MARKET GROUPS MAKING GAINS

More Than Three Million Farmers Join Forces to Sell Products, Statistics Show.

More farmers than ever before, are now participating in cooperative marketing activities of one form or another, it has been revealed by a survey carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture. The survey showed an estimated membership of three million farmers, in various types of cooperative marketing associations.

Grain marketing organizations had by far the greatest number of members, approximately 900,000. Associations marketing dairy products had membership of about 600,000 producers. Livestock marketing organizations included 450,000 persons; associations marketing fruit and vegetables had 215,000, and cotton marketing association, 110,000.

Approximately 70 per cent of the total membership of these organizations is in the 12 north central states. This is an increase for this region from 63 per cent in 1925 and 55 per cent in 1915. Less than 12 per cent of the membership is now in the southern states, which had 30 per cent in 1925 and 14 per cent in 1915.

Some of the participants in these marketing activities are members of the associations, some are shareholders, some are under contract to market cooperatively, and others are shippers, consignors or processors, using the facilities of the organizations.

LOCAL FISHERMEN OUT FOR RECORD HAUL—AND BIG STORY

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McPadden, C. M. Offord and Clem Wehner are in MACON, Minn. (named after McPadden) where they are supposed to be enjoying a fishing trip.

Before leaving Plymouth the boys borrowed all the heavy tackle they could, and even had the nerve to ask Dr. Gaskill for the loan of his famous fish hook. It will be remembered that Dr. Gaskill caught the biggest fish in the state so far this season. And he had to disappoint Lofland for Mr. (Doc) is planning on using his hook again in Michigan waters.

McPadden said before leaving that they were well prepared to land the big ones and that they would "bring home the fish." It is understood that a Baltimore and Ohio express car has already been chartered to bring the fishy tribe to Plymouth where the famous fishermen will put their catch on display.

Opera House to Open

The formal opening of the Shelby Opera House will be held Saturday night when Messrs. Allwein and Shreffler will present to their patrons one of the most elaborate programs they have ever enjoyed. The Opera House for the past few weeks has undergone a thorough cleaning and redecoration of all the walls and fixtures has transformed it into a cozy picture palace.

The audience will be pleasantly surprised at the opening show Saturday night for they will hear the soft sweet strains of a great pipe organ played by an artist. . . and then the scenes change where snappy music is needed, and you have it by one of the famous comedians. . . . The program will go on through the entire picture, the music will be in accord with the scenes, and though the music is not heard, the orchestra or organ is in some hidden balcony. During an interval each week the management requested that the "Clock Shop" be played, and as we stood in the auditorium we could hear the clock tick, the chiming peal forth their melodies, and what a revelation it was to listen to this composition. Certainly the management has solved the problem of music for the patrons of the Shelby Opera House and we are certain that the public will be very grateful to Messrs. Shreffler and Allwein for their efforts in presenting to the picture lovers of this vicinity the most complete and varied program of pictures with popular music at low prices.

Beginning this week the newest pictures made will be shown at the Opera House, and in many instances they will be pictures that have not been shown at any nearby theatre.

ANOTHER $200 BILL

Coming from "way down south" where the heroes are noted for their suspicions of all two dollar bills, we naturally acquired the fear of this little piece of paper too, except on certain occasions, and that is when we get a letter from Mrs. M. M. Hough out in Seattle, Wash., who sends in her subscription each year as regular as the clock ticks.

Mrs. Hough has been away from Plymouth for thirty-five years, and last Thursday she celebrated her 57th birthday. She is still able to attend church services and her health is reasonably good when her age is considered.

Speaking of her political viewpoint, Mrs. Hough states that she is for Hoover and hopes that all her old friends in Plymouth will vote for him on Nov. 6th.

AUTO WRECKED

NORWALK—Grant Robinson, of Persp., this county, when his car was wrecked in a collision at Green Springs, on Sunday, was so wedged in the broken pot, that it was necessary for a dozen men to work several minutes to free him. His right arm was caught.

With Robinson were his wife, daughter and an infant. A car driven by a Forstoria man, struck Robinson's machine. It is stated that the Huronco, man was one of the four mail carriers, happened to witness the wreck. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and their daughter were taken to Republic, where they received first aid treatment before proceeding to their home.

Crawford to Have Big Fair

The secretary of the Crawford County Fair says that the fair this year will be one of the best exhibits of farm products and merchants goods that has ever been presented in this county. He also says that many tents will be erected to house the exhibits that could not be provided with inside space.

The Military and Fireworks Spectacle on Wednesday and Thursday evenings will be a fine presentation and the music will be furnished by Sapiro's band.

The secretary also wishes to announce the public wedding for Thursday evening at 7:30. No invitations will be sent but you are welcome.

A good racing program is also announced for each afternoon.

DECORATION OF INTERIOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH COMPLETED

The interior of the local Presbyterian Church has been completed and all the expenses incurred have been paid in full. The first service to be held last Sunday morning to a large and appreciative audience.

The color effect of the art-steel ceiling, the Italian-Plastic walls and the semi-inverted lighting system harmonize very well with the whole. The position of the light and shade relief work on the walls, bring out subdued surfaces, or hide them in the light shadows. Now inviting the eye to this side and now to that side, producing a very restful effect to the eye.

Local Woman Injured

Mrs. Walter Robison is recovering from shock and injuries received last Wednesday night as a result of an auto accident in Mansfield. Carol Robinson, with his brother Walter and wife, were just entering Park Ave. West from Bowman street when just as their car had passed over the car tracks their machine was struck by H. M. Gibson, who claims that he did not see the machine until it was too late. The Robison Studebaker was badly damaged and Mrs. Robison who was riding in the rear seat, was given a severe shock and received painful injuries and cuts. She was immediately given medical attention and later brought to her home here.

ENTERS SEMINARY

Homer Lindsey, former Willard teacher, left last Wednesday for Springfield where he entered for a three-year seminary course in Wittenberg. Mr. Lindsey is a young man of high character and influence and his many friends are pleased to know that he will study for the ministry.

REUBEN DEISLER KILLED BY TRAIN

Wife and Daughter Escape Death in Tragic Accident Near Tiffin a Sunday Afternoon.

Plymouth was given somewhat of a shock last Saturday afternoon when word was received here of the tragic death of Reuben Deisler which occurred at a Pennsylvania railroad crossing near Bloomville. Details of the accident appeared as follows in Saturday's issue of the Tiffin Advertiser:

"Dead Man" crossing on the Fleet road, one mile north and half mile west of Bloomville, claimed a victim shortly after noon today, when a north bound Pennsylvania freight train crashed into an auto occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Deisler and the 12-year old daughter of Mrs. Deisler, of Plymouth. Deisler was instantly killed and the girl suffered a fracture of her right leg besides other injuries. Mrs. Deisler escaped with slight cuts and bruises.

"Deisler, whose age was 50, was proprietor of a picture show in Plymouth, was blind and Mrs. Deisler was driving the car. The girl, Pauline Conner, occupied the rear seat of the car. Deisler was at his home. They had been at Pauline on a visit and at the time of the accident were returning to their home, having passed through this city only a half hour before the accident.

Did Not See Train

As they approached the crossing which is considered to be the most dangerous grade crossing in this county, Mrs. Deisler states that she did not see or hear the train which is said to have been running at a speed of about twenty-five miles per hour. The track at this point is in a deep depression, shutting off the view in all directions except that from which the auto was speeding. After she saw the approaching train she applied the brakes and it is said that the road marks indicate that the wheels slid over 50 ft.

The train caught the car squarely amidships and the front seat was torn entirely out of the vehicle. The car was thrown to the north of the road, and Deisler's body was found partly under the train. He was dead when found. Physicians and ambulances were summoned from this city and the body of the dead man and the injured were brought here. An examination revealed that the right leg of the girl was fractured and that her arm was badly bruised.

Visiting Accident Scene "C. D. Spitzer and W. Griffith, who chanced to be in the vicinity of the accident, were upon the scene shortly after the occurrence. Mr. Spitzer measured the road tracks and states that there is no doubt that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the accident. He quotes Mrs. Deisler as saying shortly after the accident that she is of the opinion that had she not applied the brakes she could have cleared the crossing ahead of the locomotive.

"Mr. Spitzer states the train was moving at a comparatively slow speed and that he heard it approaching as though laboring under heavy pull. He also corroborates the engineer who contends that he always blows the whistle twice for this crossing because of it's especially dangerous character.

The accident is one of several that have occurred at this crossing. The place is so extremely dangerous that unusual precautions are always taken by those acquainted with the place which may account for the fact that accidents have been more numerous than they have.

On several occasions there has been agitation to have this crossing eliminated, but nothing ever came of it. A somewhat similar, though not so acute a situation exists on the Ben Franklin highway at Rockaway, and the work of improving the roadway at the crossing has been deferred in the expectancy that the crossing will be eliminated either by going under or over the tracks.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Miller Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. The remains were brought here on Tuesday afternoon from Tiffin where services were held at the Presbyterian church with Rev. J. W. Miller in charge. Interment was made in the cemetery here.

Mr. Deisler came to Plymouth to

RED CROSS APPEALS

Dr. Geo. C. Smith, vice chairman of the Richmond County Red Cross has sent an appeal to Plymouth for funds and clothing to be sent to the stricken areas of Florida and Porto Rico. Dr. Smith states that funds are preferable to clothing inasmuch as transportation to the devastated areas has been greatly handicapped.

Anyone wishing to donate may mail their checks or leave money at The Peoples National Bank, where it will be forwarded to Mansfield and from there into the national headquarters at Washington.

PAPER MONEY TO BE SMALL

Size is 6 1/4 x 9-16; One Dollar Bills to Bear Portrait of George Washington.

With the advent of 1929, the new size of paper currency, smaller in size than the present bank notes, will be issued by the United States Government. The new size is 6 1/4 x 9-16 inches, and has been brought about in the interests of efficiency and economy. But, it will have many other advantages. The new "bills" will have new pictures on their faces and backs; they are printed by the intaglio method from specially engraved plates, chromium-plated; they will be easier to handle than the present size of bank notes; and, they will be more difficult to counterfeit, or alter.

"Once the New Year arrives," said Alvin W. Hall, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D. C., "tons of the new currency will move out of Washington by truck loads. When the banks request new currency, they will receive the new size of the old notes will be taken out of circulation as fast as they come in."

The new size and designs of paper money are the result of years of careful planning, investigation and designing. According to Mr. Hall it is the first "through-out" money in the history of the Government. Heretofore, there has been no harmony, and many more varieties were printed than were necessary.

For example, the old $10 note. Five designs were in circulation. One contained the portrait of A. J. Hendricks, one had the portrait of Michael Hillegas, (never then were well-known to the public). Another had the portrait of Andrew Jackson, still another had that of William McKinley, the fifth pictured a buffalo with a humped back.

In the new line of bills, all this has been changed. All notes of each denomination will be practically alike. On the $10 note, for example, in place of five different pictures, each note will have the likeness of Alexander Hamilton, and a picture of the Treasury Building on the other side.

The various issues of the notes will have only technical differences denoting gold silver etc., that are of no special interest to the public in general. The new notes will be issued by certain printed matter on the faces of the bills, and a difference in the seal that is put on after the regular printing has been done.

The main idea back of the new designs is that the picture of a famous man shall represent each denomination.

There are eleven denominations of paper money now in circulation. In the new currency, the $1 note will have the portrait of George Washington as at present. On the back appears "ONE" in large letters, making the note easy to task difficult. Jefferson's portrait is on the face of the $2 note while an engraving of Monticello is on the back. The new $5 note has the portrait of Lincoln on the face and a picture of the Lincoln Memorial on the back. The $10 note has Andrew Jackson's portrait on the face and an engraving of the White House on the back. The $50 note has Grant's portrait on the face and a picture of the Capitol on the back. The $100 note will have the portrait of Benjamin Franklin on the face, and likely an engraving of Independence Hall on the back.

All the notes, up to the $100 bill, and except the $1 note, will have pictures of buildings on their backs, making it hard to pass $1 bills for higher values by changing numbers. Above the notes are beautiful ornate designs in their backs. The $500 note bears the likeness of McKinley, the $1000 note has the portrait of Madison, and the $10,000 note that of Salmon Chase.

SCHOOL NEWS
This week The Advertiser again adds to its columns the school news of the Shelby, New Haven and Plymouth schools. Patrons of these institutions can keep informed of the activities of these schools by reading this part of the news each week. The news is gotten up in such a manner as to appeal to the general public as well as the students.

FROM Our Point OF VIEW

Last Sunday was another day of special events in Plymouth. Nine out of ten cars that passed through the town were going more than thirty-five miles an hour. One car which drew our particular attention passed through about noon. It was a big touring car filled with a bunch of about the "blackest niggers" I have ever seen, and they were clipping them off (not exaggerating at all) around fifty miles per hour. Just as they entered the Square they sounded the horn all the way through, and we saw at least four persons scramble for safety.

It seems to me that it would be a paying proposition for town officials to buy a motorcycle and collect some fines from the speed demons. They'd have to pay a fee to enter the race track, and they'd have to pay to pay to pay for using our highways in testing out the speed.

Out in Wisconsin more than 10,000 cars were refused a license on account of mechanical defects. This is how the state of Ohio can come to the front. We see hundreds of cars each week that are not fit to be on the road and they are a menace to public safety.

This may have slow trains in Arkansas but out in Missouri they know how to hand out swift justice. Three youths ranking in age from 23 to 27 last week started a fifty year sentence for a stick-up job. They didn't kill anyone, but merely tied an aged couple to a tree and absconded with $5,000. Just twenty-four hours after they were captured they were on the way to the pen.

And in Cleveland last week a gangster killed a policeman, wounded two, and caused much disturbance. Now I see in the papers where they are going to fool around with him for a couple of months and probably he'll either escape by night or again shoot his way to freedom.

It shouldn't take over twenty-four hours to railroad a man like this to the chair. There doesn't need to be any trial. Just sign a few legal papers telling of his past crimes, give him a number and send the remains to his relatives. Until we have swift justice without a lot of red tape, just so long will have to increase our tax returns to take care of the gangsters, court houses, penitentiaries and officials.

FINGERS CAUGHT IN BIG BUZZ SAW

Grover Payne Narrowly Misses Severe Injuries When Slab Flies; Four Fingers Nipped.

While working at the Ed Child's saw mill south of town Thursday afternoon, Grover Payne had the misfortune of getting his hand caught in the big buzz saw, almost amputating the forefinger and nipping the other three of his right hand.

A big 125 pound slab is said to be the cause of the accident, as it became entangled in the saw as Payne started to cut some small logs. It was a sheer luck that Payne did not receive a serious and probable fatal cut as the force of the big slab plunged him toward the big saw.

Arthur Adams, who saw the predicament of Payne, rushed to his car in order to get his hand caught in the saw. He was saved in getting the injured man to a doctor. Payne was brought to Dr. Holtz's office and his injury dressed. It will be several days before he will again have the use of his right hand.

SCHOOL AGAIN

Many Plymouth boys and girls are just starting another school term. School days are generally threesome for the pupils after they have been used up the open all summer. The inviting days of fall are always ready to trip the patience of red-blooded boys and anyone of them would rather be anywhere else than in the school room.

There is also a temptation on the part of the parents to allow their children to remain at home and get the absence marks are far too numerous on the reports of these children. School attendance has become such an accepted fact that of ten we allow ourselves to underestimate it.

It is only human of us to care little for that which is easy to obtain. In the days of our forefathers education was far harder to get. Schools were fewer and terms were shorter but the ambitious ones of the time were not deterred by these things and their efforts were all paid back in success in after years.

An education is even more essential in these days simply because competition is keener. A person without an education is laboring under great handicap. School days may be a trial but they are the most valuable days of one's life both in happiness and success in after years. So let's try to let nothing interfere with our attendance at school sessions.

NEW CLUBS

Announcements have been made by the faculty that several new clubs will be organized in High School. These new clubs will consist of a Press Club, Dramatic Club, Debate Club and Classic Club. There will also be a Glee Club, Literary Club, Student Council Club, and Orchestra Club as there has been for several years.

Ellen Firewood of Shelby will be the director of the Dramatic Club if there is to be one. There must be at least six members or it cannot be carried on. She will give private lessons of half an hour for seventy-five cents.

The Press Club has already been formed under the leadership of Mr. Jenkins. Several members have already joined, who are editing this edition of the Post. The members have not yet been assigned their definite duties.

The Student Council Club has been formed under the direction of Mr. Miller. The faculty has offered one-eighth of a credit for membership of these different clubs.

FRESHMAN NEWS

There are twenty-one pupils in the class of '32.1. Class officers are as follows:

John Dick—President
Mildred Hale—Vice President
Ruth Lebold—Secretary-Treasurer
William Moore—President's Asst.
A few of the boys of the class were initiated last Wednesday by some of the upper classmen. It was very comical to see them come into the class with their hair cut. But that was only an informal initiation. "Freshies" will get our share? ! !

OUR FACULTY

Once more we are back at school to settle down for nine months of work. Almost every year there are new members added to the faculty to replace the former teachers. This year we are unusually lucky, for we lost but one teacher and gained three new ones, namely: Mr. Reed, of Ohio Northern University; Miss Levere, of Wittenberg College; and Mr. Derr formerly the eighth grade teacher.

The faculty now consists of seven members: Superintendent Mr. Miller; principal Mr. Jenkins; English and French, Miss Levere; Latin and Algebra Mr. Fisher; Science Mr. Reed; Commercial Mr. Derr; Home Economics and Geometry Mrs. Harsema.

STUDENT COUNCIL

A half meeting was held by the Student Council, September 14th, 1928. Three issues were settled in this meeting.
First: The date of the "Wineer Roast" which is to be given in honor of the Freshman was definitely settled upon.
Second: A plea was made to the Student Body by the Student Council that students desist from informal and unofficial initiation of Freshmen and wait till the time of the regular initiation.
Third: The Council decided that this year chapel services would be held at first by the faculty.

During the past summer, part of the faculty and several of the school boys had a share in the repairing and cleaning which was done under the direction of "Boss" (Supt.) Miller. There were many kinds of work, digging dirt, mixing concrete and plaster, carpenter work (for the boys mostly tearing up the old things and pulling the nails) painting, washing, scrubbing, so that Mr. Miller declared that those who helped had a rare opportunity—a chance to get full course in manual training and yet get paid for it.

All of the older seats were overhauled. Loose bolts and screws were tightened and many screws and bolts replaced those which had fallen out years ago. The tops were removed, taken to the lumber mill where they were cut through the planer to remove scratches and many carvings such as the initials of our fathers which they carried there years ago. And say, kids, when you tell us what angels the children were in your days, we will remember those initials with dates running back into the nineties. Now aren't you ashamed of your selves? Really, I think we are becoming more civilized. Getting back to the seats, the tops were then sand, ed down smooth, replaced, filled, and varnished.

Where the plaster was in good condition the walls were cleaned. Where the plaster had to be patched, the walls and ceilings were repainted. They were painted with buff murexco shoe and with brown oil paint beneath the moldings.

All the pictures were taken down and washed. Then Mr. Miller graded them, selecting the ones appropriate for each grade, and they were rehanged, this time low enough so that they might be seen clearly.
Some of the boys worked on the new science laboratory, which though it is much like a cave, is now well equipped and much better than we have had.

EIGHTH GRADE NEWS

"At least we are in the High School room. Even though we aren't permitted to enter in the High School activities we appreciate the fact that they are so generous with us."
"We wish to thank the High School for giving Mr. Derr to us as our class superior. Although we aren't allowed to have a class organization we are glad to have someone to look after us."
"From the few days that we have been with the High School we all are looking forward when we too may belong in the P. H. S. activities. For we all know that the High School days are the happiest days of all."

SIXTH GRADE

We have started out a new year with thirty-five pupils in the room. We have all new window shades which I think we all like.
Monday morning we elected Ben Smith for our Health Officer. We have a new picture in our room, "Day Dreams," and also one of Washington and Lincoln. We have nice clean walls and clean blackboard and some new books.
BETTY BROWN

FIFTH GRADE

The fifth grade has elected Anna Mae Landis for Health Officer and Bonnie Root Housekeeper for this month. We are out in the portable building this year. We are very sorry to hear that one of our school mates Pauline Coulter was very seriously hurt in an automobile accident.

FOURTH GRADE

The fourth grade is nicely started in the work. There are twenty-seven pupils enrolled. Everyone is cheerful and active about his work and all are looking forward to a good year of work. Robert Simmons is the newly elected Health Officer.

THIRD GRADE
The third grade has twenty-four in their room. They hope to be able to have somebody from their room to write up their next report.

SECOND GRADE
Miss Hartsel is the teacher of the second grade and has twenty-seven pupils.

FIRST GRADE
Miss Nye is teacher of the first grade as she has been for some school terms. She has thirty pupils this year.

SCENES OF WINTER
Cold are the days that are drawing nigh,
And we are the clouds that cover the sky,
Little birds that so merrily sing,
Have gone to the South to await next Spring.

Beneath the snow the grass will hide
Summer sports will lay aside,
Days will shorten, nights grow long,
And then we'll wear the night-in-gale song.

Evenings then when lights are low
And out of doors the winds will blow
We'll sit before a cherrie fire
And tell the things our hearts desire.

And, other times when the moons on
The opportunity will not pass us by,
We'll bundle up and skating go,
And often times will meet our foe.

Old Jack Frost who bites our fingers,
And upon our feet he leaves his
Beautiful pictures on the window pane,
That looks like castles in far off Spain.

Cottages surrounded by hills and trees,
And streams that ripple through the seas,
Old Jack Frost makes these so quaint,
That no artist such a scene can paint.

Ah! Winter it's a lovely season
If we would only stop to reason,
The time that it must have taken,
To change this land once forsaken
Into this marvelous, picturesque way
Of the beautiful, wonderful world today.

JOKES
One of our over energetic Freshies was heard to announce that the only thing he disliked about High school was the principal of the thing.

Raymond H. says his average income during vacation was about 2 a. m.

Two of our young ladies were discussing the safest ways of travel.
First: "Which do you think is safer the auto, or?"
Second: "Well, to date I find roller skates the most reliable."

A class was discussing the different kinds of love much to the interest of the students. Prof to Freshie: "Johnny if I was to come along the same day some day caught you whipping a mule and I stopped you what kind of love would that be?"
Freshie (promptly): "Brotherly."

Two old students upon viewing the Freshie washed windows at the opening of the school year exclaimed: "Oh! Mr. Miller you have all new windows, haven't you?"

ATTEND CONSTITUTION DAY PROGRAM OF D. A. R. CHAPTER

Mrs. Oscar Tyson, Mrs. Cora Miller and Mrs. A. W. Pirostone of Shiloh had the pleasure of attending Constitution Day meeting of the D. A. R. chapter held at Mansfield at the Women's Club House on Monday.

This was a joint meeting of the Jewel Mansfield chapter of the D. A. R. and the Olefin chapter of Galton with Judge Florence E. Allen, judge of the supreme court of Ohio, as the principal speaker, following a 1 o'clock luncheon.

Her address was non-partisan but of considerable interest to every member.

Judge Allen has led a versatile life. For two years after leaving college she studied music in Berlin where she was musical correspondent for the Musical Courier and the Centinel.

Times. For three years she taught in an exclusive preparatory school. At the same time she was working for her degree of Master of Arts in political science and constitutional law and conducting the musical column of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

While studying law she lectured on current and political history for the New York board of Education and before women's clubs in New York and Philadelphia. After her admission to the bar, of course, she practiced law. In a short time she was made assistant prosecuting attorney of Cuyahoga county, Ohio. Then she was elected judge of the Court of Common Pleas and two years later was elected to the supreme court of Ohio.

Among the organizations claiming Judge Allen as a member are the following: American Bar Association, League of Women Voters, Business and Professional Women's club, American association of University Women Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Beta Psi Service Star Legion and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Everywhere a Pontiac is referred to as the finest of low-priced sixes... and never was any car more clearly entitled to such renown. Today's Pontiac Six is the product of what great engineers have made possible by the economies of General Motors' combined purchasing power. And it is built in America's most modern automobile plant. These are five fundamental advantages enjoyed by no other builder of low-priced sixes. So why wouldn't you want a Pontiac Six? Everywhere a Pontiac is referred to as the finest of low-priced sixes... and never was any car more clearly entitled to such renown. "WINGS" COMING TO MANSFIELD

Big Production to be Shown at Ohio Theatre Soon

The most spectacular phase of modern warfare—fighting in the air—will be brought vividly to the motion picture screen when "Wings," Paramount's aviation film, commences its limited engagement at the Ohio Theatre, Mansfield, on Monday, September 24th, to be shown twice daily for three days.

"Wings" depicts in realistic and gripping scenes the heroism of American aviators in the World War. The picture was filmed with the active cooperation and assistance of the war department, because of its interest in aeronautics. It having loaned to the film company millions of dollars worth of equipment and some of the country's most seasoned aviators with war records.

The story of "Wings" was written by John Monk Saunders and was directed by William A. Wellman, who served in the Lafayette Escadrille. The cast contains Clara Bow, who has since become a star. It was the starting place of Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen.

"Wings" will be shown exactly as presented for more than one solid year in New York City, with an augmented orchestra and sound effects. Two performances will be held each day, at 2:15 and 8:15, and all seats will be reserved for all performances. The seat sale will open on Thursday, September 20th, but mail orders will be filled commencing on the 17th.

Miss Marguerite Boardman who has been employed the past year in Cleveland will leave on the 25th to enter Ohio State University at Columbus.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline.

Irene S. Cobb was born in Paducah, Ky., in 1878. At sixteen years of age she was editor of the Paducah Daily News and later, at 18, she was editor of the Louisville Evening Post. Still later she was managing editor of the Paducah News. She has since been in the habit in New York, he worked on the New York Evening Sun, New York Evening World and the Sunday Mirror. At that time he was a staff contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and magazine. His health called him to Europe during the World War. He was a major in the Officers' Reserve Corps in the United States army. Mr. Cobb is married.

By IRVIN S. COBB

The trouble with a professional philosopher is that he never meets persons. He only meets subjects. And the trouble with a professional philosopher is that he tries to measure the intangibles of human nature by the little tape-measures of his own experiences, his own limited observations, his own faulty powers of deduction.

The atheist doesn't say: "Here is a scientifically attractive individual. I shall cultivate him. He might make a good friend, a sprightly companion." Not at all. What inwardly he says is: "Here is a case. I shall study its inhibitions. It may constitute a new type. I might even be able to put it into an article or a lecture." He has a perfectly rotten time, going along through life. He's bound to have. Existence for him is a card-index system, a filing-cabinet full of neatly-labeled specimens, an orderly collection of disordered curios, and this world is a giddy comedy wherein all creation is asked and each living creature—with the exception of himself and possibly a few of his brother-altruists—is mentally out of focus.

On the other hand, the philosopher says: "Ah, here now are two conditions. I shall apply to it the processes of my own peculiar and personal school of philosophy and having arrived at a conclusion, will broadcast it forth as being positively the last word on that particular topic." He has a lovely time of it. Anybody who thinks he's infallible always does have a lovely time of it—while he lasts.

To be sure, the philosopher is like the man of us except that he applies to a concrete example our own little separate philosophies, whereas he, in an effort to take in the entire race, the whole universe, spreads himself out so thin that you can look right through him and see his back suspended between.

A friend comes to us with a harassing private problem. He has reached that deplorable stage where he seeks advice for solving a riddle which, in the final analysis, only he can solve or should try to solve. He follows an ancient formula. He says to us: "If you were in my place what would you do about it?"

And gently we answer: "Well, old man, if I were you I'd do this—and that." Now what we should say, reversing the situation, is this: "Well, if you were I, you—meaning I—probably would do this or that about it. But inasmuch as I am I and you are you, and I am what I am and you are what you are, with different impulses from mine, different temperaments, different viewpoints, you'll have to handle this job your own way—and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Now, Dr. Will C. Durant is a professional philosopher—God help him!—and Doctor Durant is credited with having said that a man past thirty is incapable of love; and I as one of a selected group, am asked to answer him, not according to his own folly, if he is correctly quoted—but according to mine own.

So far as I am concerned, the task is a very simple one. I can tell, per se, to repeat what the expert and scholarly Doctor Durant wrote in amplification of his large, bald, bold original premise.

He added this: "A man above thirty may go wild over a blonde chorine. That is not love. Love is absolute devotion—the desire to give full service to another."

To which I would reply as follows: I don't know a blighted thing about it. I don't pretend to know it. I don't believe Doctor Durant knows a blasted thing about it either. I think he makes a mistake—but one common to philosophers—in setting up to know anything about it.

As I look at it, a man past thirty or a man of any age between the latter stages of adolescence and the early stages of senility, may be capable of love, or then again he may be incapable of love. Everything depends on what particular man you have in mind.

It's like this: You mention, say, a bird and instinctively each one of us thinks of a bird. One thinks of a wren, another of a robin, another of a parrot, a fourth of an ostrich. Each one of us is thinking of his own bird—the image of a bird which the notion of the word creates in his brain—not of the next fellow's bird.

You mention love, and to this one love means this thing and to that one love means another thing. And so on and so forth. I claim that if you think you are in love and think it has enough, why then you are in love—really, it's your own special sort of love, which is not to be confused with any or the billions of other brands of love. And should you go wild over a blonde chorine or a brunette chorine, or even a midget or plump chorine, and get sufficiently wild over her and stay wild, and she likes 'em wild—as so many chorines are required to do—and if further she interprets your emotion as love and accepts it as such, and repays it in kind, and you for your own part are sure it is love, who am I or for that matter who Dr. Will C. Durant, to say that the above article isn't real love, isn't absolute devotion, isn't the desire to give full service? I take it that neither biology nor philosophy nor any other set of rules enter into the equation at all. About loving, as between the sexes, nothing is so simple as more than there is about any other natural phenomenon. It is not guided by precedents nor guided by traditions. It just happens as earthquakes do and as in the head and changes in the weather. You can't define it by laws; no more can you nail it down with a brass-headed ax.

Who was it said: "All generalities are wrong, including this one?" Whoever it was, he spoke quite a chunk.

In the very young we call it "puppy love," forgetting that the only period of a normal and healthy dog's life when he shows no amorous interest in the female of the species, is while he still is a puppy. In the aging we call it an evidence of oncoming death, manifesting itself in morbidly affectionate, and again we may be wrong and probably are. If we are so unfortunate as to live long enough, doesn't every one of us sooner or later make his heart into a mess of dog? But some of the philosophy gets an early start.

So much for broad, all-encompassing conclusions. But if you're asking me to cite my own observations I would say this:

I have seen men this side of thirty who, by reason of their selfishness or something, seemed to me incapable of giving to any woman the sort of love which—again using Doctor Durant's qualifying definition—amounted to absolute devotion. I've seen men twice as old as I viewed them from the outside looking in—or tried to—seemed capable of falling in love with all their hearts and all their souls and all their physical beings. Mind you, I say they seemed to be thus constituted. I don't say they were. I had no way of knowing.

Moreover, if it appeared to me logical that I should take sides and write a brief for one wing of the contention as against the other wing, I would state that when I come to look over the field it strikes me that a good many of the outstanding lovers of the world have been men and women who were past thirty.

I'm not expiring into history for illustrations, although heaven knows the pages of romantic history are studded thick with such illustrations. I'm not going to fall as it were back on that distinguished lady go-getter of ancient days, the Empress Cleopatra. I'm not calling up King Solomon or Brigham Young or any of those old heavy sugar-daddies to help me prove my case.

Look at the present. Look at Peggy Joyce, the leading beauty of our times. Look at DeWolf Hopper, the Husband of His Country. Look—for all I know to the contrary—at the average established philosophy-busting gent of 1928.

I have an elderly friend and a true philosopher—although he doesn't know it and vehemently would deny it did you accuse him of being such a thing—who, to my way of thinking, summed up the whole matter in a paragraph. That is to say, he summed it up by leaving it open for discussion at both ends, which is the proper way for leaving all discussions.

He was speaking, by induction, of his sons-in-law. He was very fond of one of them and not in the least fond of the other.

"This here loving business is a funny thing," he said musingly. "Take my two daughters—two sweet girls as you'd find anywhere on this earth. Take it the way it was with them: It was like as if two lovely butterflies come sailing along on a summer's day and one of 'em lit on a tuberosa and the other one lit on a manure pile. How're you going to figure out which of 'em is falling in love, anyway?"

I leave his final question for Doctor Durant and the rest of the world to ponder over.

Couldn't Be Mistaken as to Speed of Auto

The other day in the Los Angeles traffic court a ducky was on trial for speeding. He had vehemently denied the charge but the prosecuting officer pointed out to the court that inasmuch as the car had no speedometer, the ducky couldn't possibly have a fair idea of how fast he was actually going.

"Boss," declared the ducky earnestly, "Ah doan need no speedometer to tell how fast Ah's goin'. When Ah come out in the mornin', mah lamps rattle; when Ah goin' fifteen mah mudguards rattle; at twenty mah spokes rattle; an' at one time Ah went fast as de deuce says. Lately he's shook herself all to pieces an' ain't never been de same since."

Little Change in Dogs

Lead models of dogs have been found by an expedition of the University of Pennsylvania in Palestine, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The figures are believed to be at least 3,000 years old, and show that dogs were domesticated much earlier than modern ages commonly believe.

BIRTH REPORTS

Eighty-one children were born in Mansfield and Richland county the past month, according to the vital statistical record at the health department. This is an unusually high record of births.

Of this number, 45 are boys and 38 girls. Only a comparatively small number of parents failed to name their children at birth, and health department officials are urging these parents to communicate with the department as soon as possible so as to complete all records.

Chapel

Rev. McBroome was the leader of our chapel service Monday morning, Sept. 17th. His text was taken from the second chapter of Timothy the 1st verse. The lesson brought out was "Be instant in season and out of season, diligent in all things." Be single minded. He supplemented his talk by giving many splendid illustrations which clinched his points.

His talk was followed by a short prayer and his pupils then adjourned to various classes.

Smith Hughes
The prospects for the year in the Smith-Hughes Department are very promising. The enrollment is nearly twice that of last year. Animal Husbandry and Agricultural Engineering are the subjects for this year's study. The first group has discussed the rearing of poultry and it is hoped that the flock on the home farm will be culled and a general interest aroused in the community as the result of this teaching.

Starting with this week the schedule for first and second grade pupils has been changed. This was necessary because of the increased enrollment. The following is the letter sent to the parents by Mr. Ford:

Sept. 17, 1928
Due to the crowded condition, we are facing in the first and second grade rooms this year we have found it necessary to adjust our schedule so that all first grade classes will meet during the forenoon and all second grade classes during the afternoon. Thus parents of all first grade pupils living in town are requested to keep their children home during the afternoon session at least for the present.

As the schedule is adjusted now first grade pupils are getting as much attention during the forenoon period as they received during the entire day under the old plan. We realize of course that it would be better and more satisfactory to operate under the old system but crowded conditions prevented this. At present there are 41 pupils enrolled in the primary room with a possibility of another one entering later. I trust you can readily see that with this number some adjustment had to be made.

PLYMOUTH STUDIOS BABY BEAUTY CONTEST

The second and by far the biggest prize contest for babies and children up to ten years old has been started by the Plymouth Studio of Plymouth, O.

Our first contest which was for just two of the cutest children photographed during our opening weeks closed on Aug. 14th and the prize winners will be announced in next week's columns of this paper. We now start a contest on which will include all babies and children photographed from Aug. 15th up to Dec. 1st.

Every baby or child will be entered and it is not necessary that a whole dozen pictures be entered to get into the contest. It is open to those ordering one half dozen also and the judges will consider cute expressions equally as readily as pretty faces. Twenty prizes will be given in this contest. 20 being in the babies and children and let's see who is who.
