

OPA Gives Out New Ruling For Home Food Consumption

Probably the greatest inconvenience that might be caused residents of Plymouth this week, would be prolonged suspension of electrical service, because that precious supply of steaks, chops and roasts which housewives so industriously assembled in the past week would have to be eaten immediately or taken care of in another manner.

Butcher shops here, and throughout the district were temporarily put out of business by the Friday and Saturday rush to accumulate a surplus. Many closed their doors early Saturday when their stock of meats disappeared. Not only fresh meats, but all others were bought on sight.

The latest "break" since rationing was announced came in a week-end ruling from the Office of Price Administration that home producers may consume and lend what they produce, within limited amount.

Any person who produces meat, butter, lard, etc. covered by Ration Order 16, primarily for his own consumption may consume what he produces and may let members of his family unit and those who eat at his table consume it, without giving up ration points. He may lend the food so produced to any consumer without the surrender of points. However, he may not lend a total of more than 400 pounds of beef and veal together, 150 pounds of any other meat, or 25 pounds of any other food covered by Ration Order 16 (such as butter and lard) in any one calendar year. Foods so loaned may not be sold by the person who receives that or by anyone else. (A transaction is not a loan if any charge is made.)

Farmers who slaughter livestock for sale, or who produce lard and butter, or other foods covered by Ration Order 16, are required to comply with the same regulations that cover commercial primary distributors. They are required to register with the Local Rationing Board and cannot make sales except for points. Until April 10th, a farmer or other primary distributor is permitted to sell to a retailer without the exchange of points but no sale to a consumer may be made after March 28th without the exchange of points.

Various organizations with two new contributors, the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, each $5.00, are announced this week, with the balance credited to the various town workers.

Fire Causes Heavy Loss

ISLAY STORE, DAMAGED BY BLAZE MONDAY; LOSS SET AT $6,000

The interior of the Islay Store in Shelby was almost completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning which was believed to have started in waste paper under the counter.

Estimated damage is set at $6,000. Workmen are now busy clearing up the debris in preparation to installing a new floor, sub-ceiling and other repairs. The interior and exterior of the store room will be redecorated.

The heavy smoke penetrated the Kroger Store and the Kingsboro Drug store, which adjoined the Islay building, causing considerable damage to perishable food products in the Kroger store. The floor of the Islay building caved in from the weight of a heavy juke box machine after the flames had undermined the structure. The store room had been redecorated just recently.

No one was in the store at the time of the fire because the store does not open on Mondays. The fire was one of the worst in Shelby in recent years in the downtown area.

Bredlow, executive secretary of the War Savings Staff of Ohio.

Mr. Klein had previously been chosen as the War Bond Champion of the Month for Erie county, which together with Ashland, Crawford, Huron, Knox, Marion, Richland and Wyandot comprise Region 6.

Church Holds Business Meet

The annual business meeting of the Presbyterian church was held at the church Thursday evening, March 25th. Devotions were conducted by the pastor, who stressed the creating of the atmosphere of worship. Mrs. Grace Dick acted as secretary. The church is planning to observe the 150th anniversary at an appropriate time in the year of 1944, the time and plans to be under the direction of the session. The trustees were requested to determine the cost of redecoration of the auditorium and when it appeared feasible, to proceed with the work. It was also voted to approve religious education in the schools for another year.

The reports of the treasurer of the church and the various organizations of the church were very encouraging. The benevolence of the church for the fiscal year have amounted to nearly $200.00.

After the business was transacted the group gathered in the dining room for light refreshments.

The following officers were elected: Elders—Raymond Steele, Oliver Fairchild, Francis Miller; Trustees—Harry Vandervort, H. L. Roe, Clarence BeVier; Treasurer—Mrs. L. L. Fetter; Pianist, Mrs. Harry Dick; Assistant, Mrs. E. B. Miller. Members of the Inter-church Council are Mr. Judd Keller, Mrs. Helen Gans, and Mrs. Gladys Vandervort.

The ordination and installation services have been tentatively set for Sunday morning, April 4th.

Feeding Problems

Arm Injured In Auto Accident

It will be a long time, approximately six months, before Robert Garrett, 18, will be able to use his right arm. Broken in two places, his hand broken and the flesh and muscles so badly torn, that 175 stitches were required to close the wounds, he still feels he is lucky to have suffered no further injuries.

Robert, along with "Buck" Hunter, and Clarence Mills, were taking a little ride last Thursday evening about 7:15 on Route 598, when the car skidded and went into the ditch, overturning. Clarence, who was driving and "Buck" were not injured. Robert, who was able to extricate himself from the wreck, went to the Neil Silliman home, where aid was summoned. Young Garrett was removed to the Shelby hospital for treatment.

The arm was set Tuesday morning and Robert was removed to his home Tuesday evening in the Miller-McQuate ambulance. He is getting along as well as can be expected.

The 1941 Chevrolet belonging to Jack Hamman of the Shelby road, which the boys were using, was practically wrecked and is now at a Greenwich garage.

RELEASED

Dominic Dorian has been released from the Shelby Memorial hospital where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittleseed)

ONE GOOD TURN deserves a pound of butter. At least that is the way I see it when Marshall Burns took over Dominic Dorian's cow while Dorian was laid up in the hospital. Anyway, leaving the butter out of it, the spirit of friendliness shown by Burns is just one of many hundreds of examples shown in Plymouth daily. That's why Plymouth is a darn good town to live in.

"WELL, if my ship ever sinks, they'll have plenty of life preservers," avers Gus Dick. Young Dick has completed his course in "baking" and is ready to "ship out." Gus says the rolls he makes will hold up any man, especially in water—they're so light! But what would happen if a guy eats one and jumps overboard?

WILLIE ROSS was another boy we said "good-bye" to, Tuesday night. Willie left Wednesday for the army, and what the world the army will do with all his "pep" is more than I can understand.

THINGS YOU SELDOM SEE—

Dorothy Root hanging up the family wash (but she does it); Tom Webber getting down to his store on time; a boy named Smith working in the garden; Ott Kinsell smoking a cigarette; Ed Ramsey watching one of his pictures; Earl McQuate eating his breakfast at home; or a piece of bacon in the local markets.

IF OLD MOTHER HUBBARD was to go to your cupboard would she find more than a bone? The chances are that she would—perhaps several pounds of nice, tender steaks and roasts. At least that's what Plymouth meat dealers are thinking. It's the week-end (rationing started Monday) all shops were out of meats of all kind. And as a result customers have been very few for the early part of the week.

WE'RE HOPING that Allie Devore, who has been on the sick list, will soon be back among us. He has been ill with pneumonia.

AND THERE'S KENNY Luterman of Maple Street, who suffered a severe heart attack Tuesday. He was dangerously ill for a few hours, but his condition is somewhat improved.

REFERRING to a recipe handed us by David Bachrach, we are glad to pass it on to our readers. Dave says you're lucky enough to get a pound of butter, you can easily stretch it into five pounds through this simple procedure—Take a lb. of butter and melt very slowly over a fire—heat three pounds of pulverized glue and mix with butter, add three sticks of chewing gum, one half cup of vinegar; juice of two lemons and salt, well mixed, the lemons will kill the taste and flavor of glue, and add prolonged chewing to the butter. Dave says his next recipe will be, "How to take a hunk of beef and turn it into bacon."

SELDOM do we recommend a picture of any kind, but the one entitled, "On the Front" which opens at the Plymouth theatre today, is worth your time and money. On the Front was photographed by a fighting photographer in Africa. It has many more, except that if you do not see this picture, you will be sorry. While the photography and narration could be greatly improved, over the fire—heat three pounds of pulverized glue and mix with butter, add three sticks of chewing gum, one half cup of vinegar, the picture is well worth the price. The picture is released through Elmer Davis' Office of War Information.

THE THOUGHT FOR the week are the words of Allison who says: "Look upon the present as the past of your future."

THE HONOR ROLL with names of Plymouth boys in service is nearing completion, and it will probably be placed in public at some time next week. The board is white, and the names will be large, blue letters, surrounded by a red border. The project is

FALLACY EXPLODED

It has been a common practice when more taxes were needed by the Federal Government, to show that British government income taxes are higher than our federal income taxes.

Congressman Celler of New York, now shows that it is but half a truth. He says: "The British government collected 90 percent of the total tax collections of that country in the fiscal year 1941-42; whereas in the United States, the Federal Government in 1941-42 collected only 61 percent of the total taxes."

"In other respects—notably in the absence of heavy local taxation, in the exemption of capital gains, and in the treatment of corporate dividends, life insurance premiums and pension contributions—the British tax system is less severe than ours."

"In a preliminary report prepared by the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, taxes reduced to a per capita basis were given as $191—federal alone in the United States—and $187 in Britain. If state, local and other taxes were added to the $191 estimate—federal—the total per capita burden in this country would be approximately $260. This estimate does not include increased taxes under the 1942 measure."

"Before we can pass fair and just tax laws, like for example a pay-as-you-go plan, we must first dispel the idea that Englishmen, comparatively, already pay more than we."

"Let us do away with the constantly recurring fallacy that the Englishman bear a heavier tax burden than we."

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR PATRIOTISM

The man behind the man behind the gun has a real chance to help in winning the war. And that man or men, will be those who have the equipment to plow. There are scores of garden spots in Plymouth that need plowing, and unless someone with the proper equipment comes forward to do the job, Plymouth residents are going to be up against a real problem.

In previous years there were men, horses and plows available for those who wanted to do a little gardening. This season, when everyone should go into gardening, there is no one available to do the plowing. If there is such a person who has a tractor and plow in Plymouth, and who will devote a share of his time for this purpose, it will be truly an act of patriotism, and one that is direly needed at this time.

IT ALL DEPENDS ON ?

It has been said that slogans were written for the other fellow! It can plainly be pointed out that the war is being won by the "other fellow." Until every individual, whether at work in a defense plant or on the front line, is made to feel his own responsibility in the war effort, this country and its industrial powers will be confronted with a situation that will be hard to overcome—absenteeism.

Not only are hundreds of war plants confronted with the problem of absenteeism, but our own local plant is facing a serious production shortage by this cause. What to do and how to do it—to make every man realize his importance in his day's work—is the big question. About the best way to help our local situation is to suggest that everyone in Plymouth see our boys in action in Africa. In this film "U. S. Soldiers in Action in Africa," which starts at the Plymouth theatre today, you will have a visual picture of just what our boys are going through to make our democracy safe. The film was taken by 42 of our American fighting photographers at the front lines. You'll see actual warfare in all its thunder and fury—and best of all, it will make YOU feel a responsibility in winning the war.

Just remember, fellows, when you take time off, when you help slow up the work—you're not kidding anyone but yourself, for this war's outcome depends solely on YOU and a 130,000,000 Americans like you!

Someone told me this week that a person should never argue politics or religion in public.

It's ten to one that Mr. Eden got his work accomplished satisfactorily, and that we fell for it again.

Sounds mighty good to hear that President Roosevelt is going to call a food conference of 34 allied nations. Perhaps, after all, we can learn where to buy a bushel of potatoes.

Postwar planning is in the spotlight now, but no one has made a suggestion as to what will become of the three million federal employees now on the government payroll.

Can you still agree that the best things in life are free? Well, it's according to what you like!

FREEZING JOHN L. LEWIS

John L. Lewis, in his demand for a $2.00 per day wage increase for coal miners, has made it clear that he is stone deaf to all arguments concerning the winning of the war and the safeguarding of our domestic economy.

Mr. Lewis realizes that a strike in the coal mines would disrupt our whole war production program, but he has shown that he is perfectly willing to call a strike if his demands aren't met.

Mr. Lewis must also realize that if coal miners are given a big wage increase other labor groups should be entitled to similar increases and a general upward revision of wages at this time would make disastrous inflation a certainty.

It hardly seems reasonable, during wartime, that the people should continue to permit any man to get away with actions which are so obviously against the best interests of the nation. Freezing of wages of all union members seems to be the only answer. That, and freezing the voice of Mr. Lewis for the duration of the war.

WASHINGTON'S ALPHABET

There are more than 80 government departments and agencies which are now referred to in newspaper headlines by their initials. Probably a few congressmen and government information specialists know the meaning of the abbreviations, but to most people practically all initials merely spell Washington.

Most of us know that OPA handles rationing, FHA handles housing, FTC stands for Federal Trade Commission, WAVES are the girls in the navy, WPB is responsible for war production and WPA gave jobs to thousands of men before the war.

But other initials, like CCS for Combined Chiefs of Staff, BWC for Board of War Communications, CIAA for Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, DSC for Defense Supplies Corporation and GAO for General Accounting Office are meaningless to the public.

Because of the length of the names of most government agencies, newspapers are forced to rely on abbreviations to make the names fit in their headlines. But it would help a lot if the GPO (Government Printing Office) would supply the OWI (Office of War Information) with a list of the abbreviations which might be distributed to the people through the OCD (Office of Civilian Defense).

DALE CARNEGIE

THE GREEN HILLS FAR AWAY

This is the story of a boy who lived on a farm and didn't want to leave it.

The boy was Henry W. Jeffers, and the farm was near Harford, Pa.

Other boys in that section left. A farm didn't offer an opportunity, they said, so they packed their suitcases and hitch-hiked toward the bright lights. But Henry Jeffers didn't leave on a horse-drawn wagon. He watched this parade to the city. He didn't mind such chores as milking cows, mowing hay, caring for chickens. In this work he visualized the essentials of real living. Instead of hankering to join the horde of Wouldn't-Be-Farmers who tramped city pavements all day and tossed restlessly at night, he breathed the fresh air during this—and slept at night.

He had a strange idea that ambition and determination applied to work would lead to success on the farm just as in the city.

The farm he lived on was a dairy farm; lots of cows. And it was young Henry's job to milk them. Twice a day, rain or shine, he trekked out to the barn.

And he didn't stop the milking. He did some thinking that tended to improve his conditions. He became an expert on dairymen. Then he made a trip to Denmark to study dairymen over there. One day as he stood watching the cows coming single file to be milked, he suddenly conceived the idea of a machine that would simplify the age-old job of milking and making it sanitary as well.

So he began experimenting. He made sketches and diagrams. Made working models. At first he failed. But he kept on. When a triumph it would come to Denmark, he had a strange idea that ambition and determination applied to work would lead to success on the farm just as in the city.

The rotolactor on the farm at Plainsboro, N. J., milks fifty cows at a time.

Henry Jeffers did come to New York once and stayed two long years before he decided he was needed back on his own 1200-acre farm.

Henry W. Jeffers is a fine example of a boy who made a success by staying on the farm.

Aren't there some conditions surrounding you which will lead to success just where you stand? If so, learn from Henry W. Jeffers; throw your energies into the opportunities before you instead of fleeing to foreign fields.

"HOOF-BEATEN TRAILS" NOW AT LIBRARY

An autographed copy of Hoof-Beaten Trails by Harriet E. Doud is now at the Plymouth Library, and available to be borrowed. Doud recently observed her 102nd birthday at Norwalk and is a keen observer of our nation's progress.

Her father—born within five years of George Washington's death—could touch hands with early settlers who followed the trail of the ox-team into the new Northwest Territory.

These catch-words of pioneer folk, from the pen of one who is, herself, but a generation removed from frontier days, reveal an authentic picture of a developing community life. The author says of her book, "Like Topsy, it 'just grew'—'gleanings from quaint and amusing recollections of her girlhood and from mature reflections of later years."

This volume is offered as slender link in the lengthening chain of memories connecting the living present with the recent and with the more remote, past.

Other books of fiction now on the shelves and which have been widely read and praised are: Williamson's Time of Peace; Bromfield's "Mrs. Parkington"; Kantor's Happy Land; Hobart's Cup and the Sword; Corbett's Mrs. Meigs; Binefield's Eddie and the Archangel; Wolf's Night Shift; DeCapita's Maria; Jennings' Gentleman Ranker; Temski—Thunder in Heaven.

Non-fiction books include: Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily; Kimborough's Good Hearts; were young and gay; Hoover & Gibson; The Problems of peace; poetry—Ogden Nash—Good Intentions; Turnbull—Raft.

Also fiction books by favorite authors which are now being obtained; Norris, Loring, Bailey, Lutz, Cuthrell and others. Among the new book received are also some very good mystery stories.

The public is invited to make use of the library's facilities.

Richland County Must Secure A Permit

Richland county commissioners must secure a plumbing permit from the Mansfield city health department before they may proceed to install new plumbing in the court house and county jail.

The health board may not, however, require the commissioners to employ a licensed plumber as janitor. If commissioners have the janitor repair plumbing he must secure a plumber's license at his own expense and not the county's.

Mr. Herbert said that the city board of health could adopt reasonable rules and regulations governing plumbing, but they could not fix the penalties for violation of their rules as the penalties are fixed by state law.

PLANS PAID

Plans of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Knight to leave Plymouth for California to make their home have failed to materialize and they will continue to make Plymouth their home.

Mr. Knight who is employed at the Fate-Roht-Heath company has been off duty for two weeks with an injured foot but expects to return soon.

CHANGES ADDRESS

Mrs. Edna Roberts, who has made her home with her grandfather, Mr. Clayton Bliss, for the past five years, will now make her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Roberts, south of Plymouth.

"Meet the People..."

(Each week in this space will be presented a picture and short portrait of someone whose name is new.)

These days, when movie actresses appear like magic on the African front and the man next to you on the assembly line may turn out to be a famous lawyer, there's nothing surprising about finding a college professor filling a diplomatic post, especially if he happens to be Dr. Charles H. Hayes, professor of history at Columbia University, whose text books on modern history you probably discovered in school in the form of "required reading."

His vigorously anti-Nazi attitude, plus his position as an outstanding Catholic layman, made Dr. Hayes the logical person to handle the Axis, for his knowledge of totalitarian ideology makes it easy for him to substantiate his anti-Nazi assertions, while his affiliation with the Catholic Church makes him additionally acceptable to the Franco government. Born at Afton, N. Y., which is still his home, Dr. Hayes is a graduate of Columbia University. He has his degrees, honors and published works fill three inches in "Who's Who," but he is best known as a stern critic of totalitarianism. His latest book, "Nationalism," was banned in Germany in 1938.

H. L. Tracy Chosen To Represent Theatres

H. L. Tracy, owner of the Temple Theatre, Willard, Ohio, who was chosen at random as being typical of the thousands of the nation's exhibitors participating in United Nations Week, asked P. J. Wood, Columbus, secretary of the Independent Theatre owners of Ohio, to represent him in Washington on Tuesday, March 30, when campaign officials presented the War Activities Committee's check for the amount collected to the President's War Relief Control Board. The board will, in turn, break down the donations of the millions of moviegoers who contributed to this cause, into proportionate amounts for the nations involved.

Tracy was chosen in the War Activities Committee headquarters in New York City by Jeanne Cagney, lovely young film star, who closed her eyes and stuck a pencil in a map of the United States, hitting Willard, O. When he declared that pressing business prevented the trip, and asked that Mr. Wood go in his stead.

The check, with all returns expected to be in over the week end and will be turned over to the President's Board at a luncheon at the Statler Hotel, Washington, by the War Activities Committee. Francis S. Harmon, the Committee's Executive Vice-President, will be host.

Attending for the War Relief Control Board will be Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, and Dr. Frederick P. Keppel. Invitations have been extended to Honorable Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, and Lowell Mellett, chief of the OWI's Motion Picture Bureau.

Sets New Record

Competing in the Chicago relays, Cornelius Warmerdam, now a naval cadet assigned to the Chapel Hill, N. C., preflight training school, is shown as he created the bar to break his own world's record. He broke his previous inches, set in 1941, by one and a quarter inches, set in 1942, and last year, with his new tally of 14 feet 10 inches.

Army Men Become Victory Gardeners

Convalescent soldiers from a local hospital at Miami Beach, Fla., assigned to a nearby victory garden by the army air forces technical training command, are shown hoeing in a bean patch as they bolster the nation's food production while working their way to health. Their work is thoroughly supervised so that none of the men become a victim of overwork or overexposure to the sun.

Only One Closed State Bank In Ohio Recorded

Completion of liquidation of the First Central Trust Co. at Akron this week leaves but one closed state bank still in liquidation in Ohio, Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert announced this week. There were 27 banks in liquidation when Mr. Herbert assumed office in 1939.

Almost $11,000,000 is being returned to 88,000 depositors of closed banks so far this year. Liquidation of the Ohio Savings Bank & Trust Co. of Toledo was completed last month with payment of a final dividend of 16 per cent to 40,000 depositors. This final payment amounted to $3,200,000. The bank paid 86 per cent.

The Akron bank checks will be mailed as soon as the 42,000 drafts can be written. They total $7,500,000. The Akron bank is paying out 100 per cent. A remainder of $1,300,000 will either be paid in interest to the 42,000 depositors or returned to stockholders. Five years ago the Akron bank certificates of deposit were selling at 50 cents on the dollar.

The remaining bank in liquidation is the Guardian Trust Co. of Cleveland.

Post-War Planning

In formulating, at this time, any treaty or agreement which might be intended to bind our country to post-war international commitments, there should be taken into consideration the fact that radical changes in conditions and sentiments will occur before peace comes. If the war should last two or three or four years longer, the international "picture" will be, without question, of an entirely different color. There may even be a change of alliances. Italy might be fighting on our side; Vichy France on the side of Germany; and Russia may be out of it entirely. These are just haphazard possibilities to illustrate the impossibility of a binding international post-war agreement, made at this time, might prove to be.

There exists a fairly nation-wide opinion that some sort of international committee should be organized by the Allies which would plan for post-war reconstruction and operation, and for upholding the principles for which we are fighting. These principles have been enunciated by our leaders; but there are innumerable related angles which should be clearly defined.

A vastly important question, for example, is how to guard against mass starvation and anarchy all over Europe in the interim between the declaration of peace and the days when the nations of Europe can "get control" of themselves. This interim is sure to occur and is sure to be tragic unless the Allies are prepared to step in instantly and in a thoroughly organized manner. If we are not fully prepared for this interim—before the war ends—a great deal of our present day misery may have been in vain. There are so many other subjects to be discussed and planned for by such a committee. That

In Memory of Sister Ethel Straub, Who Died March 13, 1943

Death has again entered our Chapter Hall, and called to the Eternal Home a dearly beloved sister who has completed faithful labors here in ministry to the cry of the Orphan, to the call of want and to the piteous wail of sorrow, and as a recompense has received the welcome pleasure "well done," from the Great Master.

And, Whereas, the loving Father has called our beloved and respected sister home, and having been a true and faithful member of our Mystic Order, therefore be it, RESOLVED, that Plymouth Chapter No. 231, Order Eastern Star of Plymouth, Ohio, in testimony of its loss, drape its Chapter in mourning for thirty days and that we tender to the family of our deceased sister our sincere condolence in their deep affliction and a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Over the road of woe to the land that is free from tears;
Up from the haunts of men to the place where angels are
This is the road of mortality to the wonderful goal afar."

Lt. Col. C. Boyer, C. E. Relates More of African Trip

Editor's Note:—This week we are printing another installment of the interesting trip written by Lieut. Col. C. L. Boyer, stationed somewhere in Africa. Lt. Col. Boyer is a brother of Mrs. Geo. Harris of Plymouth Rural, and attended the Shelby schools about will be remembered by many in this community.

Away we go on another trip, this time in a 1940 Ford sedan, and carrying no rations except chocolates and water; this water is a nuisance for we are not supposed to drink any water, but we usually carry a canteen full wherever we go.

The country was not so interesting for the first half day, as it was low and flat, green pastures, and acres of wheat and garden, and the natives all lived in grass or fibre huts—conical tops—or in black camel-hair square tents, most however, were the small conical-topped huts about 10 feet in diameter, and were surrounded by a thatched roof fence; a skin hung down over the opening to serve as a door.

And in the afternoon we came to some low rolling hills, green pastures, good grazing land, and used by herds of cattle and sheep, on into the hills for a few miles to a certain crossroads where some of our soldiers were on guard, and a small sign showed that the place would be hard for the enemy to take.

No one was allowed to go beyond that point without a pass, and then at your own risk. This was a low ridge, in the wide valley; the low hills barren of trees, but green with good grass—just like the rolling plains of South Dakota where I lived years ago.

Several miles across the plains in front, the prairie rose in a series of higher foothills, gradually rising higher and higher, until in the far distance the snowy tops of high peaks showed above them all. It was all so beautiful and peaceful—a vacation land! But we knew what lay behind those peaceful hills, and decided to continue our reconnaissance in another direction, and across the territory for some future time—maybe!

And so we turned off on a side road away from the declining hills, and finally came down to the flat, treeless plains and entered a region of more low hills, in between two mountain ranges—in one of which lived several years ago my old friend Abe Elmer, whom I have not seen, nor do I know if he is still alive!—This was a more interesting country and the road again followed the slopes of the hills, climbing up and down, winding back into sharp ravines of rocks and cactus where it could find foothold sufficient to turn around and come back higher up the mountain side—one stupendous mountain, barren and rock-covered—six switchbacks to get to the top of the pass, and the road almost crossed itself trying to climb up. From the top one could look back over vast distances of rolling green hills, browns and purple shadows, sharper, closer below, but getting even closer in the far distance until in the blue haze the high snowy peaks of the southern mountains could be seen—a treeless world of barren hills, with little stone villages nestled here and there among the far folds of the hills, their flat tops gleaming white under the golden rays of the setting sun, with rainbow colors crimsoning the lower jumbles of the white scurrying clouds.

And so over the pass and down the other side into another wide valley with a wide, blue-ribbon river making long ox-bow loops from one side to the other, thru fields of light green pastures and among the acres of waving, dark green wheat—with here and there a farm house and barns of white stone, in a little oasis of trees—like a toy village—and a tiny thread of gold reaching out from the house through the green fields to touch the larger thread of lace that was the main road leading straight, as an arrow far down the center of the mile wide valley, to finally curve up between two hills, low brown hills, just beyond the low hills one could barely distinguish a whitish tangle of stone buildings with many a tiny spire and tower glistening up out of the mass—an ancient city with a history of fantastic stories.

What Is Gasoline?

A recent ruling of the Office of Price Administration has caused considerable confusion among fuel country farmers. Any fuel that is used in an internal combustion engine and that has a flash point below 100 degrees, Fahrenheit, is now classed as gasoline and gasoline ration coupons must be obtained from the local retail dealer to obtain this fuel.

The confusion comes because of the fact that certain distributors of petroleum products sell a fuel known as distillate that has a flash point above 100 degrees, Fahrenheit, and that has a flash point below 100.

The local Board has issued confusing instruction and now asks the farm tractor users to consult with their suppliers and if they have been issued the wrong coupons it is suggested that they send them into the Board with a letter stating their needs and the Board will exchange the coupons immediately.

Lift Expiration Dates

In a week-end notice to the Huron county War Price and Rationing Board, the OPA did away with the provision in tire permits issued, that the permit must be used within 30 days from date of issuance. This action will greatly benefit the hundreds of motorists in the county who have permits for Grade 3 tires, but are unable to use them because the government has not distributed the used casings Grade 3 which it has in warehouses throughout the country.

Eligibility for tires is now based upon mileage per month, as follows: Grade 1 tires—C book holders driving 561 miles per month and up. Grade 2 tires—B book holders driving from 241 to 560 miles per month. Grade 3 tires—A book holders driving 240 miles or less per month.

Coupon Dates

Share-the-Ride Must Be Enforced

A new drive to force greater sharing of rides among workers and the public generally is scheduled for the near future by request of the Office of Price Administration. Figures show that mileage goal established in the Baruch report on rubber has not been met, and as a result the supplemental gasoline granted for occupational mileage may be jeopardized for those workers who have chosen to ride alone and from their places of employment.

New rules and granting extra gasoline ration make it mandatory that such ration be denied unless the applicant has formed a bona fide full ride-sharing club, or the applicant presents evidence to the ration board that alternative means of transportation are not available or adequate. In event of the latter, the applicant must show that he is sharing his car with as many people as is possible. Principal target in the new campaign is the transportation committee in many plants, who have B and C cards without investigating the ride-sharing arrangements of the individual applicants.

DRIVE IS OVER TOP

The Huron county Red Cross drive went over the top with a total of $21,268.56. Mrs. E. D. Cline, of Norwalk, secretary, reports. More than 76 of the divisions of the campaign have reported more than 100 per cent of the assigned quotas.

GIVES RULING

MANSFIELD JUDGE ORDERS BUTLER CASE TO BE HEARD IN APRIL TERM.

Damage suits filed in Richland county common pleas court, in Mansfield, last June by Willard Weekly, former Butler school superintendent, against Dr. John A. Reed, Ira George and Norman J. Stukey, all of Butler, will be docketed for hearing early in the April term, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch said in a ruling on the plaintiffs' motion for assignment.

The judge granted the defendants leave to file answers immediately to the plaintiff's charges that they attacked his character. Weekly seeks $10,000 damages from each of the defendants. They had been granted 30-day leaves in which to file answers last July. August and September having been in default since the judgment of the final period, the judge said.

Judge Kalbfleisch said the plaintiff would have two weeks in which to reply to their answers before the case is set for trial by jury.

LICENSE DEADLINE

LICENSE STICKER SALE LAGS THROUGHOUT STATE; IT MUST BE ON CAR.

Ohio's new fangled windshield sticker license apparently do not have the customer appeal of the traditional steel license plates. Cylon W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, stated. As one motorist said, "It seems such a little bit to get for your money." But at that, it is a heap less trouble than affixing new plates that have a habit of not wanting to come off.

The purchase of the stickers is just as essential this year as the buying of tags in previous years, but until the first of the week the sale lagged far behind all recent years. Wednesday midnight was the deadline and drivers who do not display the 1943 windshield stickers in conjunction with the 1942 license plates will be subject to a $25.00 fine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ervin were the deputies for Plymouth.

Pointers on Points

Meat and cheese lovers are going to have to get along on considerably less, for the duration, and possibly for some time afterward. Here J. H. Westing (left) and Leon Boshua, the Office of Price Administration use models as they explain the meat and cheese rationing system to members of the press in Washington.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN COLUMBUS

Arthur Perry Grosocost died on Thursday morning at the home of his son, Glenn Grosocost, in Columbus.

He was the son of Daniel and Isabella Ross Grosocost and was born in Shiloh, Sept. 7, 1860, and lived here until early manhood, and then established his home in Mansfield and was stationery engineer for the Tappan Store Co. many years, when he resigned on account of ill health. He then went to live at the home of his son in Columbus.

The direct cause of his death was from a fall which he received a few weeks previous.

He was the last member of his immediate family, all of whom were well-known by the older residents. His wife, Hulda Paine Grosocost preceded him in death Feb. 1924, and one son, Harry, about two years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Glenn of Columbus, at whose home he died, and Edward of Cleveland; seven grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

The body was taken to the Wagner funeral home in Mansfield where services were held Saturday at 11 a. m. Rev. E. R. Walborn, pastor of the Indianapolis Lutheran church, Columbus, officiated. Burial was in the Mansfield cemetery.

W. Young of Cleveland and Miss Anna Benton attended the services. Mr. Young had joined Mrs. Young at the Benton home for the week-end.

MORE MONEY FOR THE RED CROSS FUND

The chairman for the Red Cross drive in this place, Mrs. Fern Reynolds, reports $8.00 additional towards that fund.

One little incident of patriotism deserves public notice. The amount given by the loyal Kentucky residents of our town totaled $33, a wonderful contribution. Miss Anna Benton had been assigned to that territory and on last Saturday morning a man, who had given freely, brought a dollar bill and with the remark, "I felt I could spare it for such a worthy cause." Truly patriotic work is counting for our boys in service. The encouragement they find in their recollections and was means much to them.

SENIOR CLASS NEWS

Lights! Curtains! Action! A lot of action I can see! All I see is something on the sofa that sounds as if it's sawing wood. Yes, folks, introducing Okey Gump, the ideal jazy farmer who likes nothing better than to eat and sleep. Ah, but this is no for long.

"Okey, Okey Gump! Well, at last I've found him. Wake up, Okey!" Miss Julietta Bean, folks, the owner of the Splinterville boarding house, and Okey's employer. Looks like Okey's nap is over.

When did all this come off? It hasn't yet but it will on April 30 when the Seniors present "The Little Clobberer".

The part of Okey Gump, a fresh country product, by heck, is taken by Paul Clark and if I know Paul's ability, it'll be a scream. Blanche is played by Miss Julietta Bean, the Splinterville boarding house keeper. There's rumors that Blanche is a man-hater but this part rather contradicts this as she can't and handsome! I see.

To hear and see more of these delightful characters make plans to attend the Senior Class play, April 30.

Watch for Senior Class news next week when other characters from the "Little Clobberer" will be introduced.

CAFETERIA CLOSES

The school cafeteria closed last Friday. Both Home Ec classes served noon-day lunches the last three days of each week through the months of January, February and March.

Lewis Forces Higher Wage Issues

15% Wage Boost Over 1941 Unfair, Union Heads Say

Labor Income Keeps Abreast Of Rising Living Costs.

Organized labor has been working hard to crack the administration's wage stabilization program recently, but it seems as if labor's own styled bad-boy, John L. Lewis, will take the first real step toward forcing the issue.

At the present time, Lewis' United Mine Workers Union is negotiating with Appalachian soft coal operators for a $2 a day wage increase. If granted, 450,000 miners would stand to benefit in the Appalachian region alone. Another 125,000 miners in other areas also could be expected to receive similar boosts.

Lewis' demands are a direct attack upon the War Labor board's policy of granting a 15 per cent wage increase over the period from January, 1941, to May, 1942, to meet the rising cost of living. The board, consisting of representatives of labor, management and the public, adopted this formula for wages in awarding raises within these limits to the employees of "Little Steel." It became the established policy of the administration.

Although the most outspoken, Lewis has not been alone in the labor field in denouncing the WLB formula. Both the AFL and CIO have attacked it. The labor representatives on the WLB are made up of AFL and CIO men and they have been insisting that the board revise the formula for the purpose of revising it upward.

With his characteristic audacity, it is Lewis who is forcing a showdown on the question. His demand for a $2 a day wage boost is being strongly resisted on the grounds that such an increase would break down the stabilization program and lead to price raises all through industry. Equals would have to be marked up to allow manufacturers to pay the increases and government ceilings would blow up in the air all along the line. Inflation would automatically follow, it is said.

Miners Now Get $7 a Day

Wages Keep Ahead of Prices
Now, the miners are being paid a basic rate of $7 a day. They work a 3-day week. If Lewis' demands are met, each miner would receive an amount of $10 a week, $40 a month, or $480 a year, conceding a full year's salary increase. The total bill would aggregate approximately $340,000,000.

Looking over the situation as a whole, wages seem to have kept well abreast of prices during the period of 1939 to 1942. The amount of goods that money can buy, also appear to have favored the worker.

According to the WLB, the cost of living climbed 15 per cent from January of 1939 to May of 1942. During this period, WLB adds, hourly wages had been raised 20 per cent and weekly wages $4.8 per cent.

Up to November of 1942, the cost of living had risen 15 per cent above 1939. At the same time, hourly earnings had bounced up 41 per cent and weekly earnings 71 per cent.

However, many factors enter into the picture. Representatives of labor point out that wages had been paid inordinately low during the depression while all prices except farm prices had been relatively high. Therefore, when the boom came, wages had a lot of room to go. Farm prices, which react to the demand and supply factor, naturally rose, and manufactured items had to be increased at the same percentage as wages paid for making the articles went up.

Statistics bear out their argument. The cost of the food recorded the highest rise in the period up to November, 1942. It rose 33 per cent. Clothing bounced up 23 per cent and household furnishings 22 per cent. All other items registered moderate gains.

For instance, the government's rent freeze was instrumental in keeping down the cost of food to a moderate 3 per cent. Fuel, electricity and ice went up only 7 per cent while miscellaneous items were raised 11 per cent. All these figures, of course, are on an average basis, and do not reflect wide variances in particular cases.

Figured on a dollar and cents basis, average hourly earnings in 1939 was $3. By 1942, they had jumped to $6.

The average worker put in 44 hours a week in 1942 for which he got $30.74, while in 1939 he was employed 38 hours a week at a wage of $23.52.

"Real" Wages Boost Income

Over increases in prices
In consenting upon labor's demand for a revision of the "Little Steel" formula of limiting wage boosts to 15 per cent, Road J. Lapham, industry member of the WLB, said: "... The petition for modification of the 'Little Steel' formula takes no account of the fact that the increase in actual earnings or weekly take-home (pay) in this country has greatly exceeded the increase in the cost of living."

Statistics seem to bear out Lapham's statement. "Real" wages, that is, the amount of goods that money can buy - increased 41 per cent from 1939 to 1942. In other words, while workers' wages were going up, the price of goods was rising at a slower rate and was relatively stabilized. As a result, people did not have to pay out their money for more and more necessities, but on the other hand, they had that much more extra money to spend for more goods.

That is, they would have had that much more money to spend on goods or to have more goods being manufactured. The almost complete conversion of industry to war production and the rationing of many vital materials to manufacturers of ships, tanks, planes, etc., severely cut the output of consumer goods.

So great has been the stimulus of war production that manufacturers are operating at a rate four times that of 1939. But it must be remembered that their production is being confined to essential armaments, munitions and supply. On the other hand, production for consumption of the people has fallen 46 per cent.

Roughly the government is funneling about 50 per cent of its war expenditure through taxes. War bonds will not tap up more than 10 per cent of the national income. That still leaves the public with an appreciable amount of expendable purchasing power.

Price control has prevented an inflationary bid for merchandise. But additional wage increases, it is believed, will result in higher manufacturing costs and demands for higher ceilings. Such a spiral would endanger the whole stabilization program, it is said.

Statistics show that fuel, electricity and food have risen only 7 per cent since 1939 in comparison with the overall increase of 15 per cent in the cost of living. As far as the miners are concerned, that gives Lewis a basis for his demands.

THE FIRST WAR alarm clocks are expected to be ready today, and that's no April Fool joke. There will be no metal in the cases and only 7 pounds of brass and 400 pounds of steel in each 1000 of them. There will be but one model made - and if you don't happen to like it, you can sleep mornings.

THE FIRST LAYER OF the winter's accumulation of dirt on the public square was lifted the first of the week. Spring will soon be here.

THE SOLDIER knelt at his wife's side, as she gasped, "Steve, I'm dying but I want you to know that I've been unfaithful."

"I know," Steven answered, "why do you think I poisoned you?"

THE SMALLEST book in the world is the "Who's Who in Germany" - Adolph Hitler.
