

Everyone knows that Bringing Up Father is one of the best comic strips appearing in the daily press.

It is prepared daily by George McManus, who now lives in New York, and he is not only the father of Jiggs and his friend Dinty Moore, but Snookums and the Newly Weds.

He lectured in Deshler the other evening for he goes out on profit and diversion.

They say if you would take Jiggs and Mrs. Jiggs Dinty Moore and Snookums, and roll them in to one composite you would have a good likeness of Mr. McManus.

He is short, fat, smooth-faced, a smile, and looks and acts prosperous, but doesn't rub it in.

Mrs. McManus has some talent, also. Being the wife of George isn't her exclusive distinction. She has plans that will make her a part of a concert company next season, and Mr. McManus will accompany her.

Whether by design or habit, we do not know, but Mr. McManus isn't adverse to appearing just a little like Mr. Jiggs.

He wears spats, a loud vest, blue shirt, and a tie of passionate purple. He may be too wholly confined to such apparel, but he loves to appear in such raiment before his audiences.

He says that Bringing up Father is his best comic production. Anybody the people like it the best, and therefore he sells the best. It is a big revenue producer, and has made McManus rich and growing richer.

He got his idea of Jiggs and Mrs. Jiggs from a play of Billy Barry, an Irish comedian of the old school, and who was first seen by McManus in The Rising Generation when he was but a boy.

Bringing Up Father is popular in Plymouth. As much so as Mutt and Jeff, who are children of Bud Fisher's brain. The humor in Bringing Up Father is of the sort that enables you to pick out the Jiggs' and Mrs. Jiggs' in your own community.

They interest all, even the minstrel, for not long ago we heard Rev. Smith say that Bringing Up Father was his favorite comic.

Sells Farm at Big Price. E. L. Davis has sold his farm of 107 acres on the New Haven and Delphi cement road to Perry Labold, of Attica, for $18,000.

Both the buyer and seller are to be commended for this was one of the best farms in Huron county, and located in the center of God's country.

We are not advised just what Mr. Davis will do. He may buy another and a larger farm. He may move to Plymouth. We want him to have his own way, and he decides to retire and doesn't select Plymouth as a place of residence there will be a lot of complaint on the part of his friends.

Our Blunder. Editor Advertiser: I notice you changed the word which I plainly wrote "bignonia" in my last week's communication to an ordinary frequently mentioned tree as the one grows as rampant as Jack's proverbial beanstalk, literally covering old fences, walls, etc., and frequently mounting up to the roofs of houses. For this reason alone it would object to being classed with the "low-down" bignonia; hence this correction.

Respy. C. F. Root.

Sorry. In our report of the two sleds lost to Willard last week, and which was a theater given by Mr. W. W. Ellis, we omitted the names of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dick. This is our only way of making an apology, except to be a little sorry.

Great Activity in Plymouth Real Estate.

At the rate of transfer of Plymouth residence property for the past week, a radical change in ownership will have been effected soon.

It is a slow day that does not witness the change of title of three properties, and those who sell seem to think they have sold to advantage, and those who buy are pleased over the bargains secured.

Grover Bevier has sold the Cully property on Porter street to Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ritter. This property is now occupied by Joe O'Heron, and when vacated will be repaired and decorated for a permanent home for Mr. and Mrs. Ritter. It is desirable in location.

George Hurst has sold his property on Sandusky street to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bachrach. This is an exceptionally attractive home, both in convenience and location. The purchase by Mr. Bachrach means that these good people will be again permanently located in our midst. They are now temporary, as they have sold their property to Maurice Bachrach a few weeks ago.

The heirs of F. W. Kirtland have sold the Kirtland homestead on the square to Mr. and Mrs. George Hurst and Mr. and Mrs. Cross and family. The property is completely repaired and fitted for occupancy of the two families. The location is desirable and when repaired by Mr. Bachrach will make one of the attractive homes in Plymouth.

Ben Boardman has sold his property on Sandusky street to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Davis. This is at present occupied by F. M. Cross and family, since the vacated will be remodelled into a modern home. Mr. Davis, some time ago, sold his home corner of North and Sandusky street to S. Hostler, who is now having a public sale preparatory to becoming a resident of Plymouth.

Mr. Boardman has reserved the corner lot adjacent to the property sold to Mr. Davis, and it is hinted that he will soon erect a home thereon, and remove from the farm to Plymouth. They will be cordially welcomed, and we hope that they will find the building in progress.

V. V. Henry, of Columbus, has sold a property on Broadway near the public schools to Grover and Frank Bevier. These are now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Amoureux, and Mrs. W. Hutchinson. Mr. Bevier has not yet determined what he will do with these properties. They may be resold.

G. A. Artz has purchased the Marjorie Strong property on Sandusky street. The property will be given at once to Mr. and Mrs. Artz may begin repairing and remodeling. They plan to make it especially attractive.

Mrs. J. H. Wyne, of Sandusky, sold her property, corner of West High and Ches. Miss Wyne has not decided what improvements he will make on the property.

Catching Up. Last week the Spectator said that the infant mortality in Monroeville population is due to the fact that more men were employed at the piano factory, when the last census was taken. Our attention has been called to the fact that we were mistaken, as the Meister company did not take the last census was taken. Our nearly six months after the census was taken. Well, guess we will have to attribute the falling rate to the high rate and low rate of births. The Meister is going to help swell the population this year, however, as the census for the piano trade never appeared brighter. Later—Census taker Leo J. Cook has completed his work, and he is not in a hurry to make known the results, it can be stated that the "home stretch" pulled the population down, and it was not a slight increase over the last census—Monroeville Spectator.

Huron Valley Light & Power Co.

The building of the high tension line from Shelby to Plymouth, by the Huron Valley Light & Power Co., will be the most important opportunity ever presented to Plymouth to secure abundant current.

Indeed it is her opportunity to secure current cheaper than in her own plant, and if she avails herself of the opportunity she will fare so well in the matter of price that she will be able to wipe out the increase she recently was compelled to make and go back to the eight cent rate.

This advantage also accrues without the necessity of investment to construct a line, as she would have been necessary had she carried her negotiations to completion with Willard.

This is no disparagement of Willard, but it happened that Plymouth was offered current from both north and south. The north proposition necessitated the construction of a line at our own expense and which would have required a bond issue of at least $10,000.

On the south was an opportunity to secure abundant current with no investment in a line, and at a price that will be, no doubt, much cheaper than any price Willard could afford to make.

It should be understood that the Huron Valley Power & Light Co. will in no wise be deterred by Plymouth's decision, even though it is adverse. Its purpose is to get abundant current for industrial purposes, and would have built their line had there been no discussion. But since it is tapping an abundant supply at a low cost the line will at the same time become an advantage to Plymouth as to the industrial need it is intended to supply.

When the line is built it will be the part of wisdom to tap it if it offers more current than we can make it or buy it elsewhere, and give us the addition of a cent and every day and all night service.

Become More Efficient in Home Nursing

Now is your chance to take a course of training at small cost right here at home. If you are a mother, you are responsible for health and welfare of your husband and children, and should take advantage of this opportunity to gain a better knowledge of home hygiene. If you are a young lady, you have a future, and owe it to yourself to improve your mind in every way possible. Health education is a very important one, and you should avail yourself of this course of training.

We are living in an age when new conditions are continually arising, which call for individual attention. In the large cities hospitals and emergency hospitals are sending out a call for volunteer nurses, the requirement being ability, rather than experience. This course will enable you to offer your service in such extremity, and who knows when Plymouth might have an epidemic. The following, taken from the Mansfield News will give you an outline of the movement, if you are interested, call on Mrs. P. H. Root during the morning or evening during the next two weeks.

Within the next few weeks, Mrs. M. E. and Richland county women will have the opportunity of enrolling in a course of home hygiene and care of the sick.

It is the intention not only to have a class here in Mansfield at the Red Cross headquarters, but to form classes in every town or village in the county. Those who take the course of fifteen lessons will learn how to prevent colds, how to keep the family well, how to recognize the first symptoms of illness, and how to feed the baby in the best way, how to make a bed with a patient in it, how to nurse bed patients, how to take temperature, pulse, respiration and how to treat accidents and emergencies.

The following have already subscribed for membership: Mrs. Sam Bachrach, Mrs. Jno. Fleming, Mrs. Harry Knight, Mrs. Harry Dick, Mrs. Geo. Sauer, Mrs. Edna M. Smith, Dr. Walker, Mrs. Ed. Curpen.

Obituary of Mrs. D. W. Gipson.

Mrs. Dinah Wilson Gipson was born in Plymouth, O., Aug. 19, 1828, and departed this life in Plymouth, Feb. 6, 1920, aged 91 years, 6 months and 17 days. Her whole life was spent in Plymouth. When she was a child this country was young and wild. Forests could be seen from the highway, and rude log cabins were the dwellings.

She was educated in the district schools which were of a very primitive sort the terms being very short. Yet she acquired a splendid education. She was gifted with high order of mind. She possessed a fine knowledge of the English language and had a splendid practical use of it. Her ideas were well defined and clearly expressed. She had a keen sense of the beautiful and her thoughts were of high order in their form. This was true of her personal life. The artistic sense she never lost. If the tendency of old age is to grow prosaic she was an exception to the rule. Great it is for the spirit to stay young, to remain sensible and appreciative of the beautiful.

It is a little of the sombre is enough, though it is useful that we may not grow away from sympathy with the few who are left. Her eyes read much and maintained her interest in current events. She was a fine type of citizen.

The funeral of Mrs. Gipson was not given in the church record, but it is known that she united with the church never grew less and her spiritual light never waned. In all her reading, the most because they go deepest into human experience and mean most to human life. Truth was congenial to her mind and heart and never receded. She loved to drink from the pure stream that flows forth from the throne of God.

She stood in awe at the voice of the prophets; she walked and talked with the sweet Singer of Israel and prayed and sang with him; she sat at the feet of the gentle Shepherd of Galilee and partook of the bread of Life; in faith and contemplation she saw the Paul and reasoned of the atonement and resurrection; with John she stood and saw the great scroll of the Apocalypse unfold before her, and she was awe-stricken, strong herself among them—in the presence of God and the Lamb.

Mrs. D. W. Gipson was married to Mr. Hackliah Brown Gipson on August the 19th, her birthday (year not known). They lived in Plymouth together until Jan. 22.

They had a family of three daughters, one of whom passed from this world at the age of two years three years. She herself was the fourth in a family of thirteen children. She is survived by one brother and one sister, Mrs. C. B. Boller, Hannah Whitlock, Adeline Dunning, and Sarah Allen, all of Toledo; also by two daughters, Mrs. C. D. C. and Mrs. Edith Stouch, of Chardon, Neb., and by one granddaughter and two grandsons.

Eleven years her home has been with her niece Mrs. Wyandt. The funeral of Mrs. Gipson was held from the home of Mrs. Wyandt, Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock. The funeral was in charge of Mr. C. G. Miller, and the services were conducted at the church, being assisted by Rev. Phillips, of the Presbyterian church. The interment took place in Greenlawn cemetery.

Death of Rachel Jane Matthews. Rachel Jane Matthews, aged 81 years, died last Tuesday at the home of her son, W. A. Matthews, on the Willett farm south of Plymouth.

General services were conducted Saturday, Feb. 7, 1920, and burial made in Greenlawn. Mrs. Matthews was born in Monroe county, Ohio, in 1840, and was married to Benjamin Matthews who died in 1885.

She leaves seven children living, Mrs. D. W. Ellis, Mrs. Elvira Dean, of New Martinsville, W. Va., Shannon Matthews, of Woodsfield, Ohio, and Alex Matthews, of Mansfield, Ohio. Benjamin Matthews, and W. A. Matthews, of Plymouth township.

Latham To Tour State In June. Senator Thomas Latham of Huron county announces that on June 1 he will start his campaign for the republican nomination for governor by making speeches in every county seat.

His announcement says he will discuss the subject of good government, lower taxes and economy in administration of public affairs, and that his speeches will be in the interests of a soapbox and myself.

Civilization is walking a tight rope.

Civilization is walking a tight rope. Civilization is now and always has been a tight rope walker.

She will always be in danger of falling and breaking her neck, though, like the real rope walker, she seems to get across with ease and bows graciously to the applauders.

This tight rope walking by civilization is an every day stunt. It must be if she keeps in practice, and wants to give an exhibition that will win applause.

No matter how adept she may become, there is always a chance for a slip and a fall. History has recorded a few disasters, and our Twentieth Century brand may become unbalanced.

You have seen the tight rope walker unbalanced. You have noted the physical contortion necessary to right his equilibrium.

Just now methinks that Civilization is tottering some. Methinks she is going through a few physical contortions in an effort to steady herself. Here's hoping she will straighten up and show herself master of her profession.

If she falls history will record an awful crash as she is walking a rope stretched exceedingly high.

We mean by that she is more complex. She had reached the point where she was making a safe, happy and secure. She had provided health and comfort and peace and prosperity as no other civilization in our God said: "Let there be light."

If she falls it will be due to the stupor of those whom she has developed and supported. If she regains her poise it will be due to the good sense of those who can sustain themselves in a crisis.

It is up to us to avoid a panic. Keep quiet. Don't distract. Remember your guess. Give the rope walker a chance to straighten up. If she falls, the show is over. If she regains her balance, she will give us all a chance to applaud.

What's Your Guess?

Remember the Advertiser will give $5.00 cash to subscriber who makes the nearest guess to the population of Plymouth, as announced by the census bureau. If two or more guess the exact figures the money will be pro-rated. Two more guesses to be made on our guess. February 12 will be the last issue in which estimates will be recorded.

A Governor in Home-Span

Governor Jeremiah Morrow was careless of his personal appearance and a thorough believer in the statement that honest labor is honorable. In his day the executive business of the state was of so little volume that he spent very little of his time at the state capital. In fact, it was long after the date of his administration—1822 to 1826—that the governors of the state removed to the state capital for residence during their incumbency.

Governor Morrow was a farmer, down in Warren county. His farm lay on the Little Miami river and he owned also and operated a mill that was driven by the waters of that stream. Occasionally persons from abroad having business with the state, were obliged to make their way to the governor's farm for the transaction of important business matters they had in hand, and several amusing stories are told of the surprise—sometimes—chagrined—of these visitors upon finding in the person of some one taken to be a farmhand, the real governor of the state.

One such person—a bumptious sheriff with an extradition warrant, found the governor waist-deep in the water of his mill flume trying to remove an obstruction that had floated into it. From his undignified position the governor asked the sheriff to wait until he finished his work, which he did.

Another official visitor found him pitching a load of hay from a wagon into a mow, and he waited until the gubernatorial wisp of hay from the rack up into the mow-door.

But the greatest shock of all from this source fell upon a member of European royalty—a scion of the ruling house of one of the German states, who, traveling in the United States, passed through Ohio, and felt that the rules of royal etiquette would not permit him to do so without paying his respects to the governor. He found the governor in his shirt sleeves, handlike in fact, rolling logs in a clearing on his farm, into heaps to be burned. All amity, the governor faced the visitor who asked to see "his master," supposing him to be a farmhand. Promptly declaring that he recognized the governor, the German said that Governor Morrow introduced himself to the astonished German as the governor of Ohio.

Of Interest to Women.

Canada has given many prominent actresses to the American stage, among them Julia Arthur, Margaret Anglin, Viola Allen, May Irwin, Rose Stahl and Marie Dressler.

Springfield, Mass., was probably the first American city to choose a woman as city physician. In 1872, when twelve masculine candidates were contesting for the office, friends of Dr. Sarah J. Williams offered her name as the thirteenth candidate, and she proved to be the successful one.

The semi-centennial of woman suffrage in Wyoming, the first state to give to women the right to vote, is to be celebrated on December 10. The first voter is said to have been a 70-year-old woman, who voted on her way to the baker's, and went to the polls with a yeast pitcher in one hand and the ballot in the other. "Motherhood insurance," which has been in successful operation for some years in the Scandinavian countries, is about to be given its first practical trial in the United States by the American Woolen Company, whose plan will assure every prospective mother in its employ of four weeks' benefits without any cost to her.

Origin of the Dollar.

It was in 1792 that the congress of the United States authorized the establishment of a mint in Philadelphia. The Spanish dollar had been common in America for years and when Governor Morris attempted to harmonize all the moneys of the states he took the dollar as a standard. Some sample dollars were exhibited in congress. The plans of Morris were later amended by Jefferson, who proposed to strike four coins upon dollar—a gold piece of the value of $10, a dollar in silver, a tenth of a dollar in silver, and a hundredth of a dollar in copper.

While America borrowed the dollar from Spain, its origin was really German, the word "dollar" being the English form of the German "thaler". It was just four centuries ago that Count Schlick of Bohemia began to issue silver coins weighing an ounce each. These were minted at Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, and thus became known as Joachimsthaler, later shortened to thalers. In the sixteenth century, through trade with the Dutch, these coins became common in England where they were known as "dalers" or "dollars".

Income tax reports show 20,000 persons in this country with incomes of 50,000 or more and indicating the same number of millionaires on capitalized income basis of 5 per cent. The number in this class is increasing at the rate of 2,000 a year.

To Open 10,000 Acres for Homestead Entry.

Approximately 10,000 acres of reclaimed land in Wyoming will be opened to homestead entry early in March, the reclamation service announced today. Applications for entry upon irrigated farms composing a tract of about 5,000 acres in the North Platte valley project, embracing a large section of the border areas of each state, will be accepted from February 28 to March 5, it was said, while applications for entry upon another 5,000 acre tract on the Shoshone, Wyo., project, will be accepted the week following.

The 10,000 acres comprised in these two tracts constitute the largest area of reclaimed land opened to the homesteader in more than five years, officials of the service said.

It is said that of men who shave themselves not one in fifty can use the ordinary razor with either hand.

WARNING FROM THE BENCH

Supreme Court of Mississippi Takes Time to Make a Few Remarks About Grass Widow.

The opinion of the supreme court of Mississippi in a suit in which a sixty-year-old defendant was directed to pay damages for breach of promise of marriage says:

"It would, perhaps, be useless to offer suggestion or counsel to a man of the age of appellant, or to lay down any proposition that would carry caution to the mind of people of his age and class, especially when it comes from his junior in years, if not in wisdom. Yet it might be proper to remind others of his type that he who would trip the light fantastic toe with the terpsichorean maid must contribute coin to the man who extracts mystic music from the violin strings, or, in other words, that pleasure must be paid for with the coin of the realm."

"Beware of the grass widow when her eyes beam love. She hypnotizes the reason and the soul escapes the prison bars of discretion and 'you float airily on golden clouds to rosy lands of pleasure and joy.' Temporary bliss reigns supreme in the palace of love; but in the end it creates mournful memories, heartache, remorse of conscience and a burning desire to 'blot out the past.'"

MEMORIAL TO APPLE GROWER

Ohio State Horticultural Society Honors the Originator of the Rome Beauty.

To commemorate the originator of the Rome Beauty apple the Ohio State Horticultural society held its annual summer meeting at Proctorville July 23, where a memorial was dedicated to H. N. Gillett, who was instrumental in the propagation of the variety.

The original tree was derived from a freak graft. The sprout was given by Joel Gillett to his son, who set it out at a corner of a field near Proctorville, on the bank of the Ohio river, 102 years ago, and it stood there until 1860, when it was swept away by a flood.

When the tree began to bear fruit it was found to produce apples of such excellent quality that it was named Rome Beauty--Rome from the township and Beauty from its appearance.

Rome Beauty has not only retained its position as the foremost commercial apple of southern Ohio but is now grown in every state east of the Mississippi river and in some states west of the Mississippi.

FIRST AND LAST FOR HARRY.

It was the first time I was out with Harry. We went to the movies. I walked into the theater and sat down. I waited for five minutes and the first thing I saw was the usher coming toward me, who said, "Something has happened to your friend; you had better go out and see him." I went out, and Harry stood there as red as a beet, while there were other fellows laughing. I didn't know what happened until Harry started to walk away and I tagged after him. What did the big fish do but leave all his money in his other trousers? I never went out with him again.--Chicago Tribune.

NARROW ESCAPE.

"Going to take Miss Jobway out to the ball game this afternoon?"

"No. I saved myself just in time."

"I was just about to ask her when I remarked that our star pitcher 'blow up' yesterday, and she said, 'Dear me! How perfectly dreadful! Was anybody else injured?'"

--Birmingham Age-Herald.

LOOKING AHEAD SIX MONTHS.

"The stock market always anticipates, you know."

"Well, it isn't alone in that. Judging from the jumps they've taken, food, fuel and fares all seem to have anticipated Leap Year."

FALSE ALARM LOST TIME.

Farmer Hill--What did you take the bell off your cow for?

Farmer Furrow--Because every time she moved the hired man heard the bell and would knock off for dinner.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Boad Thespian--I would not be in this strike against the managers.

Leading Man--You would not be asked. This is an actors' strike.

Square-Dealing Farmers

"If ever the producers of a food crop had a chance to squeeze the market for all the traffic would bear, the opportunity came to the California Walnut Growers' Association, comprising eighty per cent. of the growers of the state, with the 1919 crop," writes Freeman Tilden in The Country Gentleman of February 7th. The crop was 50,000,000 pounds, 12,000,000 pounds above the previous year, but the market was bare of nuts and the French harvest was light and of poorer quality.

So the trade held its breath in anticipation of a staggering opening price. Then came the announcement, thirty-one and a half cents a pound, much less than was expected and less than the independents were charging. Brokers and even retailers wired their congratulations; newspapers commented on the fairness and conservatism of the association.

Within forty-eight hours orders were booked for every pound of nuts in sight.

The fact that the association has an able manager and a broad-mined board of directors caused this square dealing with the consumer. These men do not concern themselves alone with one crop; they also look to the future of their industry. The service of the association to its members is not confined to its warehouses, splendidly equipped for grading and packing the nuts; it also helps them to get big, high-quality yields.

Has a Walking Dairy.

A "walking dairy" is the innovation of Sherd Greser, a farmer and stock dealer of Waynesboro, Pa. He not only serves milk at the door fresh from the cow, but brings the cow along and draws the milk while his customers wait. He carries his milking stool, bucket and tin measures along and does the milking at the curb in front of the home of his customers.

Sherd says his customers have many advantages from his system, as the milk comes not only direct and warm from the cow, but is sure to be absolutely free of water.

The Power of Money

When William Payne, the banker at Bisonville, decreed that no farmer who did not raise cows as well as wheat could borrow money from him, the angry grain growers almost lynched him. But they had to do as he demanded--and today his county is an oasis in a blowaway desert, his depositors and borrowers are prosperous farmers, his bank is looked upon as the agricultural father of the whole countryside. Such is The Power of Money for Good. Herbert Quick, formerly a member of the Farm Loan Board, tells the story in the February 7th issue of

The position of Whip to the majority in the House of Representatives is being effectively and capably filled by Congressman James T. Begg, of Ohio, who was selected to act in that capacity during the absence of Representative Knautson.

Estimates of the departments were being materially cut in the appropriation bills which were being put through Congress with much less precision, when the democratic steering committee decided to retard progress of legislation as much as possible, and to maneuver for advantage in the coming campaign.

This filibuster was started about the time Congressman Begg took over the duties of republican whip. Mr. Begg, by being on the job constantly, has been able to keep the members of his party present and in attendance to business. The favorite way to delay the business of the House is to make long speeches, and Begg has something like one-half hour to call the House. These tactics were constantly resorted to by the democratic leaders of the committee of the whole house on the state of the union, into which the House resolves itself for the discussion of appropriation bills.

Mr. Begg through his alertness and knowledge of parliamentary law has been able to prevent a call of the committee and has saved hours of time, and greatly advanced the public business in spite of the dilatory tactics practiced by the minority steering committee.

We can't think that the Nicholas Butler boom is serious since nine out of ten persons we ask about it respond with "what Butler is that?"

If all the reports of swindling on army contracts are true and the government could not get the swindlers disbarred, paying the war debt would be easy.

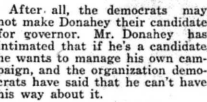

Indications are plenty that William J. Bryan has not succeeded in fully breaking the Democratic donkey to work in the shafts of the water wagon.

The report that General Pershing has taken to kissing the babies at his reception is likely to lead to the suspicion that he is a candidate after all.

An unknown writer says: "How few of us have learned to tip our hats as politely to the young lady who sews for a living or earns it by any honest means, to let one who teaches French or chews gum in several different languages. Let us give as warm a clasp to the maid or brakenman as we do the doctor. Let us recognize honesty and industry whenever found, and the time will come when there will be an army of bright, intelligent, honest young men and women at the bottom of the ladder, ready to labor at an honorable calling."

The Rhyming Optimist
By Alvin Michaels

Old Midas was a grasping chap who lived in days of old. He thought that it would be stokes if everything upon the map were turned to shining gold. And there are some like him today who love the yellow stuff. They toil and toil down to dark each day and wear their very lives away, yet never get enough. But when old Midas heard of the tale of putting on a touch, and all he put his hands upon just went to shining like the sun, he saw it was too much. He sought for a golden touch, but when what he cracked up to be his golden soup was never hot, he found gold chorns, though chewed away by the golden touch, and so with other folks who love the sight of gold; they learn life likes her little jokes. If chaps insist on getting chocks, they shiver with the cold. For some things it is well enough; but, Midas-like, they think that golden steak is rather better than they tire of putting on a bluff at drinking golden tea. But worse of all the trials they face is when they long for love, and all about their shining, that gold cannot find a single place to cheer a lonesome cove. These days it's not an easy thing to keep the wolf from the door, and golden chocks, singing and golden fellows don't make a spring, whatever misers say. Though, dwelling in a humble cot, you cannot make a splash, remember old man Midas' lot; how golden eats don't touch the spot and glistly grab your heart, you remember how and what it means, and though you're sometimes cold for lack of jits within your jeans, don't turn your back on yellow greens and pine away for gold.

Clarence B. Donahay

After all the democrats may not make Donahay their candidate for governor. Mr. Donahay has intimated that if he's a candidate, he wants to manage his own campaign, and the organization democrats have said that he can't have his way about it.

Now Donahay says that if he runs he'll have to be drafted. In other words he's not seeking the nomination, but leaves the impression that he'll step in if called.

Mayor Davis of Cleveland is not so particular. He has stepped in without being called, and hopes that the big city vote will put him over the top. After Davis comes McCullough of Canton, who plans to be out of congress for a week that he may appear before Republican gatherings and impress his candidacy. These two Republicans, Davis and McCullough, refuse to concede that the nomination is going straightway to Col. Cole of Findlay.

For a time it seemed that Cole was the organization man, and the impression was abroad that all others would be "also rans." But there are too many angles in the Ohio political map to allow the organization to be assertive.

There's Mr. Harding. He wants harmony and a solid delegation, and to pick Cole as an organization would invite opposition, and make the presidential sledding uncertain.

Now it is anyone's race, with Cole, Davis, and McCullough,—their strength being about in the order named.

Both party organizations would like to have a brick tied to the primary system and dropped into lake Erie. The primary is a terrible handicap to those who would pick up the apple pie order and send the word down the lines.

Well, we've seen mighty good men put on the ticket and win by the primary method. You can give them credit for picking winners if there were any in the running. The convention way was a sort of survival of the fittest,—or at least the survival of the best vote getter.

But the primary method will do as much if the people will vote. The one big objection to the primary is the scarcity of material to analyze. You don't know why they did not come out and vote at the election, what the vote will do on the great election day.

Over in Martins Ferry they would like to have Rudy W. Archer pick up the gubernatorial banner and carry it to victory. Archer is now state treasurer and ran ahead of his ticket a third term and made a year ago. He has been two times state treasurer and the third term he is making a noise in his bonnet.

We are not strong for third terms. It sounds too much like cheapness to the state. They can't and never will. It also sounds like "I'm the only fellow who can win" and that isn't so. There's one thing you can put in your pipe and smoke, and that is, there are always enough fellows sticking around in the state who will put their clamps on a third term and make a year of him. They like to take the starch out of the third term seaker.

That's why Donahay will lose if he tries for third as state auditor. So will Archer lose if he tries to make it three times state treasurer. Political highways are strewn with third term wrecks.

It would seem that there is underbrush growing in the pathway of Lieutenant Governor Clarence B. Brown of Adams county. They say he hasn't been regular, and they are asking James Hopley, over in Bucyrus to come out and clean up on Mr. Brown in the primaries. We imagine that Mr. Hopley has faced, in his life time, more enticing propositions. If it was the old convention way then they could put it over, but the primary is like a woman's belt; you can never tell whether it will stay hitched.

The candidacy of Gen. Leonard Wood is a source of worry to Mr. Harding. Wood followers say they only want to make a showing, but the fellow who wants to make a showing usually goes for all he's worth.

Wood headquarters are being opened in Columbus, and added to this discomfort comes the depressing news that Cincinnati wants to go to the national convention uninvited. You don't have to be very wise to know what that means.

Looks to us like William Cooper Proctor hasn't come over into the Harding camp, body, soul, and breeches. Mr. Proctor is of Ivory Soap fame. He has made it ninety-nine and forty-four one hundredths pure. Made it also to float. Maybe he thinks he can make Mr. Wood's candidacy likewise.

Over at the McKinley banquet in Norwalk, speaker Day linked Gen. Wood and Theodore Roosevelt together in a certain reference and it went strong. About as strong as anything mentioned.

It is hinted that about all the soldier boys in Ohio would like to see the fact put in a book because Mr. Wilson kept him out of war. They think he had a dirty deal, and the boys would like to help make him president.

Walter Brown has gone into the Harding headquarters and enrolled. This fact puts a crimp into the Wood movement. Brown has always been a hard and fast Roosevelt man and supposedly inflexible. This will mean that the friend of the fallen chief. But if he is to eat and sleep in the Harding camp it will leave the Rooseveltians minus their old time leader.

Anyhow, Harding will have a solid delegation. But if Wood makes a strong showing it will make other states a little slow in coming across.

Indiana says Harding is good timber. The Indianapolis Star is out in a heavy editorial supporting him. This will mean that the Muncie Star and Terre Haute Star will also throw their strength to Harding, for they are under the same ownership and management, and the strongest newspaper influence in the state.

Better lookout, also, for a vice presidential candidate from Indiana. There's Governor Goodrich, and one of the square fellows the Lord ever made. We knew him when he was in the grain business. Knew him when he entered politics starting as county infirmarian. Then he became chairman of the state central committee, then on the national committee, and then Governor of Indiana, the only office he ever held.

As an organizer he's an adept, but his real worth lies in the fact that he's every inch an honest man. Few governors are closer to the common people than Governor Goodrich, and Harding and Goodrich would make a team worth shooting for.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, would like to be and may be elected for the head of the ticket. In fact he'd like to be the head of the ticket, but the progressive element wouldn't take kindly to that.

Watson and Goodrich are from the same Indiana county,—same Indiana town in fact, and each helped the other to win their political laurels.

Watson's road has been a little rougher than Goodrich's. Watson had to slip over into another congressional district before he could get into congress, but he won easily after a two year residence. Then he wanted to be governor but failed. Then he wanted to go to the United States Senate but Harry New beat him to it. A few months after, Senator Shiveley, democrat, died, and Watson stepped into the vacancy, and now New and Watson are Indiana's pair in the senate.

Watson is eloquent and one of the best campaigners in the country. He's a finished parliamentarian and would be an effective and imposing president of the senate.

We could make the country safe for Democrats with either Harding and Goodrich, or Harding and Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Hawks Married Half a Century.

Severe illness of Porter Hawks of No. 139 State street, for the first time in half a century, prevented the celebration today of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Hawks. Mr. Hawks has been ill with influenza for the past few weeks, but is improving and members of the family plan to celebrate the anniversary in the near future.

Mr. Hawks and Miss Hattie D. Blair, of Auburn, Crawford county, O., were married on January 22, 1870, at the home of the bride. They moved to Holland, Erie county, where they began house-keeping on the farm they owned from 1870 until a few years ago. In March, 1914, Mr. Hawks retired from the farm and moved to Batavia. Since his retirement he has devoted his time to his hobby, which is gardening.

Aside from the recent illness Mr. Hawks, who will be eighty years old next fall, has never known a sick day. Mrs. Hawks is in fine health.—The Daily News, Batavia, N. Y.

Speaking of Repeat Orders.
Dr. Russell H. Conwell is sufficiently well known to make it interesting to say that he gave his famous lecture "Acres of Diamonds" before a Columbus audience Monday evening. Even more interesting is the fact that he has delivered this lecture more than 5300 times and in all parts of the United States.

It is interesting to know also that he was poor enough to work his way through Yale, and later through a University of Law. The fact he didn't practice law, but became a correspondent for the New York Tribune, then the Boston Traveler, and was then ordered to a Bangor minister.

It is rather peculiar route to the ministry, but perhaps a remarkable man required a remarkable training.

Violin and Voice Instruction.
Miss Gertrude Shafer will be pleased to receive pupils in violin and voice work at her home on Broadway.

Miss Shafer has received voice instruction from a pupil of the late Mme. Marchesi. She has studied recently with the celebrated violin teacher, Mr. Zygran of Chicago, who was a pupil of the world's most famous violin instructor of today, Leopold Auer.

Miss Shafer will be pleased to talk with anyone interested in study along these lines.

Lutheran Church.

The subject of the sermon Lord's Day morning will be, "What wilt thou that should do unto thee? If our Lord should ask us today this question, what would our answer be? What is the supreme desire of our life? Our answer to this question will determine pretty accurately what we are. In this way any man may make an inventory of his stock of character. Answer this question honestly in your mind and come out Sunday morning and we will do it over together.

Time, eleven o'clock.
Sunday school, ten o'clock.
We have a good and interesting school. Come out and join us in the splendid work.

Presbyterian Church.

The appeal that comes from our church leaders through the New Era Movement for regular church attendance, and for the training of children to go to church, should have the most earnest attention. God can not be expected to honor and bless us if we are not willing to honor him in our regard for his house and its holy services.

The object of the church is to bring joy to little children, instruction and high ideals to youth, comfort and hope to the aged; inspiration to men and women in the midst of life's salvation to all classes; to labor together for a better civilization.

The Church has a passion to serve the world; A common purpose to do justly, to love kindness, and to walk humbly before God. "Come and let us reason together." We earnestly desire the general public to come and worship with us.

Subject of the sermon next Sabbath morning: "The Fruit of the Spirit." The evening sermon will be the second on the "I Am's of Christ."
Time of services 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath school at 10 a. m.
C. B. Phillips, pastor.

PLAN ANGLO-IRISH TUNNEL

Land Connection Between the Two Countries, Though Costly, Would Be Highly Beneficial.

Although a good many might be inclined to think that England would be happier if Ireland were farther off, plans are moving to bring the two islands nearer together by the building of an Anglo-Irish tunnel. It is proposed to carry the tunnel from some point on the coast of Galloway to the nearest point in Antrim or Down on the coast of Ireland, at a cost of construction estimated somewhere between $7,000,000 and $15,000,000. The practical gains are expected to result in better transportation facilities for Irish cattle and perishable goods, especially fish, to British markets, to say nothing of the fact that such a tunnel would shorten the time between England and the United States by at least 48 hours. Thousands and thousands of years ago, say the geologists, it was easy enough to go back and forth between England and Ireland, which were then separated only by a deep valley; and the proposed tunnel, within its limits, would re-establish the old geographical connection.

Wife—While rummaging through the trunk today I came across that fancy fabric you used to wear.
Hub—Let's have it. I've got to keep a check on my stomach while these awful food prices last.

TEACH LACE MAKING.

One of the prominent figures in the domestic lace industry is planning to establish a factory in which the best lace-making methods will be taught. The instructors, it is understood, will be brought from the famous lace centers abroad. One of the difficulties in the way of the domestic lace manufacturers has been the lack of finishers. While this has been overcome to a certain extent, it has not ceased altogether to give trouble to the manufacturers who are trying to produce meritable goods in this country. According to dealers who are well acquainted with both the foreign and the domestic product the latter has made considerable progress, and with an opportunity to incorporate successful foreign methods it was said that domestic goods may easily attain leadership.

HAD ENLARGED EGO.

"So he was in the war, was he?" asked the man at the next table in the restaurant.
"He was," replied the boy in khaki.
"What did he do?"
"He was a cook in my regiment."
"I suppose he got a medal all right?"
"No, he didn't. We offered him one if he'd quit, but he was too much stuck on his job."

DOG TENT LIFE.

Flatbush—Glad to get back from the scenes of war, I guess?
Bensonhurst—Well, I'll say I am.
"Suppose you lived in a dog-tent while over there?"
"Well, yes, if you can call that living."

ALL HE CAN DO.

"Not going to take a vacation this year?"
"No. Can't afford it. The wife's going to take a little trip this year."
"That so?"
"Yes. I've decided that all I can do is to pay as she goes."

WOULDN'T TAKE A DARE.

"So you advise me to go and work on a farm?" asked the tramp at the back door.
"Advise you?" said the man of the house. "I dare you!"

Jolly - Jingles

By Dudley T. Fisher Jr.

Heel to heel and toe to toe,
Give her the bell and away we go
When the shades of night are falling
And the day is growing old
And you know your chow is waiting
And the beans are getting cold,
You grab your coat and overshoes
And hat and there you are
A-standing in the safety zone
A-waiting for a safety zone
Then you watch your boat go rolling
Ain't that a dirty stunt?
He never opened up the door
And there's lots of room in front
And you feel the bolshevik blues
A-stealing all your hope
And you wonder if they'd catch you
If you pulled the trolley rope.
In half an hour another comes
It's creeping mighty slow
But the conny opens up the door
And, zowie! in you go.
There's a suitcase in your stomach
And a hatpin in your neck
But you're standing on the platform
And you're going home, by heck.
You turn around to kill the guy
That's stepping on your feet
And find that pretty little blonde
You noticed down the street,
And like a flash your smile returns
And with a laugh you say,
'Excuse me if my number ten's
Are getting in your way.'
She can't quite reach the swinging strap,
So, lest she come to harm,
You put your sporting pace away
And take her by the arm,
And tell her how you like to stand
You've sat around all day,
And how you'd run the blooming cars
To make the business pay.
And by and by she rings thr bell
And leaves you all alone
But you've got her name and address
And the number of her phone,
And tomorrow you'll be thinking
What a lucky guy you are
When you meet her in the safety zone
A-waiting for a car.

Shrinkage in Corn.
How much do farm grains shrink when in storage? This question is frequently asked by farmers, particularly respecting corn, since the amount of shrinkage influences the weight of the bushel; this would, of course, influence the price for corn. Tests at various experiment stations show that well-matured corn has an average shrinkage of about 20 per cent, the amount ranging in an 8-year test from 6.5 to 27.7. Corn that has been stored when damp shrinks from 8 to 10 per cent more, it has been found. If corn sold at $1 a bushel in early fall well-matured corn will be worth $1.05 on December 1. By March of the following year $1.10 would be a fair price for the same bushel of corn. The increase after March 1 is gradual, reaching a value of $1.25 by June 1. In short, then, corn should be purchased at about 20 per cent less in the fall than on June 1 of the following year.

15 Million Women To Vote For President.

Twenty-eight states have now ratified the Susan B. Anthony Equal Suffrage Amendment, and twenty-three of these states are formerly Republican and five Democratic. Women already have full and Presidential suffrage in twenty-eight states, four of which are Democratic and twenty-four Republican, including Ohio. In seven states where legislatures have not yet ratified the Federal amendment, full or presidential suffrage has already been conferred upon women, so ratification is certain to follow in these states at first meeting of legislatures. Probably fifteen million women are certain to vote at the next Presidential election.

Widow Freezes at Tomb.

The frozen body of Mrs. Rose Levy, 55 years old, a widow of a wealthy real estate dealer, was found in front of a tomb in MacMondes cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., where she had knelt to pray on the anniversary of the death of both her husband and daughter. Despite a heavy snow storm, Mrs. Levy had insisted on going to the cemetery.

NEITHER BORROW NOR LEND

Both Are Habits to Be Avoided by Those Who Would Be Successful in Life.
Be careful what you borrow and to whom you lend. Precaution is necessary because on the long end or the short. The lender holds a whip with a lash which stings. But the borrower often finds it easy to evade the blows. It's fine to be noble and help men in distress. Few loans are defaulted when they are doctored. It is always a pleasure to return money which went for a good cause. To many borrowing becomes a habit, with disastrous results. A child trained to borrow is likely to steal. It becomes so accustomed to receiving something for nothing that the civility of asking becomes more.

can get along without usually pays out earnings he will later need. Sometimes he forgets to pay anything at all. We must remember it's easier to borrow than it is to repay and that loans made to strangers seldom come back. Those who loan little usually save most and those who lend promiscuously have few friends when then go "broke." We are always happier when we live within our means. But we should not be mean while we live. If a man has money to lend he should place it where it will do the most good. If he must borrow he should ask for less than he thinks he needs—Walter I. Robinson in Indianapolis Star.
"Have a good time on your vacation?"
"Great. We were at a place where they delivered ice and I didn't have to go for it."

The Real Thing.
It makes a funny cousin of yours some big man says of him: "He is the smartest man in this town!" But that is nothing by the side of having a little chap smuggle up to your side and whisper softly, "I like you! You're so good to me!"—Farm Life.

Original Ruby.
The original ruby consists of beautiful pure aluminum—1, e. oxide of aluminum—in a crystalline form, containing but 1 per cent of oxide of iron and one-half of 1 per cent of any other substance. The specific gravity of this precious stone is higher than that of many other gems, ranging from 3.5 to 4.2. Aluminum, the metal, has, when cast, a density of 2.6; when forged, of 2.67, or only one-third of that of forged steel, or one-fourth of that of silver. The melting point is about 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Tribute to the Late Ira W. Blair.

In the death of Ira W. Blair, which occurred Jan. 21, the people of Plymouth and vicinity lost an exemplary citizen.

Owing to a life-long acquaintance with him, we are led to look upon this event with much more than ordinary interest. We also wish to speak of him here for the reason that most of the people of this community have had more or less acquaintance with him. He was born and raised in Auburn township in a home that was identified with the Baptist church. He was a schoolmate of the writer in the Auburn Center District for a period of about ten years.

It may be appropriate and helpful here to speak of some experiences and recollections of those times.

On account of severe affliction early in life, he was not so strong physically as the average person. Notwithstanding this, he has withstood the trials of life remarkably well. And on account of this misfortune he always received the kind consideration of his playmates at school, and on return received from him the benefit of his good example, for, morally and intellectually he was strong, and in his general deportment he had no superiors and few equals.

We recall an incident here which will show the general trend of his disposition. On the first morning of one of our "summer terms" quite early in our lives, a few of us were gathered on the school ground discussing the probability of our teacher being "cross". She was a comparative stranger to those of us. Some said they did not think she would be, others said they did not know, finally the subject of this sketch said thoughtfully "Oh well, let's be an expression which at that time was rather beyond his years, and ours too, for that matter, for it contained more good sound logic than any of us realized at that time.

As those words have come back to mind time after time in life, we have often thought what a blessing it would be to humanity, if all our would-be law-breakers, instead of discussing whether our laws were broad and rigid enough to check them in their crimes, would only do as did this schoolmate a little more than a half century ago, and say, "Let's be good anyway."

To speak a little further of those times, there were five of us boys pretty closely associated in age, on the play ground and in our classes.

There was Lisle S. Abbott, son of Rev. James Abbott, then pastor of the Auburn Center church, who a little later moved with his parents to Bowling Green, Ohio, where he became an attorney and also served as mayor of that city for a term of years and died there when only middle aged. Also, Frank R. Marsch, who is well and favorably remembered in this community.

He also entered the law and moved to Cincinnati where he spent the remainder of his days, passing away when scarcely beyond the prime of life.

Ira W. Blair was married to Miss Mary Gilbert, and remained on the home farm for a number of years and later moved to East Norwalk and served there as postmaster for several years, and finally located in Plymouth where his life was recently brought to a close.

Of these five mentioned the two yet living, are, J. M. Hanna and the writer, both of Tiro.

If we add another comment in connection with these events, may it be this: When a boy comes from an exceptionally well ordered home such as Mr. Blair was privileged to have, a life like his is almost certain to follow. In fact, it is contrary to reason—and also to "Divine Promise" to expect anything else.

He was honest and fair in his dealings and his attitude toward all, was one of kindness and consideration.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Jennie Blair, of Davenport, Iowa. Also two sisters, Mrs. Charlett DeWitt of Greenwich, Ohio, and Mrs. Harriet Hawks, of Batavia, New York.—Tiro World.

Wm. L. Hanna.

TO AVOID THE "FLU"

First Of All, Make Sure Your Blood is Red and Rich—in Fighting Trim.

SAFETY IN VIGOROUS BLOOD

If You're Listless and Dressed Don't Delay a Minute—Get a Good Tonic

If you get the influenza, see a doctor at once—but why get it? Isn't it worth while, instead, to take every precaution now, against it?

Probably the best and first thing to do is to make sure you are in good physical condition. During an epidemic, almost wherever you go you are exposed to influenza. As long as you are really well, the red corpuscles of your blood fight off and defeat disease germs. But when you are tired and run down, when you feel all right except that you haven't much energy or enthusiasm, your blood is tired out too, and you are an easy victim.

Pento-Mangan has become famous as a builder of rich, vigorous blood. It helps you up when you are run down. It helps you avoid illness. Or, it helps you recover, if you realized your poor physical condition too late.

Physicians have been recommending Pento-Mangan for years, in cases of anemia (bloodlessness). It is reliable, effective, and has a record of over twenty-five years success. Take no chances with a run-down condition. Get Pento-Mangan today. It is good health insurance.

Pento-Mangan is sold in liquid and tablet form. There is no difference in medical value. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine with a record-over condition. Get Pento-Mangan—"Gude's". The full name should be on the package. (Adv.)

Women's Clothes Cheaper.

The cost of women's clothes may be reduced considerably because there will be considerably less of them if the predictions of a fashionable New York male milliner and dressmaker, who arrived from Paris, are correct. The latest modes, Frances is sending to the United States, he said, are: No stockings. Extremely short skirts. No sleeves. Sandals.

The automobile output in France in 1920 will reach 200,000 cars, compared with 200,000 in 1914, exclusive of commercial trucks. Even at the present rate of production and after absorption of 150,000 American army cars, the supply cannot overtake the demand.

Heel Not to Bear Weight.

The weight of the body must never be borne on the heels. In walking, the leg is thrown forward from the hip, knee acting in harmony, heel touching the ground first; but the weight should be so quickly transferred to the ball of the foot that the heel makes no noise. One who walks noisily is always walking incorrectly and of course cannot be graceful.

Ther Road Ther Growed.
By S. A. Chandler.

When settlers was scattered, an' dollars was few,
Our road warn't much, but we 'lowed it would do.

Hit jes' sorter wandered—got lost an' an' foun' it;
Hit couldn't lug much—was mud an' jes' ground.

'Twas gummud up with saplin's an' mossy ol' hogs,
An' 'breck of all kinds an' chuck holes an' bogs—

'Twould do, we called, for drawin' a load,
Where ther roin' was light, did we need a road?

One summer some strangers come trav'lin' our way,
An' 'gosh, 'what ornery things they did say.

They told us: "Yer sleepin', an' deaden' a nail;
Yer got' fuzzed, road ain't even a trail."

Of course, we got huffy, an' argued ther pint,
But hell, our havin' our nose out er jint,

Was gittin' us nowhere.
So Zebulon Hawkins an' young Billy Tait,

Their constabul feller, an' magistrate,
Called ther village together, an' young an' old,

Took off ther weasits an' dug in ther mold,
An' plowed an' apaded an' leveled an' dug.

'Til at length we'd a smooth road as ever was dug.
We sloped it a leetle, an' put in a ditch.

Hit sure is a daisy—good weather or rain.
We was hard ter convince, but this road is a totin' meet things our way!
