

Plans For Athletic Program To Be Discussed Next Monday Night

A community meeting will be held at 8:00 o'clock Monday night in the grade school building at which time discussion of an athletic program in Plymouth schools will be held. The decision to call a meeting was made Tuesday night when a score of members of the Plymouth Athletic association met at the high school to hear the report of the football season.

Supt. Dennis acted as chairman of the meeting and he gave a very encouraging financial report. He revealed that the football squad started out this season with a $395 indebtedness and that at the present date, there remained only $332.50 debt. This amount is an old bill due an athletic supply firm.

Gives Views on Football
Supt. Dennis pointed out Tuesday night that if football is to be continued, it must be placed on a paying basis. It was revealed that the gross receipts at the game last Friday amounted to $241.80, which indicates that the community is interested in football. However, at Tuesday night's session, it was agreed that to create interest in football and other sports, facilities will have to be installed so that night games of football and basketball can be played which will attract an average attendance of around 400. Paid admissions will be $1.00.

Supt. Dennis said that the sports program is planned where by lights and bleachers can be installed, that there is very little doubt but what football in Plymouth will pay for itself. Comparisons of other communities were given where night football has been installed, and proved very successful.

He said members of the association that five home games of football are scheduled for next season, and that it might be necessary for four of the games to be played away from home in order for the team to break even. These four games would be played under good weather where the attendance is good.

Will Offer Plans
At the meeting to be held Monday, several plans will be offered for securing lights and bleachers. Among them will be a bond selling plan, which will give every citizen in Plymouth an opportunity to participate. The bonds will be sold in denominations as low as $10, and will be repaid out of the earnings of football games and other night attractions. Other plans for raising sufficient funds for the improvements will also be discussed at the meeting next week.

He hoped that the mayor, village councilmen, members of the park board and the board of public affairs will be in attendance as well as members of the board of education. Every school teacher is urged to attend this session and all citizens of Plymouth and the school district.

The meeting is to be a "round table" affair, and no pledges of money or stock-buying will be asked. However, if you're interested in Plymouth's welfare and its youth, you will make every effort to be present to learn in detail about this fine program.

Booster's Club Needed
The Athletic Association hopes to reorganize a Booster's Club so that proper support can be given our basketball squad during the coming season. In year's past the Club did a splendid job, and with renewed interests in football and other school activities, the Club can do a lot of good for the home.

ASKS DESTRUCTION OF ALL POISONS

A warning is issued this week by Mayor Robinson asking that every person who cleans out the medicine cabinet and sends the unwanted contents to the dump TO DESTROY ALL POISONS.

Youngsters have a habit of rambling through the dumping grounds, and this week caretaker Chronister took three vials of strychnine from youths who had picked them from the rubbish. Children have many curious traits, and innocently, they could swallow a pill or take a drink of liquid which could prove fatal. To avoid such a mishap, Mayor Robinson and Caretaker Chronister urge the destruction of all poisonous pills or liquids, rather than dumping them out in the open on the rubbish heap at the village dump.

Loses Hand In Husker

While husking corn Friday afternoon, Levi McDougal had the misfortune of losing his left hand when it became caught between the snapping rolls. McDougal had been present in mind to push his body against the release lever, which possibly saved him from losing his entire arm.

Mr. McDougal had been assisting his son Wayne, who lives on the old home place, between the Plymouth and Springfield roads, on Friday. They had hauled corn from the field and operated the husker until 4:00 p. m., when the mishap occurred.

McDougal believes that a pair of leather gloves he was wearing at the time, was the reason his hand became caught between the rolls. The wrist that amputation of the arm half way between the elbow and wrist was necessary. Wayne took his father to the Shelby hospital where he received treatment. He was released Wednesday afternoon, and is now at home.

Six years ago Mr. McDougal purchased a corn supply business from George Bevier, and since then has operated the Plymouth Corn Co. Mr. McDougal stated Wednesday that his two sons, Kenneth and Wayne will assist him in the business, and that coal, coke and stoker coal are available, several cars arriving this week.

News of Mr. McDougal's misfortune brought many sympathies and expressions. His many friends and acquaintances wish for him an early recovery from this painful and unfortunate mishap.

Fall Festival Friday Night

It promises to be a gala affair Friday evening at the Fall Festival sponsored by the P. T. A., the Mothers club and the school.

The high school auditorium is being decorated with bunting created for the evening's festivities. One of the highlights of the evening will be auction, with H. H. Fackler, the auctioneer, and Mrs. Maytag washer will be offered to the highest bidder and many other items that are good and useful are on the list, as well as a good line of baked goods.

This is one time you can be sure of a good catch, that is if you patronize the fish pond. Then there will be the pop corn stand with proceeds to be used in the fund-raising for the grade school building; and waffles made to a king's taste will also be offered for sale, as well as sandwiches and soft drinks.

There is no admission to the festival which begins at 7:30 and perhaps you may be the lucky winner of a very nice door prize, or lucky at Bingo which everyone enjoys.

Armstrong, the couple observed their fifty-third wedding anniversary in July. Mrs. Armstrong was a lifelong Richland county resident, being a native of Springfield township.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. E. P. Antonovich of Tacoma, Wash., and Miss Mildred Armstrong of Shelby. She was born in the Welsh town of Shelby and John of Plymouth, and seven grandchildren. One daughter, Mrs. Leo Subler, of Shelby preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today, Thursday at the Burkhold funeral home with Rev. Darwin Hayes, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

Early Paper Stolen Car

Next week's issue of The Advertiser will be placed in the mail early Wednesday morning, because Thanksgiving falls on a regular publication day. Please send in news and advertising early.

Work on the paper must be started this week. Church notices, special illustrations, should be in the office Saturday. Shiloh news must be in noon Monday. Please cooperate!

No Trace Of Stolen Car

No report had been received up to late Wednesday in the automobile stolen from the parking lot at the Fate-Root-Heath Co., Monday afternoon.

The car, a Frazier Manhattan, belonging to Ray McCarty, was parked east of the locomotive assembly room, near the sidewalk. The theft is said to have occurred between 2:00 and 3:00 p. m. It was not until Mr. McCarty quit work at 3:00 and started for his car that the theft was discovered.

Chief Meiser of the local police was notified and the state patrol was also prompted on the robbery. Mr. McCarty states that he had a very valuable gun, fishing tackle, overcoat, and other articles in the car. He also told police that the gas tank was very low, which would necessitate the thief or thieves to stop at a service station in this immediate area.

The car was not locked, and the keys to the ignition were under the seat in a secluded spot. It is very evident that the person who made way with the car knew this particular habit of a lot of drivers.

This is the first car theft reported in Plymouth for a number of months. McCarty is an employee at the Fate-Root-Heath Co., being in charge of maintenance.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE
The Annual Community Thanksgiving service will be held in the Lutheran Church Wednesday, Nov. 23, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. He was arrested Saturday evening by Officer J. E. Peterson, who had taken him to a car parked on the Square and belonging to a member of the orchestra playing at Legion Hall. Foster was ordered to make satisfactory settlement with the owner.

Teams Go To Lima

As a reward for their season's work members of Plymouth's football squad will journey to Lima on Friday night where they will play Lima's St. Rose team. This ends the football season for Plymouth, and the game Friday night promises to be a real treat for the young men.

After the game the football teams will be a real feed, i. e., steaks and all the trimmings. Supt. Dennis states that the purpose of scheduling this game is to give the players an opportunity to make a real trip away from home and to let them gain experience through contact with new teams.

The party going to Lima Friday night will consist of twenty-six football players, four cheerleaders, five managers, student reporter, coach and superintendent. Eight cars and drivers will be used for transportation, and those furnishing cars will have their expenses on admission to the game paid. Those signing up for transportation are Joe Burrer, Coach McMullen, Supt. Dennis, Carl Carnahan and John Helbig. Two more will be added to the list by Friday noon.

The group will meet at the high school at 4:30 Friday. Members of the squad will eat a light lunch before leaving, and a "tall meal" after the game.

Lima's St. Rose were state champs in basketball last year in Class C. There are only two seniors on the football team this year.

PAUL WINS
The tie for member of the Board of Public Affairs was broken Tuesday night when the president of the Board of Elections tossed a coin, and B. R. Scott called out the wrong side.

The Board found the basis as cast in the election to be correct. In order to break the tie between Scott and Paul Root, who received 203 votes each last week, it was decided to flip a coin.

Big Crowd At Homecoming

The queen and her attendants, upon arriving at the field Friday afternoon in two convertibles, made a complete circle of the field and then took their time on the band stand. The queen presented mums to all the fathers of the players, managers and cheer leaders while the band played. "I WANT TO BE A QUEEN" was the song that the queen sang. She presented the game ball to Captain Dean Grabach and the game began.

The High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Bishop, made their first public appearance and the majorettes put on a routine during the pre-game ceremony.

The Captain Band and the majorettes gave a welcome to the queen and her attendants as they appeared on the field. In honor of the Plymouth School they formed a block C and played a grand number, after which they formed a block C for their crowd and played their school song.

The team, inspired by the many fans who attended the game with a score of 25 to 7.

Queen Crowned
At eight P. M. of fan fare announced the arrival of the queen and her court at the high school building. At the conclusion of the fan fare Charles Hannum struck the chords of the coronation march. When the assembled guests saw the queen enter they arose and stood standing until the queen, her court and the crown bearer, David Root, were seated.

As the queen and her court mounted the last step to the stage they were met by Captain Dean Grabach and escorts from each class representing the football team.

After the coronation the queen was then entertained by a tumbling act put on by the physical education department, the singing of a quartet number composed of Roger Hampton, Lanny Gooden, Benny Dorian and Larry Root, Elmer Root, Shirley Birch, and Molly Burrer put on a skit and Sam Hutchinson and Jerry Schneider put on a magician act.

Captain Dean Grabach and the other escorts then led the queen and her attendants off the stage and started the Grand March which ended with the beginning of the dance. The dance was provided by the Star Dusters, which made the dance enjoyable to all.

THE Square

SEVERAL STRIKING poster designs have been observed around the Square the past week or so. The posters were made by John Armstrong, official photographer at the Parsel Air Supply Depot. They featured the Fall Festival, sponsored by the P. T. A., which is to be held this Friday night. The posters are done in attractive designs, with perfect lettering and illustrations. Mr. Armstrong will no doubt have future requests for his work. He is to be complimented for his fine art and skill in producing these splendid posters.

FROM THE WAY coffee prices have been pushed up this week, the average coffee drinker will have to add more water to get his money's worth. Wholesale prices quoted in Plymouth Tuesday had reached 85c a pound. It has been predicted that this favorite beverage will reach a buck a pound in December. However, this is very doubtful, judging from reaction of sales during the current week.

Buying Wabba broke last week, according to local stores, but the demand has greatly tapered off this week. High coffee prices should reflect in the sales of toast, postum, and other items of beverages. . . . and, perhaps, Coca-Cola, although we've never tried it for breakfast.

YOU DON'T HAVE to have a son to make the Sports page of the Plain Dealer in football season," Frank Pitzer tells us; "All you need is a daughter, elected Homecoming Queen and Bingham there you are with the rest of the football games in the sports column!"

AND SPEAKING OF football, it isn't only the young "fry" that are interested in the game, but also those "young in heart." Mrs. Helen Root, a great grandmother of the Schreck boys has been a consistent attendant at practically all of the games this season and also the Homecoming Affair on Friday. She has a daughter, elected Homecoming Queen and Bingham there you are with the rest of the football games in the sports column!"

THE FOUR TOUCHDOWNS made in the Homecoming game Friday netted the team four pumpkin pies baked by Mrs. Frank Pitzer and just to be sure that the boys all had their share, two more pies were baked by the grandmothers, the gift of Mr. Al Koser at the Plymouth Bakery. Maybe, that's the solution for a winning team . . . pies.

SPORTSMEN WILL be interested in knowing that a trophy prize shoot will be held Saturday, Nov. 19th at the Plymouth-Willard Gun Club, west of town. The event is being sponsored by the Willard Conservation League and the Gun Club. Four door prizes and a trophy will be awarded. The trophy will be awarded. The shoot will feature 75 16-yard targets. If you like trap-shooting, here's your chance for real entertainment. Trap opens at 10 a. m. Entries close at 4 p. m.

PASSING THROUGH the study hall the other day, Supt. Dennis observed one of his youthful students staring out into distant space. "I'll give you a nickel for your thoughts," said Mr. Dennis. The youngster, somewhat amazed by the offer, immediately revealed his true thoughts. Supt. Dennis, as he started away, flipped a nickel to the student. The professor, who is afraid, won't make any more offers soon.

THE TAIL FEATHERS are flying in the Brown & Millers. Rather than flying, we should say "Coming in." It's all because this well-known hardware store has offered a prize for the longest pheasant in a tail feather. Tuesday there were five turned in, and more are still coming. Those who brought in feathers the first day are O. R. Dicks, Everett Wilson, Ray Cassidell and Gene Betts. The contest. Hunters have until six o'clock, Saturday, Nov. 26, to turn in their feather. The prize is worth $100. It may be obtained by sportsmen to know that Brown & Millers so far this season have issued 450 hunting licenses.

THE PLYMOUTH STORY

Frank Graham Tells A Story:
"Protracted Meetings" Held

"To the north of the bridge, the street ran past the Public School to the Methodist Church, which faced south. A cousin of my mother's was a Methodist and used to frequently take me with her. I especially remember 'Class Meetings'—Croninger or Crowell was the Class leader; I still have these two men jumbled in my mind as I had them in connection with the Dry Goods Store."

"The Class leader would stand facing the middle body of seats; in front of him, under his very nose, was a big man, whom I only knew as a blacksmith. Croninger or Crowell would 'line off' a hymn two lines at a time and then the blacksmith would sing them or rather—roar them. I supposed the blacksmith had to, that the Class leader made him do it."

"In all the services in this church the men sat on one side, the women on the other. In the evening prayer meetings two Englishmen, one named Dawson, sitting on the west side took part; they got so wrought up one of them ended every sentence with 'ahh!' The other snarled like a puppy with a bone. Then Mother Shelley, of whom I have before spoken as an enlivener of prayer meetings, sitting, or rather kneeling in the northeast Amen corner—did her part, literally 'broadcasting' her petitions."

Protracted Meetings

"The Methodist preachers whose names I remember were Palmer, a little man who quitted his tailor's bench at the 'call' to preach; Dubois who had a son (pronounced generally to be extra bad); Barkdull and Hildreth—Thomas Hildreth."

"Every winter the church held 'Protracted Meetings,' that was the name at that time for 'Revivals.' These meetings were held every evening for three or four weeks. After certain services the invitation to come 'forward' was given to all."

who felt the burden of sin and the need of pardon and the wish for escape from ungodly horrors of wrath to come. Then hymns were sung continuously during which penitents went up and knelt at a backless bench encircling the pulpit."

"I should think this bench would accommodate twenty-four. Inside this bench knelt a number of brothers and sisters who with heads close to the penitents were giving counsel and comfort. There was a great deal of weeping by the females about the bench; and the wetter the handkerchief into which the weeping was done, the more satisfactory the conversion. I had my doubts about those handkerchiefs. I knew one girl spit all over hers; she told me so!"

The Preacher's Son
One night there was great commotion at one end of the bench. We in the body of the church stood up and craned our necks. Some one was groaning in a way to make one's blood run cold. And there were ejaculations from kneeling brothers and calls upon God to come to the help of this soul struggling with sin. Finally some one near said 'It is Hobe Dubois!' And sure enough, there was he rolling on the floor and from him came those awful groans. I don't know how it came out, I probably got nervous and left the church. But I always felt that 'Hobe' Dubois did it 'a-purpose,' that it was a trick on the brethren; he was perfectly capable of it."

West of the Bridge
"West of the bridge over the railway cut on the right hand side was the home of the Moffatt family of which I remember only two, a girl—Ellen and a boy Dick (?). It seems to me that the boy had black snappy eyes and a black curling hair."

"About opposite the Moffatts a street ran south. (This would be Bell St.) On the corner lived Kent Kirtland and his wife, she that was Katy Jane Bodley Culy. (This would probably be the house on the West corner of Bell and Broadway.)"

"Further along the end of this Street (Bell St.)—indeed where the street halted waiting for the new plotting that was to be—was the home of John W. Beckman, a lawyer. I think his wife was one of the Bodley girls. There was a daughter, Mary Frances. (This perhaps could be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weller.)"

"Returning to the road that ran west, I have no definite memory of any thing beyond and west of Kent Kirtland's; only off there somewhere were 'Westfalls' and Marshes that burned and glowed, and the setting sun."

Bread From Plymouth

"I must not leave the Railroad track till I have told of it. I bread that the women of Plymouth stood over it to Cholera stricken Sandusky. I think the year was 1852 or 1853. So many fled that there were not enough left to take care of those who couldn't flee. And so the women down the road baked bread for Sandusky. I can still see the clothes basket, filled with Mother's light brown loaves that father carried away to the station."

Back to the Square

"Going eastward across the Square, we return to the point where my Father's printing establishment was that he bought of Locke and Robinson. Taking the right hand street, our faces are toward Sandusky. I never knew anyone other there except Uncle George Adams and his family who lived there for a short time."

"Between the bridge, formerly spoken of, and town, were three families I knew something about. On the south side of the street lived in a better house than its neighbors, one Dan Brewer. Interpreting the vague reports of my uncomprehending little ears, I should say Dan Brewer was a politician or servant of politicians, who made some money. He had daughters; seems to me one was called 'Lib.'"

"Across the street were the Devines (pronounced Deviney in Plymouth.) They afterward moved to Cleveland, one becoming somewhat prominent as a lawyer."

"Near them lived the Malty's. I have good reason to think that two granddaughters of this family became prominent as Educators. I saw one of them a few years ago in Columbus."

County Line Road

"On the other road running eastward from the point, I knew no residents until we got out to the Graham farm and the Bodies. Both farms were out that way somewhere, but I do not know how far out. I can remember three boys of the Graham family; Hiram, who married a Miss Green of Monroeville; Frank and Jim. I think Jim died when quite a young man of consumption; Frank must have been something of a humorist; he told some glibbie youngster that if he could get right hold of the right hair of a negro's head he could unravel the whole pale. This story may be claimed by other towns, for other men but when I heard it it was claimed for Frank Graham."

Games of Yesterday

"Of the Bodine family I remember only the two girls, the one I have said married the newspaper man, and Laura who was of my sister's age. A favorite place for young people to go was out to Laura's. Once my sister took me along. I was in the seventh heaven for I was admitted into some of the kissing games, 'Drop the Handkerchief,' 'Post Office,' and 'Spot Out.'"

Old Woolen Mills

"Between these two eastward running roads, and between the creek and the town was a cluster of low, dingy red buildings; they were the home and woolen Mills of a Mr. Armstrong. I know nothing of the family except Lucinda; she used to bring her dinner to the brick school house in the south part of town. Always she had little red apples and she was generous in giving 'bites.'"

Back to the Square

"When I told of the residence and blacksmith shop of Mr. Day I spoke of a lane next to the shop, running north. (This is now Porter Street.) I don't know where it went; but I remember that a few houses fronted on it. Our home lot, the one father bought of farmer Graham about 1850, run from this alley to the main thoroughfare, therefore we had two gates, the front one opening on the street going north. New Haven-ward, and a back gate opening on to the alley. Opposite this gate was the comfortable home of Fred Porter."

Porter Street

He was a German and the only butcher; my recollection of his rating is that he was getting rich. A few rods north of our back gate was the front gate of the merchant called 'General' Burgoyne. I remember nothing of his family except a boy named Frank. I hated him because he was an invader whom I could not drive out; he would climb into our fruit trees and I couldn't pull him down. Spirituists in 1850

"On the southeast corner of our lot another alley started in at right angles to the north and south alley, connecting it with the New Haven-ward road. (This is Spring Street.) In the lot opposite our lot's southeast corner was a little house connected with a little 'cooper' shop belonging to a Mr. Russell, and whose home was the little house. (This would be where is now the small house owned by Mr. & Mrs. B. Miller.) Mrs. Russell was a spiritualist medium. In those years from about 1848 to a few years into the Fifties, Spirit returning was interesting the United States and Europe. The Fox sisters had appeared in New York State and a man by the name of Home went from New England and won faith and on the other hand—equal skepticism in England and on the Continent. Mediums appeared probably everywhere; ours was in the little house on the corner of the two alleys. (Porter and Spring.) She used to tell me not to be afraid, the spirits were friendly to good little girls!

GRANGE PLAY

Saturday night is the big night for fun and a lot of laughs, as an all-male cast of local men take part in the side-splitting comedy, "The Big Baby Revue" at the school auditorium at 8:30.

Sponsored by the Shiloh Grange this riot of laughter will be put on by men you see on the street every day, but whom you will hardly recognize once they get their grease paint on and parade before the footlights. It will be a big laugh from start to finish, as the bow-legged beauties do their stuff. What ever you had planned for Saturday night, forget it and see this lively comedy at the school house.

The play will be short on plot but long on laughs, and there is a lot of hidden talent around here that is due for sudden exposure. If members of the cast are not stars already, stars they will be after Saturday night, so come out and give them encouragement.

The director is Miss Lois Newmark of the H. M. Rickard Producing Co. of Merrillan, Wisconsin. Shiloh Grange is exerting every effort to accumulate a fund for a Grange Hall and the proceeds of this entertainment will go into their building fund.

SEEKS COLLECTION

Kotz & Baker, realtors, Shelby, have filed a collection suit for $10,000 and have named Edith Coleman, Rt. 1, Plymouth, O., defendant. The plaintiffs allege that sum is due them on the sale of a 111 acre farm which the defendant had sold for $20,000 after having given them exclusive listing of the property. The defendant, the petition points out, sold the property on the day the plaintiffs had a prospective buyer all lined up to buy the farm.

Plain Talk About TELEPHONE TAXES

Federal excise taxes are increasing your telephone bill—in some cases as much as 25%. There is a flat 15% Federal tax on local service. On long distance service where the charge is 25¢ or over, the tax is 25%. Other forms of telephone service are taxed from 8 to 25%. This tax is imposed directly upon you as a telephone user. Your telephone company, as its own expense, acts as a tax collector.

These excise taxes, levied directly upon you as a user, are in addition to the corporation income taxes which the company pays to the government. These taxes must be included in the company's cost of business and must, therefore, act to increase your telephone bill as a sort of hidden sales tax.

Telephone service is generally regarded as a necessity. Yet the 25% tax on long distance and other service is higher than the 20% luxury tax for jewelry and furs.

We are sure your Senators and Representatives in Congress would welcome your views as a taxpayer and citizen in helping them to guide future action on this unusual peacetime tax on a necessity.
