

Pay Chamber of Commerce Dues To John I. Beelman

Pay Band Contributions To Postmaster Earnest

We Never Saw A Finer Spirit.

We never saw a finer spirit than that which is directing the boys in the organization and equipment of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

The opening night is not far distant and it will be one of much good fellowship.

John I. Beelman will receive your membership fee any time you wish to pay it in, and on the big first night, a handsome membership card will be issued to all who have paid, and this will be not only your certificate of membership, but your receipt for dues.

Mr. Beaman and Mr. Ralston, we will want some lively music on that first night. We will all want to see just how well you can do it. We are casting about now for a good speaker. Want a real big fellow who can talk Industry, Commerce, and Civics, and also put in just enough of that good wholesome humor to stimulate digestion.

Mr. Farmer, won't you come in and fraternize with us? There are three or four now but there should be a score of you. Step into the bank and tell John I. Beelman that you are going to come in and fellowship. He'll pass your name to the Advertiser and we'll write you a welcome that is a real welcome.

With us since our last issue are: Harold Maurer, Louis Derringer, R. L. Hoffman, C. W. Ehret, D. E. Clark, Maurice Bachrach, A. Hamilton, Earl Smith.

Don't join this organization for the fun you can get out of it. Don't join expecting the rooms to be thrown open for hilarity. This is a business organization. There is no room in it for the loafer who wants a hang out. It is a place for discussion, discreet conduct, good fellowship, that means clean converse, and the preservation of the dignity that belongs to men who are banded together for the good they can do the town and country in the matter of civic, commercial and industrial development.

K. of P. VICTORY BANQUET

There is a great stir in Huron lodge No. 490. The Knights are planning a reception, banquet and ball, and anticipate an attendance of about four hundred.

The date is Friday evening February 28, and the reception and literary program will consume the hour from 8 to 9.

After this phase of the evening the Knights will sit down to a banquet at a dollar per plate, and you perhaps know the K. of P. reputation for plenty and wholesomeness as applied to spreads. Harold Jeffrey will preside as toastmaster, which means that everything will go merrily on.

Then the big ball will be on until the hours grow small.

Futhermore this is known as a

Victory Banquet, and given in honor of the soldiers and sailors of Huron Lodge.

Invitations are out bearing the national colors, the roll of honor, the literary and musical program, and the various committees who have assumed the responsibility of making the event measure up and sell as all former functions given in Castle Hall.

Send your acceptance of invitation as soon as your invitation is received as it will need this information that it may be able to plan for your pleasure.

Those receiving invitations will be tickets on sale at Bachrach's, West Market, Nimitz's, Nimitz's, Davis' Restaurant, Miller's Furniture store, and Clark's Grocery. Buy early.

332d Coming Home.

Since Plymouth and vicinity have boys in the 332d Regiment overseas, it is well to note that this unit arrived in Genoa, Italy, on last Saturday, from the Italian front on the Austrian frontier.

The American soldiers were enthusiastically welcomed. The streets through which they passed were decked with flowers and crowded with cheering throngs who threw bouquets to the troops. Italian troops which lined the streets presented arms as the Americans marched by.

By order of the military commander in Genoa the American soldiers will be entertained as guests at the Hotel Miramare until they sail for New York.

Honoring George and Martha.

About forty members and friends of the Friendship bible class of the M. E. Sunday school were very pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Frank Ramsey.

The occasion was the celebration of Washington's birthday and the couples worn were not only in dress but in the festive costumes of them being wedding dresses worn a fifty years ago.

Music and contests were the features of the evening, and in honor was served the famous cherry cherries which might have grown on Washington's famous tree.

Adopts French Orphan.

On Valentine day, the Tourist Club of Plymouth adopted a French orphan girl, little Miss Valentine Jauber, and for two years the club will contribute each year $95.50 to her support. Very commendable, indeed, is this act on the part of the members.

Soldiers Home.

Among the arrivals from overseas this week are Barton Jacobs and Roscoe Becker. From camps are Dick Mat, two of the forestry unit stationed in the north west, and Dr. Harold Sykes, of Camp McClelland. All have been honorably discharged.

Ernest Leol Dead.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Jones received a telegram Friday at eleven o'clock announcing the serious illness of Ernest Leol, their son-in-law, living at Waverly, Ohio. Two hours later they were in receipt of a second wire bearing the death message.

Mr. Leol was 34 years old and conducted a garage and machine shop in Waverly. He was known to many people in Plymouth, the acquaintance being acquired through visits here.

Mrs. Jones, and her daughters, Mrs. Frances Hoffman, and Mrs. David Young, left Tuesday morning to attend the funeral which was held Thursday.

Plymouth Stations To Merge.

Orders have been sent in to general offices by inspectors recommending the consolidation of the B. & O. and Northern Ohio local stations, with F. B. Callahan as joint agent.

This information was secured at the Northern office, but Mr. Ruckman of the B. & O. advised that he was without official notice.

The B. & O. station will be moved to the crossing of the two roads and used as a messenger and ticket office only. The old N. O. station will be converted into a switch office and warehouse. Both changes will be effected in about a month.

Three wire shifts are now located at the tower, and when the stations are combined the tower will take over the Western Union business in addition to handling all of the wire business of the two companies.

Miss Elizabeth Mittenbuhler, sister of George Mittenbuhler, recently submitted to an operation for the removal of a tumor, and her friends will be interested in the report that she is recovering. Ward L. room 212, Charity Hospital, Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stotts will return from their winter stay to the farm near Boughtonville, and will spend the summer in their town home on Sandusky street. It must be great to have your own way like that—move to the farm when the stove league opens its season, and move away when the work begins.

Loffand-Steele

On Tuesday occurred the marriage of Miss Alice B. Loffand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Loffand to Mr. Archie E. Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Steele, the ceremony being performed in Mansfield by the Rev. A. C. Miller, in the presence of Mr. Louis Steele and Miss Gertrude Waite.

The couple left immediately for Washington, D. C., on a ten day wedding trip, and will be at home March first on the Downland.

On Valentine evening a shower was tendered Miss Loffand by Miss Gertrude Waite, at her home on West Broadway. The useful and attractive presents from her numerous friends, evidence the appreciation in which Miss Loffand is held.

Refreshments were in keeping with the day, hearts being much in evidence. A theatre party at the Deisler followed, closing a very enjoyable evening.

On Saturday evening Miss Marjorie Ehret gave a six o'clock spinster's dinner at her country home, honoring the popular contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Steele begin their marriage relationship with the well wishes of a host of friends, both being exceptionally worthy and highly regarded. Their new home will be furnished and equipped during their absence, and will be in readiness for housekeeping at their return.

At Chappell's

There's going to be big doings in Chappell's grocery on Saturday, February 22, the same being Washington's birthday.

There will be an all day demonstration of popular edibles, including the National Biscuit line and Heinz's products. There will probably be many other inviting tastes such as dill pickles, etc.

But here's the phase that will interest the ladies. Mr. Chappell will provide carnations as souvenirs of the day and occasion, and of course this will bring all the girls and young ladies to the Chappell store.

A. R. C. Representative.

Geo. Sauer has accepted the appointment as representative of Plymouth and Plymouth township of the Richmond county chapter of American Red Cross.

This is in the nature of a home service, cooperating with government agencies in caring for the needs of all discharged men as well as the families of men yet in the service.

It will seek to take the man's place in providing for urgent domestic needs of families, and any who are needing aid or advice should consult Mr. Sauer, who will carry the urgency to the Mansfield chapter from prompt attention and relief.

The Tampa Daily Times Says:

A party of Buckeye visitors here for a week or more are R. H. Emsel, wife and daughter, Miss Virginia, and C. R. Emsel and wife, of Plymouth, who are at the Bay View.

Attention Red Cross Workers!

There is plenty of work for busy needles, at the Thursday meetings of the Red Cross.

Stout garments for the little refugees. Do this for the sake of your own little ones in your homes.

"Convalescent gowns" to make for the sick and wounded men, big, cozy garments, just what you would want to put on your own dear boy if he happens to be one of these sick, wounded suffering ones.

Every woman who can sew a needle and thread can spend a half day with the Red Cross workers.

Bring scissors and thimble. "Have a heart" and two willing hands.

Correction.

In our list of Chamber of Commerce memberships, the name of Rev. W. H. Hollett was omitted at each publication. His name was in the original list proofed for solicitation, and later the names of the two other ministers added. The names were then set from card and since Rev. Hollett had signed none his name was unintentionally omitted.

We beg Rev. Hollett's pardon and assure him that our first estimation of the omission came through his query as to why he was not a part of the movement.

His name was set from card and since Rev. Hollett had signed none his name was unintentionally omitted.

Irving S. Cobb, of New York, is a writer of special stuff—good philosophy and of marvelously good humor.

He admits that he is the ugliest man now living, and portraits prove the verity of his admission.

During the war he was an accredited war correspondent overseas, and wrote with surprising interest and intelligence.

He has returned to the states now and is filled with an inspiration to modify the form of masculine attire. In other words he is deep in love with knee-breeches, because of their freedom and good sense in construction.

We say breeches for they do not become trousers except when they extend bag like to the ankle and begin to hamper locomotion.

The idea is a good one, but men are so slow to adopt innovations, that we fear the change will not come soon enough for us to enjoy.

We would like to see Russell Chappell coming down in black silk or velvet breeches, fastened at the knees with a big silver buckle, or perhaps tied with a red silk ribbon bow for contrast and color effect.

And wouldn't Dr. Holtz look chic in silk hose with neat fitting shoes and with silk and pepper knee breeches fastened at a buckle to match, and with a close fitting jerkin of the same goods? How gaily he would trip from patient to patient.

We can also see Clarence Ehret driving into town with a blue denim knee effect, soft shirt and wide-brimmed hat, all of a match tailored out of the same cloth. Farmers could wear leggings, a la military to protect the hose, and blue denim from the knocks incident to farm life.

And again who not like the new form indicates the profession or occupation of the man. Why not have his mode of the familiar red, white, and blue stripe, diagonally chased around each limb, and the buckle could be embossed with the initials of the man in a form of a cake of Williams' Soap.

The dignified Mr. Judson could wear the conventional black, with a three button effect at the knee, and for decorative effect could pipe the outer longitudinal seams with a subdued tone. The pockets could be a chevron of skull and cross bones, or mortar and pestle.

In the summer time John A. Root could roll out in a knee-length of soft, in flannel, or white shirt with ruffles up and down the front. These with a pair of ventilated Loxeside could make a lay at Lakeside refreshingly quiet and restive.

Wouldn't Elmer Trauger look nifty in boy's size of soft blue, say a three button effect at the knee, with wide ribbed sash tied in a flowing bow at the side. An eton jacket of blue with braided edge and a jaunty bow at the waist. Elmer worth the money anywhere.

We can see so many big hits in this dress reform that we wish it would come along soon. If these we wouldn't get the gay effects for a year or so, for there are a great number of trousers frayed at the bottom that would be made over.

Hubband and wife can't interchange the long hose. If you wear friend wife's, you are wearing another pair of my silk hose, or if you wear my men's, you are wearing another pair of my men's.

Let the knee-breeches come. Men with shapely calves will welcome the innovation. Those with the broad stick variety, or those whose underpinning look like parenthood will no doubt constitute a formidable army of conservative opponents.

The boys were all sitting around the photograph in a "Y" hut. LEATHER IN FAVOR

Soft Suede is Brought out for Spring Jackets.

Pliable Material May Be Dyed in Seasonable Colors and Will Admit of Alluring Combinations.

The unheralded advent of leather coats in the autumn fashions gave the public a jolt and a surprise. It is whispered, writes a correspondent, that even the designers were not quite aware of the strength that the fashion would assume. Waistcoats of leather, jackets of leather and fur combined, were taken up by smart women in war work and remained as a street costume for peace activities.

The idea brought about a train of other ideas. Soft suede and pliable leather have been brought out for spring jackets. The suede is dyed in the spring colors, and one of new leathers which goes with a white crepe de chine skirt, is quite alluring. Such a combination is obviously intended for Southern usage, but the soft, black leather coats with bright linings are intended for the streets of big cities. They carry skirts of cheviot, serge and heavy silk jersey. The latter is again considered most desirable by well-dressed women.

VOGUE FOR DECORATIVE WORK

Combination of Braid and Embroidery Where All-Braid Embellishment is Not Desirable.

When there is a considerable surface to be decorated, it is rather tedious and tiresome to embroider the whole thing. And so the vogue for combining both braid and embroidery in the center of the field, all-braid decoration is not desirable.

The braid part of the combination usually confines itself to souchage, and the embroidery is interspersed in long-strich dashes. According to this method the braiding need not take the form of intricate scroll work. As a matter of fact, the work is very much more effective when the design is simple and bold, for the intervening embroidery can then be quite large and so much more effective.

Large spirals "spoked" with long, straight stitches in silk or wool make decorative to form a great centerpiece, come in, they caused almost a dinner sensation. They seemed too much of a virtue to stay, but they are here still.

FLOWER HOLDERS FOR TABLE

Vivid-Colored Porcelain Makes Up Attractive Get for a Pleasing Centrepiece.

Several years ago, when sets of porcelain flower holders, which, linked together to form a great centerpiece, came in, they caused almost a dinner sensation. They seemed too much of a virtue to stay, but they are here still. One such set that recently attracted attention is made of ivory-colored porcelain. There are several narrow, fringed flower holders that, pushed together, form an irregular oblong in the center of the table. Small, short-stemmed flowers are arranged in masses in these dishes.

Then there are eight tall candlesticks to match, and they are grouped around the flower dishes. The flower holders nestle into the space defined by the flower dishes, and of course reflect the flowers above and around it.

THROUGH THE LOOKING-GLASS

By EVELYN NEBBIT.

The unselfish woman of yesterday does not exist today. The woman who would spend her precious Saturday afternoons inside baking cookies and pastries, the woman who would spend her Sunday cooking family dinners, can't be bought for love or money.

Women have discovered that they, too, want to live. You won't find a woman who will toil and spin 24 hours a day and smile at the end of it and say "All's right with the world."

"Thank goodness for that! It is a fortunate thing that the entirely unselfish woman no longer exists or that any woman who still is constituted after this fashion is not appreciated these days."

We don't want martyrs in our homes any more. The day of slaves is gone, the woman who still has no time for self-development—which is what the "selfish" women of today are doing—is out of place. The labor-saving household devices were not invented as ornaments. They were invented so that women would use them and have time to become more wonderful and better as a result.

The world is too wide-awake to be able to tolerate a woman who can speak only of how she starches curtains and how she cooks her pot roast tender. The world wants women who read the newspapers, who know something of the progress of science and invention, who take more than a casual interest in the book store. We want the "selfish" women who have learned how to devote the least time to irksome duties and the greatest amount of time to improving their minds and making themselves happy.

HARMONY IN THE WARDROBE

Combinations of Colors May Be Adopted, Enabling Each to Have Own Color Scheme.

Ever since she became old enough to have any serious thoughts about her personal appearance, a certain girl has had a desire for perfect harmony in dress. The combination of a purple dress, a red hat and a brown coat, for instance, distressed her.

A scant purse made it impossible for her to purchase a complete new outfit every time one new garment was added to the wardrobe, so she conceived the idea of adopting a color scheme for herself. She chose blue and brown, as these had always been favorite and becoming colors. These colors combined beautifully, never clash, and the combination can be found in materials suitable to all seasons and occasions. After she made up her mind she was never tempted to depart from her rule of purchasing garments in some shade of her adopted colors only, and soon perfect harmony prevailed in her wardrobe.

BEAUTIFUL EVENING GOWN

Nite green is the color of this elegant evening gown. The draped skirt and shirred yoke, while the beauteous like waist is formed of broadened ruffles of the same shade. Large squares of tulle make the sleeves, and there is a touch of silver net at the neck.

THE NEW AMERICAN

Aims and Ideals of the United States and Canada Will Soon Be Signed.

The war is over, peace will soon be signed, the fighting nations have sheathed their swords, and the day of reconstruction has come.

What of it? Hundreds of thousands of men, taken from the fields of husbandry, from the ranks of labor, from the four walls of the counting house, and the confines of the workshop, taken from them to do their part, their large part, in the prevention of the spoliation of the world, and in the meantime removed from the gear of common everyday life, will be returning, only to find in many cases old positions filled, the machinery with which they were formerly attached disintegrated.

Are they to become aimless wanderers, with the ultimate possibility of augmenting an army of menacing loafers? If they do it is because their ability to assist in laying new foundations in building up much required structures, is underestimated. Men who have fought as they have fought, who have risked and faced dangers as they have, are not of the caliber likely to flinch when it comes to the restoration of what the enemy partially destroyed, when it comes to the reconstruction of the world the ideals of which they had in view when they took part in the great struggle whose Divine purpose was to bring about this reconstruction.

Introd to toll, thoughtless of fatigue, trained in initiative and hardened by their outdoor existence they will return better and stronger men; boys will have matured and young men will have developed.

They will decide of themselves lines of action and thought, and what their future should and will be. On the field of battle they developed alertness and wisdom, and they will return with both sharpened from every pore.

Action was their by-word and it will stand them in good stead now that the din of the battle no longer rings in their ears, or the zero hour signals them to the fray, and it will continue during their entire existence.

But if they return to find their old avocations gone, their places filled, the institutions with which they were connected no longer exist, new walks of life and employment must be opened to them. If any man that the counting house, the factory, the workshop will have lost their attraction. The returned soldier will look elsewhere for employment; within his reach there is always the "Forward-to-the-Land" necessity. In this lies the remedy that will not only take care of a multitude of those who may not be able to return to their former occupations, whose desires are not to do so, whose health prohibits them from indoor life or whose outdoor habits from the past one two, three or four years have given them such a taste and desire for it that confinement would be unbearable. Farm life will thus appeal to them, and the indications are that it will be taken advantage of by thousands. It means much to them as well as to the Continent of America that provides the opportunity to the world at large, and to the stricken and famished nations of Europe, who not only today, but for years to come, will require the sustenance that can only largely be supplied by the United States and Canada. By following the pursuit of agriculture the returned soldier will continue the cause he so greatly advanced when fighting on the field of battle. Both countries have undeveloped areas yet open to settlement.

There is little need here to direct attention to the wealth that has come to the farmers of Canada within the last few years. It need only be given to the farmer that unqualified and almost unqualified success has followed long effort, but the raising of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs has been a large source of profit. The fact that these are well known to its many friends and acquaintances of the thousands of farmers from the United States who have acquired wealth in the raising of Western Canada. Farms of from one hundred and sixty to six hundred and forty acres of the richest soil may be secured on reasonable terms, and with an excellent climate, with a good system equal to any in the world, and desirable social conditions. Little else could be asked.

Canadian statesmen are today busily engaged planning for the future. The returned soldier with a view to making him independent of state help after the immediate necessary assistance has been granted, the main idea being to assist in the development of the appreciation of the services he has rendered.

But, now that the war is ended, and the fact apparent that of all vocations the most profitable and independent is that of the farmer, there will be a strong desire to secure farm lands for cultivation. Canada offers the opportunity to those seeking, not as speculation but as production. The deepest interest is taken by Federal and Provincial authorities to further the welfare of the farmer and secure a large sum of money are spent in educational and experimental work. Engaged in Experimental and Demonstration farms, and in the agricultural colleges, are men of the highest technical knowledge and practical experience, some being professors of international reputation. The results of experiments and tests are free and available to all. Educational opportunities for farmers are the concern of the Government and appreciation is shown by the number of farmers who attend the free courses.

Agriculture in Canada has reached a stage only in great part unexplored, and lands are low in price.

Thus upon the United States and Canada for many years will rest the great burden of feeding the world. With free interchange of travel, diffusion of news, and increasing trade, Canada must look for a speedy resumption of the large influx of settlers from the United States which prevailed previous to the war. During the war period there has been a dread of something, no one seemed to know what; if the American went to Canada he might be conscripted, put in prison, or in his attempt to cross the border would meet with insuperable difficulties, most of which, of course, was untrue. These untruths were circulated for a purpose by an element, which, it was discovered, had an interest in fomenting and creating trouble and distrust between two peoples whose language and aims in life should be anything but an unfriendly character. The world must with laudable dignity, adopted for the carrying out of the high purposes had in view by the United States kept many from going to Canada during the period of the war. The citizen army of the United States was quickly mobilized, and contained a large percentage of the young men from the farms. In this way many were prevented from going to Canada.

That is all over now. There are no real or imaginary restrictions; there is no draft law to interfere. On the contrary there is an unmatchable depth of good feeling, and the long existing friendship is stronger than ever. This has been brought about by the knowledge of what has been done in the recent great struggle, each vying with the other in giving credit for what was accomplished. In thought and feeling, in language, in aims in life, in work, in desire to build up a new world, there is no difference. The world is as indivisible as time itself.—Advertisement.

13 Dollars— 13 Cents

When Swift & Company paid, say,—13 dollars per hundredweight for live beef cattle last year, the profit was only 13 cents! In other words, if we had paid $13.13, we would have made no profit.

Or, if we had received a quarter of a cent per pound less for dressed beef we would have made no profit.

It is doubtful whether any other business is run on so close a margin of profit.

This is bringing the producer and the consumer pretty close together—which should be the object of any industry turning raw material into a useful form.

This remarkable showing is due to enormous volume, perfected facilities (packing plants strategically located, branch houses, refrigerator cars, etc.), and an army of men and women chosen and trained to do their special work.

This, and many other points of interest, are found in the Swift & Company Year Book for 1919, just published which is brought out for the public as well as for the 25,000 Swift & Company shareholders.

The Year Book also represents the packer's side of the Federal Trade Commission investigation, upon which Congress is asked to base action against the industry.

Many who have never heard the packer's side are sending for the Year Book.

Would you like one? Merely mail your name and address to the Chicago office and the book will come to you.

Remarkable Growth of Business

LARGE GAIN SEEN IN 1918

Department of Agriculture Advises
Conservative Policy in Production
Until High Prices of Feed
Are Overcome.

There are 75,587,000 hogs in the United States, according to recent estimates of the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture. Of this number 34,778,000 are found in the six corn belt states of Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri, Indiana and Ohio, while 21,022,000 porkers are in the 15 Southern states and the remainder are distributed over the other 27 states of the Union. Under present conditions the South ranks second only to the corn belt as the leading pork producing section of the country. The remarkable fact that the growth of the hog business in the cotton states, as well as in many other sections of the country where the development has been rapid during the last five years, is that the progress has been the direct result of the untiring efforts of county agents to popularize pork production.

Last year at least 2,437 counties had the service of an agricultural agent and in every locality where conditions were favorable for hog raising, these agents devoted their efforts to increasing the hog population to meet the increased demand for meat and fats brought about by the war.

County Agents' Work.
An example of the county agents' work to increase pork production is shown in 17 counties of southern Alabama. Not a single carload of hogs was shipped to market from these counties during 1912-1913. This was before the county agent got on his work. During the year ending April 1, 1918, 17 counties marketed 2,332 carloads of hogs.

County agents in Mississippi have been getting results in their work to enlarge the swine industry. In 1914 this state exported 7,244 hogs while in 1917 it sent 88,790 fat porkers to the market, an increase of 1,222 per cent. An increase of corn production was necessary to develop the hog supply and the county agents have been boosting this source of fattening feed. In 1909 North Carolina raised 34,000,000 bushels of corn, while in 1918 it harvested 64,325,000 bushels, which enabled the state to fatten 1,590,000 hogs. In Georgia approximately 29,475,000 bushels more corn were produced in 1918 than in 1909. Other Southern states have made similar records in increasing corn and pork yields.

Agent is Versatile Helper.
While working to increase pork production, county agents have shown how pork could be produced economically; how, by fighting disease, particularly cholera, much loss could be prevented; and how, by proper selling, producers could dispose of their animals to the best advantage.

"County agents in Pennsylvania, working through farm bureaus, have conducted numerous demonstrations in the feeding of hogs, in which they showed methods worked out by experiments for making cheap gains. These demonstrations taught many hog raisers how to save at least one-half of the grain feed bill in raising hogs by providing green feed throughout the growing season.

Saves' Wheat With Hogs.
In a certain section of Montana, nearly 50 acres of choice wheat were beaten down by a hailstorm just a few weeks before harvest. It looked like a total loss, but the county agent called a meeting of the farm bureau and told the members that the wheat could be saved if hogs could be secured to clean up the fields. The county agent was then authorized to go "hog hunting" and as a result he secured 2,300 head which were put to work salvaging the damaged wheat.

In many localities the limiting factor in hog raising is easy access to market. County agents are solving this question by inducing farmers to market hogs co-operatively, thus greatly reducing the expense to each farmer. In Utah nearly more than 100 farmers supplied 18 carloads of hogs from sections 35 to 60 miles from a market shipping point. The hogs were brought in wagons and even automobiles to the shipping point and were there handled under the supervision of the county agent. Similar work is being done by county agents or through farmers' organizations in many parts of the country.

THE HOG SITUATION

A conservative policy with respect to increasing the number of swine until the relative shortage and high price of feed are overcome is the recommendation of the United States department of agriculture, recently made in a statement on American agricultural production in 1918. In summarizing the hog situation the department reports that the number of swine in 1918, 75,587,000, the high point in 1911, to 58,933,000, the low point in 1914; and under the stimulus of war demand and a record corn crop in 1917 the number increased to 70,978,000 on January 1, 1918. Reports indicate that the number on farms on January 1, 1919, was 75,587,000, or an increase of 6.5 per cent. The number of swine per capita of population in 1911 was 0.679 of one animal. On the same basis there should be 72,474,000 on farms in 1919.

Exports of pork products fell from 1,678,000,000 pounds in the fiscal year 1910 to 707,000,000 in 1913, and rose 1,022,000,000 in 1918. Although definite data are lacking, reports indicate a considerable reduction in the number of swine in Europe. A representative of the food administration reports a reduction of 25 per cent in the United Kingdom, 12 1/2 per cent in Italy and 40 per cent in France. However, its estimating probable demand in Europe for American pork products, certain factors must be borne in mind; namely, (1) large stocks now on hand in the United States, and (2) the rapidity with which the number of swine can be increased in Europe. Another factor of importance is the relatively large proportion of lard in the exports of this country, amounting to about 50 per cent of all pork products exported in the five-year period from 1910 to 1914, and about 200 per cent more than the total quantity of beef exported. Exports of lard amounted to 451,000,000 pounds in 1914, 476,000,000 pounds in 1915, 427,000,000 pounds in 1916, 445,000,000 pounds in 1917, and 382,000,000 in 1918. All reports emphasize the shortage of fat and oils in Europe at the present time. No shipments to Germany and Austria have been included in the exports of lard from the United States since 1914. However, prior to the war, Germany was our second largest customer, taking 140,000,000 pounds in 1914, or about 35 per cent of our total lard exports. The foreign demand for lard is likely to be less during the present year.

A good story is going the rounds concerning Sir Hall Calne.
It seems that the famous novelist, dining at a London restaurant, found himself seated next to a well-known newspaper paragraphist, with whom he got into conversation.

Sir Hall, after complimenting him on his work, asked him: "How on earth do you write twenty jokes a day?"
"With a typewriter," the newspaper man answered with a smile.
"Is that so?" said Sir Hall meaningly; "I thought perhaps you used some sort of copying process."

If it wasn't for robbing Toby of his accumulated honors, we would hang the Anania medal on the lapel of Fred Nimmons. He told us one in the rough this week and we'd have swallowed it cork, line, and sinker if it hadn't been for the head of the house of Nimmons.

An Admiral has likened the peace conference to a sewing society, which remark revived the old conclusion that no effort to acquire peace ever receives the approval of the navy or the military. Their business is war and the more sincere the peace effort the harder they knock.

We have heard so much of senatorial courtesy that we hope that there is enough of it left to restrain comment in that forum unless President Wilson can officially lay the matter before the Senate. Already Borah of Idaho, and Reed of Missouri are hinting that they are not to be silenced by the president's request, which is advance notice of their intent to oppose, and judging from past performance one is warranted in the conclusion that their opposition will be for the purpose of political laceration rather than grounded in sincere discussion.

The Republicans of Erie county celebrated with a banquet on Friday evening last, the fact that James C. Beeg, who was elected to represent the Thirtieth district in congress last fall, their county has secured the first real congressman it has had in 65 years. The fact that Congressman S. D. Peas came out to be the principal orator of the occasion is pretty good evidence that he has the vote of the member from the 18th Ohio pretty well cinched in the Republican organization caucus for nomination for speaker of the next house.

Harvey C. Smith, Republican, of Zanesville, was legally elected secretary of state last November, so the Ohio supreme court, by a unanimous vote, decided Friday. Contending that the votes cast for Smith were void because he did not resign as probate judge of Mauckington county before entering the contest, William D. Fulton, Democrat, of Newark, who has been holding over as Secretary of state contested Smith's right to take the office. In deciding in favor of Smith, the supreme court holds unconstitutional the act prohibiting judges from being candidates for nonjudicial offices, and rules the legislature was without authority to extend the constitutional inhibition relative to supreme and common pleas judges to other judges.

Representative Johnston has introduced a measure into the lower house of the state assembly, which if passed, will compel the election ballots to carry not only the name of the candidate, but his place of residence and occupation. You are already familiar with the size of the ballot, and to add residence and occupation would necessitate too lines more, which would make the three election times its present size, unless the size of type is reduced. But how much wiser the voter would be if he had this additional information, we do not fathom, and the expense of ballot publication, now expensive enough, would be greatly increased. We can see that bill headed for the discard.

The Undertakers of Huron and adjoining counties have formed an Undertaker's Club. That's embalming.

I just appeared here to tell you that Nimmons & Nimmons have sold their lumber yard, and there are many accounts that must be settled by Cash or Note by April 1, 1919.

If you have the money come in and pay. If you haven't the Cash please settle by note. But the real important thing is to settle one way or the other. The firm has been kind to you. Now it is your turn.

Letter From Ross Sourwine. Cattaro, Austria. January 25, 1919.

Dear Folks: As I am not on duty today, I will write you a few lines to let you know I am feeling fine and hope this finds you well.

I received five Plymouth papers last week and two yesterday. I was sure glad to get them, and looked them all over about three times. In one of them I found a letter written by Eugene Chandler of the 3324 regiment. He is a machine gun man, and what he said is all true. I had the same experience. We went in the front line trenches October 6, on the Piave river, the 3324 doing the maneuvering for the big drive. We hiked about 100 miles a few days before the drive started and then took up our own sector in the line.

The Austrians thought we were a million strong the way we came flocking in every day. War was on the Austrian border when Austria turned over about two hundred thousand Italian prisoners. They were a sight, some barefooted, some with white-knives a foot long, others had no clothes to speak of. I do not believe I will get home before spring, as things are not settled now in Montenegro. They still are fighting a little yet, but I think it will soon be finished. We are waiting, day by day, when Wilson will say to us, come home, your duty is done. Good Luck, Ross Sourwine.

Little Town of Willard. This is the way the Port Clinton Republican speaks of the firemen of Northwestern Ohio: The Annual tournament of the Northwestern Ohio Firemen Association will be held on the 21st day of May, next at the little town of Willard. It was the original intention to hold the tournament on the 21st day of June, but horror of horrors, Ohio would be dry on that date and a fireman's blowout without a little joy water on the side would be unthinkable. So the date was changed with the unanimous consent of everybody and the big show will be pulled off just five days before Old John Barleycorn shuffles off forever. Port Clinton Republican.

ETAOIN-SHRDLU.
By Coloned Riggs.

He looked about fifteen years old.

He had a good face. That is, there was a frank open expression that indicated mental alertness.

"Do you want to buy some cottage cheese?" he remarked as he looked across our peace table.

Cottage cheese is a favorite dish in the White house, so we replied in the affirmative and passed over the requisite for a pint can.

"Do you go to school?" we inquired, and straight back came the reply: "I do, sir."

Further inquiry developed that he was a student in the New Haven school, in charge of Miss Cole and Miss Snyder.

"How far are you in arithmetic," we queried. "Don't study arithmetic," said our seller of cottage cheese.

We were growing interested, for we like boys, and this one was just our sort.

"We don't study arithmetic," said we, and we received for reply: "Because we study algebra."

Alright, said we, repeat theorem one. Here we got the first one of hesitancy, and later we learned that our boy friend had not reached the theorem in the pursuit of this fascinating study.

Then we dropped back a notch or two and proposed that if x plus y equalled 24, and x minus y equalled 12, what was the value of x .

"Put her down on paper," said Walter and we did so.

Then without the slightest hesitation he told us that if x plus y equalled 24 and x plus y equalled 12, 2x would equal 36. And he proceeded to say that if 2x equals 36, x would be 18.

He didn't stop there, but told us that if x plus y was 24, y would be 24 minus 18, or 6.

Very simple problem, but in three minutes we learned that Walter knew just what he was doing, and furthermore, we learned that a boy, like a man, revealed no trace of embarrassment when he was sure of the ground.

If Walter Dawson will keep his head and master the remainder of his school work as he has mastered that which he has covered, he'll come up to us in majority with a preclarity that counts.

And by the way the real value of an education lies in its practicality. That is, being able to know it so well that you can use it. The smattering kind is of little worth.

Washington the Gentleman by F.A. Nutchel

ONE AFTERNOON during the American Revolution Lieut. Ernest Travers, a British officer, was riding over the plateau on which Morristown, N. J., is built, approaching a place called Backing ridge. There was nothing in his dress to indicate that he was a soldier, for he was in mufti. On reaching Backing ridge he turned into a road leading to the residence of a gentleman named Harrington, a patriot himself, but whose family were all bitter enemies of the Revolution.

There Was Nothing to Indicate That He Was a Soldier.

Lieutenant Travers had been notified by Isabel Harrington, to whom he was betrothed, that her father would be away from home that day and asked him to come for a spy. She was waiting for him and seeing him approach signalled him that he might come to the house without risk. Tying his horse to a hitching post at the gate, he went up the walk.

"I asked you to come today," said the lady, "first because father is away, secondly because I wish to aid the king's cause through you."

"I don't know why you do ask?" "I hope you are not going to enlist me for a spy," said the young man. "I am ready to serve my king as a soldier, but spying is not to my taste."

"So you said in your letter when I suggested your coming. Well, we will not discuss that matter; we may at least enjoy your visit."

"Is your father expected to return soon?" asked the young man. "I don't know; why do you ask?" "He would have been impossible for me to come from New York to your house so near Washington's headquarters in uniform without meeting rebel troops. You see I am in civilian's dress. If captured, I should be hanged as a spy."

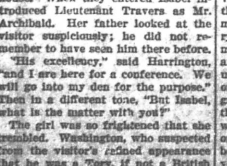

The girl shuddered. A moment later from her seat beside a window she espied her father and a man whom she recognized as General Washington dismounting from their horses in front of the gate.

"Heavens!" she exclaimed. "You are lost!"

"Travers saw what she had seen. She begged him to permit her to hide him but he would not.

"I am not a spy," he said; "if I were found in hiding it would go hard with me. It is bad enough as it is without making it worse. Besides, my horse has given me away. They know that some one is within. Should I take to flight, if caught I would surely be considered a spy."

"At this moment Mr. Harrington and General Washington started for the house. When they entered Isabel introduced Lieutenant Travers as Mr. Archibald. Her father looked at the visitor suspiciously, he did not remember to have seen him there before.

end as an exposure. He chose a disguised, a manly countenance. "General," he said, "to sail under false colors is not to my taste. I am a lieutenant in the British army, I came here in obedience to Miss Harrington's invitation to visit her."

"Are you aware, sir, that to be found so near our army in civilian's dress indicates that you are looking for information?"

"I am aware, General, that I am in a position to be considered a spy, but I am simply a visitor at the house of Mr. Harrington. If my word is not sufficient, I may be searched."

"If information concerning our forces were found on you, sir, it would prove the case against you. But if such information were not found on you, that would not exonerate you."

The matter was embarrassing for the general. Travers had been caught in Mr. Harrington's house, a visitor to Miss Harrington, whose father was a patriot, a friend of Washington's, and aiding in every way within his power the cause of the colonies.

"In this case," said the general, "I do not to leave this place," said the general. "I will withdraw to another room with Mr. Harrington and when I return will announce my intentions in regard to you."

"Do not consider me or my daughter in this matter, general," interposed Mr. Harrington.

"In this case," said the general, "I consider it my duty to send for a detachment to take your guest into custody."

At this Isabel broke down. Dropping her knees before the general she begged him to permit her lover to depart. Washington's heart was touched by her appeal, but this did not prevent his doing his duty.

"Have you any proof," he asked, "that this gentleman is not here for military information?"

"I will confess, I have been collecting information of your forces and would like to see them. I have a detachment to take your guest into custody."

"I have you," said the general, "I consider it my duty to send for a detachment to take your guest into custody."

FIGHT BATTLES OVER AND OVER

Wounded Yanks in British Hospital Have to Be Amused.

ARE LIKE LITTLE CHILDREN

Now Their Job is Done They Will Fight to a Finish With Best Friends Over Question of Who Won War.

London.—Three wounded boys who are left behind in the hospital, the ones whose names were crossed from the lists of those who sailed away in time to reach home for Christmas, are the especial charge of the women who volunteered to work on the care committee of the Red Cross way back longer last summer when there was a war on.

When they were with the signing of the armistice, our work soon would be over and the Christmas plans we had begun to make were abandoned under the impression that there wouldn't be any wounded to entertain in England. But that was all a mistake; it seems as if our work might go on for quite a bit yet. Anyhow, our hospital at Tottenham is one of those which is still full. Every afternoon trains of ambulances pour out their burdens in our receiving wards just as in war times, and boys who have been for months in French or British hospitals are for the first time among their own home folks.

Wounded Captives Received.

Then there are our wounded prisoners—now beginning to dribble back from Germany—to be looked after and made much of. To listen to their stories alone takes one person's entire time.

There was no bother about Christmas dinner at Tottenham. Uncle Sam saw to that ages ago. Every boy in the hospital here had such Christmas dinner as he will remember for years. Sir Thomas Lipton gave a party, one of his many, and it had made much of. To listen to their stories alone takes one person's entire time.

He understands American boys, and more, he gets people to help entertain who understand them, too, like them and don't contradict them when they declare that they won the war. It's all a matter of that little phrase with them. These children of a larger growth who have been massing up in khaki these last few months have become children again; now their job is done and they will fight to the finish with their best friends over the question of who won the war. They are the ones who arrived too late to fight at all declare that it's not won yet, and that wars and wars are going to follow.

By night time they are all worn out with fighting it all over again and they sink back in their narrow little gray cots and the indolent nurses—girls of our Denver unit in their quiet gray cotton dresses and their snowy caps—pass down the long wards telling of this quivering battle, smoothing the forehead of that boy of nineteen who has lost all his faith in any government whatsoever because he lost his hospital allowance to a guy from Cincinnati before he had had time to even pack it in the cherished money he had from the Red Cross gave him.

But most of the boys who are being left over here are seriously wounded, and it is thought best for them not to take a sea voyage for a while longer; so we try to plan little surprises for them week by week to pass the time until their joyful summons comes.

It isn't so easy, either, to think of something that will amuse a lad who must always lie on his chest to keep a piece of shrapnel lodged somewhere in his interior from doing into a locality where it may cause a great deal of damage.

Bracelets Are Praised.

Little silver bracelets with tags bearing the boy's full name and his military number are perhaps the most coveted trinkets, but as these cost $1.50 apiece, they cannot be got by a boy done by a single person. And then by the time they were all engraved and the numbers verified in all probability the boys would be transferred and far away. I asked one boy how it was that Yanks were crazy to wear bracelets, and he said it was a little queer how the idea had taken, and then he added:

"What can you expect? We took to wearing bracelets because they told us fighting men wore them; we found they wouldn't go, but we got the habit of having something on our arms, and it all came down to this: if you've got your stuff chained to you it's yours; just once pry it off and you pass on and leave it. Just like we have left so many things we thought sure we couldn't get along without."

ROGERS AND HIS RADIO

James Harris Rogers of Hyattsville, Md., is the inventor of a radio system by which wireless messages may be sent and received under aerial or water without the use of ground. The chief and obvious advantage of this invention is that it eliminates or greatly reduces static disturbances, both voluntary and involuntary, which have heretofore interfered with the complete success of wireless. This invention was practically perfected when the United States entered the war, and Mr. Rogers promptly offered it to the navy. It was adopted and played a small part in winning the war. In this photograph Mr. Rogers is shown with the apparatus which he has installed in his own premises, where he has received messages from Berlin, Paris and Rome. At his feet is a small case which contains a portable outfit for setting up anywhere a wire can be stuck in the ground.

SCOUTS AS "VICTORY BOYS"

There are many ways in which scout can earn their "Victory Boys" sash, and be doing something very helpful at the same time. Some of these are as follows: Digging gardens, planting bulbs, cleaning silver, washing windows, scrubbing floors, waxing floors, varnishing chairs, running errands, picking fruit, husking corn, gathering nuts, picking cotton, clearing yards, cleaning sidewalks, making for funerals, moving and making lawns, sifting and dumping ashes, carrying maple syrup, decorating show windows, tutoring backward students, setting carpets and rugs, sawing and cutting wood.

- Collecting old boxes and lumber and cutting them into kindling.
- Collecting and selling old metal and bottles.
- Examining a stand at the fair and selling ice cream and popcorn and candy.
- Collecting and selling waste paper and rags.
- Giving moving picture or miniature shows.
- Shoveling snow from walks.
- Helping to harvest ice.
- Working about a dairy.
- Cleaning cellars and attics and cutting wood.
- Painting houses and barns and fences.
- Painting and putting away screens.
- Raising guinea pigs and white mice.
- Feeding chickens and pigs and squabs.
- Selling butter and eggs and vegetables and fruit.
- Trapping fur-bearing animals which account for many of our skins.
- Washing automobiles and carriages.
- Waiting on table as "extra" in boarding houses.
- Making needed household articles, such as brooms, chairs, andrums, umbrella racks, etc., that sell at reasonable prices.

GENERAL GOOD TO SCOUTS.

Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood in addressing a meeting said this of the boy scouts:

"There is one cry, one slogan common to all tongues, and just about as old as the human voice, and that is: 'In time of peace, prepare for war.' You hear people talking of their money and of their respectability and of their careers, and don't let us ever again forget, that you can't buy time. Now all that you can do while we are training is to help the other fellows who are doing the fighting and help through the Red Cross all you can."

"Encourage your boy scouts. Put an end to this sly and immoral trade with reference to not raising your hopes to be soldiers. We are all related to be soldiers. If we are decent men and women—soldiers for the right, throughout our entire lives. Our motto must be the old motto, 'I serve.' We are a nation of volunteers. We are soldiers of right, soldiers for good government, soldiers in war, if need be."

WILL SCOUTS $300,000.

By the will of Capt. George Backlin, the boy scouts in Rhode Island are left a trust fund of $300,000.

Captain Backlin was a Civil war veteran. He was never satisfied with the boy scout organization, but found in the fundamental principles of the movement characteristics which impelled him to leave practically his entire estate to that organization.

He believed that the very training of the boy, as given through the boy scout movement, would be to the great advantage of both the boy and the country. His friends state that his interest in the work was unlimited and unwavering.

TORRENT OF ENERGY WASTED.

"The central powers admit defeat, and we can therefore see that America has made the world safe for democracy, but if democracy is to be made safe for the world, it can only be by that preparation to citizenship which the scout movement provides. It can be found in this great practical human engineering."

SCOUTS HELPED RED CROSS.

Following the practice instituted in 1914 by Dr. Frank Proctor, president of the local scout council, the boy scouts of Battle Creek, Mich., have made their many annual collections of paper and rags.

LABOR UNREST ALARMS BRITAIN

Nearly All Trades Demanding Either Higher Wages or Shorter Hours, or Both.

BEER ISSUE AGAIN REVIVED

Dock Workers Complain of the Quality of Beverage and Shortage of Supply—Unions Strong and Well Organized.

London.—The industrial unrest prevalent throughout the country is causing serious anxiety, not only to large employers of labor, but even to conservative labor leaders. The labor leaders taking this attitude include J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the Railwaysmen's union, who warned a meeting of postal workers who were demanding a 42-hour week, more holidays and curtailment of night work, that "the industrial and economic position of this country gives cause for alarm."

Demand Shorter Hours.

The postal workers are one of many trade unions which are demanding shorter hours with the present or better pay. Up to a time the demands of the miners have been embodied in the resolutions of the Southwest Miners' Federation, who demanded that the government should guarantee other than war wages be advanced 50 per cent.

The attitude of the miners had caused the most comment, as coal and its price more directly affect the public. It is estimated that to grant a 30 per cent increase in wages would send the price of coal up at least a dollar a ton.

In addition to the miners, the shipbuilders on the Clyde and in other centers are agitating for a 40-hour week, with daily wages of £1. The men engaged in the same industry in Belfast threaten to throw down their tools unless they get a 44-hour week. The carpenters throughout the United Kingdom are asking for a 47-hour week, and the iron molders, who are threatening to strike unless this is lowered to 44 hours.

May Go to Extremes.

The dock laborers are putting forth a demand for 44 hours for day workers and 41 hours for night workers. They are also much agitated over the shortage of beer and the poor quality of that beverage, and during the week there has been much slacking, particularly at Liverpool, from the cause. There has been a temporary shortage of beer at some shipping points due to the strike of brewery employees, who also complain of long hours.

All these unions are strong numerically and well organized, and from the tone of speeches at their meetings the members apparently are prepared to go to extremes in their efforts to have their demands improved along the lines laid down in their resolutions.

There also have been minor troubles in the labor world. One of these is the new crew of the liner Arcturion. The sailing of that vessel from New York with a full list of American passengers has been delayed several days, there is yet no indication of a settlement.

NEW WAY TO GET RICH QUICK

Man Charged With Shipping Bibles to Dead Persons, G. D. and Col. Telling $5 Therapy.

Seattle, Wash.—A new way to get rich quick is alleged to have been discovered by F. J. Connors of this city, whose complaint led to the arrest in Tacoma of H. A. Jordan, who is accused of shipping Bibles to dead persons. G. D. and Col. Telling are waiting for the cash to roll in from relatives.

Jordan is alleged to have obtained the names of dead persons in the Northwest from ordinary notices in the newspapers. He goes to the banks and addresses were obtained. Bibles were shipped with a bill for $5 each. In almost every case the Bibles would arrive on the day of the funeral and the relatives would be told to pay the bill. The Bibles are said to be worth about 25 cents each. Jordan's scheme has made him a fortune.

HOW STRASSBOURG CELEBRATED

At the Peace Conference

More Than Fifty Treaties Will Be Signed

More than fifty treaties of peace will be signed by the conference being held at Versailles—more than fifty declarations of war were made during the course of human events since that memorable day in 1914 when hostilities were declared. The exact number of treaties to be promulgated is hard to estimate, says a writer in Leslie's, for the crumbling of Austria-Hungary and of the German empire into segments and fragments may necessitate the drafting of extra treaties, unthought of when President Wilson stated his fourteen points in his address before congress.

As the matter stood then Austria-Hungary had declared war five times, Brazil once, Bulgaria once, China twice, Cuba once, France four times, Germany five times, Great Britain four times, Greece four times, Italy four times, Japan once, Liberia once, Montenegro twice, Panama twice, Portugal twice, Roumania once, Serbia twice, San Marino once, Siam twice, Turkey twice and the United States twice.

But since these declarations were made the whirligig of time and the pranks of fate have changed the aspect of things materially. Baden, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Saxony, Hungary—and perchance a dozen other entities may demand and receive separate treaties. The Czech-Slovaks and the Jugo-Slavs, Armenia, Palestine and the disintegrated parts of Russia from Bessarabia to the Ukraine, may obtain separate treaties. So that when the gigantic labors of the Versailles conference are done more than seventy-five distinct international peace agreements may result.

When all the treaties are completed they will be submitted to the treaty-making powers of the respective governments. In the United States the president is empowered to make a treaty, which must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

In Great Britain the peace-making power is a crown prerogative, subject to the assent of the prime minister acting on the collective advice of the cabinet.

In France the president may negotiate and ratify treaties, according to Article 8 of the constitutional law of 1875, subject to the sanction of the chamber of deputies.

In Italy Act 5 of the fundamental statutes of 1848 empowers the king to make peace, communicating this fact to the chamber but not requiring its sanction.

In Belgium, under Article 68 of the constitution of 1838, the king makes peace treaties.

Who will accept the peace terms for Germany and for Austria-Hungary it is difficult to say. In Germany in worse days, now happily relegated into history, the kaiser had boundless powers, under Article 11 of the constitution of 1871. But the bundsrath was required to give assent and the reichstag had to validate treaties.

In Austria, under Act 6 under the constitution of 1867, the emperor was the sole treaty-making power.

Doughboy Thought He Saw Boche Taunting Him While Washing His Stolen Shirt

Near a bridgehead on the Moselle river, which marks the border of Rhineland Prussia and along the banks of which the American army rested for a few days during its successful invasion of Germany, there was a doughboy on guard duty.

His assignment of two hours' watch was nearly up, but his eyes were left blank on the other side to glance up the road to see whether the relief squad was in sight. He muttered and growled occasionally to himself and his eyes took on a fierce gleam as he watched the other side of the river.

His whole attention was focussed on a German soldier calmly washing an undershirt at the river edge. The German rubbed and scrubbed, held the shirt up, wrung it out and then rubbed some more. He paid not the slightest attention to the tense American doughboy on the other side.

The doughboy looked over his rifle every few minutes and fingered the trigger meditatively. Then along came a Red Cross car with cigarettes and other comforts following the troops into the territory.

"What's the trouble," inquired the Red Cross man noting the doughboy's attentiveness to the figure on the opposite side.

"Well, I tell you," said the doughboy. "In the Chateau-Thierry fighting I took off my undershirt during a short rest to hunt for several cotes that were bothering me. The Boche made a counterattack and took the place before I had time to put on my shirt. One of the Germans stole it. I just got a hunch that that guy on the other side of the river was the bird that took it, and I think he's taking it over there to tease me. He's been washing that shirt for half an hour now. And here I stand with a loaded gun and can't shoot. The war is hell, but this armistice stinks!"

Pershing, Methodist, Born in Linn County, Missouri, a Graduate of West Point

General Pershing belongs to the Methodist Episcopal church. He was born in Linn county, Missouri, September 13, 1859, and went to West Point at twenty, from which military academy he was graduated in 1880.

In the Spanish-American war he served in the volunteer army as a major. He served eight years in the Philippines, winning great fame. In 1903 he returned to the States and was serving on the general staff in Washington in 1905 when he married Miss Frances H. Warren of Wyoming. After that Pershing spent a year or so as military attaché to the American embassy in Japan and two months in Manchuria during the Russo-Japanese war. In 1906 he was made brigadier general. Later he returned to the Philippines as commander of the forces, but was returned to the States again to take command of the Eighth brigade, with headquarters in San Francisco. He was sent to the Philippines again, chosen to lead the mid-western expedition in March, 1916. In 1915, while he was on the border Pershing's wife and three children burned to death. He has no more children.

Pershing was killed in action in a general in October, 1918, after having been sent to France as United States commander in chief. He was then a major general.

The Grand Place and Cathedral.

Journal, the oldest city in Belgium, once the capital of the Merovingian kings, is truly a city of romance, whether we think of the tomb of Childeric, the father of Clovis, with its wonderful treasures discovered after being lost to sight for nearly 1,200 years, or of the poor, deluded youth, Verkin Warbeck, the tool of the Yorkists, and through them brought to an ignominious death, says a writer in Spher. For us in England perhaps its primary interest centers in its being the birthplace of Perkin, whose real name was Pierre Obesck, this strange impostor was the son of a simple Flemish weaver. Made a puppet of by some of the Yorkist party, including Margaret of York, dowager duchess of Burgundy, to personate Richard Duke of York, whom they declared had not been murdered in the Tower with his brother, but had escaped and fled to France, Perkin was given an opportunity to declare his royal birth, he succeeded for a time in exciting a formidable revolt against the king, Henry VII.

CANNOT RANK AS DIPLOMAT

General Smuts Disqualified Himself by His Unpleasant Employment of Plain Language. The language of the law is the most formal in the world and the most precise. It seeks the definite so ardently that, with its repetitions and whereas, it confuses its own message and only that rather perverted form of intelligence, the legal mind, can wade through its labyrinthine verbiage. The language of diplomacy, borrowing something of formality from the law, is nevertheless far more dignified. The law deals merely with estates and private contracts. It decrees the fate of the individual. But the fate of nations may hang on the phraseology of diplomacy. Its greater importance has with gold, some remains of human life, and some of the most precious of the inscription, "Childeric." Here was the key to discovery, for the presence of the ring led experts to consider that this was the burial place of Childeric, king of the Salian Franks, whose capital was at Tournai, and who died in 481.

This conjecture was further strengthened by an examination of the different objects which were of such fine workmanship that they could only have been wrought for some great chief or royal personage. The tilt and scabbard of the sword were mounted with gold, enriched with a mosaic of garnets and other precious stones held in gold cloisons. Gold ornaments in the form of bees, and having the wings outlined with tiny garnets set in gold, and also a small tortoise object in the form of a bull's head, with the solar disk on the forehead, recalling Mycenaean examples, formed part of the treasure, and on the ring bearing the king's name was engraved the head of a man with the lion, straight hair worn by the Merovingians, and with the lion's torques or collar round his neck. Perhaps this was meant for a representation, as near as might be, of Childeric.

This rare treasure, after changing hands five or six times, eventually found its way to the Cabinet des Medailles. In 1833 there, in an evil hour, broke in and stole almost the whole of it, leaving behind them only the mosaic of the sword, two golden bees, a gold and a silver stroy fragments.

The golden bees had been discovered in considerable numbers, and were thought to have decorated the royal robes, and it is interesting to recall that Napoleon, ever entering into the spirit of his historical display, chose this decoration for his coronation robes.

Has Beautiful Buildings. Tournai claims to be the oldest of the cities of Belgium, and is certainly one of the most interesting and most picturesque, and contains a large number of beautiful buildings. There has always been great sympathy between the people of Tournai and the French, and much intercourse between the town and Lille, just across the frontier.

In the Grande place stands a statue of the Princess d'Epinoix, who distinguished herself in the defense of Tournai against Alexander Farnese in 1581. She fought in full armor and saved the town by her energy and courage. The beautiful cathedral is one of the finest examples of the Flemish type of architecture, and challenges comparison with the splendid churches of northern France.

Week End Health Talks

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

By FRANKLIN DUANE, M. D. It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health. Poor digestion means poor health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, trouble begins to creep into various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but this, in its various forms, headache, backache, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, constipation, nervous prostration, apoplexy, epilepsy, cholera, and other ailments are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind it—stands behind it as he does behind every other medicine, and it is good to know that so distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the globe. It is not a medicine, but a restorative medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was made up of selected ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly non-toxic and perfectly safe. If you are suffering, you get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The Golden Medical Discovery is a restorative medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Leaping Tuna, Dolphin and Marlin Swordfish Plentiful Off the California Banks

Another world record in big game fishing was shattered in the Catalina Island waters when James W. Joppe recently landed a 215-pound marlin swordfish in 28 minutes with light tackle. Not only is this unprecedented with light tackle, but the fish was one of the best ever taken in the big game fishing sport. The biggest one ever caught was in 1916, which weighed 302 pounds.

Not in many years have the deep-sea fishers been so plentiful as recently off the famous southern California banks. Great swarms of yellow-tail and other light tackle prizes have been frequent. The leaping tuna, dolphin and marlin swordfish, varying in size from 50 to over 100 pounds, have been plentiful. W. C. Boschen of New York is credited with capturing 90 tuna and 8 swordfish for the season. His nearest competitor is James W. Joppe of Los Angeles, with 86 tuna and 11 swordfish. Ralph Vandell holds the record for the season with the largest tuna caught. It weighed 1405 pounds.

Prizes to be awarded by the Tuna Club for the largest yellow-tail, white sea bass, bonito, albacore and tuna seen here will go to the victor in the big game fishing sport from all parts of the country, some of whom have never previously caught anything larger than a fair-size trout.

Gold Crop of 1918 Lowest in the Last Twenty Years

One annual crop, and a highly important crop, too, was considerably below the five-year average for the United States gold last year. The gold yield from all the districts attached to or controlled by the United States went to the mine during 1918 new gold to the value of $68,400,000, which, according to the statement of Director of the Mint Baker, is the lowest United States output within a period of 20 years.

WITH THE SAGES

There are degrees of ability for all things, and a man who can do anything, however little, should be made to do that little usually.—Trunk. It is a good thing to be rich, and a good thing to be strong, but it is a better thing to be loved of many friends.—Burton. He that is rich need not live miserably, and he that is poor need not be rich.—Bernard Franklin. Observations and content are the best foundations for a famous man's views of beautiful things.—Orestes D'Isidoro.

IN THE MIST OF LIFE

The faster you to the mountain peak And turned to gaze behind— "Was that a path for a weak? Thank God I was blind. "The snail stretch where I laughed and laughed. Did it sink that precipice? The bridge where I stood to sketch the cloud. Did it sink that black abyss? "When I turned aside to the little stream, Was the sower turn or near? Was the eagle's swoop in the evening gleam. On the bones I see from here?" He faced to the front again; his sight Could scarce discern the track: The slope on the left with mist was white, And the wood below was black. In a hollow just ahead The water came along— "Enough is left for him," he said, And the curlew heard his song. —E. W. Hopkins.

Banyan Tree of India Will Shelter Thousands of Men

The most remarkable tree in the world, perhaps, is the banyan of India. A tree of this species, on an island in the North Sea river, is believed to be the same one that is mentioned by Alexander the Great. The branches send down numerous "aerial" roots that grow down to the soil and form props or additional trunks, and so a single tree often covers so large an area that it will shelter thousands of men. At the time of Alexander the Great's visit, it sheltered 10,000 men. Under the protecting shade of these trees the Indian merchants still conduct their markets. The merchants are known as "banians," because they abstained from meat for many centuries, but modern customs have driven out many of the Hindis traditions.—People's Home Journal.

Alaska Has Proved a Good Investment for the U. S. A.

Alaska has been worth much more than its cost to the United States. A half-century ago Alaska was purchased at a cost of $7,200,000, and that original investment has been returned to the nation more than seventy-fold, for the products of the land and sea from Alaska has added to the national wealth upward of $500,000,000, the greater part of which has been produced during the last 20 years. Two sources of large and steady income are copper ore and the fisheries. Regarding Influenza. Dogs sometimes contract flu, but very rarely they die of it. Dogs, however, can get it. In the present epidemic of 1918, it is on record that many birds died, while the rest absolutely derided some parts of the country where the influenza was at its worst.—Peacham's Weekly.
