

Three seventh graders make perfect grades

Three seventh graders in Shiloh Junior High school made 4.0 grade-point averages during the fourth six-week period, Principal Wayne H. Strine announces.

Seven pupils, three eighth graders and four seventh graders, were named to the honor roll (3.5 and above) and 17 (3.5 and above) and 11 seventh graders -- to the merit roll (over 3.0 but under 3.49).

Clabaugh held on Willard charge

Kenneth Clabaugh, Shiloh, is the fifth accused of malicious destruction of property after a scuffle in Fireplace Inn in Route 108 on Jan. 27. He was arraigned Mar. 9 in Huron county common pleas court and pleaded not guilty. Bond was set at $500.

Damage in the scuffle was estimated at $50. Clabaugh and the other four, Richard, Albert and Van Durnham, and Jeffrey Thompson, are accused of breaking chairs, glasses and beer bottles during the fight.

Perfect grades went to John Gullett, Carolyn Stephens and Bradley Turson. Honor roll pupils are Marcella Edgson, Cathy Jacobs and Hazel Kinsel, eighth graders; Gay E. Flora, Douglas Hurch, James Miller and Sue Shury, seventh graders. Honor roll pupils include Sharon Barnett, Jean Dent, Barbara Gowdzka, Eileen Strine, Robert Sutter and Beth Taithe, eighth graders; Judy Christner, Daniel Edgson, Eduardo Gomez, Diana Hays, Teresa Lazeb, Diana Nesbitt, Patricia Rettig, Todd Rott, Sharlene Spencer, Charlene Thornsberry and Donald Woodmansoo, seventh graders.

Waddles wins in shooting test

Oscar Waddles placed third in the Crawford County "Conquers" sportsman shoot Sunday at Crestline.

He won $29.25 in jackpot concert.

Open business

Two experienced Ohio newspaper editors, Donald J. Pease of Oberlin and E. W. (Ab) Lamson of Jefferson, have introduced into the Ohio House bi-partisan bill to enact Section 121.221 of the Revised Code of Ohio to require a procedure known elsewhere as "interpellation."

Their proposal says, "Section 121.221 . . . shall be enacted as follows: The presiding officer of any board, commission, agency or authority described in Section 121.221 of the Revised Code, within 10 days of the receipt of a written request for an opinion from any citizen residing within the jurisdiction or taxing authority of the board, commission, agency, or authority, or subject to any action taken by such body, shall make available to the public a written majority opinion containing a reasonable statement of the basis upon which the decision specified in the request was made. A written minority opinion concurring with the majority opinion . . . shall be made available together with the majority opinion. Requests authorized by this section shall be made in writing to the presiding officer of the board, commission, agency, or authority. The presiding officer is not required by this section to respond to a request made more than 30 days after the date of the action for which the opinion is requested.

"The failure of the presiding officer of any board, commission, agency, or authority described in Section 121.22 of the Revised Code to comply with this section is nonfeasance for purposes of Section 3.07 of the Revised Code."

The law is aimed at executive sessions of such as school boards, committees-of-the-whole of village councils and boards of trustees of public affairs, township trustees and the like, where debate is or may be had of which the public is not informed or cannot inform itself, such as by attendance.

The measure ought to be approved. It will extend the so-called Mosher bill, pushed by then Sen. Charles A. Mosher, Pease's predecessor as editor at Oberlin, which requires all public meetings in Ohio to be public.

For reasons that always have been obscure to us, many such public boards or agencies or commissions or whatever have sought to deprive the people of a full and fair disclosure of their business -- the people's business.

Enactment of the measure won't diminish the real need for the citizen to take an interest in public affairs, and it won't make the newspaper reporter's job any easier, because he must still attend and inquire and report what he finds or doesn't find. Most especially, that an executive session in fact took place.

But it will make Ohio's public business exactly what it ought to be -- public business, with what Woodrow Wilson called "open covenants openly arrived at."

14 WWI vets invited to dine on anniversary

Fourteen member-veterans of World War I will be guests of honor when Elmer Parsel Post 477, American Legion, observes its 51st anniversary tomorrow with dinner at 6:30 p. m.

The first Legion post was organized here June 1, 1920. J. Elden Nimmons, who has been continuously a member, was the first commander. The post was named for Samuel Carlton Ehret, a Navy ensign who died of a respiratory ailment in France.

Later, when posts throughout the country enlarged their recognition to include deceased veterans of World War II, the name of Capt. Elmer Parsel, an Army Air Corps flyer who died over The Philippines, was added.

Organizing members also included Carl Milner, Arthur E. Brumback, Rex E. Bixler, Paul C. Russell, Otto A. Curpen, Carl M. Kaylor, Armin H.

Clark, James H. Wilson, Hal L. Cross, Lawrence E. Buzard, Frank J. Weck, Roy Joe W. Eslinger and A. Breck Snider. The post bought its first home on Aug. 15, 1946, and occupied the rooms over what was then and is not a hardware store in West Broadway. It moved to its present home, considered to be the finest in Richland county, in 1965.

The veterans to be honored, in addition to the first commander, include George D. Ellis, Charles C. Lookabaugh, David E. Scrafide, Thomas R. Crabbe (also a veteran of World War II and the only villager who holds two Navy Crosses, several other decorations for valor available to Navy personnel), H. Paul Baker, Ernest Bachrach, E. L. Earnest, Hubert Marzetti, J. Phillips Moore, John Rebmann, Proctor Fox, Henry Gremmer and Clinton C. Moore.

Boy, 18, hurt in scuffle here

An 18-year-old Plymouth High school boy was taken to Willard Area hospital for treatment of head injuries received in a scuffle Thursday night. Bobby Nester was said to have lost consciousness after he fell to the sidewalk in an altercation with David Courtwright that started in a business establishment, which ejected the pair. When the scuffle resumed on the street, Nester was allegedly injured.

PHS band to play concert Saturday

Plymouth High school band will be joined by Columbus High school in a symphonic band, Columbia Station, in a concert Saturday at 8 p. m. in the high school.

On Mar. 13 the Plymouth band played at Columbia Station. Each band presented an individual concert, then joined for three selections.

Members of the visiting band will be house guests of Plymouth band members Friday night.

Ran into car, boy, 8, not hurt

An eight-year-old Mansfield boy escaped injury Saturday at 3:30 p. m. after he ran into the side of a car proceeding north at 10 miles an hour in Sandusky street, opposite Bob's Barber shop. Calvin Davis, 306 5th avenue, Mansfield, visiting his grandfather, Arthur Wright, who operates a small used furnishings business in the hotel building, was held by witnesses to have dashed into the car, operated by Larry R. Egner, 36, Adario, who was not summoned.

Conflict of interest charge results in acrimony by councilmen

Acrimony marked Tuesday's meeting of village council.

Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., set off a verbal blast from other council members when she voted nay on payment of monthly bills.

She said one bill, from the Bachrach Cattle Co., was in conflict of interest.

She disputed another bill, that of Councilman Edward O. Ramsey, who asked for travel expenses to attend a meeting in Mansfield, with Police Chief Robert Meiser on Mar. 5. She said anyone on a small council should well afford to spend a little of his own money for such things.

Councilman Robert Bachrach said she is "stupid" for the watchdog on the council for the women of Plymouth and "unwomanly" or you wouldn't be on the council with five men", and demanded that she prove in writing from a state official that she has the right to be a council member and report the meetings, which he called "unfit news". New diamond on old site plan for Red

Construction of the new high school addition will enforce some rearrangement of Plymouth's baseball field this spring. The out-of-bounds line in right field will be only 190 feet from home plate, a certain home run for any kind of a left-hand hitter.

But lefthand hitters in the Johnny Appleseed conference aren't very numerous. Besides, says Coach Bill Fibaherty, "the pitcher will have to learn to keep the ball away from lefthand batters, and anyway, it's as fair for the home team as it is for the visitor."

He plans to summon pitchers and catchers for early season workouts this week.

OF THESE HE HAS A strong nucleus for the 1971 season.

Jeff and Billy Pazio are seasoned right-hand pitchers and serve otherwise at third base. Don Foreman has played the hot corner and pitched creditably. Ted Root has some pitching experience and done well at the keystone.

Mike Beard and Terry Fenner are seasoned catchers. Beard can play the outfield. Fenner has played the infield, notably at third.

Other veterans expected to report when the full squad drills are Larry Taylor, shortstop; Bill Van Wagner, first sacker; Tom Dawson, first baseman, catcher and outfielder; Tim Nesbitt, outfielder, and Mike Glorioso, catcher and second baseman.

Fibaherty looks for some help from five newcomers, Wayne Blankenship, Kim Carter, Larry Reynolds, Ray Hughes and Joe Woodmansee.

Worms help plants, recipe aids planter

By AUNT LIZ
Who would ever dream that wigly, small worms could provide a substantial livelihood for an enterprising young man? It is true. Worms are Big Business.

There are a few worm raisers around the countryside who use their back yards to raise enough to take care of a few customers, who are probably neighbors.

Out in San Jose, Cal., there is a young man, a former movie and television producer, who has gone into it all in a rather large way. On a quarter of an acre, he has 250 pits, three feet by seven, which can hold 3,000,000 wigglers in comfort.

They are not only used by fishermen, but have a definite place with horticulturalists.

They aerate the soil and convert decaying vegetable materials into a concentrated fertilizer, which is the answer to the "nature food" growers.

If your houseplants are getting a little straggly, get a few worms, which you probably can simply pick up off the sidewalk in rainy weather. They can do wonders.

It could also be a good idea that when you do your spring planting, you plant a few with your seeds or plants to make sure they will grow like mad.

And when you start planning your garden, remember that some flowers simply grow better than others.

Kingwood Center has listed perennials, with which it has had unusual success. For white ones, it recommends "White Magic," "White Cascade" and "Snow Magenta." These are grandifloras. "White Joy" is the selection for a smaller bloom.

Next to the white, red is probably the most popular shade. For this Kingwood says "Comanche" and "Red Joy."

For red and white together - this sort of gives you two in one - it's "Meteor Improved." Every flower arranger knows how difficult it is to come up with something blue. There are four good bluish perennials, "Capri," "Mariner," "Sky Magic" and "Blue Dream."

One of the prettiest gardens I have ever seen in my life was in front of a native house in Addis Ababa. The wife of the embassy counselor was an excellent gardener and loved every flower. It was in blues, reds, pinks, lavenders and whites. Much better than mine, which had a complete mixture of every color imaginable. I am still learning how to choose the right colors so they blend nicely.

Somehow we always have some red and orange right next to each other, and that can hurt your soul. REMEMBER THIS IS sweet pea planting time, so if you haven't done that yet, best you do. They are supposed to be planted by St. Patrick's day, but a week or two late shouldn't hurt.

Our daughter is becoming a rather good cook, which is rather amazing because she always avoided the kitchen while she was at home. One of her better creations is Quiche Lorraine. Unfortunately it can become a rather expensive thing to make, depending on what you put in it for variations.

This is the basic recipe. Turn your oven on to 400 degrees. Then beat four eggs, add one and a half cups milk and beat some more. Add a quarter teaspoon each of pepper and margarine. If you have some hot pepper sauce, add it, too.

Fry or broil about a half pound bacon and crumble when nice and crisp. Sprinkle this over an unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle a cup of shredded Swiss or even Gruyere cheese over the bacon. Pour the egg mixture over it. Bake until it can be cut into with the knife coming out clean.

For the variations, you can add shrimp, small amounts of vegetables, leftover bits of ham or anything else you have. This is a fine "left-over" dish when there is not enough to go around the table.

Janet M. Lewis wed to Dan R. Carter

Janet Michele Lewis became the bride of Dan Richard Carter Saturday at 2:30 p. m. in First United Presbyterian church.

Bouquets of white carnations and chrysanthemums on the altar were lighted by candles.

The Rev. Robert Bellingham performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Charles H. Dick played an organ prelude.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal white satin simply styled with an Empire waistline.

Her older sister, Mrs. James Leonhardt, Shelby, was matron of honor.

She wore a red and white gown of dotted Swiss designed with a high waistline, a straight skirt and short puffed sleeves.

Both wore headpieces with flat matching bows, from which colored veiling fell in back.

The ringbearer was the bride's nephew, John Leonhardt.

Robert Forsythe, Jr., the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Angola, Ind., was best man.

The bride's mother wore a long sleeved blue dress with navy blue scarf at the neckline.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of soft green designed with high neckline, long sleeves and a straight skirt.

The bride's great-aunt, Mrs. I. R. Watts, Gallon, wore a two-piece beige knit suit and light blue accessories.

A reception took place in the church rooms afterwards. The buffet table held a four-tiered cake decorated with red and blue flowers.

The newly married couple and their bridal party visited Mrs. F. B. Lewis, the bridegroom's grandmother, unable to attend the ceremony. Then they left for a wedding trip through the Southern states.

The new Mrs. Carter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Lewis.

Mr. Carter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Carter.

Both are graduates of Plymouth High school, she with the Class of 1967 and he in 1961.

They will live here.

Take Care Of Your Little Darling

This little fellow is indeed a darling. It goes without saying that his parents think so, too. They will give him the best possible care, or at least what they believe to be the best. In addition to day to day attention there will be provisions for his future. Probably his schooling will be planned and, as far as possible, his worldly future charted.

There is one care, however, that perhaps the parents may heed less or carelessly neglect. That is the planning and training of his spiritual life. This is without doubt the most important single care the parents could give. To completely round out the fulfillment of their duty as parents they should take him to church and continue to attend with him until he himself gets to feel the need for spiritual growth and the important role church attendance plays in it throughout his life.
