

Shilohan claims false arrest

A Shilohan asserts in a suit laid in Richland county common pleas court that he was illegally arrested at his home by bail bondsmen from North Carolina.

Delbert R. Stevens seeks damages of $150,000 from Clarence Holloway Davis and Clyde Augustus Garrett, both of Elizabeth, N. C.

Stevens says he was arrested Feb. 13 by two of the guards that he failed to appear on a traffic misdemeanor offense in a North Carolina court, in which he says he posted $500 bail that was forfeited by the court.

Driver, 25, uninjured in multiple crash at Mansfield

A 25-year-old Plymouth driver escaped serious injuries Friday at 8:30 p. m. in a three-car collision in Route 39 one half mile north of the Mansfield corporation line.

John A. Lash, 68 Park avenue; Rae A. Crawford, 21 Shelby; and Robert N. McGuire, 30 Shelby, were the drivers.

Miss Crawford, McGuire and three of his passengers, who included Mrs. McGuire, 26 Lester McGuire, 65 Evelyn McGuire, 62 John McGuire, three, and Debbie McGuire, two, had noticeable injuries but were not immediately treated.

State highway patrol is continuing its investigation.

Two local drivers escaped serious injury Saturday noon in Route 98, a mile south of Plymouth. The car driven by Francis A. Miller, Preston road, was struck by a car driven by Waldon Strohm. Strohm made a left turn into the path of the Miller car.

State Highway patrol investigated the collision with no arrests.

Stevens asserts the defendants took him into custody in the presence of his wife and two small children without a warrant for his arrest. As they were leaving Richland county, Stevens says, the two bondsmen offered to free him in exchange for payment of $1,000.

Wife of fire chief has fire in hood of car at Shelby

Writing in a sedan owned and operated by Mrs. Judson A. Morrison, 73 Pomeroy street, caught fire in a parking lot at Shelby Friday at 5:30 p. m.

Shelby Fire department was called. Minor damage resulted.

Robert Lee, 69, dies suddenly

Robert E. Lee, 69, a retired masonry construction worker, died suddenly at his home in Route 98 Monday morning.

Death was attributed to natural causes.

Born Dec. 28, 1901, at Shiloh, he is survived by his wife, Leona; two daughters, Patricia Ann and Mrs. Richard Shadel, Shelby; a son, Robert, Shelby; and five grandchildren. A daughter died in infancy.

The Rev. Richard Faust, First Lutheran church, Shelby, will conduct services today at 1:30 p. m. at the funeral home. Burial will be at Stouben.

Petitions to oust Shiloh chief ignored by council

Petitions calling for dismissal of Police Chief Rysland Church were rejected by Shiloh village council Mar. 24 because only 28 signatures were those of citizen-electors of the village.

Over 100 signatures were affixed by non-residents of the village, Councilman Jack Thompson, chairman of the police committee, reported.

His committee recommended the petitions be ignored.

Robert Porter was recommended as deputy marshal when the need arises.

Apr. 22 was set as village clean-up day. Street department will collect all trash placed at the curb that day.

A request by Dwight Keesey for a pay raise was rejected. The street commissioner should have turned in his request, the council ruled, before the annual appropriations ordinance was prepared.

DEBORAH JACOBS
A garbled transmission resulted in error last week.

Deborah Jacobs, 11th grader in Plymouth High school, is a principal delegate to the annual Girls' State in Capital University, Bexley, in June. She is the daughter of the Arthur Jacobses.

Sharon Danhoff, also an 11th grader, is her alternate. She is the daughter of the Robert Remmys.

Mrs. Ivan L. McQuate, Jr., Mansfield, was admitted to Shelby Memorial hospital Friday.

So were Seifas Collins, Mrs. Woodrow Amert and Jennifer Caudill, all of Plymouth.

Mrs. Danny Adkins, nee Sue Henry, Shiloh, was dismissed by Shelby Memorial hospital Friday.

Driver held
Robert Stricklin, Green-wood, will appear in Mayor Hugh M. Washburn's court Apr. 15 on a hit-and-run charge.

The arrest followed a collision Mar. 22 with a parked car belonging to Jack Arthur at Portner and East Main streets.

Femer elected PML president
Leonard Femer is the new president of Plymouth Midget League.

He was elected Sunday. Perry McKenzie is first vice-president, Mrs. David Brooks second vice-president, Mrs. Albert Shudy secretary, Mrs. John A. Turson treasurer.

Work days to ready Weber stadium for the first games will take place on Tuesdays, Apr. 17 and 24.

Registration of players at least nine and not 13 by Aug. 1 may be effected until Apr. 20.

Femer and Mrs. Turson have application blanks.

Newsy notes
Randy Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Davis, has completed work for a degree at Kent State university in marketing and management.

He is a 1967 graduate of Plymouth High school.

Ms. Lishka passes 20th year of federal service

Formerly of Plymouth, Kathleen M. Lishka, position classifier in the office of civilian personnel, Defense Electronics Supply Center, Dayton, has received a certificate and pin in recognition of 20 years of federal service. Rear Adm. F. W. Martin, DESC commander, announced.

Mrs. Lishka began her federal career in February, 1951, at Shelby Air Force depot, and joined DESC in May, 1959. Born in Wakeman, she is the daughter of Mrs. Bert Koonz, Tampa, Fla., formerly of Plymouth.

Mrs. Lishka and her husband, Leroy, reside in Dayton. They have two children, Mrs. Bonnie L. Shepherd, Camp Springs, Md., and Joseph, Hillcrest Heights, Md.

$225 stolen from tin box, woman says

Mrs. Shirley Luns, Plymouth route 1, reported to Plymouth police Saturday at 7:50 a. m. that $225 was missing from a box in her home.

She said the money was taken between Mar. 21 and Saturday morning.

The Voice of The Advertiser -- Equality? Ladies!

The commendable effort of the American Legion and its auxiliary to promote good citizenship in Ohio by staging the annual Boys' State -- this year at nearby Ashland college -- and Girls' State has but lately come under a cloud.

An apparently deserving girl who was nominated by her school and her sponsoring unit of the Legion auxiliary will not be permitted to attend Girls' State because she is blind.

The fact that she carries on an extensive academic program in her school and participates in a rich and full extra curricular activity apparently does not mesh much to the managers of Girls' State. They state merely, "We've always had a rule that handicapped girl can attend and that's it -- we have no intention of changing it!"

It is bad enough that such a rule exists. What compounds the auxiliary's offense is that some poohbah or other says, in effect, "rules are for rules' sake, and change of the rules is unspeakable."

We very much doubt that the auxiliary's program other than on a strictly local basis will attract much support if the public concludes that the spirit of the church always reflect upon its worshippers.

It will be sad if this occurs, and even sadder that it should occur. At a time when women everywhere seek equality with men, here is a substantial and representative group of women who won't even grant equality to their own.

But before we criticize too strongly, we'll see whether a handicapped boy can attend Boys' State.

Egg roll set in park here for Easter

Annual Easter egg hunt will be staged in Hurly Fate park Easter Sunday at 1 p. m. It will be sponsored by Plymouth Chamber of Commerce with the help of the Civilian Defense unit.

Persons wishing to donate colored eggs may leave them at Millers Hardware & Appliances, the Frontier Inn and Mack's Foodland no later than noon on Apr. 10.

Prizes will be awarded in four age groups, pre-schoolers, grades one through four, through six and beyond.

Five corn growers set high records

Five farmers whose corn production exceeded 120 bushels of dry corn per acre were honored by Sohgro Service Co. at dinner Friday.

They are Ray and John Feichter, 41 1/2 bushels; Vern LeSage, 133 1/2; Lee Buckingham, 129.4; and Richard Wiles, 75.6.

They were participants in a contest sponsored by Young Farmers club, Willard, and have fertilized by the Company's program for three years.

Club to meet

Mothers' club will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. in Plymouth Elementary school.

Fourth graders will present a skit. Officers for next year will be nominated and the Helping Hand program discussed.

Police balk, object to 'check-in' clocks

Should Plymouth police officers be required to punch a device resembling a time clock that indicates they have checked a certain location in the village during their rounds?

Councilmen Edward O. Ramsey and Kenneth Echelberry, members of the police committee, say yes.

Police Chief Robert L. Meiser says no. He contends the police would be "sitting ducks for anyone wishing to take a shot at them knowing they would be at a certain location out of the cruiser at an ascertained time and would not return to that particular point for a period of time."

Meiser said the safety of his men comes first when the subject was discussed Tuesday night at a police committee meeting with council members present.

"We are law enforcement officers, not night watchmen," the police chief said.

The committee, which has already purchased the equipment, costing several hundred dollars, argued it will protect the patrolman on duty because it will give a record that he patrolled a particular part of the village. This would eliminate complaints from villagers who claim they are not receiving what they feel is adequate protection.

Echelberry said villagers complain they do not see any patrolling carried out for rather long periods of time.

Meiser, backed by the police staff, told the committee police have done a good job in keeping the town patrolled and problems under control, and that freedom of moving about the town as needed far outweighs the "punching in" at designated locations.

Ramsey said other towns use the system. This was disputed by Meiser, who said no other police department is using it. Even Cleveland has discontinued having its patrolmen make routine calls to headquarters through call boxes because of the danger of their becoming "targets," Meiser asserted.

"Paid night watchmen, but not policemen, may be required to use the device in some communities," the chief stated.

Ramsey agreed to check other communities to see if it is being used by the police. If he can find any community which does, Meiser said, then Plymouth police will "go along with it."

One robin does not a spring make!

Plymouth is not noted as a "convention center" but it had one Monday.

Hundreds of robins gathered in several yards in North street late in the afternoon.

Floyd Sheeley, who was leaving his home, spotted them and attempted to make a count, but there were too many.

Nor are robins the only harbingers of spring. Edward O. Ramsey announces the opening of the 19th season of Plymouth Drive-In theatre.

He adheres to a policy of no scheduling of films rated "X".

At New Washington —

Merle McDougal wed to Blythe Friedley

Maori Keith McDougal took Miss Blythe Ann Friedley of New Washington as his bride before the altar of St. John's Lutheran church there Mar. 20 at 6:30 p. m.

The bridegroom is the son of the Kenneth M. McDougal, Tiro route 1, a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High school. The bride is the daughter of the Rolland W. Friedleys, New Washington.

The Rev. Ralph House performed the ceremony in a setting of snapdragons lighted by candelabra.

The bride's uncle, Dr. Ellsworth Friedley, organist, played "To a Rosebud", Musetta's "Waltz", "Melody of Love" and "Cham d'Amour". He accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ronald Lasten, the bride's cousin, in "One Hand, One Heart", "Wedding Prayer", "Lord, Who at Cane's Wedding Feast" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was attired in sheer organza dotted with velvet, styled with fitted bodice and scoop neckline and long puffed sleeves. White velvet ribbon encircled the Empire waistline and was tied with a flat bow in front. The A-line skirt of floor length flowed into a chapel-length train. A beaded piece of close-fitting organza festooned with white flowers supported a bouffant veil. She carried a white Bible with an orchid and stephanotis.

THE BRIDE'S SISTER, Deborah, Kent, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of orchid dotted Swiss styled with Empire waist, puffed sleeves and stand-up collar, the waist and sleeves of which were trimmed with white lace and orchid ribbon. She carried miniature carnations, stephanotis and gladioli in pink, white and purple.

The bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Dan Conley, New Washington, and Marjorie, Tiro route 1, bridesmaids, were similarly attired, save in mint green.

His brother, Milton, Tiro route 1, was best man. Another brother, Miles, and Gary Richards, New Washington, the bride's cousins, ushered.

David Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Richards, was ring bearer. Kathy McDougal, daughter of the Wayne McDougal, the bridegroom's cousin, attired as the maid of honor and carrying a basket of rose petals, was flower girl.

MRS. FRIEDLEY CHOSE a beige gown with matching accessories. She wore a cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. McDougal was attired in a two-piece creation of aquamarine with matching accessories and cymbidium orchid.

A reception took place in the American Legion home, New Washington.

The rehearsal dinner at Willard Mar. 19 included the couple's grandparents, the Lester G. Marguarrs and the N. C. Friedleys and the Levit K. McDougals and the C. L. Diningers.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Buckeye Central High school employed by PPG Industries, Inc., Crestline, where her husband, a veteran of 30 months in Vietnam, is also employed. They will reside in Crestline.

Some call it 'lasagna' but —

Right name is 'pasta al' forno'

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing more flattering to a housewife than to have people ask for her recipes.

It simply makes one feel good and warm all over. But sometimes it does take time, and since I have written this one out four times since Christmas for different friends, writing it here and now should take care of several others who have asked for it.

It is for what most people call lasagna. We don't call it "pasta alla forno" — of spaghetti of the oven — to you. That is the name a lovely Italian woman gave it when she made it for a luncheon and explained in Genoa how it was made to our houseboy. He could whip it up like mad, and I would hover over him and watch so I could learn, too. My Italian was not that good that I could understand every word.

It is made in three parts. The first is the basic meat sauce which you can use for ordinary spaghetti.

The big can of it all is that I cannot tell you any exact measurements. It gets composed with a little of this and that, then you lean over the skillet and sniff. If it smells pungent enough, then it is right, otherwise you toss in more spices — mostly oregano. For a good sized baking dish or casserole (there is no point to spending all this time making a small amount), start with three pounds of a little leafe of hamburger.

First, you put a hunk of shortening in a sturdy frying pan. Before turning the burner on, generously sprinkle it with salt, pepper, basil, thyme, oregano, marjoram and pepperoni, if you have it. It should all melt together, which brings out the flavors.

Meanwhile, have three medium sized onions all nicely chopped up. They go into the melted shortening until they begin to look golden. Add the ground meat and brown it. When it looks right, add a large can of tomato paste; buy the good thick kind which begins with a "C". If you think it needs a little more liquid, use the can to add it so it gets every speck of the paste out. Simmer this for an hour or so and lean over it to sniff. If you think it needs a little perking up, toss more spices in.

WHILE IT IS COOKING, slice a package of mozzarella cheese into thin strips and cube some American cheese — just the ordinary kind you have for sandwiches.

The next step is to make a good bechamel sauce, which is nothing but a thick white sauce with a good sized sprinkling of nutmeg in it. Make about four cups of this by using half beef stock. A can of beef broth works very nicely for this. I usually use four cups of liquid plus a quarter pound of butter or even margarine and six tablespoons of flour for the thickening.

After you have made the sauce, start boiling water in a large kettle for a package of lasagna noodles. They take quite a while to cook and you have to watch them and stir occasionally. When they are ready (and you tell this by biting one; it should be crisp), drain them in a colander. They will be very hot and hard to handle, but run cold water over them, which keeps them in good shape while you put it all together.

Spread some of the sauce in the bottom of the baking dish. On top of it, carefully place a layer of the noodles, arranging them in order so they slightly overlap. On top of them spread a layer of the meat sauce. Then on the meat spread some of the bechamel sauce. Place the slices of mozzarella in sort of a lattice pattern, with the American cheese dotted here and there.

The average baking dish takes about three layers. The big secret is to have enough meat sauce in it; be generous with all of it. There might be a little of everything left over after you have finished the casserole. You can make a few small dishes of it and freeze it.

This is a real mess to make and your kitchen will be in shambles, but the nice thing is that once it is all put together, you can put it in the refrigerator, clean everything up, then when you are ready to eat, merely heat it up in the oven until it is nice and bubbling.

The Italians serve it as a first course to a dinner, but it is really a meal in itself. All you need is a tasty tossed salad and a light dessert to make it a whole meal.

Worried? - - - Not A Bit!

These cute little fellows appear in a pensive mood, as though engaged in serious, thoughtful reflection. Even a touch of sadness seems evident. As differing from man, however, the lives of these kittens are not going to be affected by worry over soaring rockets and nuclear weapons.

Humankind, though, is more concerned and as best he can is making an effort to offset the danger of possible annihilation, yet there is speculation as to whether effective action can be taken against this peril.

There is one very potent protection afforded the God-fearing of the earth - - - prayer. The Church and its people have been threatened by non-believers many times but always the leaders who denied and denounced God have been vanquished. The Church, we still have with us.

Through knowledge furnished by the Church we can all have a sustaining power in faith and prayer. Strong assurances can be ours through practice of its teachings and faith in its cause.

Sister D. Root bride here of student of architecture

Tall tapers lighted First Evangelical Lutheran church Saturday at 7:30 p. m. when Susan Diane Root became the bride of William Charles Morlok. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Root. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morlok, Radnor, Pa.

Each pew was marked with a large bow and tall tapers. The altar with a mass arrangement of white pompon chrysanthemums was lighted by candleabra.

Mrs. Charles Ness was organist. The Rev. Ronald Graham performed the double ring ceremony. It was assisted by the bride's cousin, David R. Root, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. James Root, who is a pre-ministerial student at Whittienberg university, Springfield, who will study at Gettysburg seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., beginning in July.

Her father gave the bride in marriage. She wore a gown of Venice thread lace with a high rounded neckline. The sleeves extended to her wrists. The skirt fell in straight folds to the floor. A wreath of natural pink rose buds with white daisies and baby's breath formed her headpiece. A long veil of imposed silk English illusion fell into a train.

Her bridal bouquet was of the same flowers, tied with long pink streamers which fell almost to the hemline of her gown. Nancy Jo Swanson, Wickliffe, her roommate in Whittienberg university, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Fackler, a high school friend; Deborah Morlock, the bridegroom's sister, a student in Wesley college, Dover, Del.; Margaret Wheadon, a cousin, Radnor, Pa.; and Kandace Trexler, Severna Park, Md., a college mate at Whittienberg.

THEY WORE GOWNS OF navy blue organza with a pattern of white dots. The gowns were styled with low square necklines in front and back trimmed with a small ruffle of lace. The wrist-length sleeves were full. Wide pink sashes were tied in large bows in back.

They wore navy velvet bows in their hair and matching choikers with a round gold initial pin in the center.

The bride's cousin, Molly Streeter, Edinboro, N. Y., was junior bridesmaid. Her mother, Mrs. Charles Streeter, Mr. Root's niece, was a junior bridesmaid when the roots were married. Miss Root was junior bridesmaid when Mrs.

Streeter married. Miss Streeter's gown was similar to the other attendants, but designed with a high rounded neckline.

They all carried baskets of pink daisies. Kimberly Beatty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beatty, Flossmor, Ill., another cousin of the bride, was flower girl, in a floor length white organza dress embroidered in pink. She wore a small crown of pink roses, white daisies and baby's breath. Her matching flowers were carried in a small basket.

Her brother, Jonathan Beatty, ring bearer, carried a white satin pillow holding the couple's wedding bands.

The bridegroom's roommates in Pennsylvania State university, Robert Beckford, Milwaukee, Wis., was best man. They will both study in Italy this spring at the University of Florence.

Seven and Thomas Root, the bride's brothers; Theodore Morlok, the bridegroom's brother; Steven Root, Wheadon, a cousin of the bride, Syracuse, N. Y., and George W. Waterman, Radnor, Pa., ushered.

The bride's youngest daughter, Todd, was the acolyte.

MRS. ROOT CHOSE A beige crepe dress designed with high mandarin neckline and long sleeves. The fully gathered skirt was overlaid with a wide border of lace reaching to the floor. She carried a bouquet of violets on her handbag. Mrs. Morlok wore a gown of peach crepe with a wide neckline and short sleeves. She wore purple throated orchids.

Mrs. William Lawrence, New London, the bride's maternal step-grandmother, chose a beige satin suit and pink roses.

Mrs. P. H. Root, her paternal grandmother, was unable to attend the ceremony.

A reception took place in Ehren-Parsel Post, American Legion. Dave Rose's orchestra played. A large round buffet table lighted with tapers was decorated with pink and white flowers. The bridal cake was placed on a smaller table. It was frosted in pink with garlands of pink roses on each tier.

What if you lost your job tomorrow?

There may be going pretty good now. But you never know what tomorrow will bring. Suppose it's unemployment. How do you live?

What will you use to tide the family over while you look for a new job? Let's face it, you never have to find out. But just in case, why not start saving now, while you have a "job" - the Payroll Savings Plan where you can't buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

It's an easy way to build a nest egg. And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds - for 8 weeks, 1971 when held to maturity of 5 months, 10 months 1972, the first year. That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all U.S. Savings Bonds. It's a comparable improvement for all other Bonds.

With this lock-in all your emergency funds may become a vacation, a college education, or a happy retirement.
