

Bank to open branch office for first time

The Comproller of the Currency agrees, Peoples National bank will open a branch office at 30 Sandusky street on land acquired from Mrs. Clarence Downenwirth.

The bank has made formal application to do so. It plans to erect a two-bay drive-in structure, to provide some parking areas and possibly to install a walk-up banking window.

The site faces Mack's Foodland, largest retail establishment in the village.

If the application is approved, it will be the first time since it was established that the banking institution has carried on its business at other than its principal site.

Vet takes on swine to FFA

New greenhands were sworn into membership in Plymouth chapter, FFA, at its first meeting of 1972.

Two winners were Don Smith and Lloyd Kolpa. Dr. W. H. Wright, Shelby veterinarian, spoke on "Hog Diseases".

The chapter voted to donate to CROP. Plans were laid for a basketball game with the Shelby chapter in February.

David Hugh, president, presided.

Council studies paid holidays

The controversy of paid holidays for village employees is to be resolved by a committee of Councilmen Robert I. Bachrach, Edward O. Ramsey and Frank Garber, Mayor Hugh W. Washburn decreed Dec. 21.

An ordinance passed last year states that employees are to receive seven paid holidays.

Whether salaries employees should be given compensation over and above their salaries was stirred up when members of the police department asked for the additional money earlier this month.

Solicitor Joseph F. Dush said the "unfortunate language" of the ordinance makes for several interpretations. He thinks the ordinance refers to hourly workers only.

He said the village ought to have an ordinance calling for compensation for an increase in the cost of living index.

Village Administrator William Forquer said he decided if hospitalization for employees should be changed to the Blue Cross plan. This would be the third change since hospitalization was adopted. Forquer said he believes the employees prefer Blue Cross coverage over the present policy with Connecticut General.

Forquer reported Water well No. 1 is working better than any of the others. For many years this well has not produced adequately and several consultants told the village it was unsafe. Bachrach, a member of the utility committee, has always contended the well would produce a goodly supply of water. Forquer said the Thomas Baker followed a plan set up by a Minnesota consulting firm to "plug" it. With a few more materials and a new pump, it is back in action.

Ramsay asked for approval of 10-year lease by which he can receive and transmit messages on a police radio at Plymouth drive in Theater. He insisted on the equipment at his own expense last summer and told his colleagues that he was able to maintain better order at the theater and no other same time offer help to the Plymouth police department when messages to him had no other way of reaching them.

Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., said the matter should be discussed with Police Chief Robert L. Meiser before definite action is taken. But the council approved the proposal over her objection. This action provides police protection from the village to the theater, which is outside the corporate limits.

The storm which fell several trees in the village caused considerable damage to the electrical distribution system. Forquer said three of the trees had been removed for removal by property owners because of their decayed condition. Who should bear the cost of the damage was debated for some time. The council took no action. Forquer will send bills to the property owners for the cost of the village equipment and the cleaning up.

Final reading was given to an ordinance to regulate the damage to be done by trailers proposed by Garber.

At the request of Mrs. Paddock, Forquer said the Christmas party at Hartenstein's Supper club Dec. 15 for village employees, council members, and guests was a success. The board cost $284 of which $50 he paid from his own pocket. The remainder came from the sale of scrap metal. Some of the scrap actually came from the old village dump, which Burton Forquer had asked to be removed.

Washburn named by council to vacancy as member for new four-year term

Ousted mayor Hugh W. Washburn was returned to a seat on the village council Tuesday night.

His name was proposed by Councilman Kenneth Eichelberry after the council voted to appoint Mrs. Thomas F. Root died for lack of a second.

She was proposed by newly elected member James L. Jacobs, Sr. Jacobs questioned the naming of Washburn, saying he was obviously not the choice of Plymouth voters, since he had been so badly defeated in November.

Eichelberry retorted that previously Washburn had been elected to the council two years ago with an overwhelming vote.

Washburn will serve a four-year term, filling the seat which no one sought in November.

Bachrach was the only dissenter. Councilman Robert L. Bachrach, Edward O. Ramsey, Frank R. Garber and Eichelberry supported the nomination.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Paddock postponed naming committees. She said she was unable to determine who should be named to each without knowing who the new council member would be.

During the routine reorganization of council business, members agreed to move the meetings up a half hour to 7 p. m. They will continue to convene on the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

The mayor reappointed Wayne H. Strine to the city board and Carl V. Ellis to the cemetery board. Both will serve four-year terms.

She introduced Richard Newmeyer, a member of Plymouth chapter, Future Farmers of America. The chapter has proposed a project to improve the sewer lagoon site with the aim of converting most of the land into a park.

The mayor said it was a project she hopes can be undertaken and that she had already made inquiries as to what state and federal funds might be obtained to assist in creating a recreational area of the land.

Councilman Bachrach

Shilohans will pay $57.50, a decrease from $58.80.

Miss McQuown bride here of Timothy E. Rook, Shiloh

Sheryl Ann McQuown became the bride of Timothy E. Rook Dec. 22 in a candlelight service in United Methodist church. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. McQuown. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rook, Shiloh, a newly seated member of Plymouth Board of Education.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alan Colgan at 7:30 p. m. before an altar decorated with bouquets of white carnations with evergreens. The family pews were marked with large white satin bows. Thomas Strohmeier, Mansfield, who attended school here with the couple and has been a classmate in Heidelberg college, Tiffin, was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of acetate satin trimmed with Venise lace with ribbon running through it. The lace bordered the high neckline, ran down the front of the gown and bordered the hem line. The long sleeves extended from the bodice in puffs. A Watteau of chapel length fell from the back. It was trimmed with lace.

Her bouffant veil was suspended from a headpiece of lace, which was trimmed with pearls and crystals.

Her bouquet was a large cluster of off-white orchids with ivy and holly. For something "old," she carried a lace handkerchief made by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Dawson.

Mrs. David Louk, St. Petersburg, Fla., a former roommate at Heidelberg, matron of honor, wore a long-sleeved gown of olive green velvet. The neckline was rounded. She wore a cameo on a velvet choker, a gift of the bride.

Diane Haver was similarly gowned save in a deeper shade of green. Both of the gowns were made by Mrs. P. E. Haver.

The attendants carried white satin muffs with red carnations, holly and green ribbon.

RICHARD HOLLOWAY, Boston, Mass., a college classmate, was best man. The bride's brother, Roger, the bridegroom's two younger brothers, Theodore and Thomas, and Andrew Bresler, Schenectady, N. Y., ushered.

Mrs. McQuown chose a yellow and white knit with a bolero jacket. The top of her dress was a deeper shade of yellow. Mrs. Rook chose a burnt orange knit with a jacket. Both mothers wore brown accessories and corsages of orchids.

The bridegroom's grandmothers, Mrs. Myron L. Guthrie, who wore navy blue, and Mrs. Eleanor Rook, who was in light blue, also wore corsages of orchids.

A reception took place in Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. J. Craig McQuown and Mrs. David McQuown, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Margaret Dawson, her cousin, assisted the guests. The tiered cake topped with three satin bells was decorated with red roses and green leaves. The newlyweds are now living in Tiffin. Mr. Rook is finishing his senior year at Heidelberg. She was graduated by the college last month.

The Jack Thompsons, Shiloh, are parents of a daughter born Dec. 30 in Willard Area hospital.

Mrs. George W. Cheesman is a patient in Willard Area hospital.

Red staggers to outlast South Central, bombs Bucks in holiday recess play

Plymouth played Class A basketball at Greenwich against South Central Dec. 29 and came away with a hair-raising 61 to 59 victory.

But it wasn't grade A basketball by any means and Plymouth will be hard put to sustain a winning record if it continues this sort of play. Additionally, Brad Ream, certainly an important cog in the Big Red machine this season, was lost by injury early in the second half when he fell on his ankle after converting a shot under the basket.

IT WAS A HIGH OVERHEAD from the top of the key by Larry Taylor with only 11 seconds left that won it for Plymouth.

South Central had tied it at 55 with 3:02 remaining in a free throw by Tom Kramb.

The Trojans offset John Conley's jumper at 2:48 with a fine shot by Clyde Honeycutt at 2:35. And then, after blowing several chances, the Trojans went ahead at 49 seconds on a rebound by Guy Ehinger.

Lee Wilkins knotted it at 59 with 38 seconds remaining and Taylor's shot won it for Plymouth, 61 to 59.

SOUTH CENTRAL called time out with eight seconds left and got off one final shot, that skittered on the rim before falling.

Wilkins was high scorer for the Big Red with 16. Ray Hughes had 11. Free throws contributed 20 for the Trojans, Kramb 18.

It was Taylor's field goal that was the absolute difference between the two teams, since each made nine free throws. Had the Trojans done a better job there, they would have won. They outscored Plymouth, 50 to 39, in the last three periods.

Plymouth shot only 36 per cent from the floor but outbounded Buckeye Central almost two to one here Dec. 28 to win an interscholastic basketball game, 92 to 52.

It was the Big Red's superiority of height that produced the victory. Its shooting record was not impressive, although it was far superior to that of the visitors, who sank only 19 of 71 tries.

Lee Wilkins scored 24, Larry Taylor 21, Brad Ream 13 and John Conley 12 for the winners.

Tom Riedel led the Bucks with 17.

Plymouth scored 33 in the final eight minutes, the second time this year it has done so. The first occasion was when Crestline fell to the Big Red.

SECOND MONOGRAM --

Kok letters at Kent State

Gene Kok is a conservative, easy-going guy, but when he puts on the pads and helmet, it's a different story.

Kok went to Kent State from Plymouth High school, where he played defensive end for Coach Larry Root. He was a three-year starter and made all-district, all-conference and honorable mention all-Ohio. He was a class vice-president and lettered three years in track and two years in basketball.

Upon graduation, he hopes to go into some form of farm business management, since in that field he will be able to utilize his major and background. He has won his second varsity letter for the Golden Flashes for his play as defensive right end.

"I work at getting psyched for a game... I think about beating my man and exploding with every play... Football has taught me that everything must be worked at in order to improve upon it, no matter what it is... It's the best sport for preparation for life in general."

He is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kok, Plymouth route 1. They are Gene's most loyal fans, making it to all home games.

A POSSIBLE LEADER

A little child shall lead them
Is what the prophet foretold,
When war will be studied no longer
And the lion brings no harm to the fold.
When swords shall be beat into ploughshares
The pruning hook made from the spear,
Atom power used for the good of all
And not be something to fear.
So heed what you do and say
To each child -- and never cease,
To guard against harming a leader
Who could bring everlasting peace.

New year starts right, long lost recipe found!

By AUNT LIZ
There is nothing like starting a New Year out by finding a very evasive recipe.

Last summer our daughter-in-law wanted us to taste a Mexican recipe she had eaten at a friend's house in Carbondale, so we courted all the cookbooks and back issues of Gourmet. We searched for hours, and no recipe, so she guessed at it, and they were delightful.

They are so tasty, filling and very inexpensive. This makes about a dozen tacos. You buy the shells any place. They are fried, then carefully folded in half to be filled.

The filling is made of a pound of ground beef browned with a chopped onion and a minced garlic clove. When this is nicely browned, drain any extra fat and add a half teaspoon of salt and of chili powder. This mixture is spooned into the shells along with chopped tomatoes, shredded lettuce and shredded cheddar cheese.

It can all be put in small bowls and each person can fill his own.

You can buy the sauce in cans, but it is easy to make. A small dash of it goes a long way on the filled shells. Serve a fourth of a cup each of minced onion and green pepper in a little butter, add a 15-ounce can of tomato sauce, two teaspoons of sugar and one of Worcestershire sauce. Simmer this until it thickens a little.

They are a real mess to eat, so put out a large stack of paper napkins. Now that the big rush is all over, we can sit back and remember how nice it all was. For the first time in 24 years, we had no children. It really wasn't even sad; there is always that dependable telephone. We were visiting in New Jersey and had a ball. After our quiet countryside of tree-lined back roads, it was like another world, fun to taste for a few days. Now I realize what a transportation strike can do. We spent hours on a bus, over two each way to go 30-some miles into New York.

It was fun, because the people are really friendly. On the way in, a French couple from Nice got on and discovered they were on the wrong bus, and since Papa was apparently the only one around who could speak French, he and they had a nice chat. They were on their way to spend Christmas with their daughter near Montreal.

On the way home I sat next to a gal who looked about my age. We started chatting and somehow I mentioned we were from Ohio and she said her daughter had gone to school there. She went to Hiram when our son did. A very nice friend invited us to her house on Long Island for lunch. I am certain she understood when I asked how long it took to get there, another hour or so. Had we gone, we would have spent about eight hours of the day getting places; as it was, we rode a bus up Madison avenue from 41st street to 89th, which was fun.

It went slow enough for us to look in all the windows of the nice little antique shops and argilleries and dress shops. We saw the one thing I have waited years to see: the Guggenheim museum. The building is fantastic, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. It displays very modern art, which gets a little beyond me. The day we were there, they had a special exhibit of assorted bent fenders and front and back bumpers, just like to ones you can see in a number of junk yards around here. I was not impressed at all. A lot of people are missing the boat in the art world.

From there we started walking back toward 57th street, where there was a special store where I planned to buy you-know-who's Christmas present. That was a real experience. It really isn't a store, it is a museum - the Steuben Glass Co.'s gift to sightseers. They have their wares beautifully displayed for shoppers to choose. The pieces are indescribably beautiful and such skill goes into the making. Steuben is part of the Corning Glass Co., which makes such practical things. It's the frosting on the cake. The story of how it came about is quite simple. Way back, pieces of glass were individually made. Then, eventually, molds were used, which took no skill at all. Somewhere back in the 1930's a group of skilled glass blowers and artists got together and decided it was time to get back to the old way of producing pure beauty, and they have. Each piece is perfection.

Trying to buy one, however, is an operation. You-know-who hemmed and hawed when I asked which of five choices did he want (let us face facts, the dainty little price tags can reach up to figures which most of us live on a year). Once told all he would get for Christmas was two pair of socks, he broke down and chose a fat chick.

Then we knew what we would purchase, and one simply does not purchase anything without a great routine. There are nice looking people standing here and there in the showroom: guards. You approach one and ask for a saleslady, and they summon one. For the most part they are middle-aged gals who speak with definite accents. Once you have pointed out the piece you want, you are ushered to a little lounge-like section with sofas and desks, where you can write out a card for your gift. Since you-know-who knew exactly who was giving him what, I said we did not need a card. The next step was the filling out of a card with one's name and address, which seemed a rather waste of time since I was paying cold cash. This took about 20 minutes, and by then I was getting the idea that perhaps they loved each thing so much that they really and truly did not want to sell it. Very unfortunately, however, I think I realized what they were doing. It's tricky, but the true secret of being good business people: make the customer feel really important. He will come back again because he was so nicely treated. It's really such little things which make life so much fun.

The Bible Answer To:
WHY PEOPLE USE PROFANITY

Why is God's name used in profanity? Why is God asked to damn things, rather than the mayor, the preacher or even the devil? The Bible tells us the reason.

First, the Bible says, "A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil; FOR OUT OF THE ABUNDANCE OF THE HEART HIS MOUTH SPEAKETH." (Luke 6:45) Man uses profanity because in his heart he is rebellious against God. God has said: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." So immediately man uses profanity and proves his rebelliousness.

If you use profanity, you need to make peace with God by receiving the Lord as your own personal Saviour. "Therefore being justified - made free from sin by faith - we have peace with God through Our Lord Jesus Christ." (Rom. 5:1) Stop fighting. Seek peace with God in His terms.
