

Mrs. McGinty Wins $15 In Decorations Contest

Mrs. Karl McGinty, 36 Mills avenue, is the winner of the annual Christmas decorations contest sponsored by the Community club, the judges announce.

Judging was conducted by Edward Ramsey, M. J. Coon and Donald J. Ford Monday night. "Most of the decorations were so well done it was difficult to choose the winners," the committee reported, "and we had to take several factors - including ingenuity - into consideration."

A $15 prize will be awarded Mrs. McGinty. Second prize of $10 was awarded Donald B. Shaver, 98 Parkway drive, whose entry won first prize last year.

Third prize of $5 was given to Harold Farrar, Mulberry street.

"Perhaps, if there had been snow on the ground, other displays would have seemed to be better," the committee said, "but we had to warrant the prize money."

Honorable mention was given to the displays of Paul Baker, 53 Mills avenue, and Dr. Charles L. Hannum, 110 Plymouth street.

Three Marriages End in Divorce

A petition for divorce alleging neglect and cruelty has been filed in Richland county common pleas court by Martha Louise Coffey of Shiloh, seeking termination of marriage with William V. Coffey, also of Shiloh, which was contracted at Mansfield Aug. 24, 1948. Plaintiff seeks custody of two minor children.

Temporary maintenance has been awarded Mrs. Gertrude Hampton, wife of Richard T. Hampton, 6 South street, Plymouth, by Huron county common pleas court. She is seeking a divorce on grounds of neglect and cruelty.

Vance Hoffman, Plymouth, has been awarded a divorce from his wife, Alice.

Jan. 15 Deadline Set For Corn Allotment

Jan. 15, is the final date for requesting a 1955 corn allotment on farms where no corn has been grown in any of the years 1951 through 1954. Patrick J. Nolan, Jr., chairman of the Huron County ASC committee, announces.

Corn allotments are being established in 1955 on all farms on which corn was grown one or more years during the base period, and upon request, on other farms where corn will be grown for the first time in 1955.

Corn growers who over-plant their 1955 allotments will not be eligible for price support on the 1955 crop. They also will be ineligible to participate in the 1955 agricultural conservation program.

Mail Figure Up

A 26 per cent increase in first class mail cancellations during the Christmas rush is reported by Postmaster Claude E. Sourwine. Cancellations during December, 1954, were 72,330, as compared with 57,370 during the same period last year.

The post office will be closed New Year's day, Jan. 1. Postmaster Sourwine announces. The lobby will be open to lock box patrons, but window and home delivery service will be suspended for the day.

AC&Y Appoints Barnes as Agent

William Barnes has accepted the post of agent-operator for the Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railway Co. at New Washington on a temporary appointment, it is announced.

Mr. Barnes succeeds Ralph Ream, who has been named agent at Plymouth, in succession to Miles Finley, transferred to Akron. Transferred from Spencer to fill the post vacated by Mr. Ream, Mr. Barnes expects to return to Spencer some time in January.

Three Die in Crash Of Train With Sedan On Christmas Morn

Three persons died in a Christmas day grade crossing accident in Fort Ball road between New Haven and Willard.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Thompson, Willard, and their grandson, Michael Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Henry of Willard route 1, are the victims of the collision involving their sedan and the Baltimore and Ohio's Newark-to-Willard Train No. 94, which was slowing to enter Willard yards.

The accident occurred about 8:25 a.m. Christmas day. Police reported Mr. Thompson's car was struck by the train as it headed east toward New Haven, there was no one in the car. His mother is a patient in Willard Municipal hospital where she had undergone major surgery.

The car was carried 30 feet by the force of the collision, police reports show.

Ten children survive the Thompsons, including five daughters - Mrs. Helen Dause, Mrs. Ruth Henry of New Haven, Mrs. June Keeper of Euclid, Mrs. Mary Lou Grimm of Lodi and the boy's mother, Mrs. Frances Henry - and as many sons - William and Franklin of Mentor, Robert, a patient at a Toledo hospital, James of Wickliffe, and Sgt. Richard, in whose honor the party was to have been held.

The Home of Plymouth Locomotives

Meeting Planned By Presbyterians

First Presbyterian church will hold its annual congregational meeting at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 10. Business of the church will be transacted at the meeting, of which the Rev. Ralph M. Felix is moderator.

Methodists will observe Holy Communion at services in both Plymouth and Shiloh churches Sunday at the regular hours.

The Rev. T. M. Sheesley announces the receipt of two wardrobes from Mrs. Garce Barnd for the purpose of storing Shiloh church choir robes.

Plymouth Senior Youth Fellowship entertained the Intermediate group Sunday. A film, "Christmas Around the World," was shown. Music at the annual First Evangelical Lutheran church candlelight service Friday at 11 p.m. was under the direction of Clarence Mack and Mrs. Francis Guthrie, who played the processional, "Christmas Fantasy."

Roberta Bachrach and Mrs. Quentin Ream sang "Sing We Noel," a 16th century carol, and Roy Johnson, Jr., sang "Gesu Bambino" at the offertory.

The Rev. Dr. Nathan Harter, supply pastor, chose his sermon from Titus 2:11-14 and St. Luke 2:1-14.

Harnessmaker Harnesses Air Travel

When Plymouth's only harness and shoe repair expert decides to make his first trip by commercial aircraft, he chooses an exciting weekend to do it.

Don Willet, 26 Sandusky street, went to Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday on a buying trip. On other occasions, he drove to the shadow of Lookout mountain. This time, he flew from Columbus. But it wasn't as easy as it sounds.

He had no reservation. Post-holiday traffic was heavy. Weather was bad. He waited until 10 minutes before takeoff time for a seat.

Upon reaching Chattanooga, he witnessed a $250,000 fire in a hardware store, and had a ringside seat.

Coming back, airports along the line of flight were souped in. The pilot used GCA (ground controlled approach) into Columbus airport, and neither he nor his passengers saw the ground until the plane was less than 500 feet from it.

Tax Rate Drops A Bit, But School Levy to Go Up if Board Has Way

Plymouth village tax rate will be 25.5 mills during 1955, Richland County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe announces.

This is a decrease of .5 mill from 1954, owing to retirement of certain bonded indebtedness of the school system (.4 mill) and a decrease in the amount of assessment for the World War II soldier's bonus (.1 mill).

The breakdown of the 25.5 mill levy shows:

- .2 to state of Ohio
 - 2.0 to general operating fund, Richland county
 - .5 to tuberculosis operating fund
 - .5 to tuberculosis bonds
 - 1.5 to township
 - 17.0 to schools
 - 4.0 to village operating expenses
- The rate for Huron county taxpayers will be 23.8 mills, according to Huron County Auditor Bernard F. Kean. The breakdown on this total is as follows:
- .2 to state of Ohio
 - 2.1 to general operating fund, Huron county
 - .5 to township
 - 17.0 to schools
 - 4.0 to village operating expenses

This property holders on the south side of the village are paying taxes at the rate of $1.50 per $1,000 of valuation, and those living on the north side will pay at the rate of $22.20 per $1,000 valuation. So far as can be learned, the same criteria for evaluating property for tax assessment purposes apply in Richland county as in Huron.

There is no collection for the tuberculosis issue in Huron county because the assessment applies once every two years.

But while assessments for retirement of school bond issues dropped .4 mill in Richland county, Plymouth Board of Education was considering the need for an additional two mills for current operating expenses.

It is likely the Board will reach its decision at its next meeting. The problem is not so much whether the assessment will be requested as when and how it will be asked for.

Under the law, the Board may:

1. Call a special election, in which case the levy if approved, may be instituted for one year only.
2. Put the levy on the May primary ballot, which would allow the levy a two-year period.
3. Place the levy on the November general election ballot, which would permit a five year term for the levy.

It would be desirable, the Board is believed to think, to reorganize the entire school assessment figure so that the present 6.5 mill operating run for the same term. If this is done, the Board may decide upon the third proposal.

The need to raise teachers' salaries and to hire another high school teacher prompts the request for additional funds.

DP Girl Has First Home Xmas

After 12 years of makeshift holidays passed in displaced persons camps spread across Europe, a 19-year-old Russian girl found a real Christmas in Plymouth last week. It was an old-fashioned Christmas honoring the Christ child that she shared with her hosts, the Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Sheesley and their son and daughter, her first Christmas in a home since she was chased from her own by the Germans in 1942.

Helena Gorolkowa, who is a student in Lincoln High school at Cleveland, lives in an orphanage there. She is not technically an orphan; her parents and her brother are in a DP camp in Austria. Over here, she is a charge of the United Council of Churches, who assisted her to emigrate.

In the Soviet Union, Helena says, folks stand in front of the tree and sing to it with no reference to the holy significance of the holiday, for churches have been closed.

No Forgetter, He

George Henry Watts did not forget his old friends and neighbors in Plymouth at Christmas-time.

Mrs. Estel Watts and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Watts and family returned Thursday from a trip to St. Petersburg Beach, Fla., to visit Mr. Watts. They report he is in good health.

Postmaster Claude E. Sourwine and postal employees received a bushel of Florida grapefruit from Mr. Watts as a Christmas remembrance.

Piirsch Sues, Alleges Permanent Injuries

Alleged permanent injuries caused by the defendant's negligence, a Plymouth rural man has lodged suit in Crawford county common pleas court to recover $125,000 in damages.

Darrell Piirsch, 23-year-old tenant on the farm of C. O. Bishop of New Washington, charges that Frank Bishop, New Washington route 1, who was the driver of an auto with which he collided at the intersections of Routes 39 and 298 Nov. 7, failed to yield the right-of-way and to observe a stop sign.

Piirsch alleges he received permanent injuries to his head and brain, his back, spine, right leg and eye. He says he received permanent facial scars. Before the accident, his suit alleges, he was earning $250 a month as a farmer.

SERVE ON JURIES

Alfred Lauer, Plymouth route 1, is the only juror with a Plymouth address selected for likely duty during the spring term of Richland county courts. Lois O. Pennell, Jane Spenser, Verda Noble and Daniel J. Murphy are Shilohans so chosen.

Nor are trees decorated like they are here. In the absence of lights and tinsel, fruit and food - which the Russians worship almost as much as they used to worship God - are hung from the tree.

"The kids eat the stuff before the holidays is over," says Helena.

The smiling, blonde Ukrainian lass was seven when she last passed Christmas at home, in the rich prairies bordering the Black Sea, and since that time she has known one DP camp after another.

Most of them were in Austria. She wanted more schooling. After the Austrians regained control of their government, free schooling for aliens was prohibited. Those foreigners who wanted to go to school had to pay for it. Helena's thirst for education prompted her to take a job scrubbing floors, and it was while at this task that she made the friendships that culminated in a summons to Bremen and a visa to enter the United States.

Coon to Head Polio Drive for Fifth Year

Supt. M. J. Coon has for the fifth consecutive year been named March of Dimes chairman for Plymouth, it is announced.

Supt. Emil Fernandez, Jr., has been appointed to the same post in New Haven.

The annual March of Dimes drive, which coincides with the birthday anniversary of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, who brought infantile paralysis to national attention, will take place during the last two weeks of January.

Supt. Coon's appointment is by the Huron county chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc. For purposes of infantile paralysis defense, Plymouth local school district falls within the jurisdiction of Huron county.

During the past polio season, Huron county had 35 patients entered at City hospital, Cleveland, of whom 25 received positive diagnoses. Three spinal-type cases are of such a serious nature that hospitalization and care are required over a long term.

Five bulbar-type cases were reported during the season, of which two resulted in death. Demand on funds was so great that an emergency drive was necessary in the fall. Plymouth collected $474.

National headquarters had advanced $500 in emergency funds to Huron county before the drive, and since then the county has received $4,700 to assist in paying for treatment and care. Receipts to receive donations will be placed in public places, the committee announces.

Helena likes Cleveland, studies hard, hopes to enter a nursing school when she graduates. "The boys in my school are ugly, simply ugly," she reports, showing she is rapidly becoming accustomed to the "teen-age society in which she lives."

But she wasn't the only foreign guest in Plymouth this week. The Frank Pitzens entertained a young Peruvian, student at Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware. He is Eladio Bolanos, a journalism student, who says that Christmas in South America has a definite Latin bias.

"Christmas is for children in Peru," he reports. "When you pass 15, you are through with Christmas presents until you have to buy them for your own children."

Nor do the Peruvians decorate their Christmas trees as do their North American cousins. The custom is growing, however, young Bolanos reports.

Police Patience Thin

It tomorrow is anything like Friday night, Police Chief Robert L. Meiser is going to put his foot down.

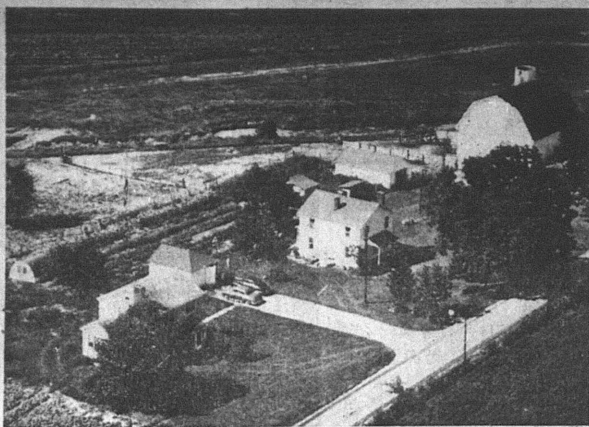

Matter of fact, he says that offenders against the peace and quiet will cool off in the village lockup. No leniency will be shown as was the case Christmas eve.

At 6:30 p.m. Friday, Chief Meiser was called to a local watering place to encourage an inebriate on his way home. The fellow took to pugilism, and was subdued after a scuffle. Chief Meiser had to have a pivot tooth reset.

At 7:30 p.m. he was called to Walnut street to referee a marital spat. This he solved by severely dulling the protagonists to father and listening to the character reflections on both sides.

En route to this fray, Chief Meiser received a call to proceed to Route 61 north of the village, where a calf had had an altercation with a car driven by Clark Chromister. The calf lost.

After Christmas was in fact here, Chief Meiser rounded up two visitors from Mansfield whose sense of direction was likewise dulled by the Christmas lights. They were stomping around in the rear of homes in Portner street, whereas their destination was some 400 yards north of that place.

Sprayer, Prayer Make Potato

The secret to raising potatoes, the principal cash crop on the 310-acre spread of John F. Swartz and Sons near Shiloh, is "plenty of sprayer and a good dose of prayer," claims the veteran spud grower.

Potato bugs are the chief worry of the potato grower, says Mr. Swartz, and a good bit of the growing season is occupied with his war against the pesky things.

"If you spray a good deal, the tops stay green a long time and eventually you have to put out spray to kill the tops," laughs the best-known spud grower in these parts.

But spraying isn't the only trick to the trade, he hastens to add. You've got ground (the high ground on the farm comprises the greater part of it, but not very many know that there are about 80 acres of producing muck and about as many that're not producing because they're not drained) and fertilizer to think about.

And, above all, good seed. The Swartzes buy theirs by the carload from professional jobbers of seed, and don't themselves engage in the growing of potatoes for seed purposes.

Once the seed is in, and there's adequate rain, you fight the bugs, and toward the end of September you commence to dig the potatoes.

When they're dug, they have to be graded. In the big sales barn built of concrete blocks on the Swartz place, there's a grading machine. It passes the potatoes up an inclined plane at a slow speed, so that the eagle-eyed Swartz boys can pluck out the wee ones and the oversize potatoes that don't fit the grade, and then it dumps them down a chute so they fall into sacks. When the sack is full, another Swartz boy turns the control gate so the stream of potatoes falls into another sack and tugs the bag off to be weighed (at exactly 100 pounds) and sewn and labelled. The Swartzes market their murphys more or less locally, and occasionally will haul a load to a far-off place such as New Philadelphia, Green Springs or even Cincinnati.

Potatoes aren't the only crop grown on the farm. Onions comprise an important money-maker, and last year the Swartzes tried cabbage. It grew too fast, and although a good market was found, there wasn't a strong enough demand to handle the crop. It was fed to the stock.

Stock-wise, the farm has about 30 head of registered Aberdeen Angus beefs. "Some folks say 'Herefords for the range, long-horns for the table' and I guess that's mostly true," smiles Mr. Swartz, who is the third generation of his family to be farming in the area south of Shiloh. From the size of his family, and they're all boys except the baby, a girl, there will be Swartzes hereabouts for years to come. And they'll be farmers. The Swartz boys engaged in a 4-4-1 baby beef project the past several years, and did well at the Richland county fair, on whose board their father is a director.

Potatoes run in the family, to some extent. Mr. Swartz is a nephew of John F. Stambaugh who has a pretty fair potato operation of his own in the Celeryville muck lands.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Buck and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Christian and family of Marion spent Sunday with Mrs. Lena Dreier and son, Edgar. On Christmas day the Dreiers and Miss Marilyn Garrett were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Auman and granddaughter, Roberta, at Tiro.

From Shiloh, Clyde Caldwell Reports — 211 Kiddies Visit Santa As Legion Gives Party

Two hundred eleven area kiddies attended the American Legion and its auxiliary party in the Legion hall here Thursday night and received gifts of candy and orange from old Santa Claus.

The next program on the Legion calendar is the annual New Year's dance tomorrow night. Black's orchestra will provide the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Johnson of Pettit street were entertained Christmas day in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Wallen, in London East road. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wallen and two children of Shelby and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Wallen and four children of Homerville.

Two Dinners

Mrs. Margaret Guthrie of Church street was pleasantly surprised a week ago last Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guthrie of Mansfield appeared with a big Christmas supper already prepared and served it to her.

The following Thursday evening Mrs. Lois Heden and Mrs. Minnie Lybarger of Shelby dropped in, also with a prepared supper and gifts.

Both evenings were much enjoyed by Mrs. Guthrie.

Mrs. Minnie A. Urch died at her home in Shenandoah Dec. 22 after a lingering illness.

She was 82, a member of Shenandoah Christian church and the Women's Fellowship, wife of W. C. Urch, who survives. Two daughters, Mrs. Vera Pollock of Shenandoah and Mrs. L. D. Reynolds of Shelby, two grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted from Mrs. Urch's church by the Rev. Charles Spangler Friday at 2 p.m., with burial in Shenandoah cemetery. The Rev. Turner Holt of Galion assisted at the services.

The children and families of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Black were entertained Christmas day in the Black home in Pettit street. Present were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Black and daughter, Judith, of Toledo; The Rev. and Mrs. O. S. Goerner and daughter, Christmas, of Holgate; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Payton and children, and Mrs. Charles DeMoss and children of Mansfield.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith of Newark were Sunday visitors in the Black home.

The Winnah!

Only two telephone calls from a distance on Christmas day were reported by noon Monday.

The first was a call from Walter Jewell to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Jewell, Shelby route 3, from Houston, Tex. The call arrived at 12:45 p.m.

The second, and last, reported was a call to Mrs. Grace Dwire, West Main street, from her granddaughter, Mrs. R. E. Glover, Baltimore, Md. This call came in at about 10 a.m.

Inasmuch as Houston is farther away than Baltimore, the free subscription is awarded to The Advertiser to Mr. and Mrs. Jewell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dawson of Bowman street road and Mrs. Bertha Fritz of West Main street were Christmas day guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eley and family in Sylvania.

Miss Joanne Myers, Planktown North road, was taken to Galion City hospital Thursday afternoon in McQuate's ambulance.

The Rome Country club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Alice Clawson in Route 603 Wednesday. The meeting will be an all day one.

Mrs. Maude Amstutz, Mrs. Marie Backenst and Mrs. Bernice Campbell are on the program committee.

Here's How Crop Prices Go Up

With a bumper crop being marketed this year, farmers of this community who grow soy beans will do well to study the above chart. Based on U. S. Department of Agriculture reports, it shows the average gain per bushel made during each of the last seven years by growers who stored soy beans in facilities such as Quonset buildings until the price rose, instead of selling at the lowest-time low. Many farmers have reported that their gains on one crop have more than paid for the Quonset building in which they stored the beans.

The Fire Protection Contract

We think the village council acted wisely and well in treating with the request of New Haven township trustees for a fire protection contract. The first reaction by the council was: can we do it? Will we be robbing ourselves if we undertake this contract?

That is the only right attitude to take. Our first obligation is to ourselves. Fire protection for the village should be our first thought. Chief McDougal brought up the gentlemanly obligation of consulting Plymouth township trustees, although there is no legal compulsion to do so. This also was right and proper.

We hope it may be possible for a fire protection contract to be worked out with New Haven township, and we think the trustees are acting sensibly in respect of obtaining protection from the Plymouth services. But it is necessary to examine all facets of the matter, with ourselves, with Plymouth township, with Willard fire department, and finally with New Haven township, before we get to the point of quoting a price.

Understandably, the New Haven township trustees would like to expedite the matter, and we feel sure the council will tackle the problem promptly. This is but another example of the kind of sensible, unspectacular, but economic government we are getting from our elected officials, who certainly deserve at the beginning of the new year a pat on the back for a good job well done.

Hats Off to the Felixes

We join with their parishioners and many friends in extending congratulations to the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph M. Felix on the completion of 35 years of marriage to God and to each other.

The Felixes have done well here, so well that when it is time for them to lay down their duties they will be hard to replace. Their work with the marsh migrant committee is known throughout the "erested in the same kind of thing. Mr. nation, particularly in church groups in Felix's efforts to obtain a higher minimum salary level for ministers in the Presbytery of Wooster, which he heads this year, are creditable indeed. One step toward the revival of strong and effective rural churches is the staffing of their pulpits with vigorous pastors.

Mr. Felix's sage observations have been useful to this community, and like many prophets, he is not without honor save in his own country. It is refreshing to see a man of his age and experience thinking in the vanguard of the most modern and liberal wing of his faith, of his society, and of his government.

On Sunday, he pointed out one fact which shows his sterling mettle: too many Christians are Christmas and Easter Christians, and fail to do their duty the other 50 Sundays of the year.

How right he is! We need admonitions of this kind, all of us. And we need admonishers like Mr. Felix. We wish for him and his good wife many more years of devoted service to their ideals and to their church.

New Year's Resolutions

It is the custom to make resolutions for the new year, and we would not bash custom for the world.

Our resolution is that we will try to be a good citizen in 1955. It has been our resolution every year since we can remember. The trouble is, what we think is good citizenship is often regarded by others as the reverse, and what they consider good citizenship is what causes us to purple at the collar line and bulge at the eyeball.

For this community, we believe good citizenship entails support of reasonable proposals to improve our schools, our health and sanitation services and our opportunities for employment, to obtain cheaper power, and to induce our citizens to earn and spend their money right here.

It is to those resolutions that we subscribe for 1955.

Around the Square

— By Phineas Whittleseed —

We haven't at hand right now the figures on the handle of mail passing through the post office this holiday season, but it is high time some recognition is given to the unselfish service given by the personnel there. Not many residents can attest personally, as Phin can, to the fact that work goes on there as early as 4 a.m. Nor do many know that Mr. Sours-vine personally has come to the office at off and unreasonable hours to help out some patron or other. An example the other p.m. will help to show what we mean. A carrier returned from his rounds and remarked that a newspaper for a certain patron wasn't in his sack. Postmaster Soursvine, in our presence, said he knew where it was. The carrier took it back before he quit, but the biggest impression upon us was the result of some solicitude for a certain patron that some might consider nosiness.

"When I went to Mrs. Soandso's," he said, "the check hadn't been taken from the box and I smelled gas."

Postmaster Soursvine had him go back, and with another employee he did so. It was a false alarm, thanks be to the Lord, but it shows that the federal government's employees here are giving a little more service than they're paid for.

This post office reaches first class rank as of July 1 next. Personnel-wise, it's first class in every way. We have one suggestion that would make it first class all around. Pub-lease, Mr. Postmaster, install a phone.

Don't think for a minute we don't get to prove those recipes you see in The Advertiser. Mrs. Armstrong sent us one of those extra-fancy raised rolls for the holidays. What if it did not, to our waistline is unfair to contended columnists. The lady can cook. And her taste in colorful decorations is something to behold, too.

Our friend Mrs. C. O. Cramer brought us some home-made candy, which would chase the Whitman's people out of business if she got to it on a big scale, and our friend C. E. S. across the street was across with some extra-special stuff. So was Richard Ham-iltor, narrowly defeated by a 10-9 margin in the Rich- and county auditor. Says it did him no harm to be whipped, which we figured all along.

And Mrs. Robt's Haas sent an emissary down with an apple pie that was out of this world. My, but aren't people generous?

Speaking of recipes, Phin had a shot at the Ruban Bleu cookery school in gay Paree once, and still thinks he's the best cook for miles around. Only trouble is, says Mrs. Phin, he's no kitchen big- enough and insufficient hands to clean up the mess he makes. The other eve, thanks to L. Barnes, we whipped up a delightful French dish, featuring brains of a calf. Phin's family is notorious for its predilection for mundane cuts of meat, but they asked for second helpings of his brains dish. Anybody want the recipe?

Young Barry Fetters was a caller Christmas day. Said he's just pedaled to Greenwich and back on his new bike and was en route to Shelby. Made our legs ache just to think of it.

Gene Henry is all bucked up about the arrival of another fisherman in his house. We smoked a stogie on the little fellow Friday, and hasten to send out best wishes to the production engineer in charge of the operation, Madame H.

It's nice to see the stepple on the Lutheran church going up. Won't be long before it's finished.

Robt's Spenseller was back from the College of Wooster for the holidays. Reports he's hanging in. It must be hard going back to school after being away for so long, and we congratulate the young fellow in his ambition.

The winner of the mystery farm contest last week couldn't have been a more deserving one. The farm stayed a mystery until Wednesday morn, and during a routine call on the acting mayor, Phin struck up a conversation with two men obviously engaged in farming. One of them gave a positive identification, and Phin promptly awarded him the prizes. Turned out to be James Grove, whose farm had burned out only a couple of weeks before.

Phin's thanks to Doc Hannum for getting out of bed early Thursday to patch up Phin's finger, which he very stupidly stuck into the folder at an ungodly hour Thursday. The incident proved something which Phin has long contended: there's no such thing as an accident, there's only carelessness. It was plain carelessness that caused this sore digit, and if you think it's nothing, try typing by the hunt-and-peck system common to most newspapermen with the middle finger, right hand, tied up in a bandage, and throbbing to beat the devil.

The house is a quiet place now all the mutts are one save Cookie the old patriarch. His daughter now resides with the Herens in North street. She looks acts and feels like him, so don't be surprised if she grows up to be the same sort of grabdabot. The laundry business will prosper as a result of our Christmas hospitality. There're so many places to clean up where the mutts made mistakes.

A tour about the town Christmas night revealed a substantial number of holiday decorations to compete for the prizes offered by the Community club and makes Phin decidedly unamused of the job of the judges - Messrs. Con, Ramsey and Ford - in their task of choosing the best one. We have our nomination, but in all fairness, we're not mentioning it right now.

With the temperature in the mid 50's the day after Christmas, we wondered if Doc Faust didn't wish he was back in Ohio instead of in Florida, where it was colder. Pop Teal was down there couple of weeks ago and said he made one mistake: only took along one overcoat.

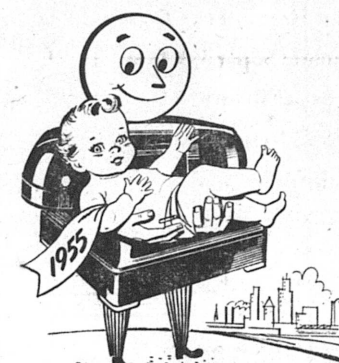

Phin's thanks to Plymouth troop, BSA, for its yeoman work on the balls. No less than 23 churches cooperated, for which our thanks and heartfelt gratitude. Shows that when you pick a non-controversial subject about which to rally, folks'll do it.

Mrs. Phin posed us a question we couldn't answer: who's gonna be the first mother of 1955. Come to think of it, we don't know anybody who's likely to be such. Not immediately, that is.
