

Death of David B. King.

Word came to Plymouth Sunday announcing the death of David B. King at Springfield, Ohio, Sunday morning at the home of his daughter Mrs. Harry E. Rice.

While friends here had known of his failing health, the news came to them unaccounted by previous information of the impending dissolution. Indeed many were anticipating the arrival of Mr. King from New York on matters related to his property interests here.

He left New York Thursday last week for Springfield, where he arrived Friday, keeping his bed enroute. When assisted to the home of Mrs. Rice he was much weakened and death came forty-eight hours later.

The body reached Plymouth Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, and after a brief stay at the Presbyterian church conducted by Rev. C. B. Phillips, interment was made in the family lot in Greenfield.

In honor of his long residence here and his mercantile career covering a period of forty years, business hours of the Advertiser activities suspended during the funeral services.

Initiators to the funeral sermon Rev. Phillips read the following tribute:

David B. King, civil war veteran, Scottish Rite Mason, and for nearly half a century, one of the business men of Plymouth, Ohio, with diversified interests, lived a blameless life.

In honesty, probity, and integrity, he measured up to the highest ideals. In all of the relations of life he was actuated by worthy ambitions, high standards, and generous impulses. Inspired by patriotism he volunteered for the defense of his flag, was guided in all his life by the Golden Rule, and in all respects an exemplary citizen.

David B. King was a native of Holmes county, where he was born January 18, 1847. Death came suddenly Sunday morning, August 31, 1919, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry E. Rice, of Springfield, Ohio.

In early manhood he taught school. When the civil war broke out he enlisted first in Company No. 10, Ohio, and later in Company H, 133rd O. V. I. On his return from the war he embarked in the mercantile business in Plymouth, Ohio, and conducted a general store with marked success. His enterprise prompted him to open a second store in Chicago, which was managed for a time. Always looking for business opportunities he, years ago, acquired extensive real estate interests in Illinois.

In September 1869 he was united in marriage with Miss Eleanor Hoffman of Plymouth, Ohio. Following her death in 1887, he retired from active business, made a leisurely tour of Europe, and afterward divided his time between Springfield, Ohio, and New York City.

Early in life he became a Mason and at the time of his death was a life member of Erie Lodge, No. 1, Cleveland, and the Michigan Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Chicago. A few years ago he became a member of the West End Presbyterian church, of New York.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harry E. Rice, of Springfield, O., and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan, of Mansfield, O., and two granddaughters: Ensign Robt. K. Rice, U. S. Navy; Midshipman Harry E. Rice, Jr., U. S. Navy; David B. Rice; Eleanor Buchanan and Margaret Buchanan.

In compliance with decedent's dying wish, his Scotch Rite Masonry was presented to his grandson, David B. Rice, who was named for him. The presentation took place according to the custom of the home, in Springfield.

Present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Anita Funk of Crescent City, Fla.; Mrs. Nora Clark, Mrs. Amanda King, Mrs. Mildred Boyles, of Shelburne, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miller, of Millersburg, and Mrs. E. A. Swan, of Hicksville.

They say that absence makes the heart grow fonder. If this is true then Attorney Smith thinks more of Plymouth now than when he lived here and endured stone bruises, and poison-ivy blisters, and sunburn. Thinks more of Plymouth now than when he used to spruce up and go out to see his best girl and sit around on a horse hair sofa and build castles. We never go back on a man as long as he sticks up for his old home town. Come up to your Chamber of Commerce Friday evening. Maybe he'll tell us why Smith left home. The hour is 8:30. Eats different.

Joy Riding in the Deep Blue.

We are taking our hat off to Luther Petters, Oliver Miller and Russell Carnahan. They have had the courage to "go up in a plane," and wanted to go so bad that they paid for the privilege.

They were a part of the big crowd at New London's Labor Day celebration, and the airplane was one of the attractions, carrying passengers at the rate of fifteen minutes for fifteen dollars.

Luther was the first to get the fever. He had skinned along on mother earth at a mile a minute on country roads, but up in the air never.

So he paid his fee, consented to be strapped in, and the next minute they were off and up to a height of fifteen or hundred feet. When the earth looked like a garden spot, and the race track like a finger ring, the pilot started to circle, turned to the landing field, reaching it without a mishap.

Then Oliver Miller concluded that a little trip in the blue might pay new life, so he applied for admission and got it. Strapped to the seat of the plane the pilot took him up among the clouds, turned to the landing field, brought Oliver down to earth, wiser and just a shade whiter, but pleased with the experience.

Just to make it hundred feet for Plymouth, Russell Carnahan, of the Plymouth Equity Exchange Co. concluded that he wanted a height of fifteen or hundred feet. The pilot took him up to the fifteen hundred foot limit, circled the clouds, turned to the landing field, and came down, and handed Russell over to his friends as good as new.

But the three were not all that went up in the air from Plymouth. The full membership of the Plymouth base ball club caught the fever, and when the time went up in the air in a flash. The team was matched against the Greenwich club for an exhibition game.

On the earth, the Plymouth team plays a stiff game, but up in the air is a little out of the territory, and since Greenwich refused to follow she was compelled to play alone, and of course sagged all the runs.

Couldn't Find The Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Southard of near Newsum's Corners have a family reunion experience that is all their own.

They are invited to the Meyers family, and motored to Fremont Saturday to be present at the gathering of the hosts.

On reaching Fremont they found the street address of J. M. Meyers, at whose home the reunion was held, and diligent inquiry did not enlighten them.

They finally undertook the expedient of driving about the city hoping that word of a gathering some where that would look like a reunion, but after many miles of criss-crossing they were still without a place that looked like a big time, and a big dinner.

When the day had grown short they started for Newsum's Corners leaving the happy gathering all to itself somewhere in Fremont.

On reaching home and relating their experience to those who had enjoyed the day and the big dinner they learned that in their search they had passed twice within a block and a half of the reunion, but a block was the same as a mile.

Next year Mr. and Mrs. Southard will get an accurate address before their departure to the annual reunion. All they got out of the event this year was a trip to Fremont and a days drive about the city.

Barn Burned.

A hay barn on the land of the Farmers Farm Co. was burned Sunday afternoon when struck by lightning during an electrical storm.

About one hundred and fifty tons of hay were consumed. Building and contents insured.

Methodist Episcopal Church.

The pastor's subject next Sunday morning will be, "Ezekiel's Vision of the Church." The subject for the evening subject will be "Christ's Way of Helping."

Presbyterian Church.

Sunday school at ten o'clock. Preaching at eleven. Members of the congregation are urged to be present.

Drive To Galion Sunday.

Here is an invitation for you, coming from the Ohio Mausoleum Co., over the signature of Grover C. Hunter.

This company has built a fine mausoleum at Galion and it is to be dedicated Sunday September 7. The principal speaker is Chaplain J. J. Halliday of the Rainbow Division. The invitation reads:

You are invited to attend the Dedication services of The Galion Memorial Mausoleum, Sunday, September 7, 2:30 p. m. The most complete and beautiful Mausoleum ever erected.

The principal speaker will be Chaplain J. J. Halliday of the Rainbow Division during the entire war.

Since this company is also building a mausoleum in Greenfield, Ohio, and the dedication to this dedication will give you an idea of what is being constructed here, and Galion is just far enough away to make an after-dinner drive to arrive for the exercises and inspection at 2:30.

Auto Struck By Train.

Geo. Martin, living about five miles southwest of Plymouth had a narrow escape from death Friday while driving to Plymouth. He was the lone occupant of the machine, and while driving over the B. & O. track near the William Harris farm, Mr. Martin failed to note the approach of the B. & O. passenger train, due at 2 o'clock.

The engine struck the front of the auto as it was just moving on to the rails, pushing it into the ditch and crushing the wheels and hood.

Fortunately Mr. Martin was not in line with the impact and escaped with slight injury.

Withdrawal.

Mr. Sol Bachrach desires to announce that his name on the municipal ticket as a candidate for a place on the Board of Public Affairs, is without his consent and under no circumstances will he be a candidate. He was a part of the second ticket filed.

Usually, the only way an editor gets through the winter is month at a time, just as the calendar names them. Some of the drear of the approaching winter will be taken away through the kindness of our friend Life David. He put a sack of sugar on our disposal Wednesday, which will be taken away through the kindness of our friend Life David. Life also promises that if his solo "comes good" he will give us another feed later. The bag of potatoes which he placed on our table have been tried out on the office force without unfavorable results. They were fine, big, melon fellows and the art work was as fine a bit of coloring as nature can do. Come to think about it we don't think Life has anything against us.

Eastern Stars, Attention.

After two months vacation the Plymouth Chapter 231, O. E. S. held their first regular meeting Sept. 8. A full attendance is requested.

Don't forget to say your dues at this time. Should any member have a ritual belonging to the Chapter, please bring it to the office. Anna Johnson W. M. Anna Walker Sec'y.

Miller Reunion.

We responded to an invitation to attend the Miller reunion, held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Miller, east of Plymouth. The attendance was 170, which number included a few invited guests.

The social gathering of good-looking people, happy and hungry. This last deduction is based on the preparation made for dinner and the manner in which it was disposed.

The Miller home is an ideal place for such an event. The occasion was, heavily shaded, but a long double line of table, laden with the best that a fruitful year could give, and there was no hesitancy in gathering about the table, but to remain in the exercises that followed the repeat, but there was speech and song and reminiscence.

The next reunion will be held on the last Saturday in August, 1920, and at the home of John Miller in Ripley township.

Hollenbaugh-Stroup Reunion.

Leaving the Miller reunion we hurried to the Hollenbaugh-Stroup family gathering held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Oedvick in Plymouth. We were too late for a second dinner, but in time to fellowship abundantly.

Fully a hundred were present, and just to be neighborly we responded to an invitation to make a brief talk. Rev. G. C. Smith followed, and he's a good fellow to have around on such occasions. He makes a good talk in a happy vein.

We are thanking this good fellow for the privilege of participating in his event, and sorry that we could not join in the substantial repast.

School Will Open Monday.

School will open Monday with superintendent and full corps of teachers. Miss Shaw being retained as principal.

The student body has not been chosen as we go to press but a meeting will be held this Thursday afternoon at which time the board will consider the three or four applicants, and make selection.

Don't Forget.

The M. E. folks, McKendree, Now Haven and Plymouth will picnic on the church lawn Saturday afternoon and evening. This will be a notice to the members of the congregations named to be present with enough food for two.

The Weather Man Should Try This.

A man who gets up weather predictions a year ahead for almanacs tells us how he does it. He seals on onion and preserves the first twelve peelings intact. The peelings are then laid in a row, the top peeling representing January and each of the eleven following peelings representing February, March, April, May, June and so on. He places a pinch of salt on each peeling and lets the peelings stand over night. In the morning he finds that some of the peelings have absorbed the salt, while other peelings will not dissolve the salt at all. Where the salt has dissolved it indicates that that will be a wet month, and where the salt has not been dissolved the month will be dry.

Along comes Labor Day and cuts out a Monday. Then you have to make the Advertiser in two short days.

Proposal To Use Income Tax Information as Profiteering Clue.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, in an amendment offered yesterday to the resolution providing for a committee of five Senators and five Representatives to examine into the high cost of living, proposed to the resolution providing for income tax returns of all individuals and corporations as an aid in detecting profiteering.

The Walsh amendment empowers the Committee also to examine income tax figures to determine to what extent the "dollar a year" men profited by their contracts with the Government. In discussing his amendment, the Massachusetts Senator said:

"In my opinion the chief cause of the present high cost of living are profiteering, avoidable waste in production and distribution, and unnecessary exporting of food stuffs and other necessities of life for the sake of larger profits."

Auto Struck By Tractor.

An S. N. & M. car struck the automobile of H. N. Davis, of Jackson, Ohio, Monday, when it attempted to cross the tracks near the Kuhn school house.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were enroute to Oberlin, Ohio, when the tractor where the latter will enter college. They were required to detour because of bridge out, and this compelled them to turn west and cross the tractor.

The automobile had almost cleared the rails and was pushed into the ditch, causing a large wheel but permitting the occupants to escape injury.

The party stopped at a farm near Oberlin, Ohio, where a wheel for his Hudson, borrowing it of Mr. Dennis of Shelby, after which they proceeded on their way.

Auto Skipped.

A gentleman from Mansfield accident while Mr. Davis occurred Saturday night with an auto on Sandusky street Saturday morning. While driving north the car skipped and ran into the back of the E. W. Sherman home, striking a marble tree, breaking the windshield and hood.

A piece of glass cut the face of the little girl severely. When the car was repaired the party returned to Mansfield.

Minor Troubles' of a County Agent.

A county agent in one of the Eastern States believes diversified activities. He reports as follows for one month's work: "Burnt up 90 gallons of gasoline, and 100 gallons of oil, and one or two blow-out. Trailer broke away and upset load; pig fell out of the car and was caught with a corn cob after jumping from a sty and was run over by an auto. Buried three pigs with all the profits and lost $28 besides. Tore seat of pants getting over nature fence; broke water crystals, loading corn planter; but outside of a few minor troubles had a very satisfactory month's work."

Amund Reunion.

Sorry that we could not go out and mingle with the Amund descendants at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross Saturday. We learn that it was a good time for every one, and with many in attendance.

Death of Mrs. Henry Bachrach.

Mrs. Henry Bachrach died at her-home on Trux street, Saturday morning about two o'clock. She was aged 75 years, 3 months, and 19 days, and had been in poor health for some time.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Monday, Sept. 1, 1919, conducted by Rabbi Wolsey of Cleveland. Burial in Greenfield.

Mrs. Bachrach was born in Germany and interesting details of her life are noted in the obituary which appears in another column.

Time, eleven o'clock. We invite all.

Sunday school, ten o'clock.

After The Spud Now.

Federal investigation of profiteering has turned toward the potato. It was stated at the beginning of an investigation of the report that more than ten miles of freight cars loaded with new potatoes are being held on Chicago sidings announcement was made at the bureau of investigation that evidence had been secured of a conspiracy between shippers and commission men to juggle the market and boost the price of potatoes.

The arrest of two produce men, it was stated at the office of District Attorney Charles F. Clynne could be looked for within a few days. Clynne charged evidence of a going on among produce people in peaches, plums, tomatoes and other fruits. Potatoes, he said, sold by the farmer for $1.00 per bushel have soared to $5.00 when sold to the consumer.

It was stated by Clynne that prospective evidence in Elgin, butter and egg board which has been under investigation previously during the past several days will be given. #### Conception of Size.

The mathematical man can see the fun and mistakes in calculating the size of things. Personally I am like most non-mathematical people in having not yards and feet and inches in the eye, but the length of a cricket pitch, the stretch of an arm, the remembrance of my earliest playground as thirty acres. But no one has ever given me an impression of bulk such as that of the late Professor Clifford--a famous mathematician and an occasional humorist. In a lightsome essay he described the giant whose favorite food was bread and butter sprinkled with light brown horses. --London Chronicle.

On his arrival in Quebec the Prince of Wales was received by a host of dignitaries. His speech in response to the welcome extended him at the Parliament buildings was made in French. In speaking of the past loyalty of the French Canadians the Prince said:

"I think that in the last half century the confederation of the Canadian provinces has demonstrated forever the sagacity of the policy by which are united the two Canadian races. We owe the success of this wise policy to your own statesmen, La Fontaine, Cartier and Laurier, no less than we owe it to the statesmen of the other provinces. I am firmly convinced that an era of long and glorious prosperity is about to open for the great nation born of the union, forever united to the other great nations of the British Empire."

Readjustment of Rates Supreme Requirement for Real Conservation

No plan for real conservation of Natural Gas can be adopted that does not first contemplate a complete readjustment of rates for domestic consumers.

This statement does not admit of successful refutation, and the truth of it is self evident when conditions confronting Natural Gas distributing companies are fully understood.

Some very interesting and startling facts were revealed a few months ago during the time the U. S. Fuel administration was issuing orders regarding classification of gas customers—giving preference to domestic users and curtailing the supply to others—when one of the prominent gas distributing companies had an analysis made of its customers' bills by months covering a period of one year. This was done primarily for the purpose of ascertaining what effect the curtailment of gas supply to certain classes of customers would have on the company's revenue.

62% of gas consumers receive service at less than cost

38% are self-sustaining and carry loss of others

4.44% only of the total number produce a profit

Figures were then secured from a number of operating companies, which when tabulated showed that operating costs varied from 54 cents to $1.00 per month per customer, and a general average of 75 cents was adopted as a basis of cost. Estimates were then computed upon a cost of 75 cents per customer per month, supplied with gas at the retail price of 35 cents per 1000 cubic feet.

It was found that out of 447,041 customers, 277,262 or 62%, received service at less than actual cost and were liabilities to the companies, and that the cost of carrying them was borne by the 38% of the remaining customers who were self-sustaining.

The National Fuel Administration, State Commissions and other regulatory bodies have held that the domestic consumer must be served first in the event of depletion of the natural gas supply. In many cases companies have been ordered to discontinue service to large customers and this order has obtained in instances for periods of several months.

Now read farther and reflect as to the effect of the discontinuance of gas by large users. The analysis of these figures on costs show that if customers, or all those using over 25,000 cubic feet of gas per month, or 4.44% of the present customers, the remaining number, 427,218, or 95.56%, would pay a gross amount only sufficient to cover the actual cost of serving them, without one cent of profit to the distributing companies, not even a fraction of one per cent interest on the millions of dollars invested in their properties.

No one of even moderate intelligence would expect natural gas distributing companies to continue service very long under conditions described above, if their only source of profitable revenue was cut off. That is why we say that a complete readjustment of rates for domestic consumers is the real issue in planning conservation. Until such a readjustment is made and the companies engaged in distributing natural gas are given sufficient revenue from sales to cover their costs, they will be forced to resort to what is a larger and more profitable consumers in order that the companies shall still continue in business.

In support of this contention, we quote from the report of the United States Bureau of Mines on Dallas, Texas, January, 1918:

"The prices for gas for domestic consumption have generally been so low as not to provide, if only domestic sales were made, even sufficient income for overhead charges and operating expenses, so that in every case recourse has been had to large sales for industrial purposes to make up the deficiency. These large sales do not appreciably increase the operating expenses, and do not require additional investment, and therefore do not increase overhead charges. Unlimited and uneconomical use, because of cheapness, is a calamity for which every individual of the community will eventually have to pay."

So a final analysis of the whole situation as regards the natural gas problem in its relation to the domestic consumer is whether the domestic consumer, to whom natural gas because of its cleanliness and convenience is of relatively more value than to any other consumer, is willing to state that value in an income for the natural gas companies sufficiently ample for all expense of production, and transportation, and a reasonable return on the investment for means of distribution, and to overcome the loss encountered in the discontinuance of sales for industrial purposes.

NOTE—The management of this company, desiring a full and free discussion of this question, invites its patrons to indicate by letter to the company their opinions on the question of falling supply and what must be done to conserve it. Incidentally for their enlightenment in considering this problem we have prepared a booklet containing information data and recommendations from the authorities on the subject, which will be pleased to send to any patron who will fill out and mail us this coupon with his name and address.

Prices.

A dollar is worth what you can get for it. A dollar now isn't worth much because you can't get much for it. It will be worth more next year and twice as much five years from now when production catches up with demand.

Profiteering, no doubt, has something to do with the present depreciated value of the dollar but it is not the chief factor.

In 1885, according to a Columbus account book dated February 21, 1885, Columbus consumers were paying 25 cents a pound for sugar, a dollar a gallon for kerosene oil, two dollars a pound for tea, and seventeen cents a pound for rice. Even in the face of present high prices a dollar now is worth about twice as much as it was then.

It was worth after the Revolutionary war, Martha Washington paid three dollars a pound for sugar, one or two dollars a pound for meat, and $25 a bushel for wheat.

The moral of all this is that prices are going down within the next five years which means that a dollar saved today will be worth at least twice as much five years from now. It is suggested that you invest every dollar you can in United States War Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. They bring 427 per cent interest. Five years from now a $5 War Stamp which can be purchased for $4.20 during September will be worth nearly ten dollars, taking into consideration interest and a certain drop in prices as production catches up with demand.

Former Bucyrus Saloonist Arrested For Bank Robbing.

Harry F. Everett, former saloonist, and now refreshment parlor proprietor at Bucyrus, was arrested Friday by the Putnam county sheriff, charged with robbing the Pandora, Ohio, bank on January 9th.

Everett was indicted at Ottawa last week by the Putnam county grand jury, charged with the place of business, "The Club" cafe, on the public square. The sheriff left immediately for Ottawa with his prisoner.

Everett is held on the charge of cracking the Pandora, Putnam county, bank on the night of January 9th, and stealing $15,000 worth of bonds, war savings stamps and moneys.

This is one of the long promised Goggin explosion fatality and the arrests and general uproar it precipitated here, nearly six weeks ago.

Everett's arrest is the result of an indictment by the Putnam county grand jury at Ottawa last week, held secret until Friday. The Pandora bank was robbed promptly after Prosecutor Meek of Bucyrus and Postoffice Inspector Beatty, who has been working on the case for several weeks, made a trip to Ottawa and laid before the grand jury a mass of evidence which had accumulated.

The Pandora bank was cracked by using dynamite, drills and crowbars to enter the vault and the safe deposit boxes, after the bank had been closed through a side window, which was forced.

Automobiles were used in the job. It was not revealed by the officers whether the dead Mahood and Goggin were on the Pandora job or not, but information is given out that automobiles were used by the veges in getting to Pandora and in escaping after the job.

American Road of Solid Granite.

Taking example from the famous Appian way, which has the name of being the first great road undertaken by the Romans as a public work, the state of Colorado, with the help of an appropriation by the United States government, is building a highway of solid granite in the Rocky mountains. No other road in the world, it is predicted, will provide travelers with so magnificent a scenic setting, close to a sheer fall of 3,000 feet on either side of the great concrete posts and cables that will safeguard vehicular traffic. One gets an idea of the road from the practical statement that it is costing $25,000 a mile to build. Like the Appian way, in which long stretches of pavement are broken every 200 or 300 feet before the Christian era, still remain practically perfect, the chair of the Colorado highway commission believes that Colorado is creating a work which will defy the centuries and stand, on completion, as the most wonderful road in the modern world.

Detroit Firm Buys Whetstone Bonds.

Whetstone Consolidated School District board of education of Crawford county received four bids Monday at noon on a $75,000 issue of bonds, for the purpose of building a new school.

There were four bidders. The bonds were awarded to the Detroit Trust Co., of Detroit, Mich., for a cent and one-half interest plus $451 premium. The only Bucyrus bidder was the Farmers & Citizens Bank & Savings Co. with bid par and accrued interest.

The board has not yet selected the site for the centralized building, several sites being talked of. It is probable that contracts will not be let, site selected, and building commenced before early spring.

Didn't Dare Know Anything.

Stranger (alighting from train at a small town and addressing the citizen he met)—Are you acquainted in this place?

Citizen—I have never discussed the matter.

Stranger—What is the name of the town?

Citizen—I have formed no opinion.

Stranger—Where is the postoffice?

Citizen—I do not read the newspapers.

Stranger—Is this the main street of this town?

Citizen—I would have to hear arguments for and against.

Stranger—Is this a healthful town?

Citizen—I would be guided solely by the evidence.

Stranger—Have you lived here long?

Citizen—I believe a man is presumed to be innocent until proved guilty.

Stranger—What is your name?

Citizen—I am not biased in any way.

Stranger—Good Lord, who are you anyway?

Citizen—I am the champion professional juror of this county. Dallas "Morning News."

Announcement.

For the convenience of my patients and others who cannot come to my office in Shelby, I will be at the Hotel Smith Plymouth, every Thursday.

Otis Balcom O. D.

An Office.

An office is a funny thing; each morning certain men, and certain girls and certain boys come into it again and hang their coats on certain pegs, their hats on certain hooks

And sit them down at certain desks in front of certain books, They all have certain work to do in just a certain time.

Concerning certain dollars for a certain fixed per diem; And then at just a certain hour, in sunshine or in rain, They close their desks and hurry out to catch a certain train.

An office is a tragic thing when that is all there is. When each one has his certain work and certain way of his and wallows in a certain rut and never seems to see That there are certain other ones in life as well as he.

For we would give a word of cheer on certain busy days, When problems, vex, when certain things require a helping hand,

Would give a certain sympathy that mortals understand.

An office is a pleasant place—at least a certain kind That has a certain brotherhood where day by day you find Some neighbor with a new idea he's glad to pass along. A certain sort of friendliness, a certain sort of song.

There is a certain duty that we owe to other men. To help them when they need a lift, to steady them again.

An office can become in time, to man and girl and boy, A certain kind of fellowship, and work a certain joy.

—Douglas Mallock.

The Future of "Pleasure in Life"

Many men who do not drink are not smokers. Many drinkers are smokers. Many smokers like to drink after they have smoked themselves into a dry state.

These things nevertheless do not foreshadow an immediate national campaign against smoking. The liquor forces have predicted this, and every few days they predict it anew. They warned us, in the old days that the extinction of saloons and grocers meant the eventual destruction of "all pleasure in life."

It is true that the same forces which brought about the prohibition could bring about the limitation or suppression of cigars and possibly of all use of tobacco as deleterious. But what were the forces which brought about prohibition? They were the voters of the United States. One would think from some lingering liquor arguments that prohibition was the work of a few, when the votes of all the dry states show that it was the signal triumph of the many.

Prohibition, as an issue at the polls, was not even carried by the votes of the "drys" alone. We had among us drys and moist and wets. We had total abstainers, men who use it for medicine, men who drink every Fourth of July, men who drink every week, men who drink every day, men who drink every meal, men who drink between meals. And it is not too much to say that a majority of every one of these classes voted for prohibition in most of our states.

Prohibition is no outsiders' law. It is no dictators' law. It is our law. It is supported by reason and science and sentiment and sense. And the danger to tobacco is not in any movement or in any organization. If there is any danger to tobacco it is in the thing itself.

Scientists are finding out more and more about tobacco and its effects. If there should come a time when all sciences will pronounce it a poison, the end of its use can be foreseen. But while some may be already convinced that it is a poison, and while thousands believe the cigaret is dangerous, it is not the organized prohibitionists who will be the menace if the use of nicotine is ever menaced. The danger will be in the aroused and educated voter, whether he is a smoker or not.

The interests who fear the eventual prohibition of tobacco have only one thing to fear: that science will collect a body of facts which will move the people as the facts concerning alcohol and the saloon moved them. And if the people vote out anything they will feel as they did when they voted out the saloon, that this will not destroy any pleasure in life, but will rather increase and multiply life's real and permanent joys.

SCHOOL OPENS SOON

Have your child's eyes examined previous to his entering school—have it done at once. Many children are handicapped in their studies by poor vision. Don't put such a handicap on your little boy or girl.

They may not complain, and you may not know their eyes are weak, but time will develop many nervous disorders as a result of neglecting this important matter. An examination by me means honest advice, backed by more than 25 years of study and experience. I examine the eye thoroughly and scientifically and furnish the glass, all for one charge—a reasonable one.

To A Five-Dollar Bill.

Crinkle, crinkle, little bill; Goodness gracious, you look ill. Are you losing all your power? You seem weaker hour by hour.

"Now that prices are so high, I'm so tired that I could die. I just circulate all day; No one dares put me away.

"When the evening board is set With the fruits of father's sweat My small voice is hushed and still. I am in the merchant's till.

"And no matter where I go, People disregard me as they go. I don't seem to count for much 'Mongst the profiteers and such."

Bill, take heart, your luck may change. I'll admit the times are strange. Though you're weak I love you still. Crinkle, crinkle, little bill.

The Four-Leaf Clover.

By Ella Higginson.

I know a place where the sun is like gold, And the cherry blooms but with snow, And underneath is the loveliest nook Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

One leaf is for hope, and one is for faith,

And one is for love, you know; And God put another one in for luck—

If you search you will find where they grow.

But you must hope, and you must have faith,

You must love, and be strong, and so,

If you work, if you wait, you will find

The place where the four-leaf clovers grow.

The ratio of one to a lifetime holds good in a good many things— one love, one heart, and one spell of hives is enough—Wilmington News.

Men's and Boys' SHOES

If the general public knew as much about the shoe market as we do, we would not have shoes enough to last a month.

We are selling almost all of our shoes cheaper than we can buy them at wholesale. We have a wonderful nice line of men's and boys' shoes, bought when shoes were from 25 to 40 per cent cheaper than they are now. We are selling them at the old prices, starting as low as, $2.75 up to $7.50.

Boys' shoes for $2.50 to $4.00. Look at our line of men's work shoes, $3.50 to $5.00.

Mr. Man if you are going to need a pair of shoes for yourself or boy buy them now. They are much cheaper than they will be later.

An Ordinance.

Determining to proceed with the construction of a Sewer for the Improvement of West Broadway Street and Wessels Alley, in the Village of Plymouth, Ohio.

Be It Ordained by the Council of the Village of Plymouth, Ohio, three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring as follows, to wit:

Section 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the construction of a sewer from a point where interests West Broadway St., in said Village, and running thence in a Northwesterly direction to an outlet at the corporation line on the Gardner Brook's land a distance of Twenty-five Hundred (2500) feet. In accordance with the resolution passed by said Council on the 8th day of August, 1919, and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Clerk of said Village.

Section 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after the completion of the proposed improvement.

Section 3. The whole cost and expense of said improvement less one-fiftieth thereof, shall be assessed upon all the abutting, adjoining, adjacent and contiguous lots and lands in proportion to the benefits which may result from the improvement, and the remainder of the entire cost and expense of said improvement not specifically assessed, to wit: One-fiftieth thereof shall be levied against and collected from all of the taxable property of said Village; that the bonds of said Village of Plymouth shall be and are hereby authorized to be issued in anticipation of the collection of the installments of said assessments hereafter to be levied, and in anticipation of the payment by said Village of said one-fiftieth of said cost and expense.

Section 4. That to provide funds to carry on the work of making said improvement and to meet the expenses under the contract hereafter to be made therefor, before said bonds are issued, and in anticipation thereof, certificates of Indebtedness of said Village are hereby authorized to be issued from time to time as the necessities of said improvement may require, and in such sums as may be necessary to pay estimates on work done and on materials furnished for said improvement, certified to by the Engineer in charge of said improvement and approved by the said Council; and the Mayor and Clerk of said Village are hereby authorized to execute said Certificates of Indebtedness as they may be needed for the purpose aforesaid and to dispose of the same at a rate of interest not to exceed (6) per cent. per annum, and that the faith and credit of said Village shall be, and hereby is, pledged to the payment of said Certificates.

Section 5. That all the lots and lands abutting, adjoining, adjacent and contiguous to said improvement and benefited thereby, shall be assessed for the payment thereof as hereinbefore set forth.

Section 6. That the Clerk of said Village be, and he is hereby, authorized to advertise for bids and proposals for the construction of said improvement according to law.

Section 7. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed Sept. 2, 1919.

A. A. SHADLE
Mayor and President of the Council of the Village of Plymouth, Ohio.

Attest: E. K. Trauger
Clerk of the Council of the Village of Plymouth, Ohio.

Approved Sept. 2, 1919.
A. A. Shadle,
Mayor of the Village of Plymouth, Ohio.

McKellogg Clothing Co. are getting stocked up with winter goods. The only way to be sure you are going to have any goods to sell is to buy them and get them on the shelves. Last week they were in Columbus and Toledo picking up what goods they could use. This week they are going to buy a few Cloth Crafts suits. They have plenty of clothing orders, but the factories can't get the cloth from the mills and if they do they can not get the clothing made. They are using every effort in their power to secure merchandise to stock their stores, but at the present time it looks as though it would take a lot of hustling.

Cider Making.

Will make cider every two weeks beginning Wednesday September 10. Location near Forest sitting.

The season at Cedar Point is nearing the end for 1919. Next the B. & O. excursion for next Sunday. Note also that it starts at Newark and is due in Plymouth at 8:37 a. m., which is later than previous excursions. This is eastern time however and you should be down at the station at 8:37 Plymouth time.

Another Advantage

Of the combination of both telephone systems locally under one head is that every subscriber gets access to the unlimited toll or long-distance lines of both the United States Independent, and the Bell Systems. Merely mention which long distance you desire when you take down your receiver and you are instantly connected.

The long-distance telephone is becoming as much of an adjunct to the social life of the community as it is of the business life. Its striking advantage over a letter or a telegram is that you get your reply instantly. The time limit of three minutes gives ample opportunity for the average message and the charges are so cheap that in these days of high prices one wonders how it can be done.

By the way, subscribers are asked to recollect that all long-distance charges are charged against the telephone number from whence comes the message. If a neighbor uses the phone, the charge is made against you. Of course the best way is for those who do not have telephones in their homes to come to our long-distance offices and get the seclusion of a booth.

The long-distance possibilities place practically the whole of the United States at the threshold of your home in Plymouth.
