And The Light Went Out.

Nobody ever charged Representative Young of North Dakota, with not being a thorough-going, rip-snorting, hide-bound Republican. He just naturally can't see any good on earth in a Democrat, and whenever he gets up to make a political speech the things he says about Democrats are simply awful.

During the last campaign, while Young was campaigning in a country district, he started to address a meeting in the school house one night where the only light was a lantern owned by a prominent Democratic farmer. Young didn't know this, so he started in to lambast the Democrats right and left. The owner of the lantern stood the abuse just as long as he could and finally he walked up to the platform, lifted his lantern off the table and started out the door.

"I'll be gosh derned if any man can attack the Democratic party by the light of my lantern," he said as he faded into the darkness. Young continued his speech without the aid of a light, and while he thinks that his message was well received, it sometimes occurs to him that possibly his features were utterly wasted—Exchange.

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial.

OHIO'S READY FOR SEAL SALE

Campaign Against White Plague Is on Next Week.

STATE'S QUOTA 50,000,000

Money Raised to Be Used in Waging War Against Disease That Threatens Seven Thousand Ohio Citizens Annually—Cleveland Man Heads Big Life Saving Campaign.

Ohio is ready to make tuberculosis "the next to go."

S. Livingston Mather of Cleveland, chairman for Ohio of the Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign, in a statement declared that the state is organized as never before for a Red Cross Seal campaign and predicted that Ohio would meet her quota of 50,000,000 seals in the nation-wide campaign, Dec. 1 to 15.

The churches, the schools, the lodges, women's clubs, professional men, business men, labor organizations—in fact, all groups of citizens are organized to put across the campaign as it has never been done before.

When the Little Red Cross Seals are placed on sale in every city, village and hamlet Dec. 1, it is believed they will be grabbed up in big blocks of hundreds and thousands by business men doing large mailings, who will take this opportunity of assisting in the work which concerns local societies for the prevention of the dread disease, have been carrying on.

Reports from various districts and local communities of the state indicate that there is considerable rivalry between communities in the campaign. In several cities the Rotary clubs are behind the campaign and are doing things in true Rotary style. Busy business men are giving much of their time and money to the effort.

"This is not a job for nurses and doctors and social workers," said Mr. Mather, "but is a problem in which every man, woman and child has a vital concern."

"More than 1,000 deaths in Ohio last year from a disease which is preventable and curable is something for all of us to think about and when it is made clear to the citizens that they can help to check the ravages of this disease by purchasing a few of the Red Cross Christmas Seals, there is no question as to what the response will be. It is the biggest lifesaving job Ohio has ever tackled and I am confident it will meet with success."

AMERICAN LEGION HELPS SEAL SALE

Many Soldiers Victims of "Great White Plague."

The American Legion of Ohio, the organization which represents all men who saw service in the World War, has declared for active service in the fight against tuberculosis in Ohio.

A letter has gone out from the state headquarters of the Legion to the 270 local posts instructing them to service men by giving their fullest support to the various local agencies in the campaign for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, Dec. 1 to 15.

C. H. Kearns, acting state assistant of the American Legion, points out that out of the 250,000 young men called to the colors in Ohio during the war, 1,500 were rejected because of tuberculosis by the local draft boards and 1,500 were rejected by the camp medical examiners, making a total of 3,000 men rejected because of the "white plague" in Ohio.

It is further pointed out that the surgeon general of the army estimates that 40 per cent of the discharged soldiers receiving compensation from the United States government at this time have tuberculosis.

"It is the desire of the American Legion," says Kearns, "to see that local posts co-operate in this big fight against the arch-enemy of humanity, and we know all of our local posts will want to take an active part in the fight. It is a worthy cause and we heartily endorse the movement."

BOYS AND GIRLS, LISTEN!

LAST Christmas and Christmas before last you were serving your government by doing without candy and a lot of other things, in order that our soldier boys might be fed and returned safely home. You saved sugar and bought Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps, but this year you have an opportunity to perform a service that is highly important.

There are thousands of little children afflicted with tuberculosis in Ohio. Five hundred little tots under 5 years of age died from this disease last year. Sixty-five hundred other persons also died from the disease.

You can help to save the lives of some of these little children and the lives of the mothers and fathers and sisters and brothers of some of them by assisting in the sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seals.

SAVE A LIFE

This is the 1919 Red Cross Christmas Seal. Ohio expects to sell 50,000,000 of them this year. Do your bit and buy at least 10. They are only a penny apiece.

Pass The Apples.

When every pool in Eden was a mirror, That unto Eve her dainty charms proclaimed, She went undraped without a sin—fear or thought that she had need to be ashamed.

'Twas only when she'd eaten of the apple That she became inclined to be a prude, And found that evermore she'd have to grapple With the much-debated problem of the nude.

Thenceforth she devoted her attention, Her time and all her money to her clothes, And that was the beginning of Civilization, And Modesty, as well, I suppose.

Reaction's come about in fashions recent, Now girls conceal so little from 'em men, It would seem, in the name of all that's decent, Some one ought to pass the apples round again.

Former Plymouth Boy Escapes Death in Storm.

The Sandusky Register carried an item Monday of interest to Plymouth since it speaks of the narrow escape of Vernon Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gregory, former residents here. The item follows: Vernon Gregory, 408 Finch-st. and Zeno Weber, Perry-st, caught in Saturday's storm in the marsh in the East End, narrowly escaped death. They were off Big Island when the storm caught them. When they did not return, search was being started when a telephone man here said they were safe at Cedar Point. Gregory's father found them Sunday afternoon, nearly dead from exposure, and landed them at Big Island. Herlbert Barber took them home in his auto.

YOUNG WOMAN WOULD RIVAL "OLD RIP" NOW

"I Think I Could Sleep for a Week Since Using 'TRUTONA', She Declares.

Portsmouth, Ohio, Dec. 3, 1919. "I believe I could sleep for a week if no one called me and to think before I took Trutona, I could hardly sleep at all." Miss Pearl Lewis, a well known Portsmouth young woman who lives at 601 West Market street, said recently.

"Constipation, nervousness and derangement of the kidneys was the source of my troubles", she ing any heavy food I would feel bloated. I was so restless I could hardly sleep at nights. My kidneys pained me at times.

Trutona has done me so much good, although I have been taking it for only several days. It is certainly a fine laxative, so mild and gentle in action and it has given me relief from my kidney trouble, too. My nerves are much steadier and, as I said, I believe I could sleep for a week now.

The trouble I formerly had with my stomach is a thing of the past. I can eat anything I wish for the former bad after effects. I think Trutona is the best tonic I have ever taken and I'm sure it will help anyone troubled as I was.

Trutona has been the recipient of praise from thousands of weakened and run-down men and women, to whom the like, Trutona, has restored perfect health. As a combatant of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, nervousness, sleeplessness and Trutona is equally as efficient in overcoming after effects of pneumonia, influenza, deep colds and the like.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in KARL F. WEBBER'S Drug Store, Plymouth, Ohio.

Wounds From Rusty Nails Dangerous

Serious results, through blood poisoning, often occur from scratches, cuts or wounds from rusty nails or other metal. Don't run this danger. Protect yourself by having a bottle of Housatonic always at hand.

Dean McKillop, well-known farmer of Clark Co., Ohio, says: "I stepped on a rusty nail which extended halfway through my foot. I applied Housatonic to the wound and bandaged the foot. In a short time the pain got easier. After five days I did not limp and the wound healed nicely. People who use Housatonic for such injuries do not need to fear blood poisoning."

Housatonic (The Original Jones' Linctament) may be freely applied to open cuts, sores or burns without harm. It soothes while it heals. At your druggist, 25c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. Be sure you get the genuine Housatonic with Dr. Jones' name on the yellow wrapper. The Dr. C. C. Jones Co., C. O., O.—Adv.

Ohio Townships.

The word township in Ohio means two very distinct things. One meaning is a sub-division of local government within a county, and another a tract of land of certain dimensions and area—a unit of survey and land designation. The civil government township may or may not coincide with the township of survey, but most often does not.

Both uses of the word were introduced evidently from the character of the local governments in New England. There the small and rather densely settled communities were organized for self-government into villages, and the outlying districts for the same purpose into more or less regularly outlined districts called towns. It is these rural districts that are referred to in election returns from New England in which so many towns in such a state are reported to show so and so.

Etymologically considered the word is interesting. In old English the root word "tun" meant an enclosed area. From that our word town comes. In middle English there is a word "Tounschipe," which meant a tract having the dignity of a town or tun. Old English had a word schipe, which was a noun meaning a state, office, condition, dignity or profession. Middle English softened this into schipe so that a township was a rural tract having the dignity of a town and the characteristics of a town. That word schipe is seen in a large group of our English words such as friendship, fellowship, kingship and the like.

It is only necessary to understand that the civil township in this state is an entirely different thing from the township of survey even though the boundaries of both may exactly coincide. The name of township passed naturally to the newly established civil townships, from New England, and the name was borrowed by the originator of the regular method of surveys when it was adopted in Ohio, for his use. It is rather unfortunate that he did so, for some confusion has resulted, and many men still do not understand why the township of the surveys do not coincide. They are entirely different things.

Ohio New An Eastern State.

With the beginning of preparations for new decennial census interest is manifested as to where it will locate the center of our national population, which entered Ohio in the decade between 1850 and 1860 and was passing through the state during the next three decades. It is an interesting fact that this point has traced a nearly straight westward line from the date of the first federal census in 1790.

At the latter date it was ascertained to be 21 miles east of Baltimore. Ten years later it was 18 miles west of that city, and the census of 1810 located it 40 miles northwest of Washington. In 1820 it was 16 miles north of Woodstock, Virginia. It next rested 19 miles southwest of Moorefield, W. Va.

In 1830 it was near Parkersburg and during the next decade made a long leap directly west out into this state, and in 1860 was 20 miles south of Chillicothe. A slightly southerly trend was shown in the next decade and in 1870 it was a few miles northeast of Cincinnati. Then it slowed down its westward trend, and continuing the southern trend, came near crossing the Ohio river again. But the census of 1880 showed it to be still in Ohio and near the Indiana line. The 1890 census located it near Columbus, Ind., and the census of ten years ago put it within the city of Bloomington in that state.

The widest shift of the population center since the census department was established was between 1850 and 1860—almost wholly within this state. The least movement was between 1880 and 1890—only 14.6 miles. The average movement per decade has been 48.2 miles and if an average shift in population has been made in the decade that is just closing, the interesting point should be shown to have proceeded to the banks of the Wabash in Sullivan county, Ind., if indeed it has not actually crossed over the river and landed for the first time in Illinois.

Shelby Men Arrested.

William Ridgeway and Daniel Boone Dail were arrested Tuesday in Shelby by Marshal Tucker and special officer W. H. May, charged with selling intoxicating liquors.

Ridgeway plead guilty and was fined $200 and ordered to clean his place of business.

Dail also plead guilty and was fined $100. They were proprietors of a soft drink place in the Boomers, Ramsey room.

It would seem that Mayor Morris is inclined to clean up on such violations.

Country Sausage.

In every city in the country there is many a middle-aged business man who thinks with delight of life on the farm where he hears sausage mentioned and longs for the taste of that rare delicacy that is never found away from the farm where it is produced. Some may wonder why the city with its superiority in the line of manufacturing does not measure up with the rude operations of the farmyard and the untrained amateurs who kill and cure there the family supply of pork every winter.

And the answer is not far to seek. It is not because the commercial butchers do not know how to make it, but because they find it more profitable not to do so. The farmer's sausage is a delight to the palate because he proceeds to make it the triumph of the butchering season, the very best meat on the hog is put into the farmer's sausage. The tenderloin, as he calls it—the loin, in the language of the city meat dealer, makes up the bulk of the sausage as it is made down on the farm. And it is on the high reputation of this fine country sausage that the commercial sausage maker bases his business, with a product a little like real sausage as it is found in the country, as it is like night. He puts into it only such portions of the hog's carcass as can be used in no other way—scraps taken here and there, and parts that would otherwise have to be thrown aside, but which when ground fine can not be recognized for what they are—that is what the common sausage of commerce is for the most part, and it tastes like it.

Generally in order to tone up the poor tastes the maker will add condiments in prodigious quantities. Formerly he was in the habit also of treating the product with soda in order to give a fresh flesh color to the sausage that was not there naturally, but the state's pure food department made him quit that some time ago. Now the product has neither the appearance nor the taste of real sausage.

The market experts tell us that the demand for pork loins is so general and insistent that that portion of the hog is all taken for loin meat uses and at high prices. That is the explanation of the disappearance of real sausage from the ordinary meat store. Buy your own loins and make your own sausage if you would enjoy the delights of the country product once more.

Presbyterian Church.

Subject of the sermon next Sabbath morning, "The Prince of Peace."

In the evening the pastor will give a lecture-sermon on "The Seven Stated Men." This is the day of big things. Enterprises that embrace the entire world. Problems of vital importance are clamoring for solution. The world is strewn with shattered hopes, blasted ideals. Multitudes of impractical visionaries are threatening our national and spiritual lives. We need, must have big men to meet the crisis. Tall men, broad minded men, and "dressed men." Come to this evening service and we will give you the blue print for such men as we find it in God's Word.

Ohio and the Presidency.

Since and including the year 1878 there have been eleven political campaigns involving the presidency in our glorious Union, and in six of these contests the head of the Republican ticket has hailed from Ohio. And in those six races, the Republican candidate reached the presidency five times. Taft being defeated for reelection in 1912. Thus it came that in our political terminology Ohio has supplanted Virginia as "the mother of presidents."

And why not? Ohio ranks with Virginia, New York, Massachusetts and Kentucky in the production of men we call great statesmen. From 1860 to 1880 Ohio ranked all other states in this industry. Sherman was her greatest Republican—above Chase or Garfield, but, like Chase, Sherman never received the nomination of his party for chief magistrate of the republic, solely because there were men of his own party in Ohio who saw to it that the honor should be denied him. That has generally been the case in both the great parties in Ohio. Old Ben Wade took care that Chase was stabbed in the back by home folks in 1860. Hayes got the nomination in 1876 because he was a of which every great man is the victim. Sherman was defeated in the conventions of 1880, 1884 and 1888 because his enemies in Ohio betrayed him. McKinley was another small man and envy spared him as it had spared Hayes and as it was to spare Taft.—Savoyard in Duluth Herald.

Ask Your Bank's Advice.

The old days when the farmer took his money home and hid it in the mattress or under the floor have passed away, but in too many instances he has not learned how to get the fullest service out of his bank. writes Charles Moreau Harger, country editor and banker, in The Country Gentleman of December 13th. And the farmer is paying in good hard cash for not telling all his troubles to the man who watches over his checking account.

Not very long ago, nice, well-dressed men in big, high-powered cars drove through the country presenting a scheme to upset the "implement trust." A million farmers could build a huge factory, get large dividends on the stock and buy farm machinery much cheaper than the local dealer could sell it. We don't want your money—it's always easier to get a note than cash—just your note due in six months. Thousands of farmers gave their notes and have since paid them. They have some of the prettiest green-and-gold stocks ever owned, but that's all beyond the stock-selling stage. It is not likely that any banker would have advised a customer to invest in such a proposition.

"I know one farmer who paid $1500 for 100 shares of stock which he bought through an agent. I bought 100 shares of the same stock through our Kansas City broker for $475.00," said G. W. Hanna, president of the People's Bank at Clay Center, Kansas. Scores of such cases have come to his attention.

A farmer was talked into signing up for $2000 worth of stock in a new oil company. He worried all night over the deal and next morning hurried round to his bank. The banker was quite sure that stock would never pay any dividends, but it was too late for him to lend a helping hand; the farmer had given a check and a note.

It isn't only in the country that people are taking long chances in the hope of getting rich quick. The newspapers are full of stories of city people who have fallen under the lure of the big dividend.

The point Mr. Harger brings out is that you, the banker, has to know about securities to do business; if you want to invest, ask his advice. And this is only part of it: that you, the banker, are also advising men not to borrow money to buy new cars and other things they can't afford. The business man has no secrets from you, banker; farmers ought to follow this example.

CHAS. A. SEILER LAWYER and NOTARY PUBLIC Over Deakwith's

The Fourteenth Decennial Census is to be taken during the month of January, 1920.

The first census of the United States was taken in 1790, during the administration of George Washington. It related solely to population.

The Constitution of the United States requires that a census of the United States be taken every ten years. It is by this means that the apportionment of members of the House of Representatives is made as to the states.

The Bureau of the Census is a part of the Department of Commerce. It was established as a permanent Bureau in 1902. Prior to that time the census work was done by a temporary organization known as the Census Office.

A census of the country's manufactures was made for the first time in 1810. Under the present law a manufactures census is to be taken in connection with the Fourteenth Decennial Census and every two years thereafter.

An enumeration of the mines and quarries of the United States was made for the first time in 1840.

The Sixth Decennial Census, taken in 1840, was the first one to cover agricultural statistics, now one of the most important parts of the entire census.

The Department of Agriculture assisted the Census Bureau in preparing the United States census of every farmer at the coming census.

United States marshals acted as enumerators at the first nine decennial censuses. Each marshal had as many assistants as were necessary to properly cover his allotted territory.

About 650 people were engaged in taking the first census of the United States. The 1920 census will require the service of 90,000.

The statistics of the first census, valued at more than 40 billions of dollars. The 1920 census is expected to show more than 7,000,000 farms.

There were 6,361,502 farms reported at the last decennial census, valued at more than 40 billions of dollars. The 1920 census is expected to show more than 7,000,000 farms.

The Census bureau prints a special supplement for each State in the Union containing all the census figures relating to the State in question.

Congress extended the scope of the approaching 1920 census by providing that a census of forestry and forest products should be taken. These subjects were never specifically covered by any past census act.

It required 18 months to complete the enumeration work for the first decennial census in 1790. In 1920 the Census Bureau plans to complete the enumeration work for the entire country in from two to four weeks and announce the population figures in less than three months from the date the enumeration work is completed.

A heavy concentration on aging and in five and zero are always reported at a census. The Census Bureau has made many efforts to overcome this unfortunate tendency on the part of the people when stating ages.

Every census has disclosed the fact there are more men in the United States than women.

In 1914, the year the last manufactures census was taken, there were 275,000 manufacturing establishments reported. The Census Bureau expects about 300,000 establishments to be listed in 1920.

The statistics gathered by the Census Bureau in regard to farms are used quite extensively by the Department of Agriculture in its work of aiding farmers.

The ingenious machines used by the Census Bureau to count, sort and tabulate the information gathered by the census enumerators are the product of the Bureau's own laboratory. The sorting machines will take care of 300 cards per minute, the counting machine can do 500 cards a minute and the tabulating machine is capable of handling 400 cards each minute.

Toledo Farm Show Notes.

This year the Annual Farm Show at the Terminal Auditorium in Toledo will reach out and beyond the banality of an exposition. So well has the program been perfected by Manager H. V. Buelow and his aides and advisory commission, that this Sixth Annual Farmers' exposition will open its doors at 10 a. m., Thursday, Dec. 4, upon a super-university, a post graduate course of intensive instruction in modern agriculture and all its ramifications.

Many of the professors and other trained men and women who will take part in the 9-day program have been in consultation with the State Board of Agriculture, a post graduate course of intensive instruction in modern agriculture and all its ramifications.

There is not a display of farm products, of live stock, of dairy operations and products, of fruits, of fish and game, of domestic science, but will bear its instructive message to those who attend. There will not be a lecture, an address or a motion picture demonstration but will set forth its lesson in a manner that will be appreciated.

More than a billion dollars is back of this Sixth annual National Farm Show Exposition. The combined capitalization of the concerns making the exhibits will total more than that sum, and they are all putting their faith in the success of the exposition.

One of the biggest features of the show will be the Apple show in the Ohio state fish and game display, included in that will be specimens of mounted game. This exhibit will include demonstration of the process of clarification of waters to make them fit for the existence and propagation of fish.

In co-operation with the state exhibit will be the exhibit of the Dorr Street Fish and Game Protective association, of Toledo. This exhibit will show a live bluegill and live fish, and also the processes of clarifying and purifying waters of streams for fish and game.

Of interest to the city as well as country people will be the exhibits from the state bureau of markets, the state food and dairy division, the division of weights and measures and from the state veterinary department. This latter will demonstrate how to distinguish and treat diseases of various animals. The corn show will be the largest of its kind ever arranged and will carry with it demonstrations of great value to producers. Fred W. Lower's concert band will give a program throughout the afternoons and evenings of each day of the exposition.

Four Wonderful Things. In The Life of a Man

A Journal prints the following: "The four most wonderful things as applied to the life of a man, most people would say are birth, marriage, the coming of children and death. These are important, but upon the age of man rests the decision. As 20 men would classify love among the important things of life, so we must have a fifth. Jeff says, 'How about divorce and alimony?' When it comes to payin out coin to a skirt that don't hang her clothes up in your bugaloo, any if you meet the payments." This is one argument we don't care to mingle with so we pass it on."

Another Ford Story. The strangest Ford story remains to be told. A friend from New York vouches for it. In October 1918, a vessel loaded with military supplies sank not far from the New Jersey coast. The cargo included a large consignment of Fords for hospital ambulances. A member of a salvage company jokingly remarked that he did not think a Ford could be drowned, and the idea took root. Work was begun, with the result that more than a year later one of the autos was brought to the surface. It was attached to another car and raced round a while, as a farmer would lumber up an old rheumatic horse. Then the tank was filled and the crank was turned. It coughed, sputtered, wheezed—and then the "damned thing ran," as the joke books say. All the others were subsequently raised.

An Appreciation. A correspondent of the "News" writes: "Last Sunday an elder announced 'Owing to a misunderstanding the supply arranged for in the absence of the regular pastor has not appeared, consequently there will be no service. The congregation will rise and sing, 'Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow,' and be dismissed.'" Denver News.

Invest $35 Now For Clothes-Dividends

It would be well to look upon clothes-buying as an investment now, rather than as a necessity purchase. You'll draw liberal dividends if you do.

The tendency of clothing prices is upward--and will continue so.

The cautious, far-seeing man is buying clothes now --- investing on the rising market.

The Kuppenheimer Overcoats offered here at $35 represent a "buy" you will reap good returns on. Equal qualities will cost considerably more next fall--they're already selling at higher prices elsewhere.

Remarkable garments at the price; quality fabrics; Kuppenheimer tailoring; every detail shows skill, excellence and care. Styles in a variety to satisfy the wants of both men and young men.

TWO TRUCKMAN KILLED

Wakeman Citizens Mistake Drivers For Burglars.

Amos Roberts, 44, and David St. Aubin, 50, truckman and helper, both of Toledo, were shot Saturday midnight by citizens of Wakeman, who mistook the truckmen for burglars, when they had stopped in front of the general store of F. Burk & Son, to examine their load of furniture.

Mr. Burk was aroused by a burglar alarm and summoned aid by telephone.

Wm. Pease and Ross Fox, residents, were the first on the scene and they saw two men sitting on a moving van near the store. It is said that Pease demanded they surrender and come down off the truck to undergo an inspection. Both men, it is said, demurred, an argument started, with the result that both men were shot. It is said Pease fired twice and Ross Fox fired once, each getting his man.

After the men were wounded, Mr. Pease took them to Memorial Hospital in Norwalk, providing his own ambulance for the purpose, and then reporting the affair to Sheriff Clyde O. Roose of Huron county.

Mr. Roberts gave his business card to the sheriff, which gave his occupation, telephone number and street residence in Toledo. The wounded men were in a serious condition and word was sent to Mr. Roberts' wife in Toledo requesting her to come there immediately as his death might be expected. An operation was necessary in both cases. The men lingered only a short time. Mr. Roberts died Saturday at 6:30 p. m. The body was taken Sunday to Toledo by Laible & Brady where the funeral was held. Mr. Roberts was highly esteemed in Toledo and was a member of the Knights of Columbus and also a member of the Motor Truckmen's Association.

David St. Aubin, the wounded helper, died Sunday at 4 p. m. His remains were taken in charge by Laible & Brady and the funeral was held Wednesday morning from St. Mary's church in Norwalk.

The Difference.

Everyone who enjoys nature thinks that the principal thing to the tree is the fruit, but in point of fact the principal thing to it is the seed. Herein lies the difference between them that create and them that enjoy.—Wells.

One Good Way To Save Money

CLOTHCRAFT CLOTHES

FOR MEN AND YOUNG MEN

"Are you still getting your clothes made at the same place?"
"No, I should say not. I haven't had a tailor-made suit for more than two years."

"You don't mean to tell me that that is not a tailor-made suit."

"I certainly do. I got over that habit after I tried on my first Clothcraft suit."

He is not only getting satisfaction but he is saving a lot of money with each purchase.

As a Farmer Saw Her.

Eldridge Gerry, the young New York society leader who contributed greatly last winter to the entertainment of American soldiers at Nice, tells many dough-boy anecdotes. "The average doughboy," said Mr. Gerry, "is no admirer of the French woman's exaggerated make-up—rouged lips, painted eyebrows and very thick layer of powder. "I was strolling one day on the Promenade des Anglais, with a young corporal when an extremely chic and at the same time much made-up French girl passed. "There, I said to my corporal, 'what do you think of her?' "The corporal, a Texas farmer, eyed the young woman for a minute and then said: "Well, sir, it's bad ground that takes so much top-dressing." See Albany Knickerbocker Press.
