

WALTER F. GRIMMER, PH.M., 2-C, TELLS OF ENTERING TOKYO BAY

ABOARD THE USS SAN DIEGO, Tokyo, Bay—Sept. 25.—When this light cruiser of the powerful United States Pacific Fleet dropped its anchor August 28 almost within sight of Emperor Hirohito's Imperial Palace, the event climaxed the career of one of the U. S. Navy's war babies and added another feather to its already highly-decorated cap. And it was a day long to be remembered in the life of Walter F. Grimmer, 33, Ph.M.2c, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grimmer, live at R.D. 2, Box 119, Monroeville, Ohio, formerly of Plymouth, who has fought with the ship in the Pacific for the past 17 months.

Leading the naval occupation units into Tokyo Bay as the flagship of Rear Admiral Oscar C. Badger, who was directing the operation, the San Diego spearheaded a force of minesweepers, destroyers and seaplane tenders which steamed into range of the Japs heavy calibre shore batteries 48 hours before the occupation day in the role of a test force to see just what the Japanese reaction would be when a United States Navy Task Force entered the bay. But the move was successful and it was the signal for the heavy cruisers and battleships to enter the next day, and on August 30—Occupation Day—the troops coming in land simultaneously with the Army's airborne troops.

For the San Diego it was just another event in the long list of operations in which she has taken part in the war against the Japanese, but it was a crowning achievement for the ship to lead the victorious Allies up to Tokyo's front door and a particular thrill for the ship's own 900 officers and men. And Grimmer was no exception.

"When one sees nothing but ruins for a long time, when Grimmer remarked, 'and enters a place like Tokyo Bay it is really a sight for sore eyes.'"

"After hearing so much about Mount Fujiyama and not seeing any land for 58 days my first view of it above the clouds was in itself worth entering Tokyo Bay. Japan and California can have the mountains, though. I still like the hills of Ohio best."

The San Diego has set up several records of one kind or another since she was commissioned at the Boston Navy Yard on January 10, 1942, shortly after the Japanese sent the United States Navy to war.

Since then, the ship, although classed a light cruiser, carries only five-inch guns as her main battery, and she was designed and built to do a particular job, that of putting in on the coast of Continued on Back Page

Two Die In Explosion

FATHER PASSES AWAY FEW HOURS AFTER DEATH OF SMALL DAUGHTER.

Death claimed the second victim of an explosion which took the life of a three-year-old girl, and later that of her father.

Nancy Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cotsenmoyer, died early Tuesday morning from severe burns she received when her father started a fire in the kitchen stove at their home near Hazel Grove Grange hall Monday evening at 9:30. The father, who was also seriously burned, died a few hours later. Double funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the Dye funeral home in Shelby with Rev. C. Waterworth, pastor of the Christian Church, officiating.

The tragedy occurred Monday night at 9:30 after the Cotsenmoyers had just returned to their home two houses west of Hazel Grove Grange hall. Mr. Cotsenmoyer started to build a fire in the kitchen wood range. It was not long before a second fire broke out in the farm house where they were moving from their former residence on Vernon Road, near Shelby.

In relating the tragedy, Mrs. Cotsenmoyer said her husband had put papers and wood in the stove. So far as known, there were no live coals in the stove. Mr. Cotsenmoyer struck a match and set fire to the papers. He then poured some kerosene over the newly-lighted fire from a five-gallon can and put the can down, replacing the cap on the can. It was then that the explosion occurred, she related. The top and bottom of the can were rent in the blast.

"It was just like a big boom," the mother said. The kitchen was immediately filled with smoke and the three-year-old daughter was knocked to the floor, her clothes afire. Despite the flames from her own clothes, the father rushed the child to the porch where he attempted to cover her with rugs.

A seven-year-old daughter, Carol Jean, had started up to the second floor to bed and escaped injury. The mother rushed from the living room to assist her husband and daughter, and she received painful burns. Mr. Cotsenmoyer ran into the yard and rolled on the ground in an attempt to extinguish the flames that virtually burned off all his clothing.

Mr. Cotsenmoyer called the Shelby fire department, and in the meantime took the two victims to the hospital in his car. The arrival of the firemen saved the home but not before some damage was done to the kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Baird, the landlords, and Mrs. Hazel Roberts, arrived early on the scene, and it was through their quick work that the flames were controlled and the home saved.

Mr. Cotsenmoyer is employed at Dominion Electric Co., Mansfield, and Mrs. Cotsenmoyer operated a route for the News-Journal.

ASK APPROVAL OF LOCAL BONDS OPENING GAME

LOCALS COME THROUGH WITH 9-3 VICTORY OVER NEW HAVEN.

The local high school team opened its fall baseball season last Thursday at New Haven and came through with a rather easy 9-3 victory. Playing errorless ball and shunning out right hits there was little doubt as to the outcome after the first two innings.

Bill Miller pitched steady ball throughout the seven innings and except for a long home run over the right field fence, by Dalton of New Haven, might have had a shutout.

Plymouth wasted little time in the first inning as Miller and Kennedy crossed the plate when Fenner sent a long double to right field, in the second inning Rem and Wirth singled, Corny Vanderbilt lifted the bases when New Haven's first baseman furnished his hard grounder, Dalton, pitching for New Haven, then bared down forcing Hampton to pop up and setting Kennedy down on strikes. It gave to look to New Haven wasn't going to score when Miller hit a grounder down toward third, but New Haven's third baseman again fumbled, letting Rem cross the plate. Fenner hit a long drive which just was in the right fielder's hands, clearing the sacks.

Sourwine also sent a long drive to center which looked like a sure hit, but the center fielder made one last stretch and the ball struck in the web of his glove for the third out. The local lads scored another run in the third inning. Ward in Mansfield's Grove. The Scouts had been defeated in the annual game for the past three years, but Sunday, the boys went out and got some help. As a result they piled up the score on the old men. From what we hear "Doc" Hannum and Johnnie Root should make application in one of the big leagues for professional work. It was fun, though, in spite of the aches the next morning.

SET UP BUDGET UNDER OLD AAA

NEW FARM PROGRAM TO PUT MORE RESPONSIBILITY ON TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE.

The 1946 federal Triple-A program will give AAA committees in Richland county more to say in deciding what soil conservation and crop practices should be followed on county farms. Chairman Guy L. Taylor stated.

Emphasis will be placed on rebuilding the soil which was overworked during the heavy production year.

Under the new plan, Taylor said, the state AAA committee will allocate a specific amount of money to each county as a budget for aid to farmers during the year. The county committee, in consultation with the farmer-elected township committeemen, will select from an approved state list the conservation practices most needed in their area.

Township committeemen will call on farmers next winter and spring and help them work out a plan of AAA help on their farms. The county Triple-A committee will continue to operate for the total amount of soil-building budget allowed by the state committee.

While the AAA was officially replaced recently by the Production and Marketing administration, Taylor said the county organization will continue to operate for a time under the AAA title.

The new set-up will add considerably to the duties of the county committee and the staff in the county office, he said.

MOVING TO SHELBY

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Snyder of Plymouth street moved Monday to Shelby to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Easley, the new owners, will move at an early date into the home formerly occupied by the Snyders.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittleseed)

WORD HAS been received by Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Davis of New Washington, that their son, Ernest J. AOM, 2-C, is safe. A few weeks ago young Davis was reported missing on a bomber on which he was tail gunner. He was last seen drifting in a life raft about 25 miles from the coast of Japan by the commander of the aircraft carrier. He has been liberated from a prison camp near Tokyo and is on his way to San Francisco.

MISS WILMA COLLINS, manager over at the Crispin Store, knows there is a price tag on everything, but she feels the price tag on a bicycle is a little high last week. A broken front tooth and a banged-up right knee just about knocked her out of commission. The bicycle wasn't damaged!

THE WAR is definitely over, so think the kids around the Square as ice cream cones can again be purchased at every confectionary store including the Black & Gold, who haven't sold any since—way back yonder!

AN INTERESTING item in plant life can be observed in front of the home of Mrs. Joseph Bachrach on Plymouth street where two sun flowers in full bloom are growing out of a crotch in the tree. The seed was evidently dropped by a bird from a feeding board last Spring.

POSTWAR DREAMS are shaping up more each day for the average citizen. This week Stacy C. Brown of Brown & Miller, tells me the store is showing a full assortment of lamp shades and one of the aluminum sauce pans. The Ohio Power Co. has a special message for farmers, while the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is bringing attention of its service to American farmers and industry. And, too, Roy McCarty says the Hitting Post has plenty of ice cream, and at Jud's SOHIO Station, X-70 and Supreme are back in the tanks with that pre-war 70. So, our tip to readers is to check on the advertising each week and see what's available in merchandise you want—and the new things to come!

CLARENCE BEVIER, who has been in the routing department of F-R-H for some time, has resigned his position there and accepted one with Montgomery Ward in Mansfield. He is in charge of the farm equipment department of the store. His many friends here wish for him success in his new job.

"THEY CAN'T do that to us," said the Dads who played ball Sunday afternoon on the Scout field at Conger's Grove. The Scouts had been defeated in the annual game for the past three years, but Sunday, the boys went out and got some help. As a result they piled up the score on the old men. From what we hear "Doc" Hannum and Johnnie Root should make application in one of the big leagues for professional work. It was fun, though, in spite of the aches the next morning.

MEMBERS OF The Community Club enjoyed a hamburger try at the Root Country Tuesday evening. Some of the boys liked 'em rare, some well done, and a few just couldn't be filled. At any rate the boys were lucky to get a hamburger.

Club passed a resolution favoring a Halloween Party for the youngsters in Plymouth. More details will be given later when the committee meets. And may we thank Mrs. James Root for cleaning up the kitchen? We appreciate this favor greatly!

The front fenders, grill and fog lights of an automobile operated by Robert Orewiler, Rt. 3, Mansfield, were damaged when Orewiler ran into the rear of a car driven by Dominic Dorio. Railroads are not built—they are rebuilt!

Even though the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is 118 years old, it is always new. Today, you'd have a hard time finding a speck of the original B&O anywhere, except in its spirit of service and its old-fashioned courtesy. Physically, it is continuously rebuilding itself in every detail—replacing and improving—becoming more modern by the hour.

Every year, for example, hundreds of miles of new steel rails and millions of new cross-ties become a part of

B&O's 11,000 miles of track. New and more efficient steam and diesel locomotives, as well as passenger and freight cars, replace faithful, retiring "old timers". By adding here, replacing there, B&O keeps its service constantly as modern as today.

This unending job of building is your assurance that the B&O continues to bring to you and your community, as always, the finest in progress-making rail service.

CHECK WEIGHT DEVICES

Norwalk. — Norwalk residents have been patiently dropping their pennies into street weighing machines that gave the patrons hardly any idea of what they have weighed. But a stop was put to this this week when a slender girl in the banian weight class dropped a penny in a machine that registered about 200 pounds. City Auditor Kent Woodward ordered his deputy sealer of weights and measures, Edward Gross of Monroeville, to make all the machines conform to accuracy tests.

STORE HAS NEW OWNERS

George W. Shafer and sister, Miss Frances Shafer, have retired from the grocery business.

For forty-five years Mr. Shafer has conducted a grocery and general store in the same location. Coming to Shiloh as a boy he has become one of its outstanding citizens, with all the qualifications of a Christian man. His efficient and faithful sister is loved by everyone.

Their place in business will be difficult to fill, as they are the kind of people who live by the side of the road and are a friend to man.

The Shafer's have been at their store early and late all these years and were happy in their work. The site on which the building stands has been used as a grocery for almost a century. Friends join in wishing George and Frances and Mrs. Shafer, many more years of usefulness in their home community.

J. Schneider of New Philadelphia has purchased the building and contents, and took possession Friday, Sept. 14.

They are residing in the home of Mrs. Hattie Willet on South Walnut street. We welcome these new citizens, and wish for their prosperity and contentment.

IGNORANCE ISN'T BLISS

SOMEHOW, international agreements, major conferences between chiefs of state, and the plans for preventing future wars don't seem to excite the interest of a large group of people.

We realize, in a vague sort of way, that the future of our nation and the welfare of ourselves and our children may depend upon the agreements which are worked out during the next year, but many of us are content to leave the details in the hands of our government leaders.

A recent survey showed that 54,000,000 adults never heard of the Atlantic Charter, 33,000,000 don't know what a tariff is, and 27,000,000 didn't know, in 1944, that the Japs had taken the Philippines.

To those who do follow the details of war and the planning to prevent war, these figures are amazing. But they show, by and large, that about half of our population loses interest in news when it gets beyond their immediate horizon.

It is a dangerous state of affairs, in a democracy, for such a large number of citizens to leave their nation's fate entirely in the hands of its leaders. If we hope to keep our way of life and maintain peace it is imperative that more of us, from now on, take an active interest in the affairs of nations.

GIANT SALES JOB

FROM now on we are going to hear a great deal about surplus materials. It is estimated by some that there will be as much as 100 billion dollars worth of surpluses, made for war and no longer needed by the government, which must be disposed of in some way. These surpluses include everything from nuts and bolts to huge factories and ships.

The problem of disposing of this huge supply of goods is a gigantic one. It must be done without competing too much with the new products of industry. It must be done so that it does not hurt the interests of retailers and jobbers. And it must be done so that the taxpayers of the nation get back as much money as possible from their huge investment in war.

Naturally, in handling a sales job of this scope, some mistakes are going to be made. Some things will be sold at prices which might appear scandalous. Other things may be thrown away instead of sold, in order to avoid conflict with normal business.

No matter how well this huge job is handled, there will be plenty of opportunity for politicians and scandal-mongers to find juicy bits of information which they can offer to indict whomsoever they are gunning for. But the public would do well to take any scandal stories about surpluses with a grain of salt, realizing that the world's biggest sales job, involving thousands of employees, operating with many severe handicaps, can be handled without some slip-ups.

FORMER TEACHER MASTERED POULTRY

THIS is the story of a boy who decided to give up teaching school and return to the farm. In 1925 Robert Creighton was teaching school near Atwood, Ind. He had been teaching 10 years and was no better off than when he started. One day he made a decision which changed the course of his life.

He decided to return to the farm. He'd been born on a farm, he understood farming, he'd give it another whirl. In the 10 years he'd been pushing knowledge into craniums he'd saved up $500—at the rate of $50 a year. With this he bought a 38-acre farm near Warsaw, Ind., and took his brother into partnership with him. When the neighbors wanted to know what he was going to do, he said he was going to raise chickens. Which made the neighbors smile. Give up school teachin' to raise chickens!

The two rustled around and bought 1,200 laying hens. Now he had 'em, what was he going to do with 'em? He said, "I don't know anything about this business, but I'm going to learn." So he read everything on the subject he could find. At first he thought that egg and chicken raising was a simple affair; he found it a vastly complicated process. But he was willing to spend the time to master it. The more he learned about it, the more fascinating it became.

He decided to specialize in White Leghorns. He began to advertise and business came and knocked on his door. It was not long before he was the best-known man in his community. And it was not long before he was elected to the Indiana house of representatives. During this last session he served as speaker of the house.

HE WAS THURSDAY

Three slightly deaf men were motoring from London in an old noisy car, and hearing was difficult. As they were nearing the city one asked, "Is this Wednesday?"

"No," replied the second, "this is Thursday."

"So am I," put in the third. "Let's stop and have tea."

Water under pressure increases Farm Profits

WHY is this an economic fact? Because when you have running water on your farm, Mr. Farmer, labor costs go down at the same time that farm production goes up. You know that the average milking cow needs from 200 to 300 pounds of water a day... that a flock of hens needs 80 pounds daily... and each hog requires about 16 pounds of drinking water a day.

The Government is authorizing the manufacture of greater quantities of devices that will aid in greater farm production, such as electric water pumps. The time is ripe to make plans to take advantage of this labor saving device on your farm, and we will be glad to help you with your plans.

In addition to pumping water for you automatically, there are many other ways in which electricity can help you increase production and cut costs.

Iccapades Open In Cleveland

The greatest array of comedy talent ever assembled in an ice show, will be presented in ICE CAPADES of 1946, which opens at the Arvna in Cleveland on September 21st.

When the producers were preparing for the annual tour, they planned the most elaborate program in the history of these revues. Never has such colorful costumes, such gorgeous sets and such expert performers been gathered for a single company.

AL SURETTE has a brand new novelty which gets nightly acclaim from the customers. It's the funniest work he has done in his career as a laugh-maker, and that's praise enough for anybody. LT. LARRY JACKSON, clever comedian, of several ICE CAPADES editions, is back after serving in Africa and Italy with the Army Air Force, and apparently dreamed up some new rib-ticklers while he was harassing the house. LARRY and LEO LOEB team up in a hilarious satire of old-time fire fighters, and then LARRY introduces a new partner, DON BEARSON, in a surprise bit that brings down the house. BEARSON is just a teenager, but he fits in very nicely with the veteran JACKSON and should develop into a top-flight laugh-getter under such capable instruction.

Then there's ESCO LARUE with his own inimitable humorous skit that is one of the show's most talked-about features, and there's still the OLD SMOOTHIES who get laughs as well as applause. In addition, the entire cast of principals, together with the "ICE-CA-PETS" join to make ICE CAPADES as funny as it is beautiful.

With all the comedy, it would seem that ICE CAPADES would not need anything else for success, but even all these laughs are only a small part of the gigantic production.

Doings in Congress

By Cong. WM. LEMKE

IT IS getting warm—in fact, it is getting hot for members of Congress. Infuriated mothers and fathers, and desperate wives are bombarding them with telegrams and letters demanding that their sons or husbands be discharged. The wives want the daddies to see their babies. They demand that the government keep its word. These men were "dressed men" for the duration and six months thereafter.

THE WORLD knows that the war is over. It ended when Japan surrendered. To delay making a formal declaration to that effect is not only dishonest, but is breaking faith with the servicemen.

ONE OF the brass hats from the War Department made the statement, to a senate committee, that it is all right to discharge the boys if you do not want a large army as Russia. Well, if our government has to arm against Russia, we had better scrap the United Nations' charter—or has it already been scrapped.

THE STATEMENT by the War and Navy Departments that we need a million men in Japan and another million in Germany is false. These nations have been so thoroughly whipped, and are being so completely disarmed, that they will be no threat to peace for a thousand years. Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower, within a short time, can teach and compel these people to do their own policing. Then, all they will need is 200-300 servicemen between them to supervise the policing.

WE FOUGHT and won this war for other nations. We went $300,000,000,000 in the red. That is more than all the other forty-nine nations associated with us went into debt. We kept them out of debt by lend-lease. They got raised and spent more money than the whole outfit put together. Outside of Russia, we did more fighting than all the other nations combined.

WE HAVE done enough for other nations. We are not going to ask our servicemen alone to police Germany and Japan for us. We are not going to give Halifax another two or three billion. Let Britain pay back the five billion she still owes us for World War I. Let her pay back part of lend-lease that she did not use for the war effort.

IF WE want a better world, let us stop promoting hatred. Let us re-establish the "Four Freedoms." Let us at least give the servicemen, who won this war, one freedom—the freedom of coming back to their homes, to their fathers, mothers, wives and children—the freedom to live a civilian life.

IT TOOK us three years to get into this war. It took our armed forces four years to finish the job for other nations. The time has come for official Washington to proclaim to all the world that, under the United Nations' charter, there must be no fraud or deception. That there must be no grabbing of smaller nations' territories—no further robbery or murder on the part of any government, or its army, of other people's people.

anti-aircraft fire from her 16 five-inch guns thick enough to ward off any enemy air attacks.

That she has fulfilled her mission in this respect is readily proven by the record on the books that never has an aircraft carrier been hit from the sector in which the San Diego stood guard. The carriers swear by that record, too, and it is always with a feeling of security that carrier skippers have taken their station in a formation when they knew the hard-hitting San Diego was nearby.

From the actual records, the San Diego has shot down eight Jap planes, has three probables to her credit along with two assists. Not a high score, but the fact remains that she has never been hit herself nor has any of her charges. The San Diego, which has operated exclusively in the Pacific has served with the fast carrier task forces—the most formidable organization in the fleet.

Another record of the ship is her stick-to-it-iveness, perhaps not through choice, but the powers that be have seen fit to keep her on active duty most of her life. She has been shot down eight times now for 17 months—since April 14, 1944, and hasn't made a liberty port in all that time. And if you don't think that 17 months is a long time for her men to go without a real liberty—getting home to the folks, dating honest-to-goodness girls or the wife, driving a car, sleeping on a mattress on a man-sized bed that doesn't rock all night, and the like, then ask any member of the crew of the San Diego if you want some ready answers to such questions.

It has been a long operation and it has been a full one. The ever-present cruiser "33" has taken part in 33 operations in the Pacific war and that doesn't include anything since Okinawa. She has 17 battle stars to her credit, including the Battle of Guadalcanal, the Battle of Saipan, Iwo Jima, the Leyte operation, Luzon landings and Okinawa. The Navy has fought in a few more engagements, but not many.

The San Diego's popular, jovial, ruddy-faced Captain William E. Mullan, 47, USN, of San Francisco, is a firm believer in his ship and her crew. Morale is high, despite so many months away from home, and one thing very much noticeable by its absence is the necessity for disciplinary measures on the part of Captain Mullan. In fact, the crew of the San Diego toes the mark with such regularity that it almost gets to be monotonous. Commendatory masts are much more frequent than hearings that inflict punishment.

Captain Mullan has had a brilliant career in the Navy and one that hasn't always been serene. He was Executive Officer of the cruiser Vincennes when she was sunk in the first Savo battle and he was so filled with shrapnel and flak and handicapped by a fractured leg that he had a difficult time keeping afloat after his ship went down under him. But he recovered and had a brief respite ashore as commanding officer of a WAVE training school before being assigned as skipper of the San Diego. The "Old Man" holds the Purple Heart and two Silver Stars.

Another record for the ship, made only recently, is the completion of 300,000 miles of sailing on August 23, just five days before entering Tokyo Bay. What makes this figure impressive is the fact that all of it has been chugging in the forward areas in which the Pacific Fleet has been operating. If the ship had steamed continuously at 20 knots, it would have taken 625 days—nearly 2 years—to clock 300,000 miles. And that's a long time to be riding around in enemy waters.

Sitting here in Tokyo Bay awaiting to see if the Japs intend to pull a fast one, the San Diego is proud of itself and its contribution to the winning of the war, just as Grimmer is proud to be a member of her crew.
