

Accountability

The school establishment now settles upon "accountability" as the watchword for the '70s.

What's "accountability"?

It's a program of obtaining, reporting and analyzing results.

Some of which, be it said, has been going on now. The establishment says there ought to be more of it, and it ought to be better.

With which nobody could or should disagree.

What needs to be examined is how to achieve it and how to pay for it.

Surely a first step is to extend the carrot-and-the-stick philosophy that we apply to the pupil to his teacher. We expect the pupil to work hard and to achieve to the ceiling of his ability. Whereupon we reward him; conversely, we punish his classmate who does not work hard and who does not achieve as he is able.

We must embrace and encourage, and fund, a better system of rewards for the teacher who excels. And we must devise some fair and effective means of weeding out the teacher who does not excel.

A promotion-up or selection-out system seems called for. But we must not be entrapped by the falsehood of "teaching to the examination", which is what has occurred in some states where a standardized test is required for advancement of all pupils in each grade.

The establishment was asleep when it failed to apply at the high school guidance level procedures to steer prospective graduates away from the teaching profession. Ohio's state-supported schools produced almost 7,000 accredited teachers in 1970, for whom there are jobs for less than a fourth. We cannot afford further slumber.

"School climate," says an Ohio educator, "encourages conformity in teaching and learning patterns. The institution is overwhelming in the monotony of its daily schedule and methods of instruction." Goals must be stated in terms of the learner, a strategy for instruction to attain these goals should be developed, and there must be assessment comparing the results with the goals.

"There must be more 'individualizing' of education. This means collecting more information about the pupil and keeping it in an orderly profile. The pupil's progress should be gauged according to the attributes he has rather than to the average of a class.

"The schools are neglecting the obvious goal, which is to teach the child how to think. Our schools have rewarded conformity and dependency but have often punished thought."

These are truths that we have long thought to be self-evident. It is good that a man of courage has uttered them.

Teachers must forsake their abhorrence of efficiency ratings. We have a right to exact of every teacher the best performance possible. If not by him, then by another. We should devise suitable methods by which to measure that performance and improve instruction at every level.

Good teachers complain that the establishment is too unwieldy and too slow to react to change. They say "it's all but impossible to obtain approval of new, fresh ideas in instruction and in use of instructional material. . . Curricula always lag behind needs or demands."

The establishment tends to regard the whole problem as one of money. There is discontent as there has never before been discontent because the people who pay bills are not satisfied with the product.

And when the General Assembly closes Ohio's open door to state-supported colleges so that who staggers through a high school cannot, ipso facto, demand admission at Ohio State or Miami or Bowling Green or the other nine institutions, the fat will be in the fire.

Vandals enter grade school here

Police seek clues to the identity of vandals, believed to have been juveniles, who entered Plymouth Elementary school early Saturday and stole a flashlight, 30 cents from a soft drink dispensing machine in the teachers' lounge, two ice cream bars and half a bottle of soda.

Entry was made by breaking a window in an outside door of the kitchen. A window was broken in a door of the clerk's office and also in a door of the principal's office, where the flashlight was taken.

FFA observes national week

The Congress may in its wisdom change the national observance of the birthday anniversary of the first president, but members of the National Chapter, Future Farmers of America, are traditionalists.

They disregard the wish of Congress and observe the week of Feb. 22 -- George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732 -- as National FFA week, because Washington was the first famous farmer.

William Bloomfield is chairman of the local FFA committee to prepare the observance.

Farmers everywhere are dropping out because they can't stand the competition, but the some of Members of Plymouth's chapter look to futures in business-related agriculture for careers.

One praised, one rebuked

One councilman drew praise and another criticism Feb. 16.

THE CLERK WAS INSTRUCTED to forward a resolution to the Richland county auditor requesting an advance of $4,500 until tax money is available.

The auditor has notified the village that the first tax report for 1970 will not be available for distribution until about June.

Councilman Kenneth Echelberry said installation of the new telephone system for the department will begin Feb. 27. He attributed the early date to Councilman Robert Bachrach's efforts in spurring officials of Northern Ohio Telephone Co. Echelberry also said he was misquoted in two newspapers three weeks ago and he ought to make his statements in writing.

Both papers said the only key to the low test gasoline tank for village vehicles is kept by the administrator. Echelberry claimed he said the mayor also has a key.

Last game a 'buzzer' —

Bucks waltz to second win over Red

Plymouth stood and watched as Buckeye Central administered a sound 75 to 61 thumping here Saturday night in the season's finale for both teams.

The Big Red finished with a 10-and-8 record (8-and-6 in the Johnny Applesseed conference) while the Bucks, down this season but nevertheless twice conquerors of Plymouth, ended up with a 5-and-12 result.

What holds ill for Plymouth and its fans is that Buckeye Central, not supposed on paper to be much of a basketball team, twice handled Plymouth with ease and is a likely opponent in the Class A playoffs starting tomorrow at Malabar High school.

Plymouth faces Lucas, Buckeye Central opposes St. Peter's, whose coach, Bob Frey, was in the stands Saturday. He left just before the final buzzer, not a care on his mind face.

AND RIGHTLY SO, THE Spartans are down this season from what they were in the late 60s and in 1970. But they seem to have more than enough to deal with the first level of the sectional.

The Big Red stayed close for one period only. It was 21-and-20 with the nod to the Bucks after eight minutes. And then Plymouth came apart. The visitors continued to shoot well, made fewer mistakes and showed the result of sound coaching in scoring on Plymouth from inside.

John Conley and Tom Riedel matched scoring efforts in the first quarter with eight apiece.

But the Bucks widened the gap early in the second quarter and left at the half with an 11-point advantage.

THEY HELD OFF PLYMOUTH in each of the remaining periods. No man-

Loudonville hangs on over Red, 64-60

Plymouth outscored Loudonville for three periods here Friday night but couldn't stand prosperly, blew a slim fourth quarter lead and took a second defeat from the Redbirds, 64 to 60.

The Big Red was ahead with 5:31 on the clock, Brad Ream's theft and conversion having built a 52 to 50 advantage after Plymouth had come from behind for a second time. Rich Knight tied it at 5:17 with a jumper and at 4:45 Jeff Haudenschild canned two free throws to put the visitors into a lead they never gave up.

Plymouth closed to within three at 2:52 but could do no better.

Loudonville marched to the free throw line no less than 22 times and converted 18 tries. Plymouth had only six shots and made just two.

PLYMOUTH OUTSCOR- ed the Redbirds from the field, 29 to 23, although Loudonville had the bet- ter shooting percentage: 23 of 53 attempts, ver- sus 29 of 71 tries. Jim Curright collected 16 re- bounds to lead Plymouth to victory in that depart- ment, 40 to 34.

John Conley's play in the second period, had it been extended with con- sistency, would have broken all scoring rec- ords. He made seven field goals in the second quar- ter.

His total of 21 was tied by Carl Stritzlein for game honors. Curright had 15, Haudenschild 18, includ- ing 10 free throws, and Knight 14.

FOR THE REDBIRDS, the victory clinches sec- ond place in the Johnny Applesseed conference, where their record is 11- and-3 (over-all it's 13- and-4). The defeat was Plymouth's seventh over- all and sixth in the league. The Big Red has won 10 all told, eight in the JAC.

the chief of the medical staff and the chief of staff-elect may be voting members. Previously only the chief of the medical staff was a member. This will assure the presence of at least one physician at all board meetings, perhaps varying opinions on hospital affairs, and a continuing knowledge of actions of the board when the chief-elect becomes chief of the medical staff.

TWENTY EMPLOYEES were commended by the president of the board, Frank Buurma, for dedicated service to the hospital, and service pins and certificates were presented to them. Three women were lauded for 30 years of service, Ruth Meisner, Doris Hillis and Helen Seiple. Twenty-year pins went to Martha Elliott and Alice Marie Fowler. A 15-year pin went to Arlene Moll and 10-year pins to Darlene Moomaw and Helen Austin.

Those commended for five years of service were John H. Green Catherine Stacklin, Mary Lou Bordner, Delene N. Kennel, Zella Prater, Wilma Ross, Jean Marie Lindsay, Theresa Alt, Catherine Shafer, Neuvitas Goinis, Alice Babcock and Carolyn Ann Smith.

In the report of the administrator, Dick Falk, it was noted that three employees died during the year, Elsie Woods, Franklin Brownell and Lillian Miller.

THE $3 MILLION building program is underway, reported Walter Frederick, finance committee chairman, the program considerably higher financially than anticipated at the annual meeting in 1970. To continue the building program after the unexpected high bids were received, it was necessary to borrow $1,750,000 in revenue bonds, the highest amount recommended by the feasibility study. The total cash available for the program presently is $2,900, leaving a deficit of $100,000, included in this deficit amount is $63,000 for the nurse call system, $15,000 for x-ray equipment, and $5,000 for sterilizer equipment. Frederick pleaded for additional contributions to help make up this deficit.

Speaking of day-to-day operations of the hospital, Frederick said $100,000 is required each month to meet expenses. Max Arndt, building committee chairman, reviewed progress during 1970 and to date. Bids were opened June 10, the contract was signed Aug. 10, and construction was started Aug. 11. The building is now under cov-

Auditor checking house trailers for tax payments

A check of all house trailers in Huron county is now being conducted, in compliance with the Ohio Revised Code.

All house trailers on Jan. 1 are subject to an annual tax, payable by the owner, for the privilege of using or occupying a house trailer.

Some trailer owners erroneously believe if they do not occupy or use the trailer it is not subject to the tax.

Trailer owners who failed to register their trailer by Jan. 31, if the trailer was located in the county on Jan. 1, are subject to a fine of not less than $25, nor more than $50 in addition to the trailer tax and penalty. If the status of the trailer is acquired after Jan. 1, the owner then has 30 days from the date of acquiring a situs to register the trailer and payment of the tax is due in full at the time of registration.

Every operator of a house trailer court or park or every owner of property used for such purpose when there is no operator must keep a register of all house trailers which make use of the court, park or property. Trailer courts, or parks, or every owner of property used for such purpose who fail to keep such a register are subject to a fine of not less than $25, nor more than $100.

Trailer owners who have not registered their trailers must present an Ohio certificate of title, certified copy of an Ohio certificate of title, or an Ohio memorandum certificate of title when the trailer is registered at the county auditor's office and also at the county treasurer's office where the tax is paid.

His sister's name is properly spelled Clo, not Cleo.

His sisters, also surviving grandchildren, are Sandra and Kay, both of Shiloh, whose names were included in the line that was unintentionally dropped.

School set for training of waitresses

A six-week waitress training school for residents of Willard, Attica, New Washington, Greenview and Plymouth will begin Wednesday at the Columbia Gas of Ohio office, 217 Myrtle avenue, Willard.

The two-hour, weekly session, co-sponsored by Willard and Attica restaurant owners, the Willard Chamber of Commerce and the gas company, will begin at 8 p. m. each Wednesday until the final session Apr. 7.

The only charge for the school is a $2 registration fee, which includes costs of a study book and an awards banquet.

Registration applications can be obtained at any participating restaurant or at the company office in Willard.

The program is designed to train prospective waitresses who may be interested in entering the profession sometime in the future and can also benefit those currently working as waitresses, according to Robert Hartenstein, Willard, owner of Hartenstein Supper Club and spokesman for the restaurant owners.

Clarence Ellet, assistant health commissioner of the Huron County Department of Health, will give a 15-minute talk on sanitation at the beginning of each of the six sessions.

The first session will be opened by Don Hagerman, president of Willard Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Allen Wiles, food service director, Willard school district, and Walter E. Marshall, commercial sales representative for Columbia Gas of Ohio's Norwalk and Findlay division, will lead the first programs.

Mrs. Wiles will discuss personal appearances and Marshall will talk on the importance of the training program.

Remaining sessions will include instruction on how to deal with customer, hostess training and special services, preparation for the customer and proper table set-up and service. All classes will be informal with question and answer periods.

The program is not limited to women. Many men take part in the training and one college-bound high school student completed the course with the idea of working his way through college as a waiter.

Underinsurance

means having insufficient coverage to replace dwellings, personal belongings, and commercial buildings and holdings destroyed by fire or other perils. Underinsurance is mainly the product of soaring real estate values and rising construction costs. Both these inflationary trends have far outpaced the acquisition of adequate insurance coverage on homes.

In fact if you moved into your home three to five years ago it is almost certainly underinsured. If you have not updated your coverage since you moved in, the rise in home construction costs and personal property values in recent years has raised most homes in the United States to be underinsured.
