those counties behind on their quotas to increase activities and boost the War Savings Stamp sales record. In those communities there is being conducted a "Shall-This-County-Fail" campaign.

REDEEMING W. S. S. PLEDGES

Promises to Buy Stamps Solemn Agreement With Government.

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—No alarm is felt in Ohio that all outstanding War Stamp pledges will not be redeemed this year. Redemption of pledges unpaid, estimated by the Ohio War Savings Committee at $10,000,000, will be made in the next two and one-half months, in the confident expectation.

In addition to the fact that these pledges are solemn obligations, and honor requires that they be kept, a further necessity regarding the War Savings pledges is redeemed is that the government took the word of the citizens of Ohio as an oath and has spent the millions of dollars represented by the pledges.

Your dollars will be the east wheel which will roll along the arms, ammunition and supplies the government needs to win the war. Uncle Sam guarantees to return them to you and pay 4.57 per cent interest for their value when you invest in War Savings Stamps.

A promise not kept is worse than no promise at all. Make good your War Savings pledge.

Teachers to Receive Appeal

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—To every one of the 30,000 school teachers in Ohio is going from the educational division of the Ohio War Savings Committee a special request to "hurry up" War Savings Stamp activities for the remaining two months of the year. The influenza epidemic has caused by the time this appeal, but preparations are under way for renewed activity with the closing of the "year."

A Legislator Who Became Famous

John F. Hume, who came to the legislature that met January 7, 1893, as the representative of Marion county, left his impression on two states after quitting this one. He was a young lawyer when he rendered this short legislative service in Ohio and retiring from office he went to St. Louis where after a short experience as a lawyer he became the editor of the Democrat, now the Globe-Democrat, and soon became a dominant factor in Democratic politics of that state. For a number of years he was the commissioner of railroads of Missouri.

As the editor of the leading Democratic newspaper in Missouri during the Civil war and the reconstruction period he exercised great influence on matters concerning politics and movements in the west, and they were settled west to New York, where he established himself as a capitalist and financier, with offices in New York City, and a residence at Poughkeepsie, and became a man of great wealth. He was the author of several volumes on topics concerning politics and finance, but these were the products of his recreation hours, and he was influential chiefly in the Wall Street circles of the metropolis.

With him sat in the legislature of Ohio that turn back in 1836 another Ohio man who was to be secretary of state later and to do something in literature—Addison P. Russell, who was then the representative of Clinton county. Nelson H. Van Vorhes afterward a member of congress was the speaker.

Franklin county was represented in the house of the legislature by George M. Parsons, and in the senate by Alfred Kelley. J. S. Robinson, later to become prominent as a soldier in the Civil war, member of congress, and secretary of state, was clerk of that house. It was under the administration of Salmon P. Chase.

Loans To Our Allies.

The extension of a credit of $9,000,000 to Belgium made recently makes the total advances by the United States to Belgium $90,020,000.

The total amount advanced to date to all of our associates in the war against Germany is $7,529,476,000.

War Savings Sales Near Billion Mark.

Including cash received in the Treasury Department on October 21 from the sale of War Savings securities, the total Treasury receipts from this source amounted to $801,453,415.86. This represents the purchase of War Savings stamps to the total maturity value of approximately $956,824,474.10.

"I don't think I was ever homesick," said the little boy, "but I've often wished I was where I wasn't."

His Daring Exploit.

Noblesville, Ind., is proud to claim Sergeant Samuel Bennett, a Marine, as one of its sons. Bennett has received the Distinguished Service Cross and the French War Cross for bravery. He was cited for carrying Brigadier General A. W. Collins to safety from an exposed position after the general had been wounded. Bennett and a young soldier, P. J. Murphy, who has been his closest friend in the army, took part in an exciting skirmish.

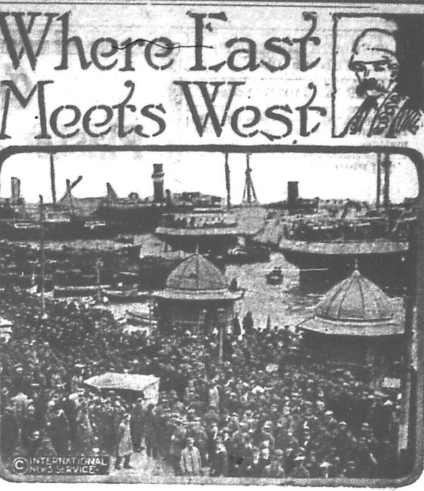

Bennett, who is a sniper, had been lying in a wheat field when Murphy crawled in to relieve him and told him that a German machine gun was hidden just ahead of them.

The two went crawling through the wheat. At forty yards the Germans saw the wheat moving. They turned loose the machine gun. Murphy crumpled. Bennett rose, shot the machine gun operator with his rifle and charged the machine gun alone. Another man jumped to the machine. Bennett shot him too. One man was left when Bennett reached the gun, but his ammunition was gone, so he clubbed his man down. He loaded the machine gun on the back of a wounded German and Murphy on the back of another wounded prisoner and brought the party in.

Legal Notice.

Notice is hereby given, That Russell D. Clark, of Plymouth, Ohio, has been duly appointed and qualified as administrator of the estate of J. Howard Clark late of Plymouth township, Richland County, Ohio, deceased.

Date October 25, 1918. Wilbert J. Bissman, Probate Judge of Richland County, Ohio.

THE district of Palestine which contains the greatest possibility of rapid development under a settled government, is the basin of the Jordan. Here, in the most and unique charm and its tributary valleys, we have abundant water, a rich alluvial soil, and a semi-tropical climate, a combination which under scientific direction should produce astonishing results. For centuries the resources of this region have been neglected, writes Dr. E. W. G. Masterman in the Sphere.

In the north, the fertile plain of the Huleh, traversed by the four tributary streams of the Jordan, is capable of little engineering of receiving irrigation in every part. In some districts, at the head of the valley where this has been done, very striking results have been obtained. In this district "red" rice is now cultivated. At the further end of the plain lies the marsh and shallow lake of El Huleh. Here probably a good deal of land might be recovered for cultivation by drainage.

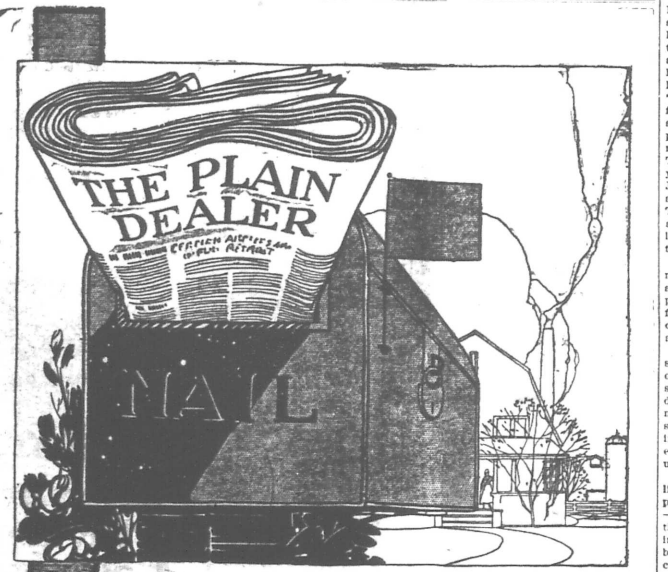

This was done to some extent a few years ago by deepening the bed of the lake and by diverting the water, and much marsh land was recovered. To the south and west of the Huleh are splendid corn lands, hence the lake's "Lands of the Wheat and the Rice." In the Huleh valley at a whole, rice, maize, hemp, and probably cotton could all be profitably cultivated, while other parts might be planted with poplars for timber, and with apricots and peach orchards, as is done with similar lands around Damascus.

The district of rocky, volcanic hills slopes between the Huleh and the Lake of Galilee is scarcely likely to provide scope for irrigation, but in the great descent of the Jordan, 689 feet in nine miles, there exists an economical source of power sufficient to produce, if properly utilized, all the electrical energy needed for public and private use for many miles around.

To the north of the Lake of Galilee the two fertile and easily irrigated plains, El Battalab—the Jordan delta—and El Ghueir, or Genezareth. Of this latter Josephus writes: "Extending along the Lake of Genezareth, and being also its name, is a tract of country admirable both for its natural properties and its beauty. Such is the fertility of the soil that it relects no plant, and accordingly all are here cultivated by the husbandmen; for so genial is the air that it suits every variety. The walnut, which delights beyond other trees in a wintry climate, grows here luxuriantly, together with the palm, which is nourished by the olive; and near to these are figs and figs; and which a milder climate is assigned."

Fish Supply of Genezareth. Genezareth is watered by several streams, some of which in the deep valleys through which they emerge support groves of lemons, oranges, and other trees. They also supply a number of mills. With a proper scheme the abundant water reaching this plain might be distributed to every part, and at least a few fruitful as that described by Josephus as existing in Roman times. Jewish colonists have already in parts of the district greatly added to its productivity. All along the northern shore, where some of the springs feeding the lake are warm, the fishing is specially good; but, indeed, the waters of the Huleh, of the Lake of Tiberias, and of the Jordan, teem about in fish of which the larger varieties are all wholesome and palatable. The fishing industry has not yet been exploited for the benefit of the poor.

Debouching upon the lake from both east and west are several valleys which in their lower reaches contain streams that can be utilized for irrigation, and in their higher parts in many instances contain rapidly descending torrents, even in some places waterfalls, suitable for supplying mechanical power, the greatest of these is the Yarnuk valley, up which the Haifa railway ascends toward Damascus. This is the Helomax of the Greeks, and here shortly before the valley opens to the sea, the Jordan, in fact, there is a group of hot sulphurous springs, amid which lie the ruins of the baths and theater of the Greek settlement of Amathia, a health resort for the great city. The people of Ohio do not generally know there is ready for distribution a new map of the State, upon which there has been years of careful preparation and which is absolutely correct in detail. There is no attempt at advertising, simply setting forth that which the public seeks in a way which can be relied upon. The new map shows the drainage, the boundaries, the highways and railroads. These maps are furnished people at actual cost of publication. Railway maps on rollers at 50c each, railway maps folded in covers 75c each and highway maps without covers 35c each. An order sent to the Secretary of State, Columbus, Ohio, will bring one of them to you.

New Draft Calls.

Draft calls for the mobilization of 290,773 additional men at army training camps before Nov. 21 were announced by Provost Marshal General Crowder. Between Nov. 11 and 15, it was announced, 253,335 white men will be entrained, making the largest single call under the act.

The remainder of the November total will be made up of negroes for entrainment Nov. 19 to 21. With the assembling at camps of the men provided in these calls the total number of men inducted into military service under the draft will have passed the 3,000,000 mark, and the number in the army, in the field or in training, will total more than 4,000,000.

Men who registered Sept. 12 under the act extending draft age limits will make up the largest proportion of the November mobilization. Though the October calls were suspended because of the influenza epidemic, nearly all have been reissued. In states where the calls have not been reissued, men called for camp in October will leave with the men called for this month. Calls for additional men to be entrained later this month are in preparation, it was said today at the office of the provost marshal general. 253,335 men called. Ohio will furnish 9,000. Of this number 4,000 will go to Camp Wadsworth and 5,000 to Camp Sherman. There will be no colored troops summoned from Ohio.

There was an impressive silence until a little, undersized man in the second row turned to an enormous woman who sat by him and breathed eagerly: "Maria, dear, won't you oblige the gentleman?"

Daniel Webster and Ohio Drivers.

Can you imagine what Daniel Webster and the live stock dealers and drovers of early Ohio would have in common? Something brought Daniel out west in 1838 and he visited Detroit, on that occasion. Probably there was a convention in Detroit at the time, of the men of Ohio who were largely engaged in buying cattle and hogs and taking them to the great markets.

Because of the United States garrison at Detroit at that time, and that of England on the other side of the river, there was an unusual demand for meat animals in Detroit at the time and most of the live stock from Ohio that were not driven on foot to the eastern markets—Baltimore and New York, went north to the city of the straits.

The late Judge James H. Anderson of Columbus who a few years before he died published an interesting historical volume consisting of accounts of some of the more important events of the Buckeye state in which his father, Judge T. J. Anderson of Marion took part, was based came, which bore the inscription, presented to Daniel Webster by the Buckeyes July 12, 1836:

"The following are the names of the Ohio men (stock dealers), who at Detroit, Michigan, presented the Honorable Daniel Webster with a silver headed cane, which bore the inscription, presented to Daniel Webster by the Buckeyes July 12, 1836:

Jacob Halderman, T. J. Anderson, H. S. Scribner and E. Doty of Marion county, S. S. Tipton, N. W. Brooks and B. Brown of Columbus, M. Merriman of Bellefontaine, J. W. Pearce and Benjamin Tallman of Fairfield county, Thos. Hull of Sandusky county, A. Rouse of Crawford county, and D. N. Darlington of Delaware county." T. J. Anderson before his election by the legislature to be an associate judge, was engaged in various kinds of business on a large scale—among them the buying of live stock for the markets, and this took him to Detroit on the occasion of the presentation of the cane to Mr. Webster. He served three terms on this bench.

The nerve that never relaxes, the eye that never blanches, the thought that never wanders—these are the masters of victory.

Mr. Norton has held numerous conferences with leading municipal officials in Cleveland, Columbus, Canton and Lorain and is assured of their earnest support. The government has informed him that it is disposed to forward to Gov. Cox's state commission to boost highway haulage.

Immediate attention, Mr. Norton said, is being given to the development of highway transportation in Lorain and environs. The Emergency Fleet Corporation plans to erect large yards there, together with 400 houses and barracks for employes. It is necessary to establish a market for produce in order not to deprive these workers of wholesome foods and vegetables. The Board of Commerce and Mr. Norton are working out a plan—somehow of a combination of Return-Loads, Rural Motor Express and Store Delivery—that will give workers and citizens fresh chickens, eggs, milk, vegetables and fish all by motor truck.

Mr. Norton reports that Return-Loads and kindred movements seems fraught with such success that influential Ohio capital is now planning to take them out of the theory class and stamp them with practicality. All developments point the quick leadership of Ohio in truck usage.

On Der Run, Somewhere in France.

Dear Papa:

I am writing on der run, as der brave and glorious soldiers under my command have not seen der Rhine for so long dat dey have started back dat vey, and of course I am going mit dem. Oh, my dere has been some of der off dings hapned here in France. I sent my men in der fight in big vaves, and ven dey got to de American dey's all said "Boo" as loud as they could holler. Well, according to vat you always told me, de Americans have turned and run like blazes.

But vat do you think? Dem fool Americans don't know anything about war, and instead of running de odder vay, dey came right back at us. Some of dem vey laffing like fools. Dey are ignorant. But they are off der reckless mit der guns, and ven dey come towards us it was dat my men took a notion dey vanted to go back to der dear old Rhine. Ohio Cheese To The Front.

It may not generally be known that Ohio produces a large quantity of high grade cheese. Two of the five gold medals awarded at the recent National Dairy Show went to Ohio cheese makers for the entire nation and gold medal for both Swiss and cottage cheese fell to Buckeye cheese makers, as also did the silver and bronze medals and the four diplomas for Swiss cheese.

Richest Woman Dead.

Mrs. Russell Sage died in her Fifth avenue home, New York, Monday morning, aged ninety years.

Mrs. Sage was married to Russell Sage when she was 17 years old, leaving the school room to become the wife of the Waterleit banker. Later they moved to New York where Mr. Sage amassed a fortune of $70,000,000.

Prior to her marriage Mrs. Sage was in pinched circumstances, having worked her way through a school for girls that she had undertaken the profession of teaching as a means of support, her father having failed in business.

Since the death of Mr. Sage she has studiously given away her wealth, until she had disposed of about $32,000,000, the school that graduated her receiving two million.

Pending complete abatement of the epidemic, presentation of the Vacation Thrift prizes to the 25 boys and girl winners will be made until all danger has been removed, according to the educational division of the Ohio War Savings Committee.

Deserve success and you shall command it.

MAKE PROFIT IN SPRING LITTERS

Begin in Fall by Selecting Sows With Plenty of Vitality and Give Them Good Care.

DON'T LOSE VALUABLE TIME
 Animals Should Not Be Skipped on Starvation Rations or Half-Feeds—Access to Green Forage is of Big Importance.

Sensible hog management saves only the most desirable sows for permanent use in the breeding herd, according to the specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, who are striving to effect maximum pork production under economical methods. The method of many hog raisers are out of joint with the advance. That is to say, many farmers waste valuable time when it is likely to be too late, in trying to cure hog ailments, although they could have readily prevented these troubles by sensible and reasonable management. The skater who sharpens his blades after spring has come in order to enjoy the life of the past winter is of the same pattern as the hog raiser who in the spring wishes he had practiced timely management during the previous period of cold weather.

The federal department advises that all breeders should exercise conscientious and painstaking care in the selection of sows for permanent maintenance in the breeding herd. The animals should be of good length, full depth, showing plenty of vitality as well as the inclination to take sufficient exercise. They should not be skimped on starvation rations or half-feeds, but rather should receive a full allowance, which, broadly interpreted, means that the porkers receive about all that they will eat with respect to economical methods of pork production.

Green Foods Essential.
 It is highly desirable that the sows to be bred in the fall should have access to green forage crops as long as there are any such materials available. The sow realizes immeasurable benefit from rustling about for the bulk of her feed. The method of raising the pig to maintain her in the condition which favors good litters of pigs. As on many hog farms relatively little green feed is available through the winter periods, it is imperative that the individual farmer provide plenty of food in balanced mixture in addition to making it necessary for the sows to exercise in the procuring of this food. Many successful farmers maintain that during the winter season they feed their brood sows all the ration which is driven through the pen unless the reader is thoroughly familiar with the conditions under which this plentiful use of grain is practiced.

The general plan of feeding corn is to scatter it in the ear over the fields where the sows may hustle after it. It is hard work to scoop corn from a wagon which is driven through the field. A much easier and more practical plan is to fill the manure spreader with the ear corn and to adjust the machine so that the grain will be well scattered. This process may sound awkward, especially in view of the current price of corn, but if the feeder will be careful and not distribute an excessive quantity, he will demonstrate as useful a technique for pork production. Under existing freight conditions, it would be impracticable to attempt the distribution of green feed among the central Western hog producers, although it can be used successfully in the Atlantic and Gulf coast states.

Use of Alfalfa.
 Careful studies of the department of agriculture indicates the value of grinding alfalfa hay, soaking it for 24 hours in barrels containing hot water, adding a little salt and possibly one-half bushel or more of shorts to a barrel of feed and giving the mixture to the sows in the form of thick slop. It is suggested that the preferable time for feeding this slop is each morning, so that during the balance of the day the animals can rustle about for corn. Good alfalfa hay should also be available in convenient racks so that the sows can eat this roughage as they please.

One of the most important matters, and undoubtedly the one which is most commonly neglected in the proper handling of hogs, is to supply the porkers with an abundance of clean, pure drinking water. For this purpose some automatic watering device or homemade convenience of this nature should provide the hogs constantly with water. Water which is clean is the cheapest material used in pork production and the importance of having it supplied in quantity and of proper quality cannot be overestimated. Hogs should not be forced to drink from an icy tank, nor should they be provided with only a limited supply once or twice a day. A tank heater or properly protected gravity system will control the former evil, while a permanent and dependable supply of water will overcome the latter.

American Farmer's Responsibility.
 At present the stupendous task of filling the world's pork barrel falls to the lot of the American farmer. To accomplish this feat is possible only through a markedly increased production. According to the opinion of the department officials there is no more patriotic duty that the American hog grower can perform than to accord special and undivided attention to every little detail of hog management during the coming winter and spring so that the sows may be prepared to tend to favoring maximum litters which may be grown to maturity with a minimum of mortality. By wisely selecting the brood sows for the pig crop next spring and by properly caring for the animals during the winter and seeing to it that every pig is saved at farrowing time, the American hog raiser will not only be performing valuable service for his country and the allies, but they also will be laying up funds for investment in Liberty loans and War Savings stamps.

TO COMBAT PLAGUE OF RATS
 Buildings Must Be Constructed That Will Exclude the Rats From Shelter and Food.

A single rat, remarks David E. Lantz in a recent publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, does far less harm in a year than any one lion, tiger or wolf; but the big animals of prey are few, while rats are deplored in numbers that are possibly two or three times as many rats as there are people in the civilized world; and the destruction wrought by this vast horde of voracious rodents is far greater than that wrought by wolves, tigers and all other noxious animals together.

To combat this dangerous pest successfully, says Lantz, is largely a building problem. Buildings should be so constructed as to exclude the animals from shelter and food. When this is done, individual and community efforts to destroy rats give satisfactory and lasting results. The program may be regarded by many as too expensive. Will it be too costly? What do rats cost now? If half the money now spent in feeding and fighting rats could be expended in wisely planned and well-executed co-operative efforts for rat repression, it would be possible within a few years nearly to rid the country of its voracious pest, to reduce losses from its depredations by at least 90 per cent, and to free the land completely from the fear of bubonic plague.

LITTLE PIG ESSENTIALS

A little pig loves sunshine and needs it almost as much as he needs food. No piggy is fit for the purpose unless it admits direct sunshine onto the floor of every pen at the time the pigs are farrowed, furnishes plenty of fresh air, and provides for exercise in the open air. Dryness, sunshine, warmth, fresh air, freedom from drafts, and exercise are of primary importance in raising pigs. When putting up buildings, the six requirements just mentioned must be kept constantly in mind; not one can be neglected.

Begin Feeding Silage Now.
 Much feed is wasted by failure to finish packing the silo properly after each crop. The top should be covered or tramped thoroughly, and then well soaked. A layer of dry stalks run through the cutter will also help to keep the top of the silage from spoiling. It is better, perhaps, to commence feeding silage as soon as silage is completed, in which case there is no waste. If that is done the tendency of cows to lessen milk production because of scanty feed is checked, the best until winter to feed silage; do it now.

Wetting Spoils Eggs.
 More than 10,000 dozen eggs spoil needlessly every year in cold storage simply because some one has allowed clean eggs to get wet or has washed dirty eggs before sending them to market. According to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, investigations have shown that from 17 to 22 per cent of washed eggs become worthless in storage. A mere 10 to 15 per cent of dirty eggs stored unwashed spoil.

The explanation is simple: that water removes from the shell of the egg a substance, known as the cuticle, which keeps out air and germs.

Gas Wells Now Feeding Furnaces of the Ohio Seamless Tube Co.

The six-inch gas line from six productive gas wells in Vernon township has been uncorked at the Ohio Seamless Tube Co., Shelby, and the supply from the Vernon field now feeds the furnaces of those mills, says the Tiro World.

F. M. Snyder, the promoter, now sticks his thumb under his suspenders at the shoulders and wish that usual Snyder smile that never wears off, says placidly, "I told you so."

Yes, when Snyder first set foot in this community folks glared at him with suspicion, they smiled when he talked gas and when he really struck gas on the Cantwell Lash farm near Tiro they said, "Oh, Well Snyder's well is only a bubble, a surface bubble." Maybe it was and is, but it has been bubbling natural gas into Cantwell's furnace and light conveniences ever since. Cant's satisfied.

Then F. M. struck another—and another and another, and still folks knocked and looked suspicious and said all kinds of mean things about the promoter and still F. M. worked on and on, and then came the Logan folks and a Crestline gang and—who know how many other gangs, to upset his plans, but they didn't succeed at all. Snyder watched his own knitting—watched his own raveling—and soon the Logan folks and the Crestline gang trotted home and left Snyder to appease the wrath of some of the folks who had "signed up for gas" and didn't get it. Well, Snyder's tender heart throbbed into place and he proceeded to drill them some wells and drill them some good ones, and he succeeded well. Now on account of F. M. Snyder's stickto-itiveness the Settlement has the gas; Shelby tube mills have the gas and so far as we know everybody is as happy and uniform in easy temperance as two peas in a pod, maybe, except a few fellows who couldn't look pleasant in heaven.

We have it from good authority that well drilling will soon be prosecuted with vigor east of Tiro just as soon as Snyder can obtain and clear up a few more leases.

An official test of the value of the gas for heating purposes at the Shelby tube plant was made and summoned up as follows: A few days ago the coal heat and gas heat were given comparison; the coal heated the tubes in an hour and a half, while the gas performed the same object of heating in just one hour—some saving, now that the directors of the Shelby Oil & Gas Co.

Farmers' Congress.

Vice-President for Ohio of the Farmers National Congress, A. F. Sandles, writes that Ohio state will have a strong delegation when the sessions meet in Jacksonville, Fla., in December 3-6 inclusive.

The Congress will be held at a time when the Florida State Fair is in full blast, and the people of Jacksonville are making extensive arrangements to entertain the delegates.

The meetings will be most important to all sections of the United States, and will be addressed by some of the Nation's most distinguished men.

The Women's National Farm Congress will be held at the same time and Mrs. Howard W. Dexter has named several committees of women to attend to various details, looking to the entertainment of these visitors.

It is urgent that every farming section in the Central, Middle and Western states be represented, and Mr. Sandles' assurance of Ohio's splendid participation is most gratifying to those in charge of details.

Several side trips are arranged for and railroads offer special rates for the approaching event.

Mother's Sacrifice.

Bishop Taylor Smith, chaplain general of the forces, preaching at Westminster abbey, told a story of self-sacrifice. A wounded Australian soldier in a military hospital, who was asked about his home and family in Australia, said: "There were six of us lads and mother. We all enlisted and left mother alone. It was her wish she should not see any of hers would hold back when the mother country called. And now five of us are asleep buried on the battlefields of France, and I am the only one left." There was a few moments of silence, and then he added: "But I have not told you the worst. When I got this wound some one called to my mother that I had been killed, and that telegram killed her."—London Times.

Farmers May Still Feed Rye.

Permission to feed rye, extended by the Food Administration, has not yet been withdrawn. In consuming markets New York domestic stock ranged firm at $18.00@20.00, and Danish seed at $22.00@23.00. Wisconsin Danish seed ranged about steady at $16.00@20.00 per ton f. o. b.

Potato Markets Weaken.

Price movement was somewhat irregular but net declines were more common than advances and western markets weaker. Eastern, Minnesota and Wisconsin No. 1 sacked white stock lost 20c of last week's recovery, closing the seven-day period at $1.80 @ 1.90 per cwt., in car lots at Chicago.

FARMERS
Are Advised to Arrange for Next Years Help Right Now.

Arrange for your next year's help now. If you don't, there may be none left for you.

That was the warning issued to farmers of Ohio today by Thomas D. Phillips, farm help specialist of the U. S. Employment Service.

Foreseeing a serious shortage of farm labor next season due largely to the cooperation of the draft, Phillips, co-operating with county farm agents, is endeavoring to arouse farmers to the necessity of registering their expected labor needs.

"It's going to be a case of the early bird getting the worm," said Phillips. "Undoubtedly, there will be serious competition for the available farm help next spring. Farmers are going to need men to replace their boys or present help taken by the draft. We need data as to the needs in order to set about rounding up the available supply."

Phillips called attention to the acute shortage in industrial lines which has been averaging some 10,000 weekly in Ohio. Conditions in the agricultural lines are going to be as bad or worse, he said.

"Farmers should register their need with county farm agents or the nearest United States Employment office immediately. We'll be in shape then to set about locating men."

Blaming It On Chris.

Chris Columbus, hunting for the back door of Asia found the front door of America October 12, 1492. Since the Hun is on the run the kaiser is mad at Chris for having discovered America. He has ordered all statues and pictures of Columbus in Potsdam Castle taken down and destroyed.

It cost Mr. Columbus the sum of $2,000 to find this land of the free and the home of the brave, which sum would pay the cost of the big war for just about one second.

For whose benefit is a funeral? Are the handsome casket, the beautiful flowers, the silver fittings merely for the neighbors? If so, bury them in a wooden box—and forget! Perhaps You Didn't Know.

Do you know what's doing? The kaiser's submarines have sunk several hundred boats of the allies. Do you know that over 400 of these boats have been raised and put in commission? The hoisting operation is interesting. But few of us "Land Lubbers" would have guessed the plan. Divers go down, patch and repair chambers, hitch on water pump and attach an air hose. As the water is pumped out the air goes in. In many cases the air raises the boat; in other cases the air helps the hoisting tug boat to lift the wrecked vessel from the bottom of the sea. This work is possible only in moderate depths of water. It is not attempted in the open deep sea. In some instances, almost the entire cargo has been saved. The kaiser has a hard time beating the Yanks.

An editor after looking over the situation has concluded that some go to church to sleep, while others go to sleep. Some go to tell their woes, others go to show their clothes. Some go to hear the preacher, others like the solo singer. Boys go to reconnoiter—girls go because they order. Some go for reflection, precious few to help the collection.

The truest wisdom is a resolute determination.

Notice To Grain Dealers.

All grain handlers and grain dealers who hold licenses from the United States Food Administration are advised that it is the purpose of the Cereal Division to call on such licenses on January 1, 1919, for a report on blanks to be furnished by us, of their three months' operations, October, 1918, to December 31, 1918—such report to show gross proceeds from sales, total expense, and amount of net profit earned during the period, also per cent. of profits on total sales.

In figuring the net profits, interest on capital cannot be considered as an item of expense, but interest actually paid on loans is recognized as a legitimate expense item.

No item is to be included in expense account which is not allowed by the Treasury Department in returns for income tax or excess profits taxes.

Twenty-sixth Ohio quota to complete its 1918 cash quota of War Savings Stamps is lacking. Chairman C. H. Spencer has reported to state headquarters here that his appropriation of $1,236, 180, has been exceeded.

The Marriage Slacker.

Britain finds itself facing a declining marriage and birth rate, and the condition is beginning to excite no little concern. One English writer urges measures to promote marriage by all respectable and worthy methods. And early in the war there was clamor against marriage. Those men who married in those days were denounced, some of them legitimately scored, for marrying to dodge military service by hiding behind a woman. Of course, this procedure put a crimp in the matrimonial market which is now having regrettable consequences.

The situation in England is worth a little consideration by Americans. For, unless common sense is generously employed right now, we may presently find ourselves in the position of the English people. We may denounce the "marriage slacker" now and reverse ourselves later on in vain.

Marriage ought not to be complete ground for exemption. Each case ought to stand on its own merits. Then the man who marries cannot be made subject to criticism.—Detroit, Free Press.

A somewhat varied experience of men has led me, the longer I live, to set the less value on mere cleverness; to attach more and more importance to industry and physical endurance.
