Is Huron county swept by wave of delinquency?

Is Huron county in the throes of a massive wave of juvenile delinquency?

Juvenile Judge Don J. Young, Jr., thinks so. Latest experience of the veteran borister: 60 Willard school children were summoned with their parents to an informal hearing in Judge Young's courtroom Friday. The charge: failure to pay for school work books.

The action was controversial. Some parents protested they didn't know their children owed the money. One is said to have announced, "The bill was less than $2. I laid off work to come to this court today and it cost me $25. If I'd known the kid owed the bill, I'd have paid it."

Some parents blamed Willard school officials for failure to send home with the pupils effective notice of the obligation to pay the bills.

But Judge Young told the parents they are obligated to pay for the school work books, said they'd have to do so by Tuesday of this week, and told them they'd have to pay for new work books next school term.

The action came on the heels of a startling development in the county seat.

Some 70 Norwalk boys between the ages of 11 and 16 have been apprehended, Norwalk police say, in a petty thievery and shoplifting ring.

Police and juvenile court attaches suggest some of the shoplifting developed because the boys were not compelled by their parents to take their lunches in the school cafeterias.

"The children have some pocket money and they go out at lunch time and buy a package of potato chips and a soft drink and congregate in numbers at such places," they say, "and before you know it somebody has shoplifted something of value."

Previously, Judge Young had circularized Huron county school executives with instructions on the handling of cases in which minor females attending school become pregnant.

It's against the law, Young told the school executives in a meeting they later asked for, and school authorities should be prompt to report to the juvenile court any instances of this kind.

Seville editor speaks up: 'psychology for punks?'

(Ed Note: The column reproduced below is by Lee Cavlin, prize-winning editor of the Seville Chronicle. It's one man's opinion of how to cope with juvenile delinquency.)

THERE'S a cheap sort of crime wave wafting into town this spring. The Chidsey family heard a clang outside their windows about five in the morning one day this week, and looked out to see two young fellows removing hub caps from the Chidsey automobile.

Bill called out the window to them, but the men didn't say to talk. Investigating sheriff's department men estimated the would-be thieves left the price of at least one hub cap in burnt rubber on the pavement as they jumped in their own car and left town.

If anyone wants to tell me that society is at fault for not providing these innocent young chaps with "something to do" at five in the morning, I'll suggest some place for them to go.

Two seniors given state certificates

Only two graduates of the 71-member Class of 1960 which received diplomas Thursday night qualified for the state certificate, an award of the Ohio Department of Education attesting to the satisfactory completion of a stiff academic course.

Gerard Tomas Shaarda, son of the Tom Shaardas, Jr., Celeryville, and Charlotte Dyer, daughter of the Kermit Dyers, Shiloh route 2, received certificates attesting they completed one unit of health, four units of English, and three units each of mathematics, physical science, social studies and foreign language.

Owing to an afternoon downpour, commencement exercises were conducted in the auditorium. A number of parents and friends were unable to find seats in the building, despite the fact the band was dismissed to provide additional seating.

Rain halts parade, school site of rites

Heavy rain for the first time in 10 years washed out the annual Memorial day parade here Monday.

Exercises were conducted, instead, in Plymouth High school auditorium, where a near capacity crowd heard Ernest L. Henes, veteran publisher of the Wellington Enquirer, say the safety of the nation depends upon the watchfulness of the individual citizen.

He counseled the audience to walk in the ways of God and brotherly love and said that although men and women laid down their lives without special thought of what they were leaving to posterity, "what they made is what we have, and we owe it to them to be faithful to that trust."

Jealousy and selfishness, Henes said, subverted all wars and he urged people and nations to overcome these base emotions.

Barrie Fetters recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address and Miss Dixie L. Fortney recited John Macrae's "In Flanders Fields."

A firing squad commanded by Sgt. Billy Vanderpool fired three volleys from the baseball stadium outside the school and taps were sounded from Mary Fate park by Judith A. Broderick.

Remember the first stop lights? Sure you do! Remember how everyone wondered how those three little lights on an iron pole would be able to control the great, noisy surges of traffic that rolled by busy city corners and quiet country crossroads.

But they did. Red, yellow, green. One, two, three...

All that you had to remember was this:—"Don't get your signals mixed!"

Very few of us get our signals mixed on stop lights these days. They are too much a part of our daily life. Yet our lives are mixed up over so many other important things—things a stop light can't solve.

But your church can—if you give it a chance. For thousands of years there have been churches to help people keep their minds clear, their faith strong, their signals straight.

You know what to do at a crossroad. The traffic signal helps you. But do you know what to do at some of the other crossroads—the crossroads of your life?

Your church will help you there, if you will give it the chance and attend its services that are held for you.

Don't get your signals mixed. Let the church help you keep them straight.

The word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.
Psalm 119:105.

BOOSTING THE BUCKEYE STATE

Festmania is rampant in Ohio this year. Don't rush for the medical dictionary. It's not a disease, it's an urge to attend festivals.

Thousands of fiesta-loving Ohioans swarmed into Chardon last month for the Maple festival, which launched the 1960 festival season, and all records were broken. Next stop on the festival trail will be at Van Wert for the annual Peony festival, June 10-11.

Usual program will be enlarged this year since the American Peony society will be enlarged this year since the American Peony society will be holding its national convention in conjunction with the festival.

Put-In-Bay's annual Inter-Lakes regatta is an important sporting event with a festive background. This year the great spectacular of sails will be Aug. 7-11.

For those who get a bang out of marksmanship the Grand American Trap shoot will be at Vandalia, Aug. 22-26.

Ohio State Fair, which has been growing bigger and better every year for the past century, will be Aug. 26 - Sept. 2.

Jackson County Apple festival will be staged Sept. 21-24. Circleville's sterling street fair, the Pumpkin show, will be enhanced this year by the Pickaway County Sesqui-centennial celebration. The combined events will be conducted Oct. 19-22.

Somerset will revive the annual Pumpkin show this year on the old fairgrounds instead of the Public Square as in former years. The dates are Sept. 28 - Oct. 1.

Galion will hold its annual Good Neighbor day on Labor day as usual.

Ever attend a "Sesqui Sing" or see someone rive a shingle with a frog? It isn't live talk. It describes some of the big attractions scheduled for the Southeastern Ohio Hill Folk festival in Quaker City July 20-23. You will also see pottery being made on a potter's wheel, and cloth woven on a hand loom, just like in pioneer days. This year will be the 57th homecoming event for Quaker City and the sesqui-centennial of Guernsey county. The Sesqui Sing will feature songs the pioneers sang.

One of them is atomic energy. Not for power plant, but for control against deadly contamination.

Locomotives of PLM's manufacture, equipped with the remote control unit, could find valuable use in moving con-

The CR model — first one was produced in 1958 — is the design of G. Lyle Grabach of the engineering division and his co-workers. It has shaft drive to both axles and full power shifting through four speed ranges. Psychiatry for punks?

I'm getting a little tired of psychiatry for punks.

LAST MONTH it was a barrage of egg throwing. Two or more lads with access to more eggs or money to buy them than sense, amused themselves by spattering local homes and autos. There seemed no pattern to the attacks; possibly some of our overprivileged ones grew bored.

FOUR BOYS at large Monday night with two cars among them are lucky not to be facing manslaughter charges this week.

At loose ends about 11 o'clock that night, they hoisted the metal policeman which warns motorists they are in a school zone up the school flag pole.

Chief of Police Herman Perry walked over to release it, and the figure, which weighs about 100 pounds, came crashing to the ground. It missed Herman by inches.

PERHAPS I'm unreasonably bitter, but I'm sick of brats, grown or half-grown, who blame their sneaky little crimes — from drug racing to thrown eggs, on a cruel world that provides them with "nothing to do."

If youths really want something to occupy them, the town could furnish them with tooth brushes. They could use these to sweep the village streets.

The town could use the assistance, and they wouldn't look much sillier than the crew that gathers on downtown street corners on warm evenings to shout at passing motorists.

Suzie sez

The saddest story this week is what the little boy said to his father at the lake.

"I dropped the string, Pop. The fish are gone!"

A LADY I KNOW HAS A husband who works nights. She is afraid of the dark. When she hears a noise, she calls up a neighbor and asks him to come over to see what has happened, especially if it sounds like a prowler.

He came over one night at 3 a.m. And the neighbors saw the lights on and saw him leave the house.

He got scared. He thought the neighbor would talk about him to the lady's husband, who is bigger than he is. So he told the husband first.

The husband laughed about it but the neighbor didn't. "I'm too old to be a Boy Scout," he says. Humph!

POP TAKES A DIM VIEW of all the money they spend at Columbus. Not only for football players, either.

He says he has to pitch into the waste basket about two-thirds of the tripe they send him.

But now he is changing his mind.

He read in one thing this week that the way to wash a wall is to start at the bottom. Then you won't get streaks, which are hard to get out from the water dripping from the rag.

George says any dumb bunny ought to know that — he knows it.

I guess what this means is you're never too old to learn.

THE DECORATION DAY speaker came to our house for coffee. I wasn't there, but they tell me Chip came in and said he liked the man's speech. Mom was so proud of him because she didn't have to tell him in advance.

Chip's favorite patriotic poem this week goes like this: "Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never has stopped and to himself said, 'Emmmmm, not ba-a-d!'"

Loaded for trouble?

To the youngsters, a drive with the gang is great fun. But driving is serious business, too. Last year, nearly 40,000 people died in traffic accidents —many of them killed by drivers whose minds weren't wholly on their job. So stay alert every minute when you drive. Keep driving fun—and safe!

Help stop senseless killing on our highways. Drive safely yourself. Insist on strict law enforcement for your own protection. Work actively with others to support your local Safety Council. Remember—where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go down.

Eyes need top care

How fickle man is! The eye is the most delicate and often most abused organ of his body.

Because of its extreme sensitivity and ability to adjust to conditions, the eye is rarely treated with the degree of precautionary or protective care it deserves. Neglect of the eyes can age one prematurely, irritate the entire nervous system, and sometimes permanently damage the eye itself.

Safest way to avoid such difficulties is by regular periodic checking of the eyes by a qualified optometrist.

Dr. Glenn W. Stewart, 13 West Main street, Shelby, Tel. 2-1441, is one such.

A child whose eyesight is not quite up to par gives an appearance of slowness mentally, retarded ability to acquire knowledge, and a feeling of insecurity. Only way to be sure of a child's sight is to check it. Often corrective glasses worn in childhood can insure strong, effective vision in maturity. Even if correction is not possible, it is vitally important that existing sight be carefully guarded and preserved.

Wearing of glasses today is no longer a problem in personal appearance. Contact lenses, and the wide range of attractive frames and stylings available, have solved this problem.

Time to consult an eye expert is at the very first indication of strain or visual deficiency.

Dr. Stewart fits contact lenses. Office hours daily are from 9 a.m. to 12 M. and 130 to 5 p.m. except Wednesday when the office is closed all day.

Miss Alexander becomes bride of Fairborner in church rites

Miss Mary Ann Alexander became the bride of Carl Thomas Dowdy, Fairborn, at 10 a. m. Saturday in a double-ring ceremony performed in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church by the Rev. William Conces.

The bride is the daughter of the Vincent Alexanders, 127 West High street. The bridegroom is the son of the C. C. Dowdys, Murray route 1, Ky.

Two beauty baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar as the bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown designed by Sherry Gale, fashioned of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over Skinner's satin. The Basque bodice featured a portrait neckline and lily point sleeves. The floor-length skirt was cut in princess style, with front panels of lace. Nylon ruffles edged in lace fanned the back.

Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a queen's crown of Chantilly lace and pearls, with hand-rolled edge. She carried a cascade of white carnations with satin and ivy streamers.

Miss Rose Alexander, her sister, was maid of honor, in mint green taffeta cut in ballerina length. The bodice was fashioned with scoop neckline and cap sleeves and accented with a self-bow in front. She wore a matching colored headpiece.

JAMES VANDEN BOSCH, Dayton, was best man. Florian Brown, Monroeville, ushered. Wedding music was by Mrs. Mary Schodorf, Willard, the children's choir.

A reception at the bride's home followed the ceremony. Miss Ardell Bonecutter and Mrs. Dean Seaman greeted guests. The wedding cake, baked by Miss Margaret Erika, Shelby, was served by Miss Delores Bettac.

health protection from a grab bag

Grab-bag style, you buy what's available... good or bad, and often "sight unseen." Buying health supplies from nonprofessional sources—like supermarkets, door-to-door peddlers and mail-order houses—is really grab-bag buying. You can't be sure you're getting top-quality medical supplies or the ones you really need. Make all your health purchases from a registered pharmacist. We carry a complete line of quality health supplies. It's our business and professional responsibility to see that you get exactly what your doctor orders.
