Four teenagers with a grudge against Plymouth High school and one of its pupils are suspected of vandalizing the school and Plymouth Sunoco station early Sunday morning.

About $9 of funds in custody of Athletic Director William Flaherty was taken, but other moneys, including $75 in one envelope and about $14 belonging to the band cash register, were disturbed but left alone.

Supt. John Fazzini discovered the entry Sunday at about 11 a. m.

After they vandalized the school, which they entered by breaking a window in the industrial arts room, the suspects went south in Sandusky street and broke a window in the rear of the Sunoco station to gain entrance.

They removed the cash register and carried it about two and one-half miles east to the Plymouth east road crossing of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown railroad, placing it squarely on the crossing.

Earl Fidler, Base Line road, returned from church with his family Sunday morning and saw the cash register there. Fearing it disturbed fingerprints, he went to the house of Ray Caudill to telephone the Huron county sheriff. When he returned, a train had struck the cash register.

Management of the station said no significant amount of money was missing.

Police found the master key of the high school lying beside the cash register on the street.

An employee of the station, Michael Glorioso, 17, reported to police that an obscene note was left in the horn assembly of his family car and suggested the vandals may have wished to avenge themselves of some affront by him. But he could not say what it may have been.

Officers of the superintendent and principal of the high school were vandalized and the contents broken into and contents broadly strewn about, and

MANDATED BY STATE LEGISLATURE -- School staff to get raises averaging 5.5%

All teachers and non-certificated employees of Plymouth Board of Education will receive pay raises averaging 5.5 per cent over 1972, the board ruled Monday night.

The raises are mandated by Amended House Bill 475.

The board was told by Supt. John Fazzini it has several options. He recommended one which calls for one pay increase now as soon as funds are available, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972, and another on July 1. Fazzini said this will be simpler for the board because "we don't exactly know what funds we will have by July 1 since we haven't received a printout of what's coming in us under the state foundation plan."

Fazzini added the board ought to make the pay raises "fair and equitable to everybody". A mandated raise of 20 cents an hour for non-certificated employees would give some of them pay increases of over 10 per cent in August. These teachers would receive mandated raises of $1,500 a year, amounting to well over 12.5 per cent.

At the same time, the board voted to pay to teachers and non-certificated employees pay advances lost by the wage freeze in August. These are estimated to amount to $7,914.14 for teachers and $671.14 for non-certificated employees, or a total of $8,585.28, to be paid as soon as funds are available, probably in mid-March, in a lump sum.

Overall, mandated pay increases will cost the board about $40,000.

R. HAROLD MACK, A retired grocer, was elected president in the re-organization meeting. Richard D. Fackler, assistant cashier of Peoples National bank, was chosen vice-president.

Ivan F. Hawk and Timothy E. Rook were sworn by the clerk to new terms. The board will meet monthly on the second Monday at 8 p. m. in the superintendent's office. Special meetings will be conducted on the third Wednesday, also at 8 p. m.

Two indicted as pot dealers, one as stabber

Indictments involving three local youths were returned by a Huron county grand jury last week.

Gregorio Cruz, Jr., 22, Willard, accused of having stabbed Dave Oney, 18, Plymouth, after a fight in front of the Fire-place Inn in Route 103 west of Willard Nov. 25, was indicted for assault with intent to wound.

Jesse A. Hopkins, 19, Plymouth, charged with possession of marijuana, was indicted for sale of marijuana. He was arrested by Plymouth police, who also charged Raymond Van Loo, 19, Plymouth, was dispensing marijuana to a minor. Van Loo was also indicted.

Gravedigging rises $10

Village council approved Jan. 4 an emergency ordinance requested by the cemetery board to raise the fee for opening and closing a grave for a non-village resident from $45 to $65. The fee of $45 for residents of the village will remain.

An emergency appropriation ordinance was also passed for a total of $41,000.

There are 60 pupils in the total enrollment of 1,545 pupils who derive benefits from ADC.

State department of education has allotted $7,000 to be spent between Dec. 1, 1971, and June 30, 1972, on a special program to aid them.

Fazzini said application has been made for approval of a plan by which an elementary counselor with a strong psychology background can be hired, hopefully by Feb. 1.

"These kids need somebody they can talk to," Fazzini said. "Our directive states this program must be instituted at the principal site of our Title I program, which is at Shiloh. The principal there and the teachers assigned there believe this to be the most deserving suggestion. Pupils at ADC tend to become dropouts and we want to correct this. They need a teacher who is an experienced art teacher to serve elementary and junior high grades, as we have now. We wish such a teacher lined up and if the state will give us this money on the same basis next year, we can hire both an elementary counselor and an art teacher at no cost to the board."

Participation on this basis was approved by the board without dissent.

PAY OF BOARD MEMBERS was raised from $6 a meeting to $10 a meeting, to enable them to pay for liability insurance.

Fazzini was named purchasing agent for 1972.

REP. SWANBECK MAYOR MAIDEN

The state of the village ...

Mayor's report recommends action by village council

As directed by Sec. 733.41 of the Revised Code, I submit herewith the annual report of the state of the village required of the mayor. It will be noted this is the first compliance with the law in modern history.

It is expected that all officers and employees of the village will take careful note of Sec. 733.34 of the Revised Code.

For my part, I shall abide strictly by its provisions and I trust it is not unreasonable to expect others to do so also.

It is important to assess and affix priorities for prompt action.

We must first of all press forward with Phase III of the sewage collection program.

I shall propose very shortly some steps that, in my view, ought to be taken to insure that Phase III can be started in 1972.

This council has a duty to show leadership and to begin to apprise residents of the village that if the loan by Farmers Home Administration can be obtained, at the term specified by law, and settlement is made over a 40-year period, extending well into the next century, the amount of interest to be paid will amount to $1,013,172.52. Settlement of principal and interest will cost, assuming it is to be funded by additional charges for sewer services, each householder an additional $100 a year for 40 years. In addition, householders must be informed that a sewer tap connection fee must be paid to the village (it is now $50) and that each householder will be required to pay for his own service from the lateral to his dwelling. What this will cost will, of course, depend upon terrain and other considerations, but it certainly will average more than $150 a household. This cannot be paid by passing it to the tax bill. Our ordinance requires a connection within 60 days of the date that sewer collection service is made available.

The village has had some difficulties with its water supply. These difficulties must be overcome promptly. Common sense demands that we insure a safe and plentiful supply of pure water. Perhaps we should look to an upland water supply in the near future. If this is so, then we should make more than minimum essential expenditures on the present water system. In any event, we owe it to ourselves to make a careful study of our requirements and our possibilities and to lay careful plans that will suit our needs. I shall soon make suggestions to the council as to how this may be done, but I shall expect frequent and ready consultation with each councilman to obtain the benefit of his thoughts and experience in these matters.

It is long past time that a village zoning and housing code should be in full force and effect. A zoning code without a housing code is worthless. We need not only to prevent abuse of what we have by disorderly new development, but we need also to prevent abuse of what we have by deterioration of structures of whatever nature, whether for commerce or residential housing.

I shall ask the council to consider a zoning and housing ordinance drafted by me and to act promptly upon it or a suitable substitute. There are many householders who feel strongly that their neighbors should be protected from unsightly and unreasonable construction and their sentiments must be heeded.

Plymouth has survived, if not flourished, over 156 years because of the vitality of its business and commercial center. In some areas, this center has deteriorated somewhat.

The village ought to use its good offices to encourage proprietors and managers of business establishments to improve their buildings.

This specifically includes the condition of sidewalks, a problem throughout the village but of special importance in the Square.

If good offices do not succeed, then the village may rely on Sec. 729.02 of the Revised Code to see to it that sidewalks are repaired and modernized.

But before any substantial steps are taken to do so, the traffic pattern in the Square must be reexamined. It is no secret that some businesses have suffered because parking is restricted or prohibited near their doors. This is unfair to them. They are important assets to the village and they pay substantial taxes. We cannot permit their competitive position to deteriorate because unreasonable obstacles are placed in their paths.

We should examine whether it is feasible to reduce the sidewalk area in the Square and thereby to obtain greater areas of roadway, so that the ridiculous and unenforceable traffic pattern that is now in effect can be improved to benefit everybody. I shall later submit to the committee on sidewalks and streets some recommendations to achieve this end.

During 1972, our capable ambulance service operator intends to cease his operations.

It is plain that the public deserves and is entitled to suitable emergency service.

We must examine ways and means to provide this service if a private operator cannot be induced to assume the duties now provided.

I am investigating the possibilities of organizing a municipal ambulance service that will, in the main, be self-liquidating. But it is obvious that to do so, the public will be called upon to make substantial contributions of a charitable nature to insure that such a service can survive.

It is my hope that the civil defense unit can be an important nucleus in organizing such a service and that eventually it can be made a part of the fire department.

The council has in the past engaged in fiscal maneuvers that I do not wholly approve of. Under the provisions of Sec. 733.32 of the Revised Code, I shall make recommendations of this nature later. But it is clear that some immediate steps are essential:

1. We must absolutely make regular payments of interest to the cemetery perpetual care fund for the principal that we took from it; by corollary, we must lay plans to replace the principal at the earliest possible date. The village made a solemn, legal commitment when it took the money and the village should live up to that commitment.

2. We must abstain from raiding the electric fund whenever we need money. Each separate fund should, desirably, be self-sustaining. If, for example, the water fund is insufficient, we should deal with the problem of raising rates, not by raiding the electric fund. Whatever is owed to the electric fund, or to any other fund, by the general fund should be paid back as soon as possible, and we should always be conscious of that obligation.

3. We must cut back on some expenditures that do not produce reasonable results. I shall make suggestions soon to provide for dealing with the required testing of the sewer effluent on a local basis, to meet state requirements, that will be less expensive than what we now have.

4. To insure the continuing value of our electric power distribution system, we should religiously follow the requirements of the state board of tax appeals, which in 1965 told us that we must keep in reserve an inventory equal to 40 per cent of the value of our system. How much does this amount to? Nobody knows. We should take appropriate steps, without compromising our present ownership of the system, to ascertain its proper value so that we can make whatever adjustments are necessary in the stand-by inventory.

A substantial proportion of our citizenry is comprised of younger people. Many of them participated in the polls for the first time last November. They have their legitimate interests and desires and we owe it to them to respond to them as we are able.

I shall make recommendations as to how this can be effected. I do not approve of recreational centers and dance halls and the like UNLESS we can be certain of adequate funding and staffing by qualified management personnel. We must encourage wider local use of our splendid park. We must develop programs to meet the needs of adolescents - and it is the problems of the adolescents that cost us so much money, in police protection and in court expenses and the like -- so far as we are able.

To do so entails consultation with and participation by them. Younger citizens must be brought into involvement with village affairs. Some of them must be appointed to serve on the several boards and commissions. I call upon the council to bear these needs in mind and to give serious consideration to implementation of these thoughts when the occasion arises.

I sought this office, election to which makes me both proud and humble, because I believe that orderly, dignified conduct applied with diligence to our several problems will result in orderly, dignified progress and the solving of those problems.

I am always open to suggestions and am always willing to discuss how, when, where and under what circumstances they may be acted upon.

I call upon this council to accept these suggestions in that spirit and to cooperate in achieving the proper and useful ends expected and demanded by the citizens of Plymouth.

Rea tips Fredericktown, rallies to top Mapleton

Plymouth overcame a great performance by Curt Reppart here Friday to defeat Fredericktown, 86 to 83, in a Johnny Appleseed conference game.

The Freddie rallied to tie it at 24 of the fourth period. But when Larry Taylor bagged a rebound at 1:52, Plymouth took a lead it never thereafter gave up.

The Big Red won this one because it out-rebounded the Freddie, 67 to 29 (Lee Wagner, 20 and Bill Van Wagner, 19 in his best night overall of the season so far, 19) and because it shot slightly better than the Red opportunities. Plymouth converted 37 of 85 tries from the field, Fredericktown 27 of 67.

Reppart is a remarkable athlete. He won all-district honors as a Class AA defensive halfback and probably deserved them as an offensive quarterback as well. He plays a mean brand of third base and on the basketball floor he is a superb playmaker and ballhandler. His morning isn't bad, either. He made 14 field goals.

to move, helped in part by Freddie mistakes. The Big Red crept to within two but then collapsed.

Three free throws with less than 27 seconds remaining produced a victory for Plymouth over Mapleton here Saturday. The score was 66 to 65.

The Big Red took a handsome lead into the final period and increased it to nine points after a minute. But the Mounties kept chipping away and tied it at 63 with .56 left on the clock.

Ray Hughes was fouled by Bob Ringler with 21 seconds remaining and after receiving minor first aid for a swar in the eye, he made the first shot of a one-and-one. Mapleton came up the floor with vengeance in its eye and got off four shots. Bill Van Wagner was twinned by one of the Ross twins — Handy, the higher scoring one — and marched to the other end of the floor with seven seconds remaining.

HE HAD PREVIOUSLY missed some free throws but calmly threw in this pair to lock it up for the Big Red.

It was not a satisfying victory, Mapleton does not have an imposing record and to have won so narrowly over a run-of-the-mill club is no feather in the cap of Plymouth.

Coach Bryan Neff's squad has not been defeated on its home floor and one would suppose a good reason to be that it shoots exceptionally 26 of 30 shots exceptionally well there. It did not do so on Saturday. Plymouth canned only 26 of 85 tries from the field, whereas the Mounties were 23-of-73. Plymouth collected 49 rebounds, Lee Wilkins 14 of them.

It is remarkable how this fellow has improved. Not countable on as other than a swing man at the outset of the season, he has earned an important place in whatever Plymouth has. It could be considerably more than it is, but this will require some change in attitude by some players and a better shooting performance all around.

CAN PLYMOUTH OUTDO Oskario on the Warriors' floor?

The question will be answered Saturday night. If the answer is yes, Plymouth has an outside chance -- not more than an outside chance -- to share the Johnny Appleseed conference title with Lexington. But it would also take a victory over Lexington here and another win over Ontario here to do it.

Plymouth got balanced scoring against Mapleton. Larry Taylor and Wilkins got 15 apiece, John Conley and Ray Hughes 13 apiece. Randy Ross was high for the visitors with 17. Ringler had 13.

Plymouth can use some improved free throw shooting.

During the first period, Plymouth backers thought they were watching the in-cept reserve team, the Big Red that was bad. But it was only two points behind after right minutes and it played well enough to outscore the Freddie by four during the second period and take a two point lead into the half-time break.

They played eyeball to eyeball during the third quarter and Plymouth went ahead with 1:20 left in the period at 59 to 57. Each team added two buckets before the quarter ended.

The host quintet applied the pressure early in the final period and opened a good lead of nine points, only to fritter it away with careless basketball and inaccurate shooting. A three-point play by Steve Doyle with 3:09 left brought the Freddie to within two at 78 to 76. Tayloe converted a rebound and Reppart offset it. Taylor missed his shot on the one-and-one at 2:30 and Steve Moore made his only bucket of the game to tie it at 80.

Conley's shot bounced away and Taylor threw it in at 1:52.

Fredericktown closed the gap to a single point on Reppart's free throw -- he made one of his infrequent mistakes on the next shot -- and Ray Hughes' field goal and two free throws by Jeff Fazio put it on ice for Plymouth.

Wouldn't one really love to have a team of Repparts?

Who says Auntie's an odd ball?

She cites reasons why she's as normal as can be!

By AUNT LIZ
It comes as a great shock after all these years to find that, while you thought yourself a perfectly normal, average person, others think you a complete odd ball.
How does one answer such a thing?
Not long ago a friend casually said she had been asked what we were like. Why should anyone ask what we are like? We are like everyone else we know, so far as I can determine.

Like millions of other people, we got married at the end of World War II. Like millions of other people we had a couple of kids.

Like millions of other people, we tried to raise them into decent, upright, thinking individuals.

Like millions of other people, we still feel as young as we were at 20; the copper bracelet I have worn for two years does the trick, but it is decorative, you must admit.

Like millions of other people, we have had to earn a living.

And like millions of other people, we have a little hope of leaving the world a little better than what we found.

Actually the world we inherited wasn't too bad. In fact, it has been about the same since the beginning of written history, but each generation hopes it can really clean it up. No more wars, no more poverty, no more this and that. It is a great idea, but each generation, and this can be proven historically, may clean up some little thing -- such as child labor which plagued our country at the beginning of the century -- but something equally bad gets started.

Our present system of politics is the prime example. A new person gets elected to public office, so with a clean sweep all the "bad" people go, and our new leader puts in all his friends. What gets so funny is all this is done with great sincerity. I cannot believe that any person can be so dumb as to believe he is really doing good, but he does, so it all starts over again.

None of us is perfect, and there were times I was downright sorry I had become a mother. It is a terrible responsibility, and at times I would not recommend it to anyone, but it was and still is fun.

WE REALLY NEVER had what is called a generation gap. There was absolutely no problem there, we simply pounded on the kitchen table and said this is the way it will be. One of our young ones said years later that we were very permissive parents. He might have thought so, but we weren't. We watched over them like hawks, and one false move and they got clobbered good. Another one objected to being told when to be in the school dorm when she got to college. She flung back in my face that I never told her the exact minute she had to be home from some high school affair. I didn't, but then she had to add, kind of meekly, we knew we had to be there, so we were.

All parents have these problems and there is no one answer to any of them, because each is so different. You simply try to be a good guy and go along as far as you decently can because you duct or another set of parents who tried to cope with their situation.
So, as a parent, I feel very normal.

As a housewife, I also feel very normal. Like all the others, I have learned how to do things the hard way. There was the time I cooked a frozen turkey with the little package of the gizzard and that stuff still in it because I was too dumb to know there were two ends of the beast from which you removed things. I considered it a defectively prepared bird at the time. The Thanksgiving night dinner to which we had invited some Swiss friends thought it was a new American way of cooking when the little package came out one end. It was, completely original.

And not always have our great cooking efforts come out right. Have you ever baked a cake with no shortening when it should have had a half of a cup or so? It will bake, come out looking like a cake, then a couple hours later, it will groan and collapse. The time that happened, we got through an afternoon tea and while I was cutting it, I got hit between the eyes that I did not remember measuring the shortening and all I could do was glare miserably at a really nicely frosted cake.

The normal things go on in our house like in any other. You carefully remove kittens who have hopped in the dryer before you turn it on again. Once we had one go a couple of rounds. They like to be warm and do not realize the dangers of our highly civilized life.

Like a lot of people we have watched pretty plants die from treated water, so you either melt snow on top of the stove or boil horribly dirty water out of an old cistern. You get ready to cook dinner and realize everything you own is solidly frozen because you forgot to take it out of the freezer that morning.

You get dressed for the day in the morning and as you start out the door, you accidentally see that one stocking is disintegrating, which means starting part of dressing all over. Now what else can be a more normal kind of life?

The real payoff comes when you invest in a little container of eyeliner and very, very carefully get the stuff on. This takes a while because you have to move around with your eyes closed or you end up quite decorative. Finally it does dry and you feel like you are another Elizabeth Taylor only to have one of your rather grown-up children immediately take you to her bathroom as you enter her front door and say, "Mom, let's wash it off!"
The ones who do not have such experiences are the real odd balls... or do I live in my own little world?

The Bible Answer To:
INNER PEACE OR THIRSTY SOULS

God has made us with a physical body that becomes thirsty for water and only water or some other liquid can satisfy. So, also God has made us with the capacity to know Him. We read in the Bible, "You must, my soul thirst after God, my flesh longeth for God in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is..." (ps. 63:1). Yes, God has made us with the capacity to know Him and our souls thirst for God.

Jesus one day was talking to a lady who had had several husbands and who, no doubt, had tried everything this world had to offer to satisfy the thirst in her soul. "Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again but whosoever drinketh of the water I shall give him shall never thirst..." (John 4:13-14). And it is true that every person who tries to satisfy the thirst in their soul for God, by the pleasures of this life, shall thirst again.

Many today are enslaved by their own appetites, pleasures and desires not realizing that inner peace and satisfaction can only come from a personal relationship to God. The Bible says, "... he that believeth on Me (Jesus) shall never thirst." Just think - never thirst again.
