Pilgrims Face Butler As Homecoming Foe

With Butler's Bulldogs as the opposition, Plymouth High school's Pilgrims try to even their season's record tomorrow night at Mary Faye park in the annual Homecoming contest.

Butler's season record is no better than the Pilgrims' and an even contest is forecast. Both teams are expected to be "up" for the game, and at full strength physically.

Under the sponsorship of the Varsity club and the cheerleaders, the Homecoming festivities will begin half an hour before game time when the Queen - Miss Carol Cobb, 17-year-old senior - and her court arrive in scarlet convertible automobiles while the 55-piece Pilgrim band plays a fanfare.

During the halftime intermission the queen will be crowned by the captain of the football eleven, who was elected last night. The band show will be the life story of a Plymouth graduate.

After the game, a Homecoming dance will be staged in the high school gymnasium. James Hunt will be master of ceremonies after the presentation of the queen and her court - the queen will be in white and her court in pastel colors - and a vocal solo by Nelson Roberts, the ball used in the game will be presented to the team captain.

Jack McQuate, junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl McQuate, 21 Railroad street, will play a piano solo. A further presentation of award will precede the Queen's dance, when the Queen and her court tour the floor. All alumni will then be invited to the floor. Lanny Gooding's All-State orchestra will play for dancing. Decorations of the gymnasium have been planned and executed by a special committee.

The cheerleaders who are assisting in sponsoring the program are the Misses Daher Huzovick, Rose Tenifer, Janet Smith and Janet Norris.

The Pilgrim eleven will probably face the kickoff with John Fox and Larry Taylor at ends, Franklin Eckstein and Dick Goldsmith at tackles, Bud Berberick and Mickey Hampton at guards, and Jim Jacobs at center.

Behind the line, Plymouth will operate with Otis Port in the tailback slot, Jim Hunt at quarter, and John Fetters and Tom Marvin rounding out the quarter.

The Bulldogs, losers of two and with one scoreless tie so far this season, feature a mixture of offensive systems. Coach Marion Lowks uses the double wing, single wing, and unbalanced T from time to time.

With 31 men in uniform, the black-and-orange clad Bulldogs will operate under the leadership of Capt. Dwight Wolfgang, who plays in the defensive platoon.

The probable starting line ups:

Plymouth	pos.	Butler	pos.

Conservancy Board Votes to Go Ahead With Base Line Plan

Celeryville Conservancy district board ruled out the immediate possibility of a water supply lake in Cranberry township Thursday night and instructed its consulting engineer to prepare a working plan for the Base Line site.

The reason, the board indicated, is that the Base Line site offers the best possibilities for flood control.

The decision means that Engineer David Harker will proceed with the plans showing the engineering feasibility of an artificial lake believed to cover a permanent area of about 82 acres in the general area south of Base Line road to New Pittsburgh and east of State Route 598.

Representatives of the Tiro and New Washington village councils attended the meeting Thursday, to express their desire to participate in a water development scheme that might alleviate water shortages to household and business consumers in those villages, and an Attica delegate was on hand to ascertain if the board's plans conflicted with the scheme of Attica to install a reservoir.

Engineer Harker's present notion is that his official plan is likely to be ready for submission to Huron County Common Pleas Judge Robert Vetter about the end of the year. If it is approved, the board will then consider the financial aspect of the plan.

Under the existing laws, the board could float bonds to provide the necessary capital to finance the construction of an earth dam south of Base Line road to a site west of New Pittsburgh and other reventments and earthworks plus control gates, to dam up surface water into a permanent lake.

Before the board does so, it will endeavor to purchase, by private negotiation, the land involved. This failing, the board could then resort to eminent domain procedures.

This would mean that a civil action would be filed by the board's attorney, Kenneth Thornton of Willard, in the court of appropriate jurisdiction to condemn the land for the purposes stated in the acts of incorporation of the conservancy district.

The case would then be placed on the civil docket in the county of jurisdiction and would be heard by a petit jury. Jurors would be selected by the normal procedures applicable in other cases. Testimony would be taken from witnesses, both expert and functional, and the jury would recommend to the presiding judge what price is fair for the purchase of the land.

The owner is obligated by law to convey to the conservancy district the land stipulated in the action for the price approved by the judge upon recommendation of the jury.

Once the land is acquired, against nominal payment of cost, a bond issue could be sold to pay for it and for the construction costs.

Actual construction of the earth reventments would not consume much time, it is indicated. Just how long would be required for the lake to fill up would depend upon climatic conditions, generally involving rainfall, humidity, and flow of surface water from surrounding land.

Only 2,194 acres are being planted this year, a sharp reduction in wheat plantings.

Only 2,194 acres are being planted for the 1955 wheat crop in the county, as compared to 24,542 acres allotted to Richland farmers by the Department of Agriculture this year.

The cut in wheat acreage is 27.2 per cent below the average allotted acres for the 1952 and 1953 crops, according to Guy L. Taylor, oil manager of the Richland county agricultural stabilizations committee.

Taylor said wheat producers now planting their winter wheat crops for 1955 will not be eligible to receive Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing if they exceed their allotments. Wheat farmers also must comply with all individual crop acreage allotments established for their farms and must not exceed the average acreage planted in 1952 and 1953 to be eligible for price support.

The exception to this, Taylor said, is if farmers have a wheat acreage allotment less than 15 acres. In such cases farmers may harvest not more than 15 acres and receive price support on other eligible crops grown on the farm.

Wheat farmers also will be subject to wheat-marketing quota penalties if they exceed their allotted acreage and harvest more than 15 acres.

Didn't Like It!

Elementary school pupils learned this week that Mary's little lamb is not the only four-footed beast going to school.

Principal Wayne Strine discovered a wee cottontail rabbit, doubtless seeking a safe haven from the impending hunting season, in the corridors of the school building Monday morning.

The little fellow inspected the building, looked into the classrooms, and found the place was not exactly what he was looking for. Perhaps the arithmetic problems were too much for him, although rabbits are generally credited with a thorough knowledge of the multiplication tables.

Anyway, when the door was opened by Mr. Strine, Bunny hopped out, lipped, and presumably is in the field hiding out from Mr. Hunter, who starts his annual search for rabbits Oct. 15.

42 Attend Meeting Of Mothers Club; Cop To Speak Next Time

Forty-two mothers and teachers of elementary school children attended the first meeting of the Mother's club Tuesday afternoon at the elementary school.

Mrs. C. L. Hannum opened the meeting with the announcing of the committee members assigned to the various groups. Mrs. Robert MacMichael heads the project committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Don Akers, Mrs. Donald Chase, Mrs. E. P. Haver, Mrs. Clyde Lash, Mrs. Joe Lash, Jr., Mrs. Louis Lillo, Mrs. Judson Morrison, Mrs. Gerald Gaudet, Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Mrs. Russell Barber, and Mrs. Stanley Condon. Mrs. Arthur L. Paddock, Jr., is chairman of the program committee, which is composed of Mrs. Norma McQuown, Mrs. D. B. Faust, Mrs. Frank Fener, Mrs. James Broderick, Mrs. William Root, and Mrs. Robert Lewis. Mrs. Frank Pitzer and the grade school faculty will be in charge of publicity, and Mrs. Earl Cashman and Mrs. M. J. Coon will work together as the membership committee.

Plans which are being made for the community Thanksgiving dinner were held by Mrs. MacMichael. The dinner, which is open to the public, will be held Nov. 11 at the elementary school. Tickets will be sold by the children and members of the Mother's club. They are priced at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. The group hopes to raise enough money to provide the school with the collapsible tables which are needed to provide a sitting place for the children during the dinner.

Mrs. Paddock announced the Mother's club gained $33.18 from the dance held jointly with the P.T.A. Oct. 2. Dances have been planned for Nov. 6, Dec. 4, Jan. 29 and March 26. These will be held at the high school. April 23 has been chosen for the date for the Spring Festival.

Mrs. Paddock announced that Leroy Coffey, chief of police of Shelby, will be the guest speaker Nov. 2. It will be an evening meeting beginning at 8:00 p.m., so that fathers may hear Chief Coffey. He will speak on the problems of crime.

Village to Stage Meeting On Sewers in New School

A public meeting will be staged by the village council in the new elementary school at 8 p.m. Oct. 21 to explain the details of the proposed sewage disposal system to the voting public.

The council decided Tuesday night to use every effort to make the facts known to the voters and to provide expert advice to questioners. A representative of the State health department and of the consulting engineers, Alden E. Stilson & Associates, Ltd., will be present to answer questions. Prepared addresses of 15 minutes duration will be presented by the two representatives, after which the meeting will be thrown open for public discussion.

With Councilman John Dick, who has been on business abroad, present for the first time in four months, the council got right down to serious business by discussing the question of whether water should be sold to customers outside the village corporation. Councilman J. Ben Smith, who sat in the mayor's chair owing to the absence of Mayor Glenn West, said he understood that water is being sold to customers who truck it away for resale to farmers. He was emphatic about it: in view of the water shortage, the Board of Public Affairs shouldn't do that.

He soon found his colleagues were in agreement with that idea and Clerk Carl V. Ellis was instructed to convey the sense of this view to the Board of Public Affairs without delay.

Inquiry was made whether the council would pay one week's vacation to the widow of Gustav Ray. When that employee died, he had one week's paid vacation due him. Solicitor Joseph Dush was instructed to ascertain if the paying of the accrued vacation money to the widow would be legal, in which instance the money will be paid.

Street supervisor William Moore reported that a catch basin in Sunday street opposite police headquarters had dropped. The council directed him to obtain a welder to raise the catch basin.

The purchase of a new tire for the village truck, at $67, was approved.

Passed on final reading was an ordinance restricting the planting of trees, shrubs and bushes in Greenlawn cemetery to institutional landscape determined by the Board of Cemetery Trustees except in the case of small plants and bushes near headstones. The ordinance was passed upon recommendation of the Board of Public Affairs.

Clerk Ellis explained to the council that appropriations for the Board of Public Affairs have been drawn upon to the legal, safe maximum and requested authorization to make a supplemental appropriation to permit current bills to be paid and to sustain Board operations until the end of the year. He was instructed to prepare precise figures and to submit them for approval at the next meeting Oct. 19, and in the meantime reasonable overdraft would be authorized.

Mr. Ellis then delivered an oral report of his trip to Columbus to attend the annual meeting of the Ohio Municipal League Clerks' association, which he attended last week.

Two Hurt, Pole Cut In Sunday Mishaps

Two highway accidents in Sandusky street within 24 hours were reported over the weekend.

At 12:15 a.m. Sunday, residents of that neighborhood heard a splintering of wood and upon investigation found that Pfc. George Fairchild, USMC, stationed at Quantico, Va., who apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his sedan, had struck the telephone pole at the northeast corner of North and Sandusky streets. The pole was severed and a highway speed control sign knocked over.

Plymouth police summoned the McQuate ambulance and the driver was removed to Willard Municipal hospital for examination. The front end of the sedan was stove in.

Today, as snow was turning into rain, Mrs. Clarence Doner, New Haven road, was struck in the rear by Devere C. Wadsworth, 209 Park avenue, while driving a 1951 Nash. The accident occurred at 9:10 p.m. Wadsworth was summoned to appear before Mayor Glenn West tonight on charges of reckless operation. A physician treated Wadsworth for minor injuries.

Last week was National Newsboy week. Plymouth's newsboys get their papers every afternoon in front of Beckwith's confectionery on the Public Square, and when the weather's pleasant, they wear out the knees of their blue jeans on the pavement while they fold the copies ready for scaling from speeding bike to the front porch or barberry bush - of their subscribers.

When it's wet, the boys come upstairs over The Advertiser, where the wind doesn't blow, and the boys are required to keep the place neat.

Picture above are Bobby Wechter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wechter, who delivered the Nash, and the boys are required to keep the place neat.

Water Solution Seen As Evans Gets Tile

Huron county commissioners confirmed yesterday that work will start shortly to correct the drainage problem in the farm of Roy Evans.

This step should remove the last obstacle raised by Mr. Evans to conclusion of an easement with the Board of Public Affairs, which would correct the drainage access to the water supply developed on his property.

If Mr. Evans holds to his initial position expressed to the Board some weeks ago - that he did not wish to enter negotiations with the Board while his differences with the county commissioners were unsettled - the conclusion of the work and correction of the faults should eliminate any objections that Mr. Evans might have.

With this fact in mind, the Board of Public Affairs Monday night dealt with the means of financing the water expansion to the Evans farm. It will not, the Board concluded, be easy.

For one thing, the holder of the mortgage bonds on the Evans system, Charles A. Hinch & Co., Cincinnati, wants to investigate the situation some what. The company has asked the Board for a statement.

ment of accounts to ascertain if there is sufficient money being set aside for a retirement fund to satisfy the bondholders. Should the decision be affirmative, there would apparently be no obstacle to refinancing the present indebtedness - $14,000 - by the sale of a mortgage, which is presently being serviced, and $15,000 second mortgage, on which service payments commence Feb. 1, 1965, so that additional funds can be obtained.

What the exact cost will be is uncertain as yet. If Mr. Evans elects to conclude the easement with the Board, there will be an engineering estimate made and the Board will know more or less what its costs will be.

If Mr. Evans does not desire to conclude an easement agreement, the Board will be forced to finance the mortgage. The docket of Huron county common pleas court is so clogged right now that it is doubtful that a civil action could be scheduled for hearing before two or three months time. This may be too late.

When the Board met in special session yesterday afternoon, to hear the message of the council regarding sale of water to commercial consumers outside the corporation, discussion of two members present Francis Burr and George Cheesman - showed no willingness to act on the council's recommendation without unanimity of opinion.

Levering precluded this. The Board Monday discussed the technical aspects of testing what appears to be fluctuating line voltage on the Richland county side of the village. It appeared a specially called board would be necessary to measure current flow around the clock will be needed.

From Edison to the ATOMIC AGE

Birthplace of
Thomas A. Edison
at Milan, Ohio

Ohio... a leader in electrical progress

Right down from the birth of Edison here in 1847, Ohio has been a leader in the advance toward "electrical living" as enjoyed today.

On Ohio pavement the world's first electrical street lights cast their glow. Here the world's first commercial lighting was installed. The first public building to be wired for electricity when built still stands in Tiffin. Associated with the state are such electrical pioneers as Brush, Wilson, Kettering, the Packards.

A proud heritage... and one which The Ohio Power

Company has dedicated itself to enhance.

Steps in that direction are Ohio Power's research in super-high-voltage transmission; the building of the first line in America to carry 330,000 volts; our part, with other utilities, in supplying electric power to the great new atomic production center now being built near Portsmouth.

Nobody knows what new and wonderful things electricity will do tomorrow, but it seems for sure that Ohio will play a major role in bringing them about.

National Nurse Week

Next week is National Nurse week. Everyone knows, if he stops to think about it, how important nurses are to our well-being as a nation.

This newspaper has received a good deal of well-prepared editorial matter promoting National Nurse week and what nurses mean to us all. To our way of thinking, it doesn't emphasize enough the real issue of the hour: we are not getting enough nurses to meet the needs.

Why aren't we getting enough nurses? The answer is simple: we aren't paying enough for the drudgery, the long hours, the endless duties in the sight and hearing of pain and suffering. We didn't even have one girl start on nurse training from the senior class in our high school this year. Nor are we doing a good job of "selling" nursing training to our young women. There are many who would study nursing and to hang with the low pay for the privilege of serving, if we would but encourage them.

One in every 60 Americans, it is estimated, needs a nurse. That means 2,500,000 nurses. We don't think we could ever reach that figure. But even half of it would be dandy.

The best support you can give National Nurse week is to think about where we'd be without nurses, and then do something - one constructive act - toward alleviating the shortage. For our part, that act is the encouraging of some likely girl to study nursing.

We're Getting a Rooking

So long as we have a candidate for county commissioner living right here in our back dooryard, we think it would be a good idea if he would express himself on an issue that we believe to be vital.

It is that we of this village are getting a first-class rooking from the budget commission of Richland county as regards the distribution of moneys deriving from sales taxes and taxes on bank deposits.

Figures which the county auditor has himself supplied show that the following facts are true:

	pop.	amount received	per resident
Mansfield	43,564	$146,242	$3.35
Shelby	7,971	24,114	3.02
Plymouth	869	2,260	2.60
Bellville	1,355	2,356	1.73
Lexington	739	2,615	3.53
Lucas	573	2,260	3.94

What we want to know is, if the good gentlemen of Mansfield will take the time to explain it, what there is about us taxpayers in Plymouth that we are not good enough to receive more than taxpayers in communities smaller than ours, who are paying less taxes.

Observe the following figures, also supplied by the auditor.

	tax valuation	pop.	valuation per person
Mansfield	$128,910,805	43,564	$2,959
Shelby	20,456,503	7,971	2,566
Plymouth	1,935,148	869	2,227
Belleville	1,453,719	1,355	1,073
Lexington	1,159,830	739	1,569
Lucas	567,262	573	990

The figures show that those who are taxed at the average rate of $990 a person get more than those who are more heavily taxed. Yet the law says that the money deriving from these two taxes shall be distributed according to need. What do the boys in Mansfield consider to be need, unless it be a big tax bill?

Sure, we'll clean. The most we can get out of this is a measly $700 a year more. If we are raised to parity with Mansfield and Shelby, that is. But just be good enough to ring up Carl Ellis and ask him if the village general fund needs $700. And ask him how much it needs it. So, Mr. Candidate, don't you think we

Would You Believe It?

Ohio was the first state to be formed out of the Northwest Territory. It became the 17th state in 1803, and the records of the first State Treasurer were written in longhand. Chillicothe was then state capitol.

After a century and a half as a state, Ohio now channels more than one and one-half billion dollars a year through the State Treasury. Modern strong vaults safeguard bonds and securities, and up-to-date equipment records tabulations of the state's financial operations.

Since January, 1935 Ohio Retail Sales Taxes alone have produced collections for the general revenue fund in excess of $1,800,000,000. Collections for the last year showed all-time record receipts of $195,000,018.

Earl C. Kreuger, brother-in-law of John A. Percy H. and Halse F. Root, has received the honorary 33rd degree of Freemasonry at a ceremony at Boston, Mass., at the 142nd session of the Supreme Council, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

Mr. Kreuger is married to the former Bess Root, sister of the Root brothers and twin of H. F. Root. He has been an attorney in Sandusky for 40 years.

He has been active in fraternal and civic work in Sandusky for many years. He served Grace church on its vestry, was a counselor of the Campfire girls, and held the office of prosecutor of the common pleas of Erie county for many years.

As a Mason, he has served throughout the chairs and in district and regional offices of the order. The conferment of the honor ary 33rd degree is in recognition of his outstanding work in the order.

Wanted: Repellent

"Reward for effective pigeon repellent" might very well be the classified advertisement of the Rev. M. P. Paetznick, former pastor of Evangelical Lutheran church, who is now pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Bucyrus.

The pigeons, pesky birds, are roosting on the parsonage rather than the Crawford county courthouse one street away, which was their wont until recently. The Rev. Mr. Paetznick says the pigeon repellent which the courthouse used apparently chased the birds to his house, and it is difficult for him to concentrate on his sermon notes with all that cooing and billing going on.

Ted Marquis, who looks after the courthouse while feeling sorry for the good idea, thinks it's a dandy idea for the pigeons to forsake the law for the cloth. "Going to church would do the dangled things a world of good," says he.

September Weather

September, 1954 was a warm, dry month. The average temperature was 67.7 degrees, or 1.4 degrees above normal. The highest was 97 on the 5th, the lowest 38 on the 22nd.

Measurable rainfall occurred on only eight days, totaling 1.50 inches, or 1.58 inches below normal.

At the end of the month, corn picking and soybean combining had started and, considering the dry season, looked extra good.

October started off with a good rain (1.42 inches) on the 3rd and 4th, which should be very beneficial to wheat and pastures.

Music lovers will be glad to know the celebrated Paul Infamy chorus will be at Norwalk Oct. 28. Directed by Leonard de Paur, the choir was formed from GI's who liked to sing. They're good - we've heard 'em. It's a subscription membership deal, so call Miss Janet Miller, Norwalk 3-6444, or Robert Hipp, Norwalk 3-1791.

Our scouts say it would be interesting to look into how Willie Mays star at Mansfield High's Tygers got there from New London. We thought this kind of story stayed at the college level.

Heard a yarn the other p.m. about a guy riding in an English railway carriage. He noticed He noticed an elderly gentleman seated across from him with two big candles sticking out of his ears. Perplexed him, this apparition did, and he pondered mightily. In due time, his curiosity got the better of him.

"Pardon me, Sir, but could you explain why you're wearing those candles in your ears?"

"He?" replied the gentleman.

"Could you explain why you're wearing those candles in your ears?" said Our Hero, a bit louder.

"He?" asked the gent.

"COULD YOU EXPLAIN WHY YOU'RE WEARING THOSE CANDLES IN YOUR EARS?" said O. H., at the top of his lungs.

"It's no use," replied the gent. "With these candles in my ears I can't hear a darn thing."

When the band kids came to the theatre the other eve to see the films, which were dandies, Phin noted that of 33 girls present, not one of them wore a dress. What's this world coming to? What with the way the girls cut their hair, and the pants they wear, who can tell 'em apart from the stronger (?) sex? Up at Maumee Phin noticed that for size our pretty cheerleaders had it all over two of the starters in the backfield.

H. Washburn is the guy we owe an apology to. Sent us a bunch of flowers when we got here, have seen him on the football field a couple of times, but didn't know who he was until the game at Maumee Valley. Nice fella, interested in the boys and the game, right kind of chap to back the team.

D. McQuate has a big bull whip these days, and a score arm from swinging it.

Nice chat with H. Robinson, new Spanish and English prof at the high school, who told Phin that schools in his native state of Virginia are strapped this year because miners didn't buy so much beer this year as last. Schools are financed out of taxes on booze. Thank the Lord we don't have that sort of thing here.

The word around the coaching fraternity is that our Fred is a good one. His teams are always well-drilled.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to call the old timers together and introduce them to the fans come Homecoming?

B. Smith seems sad that the Browns haven't done so well. He's a pro football fan, sez he, because they keep it exciting. Ben says he's getting too old to sit on cold seats in the stadium of a Saturday afternoon, 'way up where you can't see very much.

The weather forecasters, feeling the aches and pains in their bones and hearing the chirp of this bug and measuring the length of the hair on that one, say the winter will be a cold one. The spring waxing is said to be eating his head off in the hawthorne tree, and the wild crabapples are falling early this year. If these be signs, most of the most 'em. F. Schneider will take your order for coal.

C. Lookabaugh was telling us the other eve that cement must be going up in price because concrete mix cost him a pile. Says he figures the Turnpike is taking it all, what with each contractor trying to lay 2 1/2 miles a day before frost comes.

Saw a photo of an old Pilgrim eleven the other night. Fred Nimmons and the Fenner are the only ones living from that squad, which was to its games in a covered wagon with benches put in the bed for the players, through mud hub deep. The boys were wearing turtleneck sweaters with a big "P" knitted on the chest, and the turtleneck look like somebody put a bowl on and cut underneath it.

An ordination service is as solemn and inspiring a meeting as you can attend. It's when a man of conviction makes his promises to his church, and his church makes its promises to him. Such a one will be held at Celeryville tonight. Welcome to the Rev. Marvin Beelen, and good luck in his charge.

Our lad has a bike. It was not without misgivings that we gave it to him. Not that he hasn't been a good boy, nor that he doesn't deserve the best we can give him.

But we sometimes have our doubts if he's wise to give a boy a bike, particularly when he's only seven. He's hardly old enough to think about street crossings, cars, pedestrians and the like. It was a tough job raising him, and whenever we read the journals which tell of 22 cases of polio in one day in the city of Tallahassee, Fla., and muscular dystrophy and all the other bugs that we never recall hearing about as a boy, we wonder if it's right to put another chance for death in his path.

But Phin and Mrs. Phin are like anybody else: we have to keep up with the Joneses, or at least our boy has to. Every time we see him down the street, his face lighted up like a Christmas candle, a little fire runs down our back: isn't it great that he's healthy and happy? God grant that he'll survive the bike age. Then his folks will have nothing to worry about but the hot rods, and after that the khaki - or blue or green - suit.

Aside to H. J. R.: Sorry, sir, That's what comes of relying on somebody you don't know very well. Next time we'll bring home the bacon ourselves.

The view out our bedroom window has improved. The leaves on that maple in front of the Becker place are turning into a kaleidoscope of color. The reds, yellows and oranges are as a painter's rainbow. Or try walking along the creek south of Mr. Sammough's lovely place.

Candidate Ray Brooks Is Simple Farmer

Bred born and raised on a farm, Raymond L. Brooks, Republican candidate for Richland county commissioner, says he sympathizes with the young farmer who "realizes that livestock ties you down."

But, he says, "watching the live stock develop and the crops mature is worth every headache that the livestock - or anything else - can give you."

A lifelong Republican who registered in that party and cast his vote for its presidential nominee every time he had a chance, Ray Brooks admits he was a pretty bad voter "until Mr. Eisenhower ran this last time - I thought we'd never get a Republican president."

His interest in matters political has led him into elected office three times, as clerk of Plymouth township. He completes the third year of his third term this year. It's not easy to find the time, but so far, he says, nobody's complained that I've neglected the job. Except my wife, that is, who thinks I could do a lot more at home."

Home is a 21 1/2-acre spread just west of Plymouth on the south side of the Base Line Road. Ray Brooks is a farmer, pure and simple, who puts in a 12-hour day six days a week. The seventh, even as the Bible say, is a day of rest. You could hardly call it rest, however, for Mr. Brooks teaches a young people's class in the Plymouth Methodist church, of which he has been a lifelong member.

The farm produced this year five acres of oats, 25 acres of wheat ("all the government'll let me plant"), 33 acres of soy beans five acres of barley, 36 acres of clover and alfalfa hay, 47 acres of corn and 45 acres of pasture grass of a permanent character. The remainder of the farm is in woodlot, 24 acres of it.

For livestock, the Brooks farm for 18 Brown Swiss dual purpose cattle, 56 Hampshire shoats and sows, and 74 piglets and 75 sheep and lambs. There are about 200 pullets and hens, hybrid and New Hampshire Reds, for the most part.

For egg hunting, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, she was the former Hazel G. Cooke of near Shelby) have three young daughters, Beverly, 9; Bonnie, 5; and Melody, who was 15 months old Oct. 2.

Ray himself was born on a farm five miles north of Plymouth on Mar. 16, 1913. He graduated in 1931 from the same school system which his children attend right now. "My last two years were in the building now occupied by Plymouth High school," Mr. Brooks says.

His parents were the late Harry F. and Elizabeth Snyder Brooks. She lives on a farm adjoining her son's Mr. Brooks died four years ago come January.

What's the toughest part of farming? Government restrictions, says Raymond Brooks. Next to that, keeping the books. He uses a double entry cash system that works pretty well "as long as you keep after it - let it go and it gets out of hand."

One of the problems is the inventorying of equipment, of which the Brooks have a goodly quantity: three tractors, a Minneapolis-Moline, a Case and a Huber; a Ford ton-and-a-half truck; a combine, baler, corn picker, drills, discs, plows and all the paraphernalia necessary to modern farming. And what if he's elected? How will he spare the time?

"My family is growing up, and I have a brother-in-law, young Maurice Cooke, whom I think will help me out. I want the job because I think I can do it and myself some good."

Ray Brooks is taking time out from his harvesting to politics around Richland County to do just that.

Candidate Raymond Brooks

studies the map of Richland county roads while five-year-old Bonnie comes up to say good night.

20th Centurians Hear Three Papers On Nature Study

Three papers were presented when the members of the Twentieth Century club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruby Young. Mrs. Edna Dick, president, led a short business meeting, and Mrs. Grace Brown began the program with "Our Fall Gardens".

Her talk was spiced with poetry and practical suggestions for the gardener as to the decorative value of gourds and dried bouquets.

Mrs. J. E. Nimmons spoke on "Our Weather Is Changing". She brought out that through scientific study we have determined that the general climate has become from one to two degrees warmer in the past century.

Another reason given is that fewer volcanoes are erupting, thus keeping the air smoke-free, so that the rays of the sun are more direct. Scientists disavow the theory that atomic explosions are a cause for these changes.

Mrs. Martha McBeth spoke about the government experimental station at Beltsville, Md. Within the 11,000 acres that this station covers, every sort of experimentation pertaining to the farm world has been carried on, either to prove a fact or disprove it.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Young at the end of the evening. Plans are being made for the Halloween party for the next meeting of the group at the home of Mrs. Joanne Root.

Old Friends Fete Miss Porter

Old friends of many years' standing called on Miss Harriet Porter, 49 Porter street, on her 88th birthday. There were autumnal flowers decorating the sitting room as the Misses Margaret and Jessie Cole and Plum Stober and Mrs. G. J. Searle, Sr., called to reminisce. Birthday cake was served.

Let's Explore Ohio

Fishermen, picnickers and campers will flock to Pymatuning Lake State Park during the next few weeks for all outdoor seasons.

The Pymatuning Reservoir, which lies within the limits of both Ohio and Pennsylvania, is a 15,000 acre body of water that offers excellent recreational facilities.

Highway No. 6 crosses the middle of this big lake on a causeway that is usually dotted with fishermen. This State Park is well equipped with facilities for picnicking, swimming, fishing, boating, and tent and trailer camping. The area is also one of Ohio's public hunting spots.

Family Night Gay
At Presbyterian Church
Family night at the Presbyterian church was a gay affair. Mrs. John Armstrong led the group in community singing. The Armstrong children, David and Alice, followed. David sang a song and Alice played the piano. For the final contribution by the family, Mr. Armstrong joined, and they all sang "This Old House". James and Carol Jo Cunningham represented the James Cunningham family, and they sang "Romona". Judy Fetters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fetters, played a piano selection. She was followed by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hampton, who did a duet of "Moonlight Bay".

Cheryl Faust represented the D. B. Faust family with an accordion solo. The Roberts family topped the evening with two songs, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "When You Were a Tulip". The group included Mrs. Bradley Roberts, George and Nelson Roberts, Mr. Charles Dick, and Mrs. Raymond Willett.

Mrs. Ralph Felix did a mystery story called "Till Tale Tumbler". The evening ended with favorite hymns, a few Sunday school songs by the children, and the Rev. Ralph M. Felix led the group in a closing prayer. Refreshments were served in the downstairs church rooms.

How-to: Magazine Rack

ILLUSTRATED here is a simply-made but practical magazine rack for the living room or porch. The only parts needed are two pieces of Maltese Tempered Duco, a 1/2" hardwood which is smooth on both sides, and some lumber 1" square. Dimensions of the trough may be 30 inches long.

with the front panel 4 inches wide and the back panel 14 inches wide. As shown, the bottoms of the wood legs are angled so they'll stand flat on the floor. Flat-headed screws are used to fasten the hardwood to the legs. The heads should be countersunk and the holes then filled with wood putty. Screws are inserted through drilled holes in the hardwood and driven into the wood.

The legs, where they join, are fastened with screws. Paint the ensemble in attractive colors, first using a primer.

For Repairing a Leak

UNTIL a major repair can be made, a small leak around pipe fittings or "sandy" holes in a pipe can be stopped by wrapping the pipe firmly with common cotton twine, as illustrated in Family magazine.

The twine is wrapped in parallel coils which do not overlap any.

where. Keep tension on the string as you wrap it in close coils. Make three or four layers about an inch in width, and hold it, finally, with a few turns of a second bit of twine.

This temporary repair works because wet twine shrinks and rust particles and sediment are caught and held near the leak.

The same system may be used to mend a leaking garden hose. However, the length of the wrapping should be increased to about two inches.

Success in making sour, sweet and mixed pickles depends largely on proper curing or bringing. The length of curing required depends upon the type of pickles.

Can She Bake a Cherry Pie? You Just Bet She Can, 65 of 'em Weekly

Doesn't Like to Bake Pies, Prefers Cakes Says Marie Marvin

Her name's not Billie, but she can certainly bake a cherry pie. And she's as charming as a speckled pup under a red circus wagon.

So you'll not be wrong if you sing that song, "Can You Bake a Cherry Pie, Charmin' Billie" to Mrs. Marie Marvin, pastry cook in Cornell's restaurant.

Mrs. Marvin cooks, er, pardon, she bakes about 65 pies a week, sometimes more, and she's earned quite a reputation for baking pies of all kinds - cherry, apple, butter-scotch, lemon meringue, custard, blackberry, pumpkin, pecan, and some that would stop the dining car. But she really likes to bake cakes.

Mrs. Marvin makes her way across the Public Square at 4 a.m. most every morning, rain or shine, and starts the ovens so her pies will be baked by breakfast time.

To watch her do the job is a fascinating experience in kitchen techniques, and a good lesson in how to organize the work.

Because first of all, Mrs. Marvin is a good organizer. She never soils dishes or a tool but that she cleans it up promptly. And she sets the work out so that she moves through it in logical order and so that when she's finished, the work's all finished, too.

To the average pie-eater, it's the filling that counts. To the baker, it's the crust. Mrs. Marvin makes a smooth, fluffy crust that holds up against even the juiciest fillings. The secret?

"Why, it's not using too much water when you mix," she explains. She mixes the crust in the ratio of two cups of flour to three tablespoons of water. It takes kneading, and there needs to be shortening in it. Her formula? Two cups of flour, half a cup of good lard, half a teaspoonful of salt, and half the water it'll need when it's ready. She allows this to stand overnight: it's better for that in the morning.

And what's the technique about getting it on the pie pan nicely? Brides and henpecked husbands had better pay close attention: you roll the crust out so it's a bit larger than the pie in circumference, then you lay it over (double it over) and put the semicircle of rolled dough in the pie pan. Then, when the first hemisphere is anchored, flip the rest over, and press it down.

That symmetrical edge that looks like it was squirmed out of a cake decorator is actually made by pressing the thumb and finger against the edge of the pie tin. It helps if your finger has a little flour on it.

Now the pie's ready to be filled. In restaurant work, the filling comes ready-made in six-pound tins. Open one, spill in into the pie, smooth it off, and you're ready to put on the top crust.

This goes rapidly if you're deft. Follow the same procedure as with the lower crust. Putting on one hemisphere and then the other seems complicated, but Mrs. Marvin advises that "it just goes better that way, that's all."

Press the edges down with a floured fork, or with your thumbs, and poke a couple of vent holes with the fork. Trim it off with a sharp knife and you're in business. Get the oven at 400 degrees. Slide the pie in and keep an eye on it from time to time. Just when the crust is browning, take it out, let it cool, and get a baseball bat to beat off the eaters-between-meals.

But is it as easy as that, ma'am? "Well, like anything else, there are some tricks to it," she smiles back.

And they are?
"Well, for one, once you've got a good flour, stick to it. Don't change it all around for other flours. For another, turn down the oven on some pies, especially when they're about half done. Apple and custard pies are two of these. Run custard about 400 degrees for about a quarter of an hour, then drop it to 375. With apple, give it 15 minutes of 425 and then drop it down below 400."

And how much would a man have to pay to get one of those recipes, ma'am?

"Which one do you want first, custard? All right, you take four eggs, beat them with a cup of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt, two and three-quarters cups of milk, and stir it all up. Pour it onto the bottom crust and sprinkle cinnamon and nutmeg on top. There's your custard pie."

"Now, for pumpkin - it's almost pumpkin season, isn't it? I find the best mix is a cup of sugar, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a cup and a half of pie filler (prepared pumpkin), two eggs, a fourth of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, a teaspoon of ginger, and stir that up. Then add a cup and a half of milk. That makes a good mixture."

"Do you like coconut cream? Don't blame you. I do myself. Take a cup of sugar, two heaping tablespoons of flour, an eighth of a teaspoonful of salt, two yolks of eggs, a cup of shredded coconut, and two cups of milk. Save the whites of the egg for the meringue. Mix the ingredients and after that it's easy. Whip the whites stiff and spread them on, and then put the pie under the broiler for a little bit so the meringue will tan up a little. Makes a good pie, that does."

Mrs. Marvin specializes in nine-inch pies, and is easily the queen of the pie bakers in these parts, but she never thought she'd be baking pies for a living.

"Mercy. I never did like to make pies very well. I made bread, and good bread, for my mother when I was eight, and that was a good many years ago. But I never was much hand at making pies. Now look at me."

Can she bake a cherry pie, charming Marie? We'll say she can!

Mrs. Marie Marvin demonstrates in these closeups how to go about baking a pie.

Mrs. Marvin uses an electric beater to make a smooth filling. Then she carefully fills the empty crust, adding the filling up to the top, being careful not to overfill it. The last step is to place them in a pre heated oven at the correct temperature.

Blue Jays Outpass, Outclass Pilgrims, 51-7; Hunt Shows Up

Fast Bellville Backs Rip Into Plymouth For Eight Scores

Outpassed, outcharged, outpassed and outclassed, Plymouth's Pilgrims were routed by Bellville Friday night, 51 to 7.

The Pilgrims were able to score only in the final period, when little Jim Hunt scooted around right end for 23 yards and a touchdown. John Fetters crossbuckled for the extra point.

The Blue Jays set out to whip the Red and White, and whip them they did, in as crisp and decisive fashion as has seldom been seen. On the first play of the game, Dick Hollon burst off his own left tackle and raced 65 yards down the south sideline for a score. The try for extra point failed.

Later in the period, Bruce Gehrich cracked off right tackle for 20 yards for the first of his three touchdowns. Again the try for conversion failed.

Early in the second quarter, Clark Leedy socked through guard for 12 yards and a third touchdown. This time, the kick by Gerry Nichols was good.

A fumble of a punt by Otis Port on his own 33 yard line was recovered by the Jays, and after two plays misfired, Gehrich rambled around right end to make it 26 to 0.

Plymouth never recovered from its first two touchdowns, and was "mistakenly" unable to make ground through the fast-charging Bellville ward wall. A pass by Port was intercepted by Kochheiser on the 30, and after a short flat pass as good for eight yards, Larry Ilgore danced around right end for 62 yards to raise the score to 26 to 0. The half ended on that note.

With the second and third teams laying most of the time, Bellville showed ability to gain through the r and on the ground during the third period. Larry Black took in a toss from Hamilton on the Plymouth 15 and went the rest of the way. This came after Ray Einsel's pass had been intercepted by Ron Kochheiser.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Pilgrims put on the only sustained drive they were able to muster all night. Jim Hunt was running in the tail back slot, and this tiny youngster showed grit and speed. His short passes over the line were effective ground gainers for the Plymouth eleven, and on first down from the Bellville 23, Jim scooted over for the score.

Down 45 to 6, the Pilgrims fought back again, but lost the ball on downs. A 45-yard heave by Benninghoff to Black was called back because of a clipping penalty, and the Jays put together six straight first downs before, with 40 seconds left to play, Billy Kissel skied left end for the final score. The heavy loss by penalty suffered by Bellville indicated, to some extent, the type of game the Jays are taught to play. Plymouth lost only 25 yards by penalty; the Jays paid 135 yards.

Pilgrim fans were chagrined in the second period when Port's toss to John Fox, which went for 65 yards and a score, was called back on a penalty against the Pilgrims.

The starting lineup:

Ends: Taylor and J. Fox
Tackles: Goldsmith and Eckstein

Guards: Berberick and Hampton
Center: Jacobs

Backs: Hunt, Port, Fetters, Marvin

and raise at least eight pigs to a 56-day weight of 320 pounds. In the case of a first litter gilt the weight required is 275 pounds.

Son Pays Hooky, Farmer Summoned

Because he allegedly conspired to keep his 18-year-old son out of school, Cletis Stidham, Shelby route 3, has been summoned to appear in Richland county juvenile court Saturday to answer charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Court records state that young Hobart Stidham has attended only two days of school this year and was absent 61½ days of last year's school term.

Ohio State University agronomists recommended 400 to 500 pounds of 4-16-8, 5-10-10, 3-12-12 or similar analysis fertilizer for wheat. Two hundred to 300 pounds of 10-10-10 may be used where there is a need for more nitrogen.

A Nebraska test shows that dairy heifers are harder to settle than are dairy cows. Heifers required an average of 2.93 services per conception as compared to 2.08 for cows.

World's first Boron* Gasoline

World's FIRST automotive gasoline with aviation anti-knock fluid!

The petroleum industry has long been known for steady and continuing improvement of its products. But once in a very great while, there comes a discovery so new and dramatically different it speeds progress far beyond the usual pace.

Such a discovery has been made in motor fuel.

It is Boron Supreme Gasoline, now available at Sohio.

Discovered and developed by Sohio research scientists, Boron Gasoline is as different from today's motor fuels as today's cars are from those of yesterday.

It brings you the benefits of three major new achievements:

1. An exclusive Sohio Boron Gasoline discovery that provides a new way to liberate power in engines.

2. Expensive aviation anti-knock fluid—the same fluid that makes available the power in 115-145 octane "fighting-grade" aviation gasoline—now for the first time in automobile gasoline anywhere.

3. A new, radically improved, cleaner-burning hydrocarbon formula.

New Boron Supreme offers important advantages in your engine. In 240,000 miles of turnpike testing, Boron Supreme averaged 16 more miles per tankful than non-boron premium gasoline. In the course of 32,000 laboratory observations it was found to cut ring wear 45%, improve combustion smoothness 88% in critical engines, and increase valve life and efficiency. And in thousands of reports from Ohio drivers, 2 out of 3 noted an immediate improvement in power, pick-up, and smoothness.

It is, we believe, the gasoline discovery by which developments will be measured for years to come. We invite you to experience the extraordinary performance of Boron Supreme Gasoline in your car! Sohio, the Midland Building, Cleveland 15, Ohio.

A great new motor fuel discovery

Angus Bred on Stanleys' Place

The winner of the two free Cinemascope tickets last week was Thomas F. Root, 98 Parkway drive, the first correct identifier of Meadow Brook farm, located in Bowland Street road south of Stillish. What's more, he brought in an aerial photograph of the farm, which belongs to Mrs. Earl Leath in trust for her children and those of her late husband, which he had taken himself.

Tenants on the farm are Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Stanley, who came to this area about 10 years ago from near Trenton, in Grundy county, Mo. What they brought with them is the nucleus of an outstanding spread of purebred Angus cattle, and from that nucleus there has grown a herd of about 100 cattle which are consistently weeded of culs to make a breeding herd.

The farm, which derived its name from the rippling rill that drops through the meadow behind the barn, is ideal for the raising of breeding cattle.

It covers 150 acres, and there are 150 acres adjoining which are part of the same spread. On this land, the Stanleys raise the food which keeps that beef going.

"We raise all the wheat they'll allow us," the Stanleys report, "and we have about 30 acres of corn ready to harvest. A good bit of it is in pasture." Mr. Stanley lives and breathes Angus, and while he'll look at a Hereford, there's no doubt about where his heart is.

Mrs. Squires has two hobbies that pay off. One of them is chickens. "I take about 150 White Rock chicks a season and raise them for the frying pan," Mrs. Stanley says. "And then I have my flowers. My, I'm just wild about flowers."

Her flower garden - and her truck garden, too, that matter - show it. With her 9-month-old grandchild, only child of her only son, Gerald D. Stanley, who lives just behind Meadow Brook farm, tagging behind her, she weeds and cultivates and picks off seed pods for next spring.

Some of the best advertisement for the breeder of purebred cattle is the prize-winning he does. Joe Stanley got his share this year. He and his son, who also has a herd which was bred from his father's group, took both grand champion and reserve champion awards at the Richland and Crawford county fairs this season.

"We have to cull quite a bit, the Stanleys say. "No use in raising an animal that won't make cut, or won't be as near perfect as you can grow 'em. So we sell some steers as 4-H calves, and we try to cater entirely to that group. We like to give the youngsters a chance."

The Stanleys are strong believers in 4-H work, and Mr. Stanley is always willing to give his time and effort toward helping the 4-H groups in their baby beef program.

Monroeville Great-Grandmother Gets Cash Bail in Child-Stealing Incident

A Monroeville great-grandmother has posted cash bond in Huron county common pleas court pending trial on charges of stealing her great-grandchild.

She is Mrs. Louis Powley, who is accused of making off with her three-year-old great-granddaughter. The tale of how it allegedly occurred is material for Earle Stanley Gardner.

The child's parents obtained a divorce and its father, Mrs. Powley's grandson, was given temporary custody of the girl by a Florida court. Mrs. Barbara Pullen, the child's mother, filed suit in Huron county court and acquired custody in a decision of Judge Robert Vetter, sitting temporarily as juvenile judge. The mother took the child to Detroit, Mich.

Apparently the child's grandparents represented that her great-grandmother wished to see her, and her mother allowed the girl to adjust behind Meadow Brook farm, gram. Mrs. Stanley believes firmly in teaching young farm people to enjoy themselves in farm life.

"I never had a daughter, but I think we ought to teach girls to cook and sew and enjoy farm life. If we don't," she says, "we won't have any more left on the farm."

The Stanleys - she was the former Gladys Squires - were married in 1922. Friday was Linda Diane Stanley's birthday-of-sorts - she was 19 months old on that day.

"The Advertiser came in our morning mail and Daddy said, 'Looks like our place here on the front page, Mother' so Linda and I came as we are to see if we would be first," Mrs. Stanley smilingly said.

"We sure hope you folks will stop in and see us when you pass by, and bring the kiddies. We like youngsters, and we've got a lot of 'em on the farm - though they all have four legs."

The visit. When Mrs. Pullen came to Monroeville to fetch the child, she states in her complaint, she found the great-grandmother, the child, and her former husband, Harry Pullen, had vanished.

The grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. George Pullen, were summoned by the court and fined $250 for contempt of court for their part in failing to return the child to its mother. Huron county grand jury had brought indictments against Mrs. Powley and Harry Pullen on charges of child stealing. Neither Pullen nor the child has yet been found.

Rural Center to Burn Mortgage Sunday Before About 300

The burning of the mortgage on the Richland Rural Life center is scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Approximately 300 are expected for the ceremonies which will culminate a dream started Sept. 8, 1947, when a group of Richland county residents, headed by Thos. H. Sheppard, met to form an organization that would provide a typical rural setting for programs, recreation and business for rural residents, both young and old.

The last $750 on the mortgage was paid recently and members are now ready to go ahead with the extra details of a 10-year plan that includes purchase of the Weller township farm of 80 acres, owned by Floyd Reding, the improvement of the grounds, conversion of the old Reding home into a kitchen and cafeteria and administrative office, and converting the old barn and the building into cabin for 4-H Club members.

One of the biggest projects was the building of a new four-room house for Reding and his sister, to replace the old home.

Fields have been plowed and planted, dense woods cleared, roadways graded and paint applied wherever it was necessary to bring the center up to the standard which its originators conceived.

Probably the only one of its kind in the county, the center provides a camping site for 4-H Clubs each summer, and an outing spot not only for rural groups but city organizations as well.

When ceremonies take place Sunday, one of the original "dreamers," the Rev. Floyd Eckert of Fredericktown, will be there to give the address of the afternoon. The Rev. Eckert will speak on the subject, "Why and How the Center," and will tell of its inception and the years of working to make the dream come true.

Chester N. McGrew, county extension agent, who has aided in the progress of the center, will speak on the subject, "The Center Today and Tomorrow."

The actual burning ceremony will be in charge of R. J. Elliott, general chairman for the event. If the weather is favorable the ceremonies will be held out of doors; if not, then in the remodeled barn.

Refreshments will be served to the crowd after the program.

PUT OUT MUCK FIRE

The Tiro-Auburn township volunteer fire department was called to the Floyd Heller farm in the Muck area in Northeastern Auburn township about 7:15 p.m. Sept. 29. The firemen used a tank of 1200 gallons of water to put out a fire in the muck on the Heller farm.

This is the first muck fire reported this season.

Eight Hours at Sea

Roger Miller and Chief Robert L. Meiser can tell you it's not much fun going to sea for eight hours for half an hour of fishing.

That's what they did Sunday. Setting out in a small rowboat equipped with a 25-horsepower outboard motor, the party got to Kelly's island and after wetting its lines on outboard a downpour. The water was rough, the fishing wasn't much account, and they sat it out as long as they could.

Despairing of any bites because the water was too rough, they set forth for the lee side of the island. The gasoline tank holds six gallons, but the current was so strong they ran out of gas before reaching their destination. They had to put in on the southeast side of the island, get more gasoline, and continue when the water allowed.

Eight hours later, the fishermen returned home - wet, tired, no fish, not much patience, and a conviction that unless you can wet a line for more than half an hour, it's no use going fishing.

THANK YOU, MA'AM

for the nice words. We appreciate them, and they come at just the right time.

"I like to read The Advertiser in bed," the lady writes. "Every Thursday night I get my copy, look over the headlines while I'm putting my hair up, and then I hop into bed and read it column by column, front page to back."

Now, THERE'S a lady who shows good judgment. She reads her newspaper thoroughly, column by column, at a time and place that for 100 per cent concentrated attention can't be beat.

If we had something to sell, whether it be goods or services, we would make our sales pitch at a time when we were assured of the undivided attention of the sales prospect.

Now just how undivided can attention get? From watching our Suzie (she's just five) her attention is most undivided when she's in bed with her dolly. Might just as well not speak to her — she is deaf to noises and blind to sights. That's the optimum in undivided attention. And we don't doubt that when she's old enough to read she'll read The Advertiser in the same concentrated way.

The point we're making is that at least 4,000 grown persons who have money to spend get The Advertiser and read it just as closely as the lady who takes it to bed with her. For concentrated attention by readers, readers who are likely prospects as buyers of the goods you have to sell, you simply can't beat The Advertiser.

Because The Advertiser sells. It sells what you want to sell, to the people you want to sell to, efficiently, no strain, no pain, just tell us what you want to sell and we'll get up the copy.

Why does Advertiser advertising copy sell? That's easy. It's because in over 1,700 families every week, somebody gives it the same kind of close reading as The Lady Who Reads In Bed.

Everybody has something to advertise. If it isn't goods or services, you can always run an ad like this one:

FOR SALE: Going business, would do better if we advertised. Inquire 409 East Main St., Plymouth, Ohio.
