

Earl Cashman quits as school board clerk

Earl C. Cashman resigned as clerk of Plymouth Board of Education, effective Mar. 1, at Thursday's meeting.

He said he was quitting the $1,800-a-year post because he could not effectively serve his employer, Peoples National bank, in the face of seemingly interminable difficulties in the school board assignment.

The board will receive applications, in writing, citing experience, for the post.

ON RECOMMENDATION of the Richland county school head, Dale Kinney, who attended, the board voted to request the Richland county board to furnish a building need survey.

Kinney said he thought such a survey would give support to the district's for state aid in building.

(Ed. Note: In the first apportioning of state building fund aid, $5 million was handed out to all 45 districts. Ratio of grant to request, in more than 75 per cent of the instances: $1 to $10. Brunswick district in Medina county, for example, needs $548,000 over its nine per cent maximum bonded indebtedness figure; it got $54,800.)

The move did not come without reluctance. David Cook made the motion but several minutes of almost stony silence passed before Judson A. Morrison seconded it.

It seemed clear the board was reluctant to initiate any moves that would tend to complicate the building program.

AND IN RESPONSE TO A question by Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., as newspaper reporter and a parent of two elementary school pupils, President J. Harold Cashman said the board will continue to operate and maintain the schools on a stand-by basis, "taking no action of any kind unless it comes from the people."

With this rejection of leadership by the board, it seemed clear there would be no move to resume the Huron Valley consolidation from the Plymouth side.

Unless, of course, interested citizens undertake initiative petitions.

Donald B. Shaver, who was an opponent of the Huron Valley consolidation, spoke up at one point in favor of a large school district.

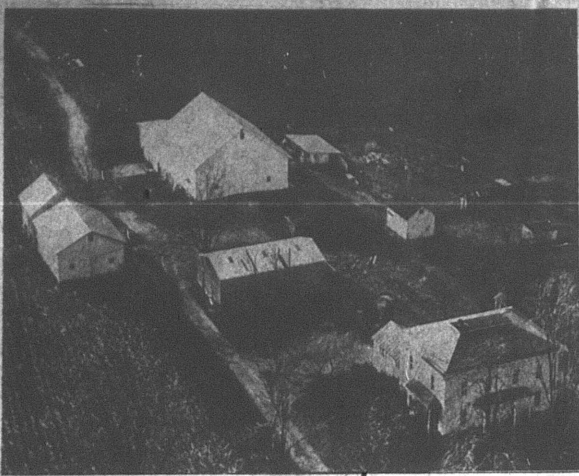

AFTER THE BOARD HAD demurred in purchase of sewing machines for the Shiloh schools, because their cost would be $224.20, he said, "It seems to me we are not better off than before — Shiloh seems a burden to us."

Underlying the whole 140-minute meeting was a sense of aimlessness. Some board members and administrators laid this to rumors that Richland County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz is ready to hand down an opinion against payment of $40,957 costs of four months of schooling of Shiloh pupils in the outworn Iroquois district.

The reasoning was said to be that such payment to a district that was in itself not legal would be unlawful.

Because the board felt it had insufficient information, it tabled the question of pupil assignment for next year. County Superintendent Kinney recommends assigning seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils to the Shiloh building, 10th, 11th and 12th grade pupils to the Plymouth building.

NOTeCo's request for higher rates set for Monday hearing

Hearings to justify Northern Ohio Telephone Co.'s request for a $1.2 million annual rate increase will begin Monday morning in Columbus.

The request, filed Nov. 21, 1956, would increase rates locally by about 30 per cent.

AND DESPITE A LONG-standing ruling by the Supreme Court of Ohio that the Public Utilities commission may not condition higher rates on better service, a host of protesters are expected to attend the meeting.

Northern Ohio has about 96,000 telephones hooked into 66 exchanges right now.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS reported from Columbus the PUCO has several baskets full of complaints that service is inferior.

These come from: Kiwanis club, Wakeman, whose survey is said to have shown only four satisfied customers among 152 who were asked to complete a questionnaire.

Wakeman Grange, which says service hasn't been improved since the last rate increase.

Cygnus Farm Bureau council, which insists that antiquated equipment and poor service is the reason for its protest.

N. G. Franklin, Wellington route 1, who says it took him 15 years to get a telephone, and now he can't use it because he's on a 10-party line.

THE COMPANY SAYS many of these complaints have been settled since they were filed with the PUCO.

chairman for the 1958 Easter Seal campaign to benefit Huron County Society for Crippled Children.

Her appointment as announced Tuesday by John E. Wise, president of Citizens National Bank, Norwalk, chairman of the 1958 campaign.

DIRECTORS OF THE SOCIETY met Feb. 11 at Willard. The Rev. John F. Herion, treasurer, reported expenditures in 1957 of $472.50 for seven camp scholarships at Camp Pittenger, McCutchenville; $1,000 to classes for retarded children supported by the Huron County Council for Retarded Children, $394.02 for an audiometer for the Willard school system, $310 for an audiometer for use by the Huron county health department, and $145 for a hearing aid.

Goal for the 1958 campaign is $4,500. Individual letters to 10,000 homes in the county will be mailed Mar. 6. The campaign will end Apr. 6.

Anti-annexation faction persisting

Thwarted in an effort to force a ballot on the transfer to-Willard question, initiators of a remonstrance petition in Huron Valley school district are trying again.

Huron County Prosecutor Bernard W. Freeman ruled the first petition, bearing 188 signatures, was invalid in its preamble. So the initiators are circulating another. It understood they have until Mar. 1 to file it.

"It isn't so much a question of which way to go," they say, "it's that we feel everybody should have an opportunity to go to the polls and express his opinion. Besides, doing it so fast means folks don't have a chance to think about it much."

THE SPEED OF THE MAN-euver, claim those who started it in the first place, is its primary value.

"If we get the transfer done now," says Dale Osborn, "we'll have the problem halfway toward being solved. By waiting until election time, it would take until July 1, 1959, before we could have any action. And the state will cut off tuition money on Jan. 1. What would we do for the $4,000 or $5,000 a year it would take to pay tuition at Willard or Plymouth?"

Osborn, formerly a member of the New Haven board, said Huron Valley patrons don't realize Shiloh patrons of the Plymouth district don't want to transfer across the county line and will fight such a move.

"It's become a political issue," Osborn said. "The Huron county board ought to take action on the first petition and stop wasting time."

$100,000 federal sewer aid possible

Plymouth could probably get $100,000 in federal aid for a sewer system, village council was told yesterday morning.

A delegation from the Water Pollution Control board met with Mayor Thurman R. Ford and some of the council to explain the procedure.

EXISTING PUBLIC LAW provides that 30 per cent of the cost of treatment facilities — interceptor sewers and treatment plant — can be contributed by the federal government when adequate financing of the remaining 70 per cent is proved.

This proof, the delegation pointed out, takes this form:

1. Plans up to date and in order.
2. Satisfactory financing plan arranged.

'Prefer Huron Valley,' school board reaffirms

Four members of Plymouth Board of Education went on record in special session Monday night favoring resumption of the Plymouth-Huron Valley consolidation.

J. Harold Cashman, president of the board, maintained.

By his colleagues — Haldon Cheesman, Judson, A. Morrison, David Cook and Donald P. Markley — voted in favor of a resolution reaffirming the stand of the board of Mar. 20, 1957.

Their statement said: "On Mar. 20, 1957, the Plymouth Board of Education passed a resolution to present to the Richland County Board of Education, the Huron County Board of Education, and the State Department of Education, favoring the merger of Plymouth, Shiloh, New Haven, Richmond and Greenfield school districts.

"The Plymouth Board of Education still favors the creation of the above school district."

THE DECISION TO TAKE what is for the Plymouth board an untoward step apparently came after its president had unequivocally expressed a contrary opinion at Thursday's meeting.

It is understood that members Markley and Cheesman were instrumental in steering the board toward such a recommendation.

There was no sign, by press time, at least, that the board intends to take any additional steps.

These would have to include the circulating of initiative petitions to place such a move on the November ballot. And, of course, to do so would not necessarily result in any objection to the annexation of Huron Valley district to Willard, as requested by 440 petitioners in that district.

Warriors bow out of tourney

Huron Valley's Warriors left their game in the wigwag Tuesday night and Lexington's Minutemen shot 'em down unmercifully, 68 to 53, in the first round of the Richland county tourney.

For a while, there was hope the Warriors would recover from tournament jitters. In the third period, they pulled to within five points of the Minutemen.

But the Warriors just couldn't cut the mustard. They produced the night's high scorer in Ted Fox, who closed his schoolboy career with a 22-point attack.

Even impartial officiating wouldn't have helped the losers much, although they did lose Bill Strine in the third canto after two dubious calls.

Shiloh falters in stretch, Bellville wins title

A big second half brought Coach Tony Mega's Bellville High cagers the Richland county league championship Friday night.

The Blue Jays flew past Shiloh's Lions, 73 to 58, before a packed house in Creveling school, Mansfield.

Fred Garber and Clyde Benninghoff resisted the Lions' efforts to clinch their wings. They got 19 points between them in the last period. Garber had 24, Benninghoff 25 for the night.

Warriors go down to league defeat at Greenwich, 71-60

A big third-quarter effort by Greenwich's Shamrocks brought them a revenge victory over Huron Valley's Warriors in a Huron-Erie league contest there Friday night.

Final score was 71 to 60.

TED FOX WAS HIGH SCORER for the night with 22. Greenwich, said by Dr. E. E. Littenbarger, was 2.3 points inferior to the visitors, led at the half, 34 to 32.

Village meets monthly payroll by borrowing

Village payroll in Monroeville was met last week only because $1,000 advance in tax money was obtained from the Huron county auditor.

Meanwhile, in a front paged letter to the editor of the Spectator, an indignant Monroeville housewife protested the retention of two full-time patrolmen on the payroll of the village of only 1,200. "It seems to me," she wrote, "the village councilmen should operate our village finances with the same intelligence they use in operating their own family budgets."

MONROEVILLE ANNOUNCED last week it has landed a new $50,000 bakery and distribution center for baked goods. Construction starts in the spring.

WELLINGTON IS LAUNCHING a drive to raise funds for a 25-bed community hospital, copied after that in Crestline.

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

The Fackler farm in Plymouth East road may be the scene of the American Bow Hunters' Ohio tournament in May. Huron Valley Bowmen learned last week. President and district leader of the Bow Hunters came here to inspect the range with Roger Miller, Thomas Henry, Robert Kennedy, Paul Kale and John Lafayette.

They'll do it all over again tonight, at Mansfield Madison gymnasium, this time.

Shiloh's Lions will battle Bellville for the right to participate in the finals of the Richland county tourney.

The luck of the draw went against Coach Harold Darp's team this year.

AS MISFORTUNE WOULD HAVE IT, the Lions were drawn into the upper bracket. So perz Coach Tony Mega's Blue Jays.

The finals could be an anticlimax to what is certain to be one of the better contests of the season heretofore.

The Jays should be due for an off night, if they're like any of the other clubs we've seen this year.

And the Lions, plucky throughout the season, ought to have a hot night.

MONDAY NIGHT, THE vaunted Shiloh forecourt pair of George Poffenbaugh and Craig Harnly was limited to only two field goals. That's unusual. Heck, it ain't right.

Poffenbaugh and Harnly are better ball players than their performance of Monday night indicated. Tonight may be when the worm turns.

In Fred Garber and Clyde Benninghoff the Jays have two of the best schoolboy players in these parts.

ISN'T IT UNUSUAL THAT Bellville, a town no bigger than this one, and whose school system is only slightly larger, should have such a strong run of outstanding boys, athletically speaking, for so long?

WHAT'S THE REASON? Just luck?

The caliber of basketball in the lower bracket is, on season record, anyway, inferior to that in the upper one. But this tournament being what it is, and has been for over a quarter of a century, anything can happen.

For the O. T. 's dough, watch Shiloh tonight. We figure the Lions'll roar in by five points.

Hindleys in long line of farmers

The Clarence Hindley farm in Greenfield township, hard beside Route 61, is the childhood home of the grey-haired farm wife who lives on it now.

Matter of fact, the families of both Mr. and Mrs. Hindley are Huron county folk, for as long as there has been settlement in the region.

THE HINDLEYS CAME again to live on the 84-acre place in 1937, after many years near North Fairfield, where they belong to the Fairfield grange.

When she was a girl, the road was inferior to what it is now. And there wasn't any electricity.

When she came back, the road was improved. And there was electricity.

"Ordinarily, I'd say a good new road would be something to grow about," says Mrs. Hindley, stroking the silk coat of her handsome collie, Cinderella. "But that electricity certainly takes the cake!"

WITH ELECTRICITY CAME the telephone. And the Hindleys were always sorry that, for telephone purposes, their farm was thrown into the Willard exchange.

"All our friends and all our kin live over Fairfield way, and when we were put on the Willard exchange, it was a long distance call to reach them," says Mrs. Hindley. "Besides, the phones didn't work very well when they were put in."

With their family grown up, the Hindleys are stand-by farmers. They're four head of milking cattle, a few sheep and a hog.

The sheep and the milk and a hog or two meet the expenses of farm living," they say.

Despite the fact their children are grown, the Hindleys take a keen interest in the public schools.

"There've been folks around here with papers to sign four or five times now," they assert, "and there'll probably be more. For our part, we thought the consolidation with Plymouth was a good thing and we sort of wanted to see the new school built on the Hawkins' property. But now it looks like Plymouth doesn't want that any more."

"And first Willard was taking the junior high pupils from Steuben, then they weren't taking them. It's better to find a home and stay there."

Did you know the pineapple most likely originated in the West Indies? For years, I considered it an invention of the Dole family of Hawaii. But history proves me wrong. Columbus is supposed to have brought it from the island of Guadeloupe to Spain.

After several centuries, a sea-going captain carried them from Jamaica to Hawaii and opened the first cannery. Since then Hawaii and pineapples seem to go together.

Some night when you have some particularly nice looking veal chops, try them in a pineapple. Brown them lightly in a little melted shortening. Then arrange them with a pineapple slice on top, pour a cup of juice over them, cover and simmer until done.

ANOTHER NIGHT when you have some nice slices of liver, beef or if you are plain rich, use veal, brown it quite thoroughly so that it is almost cooked through. Then add about a cup or more of sour cream which has chopped onion in it. Serve it cold. It's tasty.

Liver cooked with a little bacon, chopped onions and ordinary red wine can be good, too. The wine has a tendency to tenderize the meat, and gives it a nice flavor at the same time. Saute the liver first in a small amount of shortening, add the bacon, onion, and about a fourth of a cup of wine. If you need more liquid to let it simmer, add a little water.

ALL THESE TIDBITS CAME out of my head, but it is amazing how much you can pick up from an evening of reading an accumulation of newspapers and magazines. The next time you must wait for a 10-year-old to come home from a school dance, read. It did my heart good to read that stamp collecting is the favorite hobby of youngsters between the ages of eight and 15. A study of 175,000 children showed this. Dolls were listed as second, with tags and labels, model making, autographs, handicrafts, painting, photography, match box covers and post cards following.

THE SAME CHILDREN agreed that apple pie was their favorite dessert. Ice cream came second. Mothers should note that lemon meringue pie, fruit, gelatin, sponge cake, cookies, rice pudding, pumpkin pie, and doughnuts ranked in the first 10.

It was no surprise to note that potato chips were listed first among the vegetables but how anyone in his right mind would vote for spinach as a second choice is beyond me. Lettuce was listed as 10th, which probably explains why one of my children hates salads. String beans, tomatoes, potatoes, beets, carrots and asparagus were voted in the

10. Hamburgers are truly American, and naturally ranked first among the meats. Chicken lamb stew, pot roast, frankfurters, roast beef, ham, turkey, pork and steak came next. I will bet anything that a study of adult likes and dislikes would show the meats in reverse.

BOTH BOYS AND GIRLS listed basketball as their favorite sport. The girls chose tennis as second and the boys took football. Swimming ranked third in both groups. The girls showed they like hockey as their fourth choice while the boys took ice skating. Baseball was fifth for the boys, and the girls apparently have no use for it at all. They chose ice skating as fifth.

THIS ALL SOUNDS SO NORMAL, doesn't it? To us it is. We live with it and can understand it. To the rest of the world it isn't so easy to understand. The other night I heard Henry Orlendorf speak. He is an exceptional person. To many his name is known and to many, it is unknown. He came to this country from Hitler's Germany in 1938 and found a home. During the years since, he made his place in our life. He directs a number of settlement houses and recreational groups in greater Cleveland.

He knows how great a country we really are, he is trying to show us in the best light possible to representative people from other lands. For the last two years, he has been instrumental in bringing youth leaders from various countries who live in Cleveland homes and work in summer camps and recreational centers for four months. Mr. Orlendorf feels that this is the best way and easiest to show the young people of other countries exactly how wonderful we are. But, and it is a big but, he says we have one great fault. Sometimes we think we are too perfect, and we forget that we are still striving toward a higher goal.

The day that everyone is friends with his neighbor, the day that we work not only for ourselves, but each other, and the day we know we can still do better, then we can sit back and gloat. There will be no Little Rocks, which are so difficult for the rest of the world to understand. They will understand, too, when a Vangauri native to bust ge a nine inch inch. It is so hard to admit that we aren't quite perfect, and Mr. Orlendorf thinks that we will be sitting on the top rung, if only we would break down and admit we are wrong occasionally. It does give you food for thought, doesn't it?

But still, the kids like hamburgers and apple pie, so there is still hope. You can't think on an empty tummy.

Miss Vogel wed to Ralph McKelvey in church rites

In a formal wedding gown of bridal satin designed by Jessica of Pandora, Miss Sandra Lois Vogel became the bride of Ralph B. McKelvey Saturday at 7 p.m. in First Evangelical Lutheran church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert F. Hall before the altar decorated with two beauty baskets of carnations and lighted by candlelight. Mrs. Robert R. Ross, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love," "O Promise Me" and The Lord's Prayer, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Guthrie at the organ.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE BY her father, the bride wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. Her gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline set off with genuine Alencon lace, reem-broidered with small pearls. At the waist was a wide insert in a medallion of lace, also embroidered in sequins and pearls. The gown was closed down the back with tiny satin buttons and the long sleeves tapered over the wrists and closed with tiny buttons.

The full circular skirt lay over several crinolines and fell into a chapel train.

She carried white carnations and lilies of the valley, clustered about a white orchid.

THE DAUGHTER OF THE Clarence W. Vogels of 126 West High street, she was attended by Miss Carol Anne Evans of this place as maid of honor and the Misses Diann Kay Vogel and Kareen Buurma, sister and cousin, respectively, as bridesmaids. Another sister, Pamela, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids and flower girl were attired in similarly fashioned gowns of ballet blue, trimmed in romance blue, styled in the princess fashion, with gowns with yokes in the bodices. Portrait style necklines and deep scallops in the deeper blue shade set into the skirts completed their costumes. They carried white carnations and lilies of the valley.

THE BRIDEGROOM, THE son of the Gien McKelveys of New Haven, was attended by his brother, Robert, Willoughby, Ubers were Durward Vogel, his new brother-in-law, and Gerald Shirey, Willard.

The bride's mother, who watched from the front pew, wore a blue-grey crepe dress with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a dark blue crepe creation with white accessories. Both wore white carnations.

A reception in the church annex followed the ceremony. A five-tiered cake was cut by the bride and served by Betty Lynch and Marjorie Paulo.

Miss Rose Alexander registered guests in the bridal book.

The bride chose a red princess style dress for her going away costume.

THE MCKELVEYS WENT to Niagara Falls, N. Y., for their honeymoon. They will be at home at 1017 Myrtle avenue, Willard, after Feb. 24.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth High school, the bridegroom of New Haven High school. She is employed by the Shelby Mutual Insurance Co., he by R. R. Donnelly & Sons Co., Willard.

WOULD A FENCE HELP?

If we could build a fence around the world, what would it mean?
Would we live happily with one another? Would we respect our limitations and still feel free within our confines? Would we stop wars, and know eternal peace?
Probably not. Because, while you can fence in physical objects, the minds, the hearts, and the souls of man cannot be harnessed. Nor could we be forced to live in peace. Blessed peace can come only to us through practicing the love, the faith, the tolerance and the understanding that God, through His Church on earth, tries again and again to teach us.
With that in mind, remember World Day of Prayer this year. Determine not to build a fence around yourself, or around anyone else—but to pledge, instead, to enlarge your horizons and the horizons of the entire world through the common voice of prayer.
And what better place in which to make such a pledge than the Church itself?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Wallaces lose effects in fire

Fire destroyed the one-and-a-half story frame dwelling of the John Wallaces in Ganges-Rome road a half mile south of Pome Friday afternoon.

One of the Wallaces' daughters discovered the fire upon returning home from school. She summoned the Shiloh Fire department, but the five-room house was all but consumed in flames when firemen arrived.

The Wallaces lost their entire household.

Seniors still seek chances to earn money for trip

With 10 per cent of their goal realized, seniors of Shiloh High school will continue the Saturday car wash, despite freezing weather, and are selling miscellaneous items.

These include hosiery, world's thinnest ribbon candy, a germ killer and room deodorizer, a pest killer, and tickets to their cake walk and hop Mar. 28.

GIMMICK HERE IS THAT each purchaser of a dance ticket gets a chance to win a 48-piece set of silver flatware.

And you don't have to be present at the drawing to win.

Thanks to a Shiloh service station proprietor, the seniors cleared $19 Saturday. And, in partnership with the Plymouth seniors, they realized $20 net from the Alice in Wonderland films shown Saturday.

Call any member of the class, Principal Harold Daup counsels, or leave word at his office for chores or sales.

Peyton Place

By Phineas Whittleseed

On Tuesdays, when the Little Woman is out of town, the fashion editor around here is P. Whittleseed, Esq.

And there came to him last week, on said day, a handsomely got up envelope addressed to the fashion editor, which he opened without much enthusiasm, because most of these communications are in the nature of not very thinly disguised appeals for free space promoting somebody's newest design for some form of female attire.

But this one was different. So different it bears comment.

THE LETTER, PERSONALLY SIGNED by the fashion stylist in a big city house of design, sought our opinions (the fashion editor's, that is) on a nifty doll clad in what, in our day, were called bloomers. Oh, they were fancily gotten up things, with eyelets and such all around where the elastic gathers up in ruffles at the thigh.

They peeked out from below what our daughter, all of nine, calls a hatching jacket. You must excuse the precociousness of our child: she hobbles about with the children of a doctor, whose experiences are enriched by his calling and whose subjects for conversation are, needless to say, the more interesting for it.

This thing, and we are not sure it was a thing, but that's as good a name as any, hung somewhat loosely around this nifty doll's midriff. It was fashioned a good bit like a flour sack with the bottom, or nearly all of the bottom, hacked out with sheep shears with two holes for the arms.

There were more eyelets across the buzzoom of this thing, and the nifty doll had quite a buzzoom, and what looked to us like a thin ribbon running in and out the eyelets, all around the nifty doll's buzzoom.

IT WAS AN ATTRACTIVE PRESENTATION, just the thing to pep up the interests of a jaded, tired old fashion editor—every-Tuesday-only.

The request for our opinions took the form of questions, which gave us something of a laugh when we read them, even more of a laugh when we couldn't sleep the other night because we had been awakened by the fire siren at 1:15 a.m., and are probably not worth a laugh at this late date. But this is what we answered.

"What," the first question said, "do you prefer for night wear, shorts (we took it these are called shorts) or nighties or pajamas? On whom, we asked. On us? Natch, we wrote down pajamas, big as life.

"Would you wear shorts if you were given some like these?" Decorum reared its ugly head, but we knocked it down and wrote, "They'd hardly become us, but in a pinch, yes."

"Do you like the eyelet effect across the bodice (we suspected this meant buzzoom)?" To this we responded, "The hairs would protrude."

"These shorts are made of washable orlon-nylon and can be rinsed in the morning and hung up to dry, certain to be fresh and silky by night-fall. Is this attractive to you?" We defeated the urge to write down, "It's all right, so long as they are left hanging", on account of that wouldn't be nice, and we wrote, "Immaterial. Can afford more than one set and so could wait until clothes get back from laundry. Also, do not change more than twice a week."

FINAL QUESTION, WHICH SET US BACK a peg, was, "Will you accept a pair of these lovely, new shorts with our compliments, to wear and to cherish as your very own?"

Truth to tell, we said yes, we would. And we can just see the gentlemen in blue as the Yew-Ess Pee-Oh giggling their heads off when we sign for this package.

But what will the Little Woman say?

A GROCER FRIEND OF OURS BLEW HIS stack the other day. He was mad, and we think justifiably, because he had just received a correct report that a customer of his, who's in to him for a goodly sum, had cashed his unemployment compensation check at another grocer's and paid cash for his victuals. Until a better one comes along, this takes the cake for brass!

HEARD ABOUT THE BALLPLAYER WHO got hungry on a scheduled air flight from New York to Kansas City? It was Friday, and the menu featured filet mignon.

He moaned he couldn't touch it, on account of his religious scruples.

"But," said his buddy, "there's a special dispensation that applies when you're in the air and working."

"Mebbe so," said the slugger, peering out the window at space, "but we're too close to headquarters to take any chances."
