

Roaring Blaze Levels Large Hip Roof Barn Friday Morning; Loss Estimated at $12,000

A fire, which is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion, levelled a large 40 by 80 foot hip barn Friday morning on the farm belonging to Leo Barnes, one and one-half miles east of Plymouth. The farm is known as the Clayton Pugh place, and was purchased by Mr. Barnes five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bixby have resided on the farm for five years.

The blaze was first discovered at 11 o'clock by Lee Allen Bixby and Clelen Poth, both eleven-year-old grandsons of the Bixbys. They reported the fire to their grandmother, and she instructed them to get out all the livestock in the barn, while she called Mr. Barnes at his home in Plymouth. Mr. Bixby was making hay at another Barnes' farm near the village. The boys were unable to save several tons of cattle and two head of horses.

The entire contents of the big barn, including 32 loads of hay which had been placed in the structure four weeks ago, were destroyed. The loss included soy beans and oats, left over from last season, and a few odds and ends of equipment, but no valuable farm machinery.

The Shioh fire department responded to the alarm. Mr. Barnes having a contract with them for fire protection. Due to the lack of water, their efforts were futile in getting water into the barn and in keeping nearby buildings wet. There was a drilled well near the barn which would have given an ample supply of water, but the intensity of the heat kept the firemen away. A nearby corn shed and a 25x40 foot building, containing small stored apples, escaped the blaze, but a couple of them did become very hot. A bucket brigade kept water on the corn buildings which were closest to the fire.

The Plymouth fire department responded to a call from the farm, but inasmuch as there was no water and no contract between Mr. Barnes and the department, they returned to town.

The estimated loss of the barn and contents is set around $12,000, partially covered by insurance. Mr. Barnes states that he had intended to rebuild a barn immediately.

The blaze attracted several hundred people and the highway between the County Line and the Plymouth-Shioh road was jammed with autos.

The blaze Friday morning was a fast-destroying one. The entire structure was burned within less than 20 minutes, according to Mr. Barnes.

July Was Cool Month According to Report

July was a month of many cool nights and no extremely hot days. Only once did the mercury hit 90 (on the 12th) and on two nights (the 1st and 14th) it dropped to 48. The average temperature for the month was 70.1 or 2.7 degrees below normal.

Rainfall was almost normal—3.33 inches, an excess of only .13 inch. The greatest in 24 hours was 1.04 inches on the 17-18th.

At the end of the month practically all wheat and oats had been harvested. Corn made rapid progress and other important crop crops to be in the making.

Mace Edwards Dies Tuesday In New London

Plymouth friends were deeply shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Mace Ellen Edwards, at the New London hospital Tuesday evening at 11:30 o'clock. Mrs. Edwards had been in poor health the past year, but had resumed her work as designer for the C. E. Regalia Co. on full time basis not too long ago, and a physical examination recently disclosed that she had apparently recovered completely, so news of her death came as a distinct shock.

Before moving to New London to make her home, she had lived in Plymouth, clerking at the Kroger Store, the Edwards Food Market and later at the Red Front Market for A. F. Cornell.

During her residence here she took an active part in the affairs of the Methodist church of which she was a member, and serving as president of the Non Pareil Class of that church.

Fun loving, always in for a good time, Mrs. Edwards truly loved life and her sunny disposition won for her many friends. She had been ill, but after suffering the heart attack was removed to the hospital where she passed away, at the age of 61 years.

Survivors include her sister, Mrs. Beth Dennis of Shelby; four brothers, Ray Sybrandy, Traverse City, Mich.; Harry of Spencer, Theodore of Cleveland, Ohio. One brother and a twin sister Grace preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at the Methodist church in New London, the Rev. W. R. Crawford, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Grove Street cemetery, New London. Friends may call at the Fitch Funeral Home any time before services.

Visitors From West Coast Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Porter and daughters Donna and Polly from Temple City, Calif., arrived Saturday in New Haven where they were entertained until Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dickinson. They then left for Akron and Youngstown and will drive to Sharon, Mississippi, to visit their son and daughter-in-law children before returning home.

The Porter family are former local residents. Mrs. Porter being re-married to Mrs. M. J. Porter and this is their first visit since six years. They enjoyed the first of the week calling on their many local friends.

Before coming to Plymouth they had stopped in Milwaukee, Wis., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fox, who found them nursing a broken ankle suffered in a base ball game.

Friends will be interested to know that Carl Fox after five years in the army, is now in the Georgia, and completed his college work for the ministry at Emory college and now has a pastorate in Sharon, Miss.

Mr. Porter stated that members of the Charlie Fox family who are also former Plymouthites are all here and ready to enjoy their western home and have no inclination to come east again to live. The youngest Fox boy, Bobby is attending college and hopes to be a public accountant. Mr. Porter is a public accountant, being self employed. By the time they have returned 9,000 miles.

August 15th Deadline For Pledge Payments

Out of a total of 122 seat reservations for the PHS stadium, there are at this date 12 remaining unpaid. The money for these reservations is needed to pay the balance due on bills for mortar, concrete blocks and lumber. Payment of these bills should be made by August 15th.

The Booster Club has anticipated the money for these reservations to pay for the balances due on his material and will have to wait until August 15th to have this money for the loss, unless all money for reservations is received by August 15th.

Therefore, in fairness to those who have already paid their reservations, in fairness to our creditors and in fairness to Club members who have been working hard every night to have this project completed before September 15th, all reserve seat reservations not paid in full by August 15th will have to be cancelled.

We are sure that those who have not yet paid have simply overlooked this matter because we believe that you will not want to have your hand wagon when the opening kick-off whistle blows on September 15th and that you will be proud to have your name on this project when completed.

Of one hundred $10.00 bond books recently mailed 14 have been returned. Some of these are progressive citizens and his wife sent a check for $50.00 and asked for 3 more books. Another progressive citizen of seats returned a $10.00 donation. (Many thanks to you three citizens.)

So the net return on bond books mailed only 100, and the 10 books have already been mailed again to 10 other citizens.

A. D. Points, Area Grocer, Dies at Willard; Rites Friday

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10:30 in the McQuate funeral home for A. D. Points, well-known groceryman, who died at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Willard hospital. Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church will officiate. Following the services here Friday morning, the remains will be taken to Akron where they will be interred in Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Points, who was only 56 years old at the time of his death, was the son of Albert M. and Clara Albright Points, both deceased. He was born in Uniontown, Stark county, Ohio. In his early years he was employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and worked his way up to engineer. He later worked as an engineer on the Wheeling & Lake Erie division of the B. & O.

Recently Mr. Points entered the Willard hospital for a blood clot and he remained there for ten days and was released. After a few days at home he returned to the hospital and he was confined there four days prior to his death Tuesday morning. He took a turn for the worse Tuesday night, and his death followed Tuesday morning.

Mr. Points, who formerly made his home in Willard, moving there from Akron, came to Plymouth twenty-three years ago, where he became connected with the Kroger store as local manager. He had been in the store for four years before moving to New Haven.

Resigning as manager of the Kroger store here six years ago, Mr. Points made his first business venture for himself by opening a small grocery store in New Haven, a popular spot on the intersection of S. Route 224 and State Route 1. He was also interested in a couple of restaurant ventures, and disposing of them, he centered his efforts on his grocery store.

He enlarged his store, added new fixtures and as a result he enjoyed increased volume of trade.

A. D. was well known to almost everyone as a hustler. From early morning till late at night, seven days a week, he was "on the go," and through his store he carried his stock, and hundreds of people in this community. Always cheerful, he greeted his customers in a cordial manner. He was known personally to everyone. He knew merchandising in every respect and had the ability to keep a long list of items. During his management of his store, which aided him materially in saving time.

Surviving are his wife, Frances, two daughters, Clara of Houston, Texas, and Mrs. Robert Coleman.

Navy To Have Booth At Drive-in Theatre

In conjunction with the picture "Task Force" showing at the Star View Drive-In Theatre, Sunday and Monday, the U. S. Navy thru its Sandusky office will be present to detail the history of U. S. Naval Aircraft from origin to the present time.

The Navy display disc jockey show is already prepared with the U. S. Navy Band and an official Navy representative will address the audience in the Pacific. To be shown in the Pacific is the movie "Task Force." In addition the Navy will have at the Theatre a Navy information booth to answer questions pertaining to the Navy.

This program will be patterned after regular public information and relations presented by the Navy department. Many scenes in "Task Force" starring Gary Cooper are actual war films of our fleet in action in the Pacific. To be shown in the Pacific is the movie "Task Force." In addition the Navy will have at the Theatre a Navy information booth to answer questions pertaining to the Navy.

Mr. Ida Meritt Egner, SS, of Shenandoah, died suddenly Monday while visiting in the Mansfield home of a grandson, Howard Egner, at 156 Main Ave. A native Shenandoah county, he was a member of the Shenandoah First Christian church. Her husband, Elmer Egner, died four years ago.

Mrs. Egner leaves daughter, Mrs. Lons Kiesel of Shiloh; four sons, Jude of Adair, Gale of Waterloo, Iowa; Vaughn of Columbus and Virgil of Paradise Hill; twenty grandchildren; eighteen great grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the Shenandoah First Christian church with a former pastor, Rev. John McDonald, presiding. Burial will be in the Shenandoah cemetery.

IT IS DIFFICULT to picture Uncle Sam any more as a slender, spare fellow, since he has developed such a disgracefully large waist. Pathfinder.

I'VE SEEN 'EM put a saddle on many a bronco . . . in the movies, that is . . . but not until last week did I ever see a saddle strapped onto a motorcycle. Charles Walker and Richard Cooley of Republic came over to Plymouth where they purchased a saddle at Don Willett's harness shop. For transportation they rode double on a motorcycle, but in going back they had to tie the saddle on behind the seat. It was a neat job, so neat in fact that a third person could have ridden in the saddle with ease.

MRS. W. M. BITTINGER thinks perhaps the seasons are getting a little milder as she has a branch of blossoms on a Duchess pear tree which also is bearing winter pears at the present time. This is very unusual, but no doubt Nature as well as pranks, must have a trick once in awhile.

QUITE SURPRISED Monday afternoon when I bumped into Jake Myers in front of the Advertiser office. Mr. and Mrs. Myers who have been in Tucson, Arizona, are taking a vacation. They flew into Cleveland, and came on down to Plymouth where they will spend a week or so with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bachrach and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Myers. Jake says Plymouth looks the same, after being away for a few years. He says it's the rainy season here in Arizona, but that the weather has been very nice out there. Several Plymouthites have visited the Myers the past few months in Tucson and we hope they will enjoy their visit here.

WAYNE ROSS of the Hitting Post tells me that his advertising last week really brought results. Though cooperation with the Page Daily in Hitting Post featured a couple of ice cream specials. As a result business was far greater than they expected. The Hitting Post is a well respected and popular publication. It finished a large and attractive sign for the Hitting Post, and the cut-out letters are a piece of art, as well as being a good business connection with the sign.

But Martin took the cash for catching the biggest and smallest fish on a deep sea expedition—$1.00 each. The largest was a nine inch Perch. The smallest, we believe, was four ounces. Anyway he brought the big one home to prove he got the biggest. The boys were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rule, while in Jacksonville. We Should Be Proud Of Our Band!

The band concerts in Plymouth this summer on Saturday nights have been the source of many fine comments. The main reason is that the band is made up of Plymouth's own children who have shown a splendid attitude in promoting a Plymouth band. The success of the band in being able to stage concerts on Saturday nights is due to the ability and patience of Mr. S. G. Gilbert of Bucyrus, who took over the job of instructing the students.

The business men around the Square are to be congratulated in "going along" with the school band by donating weekly to the fund which makes it possible to have an instructor. The business men are well aware of the possibilities of having our own band, and they are very unselfish in their cash donations in promoting the band.

The fact that the Saturday night concerts are creating much interest proves that the people in the surrounding territory do enjoy good music and that they are willing to come to Plymouth on Saturday night for this type of entertainment. The band is proving an inspiration to many youngsters and the number of people who "crowd" the band stand is an indication that they like to see the young people in action.

To further this splendid project the P.T.A. could well afford to take on the job of supplying uniforms for the band. This would be an added incentive for the boys and girls, and certainly one which should be well supported by the community. It is hoped that the P.T.A. will take this project up at its first fall meeting and decide to sponsor a program which will give uniforms to the band members.

How Pay For It!

A one-eyed man can see that the United States is faced with an international crisis that is staggering in its possibilities. The war in Korea may be settled in a comparatively brief time or the war in Korea may be the spark that will inflame the world.

If we are so lucky as to settle the situation in Korea in short order, what assurance have we of a lasting peace? We must be ready for whatever happens. That means a defense program of monumental proportions.

If the Korean war is not brief, we shall go on and on in an expanding tragedy of World War Three, with expense for armaments that none of us can envision in its immensity.

In either contingency we are faced with the need of money and more money. Money by the billions, not by the millions. The president knows this, the Congress knows this, and you know this and we know it. It is a matter that is generally conceded. The billions will be needed for arms, whether this war we are now in is short or lengthy is a total inconceivable.

So what? How can we meet such an obligation? Many of us have not shared the concept of President Truman for a Welfare State. We have fought public housing, carried on into peacetime, brought into communities in recent months when private enterprise should have been encouraged, instead, to build apartment houses and houses for rent for whatever housing needs there are.

We have watched the United States take over banking, as an emergency measure, and hang onto it to the present day.

We have seen the government get into the power business and discourage private ownership of power generation and distribution.

We have seen the government get into agriculture and it is very evident it means to stay there.

The government has been building hospitals for a long time and now proposes to get into the realm of medicine itself.

The government is invading the realm of education, telling us what we can teach and how and to whom.

The government is in every business in the land, prying into books, snooping into ledgers.

All this bureaucracy is supported by the people, whose taxes are mounting higher and higher all the time.

Can we continue to support all this crew of the Welfare State and conduct a world war, too? Of course we cannot. There is not money enough in all the world to carry on such a program at home, and a defense program of world-wide dimensions, too.

We must choose between the two.

In our opinion it is high time for us to kick out the Welfare State, which is just a watered down version of Communism, anyhow, and get back to Democracy, in the true sense.

Let's fight for it, and let's live it, here at home.

Let's tell our politicians, in Washington and elsewhere that we can do without handouts from now on.

We must save our country now or never.

This crisis is our opportunity. Let's not only go to war for democracy, but let's live it here at home.

Fifty Wildlife Types Disappearing in U. S.

Fifty types of game are listed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service as fast disappearing in the U. S. Already gone are 12 kinds of grizzlies, the heath hen, the Arizona elk, the passenger pigeon—and others. Near to joining them are the Florida Keys deer, the fisher, the marten, the wolverine, the tule elk, and many lesser-known species.

One ray of hope: Wildlife sanctuaries and public concern have helped. Trumpeter swans, down to less than 100 in the mid-1930's, now number more than 400. The U.S.-Canadian buffalo population has climbed from 1,000 to 35,000. And another in the growing supply of game refuges—the 7,000-acre August A. P. Wildlife Management and Recreational Area in Missouri—was formally opened this week.—Pathfinder News Magazine.

Area Author Gives Good Advice To Would-be Radio Script Writers

Editor's Note: Emmett Doyle, who lived in Willard as a boy and young man, is really a self-taught radio writer who has taught himself well. He has written a number of radio shows for the major networks and for programs broadcasting transcontinentally. He has just completed a thirteen week contract for a five-times-a-week dramatic show which was broadcast over KFWB, the Warner Brothers Station in Hollywood. Although he is Producer-Director-Writer for the Wide Lane Enterprises in Hollywood, California, Emmett much prefers the freedom of free-lance writing. Besides his radio work, he also writes articles and short stories for the current magazine. With his wife and youngest son, Emmett is combining business with pleasure, renewing contacts in Chicago and New York radio circles, and visiting at the home of Mrs. Doyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Page, Shiloh, Ohio.

"WHAT IS MISFORTUNE?"
By Emmett Doyle
Have you ever thought of thinking Almighty God for your misfortune or handicap?
I didn't either, at first!
In 1943, we moved to California from Columbus, Ohio. Three years later we were happily settled in Pasadena, with a little home, a car and a good job.
The future looked rosy and bright.

In March, 1946, they carried me into the hospital. There I stayed for eight long months. They removed my stomach and sent me home advising me that the greater part of the next two years would be spent in bed.

I can't tell you how I came to the decision to be a writer. I don't know, unless it was because that was the only thing I could think of to do while stretched out in bed.

Either that or make brooms, and if I made brooms, how would I sell them? I couldn't send them through the mails as I could manuscripts, could I?

And so I prayed! I prayed and prayed!

When you see everything you've worked hard to get, slipping by the boards when you yourself are absolutely helpless to better the situation, then you do one of two things!

You either give up and begin whimpering and whining about your misfortune, or you realize that you are completely dependent on the Mercy of God!

If you begin to pray, a slow realization comes to you that perhaps there is a reason behind your misfortune. You probe your inner self, deeper and deeper. And then you get a faint sight as to Who and What, God is!

Then, if you're wise, you'll surrender YOUR will to the Will of God!

They say writing is a profession, like medicine, dentistry and law. They also say it is necessary to put in long hard years of apprenticeship preparing for the profession, like doctors, dentists and lawyers.

That may be true, but I'm convinced that prayer is the shortest God prepared for those who completely recognize their total dependence upon His Love and Mercy!

Do you have talent?
I don't! If I had, would it hide until I was forty-eight years old, all washed up as far as physical labor was concerned?

Do you have an education?
I don't! I left high school to go to work on the railroad. Go on and snicker at my spelling, my phrasing, my punctuation and at what I end sentences with!

Do you have youth and good health?
I don't! I am now fifty-one years old and rated by the United States Veterans Administration, sixty per cent permanently disabled.

Propped up in bed with the kitchen bread board across my knees I began to write.

After a couple of months of covering the field with a shotgun, I decided to throw it away and use a rifle, aiming it at a particular target!

My target was radio.

The first shot, just missed the mark. The second was a bullseye!

I will never again have the thrill I had that day, when Mrs. Doyle came whirling into the room waving a fat three figured check for my first radio play!

The producer of Grand Central Station program, a transcontinental network show had bought the play and wanted to see more of my work!

Since then I've sold to producers of all the major programs broadcasting over national networks. If you've been listening to many programs, you've more than likely heard my air credits.

Recent plays aired, were "Getting Rid of Jean," "Confession," "Too Much Imagination," "Poor John," "Dividends," "The Murder of Anthony Wade," "John Archer, Deceased," "The Love-worn Rose," etc.

My play, "Rain-Check" took first prize in a radio play contest sponsored by the First Nighter program.

Recently I've branched out into magazine articles and short stories. The things we call "misfortunes" are mostly opportunities, if we'll only recognize them in their masquerades.

Misfortune gives us a wonderful chance to do some serious and lonely thinking; to get behind the scenes and to dig down under the superficial!

With that comes realization of our own inadequateness . . . our necessity for humility . . . and the all-embracing Mercy and Love of our God!

I think, by doing this, most of us can find a reason for thanking God for our misfortunes!

For those of you who might be interested in radio writing, here are a few tips:

Pick out ONE radio program that you would like to write for. Listen to the show. Listen and listen and listen! Make notes. Write down snippets of dialogue. Write the names of the characters and what particular peculiarity made them different from other characters. Make notes on sound effects.

After the play is over, write the plot in as few words as you can. What is the theme? How many characters? What was the age of the lead character? How did you find out his age? His name? His appearance?

Get a book of radio plays from the library. Study the scenes and dialogue. Note the number of scenes to each act. Watch how every word of dialogue advances the story line. Count the obstacles the hero has to overcome before obtaining his desire. Note how abruptly the play ends after the climax.

Then sit down and begin to write.

After you've written five original thirty-minute plays, put them in the desk drawer and lock the drawer!

It's work! Hard work! Don't let anybody ever tell you it's easy! On top of that, writing is a very lonely business!

You'll list three to five scenes. You'll write a paragraph covering each scene, giving the gist of the scene action. Each scene is in itself a miniature playlet, with a beginning, a middle and an end.

Now you'll pick out your opening scene, make the beginning, short and sharp and begin to write the play.

You won't slavishly follow your scene outline, but will from time to time move around within that scene circle as your characters and problem dictates.

This scene outline will keep your play tight and compact and will preclude you're going off on a tangent, ending up with a different story than the one you started to write. It also keeps you from padding in useless dialogues and shifting plot lines.

After you've sold a few scripts, unlock that desk drawer and take out the first five you wrote. Read them over and you'll know what to do with them!

Today's popular radio fare on dramatic programs tends toward the thirty-minute length.

This means approximately four thousand words, or about twenty-five pages of script, double-spaced dialogue, triple spaced between speeches.

With a half-inch margin on the left and a full inch on the right, top and bottom, you can figure about one minute to the page. Twenty-five pages will just about make it, allowing time for the advertising agency to insert commercials and lead-ins. Producers prefer the story to be slightly over the limit, rather than under, because by cutting, a story is made tighter.

A few do's and don'ts: Do keep your plays realistic. Do keep your plots and problems simple. Do listen to the show you want to write for.

Do identify each character that appears in the scene. Do keep sound effects to a minimum.

Do be authentic in setting and background. Do build the play on a continuous line of suspense.

Do make your dialogue short and snappy. Do make a truck driver speak like a truck driver, not like a college professor.

Don't have over six characters in the play. Four or five, if possible.

Don't use one word of dialogue unless it advances the story line. If a piece of dialogue strikes you as a brilliant speech, cut it out!

Don't have unhappy endings.

Don't let crime and criminals go unpunished.

Don't carry the play on after the climax.

Don't write anything not in good taste.

Each program is built up to certain definite requirements. Study those requirements by listening to the show.

Remember, you can't sell the best steak in the world to a vegetarian!

There's a big market for original radio plays, but if you decide to write for it, be prepared to spend hours and hours of lonely, plodding, exasperating effort at your typewriter, day in and day out!

Oh, and one more tip! You'll find that sincere and honest praying will smooth out a tremendous lot of the rough spots!

Why let these invisible "STEERING WOBBLES" rob you of thousands of tire miles? Wobblers, caused by out-of-line wheels, get into every car sooner or later through road bumps, curb scuffs, and worn steering parts. They literally saw the life out of your tires...cause blowouts and accidents, too! TIRE SAVINGS ALONE will pay for the entire cost of this LIFE SAVING SERVICE!

Bible School To Close Sunday; Public Invited To See Handiwork Of Students

The Community Daily Vacation Bible School will close next Sunday evening with a demonstration program at Mt. Hope Lutheran church at 7:45. There has been a total enrollment of 156, with 136 being the highest attendance on any one day.

The beginners, pre-school age, have outshone the other departments in attendance. They have been learning about "God's Son from Heaven," through stories, correlated songs, supervised play, rhythm band and handwork, plus a rest and lunch period.

Teachers and helpers have been: Mrs. W. W. Pittenger, Mrs. Glenn Swanger, Mrs. Grace Brand, Mrs. Clay Bixler, Mrs. Richard Pittenger, Mrs. David Rish, Mrs. John Swartz, Miss Mary Seaman, Miss Helen McQuate, Miss Sally Young and Miss Mary Ann Butner.

Dorothy, Alice and Martha Porter, and Mrs. James Peterson also assisted.

The Primary department has been studying the "Good Shepherd," and will present a part of their studies on Sunday evening.

Mesdames Ina Boyce, Dorothy Williams, Doris Herz, and Mrs. William Hettiger; Misses Anna Mack Hamman, Jane Blackford and Jill Elliott were the teachers. The department which met at the Methodist church.

The Junior Department built their study around the true life Gospel-graph friends (Betty, Curly Jean and Shorty) who study the Gospel of John under the theme "The Christian's Birth and Growth."

Correlated with this is the music Bible drill and hand-work. This work was under the direction of Lois England, Kay Elliott, Mesdames Ruth Rader, Mary Brook and Blake Million.

The Intermediate Department was under the direction of Rev. Lubold with "Planning Life's Partnership" as their study.

The public is invited to view a display of the department handwork and witness a demonstration of their studies on Sunday evening August 6, at the Lutheran church.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Twenty-eight members of the "Shiloh Pals" 4-H club met Aug. 1 at the schoolhouse. We discussed our projects which are to be judged Aug. 9. Roll call was answered by the name of a state.

Dismantling Depot

The New York Central depot at Toledo is being torn down, work on the wrecking of the building was started Monday morning. The railroad discontinued the station here some months ago and the windows have been boarded up since that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Reynolds are spending this week end at Marblehead, on Lake Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Moser, sons Roger and Darrell, visited relatives in Zanesville over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boyce were Sunday guests of Mrs. Grace Billings and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Black.

Other relatives present for the occasion were: Mrs. P. L. Willett of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Betty Dent and Mrs. Conrad of Olmstead Falls; Mrs. Beatrice Black of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Luthy and son Philip of Wickliffe.

Unable to be present were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bouffard and family and the E. T. Reimers.

Mr. Kenneth Black is building a new home at Doylestown where he has been teaching for several years and is again rehired for an indefinite time.

CLASS TO MEET

The Home Builders class will meet in the basement of the church Tuesday evening Aug. 8. Jean Smith and Vera Bell are the hostesses for the meet.

ATTEND LIFE CENTER

Mary Ann Butner, Judy Hamman, Kay Elliott and Sherry Smith of the Shiloh Pals, Betty Dent and Helen Mae McQuate of the Snip-N-Sew club attended the Camp at the Richland Rural Life Center.

Seeing their faces beam and eyes sparkle while telling of the good time they had at the camp, everyone should feel gratified that they bought a tag on tag day from a 4-H boy or girl.

The girls wish to thank any club organization or individual that contributed money or helped in any way to make this camp in Richland county possible.

The Shiloh Pals' improvements to be made at the camp so if you are asked to help, remember that every little bit helps.

Jason Murlin, Former Local Teacher Enjoys Corresponding With Plymouth, England, School; Here Are Some Excerpts

Teacher in Plymouth, England, Tells of Work.

Jason Murlin, former resident of Plymouth and high school teacher here, has been enjoying a correspondence with a fellow teacher in Plymouth, England. Thinking that the school-minded public of Plymouth, U. S. A. would be interested also in the school systems of another Plymouth, they are printing a portion of the letter below. Mr. and Mrs. Murlin now reside in Clifton, New Jersey, at the home of the New Jersey Junior High School.

222 Coombe Park Lane, Crownhill, Plymouth, England

My school is the Public Secondary school for Boys, Cobourg Street, Plymouth. For once, the word "Public" in scholastic matters really means public and there is some real history in the retention of the word in our name.

The boys and girls' schools expanded and now we have one and one-half floors each, the primary school being housed elsewhere.

"With the new Education Act came a change of name and the word 'Central' was dropped. We were called quite long and hard. The examination which our pupils have to pass before entry is taken by all primary school pupils between the ages of 10 and 11 years; those who pass highest go to a secondary grammar school, there are two each for boys and girls; those who do not so well go to our kind of school, (there are three for boys and one for girls) those who fail to go to the secondary modern schools.

"It is proposed to make our type of school secondary technical. Although we shall have a technical school, it will still be small, commercial and professional side. The majority of our boys, however, enter the Royal Dockyard, the armed forces or else local engineering works.

"At the present time I am taking General Science, minus the biology section. The proportions vary from year to year, the two senior science masters sharing the work so that we get a reasonably equitable proportion of bright and not so bright forms.

"The school is still suffering a little as a result of the war, but only as far as organization is concerned. By next year I think even this will have worked itself straight. The difficulty is mainly due to varying sized intakes resulting from evacuation problems, and also to a certain extent from changes in leadership. During the last four years we have had three different heads and two interregnums. This first move was caused by our head becoming vice principal of an emergency training college for teachers—we had a stop-gap head who got a permanent headship elsewhere, when his tenure was drawing to a close, but his predecessor did not return to us as he also got a better job. So our headship went into the melting pot once more. Our new man came after Christmas. I think he means to stay as he has obtained certificates, permits and licenses to build a house—in fact he has just about everything except a builder!

"You were good enough to tell me something about yourself. I am 39 this year, married and live at home with my father and sister who is an infant teacher. I took my London B. Sc. in Physics and Mathematics in 1932 while at the University College, Exeter. I followed this with a Post Graduate certificate in Education in 1933. Most of my teaching has been Science of Mathematics.

"In 1941 I joined the Royal Air Force as a photographer and eventually served in India. I was given a priority release in Jan. 1946 in common with most schoolmasters. The teaching profession was badly hit by the war, so during that period no men teachers were trained and of course, many were called up. After the war, to make good the deficiency, several emergency training colleges were set up and mass produced teachers. Many entered the profession by this door thinking the work was easy, with good money and good holidays and with little thought for the pupils. The big grouse of several orthodox teachers is that in several schools the number of newly trained teachers outnumbered the experienced ones. As far as my school is concerned this has not happened. We have only one of the emergency type, he is a good conscientious man who would have been a teacher in any case.

"We have only a small play-ground in front of our school which is close to the city center. For our games we take our boys once a week, for an hour to a playing field about two miles away. They go to the games and take part with other local schools in Association Football (three teams) Rugby Football (two teams) and Cricket. These school activities are extra curricular and are carried out mainly on Saturday mornings when we do not go to school.

"Our forms are about 30-35 in size, but some, the school certificate forms are smaller.

This may be modified with the inception next year of the General Certificate in Education for 16 year olds, if only we can persuade our boys to take a time for the term. Theoretically they are supposed to stay till 16 but Dockyard and Service entry is fixed for 15 to 17 and our boys manage to do quite well at 15 so most of them go to work.

"By the way, I am not a professor—it has taken quite a time for the family to get over it! The term is only used over here (in England) for the holders of a chair at a University and not for ordinary humble teachers like me.

With best wishes and the hope of a continued correspondence, Yours sincerely, Norman Smith

White Horse Revue To Be At Huron Fair

A new and unique attraction which has won acclaim at leading fairs of the Middle West is the White Horse Revue, which has been engaged as a feature attraction of Huron County's 28th annual Fair.

The show, which features 25 beautiful Albino horses and their riders, is different from anything previously seen at the fairs. The horses, product of the famous White Horse Ranch of Cal and Ruth Thompson, at Napier, Nebraska, are marvelously trained animals which do all sorts of amazing and entertaining tricks. Their riders are young men and women who were practically raised in the saddle and handle their mounts with the skill of experts, putting the animals through their routines with splendid showmanship.

This year the show has been greatly augmented by the addition of a circus band, which is singing and comedy, and a unique modern setting has been provided, with special lighting effects.

The show is clean, clever entertainment from start to finish, and is educational as well. Those who have seen it declare it the most enjoyable show playing the fair. It will be featured in two shows Friday evening, Sept. 15, at the Fair.

Falls In Barn

Dick Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hunter, had the misfortune to slip while playing in the barn of his father's farm west of town, and fell 12 to 15 feet to the barn floor. A physician called Mr. Hunter who, with an older son Joe, took Dick to the doctor where his injuries were found to be painful but not serious. He was confined to his bed for two days but is thankful to have escaped serious consequences.

DIRECTORY DUE NEXT MONTH

The first rural directory for Richland county residents will be the first press in August. It is announced by the Rural Directories, Inc., of Bowling Green.

Cavassers, trained by the firm to tabulate rural residents, have nearly finished their work in the county, firm officials said.

The directory will include all farm residents, rural businesses, and the location of roads, railroad crossings, churches, fire stations and other rural landmarks of importance.

APPOINTED EXECUTOR

J. Victor Stine appointed executor of the estate of Samuel F. Stine, late of Plymouth. Estate estimated at $27,000.00.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The family of the late Mrs. Jessie Phillips were invited Tuesday evening to attend the memorial services and draping of the casket of the Daughters of America at the Junior Order Hall, Shelby, of which organization Mrs. Phillips was a member. A very impressive service was put on by the members.

Attending the ceremony were Mr. Ed Phillips, Mrs. Lois Phillips of Plymouth, Mrs. Ernest Phillips of Mansfield, Mrs. Otto Shoup of Shelby, and Mrs. Walter Wilson of Shelby.

Kent State Doubles Size In Ten Years

KENT, O.—Kent State University has more than doubled its campus and enrollment in the past ten years.

Campus acreage has increased from 100 to 250 acres in the ten year period, while student enrollment jumped from 2,750 in 1940 to more than 6,000 in 1950. Buildings and equipment are now valued at more than $15 million.

University officials attribute the rapid growth to the fact that more than four million people, or half the population of the state, live within a 50-mile circle of Kent, in heavily populated northeastern Ohio.

Every educational study indicates that geography or nearness to a campus, determines whether a student goes to college, KSU officials point out.

Introducing Mrs. Verda Trauger Weller

In the large, brick school building which stood under tall elms and maples at the west end of the Plymouth Square, the classes studied and recited and the teachers watched and guided as the children came each day for instruction.

We can well imagine one of the 'school mams' as they were then known, nodding her head wisely and confiding, "That little Trauger girl will be a fine teacher herself some day!" And so she is, and Plymouth feels very fortunate to have the services and experience of Mrs. Verda Trauger Weller to introduce the little First Graders this September to their first year of school.

Mrs. Weller, who is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel W. Trauger of Portner Street, attended school in the old brick building for twelve years, and after Graduation Day enrolled at Kent College. She majored in Primary Education and Psychology and after Kent became a University, returning there for further study. She has also attended the University of Wisconsin and had training through San Diego State College in California.

She taught in Shaker Heights school for fourteen years, and has also taught in Evanston, Illinois, Ashland, Ohio, and National City, California.

Mrs. Weller comes to us with fine training, experience and most pleasing personality, and we were glad to hear her say, "I am looking forward to teaching here. I am delighted with the building, and Plymouth should be very proud of its school."

WASHINGTON REPORT

BY SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

THE attack on the Republic of Korea by North Koreans at the instigation of Soviet Russia was an outrageous act of aggression against a friendly, independent nation, established and recognized by the United Nations. The whole country approved the decision to go to the aid of South Korea, but it has been shocked by the success of the North Korean attack.

We had been told by military people and many others that the South Korean army was fully prepared to resist such an attack by the Reds from the north. How did it happen that the Korean army was unable to defend Korea and that we must now send American divisions into the battle?

In 1949 Congress appropriated more than $100 million altogether for military aid in the form of all of which was used for Korea, and $10,000,000 of which was actually set aside for that purpose. Assistant Secretary of State Webb testified specifically, both before the House and Senate, that the appropriation was sought for the purpose of helping Koreans to meet external aggression.

We find, however, that no part of the appropriation, except $200,000, was ever spent to give military assistance to the Republic of Korea. Apologists for the Administration claim that we left behind $110 million worth of arms for the Korean army. I don't know what this material may have cost originally, but it was old stuff and it consisted mostly of side arms and light artillery and more or less obsolete bazookas.

The important fact is that we gave the South Koreans no airplanes and no tanks, and no heavy artillery or modern bazookas to stop the Russian tanks. The best trained troops in the world could not have stood against an attack by a modern army under such circumstances.

APPARENTLY there are two reasons why this important material was not supplied to Korea: the appropriation was contained in the general military assistance program bill, which contained more than a billion dollars for Central Europe, ten times the amount allocated to the Far East. I voted against the bill because I considered that European project impractical and unwise, but it received first priority and little Korea was so far down the line in priorities that it was never reached at all.

I always approved military aid to specific countries like Greece and Turkey and Korea under threat of immediate Communist aggression, but opposed the wholesale project of arming all of Europe.

In the second place, the Administration for some reason changed the policy of giving assistance to Korea to defend itself against real aggression. The President said in his message on June 26: "In Korea the government forces were armed to prevent border raids and to preserve internal security. Of course, airplanes and tanks and heavy artillery are not required for this purpose, so that, even if the money had been spent, the Koreans would have been little better off."

I voted also for economic aid to Korea, very little of which ever reached them and, of course, all of which has now been wasted.

THE truth is our Government had adopted a deliberate policy of not defending Korea or opposing Communist aggression. As late as May 5, Senator Connally, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said: "Whenever Russia makes a move, she can overrun Korea."

He was asked: "But isn't Korea an essential part of the defense strategy?"

He replied: "It has been testified before us that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines make the chain of defense which is absolutely necessary."

We have now fortunately reversed that policy. But let's not let the Administration apologists who try to blame the military defeats on the South Koreans, or General MacArthur, or Republicans in Congress.

By J. HARRY MCGREGOR

THE DEFENSE DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Last week Congress was asked by the President to appropriate 10½ billion dollars for Korean defense as well as to bolster the defenses of other countries threatened with Communist aggression. Also contained in the Arms Aid bill are funds needed to increase the size of our armed forces to insure victory in the Korean campaign.

Behind the scenes of our military mobilization are some facts concerning our spending for defense over the years which are relatively unknown to many people. For example, few persons realize that since July 1, 1946, $49.3 billion has been appropriated for defense by Congress.

Members of the 17th District as well as myself are asking the same questions: Where has all this money gone that was appropriated for defense? With such large expenditures for military equipment why were we so weak when the North Koreans swept down the peninsula of South Korea? Why have we so few modern tanks, anti-tank weapons, planes and ships?

WHERE THE MONEY WENT

The key to the answer to these questions lies in the enormous amounts spent merely for food and subsistence for the armed forces in the last four years. Out of every dollar for defense in that period, only 18 cents went to the Army, Navy and Air Force for weapons, planes, ships and other vital equipment, while 40 cents were for food, clothing, pay and transportation for our troops.

The following table breaks down the tax dollar spent for defense for the four-year period:

Item	Cents
Salaries, food, clothing, transportation	40
Operations and maintenance of equipment	18
Weapons, planes, ships, etc.	18
Research and development	4 1/2
Administration and secret work	4
Reserves and Naval Guard	1
Industrial mobilization	1
Retired pay	1 1/2
Construction, public works	1 1/2
TOTAL	100

MILITARY SPENDING SINCE 1946

The best measures of actual military defense spending are the authorized amounts for this period, July 1, 1946, to June 30, 1950. Congress passed legislation totaling $49.3 billion for the military during the time of which $48.4 billion has been expended. Nearly a billion more will be spent from these authorizations before the end of this fiscal year.

Twenty billion dollars of the amount consumed during this interim went for ordinary expenditures; $12 billion was allocated for operating and maintaining military installations and military equipment around the globe; and $3.6 billion purchased new combat tools.

Many of us feel that a more thorough investigation should be made of this defense spending. It is very apparent that we have neglected to furnish adequate equipment to insure our troops full protection in case they needed it.

So we are again building up our defenses and enlarging our armed forces to meet the current need. Should the world situation grow worse, there will be further requests from the White House for special authorizations like the one just bill.

We must realize that although war is costly, we are dedicated to the task of keeping our nation free and must prepare our defenses to help insure our freedom will be maintained.

What Do You Know!

A Minute Sermon by

Rev. L. E. Smith

The world of today is faced with almost unthinkable horrors — A-Bombs, H-Bombs, Death rays, Bacteriological warfare, Guided missiles, etc. Many a heart is filled, and reasonably so, with a nameless, demoralizing dread and fear. During World War II when Hitler's "secret weapon," the guided missile, was unleashed upon England, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a statement which he described as "brutally frank," told the world that these flying bombs had in three weeks killed 2,752 persons, seriously injured about 8,000 and had done extensive property damage. He added: "It would be a mistake to underestimate the serious character of this particular form of attack."

It would be a grave mistake to underestimate the seriousness of the threat of the death dealing instruments of destruction of our time. The situation reminds us of the comment made in an article in Time Magazine when the secret weapon was unleashed upon Britain: "The whole unpleasant business is right out of Old Scotch history. From shoules, and shies, long-legg'd beasties, and things that go bump in the night, good lord, deliver us!"

All of which suggests a verse applied to Israel at the time of her national restoration: Isaiah 54:17 "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord." Jesus said as recorded in Matt. 10:28 "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him (satan) which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." He, satan, is our most dangerous enemy and he has his "secret weapons." St. Paul exhorted the Christian to "Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." God wants us to trust Him and not be afraid: He has provided a place of refuge for the believer.

THE MERCY SEAT
From every storm wind that blows,
From every swelling tide of woes,
There is a calm,
Tis found beneath the Mercy-seat.

There is a spot where spirits blend,
Where friend holds fellowship with friend;
Though sundered far, by faith we meet
Around one common Mercy-seat.

Al! whither could we flee for aid,
When tempted, desolate, dismayed,
Or how the hosts of hell defeat,
Had suffering saints no Mercy-seat?

There, there on eagle-wing we soar,
In time and sense appear no more,
There heavenly joys our spirits greet,
And glory crowns the Mercy-seat.

Meet Our Summer Bandmaster
S. G. Gilbert of Bucyrus, our High school band this summer and giving private and group instruction in the Bucyrus High school, and during the Mr. Zion school, and his 11th year at the North Robinson school this fall. During this time he taught instrumental music and directed the band for five years at Sulphur Springs and six years at Lykens. Ten years ago Mr. Gilbert organized the Bucyrus High School Band which is still active. He holds an eight year provincial teaching certificate which he was granted after teaching 80 months.

Mr. Gilbert finished high school at Howe, Ind., and came to Ohio in 1921. He took private instruction on the cornet from Prof. Wineland of Findlay College. For seven years he was band instructor at the Otterbein Home, Lebanon, Ohio, and during that time played for three years with the famous Armco Band as first cornetist.

Mr. Gilbert gave private instruction at Galion, Ohio, for two years and then was called to Alliance, where he organized and maintained for six years, the "Orphans" band at the Fairmount Children's Home.

He has two sons, one married and one in high school. His wife is the former Florence Laughbaum, whose father, the late Rev. O. F. Laughbaum, was pastor of the Presbyterian church in Plymouth, around the year 1902.

RETURN FROM CANADA
Mr. and Mrs. P. A. R. returned home Monday evening from a vacation trip spent at Thessalon, Canada, at the Gribben-Hemlock Lodge. They were accompanied home by Tommy Gribben, who will divide his time between the Root home and the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. R. and daughters, Mrs. Gribben who with her husband operate the Lodge is a niece of Mrs. Pizzen.

Mrs. Edith Smith is confined to her home on West Broadway with illness.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT STRESSES SAFETY

TOP—Edward A. Brandt, Supervisor of Safety for the Ohio Department of Highways is viewing a motion picture reel on accident prevention which will be shown to Highway employees in safety meetings throughout the state. The Highway Department places great emphasis on accident prevention, and plans to make the program even more extensive this year.

BELOW—James Spencer, Safety Inspector for the Department points to one of the boards put up by the Safety Bureau showing causes of accidents. These boards appear in 88 counties and 12 division garages. The posters show gruesome pictures of accidents and their causes. The pictures are changed every month. Mr. Brandt feels that by giving the employees the facts it may open their eyes to safety.

Have You Read "Panther Moon"?

"Panther's Moon," by author Canning, is available to readers at the Plymouth Library and those who have already read this excellent adventure story will soon see it on the screen under the movie title of "Spy Hunt." The name of the book describes the action and story much better than the movie title which seems very true after all the congressional investigation we have had lately. By the way, the story has nothing to do with politics in the U. S., so go ahead and check out the book and have an evening's good entertainment.

Reading Club
Youth members of the Summer Reading Club are advised to get their reports in as soon as possible, as plans are being made for the picnic in August. Mrs. Lois Pennel, librarian of Mansfield, was in Plymouth Wednesday to confer with Mrs. Harold Shuter, Plymouth librarian, on arrangements.

New Books
The reading clientele which likes new books on their list, may now have "About Mrs. Leslie," by Vina DelMar; "The Feast," by Kennedy; "Double-Double," by Ellery Queen; "Homeward Bound," by Chatterton; "Case of the Musical Cow," by Gardner.

Eatonville, Washington Schools Chosen to Make Educational Records

The Apollo Choir of the Eatonville High School, state of Washington, has been chosen one of three schools in the state to make a set of six educational records. Maurice Davis, son of L. Z. Davis of Plymouth, is the music director, leaving Crestline five years ago to assume the position in the western state. For four years in succession this choir has earned the rate of "Superior" at the state choir contest, some of the members serving their entire four years of high school in the choir. This is an unusual record and one that is hard to surpass.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis and their daughter were visitors in Plymouth this summer.

Gift And Letter For Local Library

The Plymouth Library is the recipient of a very nice gift of books and an interesting letter concerning them. Mrs. Harold Shafer, local librarian has received the following communication from Mrs. Ruth Bliss Vietzen, Elyria:

"To whom it may concern: Under separate cover you will find an autographed copy of 'The Ancient Obelisks and Their Neighbors' by Raymond C. Vietzen—a gift to the Plymouth Public Library from Elcanor Searle Whitney. Also you will find a copy of 'Ancient Man in Northern Ohio' presented to the library by the author, Raymond C. Vietzen, and his wife, Ruth Bliss Vietzen.

"Being the wife of the author, and because I was born in Plymouth and started my first years of school there, I am writing this letter to you at the suggestion of Mrs. Whitney who thought you might be interested.

"To properly introduce myself, I am the daughter of Altha Bodine Bliss. I was born on West Broadway but remember most of the things that occurred while we were living about one and one-half miles northeast of Plymouth with my grandfather, Guy Bodine. The house, I believe now owned by George and Florence Mittenbahr. Grandfather and grandmother were laid to rest in Greenwald cemetery. In the span of years since we moved away, no doubt much has changed in Plymouth but the pleasant memories I have taken away with me have not.

"At present my husband and I are working on a new book, the fourth. We have spent many, many years doing research work in a Kentucky cave (A Stone Grave Culture) and are slowly compiling facts that will tend to make these Indian people live again. The book was to go to press the first of March but we are holding publication to include this summer's work.

"In the extreme back of 'Ancient Man in Northern Ohio' is a true story of my great uncle, Theo. Bodine, who was grandfather's brother. With kindest thoughts of Plymouth and her people, I am, Sincerely, made as well as burning nine million dollars a day in old currency. Passes were obtained from Senator Bricker's office which gave them an opportunity to see Senate in session. "Washington is truly a wonderful place to see according to the visitors and Mrs. Redden was much impressed with the entire trip, as it was her first trip to the deep south.

Mrs. Fred Charboneau of Highland Park, Detroit, Mich. visited Friday with local friends.

Ohio

A small, dark, rectangular photograph showing a landscape with trees and a path. The image is grainy and appears to be a reproduction of a physical photograph. It depicts a path or road leading through a wooded area with several trees visible on the left side. The overall tone is dark and somewhat somber.
