Plymouth High School Boys Burn German Text Books in Public Square

The High School boys of Plymouth had their inning Monday evening when they piled the German text books of the high school into a heap on the public square and applied oil and the match.

Marching down West Broadway about nine o'clock in full military formation under the command of a captain, the boys took the books to the square and there, Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the boys are marching, and halting under the cluster light deposited their load on the brick pavement and a moment later they were on the firing line.

When the flames were well under way the boys counter marched to the High School and returned, each with an American flag, and all singing the Star Spangled Banner. Out Sandusky street, the column filed, four abreast, singing as they marched and again returned to the burning. A team where they stood encircled and pushed the charred fringe into the center until nothing but a black curling smoke marked the end of German in the Plymouth High School for the current term at least.

We had occasion to pass the smoldering embers, where only two were kept, and from them we learned that, while the German in the local high school boys had hoped for the end of for some time, the decision to act was reached Monday evening. A committee sought Mayor Shadle and from him secured permission to use the square provided a careful watch was kept to avoid en-dangerous property, and with this arrangement the rest was easily consummated.

We inquired if Prof. Kershner, or members of the school board were consulted, and were answered in the negative, but it is not likely that the school authorities will offer any resentment as thousands of educational boards throughout the country have officially discarded the study. The American cannot find it in his heart to cultivate the tongue of the nation that in its arrogance and self constituted authority is seeking world dominion for the gratification of a lust for power and glory for the house of Hohenzollern. A dominion that if successful would seek to make vassals of Americans and lead us with an indemnity that would enslave us as paymasters for a century.

Buy Liberty Bonds.

Make America safe for democracy, safe for your children, safe for liberty, and a country in which your humble home is as vital and sacred as the imperial castles of the Hapsburgs or Hohenzollerns.

It is worthy to note that some time ago the school board with Prof. Kershner concurring, decided to abandon German as a part of the course of study, and the end of the present term would have marked the passing. It is quite probable, also, that the finish of the term would have witnessed a bonfire with school board and faculty present and approving.

DEATH OF DAVID GLICK.

Appreciated For His Industry and Spirit of Accommodation.

In the death of David Glick, which occurred Friday noon of last week, Plymouth lost a citizen whose devotion and spirit of accommodation have won him the respect of all with whom he came in contact with him in his capacity as agent for the B. & O.

For a decade he had manifested an entering devotion to the trust which the company had reposed, and not only was he trustworthy for his employ, but he was unusually accommodating to the public, responding to every reasonable request of shipper and willing to make special and initial effort that the public might avoid inconvenience or delay.

He was ill but two weeks, and so relentless was the development of double pneumonia that his friends were not prepared for the shock which the announcement of his death invited.

The mother of Mr. Glick came from Indianapolis, arriving only a short time before his demise, and a brother from the same city arrived a few hours after death had claimed its victim.

Undertaker Postle prepared the body for shipment to Indianapolis, via Shelby, Saturday evening, in charge of the mother and brother. No services were held here, but friends were allowed to view the remains at the Page residence on Plymouth street.

Oddfellows Buy Bonds.

Paris Lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 749, Plymouth, has purchased Liberty Bonds to the amount of one thousand dollars, thereby exemplifying its abiding faith in Uncle Sam, and its desire to tell the Kaiser that dominion over America is remote that it isn't even a possibility.

Will Build Modern Home.

Fred Nimmons will build a modern eight room home on the Curran lot, Sandusky street, the foundation for which is already staked.

The construction will be in charge of O. A. Kinsel, Shiloh, who will push the work to completion for occupancy, as the O. A. East property, West Broadway, now occupied by Mr. Nimmons, has been sold, through the W. A. Clark realty agency, to A. T. Morrow, who will remove from his farm when his purchase is available.

We are glad to announce the erection of residence properties as the demand is far in advance of supply.

New Pastor At Willard.

The Presbyterian church at Willard installed, on Wednesday evening, Rev. B. M. Swan as pastor, Rev. George T. Young, moderator, of Tiffin, presiding.

Rev. C. W. Swan, of Nankin, Ohio, brother of the new pastor, delivered the charge.

Milan Church To Celebrate.

Milan's new Presbyterian church will be the Mecca of many Presbyterians April 28, 29 and 30, when the congregation will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its organization. An elaborate program is being arranged under the direction of the pastor, Rev. H. C. Cunningham.

Invitations are being sent to all former pastors, one of whom, Rev. W. L. Saven, Salem, who held the pastorate forty years ago, will preach the centennial sermon.

Buys Property In Shelby.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hamilton have purchased the Frank Kubbs property, on Grand Boulevard, Shelby, Ohio.

Rev. Youngs Coming.

Rev. Youngs will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. Members of the church are requested to be present.

Cricket On The Hearth.

Plymouth should put on its best bib and tucker, and wend its way to the Lutheran church on Friday evening of this week to see Cricket on the Hearth, as staged by the pupils of the eight grade under the direction of Miss Beer-bower.

There is a big surprise awaiting you, besides Plymouth should be in attendance at all the activities incident to the closing of a successful school year.

The following will give you a hint of what the chirp of the cricket will mean to you:

Many New County Agents.

Forty-six Ohio counties are now employing county agricultural agents. This is double the number that were employed in the state a year ago. The counties for which agents have been appointed during the last few weeks are: Auglaize, Crawford, Darke, Defiance, Erie, Fulton, Gallia, Knox, Greene, Huron, Medina, Ross, Scioto, Seneca, Shelby, Tuscarawas, Van Wert, and Williams. In addition to these counties a number of others are considering the matter favorably.

Huron County Soldier Dead.

Another Huron county boy, in the service of his country, has laid down his life. Word was received this morning of the death of Harold Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, of Norwalk, at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe. He had been sick about a week and was operated on a week ago for a mastoid abscess. It is not known whether death was due to this or not. His devoted mother was at his bedside in the camp hospital when death came.

Harold was a proud soldier, and was one of the first of Huron county's select list. When the selective service board asked for volunteers to be the first to go to the camp, he was among them, but did not get off till the second call. He left early last October and made a fine record as a soldier.—Reflector-Herald.

Embalmers Attention.

Unless 2,000 Ohio embalmers comply with the law at once by registering their license renewals for 1918 with the State Department of Health, they are in danger of finding themselves seriously embarrassed in their work.

The law requires that every license renewal granted by the board of embalming examiners be registered with the State Department of Health. To date only about 600 of the 2,700 licensed embalmers have registered for 1918.

Plymouth Over the Top

It is our pleasure to announce that in the matter of the Third Liberty Loan, Plymouth has gone over the top with an ease that is complimentary.

There has been no demonstration, no sounding of cymbals, no hip-hip hurrah. Plymouth, in her dignified way, with a consciousness of her duty, came quietly to the wicket of the Peoples National Bank, and subscribed until the quota was complete, and just to show that the task was not one of exertion she took a few thousand more than exacted as an evidence of her faith and fervency.

Great is Plymouth. In the matter of the world struggle she has her ear to the ground, and any call for help which Uncle Sam finds necessary to make, whether it be men, money, or sacrifice, she responds with grace and without complaint. Neither does she bid for applause. Nothing but this simple announcement of a duty imposed and a duty discharged.

Great is Plymouth, and as a color bearer she's always on the top of the ramparts.

Social Service Not Slumming.

"Some girls seem to think they can do social-service work in their best clothes and treat the people they visit as pieces of furniture," said Miss Lucia Johnson, of Cleveland, in an address to the women of the Ohio State University. "Such is not the case," she added; "the work requires sympathy, ingenuity and tact, and those who enter it with any other spirit and equipment are bound not only to be disappointed, but also to embarrass the general cause and make the task of the real workers more difficult." Of all social-service work, she said, nursing is now the most important, and courses in preparation for it most necessary.

Lieut. Culp Now In Texas.

Lieut. Henry S. Culp and his mother, Mrs. Louise S. Culp, of Norwalk, are now "at home" in the quarters furnished the officers at Call Aviation Field, Wichita Falls, Texas. In writing to a friend Mrs. Culp says "Aeroplane fly over my head all day long as this is a field where our aviators first learn to fly. Learners are called Cadets until they graduate into Pilots. The air is full of them when the weather is favorable."

Lutheran Church.

The subject for the sermon Sunday morning will be, Where shall we look for light in our darkness or for comfort in our sorrow? The world is lighted by the sun that we may live and move and have our being. We light our streets and homes that we may not stumble and do ourselves harm. Is there any light to guide us in working out the great problems of human life?

Service at 10:30. We would be glad to see you in the house of prayer Lord's Day morning. The Sunday school is held regularly at 9:30 and your presence there is greatly appreciated. Come and help move God's work along. The Luther League will meet at 7 o'clock. A good attendance was present last Sunday evening and we had a good meeting. Bring some one with you.

Letter From James D. Reed.

A letter written about March 1, was received by Mr. and Mrs. Will Reed, from their son James D. Reed, announcing his arrival in England, and that preparations were about completed for the continuation of their trip to France where actual service would begin. This was the first letter received by them from over-seas, and was most welcome.

With The Masons.

The Master Mark degree was conferred Monday evening on three candidates by Plymouth chapter.

After the exemplification all were invited to Sourwine hotel where luncheon was prepared and served. A most enjoyable evening is reported.

An Optical Illusion.

Mr. Editor—In your issue for April 6, Mr. W. F. Badgley is made to say that the sun seems larger when rising and setting than when overhead. Such is not the case. It must be evident to anybody that when the sun is overhead it is half the diameter of the earth nearer to us, and hence must be larger to the eye; for as we approach an object it becomes larger and larger. The reason the sun and moon appear larger at the horizon is because we can then see four minutes after it is below the horizon. This is because the air bends the rays of light just as water causes a straight stick to seem bent when thrust below the surface.

In my article on the eclipse I certainly did not mean to say that when the moon is nearest the earth its shadow does not reach us. That is just when it does so. Just reverse the statement.

By the way, I wish to congratulate the Advertiser on its Phoenix-like resurrection.

W. P. Root, Medina, Ohio.

Death of John Donnerwirth.

Mr. John Donnerwirth, of Bucyrus, and father of Mr. A. F. Donnerwirth, of this city, died in the Toledo hospital, Monday evening, April 16. He had been there but a few days when he was taken with pneumonia and after a short period of suffering passed to his reward. The funeral service occurred at New Washington, Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and the burial at Bucyrus.

German Prisoners In U. S.

Death of Mrs. Dr. A. D. Saunders.

Mrs. A. D. Saunders, wife of Dr. A. D. Saunders, of Shiloh, died suddenly in her home Wednesday afternoon.

On Tuesday she returned from a shopping trip to Cleveland, and Wednesday morning was about her household duties in her usual good health.

Mrs. Saunders was well known in Plymouth, having taught for several years in the grammar grades of our local school, and admired for church and social activities.

Compliments Red Cross.

Group No. 1 Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. J. S. Fleming, Guardian, knitted a beautiful lap robe of colored wool and presented it to the local Red Cross for use in a hospital.

This group is composed of seniors and juniors in High School and only those who know how limited is their time can appreciate the self sacrifice this group must have exercised to complete the robe this evening.

Surely the invalid who will enjoy the comfort of its warmth and the beauty of its colors will feel grateful to them. And the Red Cross through whose hands it passes also appreciate this lovely gift.

A well-known Hampshire squire, noted for his shabby coxys, was one day leaning over a gate which commanded a good view of his broad acres. A well-pleased smile was on his lips when he was startled by the sound of a wedding voice near him.

"Give us a hand, old chap," to help him over the hurdle, he called out.
The squire turned, and, with the smile deepening in his face, pushed the little cart behind with so hearty a good will that the coxey exclaimed with admiration:
"Well, I'm darned if you ain't a good old sport. I say," he went on in a whisp'er, "I've knocked over two or three of the squire's rabbits, and I'm darned if you shan't have one."
Whereupon, with a great appearance of secrecy, he pulled out a fat young rabbit from under a sack in the cart, and trotted away, leaving the bewildered squire with one of his own rabbits dangling from his hands.—London Tit-Bits.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

CHIVALRY OF THE SCOUT

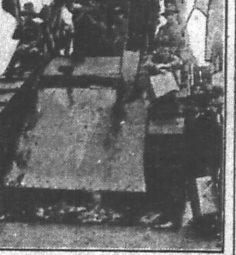

Chivalry is the birthright of the American boy. He may be a boy in the rough, unused to the civilities of life, but there is instinctively the throbs of chivalry in his youthful heart that prompts him to do creditable things.

During the recent cold weather, when the streets were like glass, says a Memphis official, a woman fell. A gentleman went to her assistance, helped her to her feet, raised his hat and passed on.

Near the Nineteenth Century club another woman fell. Two boy scouts were passing. Both went at once to the rescue. The lady was assisted to her feet. One of the scouts drew from his pocket a handkerchief. The snow was brushed from her dress, and in spite of her protests that she could take care of herself and that she was not hurt, these young American gentlemen, one on each side of her, escorted her to her front door and would not leave until they saw her in good hands.

Here is what the boy scout movement is doing to our young Americans. It is showing them the responsibilities of manhood while they are yet boys. It is showing them that the great lesson of life is to look after and care for others.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of the boy scout movement. It has already so developed the courtesy of the boy that his neighbors look upon him as a protector and a friend to be relied upon when necessity demands.

A SCOUT WAR TANK.
Bonds Were Sold From This Imitation One. It Did Real Work for the War.

SCOUTS WILL PLANT EARLY.

The Boy Scouts of America did fairly well at this feeding-the-soldier business last year, considering they got into it rather late, but this year they hope to do twice as well, now that they know precisely how important food conservation and production is in this matter of war winning, which concerns all so vitally.

There is every reason to believe that scouts are ready and eager to get at their new gardens, but they will need constructive, intelligent leadership to obtain the best results.

Not the smallest bit of enthusiasm or effort should be permitted to go to waste. Conservation of this sort is of the utmost importance.

In 1918 there shouldn't be "any such animal" as the vacant lot, and scouts can scarcely do better service than by helping in the extermination process. Get on the trail of the vacant lot. It is fair scout game.

225 BOY SCOUTS ENLIST.

The roll of honor of the boy scouts of Philadelphia now numbers 225 in the national military and naval service. The scouts are represented in all branches, the report says.
The scout membership in Philadelphia totals 5,500, and represents about one-tenth of the youth of the city available for service.

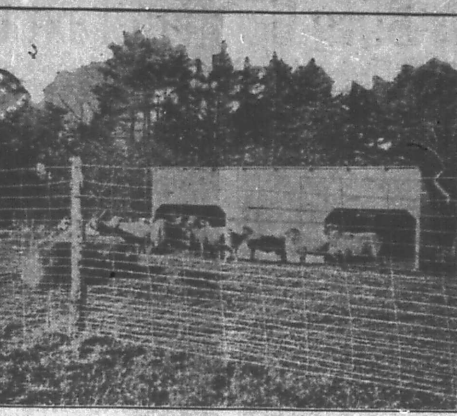

Every effort will be made to enroll every youth in the city scout movement. There is war work for all, including the Liberty Loan, War Savings stamp, Red Cross and various other campaigns which are being held from time to time in which the scouts have been playing an important part.

SCOUTS KEEP OUT OF COURT.

The judge of the juvenile court in Portsmouth, O., has named scout Executive Kinsey as one of the probationary officers to deal entirely with delinquent boys. The judge made the statement that in his year and half in the juvenile court he had never had a scout appear before him for trial. He hopes to interest these boys in scout work, which he feels would mean great reduction of juvenile delinquency.

DOGS THREATEN NEEDED INCREASE IN SHEEP

Dog-Tight Inclosures in Which Sheep Are Herded at Night Offer One Way to Reduce Losses.

HOW DOG LOVERS CAN SAVE SHEEP

Owners of Canines Can Aid by Supporting Fair State Laws Regulating Menace.

BIG HINDRANCE TO INDUSTRY
Most Serious Loss Is Fact That Farmers Are Kept From Engaging in Sheep Business—Dog-Proof Fences Described.

Thousands of sheep are ruthlessly killed every year by dogs. The monetary loss of more than a million dollars a year to sheep owners does not cover the most dangerous aspect of the damage. The fact that the dog menace keeps many farmers from engaging in the sheep business, even at this time when there are urgent demands for more wool and meat, is the most serious result which may be attributed to sheep-killing dogs. Specialists of the United States department of agriculture are urging efficient state legislation as one of the best ways to deal with the sheep-killing dog problem. Dog-proof fences also are described and advocated in a recent publication of the department of agriculture dealing with this subject, "The Sheep-Killing Dog," Farmers' Bulletin 935.

Hindrances to Industry.
That dogs are a real hindrance to the sheep industry is not only acclaimed by the testimony of thousands of sheep owners but is verified by actual counting statistics. An investigation by the United States department of agriculture among sheep owners in 15 states east of the Rocky mountains shows that out of a total of 6,836,492 sheep in the 502 counties reporting, 34,683 were killed by dogs in one year—and paid for by the counties. At the same rate of loss in other farm states the total annual destruction of sheep by dogs would be 107,700 head. But these figures are based only upon the number actually paid for, and specialists of the United States department of agriculture say it is more than probable that the true losses far exceed this. It is known that many sheep are killed which are never reported to the county officials.

Sheep-killing dogs work both singly and in groups, but usually in twos or threes. They do not wait until the flocks to which they are kept, but travel for miles in all directions, spreading destruction in the flocks with which they come in contact. Because their work is so often done under cover of darkness it is almost impossible to catch them in the act of worrying sheep, hence they can seldom be positively identified. The ways in which different dogs attack and destroy sheep vary greatly. Some dogs simply kill one or two in a flock, while others continue to attack until all the sheep are either destroyed or crippled. In many cases where large numbers are killed they are neither bitten nor wounded but simply chased until they die from exhaustion. After a dog has once formed a habit of killing sheep it seemingly becomes a habit with him and he seldom, if ever, broken of it. He not only destroys sheep himself but leads other dogs to the work. No consideration should be given such dogs; they should be killed as soon as their habits are known.

Rehabilitating Industry.
The desirability of a maximum increase in the number of sheep is generally admitted and steps now are being taken toward a rehabilitation of the sheep industry. But it is recognized that one of the most effective means of insuring the farmer a profit in sheep is to make and enforce laws which adequately protect the farmer's flock, but in most of the states the present dog laws fall in their purpose.

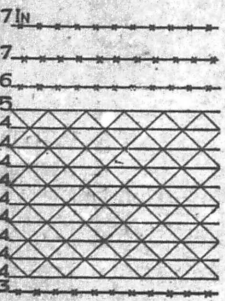

In the publication mentioned in a previous paragraph the federal specialists describe the need of uniform legislation and outline a suggested state dog law.

CANINES KEEP MANY FROM GROWING SHEEP

Crop reporters in 36 farm states submitted estimates in 1913 which showed that the number of sheep in those states could be increased 150 per cent without displacing other live stock. Such an increase would place approximately 34,000,000 more sheep in these states than there are now. Of 1,411 answers received to the question as to whether sheep raising is profitable in the farm states, 887 answered "Yes." Of 894 answers as to the causes preventing increase in the numbers of sheep, 531 said "Dogs."

FENCE PROOF AGAINST VARIOUS QUADRUPEDS

Here are the specifications for a dog and coyote-proof fence which has been designed and tried out by the forest service of the United States department of agriculture: Posts 7 1/2 feet in length, set 2 1/2 feet in the ground and 46 feet apart; a barbed wire stretched flat to the surface of the ground; 3 inches higher a 3/8-inch woven wire fence having a 4-inch triangular mesh;

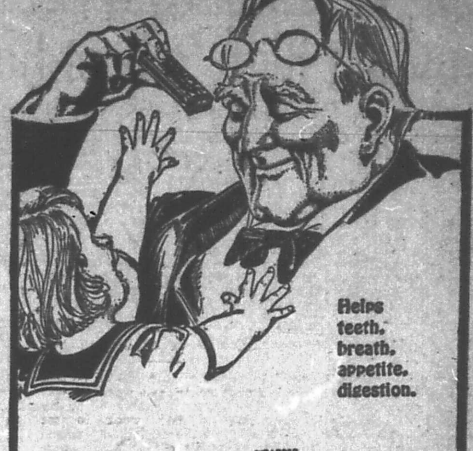

Government Fence.

5 inches higher a second barbed wire; 7 inches above this a third barbed wire. Total height 57 inches. The farmer who does not object to placing his flock in a corral each night may eliminate the necessity for building dog-proof fences around his farm by inclosing a small area with such a fence and making a practice of placing his flock therein at night.

Help Save Sheep.

The dog rightfully holds a strong place in the minds and affections of men. The owner of a good dog finds in him a most faithful friend. But it sometimes happens that the dog most highly esteemed is also one that kills and worries the most sheep and is the most cunning in obscuring the evidences of his guilt. A well-bred dog's habit of lying innocently asleep in the front yard during the daytime is not proof that the same dog does not kill sheep at night. Because of the economic loss occasioned by sheep-killing dogs, and because such dogs bring the whole of their kind into bad repute, the true admirers and friends of this animal should help to further any steps likely to result in the limitation of the activity of these discrediting members of a noble race. One of the most practicable methods of accomplishing this result seems to be to place upon dogs such tax as will reduce the number of superfluous ones and result in fewer being kept by persons who cannot or will not give them the attention necessary to prevent the formation of habits and associations that lead to sheep killing.

At this time of the year most people suffer from a condition often called Spring Fever. They feel tired, worn out, before the day is half thru. They may have frequent headaches and sometimes "pimply" or pale skin.

Headless people, thin, anemic people, those with pale cheeks and lips, who have a poor appetite and feel that tired, worn or feverish condition in the springtime of the year, should try the refreshing tonic powers of a good alternative and blood purifier. Such a one is extracted from Blood Root, Golden Seal and Stone root, Queen's root and Oregon Grape root, made up with chemically pure glycerine and without the use of alcohol. This can be obtained in ready-to-use tablet form in sixty-cent vials, as druggists have sold it for fifty years as Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a standard remedy that can be obtained in tablet or liquid form.

between 200,000 and 300,000 cubic feet per minute, and during the filtration test, made of the gases throughout a period of nine months it was found that the electrical precipitator recovered between 80 and 90 per cent of the suspended matter. With improvements in detail of construction, the efficiency later was raised well up into the nineties.

Great Wastage in Smoke.

The general public has only the faintest notion of the wastage represented in the fumes and smokes from belching stacks quite apart from the beneficial economies following from their abatement where the nature of these outpourings is harmful to man and vegetation. In the smelting of lead the fume contains anywhere from 3 to 10 per cent of the volatilized metal in the form of lead oxide and lead sulphide, with compounds of arsenic and antimony. This percentage is well worth recovering. Doctor Cottrell is authority for the statement that not less than 36 valuable substances are found in fumes which, if not collected, would be lost during the smelting and refining of various ores, etc.

At Great Falls, Mont., there was at one time a daily loss in dust from the stacks of one of the large smelters of 3,775 pounds of copper, 106 ounces of silver, and 0.71 ounces of gold. By an adequate provision for dust recovery, this smelter was able to save in the course of a single year metallic values amounting to $130,253.

The blighting gas, sulphur dioxide, given off from the stacks of copper smelters can be transformed into useful sulphuric acid or sulphur. Sulphuric acid is largely made here by treating pyrites, and we now consume annually in the neighborhood of 6,250,000 tons of 50 per cent sulphuric acid. To a great extent this corrosive fluid is a prime constituent in the preparation of fertilizers, especially where phosphate rock is treated for this purpose. It is also used in converting the ammonia by-products of cooking ovens into ammonia sulphate. Sulphuric acid is in great demand by explosive factories, oil refiners, steel mills and various industries engaged in the making of heavy chemicals. Sulphuric acid is likewise extensively employed by smelters and the latter are paying as high as $30 a ton today for the stuff. Sulphur dioxide is used in the preparation of wood pulp for paper making, both as a disintegrating and bleaching agent.

In dealing with noxious or objectionable gases not necessarily harmful in aspect of precipitation arises. The electrical treater can handle only fluids or substances in the shape of particles and cannot cause the precipitation of gases, per se. But these gases can be made to condense upon mists in the form of steam or finely sprayed water or upon extremely fine powder or dust purposely thrown into the sweep of the gases to effect this. In this way it is possible to deal with varied conditions and to abate nuisances that did fail to cause the shutdown or removal of costly plants.

In dealing with dust alone, the first direct effort along this line had to do with a Portland plant near Riverside, Cal. An electrical treater was installed there a few years ago by way of experiment, and a couple of years later was collecting something like a hundred tons of dust daily. Prior to that the dust had been scattered broadcast and settled upon the groves of adjacent orange growers, leading to extensive litigation. Analysis of the recovered dust disclosed the presence of an appreciable percentage of potash, but this attracted no marked attention at the time. Since then, particularly now that it is no longer possible for us to get potash from our prime source, Germany, this element so essential to a balanced plantfood is in great demand.

Last year the plant at Riverside started full blast to actually create dust as its first concern in order to recover the potash which previously had been only a by-product in the manufacture of cement.

Cement Becomes By-Product. This is certainly a romantic development of modern industry, where an apparatus installed for the purpose of saving the life of the factory turns out to be the center of operations around which the entire plant is adjusted. In other words, the cement becomes for the once the by-product and the profits on the potash furnish an ample revenue, while the cement is just so much additional gain.

Anyone at all familiar with the average cement plant and the gray powdered appearance of the nearby territory can realize the boon that would be conferred by the general adoption of electrical precipitators not only in preventing the escape of the dust but in saving the potash which is so much desired.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the whole story of Doctor Cottrell's success is the fact that he has presented to Smithsonian Institute at Washington all of his valuable patents relating to the electrical precipitation of dust, smoke and fumes. The purpose of this munificence on his part was that any profits resulting from the practical application of the patents should go to the upbuilding of a fund to aid in the advancement of scientific research. In short, to help genius and to develop inventions where the needful financial aid might otherwise be lacking.

Callaux's Aplohm.

There is going the rounds in Paris a characteristic story of M. Callaux. The other Sunday afternoon he appeared for the last time before the committee of eleven, charged with investigating his case. He had, as un-staggered every one with the absolute coolness with which he met all charges. But when he left the chamber in the darkness and falling snow, no cab was to be found. "Sapristi!" cried the deputy, as he looked in vain for a friendly "facre." Then an idea struck him, and he approached a motor-car containing detectives. "It is you who are shadowing me?" he questioned. "Yes, monsieur," very well, then, take me home," said M. Callaux, as he entered the police car.—London Chronicle.

Win the War by Preparing the Land
Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops
Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada
CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than May 5th. Wages to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

Do You Want Seed Corn?

Seed corn orders must come in faster, if a car of government seed corn is to be secured for Richland county.

It is evident that more than a car load of seed is needed in the county, but too many want to wait to see the corn before placing an order. These will not only disappoint themselves, but will also disappoint those who have already placed orders, for unless the government is assured that a car load is needed, the car positively will not be shipped, and if it is shipped, none will be sold until after all who have placed orders have been supplied. Additional orders for about three hundred bushels must be placed Thursday seed is to be received.

ETAION-SHRDLU.
By Colonel Riggs.

When the news dispatches a few weeks ago told of the death of Granville Cowing, it was an item that held a significance that but few appreciated.

Granville Cowing was a printer of the old school. He died in Muncie, Indiana, at the age of 93, and aside from the extreme age, the dispatch stated that he set the copy of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," from the author's original manuscript.

Here's where the story begins that the news dispatch suggested, but did not develop, for news dispatches are necessarily brief and they leave the reader to his own fancy.

It was a marked distinction to set "Uncle Tom's Cabin" from the author's original manuscript, but under what conditions, is worth telling and we are sure that readers of the Advertiser will pardon our diversion.

In 1851, John G. Whitier, the poet, was publishing a story paper in Washington, D. C., called The National Era. Granville Cowing, then a young man 26 years old, was a compositor in the Era office.

It was in the days of hand composition, before type setting machines were invented, and Mr.
Whitier published "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as a serial before it appeared in book form, and thus Cowing was the first to set it.

Mrs. Stowe encountered much difficulty in getting a publisher to accept her manuscript. Mr. Whit-ier accepted it reluctantly, doubting the story's ability to arouse sufficient interest to justify its publication.

It was after the completion of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as a continued story in the National Era, that Mrs. Stowe sought a publisher to put it in book form. Publisher after publisher refused to be interested, and it was a woman's shrewdness that finally prevailed.

Mr. Stowe, as a last resort, took the manuscript to a Boston publisher, but he declined, and after Mr. Stowe's departure, the publisher remarked to his wife that he had declined Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The wife of the publisher maintained that he had declined a very good story and begged her to hand so reconsider his attitude.
He did so and later asked Mr.
Stowe for the manuscript.

This was not the only difficulty the Stowes encountered. They were very poor, and Mrs. Stowe, in poor health, and with a large family to care for, began the story in Cincinnati, where they lived while Mr. Stowe was a professor in an educational institution there.

In that southern Ohio city Mrs.
Stowe had opportunity to know the hardships of slavery, and while attending her household duties wrote much of it on the kitchen table while preparing the daily meals.

It was her husband who discovered parts of her manuscript and was so impressed with its heart interest that he begged his wife to follow her inspiration to a conclusion.

In the meantime the Stowes moved to Brunswick, Maine, where Mr. Stowe had accepted a position in a school, and here "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was completed.

It was one of the rare books written in sorrow, and obscurity, with no hope of reward except the prayers of those who suffered as she described.

You can little imagine the joy in the pinched home of the Stowes when Mr. Stowe returned from his second trip to Boston with the news that he had finally effected arrangements for the publication.

Mrs. Stowe's remark is worthy of record when she replied that she hoped she would realize sufficient to buy her the silk dress she had wished for so long.

The first check that came to this good woman was for ten thousand dollars, and what a cheer it must have been to the poor, hard working, invalid wife and mother.

Six months after the first edition was put on the market one hundred and fifty thousand copies were sold. The book made the publisher a millionaire, and the family of Stowes, while not so rich, never knew want afterwards.

Thus does the death of the aged Mr. Cowing enable us to spin this little story of a book that ultimately was translated into almost every tongue, and read wherever language was the medium of expression.

A book that did much to break down the institution of slavery, and written, not in leisure hours, but under a suffering almost as keen as that which it sought to expose and alleviate.

U. S. Government when you bought your last Liberty Bond is helping to keep your income going now.

War industries, industries directly or indirectly connected with the work of this and the Allied governments, are the cen-industries and you would stop a workmen and producers of raw

All Come.

We never like to talk about the weather, for the reason that we dislike to discuss the obvious.

Wednesday of last week was such a bitter blizzard for an April day, that when we stepped into Beckwith's for a Bill Williams cigar we couldn't refrain from saying that it was something of a winter day.

Heinie didn't think so. He told us he'd seen many a worse day, and we just let him ramble along while we lighted a match and held it against the Havana.

He told us about a cold day back in the sixties when he was a ten year old. He said it froze the water in his father's forty foot well into a solid cylinder of ice and pushed the pump eight feet in the air, platform and all.

We thought that was a pretty cold snap but we didn't say anything except to inquire of Heinie if he could remember any hot ones.

Then he told us about a hot day in July. He didn't name the year, and we didn't ask because we didn't want to break in on his recital.

He looked out of the window into the blinding driving snow and said that he was working down at the elevator and a farmer drove up with a load of wheat.

Whether Heinie ever worked or not, we don't know, but we doubt it. Anyhow he went on to say that a farmer drove up with a load of wheat.

The weather was so hot, so he said, that it melted the solder on the elevator's tin roof and it slipped down on the scales, scared the team and started a runaway.

All the while we drew leisurely on our cigar and listened.

He told us that the team and load of wheat came pell mell up town, turned around the bank corner and started north on Sunday street scattering the wheat as it went.

Ran all the way to New Haven and when it pulled up to the post-office there wasn't a dry hair on the team nor a grain of wheat in the wagon.

We started for the door, but Heinie touched us on the shoulder and begged us to wait a minute.

It was then he told us that the next season he harvested thirty bushels to the acre out of the highway between Plymouth and New Haven, and,—

But we didn't stay for the finish and when we got back to our office we registered a vow that we'd never mention the weather again to that man Beckwith.

Buddy

I'm the handiest thing to have around,
A mighty good person to lean on hard;
With me in your jeans you can't run aground,
You'll find me, old man, a dandy pard.

You can look 'em all in their starin' eye,
If I'm packed in your pocket tight;
And you know, too, boss, you'll move right spry
With me for your buddy bright.

If I've squeezed you a bit to make me yours,
Just think o' the lads across the pond,
And know I'm one of the Kultur cures—
I'm a winner of war—A Liberty Bond!

To Detect Coloring Matter.
To ascertain whether artificial coloring matter has been added to tea, place a small quantity of tea on a piece of white paper, and rub with an ordinary table knife until the leaves become a fine powder. Now brush the paper with a bristle brush, and if any Prussian blue has been used for coloring purposes there will be little streaks of this all over the paper.

Being Sure of Heaven.
I would rather be a poor beggar's wife and be sure of heaven, than queen of all the world and stand in doubt thereof by reason of my own consent.—Catherine of Aragon.

A WORD ABOUT SHOES

We are going to carry a good and complete line of Men's and Boys' Shoes. We have the agency for The W. L. Douglas Shoes which we have sold for years and can recommend them. Our Shoes we have on hand at the present time range in price from $2.75 to $5. We have Shoes coming by express which will sell from $5 to $7.50.

Mr. H. L. Bucey will be with us at our opening and we expect he will have charge of the store a little later, and our old friend, from whom the writer bought clothing in Plymouth 45 years ago, Mr. Sol Spear, has consented to help us out on Saturdays.

We might say that we have rented the store room from Mr. Kirtland for 1 year with the privilege of 3, and if the people of this vicinity will give their patronage, we will see that Plymouth has a Good Clothing Store.

Owing to the extreme high prices of Merchandise we are obliged to sell all goods for cash. We invite all the people of this vicinity to our store and will give each one a square deal. All goods marked in plain figures and sold at one price.
