Ernest Truex in 'OH, YOU WOMEN!'
A Paramount Picture

ALL HE SAW WAS PANTS!

He was just back from the war--wounded and longing for the sight of a regular female woman. But he found mother and "her" and almost all the girls he knew wearing trousers. They were also running the town, while the men nursed the babies. And "she" had stolen his job! So "Little Abe" declared a new war against a new tyranny. And as Abraham Lincoln freed the black men of the South, so did Abraham Lincoln Jones free the white men of his home town. If you're a woman, it will make you laugh--and think a bit. If you're a man--"Oh, You Women!"

"No God" Road

Almost everyone in Norwalk and Huron county has heard of "No God road." This highway is 12 miles long and extends from the southern part of Bronson township to the Richland county line. Yet, to find out how this thoroughfare received its name has proved about as difficult a task as finding the missing needle in the famous haystack. A. J. Carpenter, a Huron county pioneer, who formerly lived on "No God Road," tells how the highway got its name. "Way back in the ante-Civil war days, before the girls wore pantalets and hoopskirts and when the southern part of the county abounded in Indians, mosquitoes, malaria and other sources of trouble, the sturdy pioneers found it necessary to work seven days a week in their efforts to make a living and to prepare the land for cultivation," said Mr. Carpenter. "One Sunday a stranger rode along the road. Seeing the inhabitants working industriously in the fields, as on a week day, the stranger sarcastically asked if any in that district had ever heard of God. "God? God?" replied one of the farmers with a puzzled expression on his face. "Why, I guess he hasn't never been down this far in the country yet. "From that time the name, "No

God" has stuck to the road. After the Civil war a school was named No God, but apparently no one had the tenacity to suggest that name for a church. Residents of the thoroughfare today rank among the most puritanical and straight-laced folk in Huron county, but, it is said, they would oppose a movement to change the name on the ground it tends to accentuate their many worthy qualities. The National Clothing Manufacturers' Association says that in the spring of 1920 men's ordinary suits will cost the wearer from $50 to $75 each. Some extraordinary suits will probably be worn.

Mrs. Shafer's Recital

Among the pleasant happenings of last week were the two piano recitals given by Mrs. Georgina Shafer, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, at the Lutheran church. In spite of the inclemency of the weather, many friends were present to enjoy the music and note the progress of the pupils. Technique is the foundation of music, especially of piano work, and Mrs. Shafer's pupils displayed much skill in the rendition of the compositions used for the occasion, showing that the foundation is there and all that is needed to make the artist is perseverance. The quartet work was especially commendable, also the trios; and taking everything into consideration it is not possible to say that one pupil did better than another. All did well; and Mrs. Shafer is to be congratulated on the progress her pupils have made during the last year, and on the result of the superior line of work they are following. Mrs. Jean Stewart Seville added to the enjoyment of the evening program with a vocal selection, "Felicie," by Thurlow Lieurance. The church was tastefully decorated with white lilies and pink roses. Miss Gertrude Beaver of Crestline, was a guest at the Shafer home last week and assisted at the recital, being a pupil of Mrs. Shafer. Several of Mrs. Shafer's Shelby pupils, Misses Ruth and Alice Kirkpatrick, Dorothy Williams, Celia Swimmer, Dortha Armstrong, Amy Butterworth, and Katherine Sheets played at the recitals. Mrs. Shafer expects soon to give a class program in the Chamber of Commerce. Following are the programs which were given:

Ewing And The Mind Cure.

Thomas Ewing was not exactly what you would call a mind-cure advocate, but he seems to have been impressed with the belief that in some way the mind exercised an influence over the body and he thought there was saving grace in humor. Laughter he recommended as a cure for disease. Evidence of this he set down in the interesting little biography of himself that he wrote toward the close of his life. As most Ohioans know, the distinguished man earned the means by which he secured an education in Ohio University at Athens. After his desire for knowledge had been cultivated by thorough use of the famous "coon-skin" library he went to the Kanawha salt springs, there to work for funds to support himself at the university. His earnings were small, but so were the expenses at Athens then, and so with what would seem a wholly inadequate sum in his pocket he began his freshman work at Athens in December, 1809. At the end of each year in Athens he would return to the salt works and go to work for money for the next year. The manual labor at the salt works supplied the physical exercise which would be given in the college gymnasium now, and he grew in both mind and body. He was a perfect giant in stature and in his early manhood it is said that on a wager he actually threw a woodman's heavy axe, over the court house roof. But in his third and last year at the salt works hard work brought on an illness and it was in a sick and exhausted condition that he trudged back to his home. "Instead of sending for a physician, however," said he, "I got a copy of Don Quixote, a recent purchase from the library"--that same coon-skin library, we may presume--and laughed myself well in about ten days. I then went to Athens, entered as a regular student and continued my

To All Soldiers, Sailors and Marines of Richland County!

Arrangements are being perfected by The Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, whereby all soldiers, Sailors and Marines without distinction as to branch of service or organization are to be formally welcomed home from the War by the citizens of Richland County. This celebration will take place on July 4. The arrangements contemplate a short parade of service men in uniform, a social dinner and an elaborate display of fireworks in the evening. Several thousands of dollars have been appropriated to cover expenses. Bands have been engaged to furnish music. The Rev. Stephen K. Mahon has been engaged as orator of the day. The selection of the Rev. Mahon as orator of the day is one which meets with universal approval on the part of service men. He may be trusted to voice our sentiments on this occasion. He is a man's man and a winning speaker.

The elaborate character of the preparations and the enthusiasm and interest of the citizens at large in this event insure us a glorious welcome on that day. It remains for us to demonstrate our appreciation of the welcome which is to be extended. The citizens at large have never seen us in military formation. In order to identify ourselves as guests of the occasion, we urge that all service men be out that day in uniform.

It is further requested that you personally endeavor to arouse and maintain the interest of your comrades with whom you come in contact and that as a preliminary you form a local delegation within your town or township and be prepared to report at a rendezvous on July 4th which will be designated later.

As a matter of interest in this connection, we wish to say that the Company "M" Association is now actively engaged at work in the promotion of an organization which is to include in its membership all the soldiers and sailors in this county. The ultimate purpose of this organization will be to foster the memories and traditions of this great war, to promote law, order and respect for the flag, to insure that the principles for which we served in and finally to establish a social center or club at Mansfield where all service men can meet and find a welcome. More details will be published later.

It is desired to give this movement its final impetus on July 4, and to this end your presence and friendly co-operation are urgently requested. Temporary headquarters of this Association have been established in Room 119 Bird Bldg., Mansfield, Ohio, and it is requested you communicate with Executive Officer at the address regarding further information or any suggestions you may wish to offer.

Your Town.
Real towns are not made by men afraid
Last some one else gets ahead;
When every one works and no-body shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor makes one, too
Your town will be what you want it to be.

It isn't your town—it's you!
If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes into a grip
And start on a long, long hike.
You will only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new,
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town,
It isn't your town, it's you!
—Helen Perkins, in the New York Sun.

Johns and Marys.
Among the many odd things that the bureau of War Risk Insurance is learning, is looking after the finances of some 4,000,000 soldiers and sailors, is that "John O'Brien has a strong attachment for Mary." This was disclosed recently when a former soldier of the foregoing name wrote regarding his insurance. He failed to give his serial number or policy number, but said the papers would be easy to identify, as his wife's name was Mary A. O'Brien. A search through the bureau files disclosed that one of 175 John J. O'Briens and each of an even fifty of them had a wife named Mary A. O'Brien.
Many new cottages have been built at Lakeside and other improvements have been made and it is expected that the largest summer resort in the history of the town will be the record for the season.

Tragedy of a Polar Night.
Up in the land of ice and snow There lived a funny Eskimo. A mighty jolly little chap He never seemed to give a rap No matter what befell, 'im told, So long as things were nice and cold.

He wore a fuzzy bear skin suit To keep his tummy warm, how cute. With gloves to match, and on his bean He wore a cap of fur de chine, And then to warm his heart, they say He'd call up dearie twice a day.

He'd feed her gum drops by the yard, The climate made them rather hard, But when she'd smile, this little maid Could melt the hardest gum drop made. It only cost these birds a dime To have a sweet and sticky time.

They used to find it very nice To sit all night upon the ice Beneath the wiggly northern light, And say, they have six months of night. You wouldn't like it much, I know, But then you're not an Eskimo.

At cabarets they'd take their meals, She liked the educated seals That jazzed away the arctic night. You'd think the menu kind o' bright With blubber, oil and walrus steaks And drinking water served in cakes.

One night returning from a tear They met a wicked polar bear, His claws were sharp, his teeth were white, He had a dandy appetite. He took them in as slick and clean As nickels in a slot machine.

'Twas very sad, but just to show You cannot feaze an Eskimo, As down the monster's throat They slid He softly whispered, "kiss me, kid, 'Twill be a little crowded here But then we're still together, dear."

"Just bear this in mind, my boy, "What, dad?" "You don't find any epitaph in any cemetery reading: Here lies a cracker-jack pot player."

PRICES DOWN IN MILEAGE UP

Goodrich's New Adjustment

Having, on May 12, marked down tire prices, Goodrich next promptly marked up its adjustment mileage figures.

It lifted adjustments to 6,000 miles for Safety Treads, and 8,000 for Silvertown Cords, instead of 3,500 and 5,000 miles, respectively, heretofore in force.

Goodrich marked down prices in strict accordance with the Goodrich policy always to give the user the benefit of Goodrich economies of manufacture.

Goodrich marked up its adjustment mileage because the wonderful endurance and service Goodrich Tires are showing in actual service demanded adjustment that squared with performance.

Remember it's a Goodrich Adjustment, always safe and conservative, based on a greater mileage consistently given by Goodrich Tires.

Goodrich knows its tires are brimful of mileage, and it wants every automobile driver to have a generous share of it.

The People and The Mob.
The people en masse constitute what was called the mob. Mobs have rarely been right—never except when capably led. It was the mob of Jerusalem that did the unbelievable Jesus of Nazareth to death. It was the mob in Paris that made the Reign of Terror.

Elmer Cole.

Died in Cleveland, Ohio, 2:00 a. m., Saturday June 21, 1919.

Elmer W. Cole, son of Ashur and Sarah Jane Cole, was born in Ridgefield township, near Norwalk, Ohio, November 21, 1870.

His parents moved from Ridgefield to North New Haven when he was a small boy, where he grew up on the Cole farm and at their death closed up the estate in a way that proved his unselfish disposition.

His life work was on the railroad, and this gave him a wide acquaintance and many friends in all sections of the country.

His home for the last few years has been in Detroit; his occupation, switchman. His purpose in life was to help deserving poor and the larger part of his salary was devoted to that purpose. His illness lasted but a few days and he made no complaint.

He was one of a family of seven children, four boys and three girls, two boys, Harry and Arthur have preceded him to the next world. He leaves one brother, Clayton Cole, Fitchville, Ohio, and three sisters, Flora Brooks, Plymouth, Ohio, Mary Johns, Lakeswood, Ohio, and Libbie Allison, Cleveland, Ohio, at whose home he was cared for during his last illness.

Rev. Shaw of the Boulevard Presbyterian church took charge of the private service in Cleveland, Ohio, Saturday, and Rev. Welch of the Norway, Universalist church conducted the last service at the Chapel and grave, where he was laid to rest beside his brother Harry, in Greenwood cemetery, Plymouth, Ohio, Sunday afternoon.

A New Black Joe Melody.

Here's a song sung recently at a farm bureau meeting, to the tune of Old Black Joe.

"Gone are the days when my farm returned no pay,
Gone are the folks who used to call me Jay,
Gone are my debts for the better crop I grow,
I hear my neighbors' voices calling, 'Farm Bureau!'
I'm coming, I'm coming for my bank is full of dough,
I hear my neighbors' voices calling, 'Farm Bureau!'
It is estimated that last year's farm products were worth $25,000,000,000, the largest in the history of the country. Farm Bureaus are said to be a big factor of this:

Fluffy is Dead.

"If I should die I want to have Fluffy killed immediately." Mrs. Merta E. Latimer, a Norwalk woman who died suddenly on Sunday, made this request to a relative who was her best friend. Fluffy was a poodle.

Complying with her request a relative employed a veterinarian to anesthizate the dog the day after the body of Mrs. Latimer was found in her apartment.

The dog maintained watch over the body five hours before the animal barking led to the discovery of the body.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Voisard and son Lucien will spend the Fourth with friends at Dover Bay Club, on the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Becher, son William, and daughter Margaret, of Bolivar, were guests over Sunday of Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Smith. Mr. Becher is the father of Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Becher is a sister of Prof. Maurer, of Shelby, whom they visited Tuesday in company of Rev. and Mrs. Smith.

Laura Van Asdale is spending her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Mat Dallas.

Mat Dallas is all puffed up because he sat down to a mess of new potatoes for Tuesday dinner. We hate to say it but he's about two weeks behind the reports on file in the Advertiser office.

A distressing accident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Trigge west of Monroeville, Monday evening, when their little baby daughter fell into a watering tub, at the well, and was drowned before being discovered. Dr. Hindley was called, but nothing could be done to resuscitate the little one. She was an only daughter, a sweet child, aged one year and three months. The parents have the deep sympathy in their terrible affliction.

Mrs. F. T. Wilsey returned to her home in New York City after visiting her mother, Mrs. Einseel and brother C. R. Einseel.

Children's wash suits at McKelloggs. Just the thing for cool summer wear.

The Peoples National Bank

There is no credit like that established at the bank. If it is your custom to place a part of your earnings in a savings account you are establishing a habit of thrift that will give you a standing not secured in any other way.

Especially is this true of the young man. The bank is the only reliable source of information as to credits, and oft times, as to habits. Strive to have the bank speak well of you in both credit and conduct. Give it a reason for commending you by saving and husbanding your resources.

Closed all day on the Fourth, but open Saturday morning with a real grocery at your service.

I'm tickled the way people depend on my store for their provision needs. We have a merry time here with our customers.

Make us work hard Saturday. Bring me all your produce and buy your needs in my store.

Thank you.

Binder Twine

We have binder twine, that good Plymouth binder twine.

Come in and place your order and you will lose neither time nor wheat when the harvest is on.

Our store is a hummer now. We are stocked in anything you need.

Oils are here in plenty for your machinery. Better stock up for your binders, mowers and other farm machinery.

Haying tools, such as forks, slings, pulleys and ropes. We are it in the hay tool business.

Buy your wife an oil stove. It is cooler than the old wood or coal range, besides you can set it anywhere.

A few hog feeders. That good feed, that is worth a lot more to you than other makes that pattern but do not equal.

We close our store on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 6 o'clock.

ADMIRAL MAYO UNDER SEVERE FIRE DURING THE NAVAL ATTACK ON OSTEND BRITISH

Commander of Atlantic Fleet Watched Shelling of Terror From Bridge of Broke—Admiral Made Many Trips to Europe During the War—Played an Important Part in Direction of Naval Part of War.

New York.—When Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, went to Europe, as he did several times during the course of the war, he was known to all on board, with the exception of the commanding officer of the ship, as Mr. Wing.

It is probable that no officer in any of the allied navies played a more important part in the direction of the naval part of the war, after April, 1917, than did Admiral Mayo, the commander of the Atlantic fleet.

"I guess it's all right," said this officer, "now that the ships of the navy are home and admirals' flags are waving peacefully and calmly in the security of yards and docks, stories of experiences abroad are coming in with the drift of conversation in the ward-room and in the quarter deck. It is all over now, official reports have been made, the censor's tightening grip has been loosened on his rubber stamp, and even men bound down by the iron-clad rules of 'Operations' are known to spin a yarn.

"In all of the sea travel that came ranking officers of the United States navy came has attained the ocean crossings accomplished by Admiral Henry T. Mayo during the war. If the log of the writer is correct all of these voyages except two made in the winter. His first trip across was in 1917 and was made under the most secretive of movements. Again he went over with his entire staff, and returning on the Mauretania early last December was taken off this ship on a tender in Gravesend bay, hurried to his flagship, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, in the New York navy yard, the following day sailing as the escort to President Wilson on his first trip abroad.

It was while on his second trip abroad that Admiral Mayo made probably the most extensive tour of inspection made by any commanding officer during the war. With members of his staff he visited not only the American and English navies, but also every branch of the allied forces in Europe. It was on this trip that he was entertained by both the English and Italian kings.

"And most appropriately," replied a civilian traveler on an ocean liner some months past, "for I once knew him as 'Mr. Wing.'"

Which tells the secret out, for when in 1917 Admiral Mayo and his staff sailed most quietly and secretly on the St. Louis he was known to Mr. Wing. He wore the dress of a civilian, as did all of the members of his staff. Only the ship's commanding officer

German Rings Cost Boy $5,000 Suit for Injuries.

Kansas City, Mo.—Did Patte follow John Scarello, sixteen-year-old Italian boy, when a German iron ring he was wearing caught in a box mangle machine at the Inman box factory here?

After Judge Southern of the circuit court had ordered the jury to find for the defendant, it was discovered the ring belonged to Scarello and which caused him to lose one finger, bore this inscription:

"To show my honor and loyalty to the fatherland in this hour of distress, I give my gold for this iron."

The boy had sued for $5,000. The evidence showed he was careless, and the jury was instructed to find for the defendant.

close to the Broke and the other destroyers which kept moving up the line. Throughout the firing Admiral Mayo remained on the bridge, making a close observation of the enemy's work. The attack finally ceased without any direct hits being made by the German.

"All lights were extinguished, everything was down to a whisper, and the party was again under the big lake over you, and as sweet as the wind at your door. There came the whistling black-bird calls to his mate to bathe in the pickered pond. And the banks overflow with the blossoms that bloom at the touch of Fair Nature's wand.

FOE ARSENAL LOSSES MILLIONS

Mismanagement Alleged and is Also Blamed for Insubordination Among Workers.

Berlin.—The state arsenal at Spandau, which has been short since the government, has shown monthly deficits of $8,750,000 for the last few months. Estimates for April, May and June total $25,000,000. Attempts to utilize the gigantic plant for peace production are unsuccessful in its present condition and it will have to be dismantled and re-equipped.

It is stated also that the plant has grossly mismanaged, which gradually brought on a force of resistance and insubordination among the workers.

Army Air Service Completing Map of Three Cross-Country Trunk Routes.

Washington.—The army air service has made substantial progress in the work of preparing national aerial routes, the map already showing a number of travel lines in 30 states. The entire country will be covered as soon as adequate data has been compiled.

Information entered on the master map here covers every detail necessary for the successful operation of an air-line over the territory shown. Distances, heights, suitable landing stations, places where vital supplies and parts may be obtained, as well as condition of terrain, all are noted.

It is proposed to chart three trunk routes from coast to coast, with about twenty-four feeding or distributing routes, which, it is stated, would bring every city and town in the United States within six hours flying time of the distributing points. Completion of the national map is expected before the close of the year.

Great Mill Stops. Huntington, L. I.—A great mill on the wide Hudson river ceased operations for the first time in 187 years. D. Webster Smith, the proprietor, said so little grain is being raised in the vicinity that it is no longer profitable to run the mill was closed in 1922.

BOY SCOUT "VETS," TOO.

The veterans used to be gray haired—now deeply marked, somewhat stoop shouldered, one empty sleeve or one plumed-up, empty trousers leg. Their deeds are already in our school histories.

But there is a new generation of veterans today. Young fellows, nearly every one of them. Not stoop shouldered, nor deeply marked, but with good cause. Not yet long enough returned from the battles to have had an annual reunion. But veterans nevertheless. Saviors of their country. Saviors of the world.

And there is a still newer generation of veterans coming upon the great world stage. These have not been to the front. They may never go to war, and because of them—in part at least—the world itself may never know war again.

These newer veterans are the young fellows who have been five years in the boy scout movement. They are first-class scouts. They have taken upon them every chest, indeed, with good cause for life. They have registered with local scout authorities for service to the community in any emergency.

Scouting principles imbedded in a boy's nature are to continue to operate in his life whether or not he wears the uniform and the badge. But in order that the movement shall affect the quality of citizenship of the whole nation most effectively, scouting principles should continue to operate through every scout in the active, positive, and efficient manner of a veteran scout embodied in his allegiance.

A SCOUT PARADISE.

I know of a wonderful spot for a camp on the edge of a shimmering shore. And I take while away from the big lake over you, and as sweet as the wind at your door.

There came the whistling black-bird calls to his mate to bathe in the pickered pond. And the banks overflow with the blossoms that bloom at the touch of Fair Nature's wand.

Why not join in our song as we ramble along and gather your troop on the way? You will hit up scout's pace when we are in the bushes and you will read the work or for play.

—By R. N. Barry.

SCOUTS BOOSTED IN BOSTON.

A letter to the Boston Transcript, signed among others by Charles W. Elliot and A. Lawrence Lowell, says in part:

We are entering an era of readjustments in wages and prices. In many cases lack of employment and clashes of opinion between employers and employees are the result. To us it seems of adoption every reasonable means to promote right understanding and good feeling between our various groups—such as that, but I swapped for protection, because of my own personal understanding and good feeling.

BOHEMIAN BOY SCOUTS.

Scouts in Prague sounds like the real thing in scouting. A letter from there reads:

"Bohemian" boy scouts of the First Scout troop at Prague in the Czechoslovakian republic send greetings to their brother scouts in America.

"Members of the troop are river scouts; all round sportsmen who row, yacht, canoe, tramp, swim, etc. In winter they skate and ski, and go camping with slide and ski.

SCOUTING ALIVE AT COLLEGE.

The University of Pittsburgh has adopted scouting with enthusiasm, says Chancellor S. B. McCormick. Ten scouts members are instructing in scouting subjects, and courses in camp cookery and the duties of scoutmasters have been started.

SOLDIER THANKS BOY SCOUT.

Scout Harry W. Lyons of Milford, Mass., is justly proud of a letter received from a soldier in the army of occupation. The doughboy had read of the scout's splendid work in saving War Savings stamps and was moved to write:

"Here's the hand of a soldier for your long work in keeping me in clothes and equipment. I have done my best, and you have done as much if not more than I."

KNEW THAT WOULD STOP HIM. Lawyer Evidently Was Well Acquainted With the Weakness of His Long-Winded Friend.

C. H. Murphy relates the story of a Philadelphia lawyer, retired, who, in the days of his active practice, was notorious for his long-windedness. On one occasion he had been speaking forth his concluding argument for six hours, and the end was nowhere in sight, when the opposing attorney beckoned his associate and whispered: "Can't you stop him, Jack?"

"My Dear Colonel—As soon as you finish your magnificent argument I would like you to join me at the hotel in a bumper of rare old Bourbon." The lawyer halted in the midst of an impassioned period, put on his glasses, and read the note that had been handed him, then he removed his glasses again and, taking up his hat and bag, he said: "And now, may I please the court and gentlemen of the jury, I leave the case with you."

"Flair's frog hair, Jurd!" triumphantly replied Gop Johnson. "Of course, my wife has been shorter puny, your wife, and several of the children have got the measles and mumps and such thing and another, and the lightning struck the corner of the house twice night and like to have tore the whole place to pieces, and one of the kids fell out of a tree and broke his arm, and a feller took a shot at me day before yesterday and ventilated my ear, and such as that, but I swapped for a running horse last week, and a couple of my hounds have got six pups apiece. Aw, I tell you, they can't keep a good man down!"—Kansas City Star.

"I was burying home up the hill when a little boy came rushing down in such haste that he ran headlong into me. He was quite breathless and very flourishing, because of my own personal understanding and good feeling.

"You don't know my pa?" he said indignantly. "Why, I know pa just as easy!"—Exchange.

Carl Stone McKellogg Weds Popular Pennsylvania Girl.

Carl Stone McKellogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. McKellogg, of Plymouth and Shelby, was married Tuesday June 24, at Waynesboro, Pa. and was represented by the newspaper notices of the event taken from the daily Press of that city.

In the presence of about ninety relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom on the lawn at the bride's home, 153 South Broad street Miss Isabelle Phillips Koons only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Koons, and Carl Stone McKellogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKellogg were united in marriage by the Rev. Stewart Hartman, pastor of the Reformed church, Cavetown, Md., a cousin of the bride, assisted by the Rev. M. Rutherford pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city.

Miss Gertrude Eicholz and J. Ed Shueman played the Lohengrin wedding march as a piano and violin duet, as the bride and groom, preceded by Miss Martha Frantz as flower girl, marched down the long aisle formed by the guests and to the altar before the officiating ministers, the same music being continued softly throughout the ceremony.

The bride was attired in an ivory satin gown trimmed in real lace and wore a bridal veil of Belgian lace. She was attended by Miss Martha Frantz as flower girl who marching ahead of the bridal couple, strewed roses in their path, and her train was carried by Master Guy Robert King, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. King, and little Miss Helen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, as pages. Miss Frantz was dressed in white and carried silk and the two pages in white. The bridegroom wore full evening dress.

The single ring ceremony was used.

Miss Koons is one of the most popular members of local society and with her charming personality, her willing aid in civic as well as social affairs has made a host of friends who will wish her all possible happiness in her married life. She is a graduate of the local high school, class of 1914, and later of Waynesboro Business College. For one year she taught in the Y. W. C. at Cleveland, O., and last year was instructor in the Chambersburg high school.

Mr. McKellogg is a graduate of Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio. He also specializes in the study of the University of Illinois. Later, he occupied the chair of chemistry in the University of Buffalo, N. Y. He entered the service, October 1917 and was stationed at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio. In April 1918, he was transferred to the American Chemical Laboratory, experiment station, Washington, D. C. After his discharge from the U. S. service, he accepted a post in the chemical laboratory, University of Mississippi which he expects to resume next fall.

The Koons home was elaborately decorated with flowers on the occasion and many beautiful gifts were received by the bride.

Following the ceremony Mrs. McKellogg followed the traditional custom of throwing her bouquet to her girl friends, who had made elaborate preparations for the proverbial shower of rice and verbal banishment, the couple escaped all the watchers and made their escape.

After a wedding trip to Vermilion, a delightful drive along Lake Erie, Mr. and Mrs. McKellogg will reside in University, Miss.

Among the out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKellogg the groom's parents of Shelby, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Myers, Ambley, Pa.; Miss Mildred Gillan, Mr. Belle Herr and Kerr Shatzler, of Chambersburg; Rev. and Mrs. Stewart Hartman and daughter Miss Rhoda, and sons Hugh, of Cavetown, Md. and Mr. Harry Troupe of Hagerstown.

United States Tire News.

There was a time when a motorist in laying in a supply of tires gave thought only to the subject of their durability. In those days tire-killing had not reached its present state of perfection, and most of the highways were so bad that the driver was constantly filled with anxiety as to whether he could finish his journey without tire trouble.

But tire construction has improved to such a degree and good roads have become so common everywhere in the country, that an automobilist whose car is equipped with modern tires seldom worries today about blow-outs or punctures. With the question of dependability satisfactorily adjusted, the owner of a hand-car now is becoming particular about the looks of his tires. He wants a tire that is graceful in line harmonious with the beauty of his car and has in it...

There has been established on the shores of an island off the coast of Florida what is believed to be the first sponge farm in existence. It is estimated that more than 500,000 sponges are thus being cultivated.

"Oh, You Women!"

It may have been fine for the women of the country to take the positions held by the men while they served in the Great War and wiped make the world safe to live in, but it is all wrong for them to keep these positions when their heroes come back home.

So firmly did they believe in these principles that they made a photoplay based on that theme, which has been released by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as one of their special Paramount productions, under the title, "Oh, You Women," which will be shown at the TEMPLE Theatre, WILLARD, on Wednesday and Thursday, July 9-10 next. Ernest Truex, the celebrated comedian, and Louise Huff are the principals of the cast.

The subject is one of the most absorbing that has come as the result of the recent war, and is particularly timely, because of the recent return of the warriors who served so well in France. With no idea in mind that it would be post-war propaganda, Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos, made this spectacular production, and their results have been commented on in a most flattering manner from all quarters, particularly by government officials.

Admission 15 and 25 cents.

Marriages Lead Divorce Record.

While the usual, or perhaps unusual number of divorce cases have been filed in the Common Pleas Court during the past few months, the big red book in Judge Rowley's office carries the names of many who are still unafraid to launch out on the matrimonial sea.

However there has been distinct falling off in the number of applicants for the state's permission to unite life's fortunes in wedlock. To some extent the decrease in number of marriage licenses in 1919 and the first half of 1918 is attributable to war. Soldiers to be and soldiers in fact have always had the edge on the other fellow when it comes to the wedding game.

During the first six months of 1919 there have been 55 licenses issued, while there were 114 in the same period of 1918. During the year ending on Monday, June 30, 1918, the number was 273. That's a falling off of 79 you will see.

Warrants against thirteen manufacturers and business men of Bucyrus were sworn out by Miss Gertrude S. Weaver, inspector of the state industrial commission, Columbus. These men were charged with violations of state child labor law.

Pay Teachers More.

If education amounts to anything, the teaching of the children should be in the hands of thoroughly competent persons. And competent teachers are not to be procured at a compensation less than that which in many instances is paid to common labor and to those who can neither read nor write their own names. The instruction of the youths of the country should be in the care of intelligent and competent teachers. Only those so qualified should be permitted to teach and if they are qualified their compensation should be commensurate with the importance of their work.

Legal Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that John I. Besiman of Plymouth, Ohio, has been duly appointed and qualified as administrator with will annexed of the last will and testament of James H. Atyeo, late of Plymouth, Richland County, Ohio, deceased.

Local Papers.

The local weekly or daily papers deserve better support than they receive in many communities. Some have not succeeded because of the policy or lack of policy of their management, but our experience convinces us that the great majority of the papers devoted to the interests of the home community deserve hearty support. The metropolitan daily will bring to one's doorstep the news of the world seen thru the spectacles of the editor, but it is the editor who lives in the heart of the community who is able to reflect the sentiment of the local group. He alone is the true interpreter of events as they affect the small home town and the country immediately surrounding it. He alone is able to put real sparkle into the account of the wedding of boys and girls whom he has seen grow up. He alone is able to put the throbs of real feeling into the obituary of the men and women among whom he has spent his life and with whom he has worked for the improvement of the city and the home town. These local papers deserve better than they generally get. During the war they have had hard sliding—many of them—and now they have a perfect right to come to the citizens of their locality asking real business support. Give it to them. If the local paper has the proper kind of encouragement it can do more for the welfare of the town and the countryside than any other factor. Support means more than merely subscribing. Send in the news. Examine the advertising columns. Pretty soon you will find yourself becoming more interested in the community than you ever were before and you will find that it is a good place to stay rather than something to try to get away from. Help the local paper and it will help you. —Ohio Farmer.

Speaking of Luck.

Clinton Peelle, of Wilmington, motored to Dayton one day last week and when ready to return found that his car had been stolen Monday of this week. He went back to Dayton to purchase another car. He was directed to a certain garage and the first thing he saw on entering was his car. He recognized it immediately by certain marks. The car had been brought to the garage by its new owner for repairs. It was but a short time until the new owner was located. He had bought it a few days before from a young man. The thief was apprehended just as he was sitting down to the supper table at his parent's home in Dayton. He is a mere boy but had already stolen three or four cars. The parents gave the purchaser of the car a check for the value of the car and young Peelle returned with his car much gratified at his good fortune.

Closed every Saturday afternoon.

That gives us a breathing spell and time to rest up for the next week.
