

FORMER PLYMOUTH LADY Writes of Jewish Contribution To Art.

The Chicago Israelite, a publication of note carries an interesting article in a recent issue from the pen of Mrs. Samuel Spitz, born in Plymouth.

Her subject was Jewish Contributions to Art, and she has written it in a delightful way, and with a conspicuous knowledge of not only art itself but of those through whom art has found a noteworthy expression.

Mrs. Spitz pays tribute to Benjamin, of the older school, Philip Veit, a painter of religious art, and to Augustus Manguis, Muhl, and Oppenheim, whose interpretations of early Jewish life have served as inspirations to later generations.

Harry Lachman, Illinois born, is given favorable mention. In Chicago Mr. Lachman's brush has won a noteworthy recognition, and even the galleries of Luxembourg have received his contributions.

We have read the article in its entirety and regret that we cannot mention all who have found favor in the review by Mrs. Spitz, but we would not diminish interest therein without reference to Philip Lazlo, who is considered New York's most fashionable portrait painter, and who she has called a patron of his skill.

We are glad to extend this humble recognition to the author, glad that Plymouth is so intimately associated.

Father and Son Meeting.

Fully one hundred and twenty-five men and boys, mostly fathers and sons, gathered at the M. E. church Wednesday evening, to hear an address by John M. Bechtel of Norwalk, on organization effort and the obligation of father to son.

A refreshment service, most palatable in flavor and generous in quantity was served with small American flags as favors.

Other speakers were Supt. Murray, Dr. J. L. Judson and O. A. White. It was a decidedly worthwhile meeting, but once a year is too infrequent for father and son to get on common ground, but they do good despite this.

Basket Ball.

The Plymouth high basketball team will give the shortest game yet seen at the K. O. K. A. team of Mansfield tomorrow (Friday) evening on the local floor.

The Mansfield team is a challenger and has been playing champions for several years. A good game is in prospect.

Some of our young-old people should renew their youth and patronize good, clean sport more. Admission 25 and 15 cents. Game at 7.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Voisard.

On Wednesday evening of last week the Mystery Club gave a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Voisard, honoring these good people before their departure to Galion where they will make their home.

The present were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Root, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ritter, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. Anna F. H. Wishes.

The company were invited to the dining room where many good things to eat and good wishes were extended by means of enjoyment. Mrs. Voisard was presented with a gift as a token of esteem.

Sugar Getting Plentiful

No longer will the housewife have any anxiety about getting sugar. It is coming in most plentiful right now. The Central Fruit company received two carloads of sugar, one being domestic cane and the other beet sugar. The beet sugar should retail at about 16 cents a pound, while the domestic is a pound—Mansfield News.

THE K. of P. BANQUET

The annual K. of P. banquet was a success from every angle. The attendance exceeded 300, and the sale of tickets approximated $360.

The hall was beautifully decorated, a huge over-head triangle in the national colors being a notable feature.

Castle hall was seated to its capacity when toastmaster J. E. Simmons rapped for order and in a timely and appropriate prelude set the affair going and invited Rev. Smith to entertain vivand.

Mr. Nimmons then set forth the object of the event, and extended in behalf of the Knights the welcome that made all at ease and glad to be a participant of Pythian hospitality.

The quartet composed of Horace Willett, Howard Donnerwirth, William Dunlap, and William Reene, with Harold Maurer at the piano and Harris Hilburn with the bells, were the next program and were repeatedly encored.

Then came Hugh Diamond, of Galion, his third appearance in Plymouth, and the response given him tokened the regard despite the fact that Plymouth audiences have grown familiar with his characteristics, the money will be rated. Two more weeks to hand us your guests. February 12 will be the last issue in which estimates will be recorded.

Then the dance was on but the great number present filled the floor of Hamilton hall adjoining, to overflowing, but it was an enjoyable feature and continued until 2 a. m. A seven piece orchestra supplied the music for the dance, and also filled in between the events on the program that preceded it.

The reputation of the lodge earned in previous annual events was fully sustained in this, and if there be any trace of regret, it comes out of their infrequency. Twice a year would be none too many.

Following Mr. Diamond came the refreshments, palatable and promptly served considering the number present.

FOUND DEAD

Joseph Pettit Smothers To Death In Epileptic Attack.

Joseph Pettit was found lifeless Sunday evening about 4:30 o'clock in his home on Bell street when his absence about the premises had aroused the concern of neighbors.

Mr. Pettit, a sufferer from epilepsy since childhood, lived alone since his mother's death a year ago. He was found lying on Saturday and Sunday led to an investigation Sunday evening by Marshall Hatch, H. B. Postle, A. J. Peterson and the City Fathers. The door of the home was forced open and Mr. Pettit was found on a couch in the kitchen lying on his face.

Mr. Postle immediately notified Coroner Bushnell at Mansfield, who arrived on the 6:17 car. Coroner Bushnell indicated that Mr. Pettit had died some time Friday night and the Coroner's verdict was that death was caused by smothering during an epileptic attack.

This had been the fear of Mr. Pettit all his life and he was a constant fear that could be given him during the rigors was to prevent him from turning on the face and smothering himself to a state of consciousness. Living alone he was his choice, however, he having resisted all attempts of his relatives to revoke him with care and attention.

Coroner Bushnell, before his departure placed the body in charge of Undertaker Poette. Mr. Postle was also custodian of personal effects until provisions could be made for an administrator. A certificate of deposit exceeding $3,000 together with notes and other important and valuable effects.

The body was prepared for burial and funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Postle. The body was interred in the Greenlawn cemetery.

The death of Mr. Olcott at the B. & O. depot, about 23 years ago, will be remembered by older residents.

Mr. Olcott leaves one son, Geo. E. Olcott, who was a former resident of Plymouth and was employed by Root Bros.

Plymouth's Happiest Man.

Ot Kinsel is Plymouth's happiest man. The weather has moderated and he's hard at work with his crew on the Frank Davis home on Sandusky street.

The frame is up, sheeted, and the roof going on. It is looking like a real house, and when the weather is just right other houses will spring up surprisingly fast.

Allen Post Property Sold.

The Allen Post property on Portner street was sold last week to Mrs. Edwin Post, of Galion. Miss Minnie Erwin Consideration $2000.

Arm Broken.

Mrs. A. E. Jones fell Monday morning while leaving the home of Mrs. D. E. Hoffman, breaking her right arm in three places above the wrist. Dr. C. S. Walker was called and the fracture was reduced. Mrs. Jones is resting well and no serious results are anticipated.

The Sin Of Omission.

The sin of omission is the one besetting transgression which a newspaper must answer with frequency.

After the bunch of good looking Camp Fire Girls had put on their best and were in the Chamber of Commerce and raised about $26 with which to defray their summer vacation expenses we allowed ourselves to go unnoticed and unheralded.

Just for that we are going to give them a basket of red apples when they get ready to go to the lake or elsewhere to camp. Furthermore they not only secured a worthwhile sum at their social but provided an entertainment that sent the crowd home loud in its praises.

Honoring A. C. Morse.

A surprise party was given at the tube works office, Shelby, on Thursday evening by sixty of the office employees in honor of A. C. Morse. The affair was entirely a surprise for him and all enjoyed the evening very much.

Morse was moved to the office for the occasion and the evening was spent socially and with music. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Humane Officer's Report.

The annual report of Huron County Humane Officer L. H. Derby, shows that during the last year 20 mothers were instructed to keep their houses in a more cleanly and sanitary way. Sixteen children were left with their mothers on condition that the children be kept neat and clean.

During the year, 420 children and 288 animals came under the observation of the department.

There's a case of child beating in Plymouth that will be referred to the Humane Officer unless the board can immediately lessen in both frequency and severity.

Luke McLuke Says

Any married man can tell you that while a woman's tongue might wear out there is no danger of it rusting out.

Some men have been stung so often that the minute you act friendly with them they wonder how much you are going to touch them for.

Why is it that a man hates to act good-natured with his own wife the way he acts good-natured with some other man's wife?

We expect that along about the first of June, when the weather gets hot, the women will get their furs out of the camphor and begin wearing them.

We doubt that flour will ever get so dear that a woman will be able to resist the temptation to waste a pound of it on her face when she is dressing.

Better enjoy the box of chocolates he brings you, every night when he is courting you, young woman. You'll be lucky if you get a pack of chewing gum once a month after you marry him.

And any married woman can tell you that wives are entitled to a lot more sympathy than widows.

A confirmed rheumatic can't understand why anybody bothers about reading the weather forecast.

If a woman is trying on a new pair of shoes and they fit her she won't buy them because she knows that they are too big.

Commenting on Ohio Politics

The Gen Wood supporters in Ohio are growing determined in their advocacy of their chief. They say they find so much interest in Senator Harding's candidacy that Ohio soil becomes a fertile field for cultivation.

At first the Wood enthusiasts proposed a rather listless cultivation. Indeed they assumed the attitude of gleaners—taking only that portion of the crop that was left in the field after the sheaves had been garnered.

Then Harding boosters went so far as to tell the Wood supporters that they couldn't have even a second choice sent in the assembly, which was the same as saying that they must stay out of the enclosure.

This put William Cooper Proctor on edge and he wanted to know who owned Ohio, and if the law of the presidential primary was to be changed from the right of expression to a ratification measure.

Now there is likely to be a complete set of Wood delegates in the field and a campaign that will make the favorite son idea look like a rag doll.

Then again, Walter Brown, the big chief on the Maumee, may not stay in the Harding camp. Walter loves the war paint, and the political situation that is being cooked up is exactly to his liking, and if he wants to take the path he will gather his Toledo braves together and tell them to go out and get the scalps.

The love of the Maumee tribe for the old Columbus clan is about the same as that which an abandoned wife entertains for her divorced husband's second mate. It is also about as easily patched up.

Word has gone out, also, that a Harding delegate must stick to the last. If he can't go into the convention hall singing, "There'll be No Parting There," the sergeant of arms will be authorized to throw him out. This makes the average man wonder how near Mr. Harding comes to being a favorite son if he has to put the hot branding iron against the flesh to say nothing of the conscience.

Senator Pomerene has stepped aside. He has taken the presidential bee out of his bonnet. It was music to Adles for a time, but rather than stir up a scrap in the Democratic hive of Ohio, he has lifted his hat to Governor Cox and thereby let the honey-maker wing his flight.

There being no other democratic contestants in Ohio, the governor can go down the ways out into the presidential waters and cruise about as the democratic winds listeth.

He will encounter other crafts, however. He will have to observe the laws of navigation, for there are other vessels afloat from other ports. There will be Senator Hitecock of Nebraska, Senator Underwood of Alabama, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, John W. Davis, now Ambassador to Great Britain, and maybe Mr. Hoover. Then there is William Jennings Bryan, a somewhat battered craft, but still able to navigate in Democratic waters. It has been to the dry dock, burished, repaired, and pronounced seaworthy.

W. G. McAdoo has gone into the movies, and is too busy with the beauties of the screen to be lured into a presidential campaign. Furthermore, there's too many things hanging to his record as Director General of railroads to make the going easy. His decision to stay out makes us think that he'd rather be right (with the movie stars) than be president.

Governor Cox certainly threw the hooks into the enactments of the 83rd Ohio General Assembly. He allowed 41 bills to become laws without his signature, all of open while a try out is made for another. A republican governor should have vetoed it.

Senator Wright of Cleveland, is a candidate for lieutenant governor. Here's a good man for the democrats to set down on. He was too much mixed up in the Delahanty bribery scandal to get out of it clean. The affair couldn't be discussed without discussing Senator Wright. He declared his innocence. So did Delahanty, but the latter went before the court later and confessed his guilt and then resigned his seat in the legislature. He's a good man to let alone.

We beg the privilege of saying that the state has too many inspectors. It takes a lot of money to pay salaries, hotel bills, and traveling expenses for a work that should be lodged with our authorities at home.

Here's a letter written to Representative Carpenter and recently made public which will give you a hint of such extravagance. The letter follows:

"I can recall an instance in one town in eastern Ohio where four inspectors were registered. One was to inspect the fire hazard, who did this work in less than an hour. Another inspected one bakery and did the work in less 30 minutes. Another inspected a building to determine whether it was safe for girls to work in. This took 20 minutes. The other, a dairy and food inspector, came to see if the ice cream manufacturer kept his room clean. One inspector could have done all this work in four hours out of eight and then had plenty of time to tell his stories in the hotel lobby."

Mahoning, Trumbull and Ashtabula counties have endorsed State Auditor Donahay for governor. It looks very much like his party was going to draft him.

At a little dinner held at the Chittenden in Columbus Saturday, a Mayor Davis Club was organized, made up of business men and designed to further the candidacy of Mayor Davis for governor.

Gov. Cox also vetoed the Hopley bill which was intended to delay the date of filing petitions for the August primaries. The measure was temporary and intended to let Senator Harding into the senatorial race in case he lost the privilege of being the party standard bearer at the Chicago convention.

The governor did right. If Mr. Harding wants to run for the presidency it is his privilege, but he must take his chances like any other citizen. It was a bad precedent to establish. We can't afford to close the gates against other aspirants, nor use the state's legislative power to suspend laws in favor of individuals. We were surprised that Mr. Harding would even contemprance such a special privilege. Neither the state nor the party has reached the extremity that we have to rush into the legislature and suspend statutory law in order to hold one office

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

Senatorial Elections and The Caucus.

The longest list of candidates in any senatorial election in Ohio was that presented to the legislature at the seventh senatorial election in December, 1854, which resulted in the selection of Joseph Kerr to succeed Thomas Worthington, one of the original two senators of the state. No less than eleven persons received ballots at that election—Joseph Kerr, Benjamin Ruggles, John W. Campbell, William W. Erwin, David Turvance, Duncan McArthur, John Bigger, Robert McConnell, Ethan Allen Brown, Ohnial Looker and Peter Hitchcock. The fourth ballot was decisive, the first indicating that it would be either Kerr or Ruggles.

There is no detailed record of the ballots in the case of the first election of the senators when the new state selected the two to which it was entitled—the journal merely stating that it was noted that Thomas Worthington and John Smith had been duly elected. Large fields of candidates continued to be thrown in senatorial elections down to the time when the caucus system of selecting party candidates was adopted, excepting only the sixth, when only Jeremiah Morrow and Calvin Pease were voted for. At the fifth and eleventh elections there were eight candidates and six at the seventeenth, with a column also for centering.

There were wars in the legislature in 1869 for the second senatorial election in January that year "Tom Tuff" got one vote, as did also "Tom Konkey"—presumably the latter of the two did not like either of the four persons placed regularly in nomination.

The caucus system was first used in the state by the Democrats in the 23rd senatorial election March, 1854. They nominated George E. Fugh. The opposing party badly split seems to have been unable to agree on a candidate. Votes were cast for Salmon P. Chase, E. B. Eckley and Robert C. Schenck. Fugh received 80 of the 109 votes cast. With the further use of the caucus system and the crystallization of political thought into two great parties, the field of candidates was sharply reduced from that time forward—third, fourth and fifth candidates being voted for only when there was for one reason or another a bolt from the caucus decision.

Ohio's First Epidemic.

It is a singular fact that epidemic followed close upon the heels of immigration into Ohio. The first permanent settlement in the state was made at Marietta in 1788, and two years later the little colony was visited by a plague of smallpox, which was a much more serious disease than it is now. Six years later vaccinations was first practiced.

During the first year of the Marietta settlement, three doctors came from New England to look the place over with a view to establishing themselves in practice there. Only one of them could bring himself to face the hardships of medical practice among the pioneers. That was Dr. Jabez True of New Hampshire.

He was a man of about 30 years of age, and had seen something of the world. He had made a number of voyages as a marine surgeon and faced the dangers of the sea under the old sail vessels in the worst conditions. He located at the settlement and into his hands fell the duty of caring for the victims of the small-pox epidemic. He did his work well, the reports agree, and the mortality was not great.

So far as Marietta was concerned, the disease was not serious, but two years later it broke out at Belore, 13 miles below Marietta. The settlement there was known as "farmers estate." All the settlers had their houses within the stockade for safety from hostile Indians. Dr. True was sent for and he realized the magnitude of his work when he saw the conditions. He located at the settlement and into his hands fell the duty of caring for the victims of the small-pox epidemic. He did his work well, the reports agree, and the mortality was not great.

He proposed that they all be inoculated, and that was agreed to. Inoculation was the method in practice before vaccination was discovered by creating an immediate danger of contracting the disease. So well was this done by Dr. True, and so well were smallpox cases set up by the process, cared for, that very few deaths occurred—none at all among those inoculated.

Her Bank Account

A good old joke is told of the woman who, when asked by the banker to indorse her husband's check so it could be cashed, wrote on the back: "I heartily indorse this check. Your loving wife, Mary." Whether that incident is true or not, it happens frequently in real life that some woman, left alone by her husband's absence or death, finds herself in woeful ignorance of how to manage her money affairs. Thoughtful farmers and other business men these days are opening bank accounts for their wives—as told in a splendid article in the next issue of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

This bank encourages such accounts for farm wives, and it is glad at any time to receive them and to give to the women the same careful instruction in the use of all its banking facilities that it gives to their husbands. Many women hardly know what to do with their butter and egg money. Deposit it with us! And incidentally, you may rapidly increase the amount by following the instructions to be found weekly in the poultry and vegetable and dairy and beekeeping and fruit pages of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. Let us send in your subscription for a year of the Great National Farm Weekly—52 big, interesting issues for only $1.00—and then watch the bank account grow!

Money and the Man.

Good Americans who read the story of the early days of the American Revolution take great satisfaction in a letter from General Washington to his brother in which he says: "Twenty thousand pounds a year would not tempt me to undertake this task, nor any consideration, were it not for my Country's need."

Washington's noble spirit took great and refused all compensation. Twenty thousand pounds a year would have made him one of the wealthiest men in America at that time.

One of the measures of the difference between George Washington and Benedict Arnold, is the position esteem in which they held money and duty. Arnold could be bought in a pocket for the sale of his Country for a pension, and a shrewd man, Washington would as soon have thought of selling an only son into slavery.

There were many other men in America in the days of the Revolution minded like Washington. Otherwise there would have been no American Revolution. There are millions of Americans today to whom money is no temptation, when public welfare is at stake.

A sample of this loyalty is found in an act attributed to Charles Evans Hughes. It is said that the liquor interests, looking for the best possible legal counsel in America, recently laid a check for a hundred and fifty thousand dollars on Mr. Hughes' desk. To this he replied, as he handed back the check: "I would not champion this cause before the courts for any sum of money you could name."

While sentiments like these prevail in our Country, America will deserve to hold a high place among the nations of the earth.

Life Saving Aloft.

Several inventors are at work on life saving devices for aircraft. Air travel is so new that little attention has been paid so far to providing some means of escape in case of accident. The first ship to be equipped was the R-34, the great dirigible which twice crossed the Atlantic. She carried parachutes conveniently placed on her "cat walk" for every passenger. The latest forms of parachutes are practically 100 per cent efficient. It has been found that one travels fifteen feet a second before the parachute opens, when the pull in the check which follows is 900 pounds. The new parachutes will have shock absorbers. In a few years air travel will probably have to carry parachutes for all on board just as steamers now carry lifeboats.

Begg's Plan For Increasing Revenue.

Congressman James T. Begg, of Ohio, and his Committee on Foreign Affairs have hit upon a plan to increase the revenues of the Government without placing an unnecessary burden on the people of the country, by increasing the cost of passports.

The present fee is one dollar for the execution of the application and one dollar for the passport, making a total of two dollars. Under the proposed plan the fee of one dollar for the execution of the application would remain the same as this phase is usually handled by the Clerks of Court in the various counties, and is not charged by the Department of State for examining the application and preparing the passport would be increased to ten dollars.

According to Congressman Begg the revenue from passports at ten dollars each would equal about 70 percent of the appropriations for the Diplomatic and Consular Service of the State Department. This would serve to relieve the Federal Treasury of a share of its ton-heavy burden.

"So far as I can see," said Representative Begg, "all increase of nine dollars would make no material difference to the person who is traveling for pleasure because he can afford it. On the other hand the man who goes on business would not be affected because it is worth it to him." He continued to explain that on the whole it would mean but little to individuals, but at the same time would bring the much needed revenue.

Since the Diplomatic and Consular appropriation bill was reported by the Committee on Foreign Affairs and passed by the House, the Senate has nixed on the suggestion and amended that bill by adding the features of the separate House bill to increase the cost of passports.

No needles to change on the Pathe.

Pathe Records are the only records guaranteed to play 1000 times for they are played with a jeweled ball which does not scratch nor destroy the records as do needles.

Pathe records are so popular that though the capacity of the $3,000,000 record plant has recently been doubled, the orders of dealers cannot be kept filled.

A large shipment of records will soon arrive at our store. Come in and hear them played on the machine that is sold and is popular in more nations than any other phonograph on earth.

Mr. Hoover's Frank Statement

Mr. Hoover has issued the following statement:

In order to answer a large number of questions, I must emphasize that I have taken a day off from the industrial conference in Washington to come to New York solely to attend to pressing matters in connection with the children's relief. I want to say again: I have not sought and am not seeking the Presidency. I am not a candidate; I have no organization. No one is authorized to speak for me politically.

As an American citizen by birth and of long ancestry, I am naturally deeply interested in the present critical situation. My sincere and only political desire is that one or both of the great political parties will approach the vital issues, which have grown out of the War and are new, with a clear purpose looking to the welfare of our people and that candidates capable of carrying out this work should be nominated.

If the treaty goes over to the Presidential election (with any reservations necessary to clarify the world's mind that there can be no retrogression in the safeguards provided by our Constitution and our nation-old traditions) then I must vote for the party that I believe for the least. With it there is hope, not only of the prevention of war, but also that we can safely economize in military policies. There is hope for a new era of confidence and the economic reconstruction of the world. I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups, and I cannot vote with a constitutional guarantee for free speech or free representation, who hope to re-establish control of the government for profit and privilege.

Mrs. Alice Bliss Died of Injuries.

Mrs. Alice Bliss, who was struck by a street car at Harrisburg, Pa., Sunday, died Monday night, Feb. 16, from her injuries. Her body was brought to Bowling Green, Ohio, for burial. The services were conducted by the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Bliss was a member.

Mrs. Bliss was born at Otsego, West coast, May 3, 1858, being in her 72nd year at the time of her death. She was married November 21, 1885, to George Bliss of Pontonago. After living out of this county for a number of years, they came to Bowling Green, O., several years ago where Mr. Bliss owned a large circle of friends in the Pure Ice Co. Mr. Bliss died about eight years ago and his body is resting in the mausoleum.

Mrs. Bliss was a kindly, Christian woman and possessed splendid poise of character. She was very firm in her friendships and leaves a large circle of friends in this city who will mourn her death.

Mrs. Bliss was the widow of Mr. George Bliss, who for years was resident of Plymouth, and a brother of Ethen Bliss and Julia Bliss Palmer. The old Bliss home is near the R. & O. depot. Mrs. Bliss was visiting her son in Harrisburg, when the accident occurred. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. E. P. F. Williams, and two sons, Clayton and Burnett.

I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who hope for any form of socialism whether it be nationalization of industry or other destruction of individual initiative. Both these extremes, camouflage or open, are active enough in the country today. Neither of the dominations would enable those constructive projects, camouflage or open, grew out of the War, nor would they secure the good will to production in our farmers and workers - and that is the initiative of our business men. The issues look forward, not backward.

I do not believe in more than two great parties. Otherwise, combinations of groups could, as in Europe, create a danger of minority rule. I do believe in party organization, not party machinery, and to carry great issues and consistent policies. Nor can any one man dictate the issues of great parties. It appears to me that the hope of a great majority of our citizens in confronting this new period in American life is that the great parties will take positive stands on the many issues that confront us, and will select men whose character and associations will guarantee their pledge to the people. I am being urged by people in both parties to declare my allegiance to either one or the other. Those who know me, know that I am able to make up my mind when a subject is clearly defined. Consequently, until it more definitely appears that the party managers stand for, I must exercise a prerogative of American citizenship and decline to pledge my vote blindfold.

I am not unappreciative of the many kind things that my friends have advanced on my behalf. Yet, I hope they will realize my uncertainty in not tying myself to undefined partisanship.

Interchurch World Movement
Natural Growth of Tendency to Eliminate Waste.

AVOIDS USELESS COMPETITION

Religious Financing Revolutionized
by Success of Men and Millions
Movement and Co-operation in Result.

The Interchurch World Movement of North America is an attempt by forward-looking leaders of the various evangelical denominations of the United States and Canada to coordinate the resources in men, money and material of Protestant America.

Historically it is the logical outgrowth of a tendency toward national boards in each denomination to form working alliances among themselves, in which each board shall preserve its identity and control its own personnel and treasury.

In former times, the home mission society, the foreign mission society, the church extension society and the various philanthropic and eleemosynary agencies of any denomination conducted their affairs independently of one another. Each surveyed its own territory, prepared a budget of money and workers for its own purposes and made its own appeal to its constituency for support.

This was only natural that these agencies were more or less in competition with one another; that there were waste and duplication of work; that some work was neglected and some denominational resources were entirely overlooked. Because of their specializing, each denomination or agency regarded themselves as peculiarly fitted for their tasks, and jealously regarded attempts at outside interference.

Decide on Experiment.
After decades of such haphazard methods, the leaders of one denomination decided on an experiment. They thought it would be better for the agencies to get together for a common study of all the opportunities and resources of their brotherhood, to make a unified budget of money, and to conduct a concerted appeal for funds. It was made clear that each constituent board should retain its own identity.

When the board representatives met they found it possible to eliminate a great amount of organizations—enormous they might be called—under a budget and plan of campaign that was satisfactory to all. This resulted in the famous "Men and Millions Movement" which has since been considered the staggering sum of $2,000,000 for a five-year period. The members of the commission were so pleased with this business-like method of conducting affairs that they contributed even more generously than had been expected.

As a result of the enterprise revolutionized the whole business of church financing. The other great denominations immediately adopted the plan. The interdenominational movements have come to be known as "forward movements," and some thirty of them are in existence today. Each one has clearly defined its relation to enterprise within the denomination, and has reduced the business of collecting and spending money to a science.

World-Budget Formed.
The Interchurch World Movement is simply a plan to do interdenominational work that the various denominations have done within their own boundaries. It means that every denominational budget will be made in the light of the interdenominational situation. It means that contributions to one denomination will not be in wasteful competition with contributions to another.

The functions of the Interchurch World Movement are threefold. First, it collects by means of world surveys all the pertinent facts on which the denominational programs may be built. Second, it sets up the practical machinery of co-operation. Third, it acts as an advisory capacity whenever its advice is requested.

The Movement has nothing to do with organic church union or matters of creed or doctrine. Its sole intent preserves complete autonomy and is bound only so far as it wishes to be bound. Financial appraisals are made by each denomination to its own constituency. Any surplus in undistributed funds, over and above the actual cost of administration, will be pro-rated among the denominations engaged in a given financial undertaking.

An illustration of one thing the Movement can do is to be found in a recent communication received from a church in which thirteen denominations were supporting separate churches with missionary funds, while an adjacent city had no churches at all. Only three churches. By seeing that all missionary boards are supplied with information in such cases, the church falls to transfer its membership to another congregation in its new neighborhood.

The church better, like the family, is left to itself. If the church has

DR. JOHN R. MOTT.

Chairman Executive Committee Interchurch World Movement.

This is the moment of moments for us to find our unity, our spiritual solidarity, without sacrificing our diversity and that which is most distinctive of each of our communions and which, by the way, is the choicest possession we have.

The reason why we of each denomination most value that which is distinctive to us is not simply because it is ours, but because we honestly believe it is the truth. It is our choicest possession. Without sacrificing our distinctiveness we want to realize our unity and solidarity as we gather round the figure of our Lord with open minds, responsive hearts and, I would say, hair-trigger wills—by that I mean wills that are eager to leap into action when we see a clear path.

LATIN AMERICA LOOKS TO U. S. AS LEADER

Expert of Interchurch World Movement Says Old Prejudice Is Vanishing.

By SAMUEL GUY INMAN.
Of the Interchurch World Movement.
We must give to Latin America some of the finest of our civilization. Once there was a prejudice against the United States in South America. Now South Americans are looking to America to save the world.

The program of the Interchurch World Movement is to strengthen the friendly relations between equals. There is no condescension on our part, for Latin Americans have an older civilization than ours and an intelligence equal to any in the world. They simply have fallen away from modern thought. Latin America is a forward looking land. The most remarkable development of the twentieth century undoubtedly will take place there.

The war has made remarkable changes in our relation to South America. Before we had not a single South American in our churches and hospitals and social centers. This program meets with the approval of Latin American leaders. It is based on friendly relations between equals.

City Folks Becoming Wanderers Due to Increasing Cost of Homes

More Than 54 Per Cent of Nation's Population Are Paying Rent, Interchurch Survey Shows—New York City Leads Country, With 97 in Every 100 in Manhattan Giving Monthly Rent to Landlord.

The housing problem in many American cities brings with it a church problem. The high percentage of rented homes—81 per cent of a residence in New York, for example, and 97 per cent in the borough of Manhattan—means many migrant families. And investigations of the Interchurch World Movement show that too often the family is moving out of the territory in which the church is located. The church falls to transfer its membership to another congregation in its new neighborhood. The church better, like the family, is left to itself. If the church has

MINISTERS COST LESS THAN PASTORS

World Survey Figures Reveal How Badly United States Is Paying Its Pastors.

MANY LIVING ON $600 A YEAR

One of the Aims of Present Protestant Co-operation is to End Diagonal of Underpaid Preachers—Plans Also to Be Provided.

What are the chances of a young man who intends to be a lawyer of making $3,000 a year? What are the doctor's chances? What of the minister or the manufacturer?

The lawyer has exactly one chance in five. The doctor's chances are one in seven. It is ten to one against the manufacturer. The modern minister, however, who formerly ranked with the doctor and lawyer as a member of the "learned professions," has fallen hopelessly behind. He is a 190 to 1 shot.

These figures are part of a mass of astonishing facts brought to light by the world survey being made by the Interchurch World Movement and whose sources of information are such that many economists and statisticians are availing themselves of the results. This survey puts America's minister at the bottom of the ladder of the nation's income receivers—and with responsibilities which equal those of any other class of industry.

A worker in a silk mill, a laborer in a rubber plant, a paper maker, a worker in a shoe factory—all are getting higher average wages than the minister at the bottom of the ladder of the nation's income receivers—and with responsibilities which equal those of any other class of industry.

Cotton Pickers Better Off.
Are you a Congregationalist in 278 churches the yearly pay of your ministers has been less than $1,000. Are you a Presbyterian? You are then on the less than $1,000 list with 6,415 ministers. In no instance what you are a Methodist the charge is that 4,719 pastors are trying to exist on the $20 a week that you pay them. Episcopalians do a little better; the half of their pastors receive less than the $1,500 a year which government economists regard as the minimum on which a family can be decently maintained.

The initial cost of the cheapest "silver" on the market is less than $600, but a very good, conscientious pastor, it is shown can be hired for a year for that sum. Ministers in the South are preaching to fifty or more cotton pickers who individually are paid more for picking cotton than their entire neighborhood pays to the preacher in a year.

One of the aims of the present co-operation of the world's Protestant denominations is to end this distance of the underpaid minister. With universities, business houses and municipalities daily taking action to provide for the comfort of their workers, we are to arrange not only for adequate pay for its workers, but to provide pensions for those no longer able to work.

It is to move the public to prevent unfavorable comparison of pastors and puddlers. Until then, as for a puddler cutting his teeth on the plow, drawing an "ordinary" salary—never! The lowest salary paid to pastors is lower than any wages paid in the entire steel industry.

Little Maid in the "Moon Door" Symbol of the New Hope of China

Giling College, at Nanking, is Girls' School for Five Provinces With Population of 110,000,000—Interchurch World Movement to Aid Institution.

The way to all things at Giling lies through the moon door. And through the moon door on the way to wisdom pass and repass, every day, the 70 Chinese maidens of the "gun-gwens" and the manufacturer?

The moon door at Giling is round as the full moon whence it has its name. And the Chinese maiden, as she steps over its high sill, may spread wide her arms and still not touch its rim with the tips of her fingers.

Some times across the court yard is another moon door, and beyond it, like a smaller concentric circle, still another, leading on through that Chinese puzzle of a house, the "gun-gwens" to the official residence at Nanking, China, which is now the home of Giling College for Chinese girls—one of the three women's colleges in China.

The moon door is but a single feature of the old place. Once inside the high stone walls that enclose it one is lost in a maze of courts and galleries and covered passages and isolated rooms.

The whole is China, old China and new. The moon doors and the architecture at a whole lend the dignity and the greatness of old China. But the laboratories and dormitories, the bookshelves and studies made from the old rooms of state and ceremony are modern, just as the spirit of the Chinese girls who use them is modern; just as the force of America is behind it all, represented by the five American missionary organizations and the American Smith College which maintain Giling, is modern.

Washington's Birthday Is Day For Conservation to Service

The birthday of the Father of His Country, falling this year on Sunday, will be observed in thousands of American churches as a day of consecration to the cause of religion and philanthropy.

The day will mark the culmination of the Interchurch World Movement's four-week educational campaign in "stewardship"—the doctrine that God is the owner of all things and that the man to whom any possession is entrusted is but a steward accountable to God for the proper administration of His trust.

The campaign to establish this principle of stewardship more firmly among the public has the support of the scores of Protestant denominations which cooperate in the Interchurch World Movement. These denominations have more than 3,900 local churches in Ohio. Sermons preached on this important subject during February will emphasize stewardship.

Representatives of the participating denominations met at a meeting in New York, designated February 22 as "National Stewardship Acknowledgment Day." On the birthday of the man who placed his life and his personal fortunes at the disposal of his country, many pastors in Ohio and other states will lay before their congregations the obligation to render to God an accounting of their possessions—to help forward by financial contributions the great evangelistic, educational, hospital and other enterprises which are co-operating in the Interchurch World Movement. More than 1,000,000 people are expected to carry out this great joint program.

The country celebrating on Washington's birthday began Feb. 1, the first Sunday of the month was designated "Young People's Day," the second "Intercession Day," the third "Laymen's Day," with "Stewardship Acknowledgment Day" closing the series. Enrollment by church stewards has been suggested to follow the educational campaign.

PASTORS AT COLUMBUS

Ohio's First Interdenominational Conference Scheduled For Feb. 18-19.

EXPECT 2,000 WILL ATTEND

Official Heads of Various Protestant Denominations Have Indicated Conference Plans—Meetings to Occur in Other States.

Ohio's first interdenominational conference of pastors is scheduled to be held in Columbus, February 18, 19 and 20. The gathering will be attended by the Interchurch World Movement, in which a score of denominations are co-operating.

In the church movement program will be considered at the conference. Speakers, whose names have not yet been announced, will consist of a team of leaders of wisdom in assembling several of the speakers of national note, sent out from the Interchurch World Movement's "bureau" in New York.

Thirty-five hundred announcements of the conference were sent out from Ohio headquarters of the Interchurch movement. Replies received include those of more than 3,000 well-attended. The purpose of the conference, as announced from Interchurch state headquarters, are:

1. To review and consider the report of the worldwide survey presented at the World Survey Conference of the Interchurch World Movement.
2. To determine the program of the Interchurch World Movement in Ohio particularly as it relates to the several aspects of this church and its community.
3. To prepare for county and township Interchurch conferences to be held later.
4. To pray and counsel together concerning the tasks imposed upon pastors by the Interchurch program.

A conference of pastors, similar to that planned for Ohio, will be held in every state of the Union in February or March. The meetings in Ohio, Kansas, Missouri, Utah and Texas having theirs on the same dates. The conferences are arranged so as to permit several of the speakers to travel on regular schedules from one to another.

Official heads of various Protestant denominations in Ohio have indicated the conference plans, and are backing up the Interchurch announcement with letters of their own mailed to the pastors of their denomination. Franklin county commissioners have given the use of Memorial Hall free of charge for the three days' meeting.

The joint budget committee by representatives of the participating churches at the Atlantic City conference will be laid before the ministers at this meeting. The formation of a budget followed a worldwide survey of church needs for the next five years.

SEEING ARIGHT IN SALEM

A SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT

Salem, Ohio, News, Jan. 21, 1920.—

City Council is to be most highly commended for its move last evening toward an early and business-like settlement of the natural gas question in this city. Whatever confusion there may have existed in connection with this matter when it first came up last year, time and events have so clarified the atmosphere regarding it that it is a question of supply and not one of rats. When it first came before the attention of the people of this city there was a difference of opinion on this point, but in the light of later developments this difference can not exist in the minds of those who have taken the trouble to give careful and unbiased study to the case. In view of these facts City Council has done a most sensible thing in taking steps to bring this controversy back from Columbus, where it would have stayed indefinitely, to the great hurt of the interests of Salem, and to secure a prompt and wise settlement of it here on such terms as will care for the interests of the public, of the industries of this city, and of the Gas Company.

The men who went before Council last

Salem, Ohio, News, February 4, 1920.—

A GROWING SATISFACTION

Further and more careful study of the local gas rate situation is daily bringing to the people of this city a greater conviction that in passing the Daily ordinance the City Council took the wisest course open to it. Salem can not afford any longer to daily evening spoke for the people of Salem and in the best interests of the city. They represented the whole people, the workman in his home and in his shop interests, the business man, the merchant, the manufacturer, the domestic consumer. The matter of most vital interest to the people of Salem is that a supply of natural gas be maintained here just as long as it is possible to get gas at all. It would be one of the greatest calamities if Salem were to be compelled to give up its gas service for either industrial or domestic use. City Council, therefore, has done a most wise thing in moving toward such an early adjustment of the whole matter as will make possible a prompt and vigorous development of the field from which gas may if at all be secured for the use of this city. In his interview today D. B. McCune, the district agent of the Gas Company, shows that the Company is ready to do its full part in such development if funds can be had, as they can by the adoption of the rates proposed in the pending ordinance.

with this question. To hold it up beyond the thirty days now elapsing after the passage of the ordinance is seen by practically everybody now to be a great mistake, and the likelihood of any such attempt being made is daily growing less.

The rates adopted by Salem are the same as those asked this community.

THE LOGAN NATURAL GAS AND FUEL COMPANY

It Costs Less—At First

To bury in a wooden box, a slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workman cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. That's why every modern undertaker is glad to use the Norwalk—he can guarantee his work.

A Man to Rely On.

With a keen eye on dramatics, the ambitious candidate for the job of member of parliament faced his audience. "Like you, my friends," he said, "I am a heavy-handed son of toil, and here are the tools I used." As he waved a trowel and a hammer in the air, he went on: "Two years ago I was a working bricklayer. And although prosperity has smiled on me, I still treasure the implements which brought me my bread-and-butter."

Wild cheers greeted his statement, and the tools were handed around for inspection. The candidate thought to make his point more telling with the explanation: "Brother workmen, can I rely on your support?" "You can that!" exclaimed a man who was examining the tools, with an air of awe. "A chap got can by bricks with a gardener's trowel must be extra clever!" London Answer.

A Queen's Telephone.

The queen of Spain possesses what is claimed to be the most remarkable telephone in the world. It is of solid silver with a gold transmitter and is supported by four bronze figures, among which a boy leaning against a Spanish coat of arms is converting by telephone—a golden wire—with an English girl in close proximity to a British lion. This work of art stands on her majesty's writing table and connects with the royal nursery only.—Exchange.

INFLUENZA AND WEAK BLOOD

Run Down and Listless Condition May Make You a Target For the "Flu"

BECAUSE BLOOD IS PROBABLY THIN

At This Time of Danger, Take PEPTO-MANGAN—It Builds Rich, Red Blood

No matter how well you usually are, if temporarily you're run down, you're a target for influenza.

Contagion always gets listless people first. Whether they realize it or not, their blood is thin and undernourished—in no condition to fight off the germs it meets everywhere.

It is a wise precaution to take a good tonic at this time of danger—some well-known builder of red, vigorous blood, like Pepto-Mangan.

And if you did not think of this in time—if you are now recovering from a fight with influenza—your blood will need help for weeks after you think the danger is past.

Take no unnecessary chances. Get Pepto-Mangan and start taking it today. Pepto-Mangan is an effective blood builder that has had the endorsement of physicians for years.

Pepto-Mangan is sold by druggists in either liquid or tablet form, just as preferred. There is no difference in medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for Gude's Pepto-Mangan and be sure the name is on the package. (Adv.)

Leap Year, 1920

(Montreal Witness.)

This is "Leap year" because its month of February contains twenty-nine days instead of the usual twenty-eight.

The year 1920 will begin on Thursday; but its February will both begin and end on Sunday, making five Sundays in this short month. This has not been known since 1872, and will not be repeated till 1948.

The last leap year was 1916, and it began on a Saturday. A leap year beginning on Saturday occurs only seven times in two hundred years. The previous one was the "centennial year" 1876, and 1914 will be the next.

Regularly 1901 would have been such a year, twenty-eight years after the centennial, but 1900, being a century year, its number not evenly divisible by 400, was not a leap year; hence the schedule was all disarranged, and a postponement effected till 1916.

You already begin to make out the rule, which is this: "Leap years exactly repeat each other once in twenty-eight years, unless a century year, not divisible by 400, intervenes, in which case the interval is forty years." The next century year, 2000, is divisible by 400, as 1900 was not. Indeed intervals of twenty-eight years bring us exactly to that year, so that the Calendar for 1916 was precisely the calendar for the millennial year, 2000.

Snow in Jerusalem.

As a matter of both news and interest, it is worth while saying that railway and telegraphic communication with Jerusalem has been restored after a week's interruption due to unprecedented storms. The Holy City was buried under 39 inches of snow causing great distress and hunger.

Our preconceived notions of the Holy Land, drawn largely from our boyhood Sunday school experiences, were that, the Holy Land was hot, dry and dusty, and that snow falls, a la Michigan, were unknown.

Kind Words from a Red Head

The other afternoon a short red-headed fellow came into the store and said,

I looked him over a second. "Nope," I said, "don't believe I do."

"Well," he said "about two years ago I dropped in here just as you were closing up and bought a suit for $22.50. A week or so later I fished what I thought was a dollar bill out of the pocket. Looking at it, I found it was a Clothcraft Guarantee.

"You know I kept that thing until a couple of days ago. Then I threw it away. I figured that any suit that lasted me that long, didn't need a guarantee."
