FARMERS OPPOSED TO A FOURTH TERM AND 11 MILLION MAN ARMY

The nation's farmers are opposed to a fourth term for Franklin D. Roosevelt and armed forces totalling eleven million men by the end of 1943, according to the May "Farmer Speaks" poll conducted by a national research organization for Successful Farming magazine.

Asked the question, "Would you like to see President Roosevelt run for a fourth term next year?" 28 per cent of all farmers answered "Yes," and 51 per cent answered "No." Fifteen per cent answered that it all depends on how the war was going, and six per cent did not commit themselves.

Midwest farmers are more violently opposed to a fourth term, with only 19 per cent replying "yes" to the question. Fifty-nine per cent answered "no," and 15 per cent said that it depended on how the war was going, and seven per cent did not commit themselves.

In answer to the question, "Do you think we should not should not increase our armed forces to 11 million men this year?" 29 per cent of all the nation's farmers answered that we should, 43 per cent are opposed and 28 per cent were undecided. Twenty-five per cent of the Midwest farmers answered that we should have an army of 11 million men by the end of 1943, while 47 per cent felt that we should not. Twenty-eight per cent had not decided.

According to Successful Farming, the "Farmer Speaks" revealed in January, 1940, that 49 per cent of all farmers were for a third term, so in spite of Roosevelt's unprecedented stay in the White House, the nation's farmers are opposing a fourth term more vigorously than the third.

Among those for a fourth term, a farm woman in Minnesota says, "Roosevelt has the war situation well in hand that I should hate to see any change." A New York farmer comments, "In my opinion he has been a great president."

Some farmers are opposed to a fourth term, according to the poll, still had favorable comment about the president personally. A farmer in Missouri remarked, "Good, but I believe we oughten to do it." The not so favorable comments included, "Four terms for one president are too many, and he has had it long enough. We don't want a dictator."

Although military strategists insist that America must build up the armed forces to make certain of our objectives, the arguments in Congress have confused farmers, as well as other citizens, as to the clear-cut reasons for a large army. Opposition to the proposition, however, is more marked among farmers. As the "Farmer Speaks" disclosed last month, the farmer's great concern now is the shortage of farm labor. They'll have to deliver an all-time record food production, and farmers have been stripped of any help by the draft and war factories. Consequently, they do not look too kindly on measures that would aggravate the situation with no adequate compensations proposed for their labor problems.

PILGRIMAGE TO HOME FOR AGED SET FOR SUNDAY

The Elvira Home for the Aged cordially invites its friends to share in the 12th annual observance of Mother's Day by joining in a pilgrimage to the Home on Sunday, from 1 to 5 p. m. The program will begin at 3:00 o'clock. Dr. Louis Clinton Wright, president of Baldwin-Wallace college, will be the principal speaker, and Dr. E. Harold Mohr, District Superintendent of Canton District and President of the Board of Trustees of the Home, will preside. Special music will be rendered by the big choir of over 40 voices of Delaware avenue church, Lorain, directed by Wilbur H. Tipton of the Lorain High School. Light refreshments will be served in the dining hall during the afternoon in charge of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Home.

A Mother's Message on Mother's Day

SON,
IT TAKES COURAGE FOR YOU TO SERVE
YOUR COUNTRY ON THE FIGHTING FRONT;
IT TAKES COURAGE FOR ME TO DO MY BIT
ON THE HOME FRONT;
WHERE EVER WE ARE, WHAT EVER WE MAY BE DOING,
YOU ARE FIGHTING FOR ME AND I AM FIGHTING FOR YOU!
OUR COURAGE MUST NOT FALTER!

DUSTY MILLER TO BE SPEAKER AT COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Dusty Miller of Wilmington, O., has been secured as guest speaker for the 1943 graduating class of Plymouth High. The exercises have been set for Saturday evening, May 29, in the auditorium at 8 o'clock. While the Saturday evening commencement is a little out of the ordinary, it was the only open date available to have Mr. Miller as speaker.

Dusty Miller is unique among all American speakers. He says things eminently worthwhile; says them humorously and helpfully. For days and days after a meeting he addresses, everybody keeps remembering his cheer and his inspiration.

In a short bulletin commenting on his addresses and books, it states 326 represent the commencement invitations for 1942; he attended 14 showing the total up to 353 times he commenced.

Plymouth is very fortunate in having Mr. Miller as speaker and a capacity-filled house is expected.

GEO EASTMAN DIES SUDDENLY

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD ON TUESDAY; BURIAL MADE IN GREENLAWN.

Following several months' ill health culminating in a stroke, George Eastman passed away early Sunday morning, May 2, at the family home on Plymouth street.

The son of Albert and Mary Eastman, he was born Feb. 27, 1884, near Havana, Huron county, Ohio, and resided in this community the most of his life.

Until ill health overcame him, he was employed as a machinist at the Fate-Roth-Heath Company the past sixteen years, coming to work at the local shop from Cleveland, where he had previously been employed.

He was a splendid worker and well-liked by all who knew him. Surviving his widow Stella, his father Albert Eastman, Willard, a daughter, Mrs. Grace Trilling and granddaughter, Juanita Trilling of New York City; three sisters, Mrs. Alta Kipp Willard, Mrs. Ermina Conley of Cleveland and Mrs. Dora Watson of Columbus; one brother, Raymond of Detroit, also survives.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home, the Rev. H. L. Bethel, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating, and burial made in Greenlawn cemetery. The Miller-McQuate funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

LEAVES FOR SERVICE

Roy Palmer of Shelby has been inducted into the armed forces and is now located at Camp Polk, La. His wife, the former Miss Betty Entler, will return to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Entler, Rfd, Plymouth, Indefinitely.

HOLD RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services were held at Willard on Wednesday afternoon for John Wurtz, 84, who died on Monday following a stroke. Rev. C. H. Heffelfinger, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, officiated. Burial was made in Greenlawn cemetery, Plymouth.

WANTED!

Every available room in Plymouth for either light housekeeping or sleeping quarters. An urgent appeal has been made to the Advertiser to list rooms available with officials at the Parsel Air Supply Depot, who state that a serious shortage of rooms for the workers is being experienced.

Seldom a day passes that inquiries are not made here and we do the best we can, but without a posted list, we are at a loss to advise those in search for rooms. With the summer months at hand, the heating problem will be lessened and the Shelby projected is expected to continue for at least six months.

Shelby is doing all it can to help in housing the workers, but there are many homes in Plymouth with a spare room that should be available to those employed on this national emergency. Leaving the financial angle out of the situation, it is the duty of every resident in town who can possibly accommodate an extra roomer to do so.

The Parsel Air Supply Depot is named after one of our own boys and we are proud and honored for it, so we feel sure Plymouth will come forward and do its share to complete the project.

If you have one, two or more sleeping rooms, or rooms for light housekeeping, please call 59. The Advertiser will list them and send them into Shelby for reference.

SON WOUNDED

CRESTLINE PARENTS NOTIFIED BY WAR DEPT.

CRESTLINE — Stationed with the U. S. army air forces in North Africa, Staff Sgt. Robert O'Heron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Heron of North Thomas St., Crestline, Ohio, has been wounded in action. His parents were informed Tuesday.

A telegram from the war department said Sgt. O'Heron was wounded April 17, a year from the date he entered the armed services. He has been overseas since early in December.

Twice decorated for bravery, Sgt. O'Heron, a gunner aboard a flying fortress, received training at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and at the AAF gunnery school at Las Vegas, Tex.

He is a nephew of E. B. Curpen, Ott Curpen and Mrs. Minnie Watson of Plymouth, and a letter recently received by Mr. McManus, editor of the Crestline Advocate, is published in this issue.

JOINS THE WAVES

Miss Gwendolyn Perkins, teacher in the Willard grade school, and a daughter of the late Rev. S. Grant Perkins, has been accepted by the WAVES. She expects to complete the school year before leaving for service.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittlesseed)

SPEAKING of the child problem in Plymouth, we highly urge our readers to look on the editorial page of Wednesday's Cleveland Plain Dealer and read the article: "Parents, Not Children, Are Delinquents."

THERE ARE others in Plymouth who have reached the age of 65, but congratulations this week go to John A. Root, who observed his 65th birthday last Sunday, May 2. Ordinarily 65 years will "age" any man, but being president of a manufacturing concern for almost a quarter of a century should put on additional "lines." Not so with John Root. He has managed to hold his age well, keeping a pleasant disposition at all times, and best of all, he has been a real benefactor to Plymouth's religious and civic organizations—those are real reasons for congratulations, Mr. Root.

ISN'T THERE someone in town who can paint the traffic light standard. If you can, advise the Mayor—you'll probably get a job.

THIS IS how a blank thought looks on paper:

I BELIEVE in advertising, but a near by monumental works must be participating a few of us kicking off this spring. An advertisement appearing in the Monroeville Spectator, says: You are invited to attend the Spring showing of markers, etc."

SEE WHERE THE WPA has finished up its business in the State of Ohio after spending over nine hundred million dollars. Believe me, I'd be ready to quit too if I had spent that much especially with nothing to show for it.

HURON County Treasurer Harold B. Collier has been appointed chairman of the Huron County Defense Council to succeed Edward G. Martin, Common Pleas Judge, who is seriously ill at the Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

A DETAILED survey shows that last week's tornado north of Plymouth damaged 259 buildings and destroyed 172. It is estimated $12,000 worth of lumber will be needed to make repairs.

ONE OF the freaks of the tornado last week occurred when the "blow" hit the Hartland Center schools, taking some of the books a distance of 50 miles.

A MILLION dollars worth of beef came to Plymouth on Tuesday when five carloads of cattle consigned to Bachrach Bros. arrived in town via the B & O from the West. All I can afford is a good look at them.

JAKE MYERS says the way people are having their shoes half-soled there must be a tremendous saving in gas. Yet, there are a lot of people who could save their soles by using their heads.

Shown above is Lieut. Gen. Lester J. McNair, commanding of ground forces of the United States army, who was wounded by shell fragments while at a forward observation post in Tunisia. Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the Second army, has taken temporary command of ground forces.

Chennault's Sons

The carpet sweeper is used to keep the rug looking neat and to take up crumbs and sand before they have a chance to become imbedded in the carpet. The daily use of the hand sweeper will save the vacuum cleaner, too.

...Good shampooing brightens the spots and takes out most of the dirt after the rug has been thoroughly cleaned. Scrub no more than two square feet at a time, using a moderately stiff scrubbing brush and a little jelly. When the dirt is loosened and a good lather is worked up with the brush, the lather is wiped up with a cloth wrung out of clear water, sponging until all the soap is removed. Then the cleaned spot is rubbed with a dry, clean cloth. The rinsing water should be changed frequently, just as soon as it becomes soapy.
...There are excellent cleaning powders that are rubbed into the carpet and then taken up with the vacuum cleaner. This dry cleaning makes for quicker use of the rug because it is not so easy to scrub. A rug to dry after scrubbing.

DANCE SPONSORED
The Senior Class is sponsoring a dance which will be held at the High School auditorium on Saturday, May 15. A five-piece orchestra will be on hand to furnish the music. Dancing will continue from 8:30 till 11:30. The admission will be 25c per person. Let's see you there. Don't forget the date, May 15.

THE SNOOPER
In the middle of a whispered conversation between Bob Hamman and Betty Seaman in Chemistry, Mr. Joseph fired a question at Bob. We were all very much surprised to hear Bob answer, "On theavenport!" The question was concerned with carbohydrates we couldn't get the connection. Can you?

Here's a tip! If you want to keep your skin out of the Snoopers' Column, all you have to do is buy the Snooper a sundae. That's all it takes! (Nice little racket I've got here, isn't it?)

Bill Van Wagner has finally decided upon the girl of his choice for the banquet. The lucky girl is none other than Joan Washburn. But don't take this too seriously. A lot can happen in the space of a few days!

Be sure and plan on coming to the Senior Dance which will be held on Saturday, May 15, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

NEW FLAG GIVEN TO LOCAL CHAPTER

At the regular meeting of Angulus Chapter O.E.S. on Wednesday evening a beautiful silk flag was presented to the chapter in a short address.
Those taking part were the representatives of the central star, Mrs. Faye Zackman, Miss Margaret Harnly, Mrs. Fern Pittenger, Mrs. Jean Smith and Mrs. Hermie Sibbett who paid tribute to the flag, and the conductress Mrs. Beatrice Malone who gave a few important facts pertaining to its symbolism. The marshal F. C. Dawson had brought the flag the east was properly holding it until the close of the service, and then very impressively gave a short speech explaining what the flag stands for and why we honor it, and how it got in the care of the worthy matron, Mrs. Ebbra Briggs, who accepted it for the chapter. The entire chapter then gave the pledge of allegiance.

The new flag is made especially for Eastern Star chapters, a star tops the eight foot staff which rests in an iron standard. This flag replaces one that has been used for years and is badly tattered.

The chapter plans for initiation at the next meeting and all members are requested to be present.

Fire Destroys Brooder House

While Mr. and Mrs. Lester Seaman and family were attending the school entertainment Friday afternoon, fire was discovered in their large brooder house by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moser, who were returning home from Greenwich. Mr. Moser notified the fire department which responded very promptly, and in less time than it takes to tell it, had Mr. Seaman in his car rushing him home.

It was impossible for Mr. Seaman to get his car out from the way that the cars were parked around it at the school house.

The brooder house contained 600 chickens and it seems miraculous that the loss was only about 100, although the floor which was double and well-padded, and the walls were a complete loss. It was a very windy night, and the willing help was all that saved the buildings. No insurance was carried.

NOTICE TO ALL WOMEN
A meeting of interest for all women will be held Thursday afternoon, beginning at one o'clock, in the Red Cross room. The purpose of this meeting is to learn the proper tying of broken springs in cushions. The instructor is Mrs. Ralph Oswalt of near Painesville. Remember, all women in the community are welcome to receive instruction in this splendid project. All you are asked to do is to bring your cushion, muslin to cover it, and the string for tying. An opportunity of learning to aid in home construction.

MARKET SATURDAY
The True Cleaners Class of Mt. Hope Lutheran Sunday school will hold a market at the township home on Saturday afternoon, May 8. You can find something there that will be ideal for your Mother's Day dinner.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE
Mr. and Mrs. Emory Hopkins have sold their farm east of Shiloh, on account of ill health, and have moved to Mansfield.
Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Berry of Mansfield purchased the farm, and with their son William, are now residing there.

COMMUNITY SERVICE
The Community Service Center Sunday evening at the Methodist church will be in charge of the pastors of the two churches. They are endeavoring to secure local speakers. The theme will be: Mothers, in honor of the day.

CLASS OF 14 WILL GRADUATE

Commencement for Cass Township Schools will be held Thursday evening, May 20, at 8:15 at the school auditorium.
Rev. J. Oscar Winage of Akron will be the speaker. Rev. Winage, a former college professor, comes highly recommended.

Janice Mae Moser is valedictorian and Mary Brook, salutatorian.
The fourteen in the class are: Mary Brook, Paul Clark, Dorothy Diebert, Eleanor Garrett, Helen Guthrie, Blaine Haverfield, Alfred James, Jr., Janice Moser, Blanch Smith, Jane Stiving, Joyce Witham, Deloris Zeigler and Dorothy Dingler.

Baccalaureate services will be held at Mt. Hope Lutheran church Sunday evening, May 16 at 8:15. Rev. E. R. Haines will address the class.

JOSEPH RESIGNS AS HEAD OF SCHOOLS

Supt. E. J. Joseph has resigned his position in the school here as superintendent, and has accepted a similar one with the McComb schools.

Supt. Joseph and family will remain in Shiloh until the first of August. The other teachers have been rehired, but some resignations are expected.

Mr. Joseph's new position is much more lucrative, and the McComb schools have a higher enrollment of pupils.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

April, 1943

Dear Tommy:
Well, Tommy, there has not happened since I have seen you the last time. I have traveled many miles. I left North Carolina about two months, in fact, Feb. 14, 1943. Then they shipped me down here in the swamps of Florida. We left North Carolina about 1:00 p. m., and it was snowing, but when we were out of it. We came down through your home state, Georgia, isn't it?
I get the home paper about twice a month and it is sure welcome down here. It should be put out more than once a week. It is very warm down here. In fact we or rather our clothes, are wet all of the time. I have been swimming in the Gulf of Mexico at least twice a week since I've been here.
Say, Tommy, what has happened to Hank Watts? I haven't heard of him for some time. I am about 50 miles away from Tallahassee, that is the large town close to the camp.
Is the old home town as dead as ever? There is not much more to say, so I guess I better close. Just buy more War Bonds.
Your friend,
Allen Norris, Jr.
Co. L, APO 28, Div. 109 Inf. Camp Gordon Johnston, Florida.

Dear Allen:
I think I'm right when I say the home folks will appreciate your letter. We're about all the same in Plymouth—still a few "grunters," but there are a lot more optimists—especially the boys who are buying bonds, and working long hours. I'm certain that it's not the money end the fellows are thinking of, but rather the fact that we all realize every hour counts in this war, because it takes more material

Parents of "Quizz Kids" List 8 Fundamental Rules of Upbringing

Those who listen to "Quizz Kids" may think these children are abnormal. They insist they are just normal "kids." The eight fundamental rules followed by parents in "bringing up their children" may be of interest to many parents. They follow:
1—Treat him as an adult.
2—Always assume a child is anxious to do right and any deviation is unintentional.
3—Never presume on your authority as a parent.
4—Permit a great deal of liberty on unimportant details, but where real issues are concerned be adamant. Above all don't let the child talk you down.
5—A father and mother must present a united front. If there is any difference in opinion, discuss it in private.
6—Remind the child it is just as easy to be polite as rude. Teach him special regard for older people, to be reserved in public and to have nice manners.
7—A child needs mental stimulation. Conversation at home should be alive and imaginative. A child does not do his best unless he has an incentive. Parents should make learning easy by being interested in their child's studies.
8—Give your child opportunity for religious training.

WHEN WILL THE NAZIS SAY 'UNCLE'?

The reports we get on those all-out bombings of German cities usually are confined to what the bombardiers saw—smoke, explosions, flames shooting high into the air and fires that could be seen for miles.

The story of what these night-after-night bombings are doing to German war production and what they are doing to the nerves of the German people is one that we never will be told accurately until the war.

But the easiest way to picture what it must be doing is to compare what it would be like if hundreds of bombers flew over our country day and night dropping block-busters on the factories in Detroit, Chicago, New York and our other production cities. We could take that, just as the English did, but there is no question that such bombings as have been inflicted on Germany recently would be a terrific blow to our production and a severe strain on the workers.

We have no experience in history with which the raids on Germany can be compared. We have no way of knowing how much of this it will take to make them say "Uncle." But it seems quite conceivable that it wouldn't take many more months of such attacks to break the morale and destroy production throughout Germany.

A 7,500,000-ACRE GARDEN

When some of us start planting a little 20x20 Victory garden in the backyard it may be hard to see how this midget farm, which may or may not produce a few beans, tomatoes and heads of lettuce, can do much to help solve the nation's food shortage problem.

But when all the Victory gardens are added together they can produce more than the biggest farm in the nation. It is estimated that the total space devoted to Victory gardens will be close to seven and a half million acres.

Of course there will be some gardens which don't work out, but that is true of some crops on even the most well cared for farms. Bugs, wind, dry spells or rain always do considerable damage.

But it is important that everyone of us look upon our Victory garden as a real contribution to the war—as part of the acreage which is being counted upon to supply our soldiers and civilians with food. For each pound of vegetables we grow, the civilian demand is so reduced.

Inflation—The Snake in the Grass

And now the President is being accused by some deep thinkers of inflicting damage to the war program by his "dollar" battle against inflation. Do these Einstein analysts believe inflation will help the war production? Don't they realize that inflation—if it gets out of hand—can not only put a stop to war production but can lose the war for us—and the peace also? Do the intellectual leaders who criticize the President for this determined and courageous struggle to save us from ourselves believe that inflation is a sort of economic indigestion which finally "peters out" by itself? Probably. If they would read up on a few past performances of runaway inflation they would discover it usually starts out like the present movement—slowly gaining momentum through the same processes which are taking place today, and finally—breaking down—control—bankrupting nations and empires before it runs out its mad course.

We have already felt the first stirrings of inflation. We find our dollars won't buy as much as before. We don't know whether to blame it on rising prices or "falling dollars." We can blame it on both, and on ourselves: because every time we allow our representatives in government or elsewhere to "jack up" the price of one commodity, we cause rising prices all along the line; and every time labor allows its leaders to force up wages, they create more and ever cheaper dollars.

How does it benefit the farmer to get higher prices for his products in April if labor is going to "jack up" their wages in May and the manufacturers "jack" theirs in June? How does it benefit the wage-earner to double or treble his wages if he is going to have to pay twice and three times as much for his food and other purchases? If a laborer was getting a dollar per day, and the food and clothing and necessities were selling on an equivalent basis, he would be just as well off as he will be if he, and the rest of us, force his wages up to $100.00 per day and commodity prices rise in equivalent ratio. No one would benefit one penny's worth and the day of punishment would come when labor is allowed to raise the factories closed down and dollars, instead of being a "drug on the market," become scarce.

In a radio speech this past February, Hon. James P. Byrnes, Director of Economic Stabilization, said: "The American industrial worker and his family today enjoy the highest purchasing power that has ever existed in this or any other country. If we preserve and protect this purchasing power, it will constitute the basis of an unparalleled post-war prosperity. Rising prices will, on the other hand, destroy this purchasing power. A frantic race between rising wages and rising prices, far from helping the worker, will ruin and degrade the worker and his family, depriving them of all the gains so far built up over the years."

"The position of the farmer is equally favorable. The relation of farm costs to farm income is the most favorable ever attained in our history. The stabilization act provides a guarantee to the farmer of 85 to 90 per cent of parity prices on basic crops during the war and for at least two crop years after the first day of January following the formal declaration of the termination of hostilities. That is a real effort to protect the farmer against post-war deflation. But the effort will fail if we cannot prevent runaway inflation."

APPROVE REPAIRS

Stolen Car Recovered Near Willard Monday

Car stealing is on the increase in this vicinity. Saturday noon the Ford V-8 convertible coupe, belonging to Clela Stidman was stolen while it was parked in front of the Advertiser office.

Mr. and Mrs. Stidman were doing their shopping, having parked their car, and just as Mr. Stidman was coming out of the Crispin store, he saw someone driving off in his machine. He tried to stop the driver, by calling out to him, but the car drifted into high speed toward New Haven.

Highway Patrol Station at Bellevue was notified by Clay Hulbert, village policeman, who reported the theft and gave the necessary information. No word was received of the stolen car until Monday when Marshal Hulbert was notified by Willard authorities that the stolen car had been located near the Willard reservoir.

The car was abandoned by the driver when he drove onto a "dead-end" street, and in his attempt to turn around, the car became stuck in the mud making it impossible to continue his travel. Fearing to call a garage, the driver abandoned the car, with no damage reported.

The Stidmans reside on the Wm. Paine farm near Plymouth.

BOB O'HERON, NEPHEW OF LOCAL PEOPLE; TELLS OF MANY NARROW ESCAPES; IS WOUNDED IN AFRICA

The following letter was received by Mr. James McMahon, editor and publisher of the Crestline Advocate from Bob O'Heron. Bob was born and raised in Plymouth and before entering the service visited his relatives here on many occasions. The letter was submitted to the Advertiser through the courtesy of his aunt, Mrs. Minnie Watson.

The Advertiser has previously printed excerpts of his narrow escapes in Africa, taken from the Erie Pyle column in the daily papers. Tuesday of this week, his parents were notified that he had been wounded, but here's hoping his luck holds out and that his wounds are not serious.

The letter follows: Dear Mr. McMahon and all the rest of you kind gentlemen that make it possible for us boys in the service to receive the news from home. Yesterday, I received four copies of The Advocate, all February issues, and it was just like getting a thousand letters from home. I wish to thank all of you very kindly.

I have read these papers from beginning to end, and know just what you mean when you say a vacation in the South is out for the duration. Before coming over here, in North Africa, I spent my last two weeks in West Palm Beach. I talked to some of the business men, and they were very discouraged and saw but few signs of state licenses, the same blacked out street lights, but like you, wish everyone could enjoy a visit down there after this war is won.

I don't wish anyone such bad luck as to be stationed here, but knowing how you like to travel. I do wish that you could visit some of the places over here that I have been at and see these Arabs and their ways of life and living. I know that you would enjoy seeing it, but would be very glad to get back to the good old United States. I know that this war is going to make a soldier appreciate America more than ever before. We never realized how nice we had things, and what a great life we Americans live, until we left it. I have been extremely lucky, and only hope that it holds out so that some day I can return to America.

I have had many close calls, as you can see from the foreign service news, but my number just hasn't come up yet. I used to make a joke out of telling how all four engines on our bomber, stalled in the air and how I had to get out and crank them, but one night in early January, when they actually did stall in the middle of the Sahara desert, it wasn't so funny, and I found my parachute to be a very handy article. Then in early February, a bullet from an enemy fighter came so close that it shot the lower half of my oxygen mask off. I was not only lucky enough to miss it by an inch, but was also lucky enough to have a spare mask along, as high at the time. You can see from the Associated Press that I got even with them a couple of days later. I've had many experiences that I wouldn't want to happen again to anyone, and yet I wouldn't take a million dollars for them.

I suppose some people wonder if we aren't too far away for the U. S. O. to entertain us, or for the American Red Cross to help us but we aren't. Upon returning from a hard mission one day, last month, the U. S. O. had four girls from Hollywood waiting to entertain us. They were Carol Landis, Kay Francis, Martha Raye and Mitzi Mayfair. All G. I.'s were present and accounted for and a good time was had by all.

On several other occasions upon returning from a raid, there were real American women from the American Red Cross, waiting to greet us with hot coffee and donuts. Back in the States all of this can be expected, but over here it is more than appreciated. It looks like everyone is really doing their party to win this war.

Thanking all of you again and hoping to see you soon. Bob O'Heron.

Short Services Held In Shelby For Youths

Short funeral services were held Sunday at the Barkdull funeral home in Shelby for Roy Thornbury and Willard Millican, the two youths who were killed in the car-train crash Friday night at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad crossing near Springfield.

The body of Mr. Millican was shipped to Cullman, Ala., where further funeral services were held Tuesday.

The body of Mr. Thornbury was shipped to Clearfield, Ky., where burial was made Tuesday.

SCOUT NEWS

Ronald Trauger has joined the Pine Tree Patrol. Prospective Scouts at Tuesday night's meeting were Donald Smith, Bill Trauger and Leland Cole.

Most of the time at our regular meeting was spent on Camporall preparations. This event is only two weeks away and promises to be a lot of fun.

We are looking forward to meeting all the mothers at next week's meeting. The 11th has been set apart as mother's night. A regular meeting will be presented. Refreshments will follow the meeting. Tenderfoot initiation will be held.

Troop Committee Chairman L. E. Brown announces the opening of a merit badge class in First Aid. The latter part of the week. You fellows who are working on this M. B. watch the bulletin board for the date.

CUB PARTY

Last week Den 2 had a party for Ronald Trauger who graduated from the Cubs. Our Den mother, Mrs. Trauger, presented Ronald with a birthday cake with 12 lighted candles. She also served ice cream. The Cubs gave him a pair of Scout socks. After that we went outside and played games.

CLEAN-UP WEEK MAY 10-15

Let's Clean-up and Beautify Plymouth

The period from Monday, May 10, through Saturday, May 15, has been set aside for our annual "CLEAN-UP PERIOD. Village officials, and the street department ask your cooperation in cleaning up the premises, and to gather all rubbish — properly placing it in boxes or containers and leaving it at the sidewalk curb, where the "collection crew" will pick it up.

In other words, clean up thoroughly all over. This is a health and safety measure. Then do as much painting and fixing up as you can; plant all the grass, flowers and shrubs you can; place all trash and rubbish in containers strong enough to be handled—paint or screen any ugly outbuildings. Do your share to make our village a better place in which to live.

FACULTY MEMBER BECOMES BRIDE OF SGT. JAMES GANAS

The paragonage of the First Presbyterian church of Lisbon, Ohio, was the scene of the quiet service which united in marriage Miss Mary Jane Scofield and Sergeant James Ganas of East Liverpool, on Saturday, April 24th at 5:30 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Robert Scofield of Jefferson, Ohio, and a member of Plymouth's school faculty and the groom is the son of Mrs. Margaret Ganas of East Liverpool.

Rev. Brownlee, pastor, read the single ring service. There were no attendants.

Miss Scofield was attired in a lavender traveling suit with white accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of white gardenias. Following a short wedding trip to Kent, Ohio, Sgt. Ganas returned to his station at Ft. Bliss at El Paso, Texas, and Mrs. Ganas returned to Plymouth the first of the week to complete her teaching duties here. At the close of the school year she will join her husband in Texas.

Both Sgt. Ganas, and Mrs. Ganas are graduates of Kent University, the former being a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, and Mrs. Ganas of the Beta Gamma sorority. Mrs. Ganas is teacher of English and Science in the local school this year and the best wishes of the community are extended to the young couple.

MARTHA JEFFERSON CLUB MEETING

When the May meeting of the Martha Jefferson Club convened Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. W. Firestone of Shiloh, Miss Ollie Ziegler was appointed vice president, succeeding Mrs. N. N. Ruckman, who has moved to New London.

The president, Miss Florence Mittenbuhler, was in charge of the meeting with current events answered to roll call. Mrs. Geisinger conducted the quiz and discussion which followed.

The June meeting is announced for the second Tuesday of the month and will meet with Mrs. Dewey Reynolds.

Refreshments were served the fourteen members present. Those from Plymouth in attendance included Mrs. H. H. Fackler, Mrs. N. B. Shepherd, Mrs. Sam Bachrach, Misses Elizabeth Weber and Florence Mittenbuhler; Mrs. Alvin Holtz, Mrs. John Eckstein and Marjorie Ehret from the township.

NEWLYWEDS TO BE HONORED

The session and trustees with their wives are holding a party at the Presbyterian manse this Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild. Mr. Fairchild has been, for several years, a member of the session.

UNITED WORKERS' CLASS MEETING

The United Workers of the Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Raymond Steele. Mrs. D. V. Smith, the president, directed the business sessions. Mrs. Gladys Vandervort had the devotional period and several other part of Mother's Day program. Mrs. Gertrude Hampton sang: That Wonderful Mother of Mine. The hostess had provided a large wedding cake and asked the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fairchild, to see that it was properly carved. All enjoyed the social hour and the dainty refreshments.

The next meeting will be held June 1 with Mr. and Mrs. Levi McDougal and Mrs. Tilton, host and hostesses. At that time Mrs. Teale will give a history of the organization.

VISIT DAUGHTER

Boys In Service Ask For Knives

PLYMOUTH RESIDENTS ARE ASKED TO DONATE HUNTING KNIVES.

Appeals from Ohio boys fighting in the Southwest Pacific to date prompted the state defense council to launch a campaign for hunting knives for distribution to soldiers who are now under constant threat of being ambushed by Japanese jungle fighters.

State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone urged 680 local defense councils to begin collecting hunting knives and "thus enable our boys to meet the Japs on even terms."

"Ambushed on every hand by Japanese jungle fighters hiding in trees, sand, rocks and undergrowth," Stone declared, "our boys must kill or be killed in this savage hand-to-hand combat."

He said that Ohio soldiers were asked for strong, durable hunting knives with a blade preferably six to eight inches in length.

"Each knife should be encased in a sheath," he added, "if this is not available, however, the Ohio State Defense Council will endeavor to provide them."

Stone said each knife should have a tag bearing the donor's name, address and telephone number.

In Plymouth donors are asked to get in touch with Mayor J. E. Parr, who will see that the knife you may donate, will reach the proper channels.

Receives Silver Wings

Lieut. Cecil C. Burr who, a week ago, graduated from the Advanced Flying School at Eagle Pass, Tex., was commissioned as second lieutenant and was home on a week's furlough.

Lieut. Burr returned Monday here by a P-38 fighter pilot, at Gowen Field, Boise, Idaho.

JAP SALIENTS IN THE PACIFIC

TODAY and TOMORROW By DON ROBINSON

WAR ADS . . . sponsors
Just as most of us don't pay much attention to the name of the sponsor when we listen to a radio program, then we draw the same proper attention to the signature on war bond advertisements and other war messages published in newspapers and magazines.

Our natural reaction to a war bond advertisement is to think about whether we can afford to buy more bonds than we are buying now—and of course that is the primary purpose of such advertising. But a considerable habit to form during these times would be to note the name of the sponsors too—just so we can give a nod of recognition to those individuals or business men who are digging into their pockets to pay for advertising to make the bond sale in their town a success.

Actually the people who pay for these ads are making more of a contribution to the war program than are those of us who simply buy bonds. For when a business man or a newspaper publisher spends money to push the sale of bonds he doesn't get his money back in ten years with interest nor does he get any other personal benefit from it. All he gets is the satisfaction of having helped some of his hard-earned money to a worthwhile cause.

GIFTS . . . newspapers
It is impossible to get any accurate figures on just how many millions of dollars have been loaned to support government war advertising, but the total figure would be staggered.

A lot of us, when we see bond advertising, or war messages about rationing, scrap collection, tire conservation, victory gardens and countless other wartime subjects, are apt to think that the government pays for these—if we think about the cost at all. But actually the government hasn't spent a nickel for such advertising. It has all been contributed by men and women who realize such campaigns are necessary and are willing to pitch in and help foot the bill.

Probably the greatest donation of all has been made by the newspaper publishers themselves. At a recent newspaper meeting, it was estimated that the newspapers have so far donated approximately $50,000,000 worth of advertising space to the war. This is in addition to the mass of stories and editorials, sent to them by Washington, which they have published.

It may be argued by those who don't analyze the situation that newspaper can give this space away without it costing them anything. But to a man who publishes a newspaper you might as well say that a steel company can afford to give away the steel for battleships. A newspaper publisher who gives away space is making a real dollar-and-cents donation. And there are plenty of publishers who are practically being forced out of business because they are giving too generously of that white space.

MERCHANTS . . . citizens
The general procedure, when the government has an advertisement it wants run, is to send a copy of it to each publisher. With the copy is a note from the interested government agency asking the publisher to try to find someone, or some group, to sponsor that advertisement in his newspaper.

Since the newspaper thinks first of the merchants in his town as advertisers, he usually takes it to them to see if they are willing to pay part of the cost. Some merchants are glad to do this occasionally, but most of them must wonder why they are singled out for such solicitations.

Actually it would seem as if such advertising messages should be backed by all members of the community. For it is of just as much concern to Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith that war bonds be sold as it is to the long-suffering merchants.

In some towns there have been organized Citizens War Advertising committees which raise funds to pay for these advertisements and determine which ones are most essential to run in their communities. This seems the fairest way to spread the cost of getting out necessary war messages to the people.

EVENING WEDDING SOLEMNIZED AT PRESBYTERIAN PARSONAGE

Wedding vows were exchanged at six o'clock Saturday evening by Miss Sara Jane Betts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Betts of East Main street road, Shelby, and Mr. Oliver L. Fairchild, foster son of Mrs. Bert Kuhn, R. D. 3, Shelby.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. L. Bethel in the parsonage of the Presbyterian church at Plymouth, with only the immediate families of the bride and groom present.

For her wedding the bride chose a mellow colored street length dress with white accessories and carried a white Bible and gardenias.

Mrs. Joseph Davis served as maid of honor. She was attired in a beige street length dress with brown accessories. Joseph Davis was the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Martin in Mansfield. The table was decorated in pink and white and centered by a four-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild are now on a short wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a gray suit with rose accessories and her corsage was sweetheart roses. Upon their return they will reside on a farm on the Shelby-Plymouth road.

The bride is a graduate of Shelby High school and the groom of Plymouth High school. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Betts and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Betts of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lybarger, Mr. and Mrs. William Betts and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Martin, Mansfield.

A New Service to The Community.. FROZEN FOOD LOCKER STORAGE

We have felt for some time that we could render a valuable service to this community if we would install a Frozen Food Locker Plant.

WE ALSO BELIEVE WE ARE THE LOGICAL PEOPLE TO ENTER THIS BUSINESS AS WE HAVE AMPLE REFRIGERATING EQUIPMENT to carry this load and have plenty of additional equipment in case of emergencies.

Foods are being rationed—it will be necessary to conserve food. While you may not be able to get all the meat you want to eat, there will be berries and vegetables. You may be compelled to pick your own berries and raise your vegetables.

At this point we expect to enter the picture and quick freeze your meats, berries, fruit and vegetables and furnish you locker space in which to keep them at zero temperatures.

In order to get the final word from the War Production Board to go ahead with this project it is necessary that we show that there is a demand for it. And the board insists the lockers be sold and the money placed in escrow before we can begin construction.

If you are interested in securing a locker call at the Shelby Ice and Fuel Co. office and arrange for one, or leave your name and we will have our solicitor call on you.

RED CROSS BLOOD DONOR UNIT SETS A 3 DAY SCHEDULE

In order to devote one day to the donations of the inmates of the Ohio State Reformatory, the Red Cross blood donor unit will be in Mansfield three days instead of two for the May donation.

The mobile unit will be in Mansfield May 13, 14, 15 and will spend Thursday, May 13, at the Reformatory. Friday the unit will be at the Presbyterian church from 1:45 to 5:45 p. m., and Saturday at John Simpson High from 10:45 a. m. to 2:45 p. m.

Letters have been sent out to January donors and new registrants asking them to schedule appointments as soon as possible. The quota for Friday and Saturday is 140 pints a day.

Mrs. Mabel McFadden, local Red Cross chairman, announces approximately ten donors from Plymouth for this registration and makes an appeal for more registrants.

Included in the group are several who have donated on previous occasions.

HIGHWAY PATROL TO OPERATE FROM BELLEVUE AGAIN

Manpower shortage has made it necessary to close both the Norwalk and Fremont posts of the highway patrol, Lieut. S. D. Augenstein of Findlay, commanding officer of this district, has just announced.

Effective May 10, the patrol will be located at 533 W. Main street, Bellevue. The post originally was located in this city.

Lieut. Augenstein said that practically the same territory covered under the present set-up will again be patrolled when the headquarters are established at Bellevue.

Port Clinton, Sandusky, Vermilion, Heaville, west of Fremont, Tiffin, Bucyrus and Willard are included in this district.

Officers to be assigned to the Bellevue post are Corporal J. C. Moore, in charge; Patrolman A. E. Fox, second in command, and Patrolmen P. E. Freeburn, S. D. Mullenix, M. J. Mayhew and C. L. Stalzer.

WPA CLOSES BUSINESS

The Works Projects Administration, once one of Ohio's largest employers, went out of business on Friday midnight.

The federal agency that hit a peak of 27,869 in its payroll on October, 1938, operated the last week with only 75 employees. A state WPA operations executive estimated that in handling virtually every kind of construction the WPA spent approximately $900,000 during the eight years it operated in the state.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Robert Garrett entered the Shelby Memorial hospital Tuesday evening when he underwent another operation on his right arm Wednesday morning. Broken six weeks ago in an auto accident the bone has never knitted correctly and it was necessary to insert a plate in the injured portion

CHAPTER III

SYNOPSIS

Timothy Hulme, principal of a good but impoverished Vermont academy, lives a studious and austere life with only his Aunt Lavinia for company. They take their meals at Miss Peck's, where other Clifford faculty members gather. When Timothy is rude to talkative Mrs. Washburn his aunt is misinterpreted as kindness by a new teacher, Susan Barney, who tells him how much she admires him for it. Now he feels he must explain.

That night, as he sat in his study correcting English papers, his mind informed him with more force than respect that this waiting for precisely the right occasion was nonsense. He set himself to think of a time at once, tomorrow, to get this small matter over with. It would be easiest to make an occasion in her classroom at the primary school. The regular routine of his supervising took him there once in a while. He would arrive near the end of the afternoon session, and stay on after the children had gone.

Alarmed when the next afternoon he stood beside the teacher's desk, his mouth was unexpectedly dry as he said, "I feel a little tired, Miss Barney, after my round of visits. I believe I'll just sit here for a moment after you have dismissed the class."

Alarmingly young she seemed to the man who sat listening to his voice to come under his control and who knew well how fatigue added to his own. He had been told to consider laying in such callow untried hands the potential dynamite he had brought with him. He was again not sure what was best to do, what was safe to do.

The silence and the soft dusty sunlight lay like an amber pool around the feet of the young teacher and so, if he had noticed it, he would have seen it. Absurd that this should give him the assurance he needed. Without bringing the front legs of his chair to the floor, his head still tipped back against the wall, he heard his voice, natural, unburdened, emphatic, just as he would have had it begin to explain to Susan Barney his real reason for what had looked to her like kindness to old Mrs. Washburn.

She sat up, one hand both hands flat on her desk, she leaned forward a little as if not to lose a single one of his astonishing words. She said nothing at first. When she finally perceived that he had finished, she exclaimed, "I never heard anything so interesting in all my life!"

He dropped the front legs of his chair to the floor with a click. "Interesting?"

"You could do that to anybody," she said eagerly. And leaning forward asked, "Did you ever do it for anybody but Mrs. Washburn?"

"Oh, Lord, yes!" The dangerous question came without his knowing it.

She sprang up, stepped around the table, and down there lay she asked in a low, confidential tone, "Did you ever figure Miss Peck out that way?"

The answer to that particular question involved nothing malicious. And he remembered that Miss Peck, looming large in the girl's life just now, probably was the blindest of enigmas to her. "When I came to Clifford twenty-two years ago," he began.

"She was handsome in a massive sort of way. She looked like, well, like a Roman empress, and she acted like a dumb little girl that's been scolded—dropping things, doing everything wrong, twisting her fingers. Honestly, I took her to be subnormal mentally."

"Well, old Lawyer Peck did the one kind thing of his life. He died before he had quite wrung his daughter's neck, and he left her no money—not a penny. Only the house. She began to take in boarders. She had to do something. It was the saving of her. She found she could cook, and she's cooked her way back to life. For she's alive now, all right. The wounds her father gave her have healed over. Lots of scars left, of course. What everybody calls her queer ways are the scars."

He was silent.

Murmuring low as if not to break the thread, the girl said, "I feel as if I'd never seen Miss Peck before."

"Did you ever figure Miss Peck out that way?"

"I'd never seen Miss Peck before," and waited for him to go on.

His only comment was, "Do you know, I've come to think that Miss Peck is one of the most intelligent people in town? Probably always was."

The girl's wide eyes gazed dreamily through him at the newly discovered Miss Peck. "It sort of takes my breath away," she said in an undertone. A change came into her face. "I'm afraid there's a lot of things I don't know."

She got up from her chair's graceful crouch on the low platform, walked around the desk, and stood in her teacher's chair again, placed her clasped hands on the desk before her, and the teacher's pose.

"I never understood what it was trying to say that evening," Mrs. Hulme said earnestly. "It wasn't just only Mrs. Washburn I was thinking about."

He tried to help her out. "I know. You did make me understand. You had a moment of generous happiness when you thought the world, more than you'd."

She cut him short, impatient with his misunderstanding. "That's what I was afraid you thought. It was not generous. It wasn't really, was it?"

"It was. It was my sister Della and me. I'd always thought that nobody could be so good and so kind to anybody but their own folks. So when I saw you being nice to that silly old woman, I was stunned."

"A sudden that maybe we weren't so all by ourselves, Della and I. But when I tried to tell you, you couldn't seem to think of any way to say it that wouldn't sound as if I was asking you to be sorry for me. I just understood her head high, her gray eyes sternly bade him pity her at his peril."

"It didn't sound like that. Not in the least!" he assured her, his heart pounding in the sympathy and the teacher's. "The way she looked, she was so good and so kind, his eyes fixed on the knob of the door. It was slowly being turned."

The door opened, revealing the janitor in faded overalls stooping to pick up a pail. He had plodded into the room before he saw that the superintendent was still there, in the visitor's chair, behind her desk. "Oh, I didn't know as anybody was here, Professor Hulme," he said, looking down the hall. "I better do some other room first, maybe!"

Mrs. Hulme stood up, reaching for the hat she had just put on the geography globe. "No, go ahead, Lawyer," she said easily. "I'm just sitting down here. I had to say to Miss Barney." To the teacher he added in all confidence, "I think you're a good way, Miss Barney. We could go along together and finish up this matter of the work."

But she, bending her head over the papers on her desk, murmured with the teacher's. "Thank you, Mr. Hulme, I took a lot of work to do before I go."

thought. But there's more honorableness."

He felt it was the first time he had ever seen her, the first time he had ever seen anyone. Turning away rather quickly she walked across the room, unlocked the door behind her.

Lying on his bed that night, Timothy Hulme knew very well what was happening to what was likely to happen to him. The clock in the tower of St. Andrew's sounded out an indignant two, not caring what sleepless ears might hear it. But sleep was almost within reach now.

He began to feel drowsy. And turning his head on the pillow he saw the shadow of a woman, let his shades snap up to the top, and he looked out.

"What splendor, what sumptuous Venetian magnificence our Vermont Academy has! Timothy Hulme," and what a pity we don't live more intimately with the autumn while it lasts. Why had he never thought of the advantage of the absurdly low cost of real estate up here and buy a piece of land of his own—perhaps build a shack on it, up in one of the Hollows of Hemlock Mountain? Or if not that, one of the little abandoned farms on a back road, that sold for nothing. It would be a retreat, a week-end hermitage.

Exhilarated, Timothy Hulme raced down the stairs, three steps at a time, found the car, took the bad and told Aunt Lavinia about his plan.

"Susan Barney's sister's here for the week-end," remarked Aunt Lavinia. "I've asked them both for tea today."

"Very well then," he agreed, getting up from the table.

To do decent honor to Aunt Lavinia's guests he came back to his house after his last afternoon recess, washed his face and hands and changed his clothes. It was becoming outlandish, and he was not surprised by the admiration, respect and the little admiring glances of the two country girls who he joined them before the hearty

Susan had a hat on, not a good hat. It hid most of her spic-n-span hair, and coming down too far on her head covered the crown and the top of her brow. She looked somewhat plain. That must have been a dream last night. The much-lauded sister Della was a chubby, black-haired dowdy adolescent.

Susan went into the kitchen to get the things. Left with the sister, the series of rapid questions he used in diagnosing adolescents.

He had little to do with the conversation. He was a bit of a student at the Academy. One Sunday he was preparing to read the series of rapid questions he used in diagnosing adolescents.

Picking Up a Casualty in Tunisia

Strecher bearers of the Indian medical service rush to the aid of a Gurkha who was wounded in the break-through in the Axis line in Tunisia by the British Eighth Army. These Gurkhas played a heroic role in the saga of General Montgomery's desert army's advance. Fierce hand-to-hand fighters, they did terrific execution in the close fighting.

General meetings of the entire Board will be held the first Sunday afternoon of each month. G. W. Lawrence continues as chairman.

The Huron County Rationing Board has announced several amendments to mileage regulations which will be of interest to many motorists. All holders of gasoline books "B" or "C" are now eligible for grade on tires if the inspection shows that new tires are necessary and within the monthly quota assigned to the board. This quota has, however, been sharply reduced and the board must grant more rationing to the most essential users. All motorists are cautioned that when the Tire Inspector indicated that tires should be recapped, this must be done at once and tires must not be run beyond the point of recapping.

Practically all persons who must use their automobiles in the pursuit of their business or occupation are now entitled to have their mileage needs met up to 720 miles per month. This is covered in a new rule effective May 1st and it is necessary to file a new application for supplementary mileage. This rule, however, does not change the limit of 470 miles per month in going to and from a fixed place of work in a non-essential industry.

It is not necessary for anyone to come to the Rationing Board for any change or to secure a renewal of any form of rationed commodity. Application blanks will be mailed upon receipt of a post card asking for same and rationing will be mailed back to the applicant promptly.

THE WEATHER
Our assumption that April was much colder and more disagreeable than the same month last year is proved by official figures of John A. Root's Weather Report. The comparison of this April over last year, is very interesting. The complete report follows:

Around The Square

ert Porter, Shiloh, Rt. 2, Saturday, when he stopped in to keep in good standing. Mr. Porter came to this section from Westmoreland County, Pa., in 1911. He has successfully farmed 116 acres, but this year he's facing a shortage of help. With a 30-year-old son in the army, and his grandson recuperating from an operation, this farmer is in the same predicament as thousands of others.

Labor shortage. At my age it's just impossible for me to keep going top speed," says Mr. Porter. However, he's doing the best he can, and that's all any farmer can do these days.

MY WISH for all mothers on Mother's Day is: That they will never have to go through another war!

LAST WEEK I was well reminded of the old Negro spiritual: "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen!" And I made it my theme song last Thursday, for as you know the Advertiser didn't go on time, due to a break down of our old and faithful newspaper press.

SO we dedicate this issue to the fine bunch of boys at F-R-H who pitched in last Thursday morning and helped us out. To P. H. Root for his help in locating a pulley; to Mackey and his welding gang who "fixed the broken part" and to Hisey and VanWagner in the tool room, who gave our grief the finishing touches.

SO TO our readers, we feel like you should know how much you are indebted to these men, and other employees of FRH. We are back on time and hope you enjoy your usual Thursday morning diet—the Advertiser.

CRASH VICTIM

LEO DRUMBERGER DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the Secor Funeral Home, 40 B. & O. switchman, who died Friday night as the result of a motor accident in that city. The Rev. G. C. Hoffmiller officiated and burial was made in the Goodwill cemetery near New Washington. The car of Mr. Drumberger had a collision with vehicle driven by Wayne Mayer, 17, Willard high school student.

Prior to accepting his position with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Willard, Drumberger had worked on sand boats out of Sandusky and on steamers out of Detroit.

While residing in Sandusky he was employed by the Kelley Island Lime and Transport Co., and followed the trade routes of the lakes for many years.

Survivors include his widow, formerly Jewell Flynn of Willard, and one sister, Mrs. Norris Rowan also of Willard, but formerly of Plymouth.
