Local board passes bid to consolidate to Huron county

Twenty-three days remain for filing of remonstrance petitions to obstruct or set aside the transfer of Shiloh and the Plymouth local school districts to Huron county's school system.

Huron county board of education met in special session Thursday to accept the transfer, as first step to consolidating Shiloh with South-Central school district and Plymouth with Richmond, Greenfield and New Haven school districts.

A formal request of Huron county's board of education to consolidate Plymouth schools with Greenfield, Richmond and New Haven was made Tuesday night.

The resolution will not be effective until the Plymouth school district is officially transferred from the jurisdiction of Richland county May 5.

The board authorized Supt. M. J. Coon to make several needed purchases for the Plymouth schools. From the cafeteria fund, a freezer for the elementary school kitchen will be purchased together with a desk and chair for Mrs. Russell Barbour, cafeteria manager. Profits from school lunches will also allow for another collapsible table to be purchased for the all purpose room of the school. This will make a total of six tables. Four more are still needed.

A desk for the office of the elementary school principal will also be purchased. So will a floor machine for the high school and a 25-inch power mower.

A motion was also passed to pay the final amount due to Charles Marr, architect of the elementary school, for the amount of $1,664.19.

Mr. Coon announced a new schedule for the 1957-58 school year is being prepared. It will add a two-year Latin course designed for ninth and tenth grade pupils. Spanish will be taught to 11th and 12th graders. Vocational agriculture, a course in civics, general business and a fourth year of mathematics will be added. Mr. Coon plans to offer chemistry and physics every year rather than as alternating year subjects.

New Haven students will also register along the same schedule, this making the merging of the schools on a uniform basis.

The board agreed to offer five-year contracts to Mrs. Nettie Hull, Mrs. Velma Funk, Mrs. A. H. Newmyer, Mrs. Donald Hamman and H. Dale Moore. The contracts will be offered according to the salary schedule.

If schools consolidate, first change since 1849

Barring unforeseen obstructions to consolidation with Richmond and Greenfield townships and New Haven, Plymouth's schools will alter their form, administratively, for the first time in 108 years.

Back in 1849, two school districts, serving Plymouth — then incorporated for only 11 years — were combined. Two years previously, the Ohio legislature had approved what came to be known as the Akron law. It provided for establishment of a board of education, for organization of a "suitable number" of primary schools and for the establishment of a grammar school. Power to levy taxes to support these schools was accorded.

Four years later, the state school law cemented these provisions. It also provided for construction of public schools.

Many, many years ago an English poet, Perry Bysshe Shelley, ended one of his gems with "When Winter comes, can Spring be far behind". What I would like to know is whether we must have in one season to catch up with one nice spring. Of course, the longer spring holds off, the longer house cleaning can be put off.

It will catch up with all of us, and in those busy days, your family will need a little snack while you are busy cleaning closets and washing windows. This one is ideal and could not be easier. It is a banana nut bread which is a specialty of the Mad. Son Fitch family. All the lady members can make it with equal agility. Cream one cup of sugar with one-fourth cup shortening. To this add two slightly beaten eggs, one cup of crushed bananas which are very ripe (about two medium size ones) two cups of biscuit mix, and one-fourth cup of chopped nuts. Beat until well mixed and bake for one hour at 350 degrees in an oven which has been pre-heated. This recipe fits into a pan five by nine inches and three inches deep. It is really delicious, and not only is good for hungry families, but will make any bake sale a great success.

With all the words which have been written in the last weeks concerning our national budget, a group of citizens of Richmond, Va., have really hit the nail on the head. They put some of our most learned newspaper editors and columnists, cabinet officers and economists to shame. This is their comment: "Eisenhower made a big budget and Congress wants him to cut it down. Eisenhower told Congress to cut it down and Congress passed the buck to Eisenhower again. Now they are arguing in a friendly, polite way about who should cut it. In the meantime, the budget is as fat as ever". Concise and practical as all third graders, these stalwart citizens of Virginia have simply stated the facts. They're in John B. Gary school in Richmond.

Another comment on the budget which I read with great delight, because I agree with it, was by an editor of Waukegan, Ill., who said, "There is nothing wrong with our American economy that cannot be rectified by old fashioned hard work, individual enterprise, and freedom from government restrictions". Something has happened to our old-fashioned hard work. The thing that made our country great was lots of sweat and dreams. The dreams are still there, but the sweat is being avoided like the plague. And they go together, like two gloves. It's the sweat that brings about fine workmanship in which man used to take great pride.

We have gone a long way in the last three centuries, but I wonder if we have lost pride in our work. We make wonderful things for ourselves and the world, but how long do they last? Maybe we make things too quickly.

Individual enterprise goes hand in hand with hard work. If you can take the hard work, then it can be done. But too many of us take the easy way out.

All this really applies to our everyday life except that in house cleaning there simply is no easy way out. It's all the little things that were put off all year long, because you knew the day of reckoning would come and it would be done then. So down come the curtains which you knew were dirty in December. You'll even finish washing off some of the Hallowe'en soap from a corner of a window and clean the closets which are over-stuffed but still haven't a thing you can wear.

Uniforms paid for, Buzard announces

Uniforms are bought and paid for, Fred Buzard, president of Plymouth's as yet unnamed boys' baseball league, reports.

"We have four teams completely uniformed. The sponsors are Fate-Roth-Heath Co., Plymouth Order of Mechanics, the American Legion and the Firemen's together, and Bachrach Co. and New Haven Supply together."

Teams will be known as the Braves, Cubs, Reds and Giants.

Tryouts will be conducted on the high school field Saturday and Sunday, on April 20, weather permitting. Eight- and nine-year-olds are slated to work from 1 to 2 p.m., 10-year-olds from 2 to 3:15 p.m. and 11- and 12-year-olds from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m.

Personal items about local folks

Mrs. Stella Foulk and her daughter, Elizabeth, Bellevue, were Sunday dinner guests of the Ira Rosses.

Mrs. L. Ray Windecker and son, Mark, visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Moore over the weekend.

Miss Emily Rose Ford, teacher at Nevada spent the weekend with her father, Mayor T. R. Ford.

Mrs. Edsel Graham is spending the week with the Franklin McCormicks. She had visited with her son's family at Ft. Riley, Kan. before coming here, and will return to her home at Winter Haven, Fla., next week.

Among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Ada McCormick were Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Pardon and son of Ann Arbor, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. John Simons of Canton, Mich., and Charles McCormick of Key West, Fla.

A son weighing 6 lbs., 14 oz., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dorion Saturday night in Shelby Memorial hospital. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Steele. Paternal grandparents are the Dominic J. Dorions.

necessity of being prepared.

We reiterate our offer to the ladies in question: our time, effort and facilities, such as they are, are available to you at any time for the preparation of such a list.

In addition to a decisive example of indecision, Governor O'Neil's unfortunate turn-about on salaries points up one fact we've insisted was true for a long time. It is that money isn't everything, that some folks won't perform as you would wish them to perform for any amount of money.

The rotund little man who occupies the highest seat in the state has discovered that high salaries alone won't lure good people to top jobs. There is something else, something he hasn't — publicly, at least — put his finger on.

COULD IT BE THAT CIRCUMSTANCES of employment and conditions of labor are so poor that an ambitious workman wouldn't touch the jobs with a 20-foot pole? It would certainly seem so. We very much doubt that Columbus is any worse a city to live in than, say, Albany, or Harrisburg, or Dover. True, there's no theatre life to speak of, but there's no theatre life in any of those other capitals unless you take a plane to New York. (Small voice: "But it's closer, pal, it's closer!")

Aside from what seem to be cultural disadvantages, with which we do not necessarily concur, it must be that other deficiencies in employment by the great state of Ohio exist in such number that qualified people won't take it.

Governor O'Neil still hasn't found a director of mental services. And there are other key jobs that aren't filled yet.

IT ALL BOILS DOWN TO THIS: OFTEN, qualified employees (and here you're supposed to think of teachers, in particular) will gladly accept contracts of labor with employers whose salary offerings don't quite come up to what's offered elsewhere if other conditions are superior. Better class (much as we hate the word or thought) of people to work with, happier living and working conditions, cleaner community, nicer offices and better equipment to work with, to name but a few.

The principle was enunciated long ago, and most recently by the capable lady from Bellevue who serves on the Richmond county school board. Build a new building, get good books and good lab materials, keep classes down to a workable size — and you'll get superior teachers despite a lower salary level.

There are some good teachers who wouldn't teach in a small town for $50,000 a year. They aren't cut out that way. But there are many who like their profession so much they'll serve at less than what they could get elsewhere if there is the opportunity to serve professionally in a top-notch school.

The derogators of the new consolidation scheme would do well to remember that.

The greatest discovery of mankind was neither the fission of the atom nor the electric light nor the internal combustion engine nor the ability to fly. Nor was it the secret to smallpox, or the fact that heavy objects fall toward the earth with a regular pull that can be measured.

It was the fact that men can work together to achieve common ends better, faster and more happily than one man can do it alone.

There are signs in this region that that lesson is understood more readily by our friends and neighbors nowadays. At least more so than formerly.

THERE WAS A MINOR CRISIS HERE about a couple of weeks ago that bespeaks the same spirit of working together for solution. A young lady who is a special friend of this column, despite the fact she thinks Elvis Presley is the cat's whiskers, needed some blood. It was blood of a rare type, or relatively so, and one or two or her friends responded to the need to dig up some donors.

At one time, there was a list of some persons who were able and willing to give blood, citing type of blood, address of donor, telephone number, and other useful data.

But the list got misplaced. It's time such a new list is started. We suggested this to a capable group of ladies the other day and there are signs the ladies will undertake to prepare it.

It would be kept available so that a call at any hour, day or night, to its custodian will produce the name and telephone number, and present whereabouts, of an approved blood donor, by type.

WHICH BRINGS US AGAIN TO THE civil defense question. Civil defense isn't a very popular subject these days. Aside from the fact some energetic and capable chaps locally belong to and serve in a unit of the state civil defense corps, nobody takes heed of its importance.

It takes a minor crisis such as the need for blood of a rare type (and on the day she needed it, the big city dailies carried a story about a youngster in Pennsylvania who dropped a butcher knife on his thigh, severing an artery, starting a flow of blood that couldn't be stopped; required: O type blood, Rh negative. The child died before the second pint could be infused, because it was to be rushed from miles away) to dramatize the

Ever Hear of a Tree
Growing Out of a Coal Mine?

That's right, trees do grow out of coal mines...

During the last 10 years Ohio Power Company has planted 7,000,000 trees on 7,000 acres of land in our strip mine coal fields in southeastern Ohio. This year, we'll plant another 750,000 tree seedlings in that area.

This reforestation project is part of our conservation program to re-establish the usefulness and productivity of these lands after the coal has been mined and burned in our power plants to produce electricity for home and farm—factory and store.

By replacing one natural resource with another—forest for coal—we feel we're contributing to the continued economy of the area and bringing benefits to future generations.
