

The Plymouth Home Building Co.

Frank Willett returns from a visit with friends in Richmond, Indiana, and brings renewal of the subscription of Mary E. Caykendall.

Maggie Basore writes from Shelby and encloses renewal of her right to receive and read the Advertiser.

Peter Nel, the celery grower, drops in to tell us where to send samples in order of the Advertiser, and renews as evidence of his continued faith and friendship.

E. M. Brumbach remembers the date of his expiration, and elects to receive for another year.

C. F. Root, friend and advisor, drops in during our absence and leaves a check for home mission work.

Mrs. Val Deihl is a new subscriber and it is known that a new subscriber is a most welcome guest.

H. B. Postle sat for a time in the familiar corner and paid as he chatted about current events.

A. B. Steiner is another new one on the advertiser list. He recently resigned his position as roadmaster on the Northern Ohio. Now that he has moved to Fremont, Ohio, he thought for this example of local enrollment. Two new ones. Count them.

Mrs. Elmer Bland was a Saturday caller, and became another new subscriber. That's three. Count 'em. Glad to enroll Mrs. Bland, and Mr. Danner will see that the Advertiser arrives on time.

Mrs. John Utis accompanied Mrs. Bland, and she also became a part of the big family. That's four new ones since we entered the November. Count them. The Advertiser will go to the Utis home on Friday of each week.

J. R. King, who is in charge of the molding department of the Fate-Root-Heath Co., hangs his nose over a two dollar peg, and now looks just like one of the family. Another new one. Five, count 'em.

Miss Mary Hayes, mindful of her expiration, came in Saturday with a helpful spirit and a renewal.

Mrs. Grace Harssana, Celeryville, was a Saturday evening caller, and adds her name to the lengthening list. That's six new ones. Count 'em.

Albert Myers, good boy, good steady boy, crossed the Advertiser's threshold Saturday evening and is now with us for another twelve months.

Then came F. M. Cross, who adds the name of his new son-in-law, G. H. Bowley, Windsor, Canada, to our card index. That's seven new ones. Count 'em.

Mrs. Frank Caldwell, who lives in Toledo mails two Williams and in her letter put a little White Hyacinth which we have transplanted in our rose garden.

J. E. Southard met us in the store of Nim & Nim, and said he'd received a sample copy. Liked the sample and passed us two bucks. Eight new ones. Count 'em.

Complying With The Order.

In compliance with an order from the Industrial Commission of Ohio, ordering improvements on Hamilton hall, a new floor has been placed in the entry, two standard fire extinguishers have been conveniently added, exit lights installed and no smoking signs hung in hall and hallway. Contrary to our usual custom, the decorations, all of which will contribute to safety and environment.

The Plymouth Home Building Company is now a living thing. In the presence of an enthusiastic bunch of seventy-five good men, all bent on the good and growth of Plymouth, the organization was completed under the direction of Major Huston, of Mansfield.

It was one of the most enjoyable gatherings the Chamber of Commerce has given to this community. Certainly it was actuated by the loftiest purpose the body has yet conceived—that of giving more and better homes to the thirteenth small town in all Ohio.

The meeting started off by electing O. A. White chairman, and John I. Beelman, secretary. The articles of incorporation were then read and discussed, and the Major Huston, who had finished on motion of F. B. Callahan they were adopted as a whole.

Then came the selection of nine directors. On the motion of Dr. T. Gaskell, the chair was authorized to appoint a nominating committee of three to report on a directors' meeting on Friday afternoon for this purpose. F. B. Callahan, David Bevier and John I. Beelman. The above committee retired and the services by Roy, G. C. Smith, reported as follows: R. H. Nimmons, J. A. Root, C. E. Heath, Chas. McClintock, Karl F. Webber, O. S. Starnes, Wm. W. Dyer, F. B. Carter, and F. B. Lofland.

The Order of the Eastern Star attended in a body and occupied seats reserved for them. Rev. Ross Miller, of Shiloh Lutheran church, preached a brief sermon. He was assisted in the conduct of the services by Roy, G. C. Smith. At the conclusion, Mr. R. H. Wilson sang "The End of A Perfect Day," and friends were permitted to visit the body.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, and these also exemplified the love and sympathy which a wide circle of friends entertained.

The body was placed in a crypt in the new mausoleum in Greenwood at Columbus, S. and E. Brumbach was born in Shiloh, Ohio, September 18, 1887, and died in Plymouth, Ohio, November 4.

Mrs. Chappell was a graduate of the Shiloh High School. She was a student in the Normal school at Columbus, S. and E. Brumbach was a member and active worker in the Mt. Hope Lutheran church, Sunday School and Young Peoples Society in Shiloh, having affiliated in her early childhood.

Mrs. Chappell was successful in her early life, and after teaching about three years her strength failed her. After a time she regained her health, and entered into partnership with Avis Hamilton in the millinery business. With her cheerful disposition and artistic ability, she was very successful and made many friends.

Mrs. Chappell was fortunate in having been born with an unusual amount of energy and determination. Her attitude toward life and toward her convictions was always positive. She was an optimist and never despaired of her lot in all. While she lived happily in the present, she was always planning for the future.

Mrs. Chappell and Mr. Chappell were married November 18, 1917, and have since lived in their home on West Broadway, in Plymouth, Ohio, where a son was born to them October 29, 1919.

When F. B. Callahan announced the above selection, Dr. Gaskell moved that the rules be suspended and the secretary authorized to cast the stock as a unanimous vote for the nine directors. This was seconded by J. Elden Nimmons, and sustained without dissent.

The directors were then requested to retire and elect the officials for the company, and on their return to the chamber reported as follows: President—R. H. Nimmons. Vice President—F. B. Lofland. Treasurer—John I. Beelman. Secretary—Carl M. Lofland. Oaths were administered, and The Plymouth Home Building Company became an active organization, incorporated for business under the laws of Ohio.

This company will at once begin the preliminary steps and preliminary surveys in the construction of a number of houses, and construction will no doubt be on the way and carried through the winter months. It is probable that we may find a number ready for sale, rent, and occupancy.

During the meeting several shares were voluntarily subscribed as follows: Chas. R. Smith ..... $100 Howard Jacek ..... 200 Wm. W. Dyer ..... 200 Chas. E. West ..... 100 Mrs. W. B. Anderson ..... 200 Maurice & Sol Bachrach ..... 500 S. S. Starnes ..... 200 In addition to the above Harry and Brock Snider received their subscriptions from $100 each, as previously subscribed to $300 each. The progressive spirit that characterized the home building movement was further stimulated by a further interest in the Chamber of Commerce. This was evident when Walter Beane, Lee Kennard, Fay Rueckman and M. L. Myers became unfledged members of the Chamber.

This body of enthused and public spirited men was never so gratified as now, and is gratifying to write that it is awake to its opportunity, and so thoroughly centered in purpose.

Those who are not in touch and especially those out of step, can not understand the fellowship nor sense the sacrifice and service that characterize its effort. We are now entering one of the most interesting phases of our municipal life. There is both zest and ardor in the movement. Every day some one catches the spirit and joins in the effort. He is a very selfish man who would let the garden rest upon a sale for a score of houses. Build and sell is the purpose, and your money will come back.

Mr. Stearns and Mr. Maag, of Cleveland, and representing the Ferguson Co., were present. Mr. Stearns giving an interesting talk on types of houses and their construction. Mr. Kennard, who is in charge of the work the company has had under construction in Plymouth also talked briefly. The directors will visit neighboring towns to study plans, cost and construction, that they may be able to get the best our money will buy.

The whole effort is as unselfish as any public enterprise can be. No one receives pay for the service he renders. All officers and directors serve without compensation.

When you subscribe for stock, you simply say, "here is my money. Take it and use it. When through with it return it."

You can't beat that sort of unselfishness, and no town ever had too much of it.

You should know that stock subscription to date is almost $400,000. You have nearly $100,000 of this is voluntary. The committee appointed to solicit have not begun their work. The people have cheerfully and abundantly contributed nearly $100,000. When the committee is active the stock subscription should leap to the limit of the capitalization, which is $500,000. Let's push it to the limit.

Sticking to one thing isn't the most cheerful situation in the world.

It takes all the spice out of life, and makes one morose and melancholy.

Of course, if you're so situated that your depends upon your salary, and you feel chained to your task, the only thing to do is to stick.

Some people love in-door work, and it rather suits them to stick like a porous plaster, with but little or no communication with the outside world.

If they would get more into the open, it thinks they would be less morose.

Whether a man should stick to one thing depends upon his individuality. With some people doing one thing seems to be a step up to something else.

Garfield thought he wanted to be a mule driver on a canal path. Then he studied law. Then he went into the legislature. Then he went to Congress. Then he made such a cracking good speech in a Republican National convention his party elected him to the presidency.

If he'd stuck to one thing he'd missed all this advancement.

True, he might have missed the assassin's bullet, but it was this that made him a national hero. "God reigns, and the Country still lives."

Then after months of suffering he went down to a loving shrine, all because he didn't stick to one thing.

The ability to do more than one thing is not a bad accomplishment, and you won't know about it until you're as long as you are tied to the wharf.

We wouldn't have written this, but we were across the cut, the rides at the top of this article, and we needed something in this column.

Korndyke Segis Gerben. Korndyke Segis Gerben is a high sounding title, and why not high sounding when he cast the pretty girl of $1500.

Korndyke Segis Gerben is a high grade bull, born January 14, 1918, and is therefore less than two years old, and was purchased by C. E. Heath, H. F. Root and Ollie Devore from Dr. A. D. Blackburn, of Cuba, Ohio, at the October sale of Holstein-Friesians.

Korndyke Segis Gerben will be added to the herd on the Root-Heath stock farm, and is a fine sire. The Good Cheer Club of this well known stock farm. His sire is the son of a 21-lb cow that is the daughter of a 21-lb daughter of a 21-lb cow. His sire's dam is the daughter of King Segis, sire of 11 30-lb daughters, and grand sire of a 50-lb cow.

Korndyke Segis Gerben was the highest priced offering in a sale of 100 top notch animals, and is a most important contribution to the community for the improvement of stock.

Manager Ollie Devore, of the Meadows Brook farm is particularly proud of the purchase, and is bestowing rare care on this premier of the farm herd.

Stole All But Shirt and Gown. Thieves stole all of a shipment recently consigned at Cleveland to the McKellogg Clothing Co., Plymouth. One wool shirt and one night gown.

The shipment was made up of shirts, hose, nightgowns and a few other articles to the value of $190, but on reaching Plymouth only one shirt and one gown had escaped the thieves. The McKellogg Clothing Co. refused and the consignor agreed to make claims.

The Trip, The Booze, The Ditch

A series of comedies were turned loose Friday evening when a Packard automobile went into the ditch on the east side of the bridge on the cement road just east of New Haven.

In the automobile were H. J. Shinn and H. W. Webster, of Ashland, and Jay Palmer, living east of New Haven.

Shinn and Webster were returning from Toledo, and enroute home. They were loaded to the waters edge with a brand that Toledo is famous for, and with about six quarts in reserve. Palmer was a sort of innocent bystander, having been a passenger on the road side, but allowed to participate in the joyful.

Approaching the bridge at something less than sixty miles an hour, with all cylinders hitting, a screeching outburst was suddenly sighted. Bang went the brakes, and on went the heavy Packard headed straight for the traction engine.

Being unable to stop, the driver chose the ditch rather than a head-on collision and a catapult through the air. The car hit the machine shot down the embankment and assumed a pose that looked like a 45-degree angle with the ground. The driver, who was around the steering gear in his lardine.

The traction engine was just passing the ditch when the driver, who was in the school room, but after teaching about three years her strength failed her. After a time she regained her health, and entered into partnership with Avis Hamilton in the millinery business. With her cheerful disposition and artistic ability, she was very successful and made many friends.

Mrs. Chappell was fortunate in having been born with an unusual amount of energy and determination. Her attitude toward life and toward her convictions was always positive. She was an optimist and never despaired of her lot in all. While she lived happily in the present, she was always planning for the future.

Mrs. Chappell and Mr. Chappell were married November 18, 1917, and have since lived in their home on West Broadway, in Plymouth, Ohio, where a son was born to them October 29, 1919.

Cross-Bowly

Of more than passing interest to our readers is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Nina Cross, daughter of F. M. Cross, Sandusky street, to Mr. G. H. Bowley, of Windsor, Canada. Miss Cross was one of Plymouth's most attractive young ladies, active in social and religious work, and she is united with a large circle of admiring friends.

The following is an account of the marriage which was solemnized Saturday evening, November 8, 1919.

No 65 Crawford Ave., Windsor, Canada, was the scene of a quiet but pretty and impressive ceremony on Saturday Nov. 8, 1919, at 3 p. m. when Miss Nina Cross of Plymouth, Ohio, and Mr. G. H. Bowley of Windsor, Canada, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. Dr. Crews of the Central Methodist church officiating.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the Border City Cafe where a three course luncheon was served. The tables were beautifully decorated with red and white roses and carnations, and presided over by three little Japanese girls in native costume. From the luncheon table the room was conveyed to the Victoria Theater where they were treated to an English drama.

After the drama of the bride, Mrs. C. T. Bowley, and John F. Bowley, of Hamilton, Canada, Mr. E. C. Carr, brother-in-law, and Mr. Bowley's brother, were present to witness the happy couple start out on life's voyage.

The bride's trip to Plymouth, Ohio, was made on the interest of Canada, and Mrs. Bowley will return to the scene of their marriage vows, the home recently provided by the groom, and assume life's duties together.

Good Cheer Club

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Good Cheer Club will hold a sale of baked goods, consisting of pies, cakes, cookies, scones, celery, pickles and lots more good things.

The goods will be on sale at the Bachrach meat market. The object of this sale is to raise enough money to buy a Christmas cheer during the holidays to those who are in need of it. The members of this club are as follows: Pauline Phillips, Vice Pres. Opal Phillips, Sec. Dorothy Straub, Treasurer. Members: Leah Bachrach, Edna Froume, Margaret Boardman, Elinor Seale, Emaline Fate, Betty Bachrach, Henrietta Krueger, Alverta Hale, Mary Shevry, Edna Meyer, Winona Klein, Thelma Reed and Doris Reed.

Identified

The body found in Blackfork near Shiloh on May 18 last has been fully identified that of Wm. Harvey Roosevelt, who was a bachelor farmer. Remains have been removed from Mansfield to Plymouth for burial. Certain identifications were made by a priest who made artificial plate for mouth.

Dr. Babcock did the taxi work that put Shinn and Webster back in Ashland. When he drove up to the scene of the accident, the car was in an amazing state. "What's the trouble?" The battered lord of the house replied, "The car is in a state of confusion. The ditch is full of questions. Put me to bed."

In all numerous statutes were enacted, and it is a sad sight to see a man driving wild under the influence of liquor, having intoxicating liquor in possession, giving it to a woman, and then driving into a ditch. The fellow who purchased the contents of the suit case, also fractured a few vertebrae in Huron county courts, if Sheriff Reese had reached the situation immediately, but he reached the scene too late.

When Dr. Searle has finished his dissertation on the conduct of the patient in the presence of the surgeon, it is evident that there would be no further first aid to the distressed, neither would Doc accept amendments or reservations in his original draft. Whereupon the patient was asked to depart broken in both head and spirit.

Out on the square this dejected and bruised Ashlander inquired if there were other physicians, and begged to be taken hence. He was

The Public Farm Sale.

The public farm sale is always interesting and sometimes pathetic. Often it is merely the disposal of surplus stock. Again it is the closing out of all the farm chattels prior to a move to some other state. It is the invoicing of the farm property, for by a sale the farmer learns his financial status. It is pathetic when some old couple left alone on the farm in their old days finally have to sell the horses, often like old friends to them, and part with all the homely but time-endured tools their hands had become accustomed to thru years of service.

The morning of a public sale finds all the neighborhood astir early and doing the extra chores demanded by absence from the farm for the day. The curious crowd finds amusement in looking over the stock and machinery and in rough jokes among the younger men. The women gossip and respect the household chattels that are set about the yard in more or less confusion.

The public sale is a clearing house of ideas on farm topics. One can hear opinions on all public questions and frequently hears some keen debate as to national policies. If it is winter, the crowd comes early intent on recreation. Many do not come to buy, but merely to meet neighbors and pass the time. Others frankly are looking for bargains, and there is sharp bidding for the most desirable stock and machinery. When the auctioneer arrives and the hour for the sale, there is a loud call and the crowd gathers to hear the sale terms.

When these are given the sale begins, the auctioneer selling the small stuff of little value very fast. He knows the time must be conserved for the more valuable stuff to be sold later. It is more pleasurable to be an onlooker than the maker of a sale. The farmer who parts with all the paraphernalia of the farm must sell some which he hates to part with. But the particular question is: does the sale maker as a rule get full value at a public sale? Does he get enough to replace his stuff with property of equal grade in some other place if he wishes to begin over again?

The consensus of opinion is that farm property usually sells near its worth in the majority of cases. The exceptions are the tools and stock not properly fitted for a sale. We are convinced that in case a sale it pays to overhaul and repair and paint all machinery. To offer a machine needing repairs is to invite loss. To sell horses thin in flesh or roughtoeking cattle is poor policy. The harness with broken tugs or lines, for instance, sells poorly. The most successful sales we have ever attended were where everything was in good repair, machinery ready to run, painted and with all parts bright, like the shares of a plow or the shovels of the cultivators.

Threshers To Convene

As in past years, the Annual Convention of The Brotherhood of Threshermen will be an interesting feature of the National Farmers' Exposition to be held in Toledo December 4 to 12.

The Brotherhood of Threshermen is a national organization for the advancement of the threshing industry and their annual meeting develops many things of interest to the farmer. After the grain is harvested the farmer must depend upon the thresher to complete the work and prepare it for market. On account of the great outlay of money required, it would be impossible or at least impractical for the average farmer to separate his own grain. Besides buying the equipment it would be necessary for him to employ mechanics to operate it.

Folks who spent their childhood days on the farm will remember that the arrival of the threshers was an occasion of great excitement, especially in the kitchen. Most of us remember them as being husky fellows who came early and worked late and had an unlimited capacity for all kinds of foodstuffs. The thresherman is the farmer's best friend after the harvest and no one realizes it better than the farmer.

No one loves a fat man, especially if he wears a belted overcoat.

The average boy wants a pal, and the father refuses to qualify for the position.

The crap shooting that was indulged while Capt. Sherman was under construction was not done on the rifle range.

Is not work delightful when you don't have to? A fellow who can not combine business and pleasure, has got the wrong job.

Undertakers are very much interested in the announcement that more than 70,000 hunters' license have been granted in Wisconsin.

The trouble with Senator Poinsett's presidential candidacy is that in our opinion the president elect in 1920 will not have to cross the Mississippi on his way to Washington.

Thirty-two new poisons were discovered by the recent munitions activities in the United States. Nothing is said about the brands of social poison also discovered during the same period.

We may be mistaken but our notion is that if the matter of deportation was placed in the hands of a few constables and justices of the peace, they would have had a few thousand Reds on board and ready to ship.

Since Mr. Berger has been placed on the skids, the people are wondering why LaFollette is allowed to intrude. Was he such a loyal patriot that the senate must honor him, while the house purges itself of Berger?

Thanksgiving is approaching and if the country doesn't settle down it may be very much of a mockery. But we have seen people very thankful for the aprons, racking trials were not worse. Maybe Uncle Sam can get by without grinning.

A member of the national house of congress said the other day that neither the operators nor the mine workers are wholly to be blamed, intimating that the indecision of congress was a source of much of the unrest. The people think much the same way.

Mrs. Russell Sage, with a fortune of 55 million, died with a wardrobe which the appraisers say is worth $280. When you have a fortune as big as 55 million you don't have to own a lot of clothes. Some people who have nothing else have more clothes than Mrs. Sage left to her estate.

Mr. Berger stands up in the house of representatives and declares that socialists are foolishly and lavishly obeying the laws of the country. Let us see what we do to John Brown, Aaron Burr and a few others. These latter were never bold enough to stand up in congress and say that the finance into the very face of lawmakers.

People who are loyal to the government and who plead for respect of law and order would get much farther in their effort if they were backed up by an era of swift justice. One day we catch a long haired dissemination of disloyalty, buried in literature that fairly reels with evilest of the next day he's either turned loose or is engaged in a legal tangle while we read that there is no law that fits the crime.

To us it seems a foolish thing for a congress to deny a seat to Berger by a vote of 302 to 1, and then admit his defiant arraignment of the government to publication in the congressional records from whence it can be mailed broadcast at the government's expense. Just now when we are bending every effort to suppress Red propaganda why sow it to the winds through government mails while the taxpayers pay the bills?

Mr. Victor Berger, elected from the Milwaukee district to the national house of representatives will not sit in the body, convicted of conspiracy against the government during the war, but elected to congress by his constituency after his indictment. Berger stood in the house of representatives Monday and heard the vote recorded, 302 to 1, expelling him, and his seat made vacant. It is well that the vote is all but unanimous. Only Rep. Volstead, of Milwaukee, voted to sustain.

Rats!
We don't know who took the rat census of the United States, but a rat statistician says there are one hundred million rats in the country, which is a rat for every man, woman and child.

The wonder is that there are not more for the brown or Norway rat, and the gray rat, which is an intimate relative, bear young four or five times a year, and each time the rat population is increased from four to ten, bare, blind, rodents.

These young additions to the rat family are able to start new families at the age of six months, with the period of gestation only twenty days, the increase goes on amazingly.

But taking the rat statistician at his word, the next question arising is, what does it cost to feed this horde of dirty, destructive, disease-bearing rodents, for they prey on dogs, cats, grain, and other sources of food for man.

You will be interested in knowing that it costs two dollars per rat, per year and if the count is reliable, we are paying a board bill for rats that totals $200,000,000 annually.

All of which means that during the war, the rats in America destroyed more food in dollars and cents value than was required to feed all the needy in Belgium.

The destructive tendency of the rat is not new. Ask any farmer in the vicinity of Plymouth and he will tell you not only of grain devoured, but of grain sacks ruined and a hundred items of loss and damage even to the eggs of poultry coops and insect thefts.

There has always been more or less war on the roads. There is no armistice day for the rat family to celebrate. Health boards have invited destruction. Rat killing has been planned and banquets served to the contestants. But the rat goes on. If 100 escape the dog, trap, club, gun, or poison, the rat of the year finds that each pair as produced no less than fifty, and the fifty pair has a lineage embracing a conservative estimate of 2500.

Not long ago the Women's Municipal League, of Boston, published a leaflet on the subject of "The Rat." It was so good that the government is now issuing it from its own presses.

This warfare is essential. If let alone the rat would multiply and rule the world. No wonder the slogan now is Rout the Rat.

The mice family is also in disrepute. The rat and mouse are much alike in their destructive needs. The two families are so much akin in all respects that the chief difference is in the size. If put to the test neither could produce a certificate of character that would be accepted.

Both are classed by scientists in the family of rodents. Both gnaw and destroy, and carry disease. If it comes down to a scientific test in order to determine which is the more destructive, the mouse they count the rows of scales on the tails. The rat has 210 and sometimes more, while the mouse tail rarely exceeds 180.

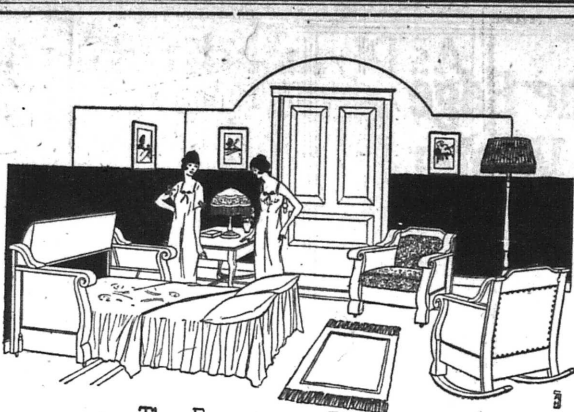

The rat's earliest history begins in Great Asia. He reached Great Britain in the 13th century, and came to America with the earliest ships reaching our coast. He does not live alone. You find him where man has established sufficient thrift to enable Mr. Rat to get his meal ticket punched without much effort. No cats, no rats.

The careless man is the rat's best friend. He likes to live where the bins are open and of easy access. He likes the fellow who leaves the baskets of corn sitting around. He likes the fellow who don't believe in rat proof brooders. A barn full of rats is not really the rat's fault.

Remember the slogan, Rout the Rat, and add it to the Swat the Fly, and other campaign cries.

Gas Meeting.

About fifty citizens responded to the call of The Logan Gas Company to meet its representative, T. J. Parkison, at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening. Mayor Shadle presented the purpose of the meeting to those present and was followed by Mr. Parkison who made an impressive statement of conditions. Those with open minds know that there was a terrific profit in 30 cents in 35-cent days, or else the present 35-cent is a losing rate now.

Just what the price will be was not announced, but Mr. Parkison stated the schedule would be in the hands of Plymouth officials about Nov. 15. He stated also, that the rate to be asked of Plymouth will be the same that will govern every community which is a company serves. There will be no discrimination.

Plymouth users are as a whole willing to submit to an increase. They realize the injustice of compelling a service at the old rate, when all other phases of commerce have been permitted to adjust itself to the unusual conditions.

The hope is that the company will not use the occasion for extortion, and since the attitude of the company, and its presentation of conditions are notably fair and candid we may reasonably anticipate a rate that will meet with approval.

Honolulu Honeymoon at The Temple.

Mr. Henry Ahiena, who heads the native Hawaiian troupe with the super musical comedy "A HONOLULU HONEYMOON" at THE TEMPLE Theatre, WILLARD, Nov. 18, is a Hawaiian Historian of no mean ability.

He is the author of the book "Ancient and Modern Dances of Hawaii" which is the accepted authority on everything pertaining to Hawaiian dances.

The famous Hula Dance keeps the Hawaiian in communal imagination, in living touch with the nations legendary past.

Princess Lei Momi performs a wonderful Hula Dance in "A HONOLULU HONEYMOON" which includes every specie of composition in the whole range of the Hawaiian poetical and sensational dances.

Mr. Ahiena arranged this special number after nine months' work; he calls it "A handful of dance lyrics strung on an epic thread."

This dance includes the famous Hula mele or the language of passion. It illustrates the lover pouring into the ears of his innamorata the story of his undying love. Other numbers in this wonderful dance inspiration includes "Love at Play," "Outspreads the Dawn," "Love return to the refuge I Offer," "First Blush of Maidenhood" and other beautiful compositions.

Begin Your Pastors.

In our issue of last week we overlooked the 'Hallow'een social by the Eastern Stars, one of the most unique events of the autumn. Fully masked, the ladies sat down to a luncheon typical of the All Saints day. Never has the Chamber been so spookily decorated. Witch craft was everywhere. Even to the white shrouded, sharp-chinned, high hatted old lady who stood in the upper hall and pointed with bony finger the way to the social rooms.

Then there was the fortune teller's booth, the corn, the witch with the broom, and a scarcely a square foot of wall that did not take on the goblin spirit. Wierd faces carved in empty pumpkins grinned from every darkened corner, and held sentinel on the stair way.

We are really sorry that we overlooked this event, but those who understand will exercise a forgiving spirit.

Complimenting Plymouth.

Mrs. D. Hanick is in receipt of a letter from Mr. H. C. Warren of New York, and who is employed on the New York World. Mr. Warren learned the printing trade in the Advertiser office since back as 1889, and will be remembered by many.

Mrs. Hanick grants us the privilege of using a paragraph in which Mr. Warren refers to this Plymouth and which reads, "I tell you what, Mrs. Hanick, the people of Plymouth seem to be more full of 'pep and go' than they were when I was there. At all events the paper has improved greatly since the days I commenced to learn the printing business in that office back in 1889. A long time ago, isn't it?"

Recent issues of the Advertiser are really a revelation to former residents in that they have carried news of a marked awakening.

We are well stocked in our bargain room up to the present time, and we are selling a lot of small sized Men's suits and large Boys' suits. If you are a small sized man or have a large boy and want something for service at a very low figure, we have just what you want. Suits from $8.75 to $12. The most of these are wool. A very few are soiled. If they were size 38 and 40, they would sell a week. McKellogg Clothing Co., Plymouth, Ohio.

Royal Neighbors of America.

The Royal Neighbors met in a called session at the hall Monday night. Mrs. Joe Gimmel, District Deputy Supreme Officer, was present. Mrs. Gimmel who instituted this Camp less than eleven months ago, was very much pleased with the work of the Camp, and especially congratulated the officers.

A number of the members are planning to attend a Jubilee Convention, to be held in Tiffin on Thursday of next week. Mrs. Ivy Ely was shown the way to the local Camp, and was also placed on the program for a reading.

A short business session of the Royal Neighbors will be held at the hall Friday evening, beginning promptly at 7:30. This business session will consist of the trip to Tiffin and all members are requested to come.

LADIES NIGHT

Ladies of the Chamber of Commerce And Others Will Enjoy Luncheon and Musicale.

On Saturday evening, December 6, 1919, the ladies of the Chamber of Commerce and their friends will entertain at the Chamber rooms. The committee in charge of affairs have planned a luncheon, reception, and program.

This is to be a ladies affair in which mere man holds no part, not even attendance. The pleasure of the evening will be Miss Catharine Roberts, a society entertainer, accompanied by her own Marimba orchestra, of Chicago, who are now touring the state entertaining Elk Lodges, clubs and other social and fraternal bodies.

There will be music during the luncheon. Following this an entertainment will be given by Miss Roberts and her company. Miss Roberts will be the feature, and will offer a group of tabloid book reviews, sketched from the bookshelves of popular authors. Impersonations of characters will be the delight of the guests of the evening.

In addition, Miss Roberts will feature her company—two of them as instrumental soloists, and all of them in ensemble numbers, grouped about Miss Roberts and her reviews.

Miss Juanita Noble will play an instrument as charming as it is rare.

Prof. K. E. Horst, musical director for Miss Roberts, will give a few imitations on the violin. The social part of the evening will follow the program, during which Miss Roberts will continue the musicale.

The personnel of the company will be:

Miss Catharine Roberts, Marimba Entertainer.
Miss Juanita Noble, Cellist.
Prof. K. E. Horst, musical director and violinist.

John A. Otto, pianist.
Lionel Noble, trap drummer.

One of the most important announcements of the present season is that of the coming of David Wark Griffith's supreme triumph, "Hearts of the World," to the DEISLER, Friday Nov. 21. This production, which required more than eighteen months in the making, and which has been declared a Griffith masterpiece, surpassing even "The Birth of a Nation," has enjoyed phenomenal success from the Pacific Coast to New England.

A Bit of Ben Wade's Eloquence.

Up to the time he was elected to the state senate in 1837 Ben Wade had taken no pronounced attitude toward slavery. If what he inwardly felt in regard to the matter had been known to the Whigs they would probably not have nominated him. But when the question was put up to him, the senator flamed up as a most radical opponent of the slave power.

At Red Oak in southern Ohio a colony of freedmen had been established and naturally many escaped slaves from the south made their way to this place and there were constant recoveries. In order to facilitate these recoveries friends of the slave owners introduced a measure in the legislature. Senator Wade attacked it with all his power and, though only four other members of that body joined him, they were able to delay its passage for some days, though there was at no time any ground for hope that it could be defeated.

On the day of its passage the bill was debated from the opening of the morning session until long after midnight, and it was at two o'clock on the morning of the next day that Senator Wade rose to make the closing speech in opposition to the pending measure. Here is an excerpt from the inspired oratory of his argument:

"Though I stand here at two o'clock at night and after a prolonged session since yesterday at nine o'clock in the morning, and though I speak to ears that are deaf, and hearts impervious to a sense of right and justice and liberty, still will I be heard; and though for the timid and servile policy that has been manifested by the majority on this floor I have no hope of arresting the progress of the measure which shall ere long stamp its supporters with more infamy and degradation than did the famous alien and sedition laws. The champions of the measure, like the heroes of old, before taking up the gauntlet in its defense have thought proper to preface their remarks with a history of their own birth, habit and education, and as I suspected it appears that they were themselves born in the murky atmosphere of slavery.

"Were I to follow their example and speak of so unimportant a subject as myself, I would say that I was born in a land where the accursed system of slavery was unknown; where the councils of state were swayed by the great principle of equality; where right and justice were deemed the greatest expediency. My infancy was rocked in the cradle of universal liberty, and my parents were of the revolution. The earliest lesson I was taught was to respect the rights of others and to defend my own; to resist oppression to the death; neither to do nor to suffer a wrong, and to do unto others as I would they should do unto me. And though my venerated instructors have long since passed away, the godlike principles they taught can never die; and when they shall cease to influence my conduct, may my right hand forget her cunning and my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth."

Ohio's Big Corn Crop.

Ohio has the biggest corn crop of record. With an average yield of 44 bushel per acre, she produced 153,541,000 bushels. This is 28,000,000 bushels more than produced last year, and is 13,000,000 bushels more than the ten year average.

The quality is also high, being 92 per cent of perfect, and would have been higher still except for excessive rains in October.

Huron county is credited with an average acre production of 53 bushels, which is ten bushels above the state average. The quality is 93 per cent. Richland county is credited with 43 bushels per acre, or 10 bushels less than the state average. The quality is 94 per cent.

The potato crop for the state was poor. Especially in early potatoes. The season with its rain saved the late crop, bringing up the season average to 62 bushels, which is two million less than last year, and five per cent less than the ten year average.

Huron county enjoyed a yield of 73 bushels to the acre with an 80 per cent quality. Richland county had an average yield of 81 bushels, with an 88 per cent quality.

Ohio did pretty well in buckwheat, producing 668,000 bushels, which is 227,000 above the ten year average.

Recovery, Ohio .....
	45c per one thousand cubic feet less 3c per thousand. Readiness-to-serve charge 35c per consumer per month.
	The addition of the Readiness-to-serve Charge makes the rate for the first 5,000 cubic feet as follows:—
Coshocton, Ohio .....	First 1,000 cubic feet each month ..... 77c
	First 2,000 cubic feet each month ..... $1.19 or 59½c per thousand
	First 3,000 cubic feet each month ..... 1.61 or 53-2/3c per thousand
	First 4,000 cubic feet each month ..... 2.03 or 50¼c per thousand
	First 5,000 cubic feet each month ..... 2.45 or 49c per thousand

The establishing of these rates in the communities enumerated curtails their use of gas from 29% to 50%, according to the rates charged, and since all natural gas companies supplying gas to Ohio communities draw their supply from the Appalachian gas field, it will be at once apparent that as each additional community, no matter what company's lines, adopts similar conservation measures, the demand upon the gas fields is lessened to that extent, and if this movement continues to go forward throughout Ohio and in all the neighboring states as promptly as conditions will permit, it is plain that the ultimately desired result, namely, the conservation of supply for future years of use, will certainly be accomplished.

Gets Quick Relief from Sore Throat

During the coming raw days of fall and winter you are particularly apt to develop sore throat, lumbago and stiffness of the muscles. Children also are more apt to contract colds and kindred ailments at school. Be prepared. A bottle of Houstonia in your home is your safeguard.

Mrs. C. E. Rieder, 955 East Long St., Columbus, Ohio, says: "I am troubled with a weak throat and every cold I contract settles there. I find Houstonia, however, the best remedy I have ever used. One application always relieves my sore throat."

It's easy to use Houstonia — no pain, smarting or blistering. It sterilizes open cuts, burns, scalds, or bruises and soothes while it heals. Ask your druggist for Houstonia-e-s-h (The Original Jones' Liniment), $1.00. Half size 50c, trial size 25c. Dr. J. C. Jones Co., 87 1/2 Charleston, Ohio.

SAYS SUCCESS EVIDENCED IN MANY RESPECTS

"TRUTONA Helped Me In More Ways Than One", Mrs. Fleming asserts.

Ironton, Ohio, Nov. 12. Mrs. Rozzie Flemings is among the well known and highly respected residents of Ironton who are today publicly offering praise for Trutona, the perfect tonic. Mrs. Flemings says:

"I was suffering from nervousness and stomach trouble. I did not eat much and the little food I ate didn't digest properly. I was usually constipated. A heavy feeling in my stomach almost invariably followed my meals. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep or rest well at night."

"Trutona has helped me in more ways than one. My appetite is a great deal better now and I thoroughly enjoy the food I eat. I've gotten rid of the heavy annoying feeling in my stomach and I'm able to rest better at night now. Trutona is the best medicine for constipation that I've ever taken. It is alone worth the price in this respect. It is so mild and pleasant in action, I feel better all over, since taking Trutona and I'm sure it will do others a lot of good. Trutona is now being introduced and explained at KARL F. WEBBER'S Drug Store, Plymouth,
