

Seven graduates to receive 'with distinction' diplomas

Seven graduates among the 71-member Class of 1960 will be graduated with distinction, Principal Wayne H. Strine announced yesterday.

Another 13 will be graduated with merit. "Distinction" means the graduate maintained a grade point average of 3.5 or more

(4.0 is perfect) and "merit" means the graduate has a grade point average of more than 3.0 but less than 3.49. The co-valedictorians, Ruth

A. Fitch and Joan Ballitch, lead the group of "distinction" graduates. Third - ranking member of the class is Martha Wilson. Other "distinction" graduates are (in alphabetical order) Judith A. Broderick, Charlotte Dyer, Larry F. Keinath and Patsy A. Pagel.

"Merit" graduates, also listed alphabetically, are Donna Arnold, Richard Bookwalter, Margaret Dawson, Michael DeWitt, Joyce Harnly, Carol Hunter, Edwin Kranz, Nancy

Lewis, Nancy C. Miller, LaVonne Port, Phillip Ramey, Mary Jane Stroup and William Taylor.

Mathematics, science courses to be revised; Shiloh plans OK'd

A study of the mathematics and physical science curriculum in Plymouth High school was ordered May 11 after Supt. M. J. Coon told the Board of Education there are some inconsistencies in it.

The plane geometry course is too Euclidian, Coon said. It spends too much time and effort in developing proofs which, according to Euclid, are supposed to teach a pupil to reason. Plane geometry as now offered, he added, interrupts the continuity of the algebra program, since it comes between algebra I and II.

An accelerated mathematics program for those wishing to prepare themselves for engineering and scientific careers was suggested.

The high school science program, Coon told the board has become outmoded because an elementary science program has been developed. Ninth grade science is mostly a resume of what has been offered in lower grades.

The high school science program is satisfactory, Coon asserted, but an advanced course for academically talented pupils should be offered in addition to general science, biology, chemistry and physics.

He recommended a five-unit science program be investigated and instituted if found to be feasible. In this recommendation the board concurred.

Mrs. C. David Rish was hired to execute the school census at a salary of $200.

Miss Roberta Owens, with two years of experience at Shiloh and one at Monroeville, was hired to teach sixth grade in Shiloh Elementary school.

A fifth grade teacher there and a junior high mathematics instructor at Shiloh are needed to complete the staff.

Daughter of the William E. Root, she finished first among the girls who entered the contest for skillful driving.

With Jerry Barber, a Shelby High school student, she will enter the state competition at Warren June 5.

Lois awards will be presented June 8.

these rates: Charles Guthrie and Harry Aumond, $4,200; Carl C. Carnahan, $3,900; Marion Hughes, $3,800.

Plans for the new Shiloh Elementary school building were approved Tuesday night by the Board of Education.

Bids will be received June 16.

The building to house 240 pupils in the first four grades, will be ready for the 1961-62 school year.

Before the board took official action, it heard Crawfis say test borings show that sand and gravel underlie the site to a depth of 15 feet. As a result the footings are so designed to be wider rather than deeper. When questioned by Mrs. Miles Christian if there would be much "settling of the building and cracks resulting," he said the type of building designed and the top layer of soil is "very adequate." He added, "It's a good thing we didn't plan on a two story building."

Initially, the site plans called for the removal of a large elm tree.

Upon closer look, the tree is a maple in good condition and will remain. "It will add a great deal to the play area," he said.

Mothers of the pupils, so often called upon to help the schools out with money-raising projects for "extras," can have a sigh of relief over this building. The multi-purpose room will have pull draperies for the wall of windows. These are included in the general contract. Portable collapsible tables will be used in the room, rather than the type which are in the Plymouth Elementary building.

The multi-purpose room will be approximately the same size as that in the Plymouth building. The stage will be three feet high, thus allowing storage space underneath. The windows in this room will extend from the floor three quarters of the way to the ceiling, giving the effect of spaciousness.

Two classrooms to house the first grade are slightly larger than the others and will have their own lavatories. Eventually, the first room can be converted into a kindergarten, since it opens into a small area for a playground and has its own entrance.

Alternates in the bids call for a canopied loading platform for deliveries and also for the blacktopping and extension of Mechanic street around the baseball field on a one-way basis.

A motion to purchase approximately four acres of the Ferrell property with the "right of egress to school property" at $500 an acre was approved.

To celebrate the conclusion of planning a building program, members were guests of their colleague, Gerald Stanley, who served coffee and coffee cake in the school kitchen.

W. C. Holmes dies; hit by NYC freight

His truck demolished by a New York Central freight train at the Malone road crossing 1.3 miles north of Shiloh, a 79-year-old Plymouth route 1 man died in flames at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Walter Carl Holmes, who lived on a farm in Route 98, drove his light truck onto the tracks from the northwest into the path of the eastbound train operated by Alan Dent, North Ridgville.

Although there are no gates or flashers at the crossing, it is amply marked by white cross-edsignposts.

Impact of the locomotive crushed the truck and pierced the fuel tank, whose contents spread over the wreckage, ignited and consumed it in flame. Holmes' badly burned body was found in the debris. Two sons, Edwin, at home, and Raymond, Willard, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Shott, Los Angeles, Cal., survive. There are two grandchildren.

A funeral service was conducted from the McQuate Funeral home Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery, Bucyrus.

Firehouse bids get approval

Contracts for construction of a new $39,000 firehouse were awarded Tuesday night as village council completed details of sale of councilmanic bonds for that amount.

McDougal & McFarland, Galion, will perform the general construction for $25,550. G. T. Morrow, Milan, received the plumbing contract at $1,295 and the heating work at $1,488. Tom O'Donnell, Norwalk, will perform electrical work at $2,600.

Resolutions to pay Architect Thurman J. Peabody a total of 75 per cent of his fee now and to pay the remainder of the purchase price of land to Edward O. and Lois Ramsey won prompt approval.

Ludwig Moving Co., Berwick route 1, received a contract for $943.20 to move the present frame firehouse to a new site. Advertising of bids for materials and labor to lay 1,700 feet of six-inch black cast iron pipe to extend a water main in West Broadway was approved.

Mayor William Fazio told the council he dislikes the repair of sidewalks with macadam and asked the present ordinance be rescinded. Some councilmen balked. John T. Dick said the ordinance was approved because many residents whose walks were in disrepair asked for approval of the macadam method.

Fazio was not satisfied with this explanation but said he would table the matter until he is able to adduce stronger argument.

Thomas F. Root was told that trees in the tree lawn in front of his house are his responsibility and the council cannot accede to his request to share the cost, estimated at $350, of their removal.

Hilliards man called to Methodist pulpit

The Rev. Irving M. Farnsworth, a minister of 27 years' experience, will begin Sunday new duties as pastor of Plymouth and Shiloh Methodist churches.

He will preach his first sermon here and at Shiloh Sunday. His topic is laid upon I Corinthians 13, verse 13: "And now abideth faith, hope and charity, but the greatest of these is charity."

The Rev. Mr. Farnsworth studied religion in the Owosso, Mich., Bible college and later in the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He took his baccalaureate degree from the University of Grand Rapids, Mich. In connection with duties as a juvenile court probation officer, he studied law in the University of Detroit's college of law.

He comes here from a charge as minister of Hilliards Community church. Hilliards is a burgeoning suburb of Columbus. The Rev. Mr. Farnsworth is a member of the Hilliards Ministerial association and of the Columbus Area Council of Churches. He has been active in the Optimists club, a service organization of which he was a charter member.

Post office conducting annual survey of rural mail boxes, offers suggestions

Rural mail patrons are asked to meet minimum standards of the Post Office department during Rural Mail Box Improvement week ending Saturday.

Postmaster Raymond L. Brooks and Carrier Donald J. Ford, who's served Plymouth route 1 for over three decades, urge patrons to observe these standards:

1. Posts should be securely erected; they should not lean; box should be fastened securely.

2. Boxes should be replaced if carrier encounters difficulty in placing mail in it or in seeing letters to be mailed.

3. Patron's name should be legibly painted on box so as to be visible from side which carrier approaches.

4. Bottom of small box should be 42 inches above level of turn-out and box should be mounted on an arm extending away from post so carrier can reach it under all weather conditions; bottom of large box should be 38 inches from level of turn-out.

5. Accessway should be free of ruts and potholes.

Carrier Ford serves rural boxes 305 days a year. He says his job is lightened if post boxes are properly mounted and kept in condition.

"I'll be happy to offer suggestions to any of my patrons who may wish them," Ford says.

How Would You Say Ohio's Gas Rates Compare?

Overall, in the United States, Residential Gas Rates are 28% Higher than in Ohio. . . . Residential Rates in Ohio are Lower by Far than in other Midwest States

Gas rates in Ohio are among the lowest in the nation.*

Look at how much higher residential rates are in these other nearby states:

Indiana, 38% higher; Illinois, 51% higher; Michigan, 35% higher; Wisconsin, 80% higher; Iowa, 18% higher, and Minnesota, 35% higher.

Ohio's residential rates are even comparable to those in Texas, by far the nation's largest producer of natural gas.

Why?

The key is underground storage. During summer, natural gas produced in the Southwest is piped to Ohio and pumped into huge underground storage reservoirs developed here by your gas company. In winter the gas is withdrawn from storage as needed to help meet heating demands.

Because of underground storage, natural gas is available for house heating to hundreds of thousands of Ohio families who want year-around comfort and convenience — at moderate cost.

The George Schwemleys, New Washington; Mrs. Russell Smith and Mrs. Lewis Moon, Tiro, also were present.

A king-size birthday cake and ice cream highlighted the observance. Mrs. Thrush maintains a strong interest in her family and friends and her church.

PHSAA hits goal (and how) with self-help-value-delivered

Happily facing the 1960 football season with all bills paid, Plymouth High School Athletic association will celebrate "our most successful year in history" at a picnic in Mary Fete park tomorrow at 6 p. m.

All members whose dues are paid-up are invited, says Adviser William Flaherty. "There will be free food from 6 to 7 p. m. and dancing from 7:30 to 10 p. m., supervised by members of the teaching staff."

The personable physical education instructor says he's proud of PHSAA's record this year.

"We started out to make $1,000," Flaherty avow. "We actually made a bit over $2,000. And we did it with self-help and giving our supporters value for their contributions."

He cited these activities and earnings:

Membership dues, $100;
Magazine subscription campaign, $700;
Football concession stand, $225;
Advertising in basketball programs, $240;
Sale of football and basketball programs, $150;
Homecoming dance, separate dance and cake walk, sale of candy, collecting of sales tax stamp premiums, scrap drive and sale of ballpoint pens, $755.

Officers of PHSAA are Duane Baker, president; Daniel Carter, vice-president; Joyce Harnly, secretary, and Judith Amstutz, treasurer.

"There were many who worked hard to put us over our goal," Flaherty says, "but these boys and girls in particular deserve much credit: Duane Baker, Richard Bookwalter, Patricia Kieffer, Dixie Fortney, Susan Wolfersberger, Joyce Harnly, Steven Patterson, Craig Harnly, and Judith Amstutz, seniors; Barbara Gullett, Hilda Elliott, Virginia Burren, Carol Noble, Charles Huston, Judith Fetters, Jane Hamman, James Russell and Carol Postema, juniors; Billy Young, James Fetters, JoAnn Butler, Karen Huston and Susan Ferguson, sophomores."

With the end of the 1959-60 season approaching, PHSAA owes no bills. "We're square with the board, the bleachers in the gymnasium are paid for, in part with PHSAA funds, and all expenses of the athletic program for the school year and back debts are paid; we don't owe anybody anything. Except of course, the board of education, the school administration, the many folks in Plymouth and Shiloh and neighboring towns who pitched in when we asked them to help — without them we couldn't have made it!"

THE PLYMOUTH Advertiser

On manliness, and morality

The American people weren't quite ready for the announcement of Mr. Herter that we have been engaging in clandestine espionage. It has been going on for longer than the government has admitted and, indeed, necessarily so.

And it seems natural to us that given a situation where the searcher for information is green, inexperienced and even somewhat naive about the realities of international intelligence organization, inexperience should trip him up.

Because we are green, we are inexperienced and we are naive. They are American characteristics, less so perhaps in other fields than international intelligence, and we have to live with them.

It is particularly unfortunate that we should be exposed on the eve of the summit conference. The exposure, and the song we are sure Mr. Powers will be made to sing, will embarrass Mr. Eisenhower, to say the least.

When one is caught out, as the British say, there is but one course to take: own up to it like a man, apologize if an apology is asked for, mend such ways as require mending, and go on as before.

There are some ways that, to our way of thinking, require mending. One of them is that somebody ought to be man enough to take the responsibility for such surveillance flights, whether licit or illicit, and stand up and be counted when there is praise to be given or criticism to be received.

For our part, we can stomach the fact that Powers — and apparently others — have been engaging in provocative acts. What we can't stomach is what seems to us to be a weak-sister attitude from Washington that Powers or another slightly higher in the echelon of command planned this flight without the approval of a person of responsibility whose name and station are known to all.

The Republican party has control of the executive branch of the government. The executive branch has erred, and erred badly, in a stupid example of brinksmanship. There are many who won't forget it come November. Especially if the Republicans should nominate Mr. Nixon, already announced by Mr. Eisenhower as his "stand-in" for the summit conference and admittedly briefed by him for the role.

Suzie sez

Sunday was the day when everybody had a new hat. Mine was a living dream. Mom's was hand-made, from a couple of things she had stored away. I liked it very much.

Everybody had a new hat except Pop.

He has three hats. One of them he wears only in colder weather and every time he wears it, people ask him where he's going to preach. For it is a preacher's hat.

Another one is a hat that he wears only in the summer and it is not summer yet.

The third one is a hat that he likes very much. Mom says it is disreputable. It looks like he slept on it. The brim goes every which way. The band is crooked. And it has a stain on the crown.

This does not bother Pop very much. He says the hat is good enough to wear in bad weather or when his head is cold.

But Mom doesn't think so. So she hides the hat and once she tried to throw it in the dump. Only Pop found it and brought it back home. His feelings were hurt.

After all, he said, he ought to be able to wear a hat that's a wreck from long use when women, including Mom, wear hats that are wrecks by design.

THE BAD WORD IN CHIP'S language this week is Frank Lane. I didn't understand it at all until Pop explained it and I will try to make it brief. Mr. Frank Lane is the big boss of the Cleveland Indians. He traded a player named Colavito, whom Chip liked a lot, for another player from Detroit named Kuenn. Chip says Kuenn couldn't knock his way out of a wet paper sack. Now he's going to root for Kansas City.

Population jump to give officials salary increases

For nine elected officers of Huron county, preliminary census figures reflecting a 15 per cent increase in the county's population will mean salary increases, ultimately amounting to $14,516 annually.

Auditor Bernard F. Kean says new pay rates for the nine whose terms begin Jan. 1 will be these:

Auditor, $6,400, up $1,000; treasurer, $6,200, up $1,100; sheriff, $5,750, up $300; clerk of courts, $6,000, up $1,700; recorder, $5,500, up $1,000; commissioners, $4,200, up $800; prosecutor, $5,650, up $1,150; coroner, $1,800, up $600; probate judge $11,193.94, up $2,932.76; common pleas judge, $11,193.94 up $2,332.76.

State of Ohio's share in probate judge's salary will now be about $7,000, instead of $5,000.

Auditor's raise doesn't become effective until Jan. 1, 1962, that of common pleas judge until Jan. 1, 1964.

Red trails Ontario in county

See Barker for Olds, Chevy

Only those automobiles prepared to meet the most severe challenges of a demanding public can hope to hold their present market position, or gain any supremacy in the future. This is no time to deal in questionable products whose superiority cannot be quickly and unequivocally proved by past performance.

With Chevrolet and Oldsmobile lines, F. G. Barker, Inc., Main and Broadway, Shelby, Tel. Shelby 5-1010, is ready to meet and match all competition.

Among models of these two lines is a car to fit every desire and budget. "There's a Rocket to Fit Your Pocket" is no mere slogan. Oldsmobile models have been planned to meet every demand of luxury, performance and economy. Quality built, quality sold and quality service, the Oldsmobile you select from F. G. Barker, Inc. will give you distinctive styling, designed to blend smoothly with the mechanical excellence that has always characterized its road performance.

"More people drive Chevrolets than any other car." in the big-car market! Chevrolet now invades the lively small-car field with the revolutionary Corvair. The Corvair offers the maximum in spacious, distinctive body style, together with rear-engine drive, air-cooled motor, and the Unipack Power Team that combines engine, transmission and axle into one compact rear-mounted unit for maximum performance and economy of operation.

"Shelby's Friendliest Dealer," F. G. Barker, Inc., is directed by Fred Barker, president.

Barker's operates a service and repair department second to none. Maintenance and repair work is done by factory-trained mechanics.

Tanner specialist in organ sales, service; piano, too

The urge to create music is as old as man. Two of the most effective mediums of its expression are the piano and organ. Whether listening to the demonstrated artistry of another, or enjoying the exquisite pleasure of playing a really fine piano or organ, everyone acknowledges their unique position in the world of musical instruments.

Time was when no home was considered complete without either a piano or organ. Much of our modern nerve tension and inability to relax would be relieved if more homes returned to such a plan. Both the piano and organ furnish an ideal medium for the study and enjoyment of music.

With a background of more than 20 years' experience playing with dance bands throughout the country, Dale R. Tanner is well qualified as distributor of fine musical instruments, featuring a complete line of both new and used organs and pianos in a price range to suit every budget.

Mr. Tanner has a sincere interest in the musical culture and education provided for both children and adults in the area he serves.

Located two miles south of Attica in Route 4, Tel. Attica 6-3166, Tanner Piano & Organ sales always has on display a wide variety of models and makes in both pianos and organs. Time-honored are provided in every style and model, as well as used instruments for all purposes. Expert tuning and repairing is also furnished.
