Friday night at 8:00 p. m. the curtain went up on the first act of the play, "The Daffy Dicta." The auditorium was well filled and the cast played to a very large crowd. Mrs. Lanius is to be congratulated for the splendid play and Miss Bethel for the between the acts' specialties. Agnes Roberts made a strict step-mother and Marilyn Steele was the sweet cousin from Peoria. Bob Hampton and Phyllis Haines made a perfect mother and daughter twins and Pat DeVeny and Allen Kirkpatrick acted the parts of two teen-agers. Joan Daron filled the part of Grandma and Laura Babcock made the audience laugh as Widow Woogles. Bud Crov went through the miseries of a modern father and Leonard Fenwick and John Kennedy played the roles of close friends. The colored maid, Sue Hoffman, is probably still running South. There is the last act when Agnes becomes the cousin and Marilyn, the new step-mother, the play ended up with everybody laughing. When the act started throwing fire, it got crazy it kept everyone guessing.

Between the acts, a chosen group of grade-school boys and another group of high school girls furnished music under the direction of Miss Bethel.

The seniors are to be congratulated on a splendid play. They wish to thank Mrs. Lanius for her sponsor, and Miss Bethel for directing the music. The Advertiser, in co-operation in the advertising, all committees, and all others who helped in any way.

Accidentally Shot When Pistol Falls

Richard Fackler, well-known Plymouth resident, was accidentally shot last Thursday night at 11:00 p. m., when he dropped a 22-caliber single shot pistol. The bullet entered Fackler's right leg from the rear, lodging back of the knee cap. Fackler had been down in the basement of his home taking a few shots at mice. He had decided to quit, and had started upstairs, when the firearm fell from his hand, and striking a rock, the lone bullet was discharged. The pistol wasn't cocked at the time it fell. The gun was an antique vintage and Fackler had decided that evening to place it with other antiques which he had planned on selling.

The wound was treated by a physician Friday afternoon when Fackler was taken to the Willard Hospital where X-rays were made. He was taken to Columbus Friday afternoon when he entered Mt. Carmel Hospital. Dr. Harlan Wilson, Columbus bone specialist, removed the bullet Saturday morning. The outcome of the injury as to whether or not it will affect the knees or the knee cap permanently is yet to be determined.

Friends who wish to drop Richard a card may do so by addressing him at Mt. Carmel hospital, Room 6, Columbus, Ohio.

FROM WHERE I SIT ... by Joe Marsh

And That Ain't Hay - Or Is It?

I guess all of us secretly hanker from time to time, for the good old days and the good old-fashioned pleasures. Lastwavs, Buddy Richards done a thriving business reviving the old-time hayride.

With a team of horses, and a stout straw-bedded rack, Buddy can take as many as thirty adults—at fifty cents a head!

Two or three times a week they start from Town Hall, and go out along the river; stop for a friendly glass of beer at Shoreline Tavern; and come home by way of Pound Ridge... nine miles in all.

Nuf very exciting, you might say. But from where I sit it's not excitement that we need these days—but those simple country pleasures that are part and parcel of America—the old-fashioned hayride, with its song and jollity; the horseshoe game; the friendly glass of beer; and the good companionship that they engender.

Miss Margie Hart and Mr. Harry Kemp Exchange Nuptial Vows Thursday

The First Lutheran Church was the scene of the open church wedding of Miss Margie Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hart of Shelby and Mr. Harry A. Kemp, son of Mrs. Edna Kemp of Plymouth which was solemnized Thursday at 6:30 p. m., with Rev. M. F. Patznick officiating.

Baskets of gladioli, vases of cut flowers and ferns decorated the lower rooms of the home. A wedding cake centered the bridal table. Following a wedding trip to Cleveland, the couple will reside at 76 East Whitney avenue, Shelby. For traveling, the bride wore an aqua dress and brown accessories.

F-R-H Shop Talk

Even with a cloudy sky overhead Tuesday afternoon, there was an atmosphere of Spring in the air. The whirl of machinery of the smithy's hammer over in the forge room, and the clanking sounds from the tin shop, all sang of Spring, and we were glad to see you realize this that the sun shines and the birds are singing. Another keener of Spring is the way I found that the birds are singing out of the windows into the wide open spaces . . . gardens, I think.

In a recent column I intimated that Carl Spenseller had some reason for using space in the billing office for storage of some of his electrical goods. Carl tells me that this was a mistake, but that Walter Crum is in charge of all electrical maintenance in the office building. Of course I surmised something went wrong for the electricians to be out as a morning sun before a storm.

I owe Floyd Carter an apology for saying he has a set of "China Clippers." It strikes me that a man who is paid solely to show as fine teeth as Carter does when he laughs or smiles, is a very unusual man. And that's just Carter. He has his original teeth—everyone of us has a set of claims only two have a small filling. I don't believe he chews tobacco (that is), smokes or drinks (was told). I'm told by men who know that about one person out of every hundred at the age of sixty is lucky enough to keep all their teeth, even with a dozen fillings.

Jimmy Alessandro is recovering very nicely from a painful burn he received some weeks ago. While at work in the foundry, Jimmy had the misfortune of having his left foot burned by a stream of molten iron. The iron ran out of a ladle onto the ground and onto Jimmy's foot. The mishap was a painful one at the time, but we're glad to report that the burn is healing, and that Jimmy will soon be back on the job.

Henry Webb is still confined to his home with a fractured ankle he received some time ago. The ankle is still in a cast and Henry is forced to remain inside. The days get pretty long for an active man, and if you haven't stopped by a house or sent a card, won't you remember to try and shorten the day?

Evelyn Burket expects to leave the first of May with her aunt for a month's stay in Florida. It's her first trip south, but I bet she'll pick up very easily. She's southern lingo very come. She's spending her time in Miami while there, and of course she's taking a camera, which should make the trip interesting for many years to come. Better watch that Miami Moon, Evelyn.

Sam Fenner reports a shipment of sheet steel has arrived, although there are several sizes. In these days one takes what one can, and be satisfied with it. However, the odd sizes do make a little extra cutting. But then the crew over at Sam Fenner know how. While passing thru Tuesday afternoon I found Jud Keller on the job. Jud's a handy man at any of the machines, for he's been with Sam Fenner for some time, and coming back on the job last February, Keller seems pleased with his work, and he's had kindling in his hand him back. Jud's been doing a lot of welding the past few years, and I imagine his eyes are glad for a rest from the intense light of the welding torch. Fortunately, J. Alton Becker is capable of cutting any design out of sheet steel as though you'd run scissors through cloth.

million dollars last year in radio, newspaper and magazine advertising to tell you how to keep clean. If the rush is over, I'll be back next week with a few more facts and figures, a little gossip, and perhaps some humor.

Things up in the carpenter shop were comparatively quiet this week. Elmer Markley and John Wannamaker were holding a conference over a pug mill pattern, and some one says they are making left hand augers . . . a new wrinkle for turning jail on the other way . . . or did a left-handed engineer draw up the plans?

IMPROVING

O.E.S. Inspection Draws Large Crowd from Area

The outstanding event of the year, in any Eastern Star Chapter, is their inspection. The Worthy Matron, Worthy Patron and Officers work hard to make this occasion successful from a standpoint of entertainment and merit.

Wednesday evening, April 16th, when Plymouth Chapter No. 331 Order of the Eastern Star, opened its doors to neighboring and District Chapters, for its Inspection Night, the chapter room was beautifully decorated with forsythia, jonquils, white carnations and white stock—a color scheme of white and yellow being effectively carried out.

A banquet dinner at 6:30, was served by the Alice Willett Class, in the dining room of the Lutheran Church. The candle lighted tables were attractive with nut cups and napkins in the five Star colors. Orva Dawson, accompanied by Cordelia Blosser of Shelby, favored with a solo-prayer. Seventy-one guests enjoyed a delicious dinner. Honored guests were Deputy Grand Matron, Isabel Monroe of Gallion, Past Grand Matron, Isadore Kaufman of Attica, Mrs. Monroe, mother of our Deputy, Esther Place, District President of Gallion, Donna Dawson, District Vice President, Katherine Roe of Plymouth, and candidates Elsie Duffy of New Haven, Dorothy Root, Marie Guthrie and Francis Guthrie, of Plymouth.

One hundred and sixty members and guests were seated in the Chapter Room when Worthy Matron, Clara Root, called for order and opened her meeting for inspection.

Deputy Grand Matron, Isabel Monroe, Inspecting Officer, and Past Grand Matron, Isadore Kaufman were presented and escorted to the East.

Matrons and Patrons of the thirteen Chapters represented were introduced and given white carnations.

Past Matrons and Patrons of Plymouth Chapter, numbering seventeen, were introduced and given white carnations. Exemplification of the work and initiation of our four candidates for inspection and grading by our Deputy Grand Matron resulted in her whole-hearted commendation. Following her official report, Miss Monroe gave an inspiring address. Between exemplification of work and initiation of candidates Orva Dawson favored with a solo.

P. G. M. Isadore Kaufman responded to our Worthy Matron's welcome with gracious remarks, complimenting the Officers on their very fine rendition of the work.

At close of Chapter Session Laverda Trauger and her refreshment committee placed long tables across the end of the room and covered them with lovely lace cloths. Lighted tapers, large trays of dainty sandwiches, in many varieties of shapes and fillings, home-made cookies, frosted in the Star colors and many in star shapes, mints and salted nuts, made a most inviting table. Mrs. John A. Root poured serving coffee and Mrs. John F. Root, poured serving tea. John A. Root, at the piano, accompanied by his son, John F., on the violin, furnished music during the serving of refreshments.

The register showed eighty-eight visitors and seventy-two members present.

Did The Apostles Keep Sunday?
by Dalton F. McDugal

Part III
Many think that 1 Cor. 16:2 is the go ahead signal to keep Sunday as a holy day. Let us read the text "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." This does not suggest a meeting on the first day of the week, at which a public offering was to be taken; but, on the contrary, it was a work each member was to perform at home. Each was to "lay by him in store." Paul was making provision to help the poor saints at Jerusalem. Compare 1 Cor. 16:2 with Act 11:29; Rom. 15:26, and Gal. 2:10. Paul was on his way to Jerusalem at this time and he was to speak to the Corinthians brethren to lay aside what they could afford at home on the first day of each week. Then when he would pass through Corinth on his way to Jerusalem, each one would have a sum of money to send with Him without any figuring or soliciting. In other words, they would have the sum of money ready to turn over to Paul so he would not be detained on his way to Jerusalem. In order for them to do this on Sunday, as God has prospered them, according to what they had earned the previous week. This would require the balancing of their accounts every Sunday, which goes to prove that they were not keeping the first day of the week as a holy day.

Again, many think that Acts 20:7, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, which indicates that the Lord wants us to keep the first day of the week. The text says "And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight."
The mere holding of a religious meeting on the first day of the week would not make it a holy day of rest; because these early Christians often held meetings every day of the week. The fact that they met to break bread or even eat the Lord's supper on this particular Sunday does not prove in those early days, they broke bread daily. See Acts 2:46. The Bible day is reckoned from sunset to sunset (Lev. 23:32; Mark 1:32), this night meeting (Acts 20:7, 8) at Troas on the first day of the week must have been held on what we call Saturday night. Paul conducted this meeting all night long (Acts 20:7, 11), and spent the Sunday going on foot from Troas to Assos, a distance of about twenty miles. When he reached Assos, he joined the rest of his band of missionaries on board their ship, and on this same day they went to Mitylene—a distance of about forty-five miles farther. This entire procedure was arranged by Paul (Acts 20:13, 14). And all this traveling was done on Sunday. Here we have Paul twenty-seven years this side of the resurrection, not only having plans to do a hard days work himself on Sunday, but also planning for the whole company to travel on the same day. This could not possibly have been so if the first day had been observed by them as the Sabbath.

This one instance of a meeting being held on the first day of the week, instead of lending any proof that the early Christians observed the first day as a rest day, affords positive proof to the contrary; showing that instead of observing it as a rest day, they regarded it as a day of ordinary travel and business. This conclusion is in perfect harmony with what I had written a few weeks ago on the subject "What day did Christ Sanctify?" where-in we have shown that the early Christians knew of but one holy Sabbath; namely, the seventh day of the week.

Near the close of his life Paul told the Jews that he had committed nothing against the customs of the Jewish nation (Acts 28:17.) He never could have made this statement had he not been an observer of the seventh day.

Part IV will deal with Sunday in honor of our Lord's resurrection.
