

Vote Nov. 7!

Although the Republican candidate for the presidency is a moral pygmy, we cannot see that his Democratic opponent deserves to replace him, for the simple reason that he does not know where he wants to go, where he wants to take us, or how we shall get there.

Perhaps it is indicative of the kind of society that we are building in this country that a thinking person cannot develop enthusiasm for either candidacy. The crass removal of Senator Eagleton from his party's ticket is no more nor less reprehensible than the Watergate scandal or the deliberate and willful abuse of the protesters in Washington.

So, if the voter opts to reelect the president, he is faced with the choice for congressman. The incumbent is disenchanted with Mr. Nixon, ran against him in at least two presidential primaries, and has made no bones of his disaffection. But he votes, for the most part, with the president's party in key issues.

It's as simple as that: believe in and support the president, then give him the votes to carry out what he aims to do.

Senator Robin Turner has inundated us with political propaganda exhorting us to "Keep Ohio Green". He tried to keep his part of Marion county green with an undercover payment of $7,500 in crisp $100 notes and then wasn't man enough to stand up to it. We can do without senators like this. Vote for Slagle.

We've said before we're impressed by Robert "Doc" Sawyer. We didn't support him because he was running against an incumbent who we thought was doing a good job. Not so this time. Vote for Sawyer for representative to the General Assembly.

Richland counties will choose two commissioners, a clerk of courts, a treasurer, a recorder, a probate judge and a sheriff.

Where a candidate faces an incumbent, we hold it to be binding on him to show how the incumbent has failed to do his duty or why his service has not been satisfactory.

No one having shown that in the case of the incumbent commissioner, Mr. McFarland, vote for him. No one having shown it in the case of the incumbent sheriff, Mr. Weikel, vote for him.

Many who deal with the clerk of courts complain that it takes so infernally long to get things done there.

This is a good chance to improve matters. Elect a candidate who's completely new to the office and change the staff right down to the bottom. Of course it's a political deal! Why else would a candidate run under a party banner? But if the service is not satisfactory, merely promoting a flunky won't help matters. To change the performance you've got to change a lot of heads. Elect Robert Mangan as clerk of the court of common pleas.

There have been no complaints about the operation of the county treasurer. Which is why the candidacy of George Griffith, the deputy treasurer, to succeed Charles Payne is worthy of support.

No county office should be the fief of one family unless its candidates are exceptionally well qualified. Don Ewiler is retiring as recorder and seeks to have his son chosen to succeed him. Is the younger Ewiler qualified? His opponent, Owen Spurgeon, is. Vote for Spurgeon.

Freeman Swank seems to us to be the superior candidate for county commissioner, Jan. 3 term. What's more, he lives near Bellville. Mansfield has been too much represented on the county board.

Dr. Wolford has been a competent coroner and deserves reelection.

Richard M. Christiansen, who even when he disagrees with us manfully shows up to listen to what we have to say, has served the county with distinction in the General Assembly and we see no reason whatever why he should not be elected probate judge.

Shiloh bans

trick or treat

Shiloh has followed Greenview, Willard and Plymouth in eliminating "Trick-or-Treat" night. Its council took formal action Oct. 11 in what Mayor Grady McDonald said was self-defense.

"The other towns not having them, we would be overrun by kids from out of town."

A consensus taken by Councilman Delmar Nesbitt shows the council favors deeding the old council building to trustees of Cass township for a token $1.

Although the trustees don't want to look a gift horse in the mouth, their spokesman, Woodson Arnold, said they will study it, but its roof needs repair and he feels the council should foot half the bill.

The village now pays for insurance on the building, used by trustees for their monthly meeting and by Shiloh Community Grange.

There are no funds to repair Noble road between Euclid street and the Penn Central tracks, the council said, and action to do so was tabled.

Kin of Mrs. Border

succumbs at 77 at Tiffin

Mother of Mrs. Nevin Border, New Haven, Mrs. Henry Ritzenthaler, 77, died Oct. 16 in Mercy hospital, Tiffin, of an illness of six months. She was a hospital patient 10 days.

Born Martha L. Willet in Frenchtown, she is also survived by three daughters, Kathryn, Mrs. Frank Sendeback, Toledo; Margaret, now Mrs. Alvin Thomas, Fostoria, and Helen, Tiffin, and two sons, Glenn, Tiffin, and Donald, Ft. Seneca. A daughter, Mrs. JoAnn Barth, died in January, 1964. There are 18 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Ritzenthaler was a member of the Nazarene church, of its missionary guild, of the Royal Neighbors and of the Bible class in her church school.

The Rev. N. C. McNeill conducted services here at 10:30 a. m. Burial was in Fairmont cemetery.

Once lived here,

Mrs. Henry Reilly

succumbs at 92

Mrs. Carrie Reilly, 94, died Oct. 6 at 4:30 a. m. at her home in Monclova. She formerly resided in Monroeville, Norwalk and Plymouth.

She was born at Norwalk Mar. 2, 1857. Two sons, Walter, Willard, and Louis, Toledo; two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Montras, Gainesville, Tex., and Mrs. Glenn Moore, Shelby; 21 grandchildren, 55 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren survive.

Her husband, Henry, died in 1931. Funeral services were conducted at the Gross funeral home Oct. 9 at 9 a. m. and in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church at 9:30 a. m.

The Rev. Harry M. Kelley was celebrant. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Homecoming set to start Wednesday

with parade

Plymouth High school's 1972 Homecoming will begin Wednesday evening with a parade and end with the traditional bonfire.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. in front of Plymouth Elementary school and proceed to the Square, thence up Sandusky street to the school.

Among 82 -

Gary Bisel

wins second in soil contest

Roger Fulk, Crestview, with 268 1/3 points; Gary Bisel, Plymouth, 249 1/3 points; and Ed Culler, Lucas, 238 1/3 points, were the winners of the 21st annual county land judging contest on the Floyd Simmers farm, Mr. Zion road, southeast of Mansfield.

Cash awards were presented by William Wareham, manager of the Lexington office of the First National Bank of Mansfield.

A total of 82 high school pupils representing all five vocational agriculture departments at Clear Fork, Crestview, Lucas, Plymouth and Shelby schools participated in the contest. The contest was sponsored by the Richland Soil and Water Conservation district in cooperation with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Other top scorers were Wayne White, Crestview, 215 1/3; Douglas Ramsey, Crestview, 218 1/3; Ord Dunn, Shelby, 218 1/3; Fred Sites, Clear Fork, 216 2/3; Gary Wee, Shelby, 211 2/3; Ken Hershner, Plymouth, 210; Ken Klemm, Shelby, 208 1/3; and Joe Wheeler, Shelby, 208 1/3. The village council on the basis of 300 points.

Fire destroys

Wilson trailer

Fire believed to have been caused by a leak in a propane gas line destroyed a mobile home owned by Leon Wilson at the south edge of Plymouth early Friday.

Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison said damages amount to $9,100. Both mobile home and contents were insured.

Trucker, 34, averts

injury in crash

A 34-year-old Plymouth driver escaped injury in Route 224 west of Willard Thursday when his truck was sideswiped by an 82-year-old Nova driver.

Jackie Compton said the car of Kent A. Rowland, also carrying his wife, Ethel M., 81, came into his truck.

Rowland told police another vehicle pulled into his path from a driveway. There was no arrest.

Mrs. Lindauer, 68,

found dead at home here

A telephone repairman found Mrs. Mildred Lindauer, 68, dead at her home at 106 West Broadway Friday morning.

A native of New London, she was the widow of Karl S. Lindauer, who died Sept. 2. She lived here 21 years. A daughter, Sandra, now Mrs. Lowell Jennings, Windsor, Wis.; a sister, Miss Kathleen Crow, Toledo, and two grandchildren survive.

Effort to restore trick-or-treat beaten by vote of 3 to 2

By three to two vote, the village council declined Tuesday night to reverse its earlier decision to eliminate trick-or-treat night.

Councilman Edward O. Ramsey reported that Willard decided Monday night to reinstate trick-or-treat night.

He said there had been "a lot of talk in the beauty shops" about it. Councilman James L. Jacobs, Sr., said the council's previous decision should stand.

Mayor Elizabeth Padock suggested having the whole Halloween celebration in one night, as was done last year.

In a formal vote, Councilman Donald E. Akers, Hubert V. Akers and Jacobs voted nay, Ramsey and Councilman Toy Patton voting yea, although the latter said this is the last year he would approve it. Councilman Frank R. Garber was ill and not present.

The annual parade will be Oct. 31 as planned from 6:30 until 8:30 p. m. A resident of the southern part of Plymouth township, Miss Rosemary McLaughlin, said training of the fire department in the last few years "doesn't amount to much" and some neighbors are concerned in insurance rates will increase if the training is not undertaken within an allotted time by the state.

Jacobs said plans are under way for more training soon and the committee is aware of the problem and planning a program. The mayor suggested to Miss McLaughlin the village should attempt to work out an arrangement with Shelby to answer calls which are so close to them in the township.

The village does have a mutual aid agreement with Shelby.

She also asked if volunteers for the ambulance service are welcome, since she is a trained first aider. She was told she may assist but because a communications problem has to be resolved, the council has said only village residents may join the service. She asked if the area of ambulance service would include the township. The mayor replied it is hoped the village would serve these areas served by McQuate's service save for areas with new service.

PLYMOUTH ADVERTISER

A FAMILY NEWSPAPER - DEVOTED TO NEWS, LITERATURE, AGRICULTURE, SCIENCE, ETC.

Volume 1 Plymouth, Ohio, Saturday Morning, October 22, 1853. Number 1.

By a re-issuance of orders, it was found that the original copy of the Advertiser was not properly preserved. The paper of the 22nd of October, 1853, was found to be a duplicate of the copy of the 21st of October, 1853, and the copy of the 23rd of October, 1853, was found to be a duplicate of the copy of the 22nd of October, 1853. It is therefore necessary to re-issue orders for the original copy of the Advertiser of the 22nd of October, 1853.

It first appeared Oct. 22, 1853

This is an exact reproduction of the nameplate of Vol. 1, No. 1, of The Advertiser, which can be seen in Ohio Historical society library, Columbus.

Oldest business in town, Advertiser reaches 119!

The Advertiser will observe Sunday the 119th anniversary of its founding.

It first appeared Saturday morning, Oct. 22, 1853, in Plymouth as the effort of David Ross Locke and James G. Robinson.

It is the oldest continuing business in Plymouth.

Ontario swamps Red, 42-8

Warriors limit Plymouth to --10 rushing

Vernon Yancey scored three touchdowns and Mike Riley two as Ontario mauled Plymouth, 42 to 8, in a Johnny Appleseed conference.

It was no contest from the opening gun and only great dedication to the game by what started out to be a full house kept anybody there at the end.

Riley carried 21 times for 133 yards.

Plymouth had only one second of playing time in the first half in Ontario territory.

Ontario fans, and notably a teacher in the high school, reacted with extreme disfavor to some calls by the officials, two of which contributed 45 of the 85 yards in Plymouth's only touchdown drive. The teacher was especially vulgar and the pity is that some who must be among his pupils were standing by to witness it.

Plymouth's score was the only touchdown put over on Ontario in league play this season.

Team hangers-on were especially bitter to have lost a shutout -- "It means a lot to the ratings" -- "to this dinky team of Plymouth, why, hell, our reserves beat South Central!"

Ontario had two TD's recalled.

ONTARIO TOOK THE opening kickoff and moved to score in nine plays that covered 67 yards. Yancey went in at 7:59 on a 13-yard slant. Eduardo Mata kicked the first of seven extra points.

Plymouth's defense seemed awed by the single wing attack of Ontario and allowed a large neutral zone, which gave the Ontario forwards that much more opportunity to make holes.

Ontario scored the next time it got possession. The Warriors drove 74 yards in 14 plays after receiving a Big Red punt, Yancey sliding in at 30 from a yard away.

Riley ran seven yards for the third Ontario TD at 5:25 of the second period. The visitors covered 31 yards in eight plays after intercepting a Plymouth pass.

Riley scored again with 4:26 left in the third period with a four-yard shot, climaxing a 52-yard drive in 10 plays.

Yancey was back in the end zone at 1:36 with a three-yard TD run. Ontario marched 36 yards in four plays after a short punt.

PLYMOUTH FANS HAD their only real cause to howl after the kickoff. The Big Red marched 85 yards to score, taking advantage of two calls for clipping and one for unsportsmanlike conduct. Ray Hughes passed 21 yards to Rick Strohm and 10 yards to Kim Carter before finding Richard Stover in a small crowd in the end zone to complete a 10-yard pass. Hughes sneaked for the PATs.

Hughes fumbled at the Red 32 later in the game and Ontario capitalized. The scoring play was a 13-yard pass to Doug Manley from Randy Gates.

Such overmatches ought to be against the law.

Roof author of paper at OWU

Thomas L. Root, a sophomore in Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, is the author of a paper "Ether and the Cable: The Problems of Peaceful Coexistence" published in the school's "Student Scholar".

The paper was selected by a nine-member faculty committee on student academic achievement whose purpose is to recognize and encourage the scholarly achievement of students at Ohio Wesleyan.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Root, 118 Plymouth street.

Three join DeMolay unit

Three Plymouth boys were among a class of 13 initiated Oct. 9 by Jesse Ruth Chapter, Order of DeMolay, Willard.

These are Charles Mack, second son of the R. Harold Macks, Plymouth East road; Michael Mellott, son of the Milton E. Mellott, Route 603, and Clarence Vermillion, son of the Michael Dicks, Springmill road.

The class was named in honor of Robert A. Lewis, past worshipful master, Richland Lodge 201, FRAM, and of the late J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, a 33rd degree Mason.

Randy Cole, Plymouth, delivered a lecture tribute to motherhood as mothers of the candidates were recognized and presented with a rose.

Two reasons why now's the time to apply Sohigro ammonia.

One ammonia will probably cost you more next spring. Two, you can apply your ammonia when you plow this fall—with either a moldboard or a chisel plow. Eliminating that trip across the field next spring will save your planting time for planting. We have a lot more reasons why you should fall-apply Sohigro ammonia. We'll tell you about them when we call on you.

'Trick-or-treat' now just pain vandalism?

By AUNT LIZ

Here we go again into the happy Halloween season with parents and children considered good clean fun by everyone save perhaps those who do have to clean smashed tomatoes off their houses and pick up a bunch of trash scattered all over their yards or stand out in the freezing cold to wash windows. I am not quite sure how it ever developed into what it has been the last 10 years or so. A small town and city do have different customs. It just happens that growing up in a city did not -- even way back then -- allow the freedom a small town resident has. Trick-or-treat night was never considered by our mothers, but they knew what fun Halloween could be. They would all get together somehow and plan a neighborhood party at the house that had the most room. I can vaguely remember getting dressed up in an old sheet and tripping down the street where we ducked for apples (which then was quite dangerous, because our dumb mothers didn't take into account that at about the sixth grade in our area, the boys hated the girls and the other way around). There was the definite suspicion that if you ducked too far down to bite an apple some one would hold your head down for good.)

The one year I had a real fling at Halloweening was when I was a freshman in high school and we lived in a town of about 200. The boys managed to get an outhouse up on the school roof and we gaily soaped windows and were in by eight or so. That was because we all had to get up and wash our windows before going to school. After that year, back to the city we went, and once you were home from school, there was no going out. You were supposed to do your homework, which was really piled on. There was absolutely no correlation among the teachers and simply thought he was the only one assigning anything for the evening. With six thinking this way, it took care of what could have been a very interesting radio-listening night. And radio was really great in those days.

Now that just about every community around the countryside is not authorizing an official Trick-or-Treat night, I am of the opinion that this is a good chance for mothers to bridge the so-called generation gap and plan a really fun party for their kids.

Really there are so few home parties anymore. Perhaps we were all so poor back in the thirties that we had them out of necessity, even if it was merely making fudge or popping corn. It may sound very passe, but when we didn't know anything else.

Let's face it, though, kids are more sophisticated now than we were because they are able to see so much more of the world through TV (and it can be darn good). This makes for more ideas of games that should be fun.

All we could do was pin the tail on the donkey while blindfolded, and I didn't learn to play charades until I was well on in years. This should be more fun than going from house to house and thrusting into a large grocery bag for a simple piece of candy. I know the little kids may like the idea of getting dressed up, but do they really understand what they are doing? Does some adult stand on the walk and say, "now go to that door?" If it is such a neighborhood thing where everyone knows each other and likes playing the game, then how come some of us who live on main thoroughfares get somewhere between two and three hundred in an hour and a half? We have had fun over it, but it does rather defeat what Halloween is started to be.

I refuse to believe that any person would deliberately put pins, razors or even LSD in an apple, but it has happened.

So... while you are busy planning a party and frosting cupcakes like mad, you still have to have a dinner before it all begins.

This is an original recipe, and it's not bad at all. Once being informed that the combination of rice and beans was absolutely the basic diet of all South America, I went to town.

For four people, prepare a cup and a half of minute rice, following the directions. Mince a medium sized onion and half a green pepper. Sauté them in a little butter. Drain an ordinary size can of kidney beans, leaving just a speck of liquid. After the onions and green pepper look as though they are finished, turn off the heat and add the kidney beans. Do not cook them. Then slice up seven or eight pitted ripe olives and mix them in. By now the rice should be finished. Mix it all together, put in a buttered casserole and bake until you think it is finished. Covered.

If you had any left over bits of pork or beef, it might even be better.

A JUDGESHIP HANGS IN THE BALANCE IN RICHLAND COUNTY... WE MUST CHOOSE THE RIGHT MAN!

You owe it to yourself to get the facts on the men seeking the job as judge of our Common Pleas Court, Probate Division. It's a vital and important position. An active law practice in the courts should be a prerequisite for a judgeship -- only one candidate has the background, the knowledge, working experience and qualifications that place him in the rightful position to move into a judgeship.

- Endorsed by the Richland County Bar Association
- An experienced, respected trial lawyer
- Not a politician -- Law has been his life

By an overwhelming majority, the members of the Richland County Bar Association have seen fit to endorse George Sauter for judge. These are the men who know and work with the law and courts daily. Their confidence in George Sauter should help you reach your own decision.

Since graduation from law school, George Sauter has been pursuing and building a successful, full-time law practice. Over many years, he has earned the confidence and respect of his fellow attorneys and his clients. He has not sought any public office, but views this judgeship as a duty, not an opportunity. There are more reasons . . . but these should help you say "yes" to George Sauter with confidence.

Steven Kennard, Scott street, underwent surgery in Shelby Memorial hospital Oct. 10.

Cathy Williams returned Friday from Shelby Memorial hospital, where she underwent surgery. She is a teacher in Plymouth Elementary school.

Shiloh firemen received a call Sunday at 6:05 p.m. to South Walnut street, where a truck belonging to Harry Forquer was afire. Some damage was done to the front seat. Forquer said he cannot explain the fire, as he does not smoke.

October meeting of the Firebelles took place Monday night at the home of Mrs. Charles Bell, with eight members answering roll call by naming their favorite television personality. The club ordered recipe cards and note cards to be sold at the bake sale planned for Nov. 17.

A committee was appointed to amend the by-laws. Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Harmon Sloan, Mrs. Shaffer and Mrs. Ralph Hawkins. Next meeting will be Nov. 7 at the home of Mrs. John Echelberry.

Mrs. Mildred Sheely, Circle, Mont., returned with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Pittenger, who had been visiting her for the past week. Mrs. Sheely's mother is quite ill in Willard Area hospital.

James Collins and a friend, Miss Sheri Angel, Nazarene college, Mr. Vernon, spent the weekend with his parents the Ed Collinses, returning Sunday afternoon.

George Chila, Cleveland, spent the weekend with his brother and sister-in-law, the J. J. Chilas.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Foster, Columbus, were callers of his parents, the Harry Fosters, Friday evening. They called on their grandfather, Clarence Douglas, in Shelby Memorial hospital and spent the night in Willard with her parents.

Brother of Mrs. Gaither Heas, Shiloh, Jack Bise, 49, Franklin Church road, Greenwich route 2, died Oct. 4 in Mansfield General hospital of a nine-month illness.

Born in Glintwood, Va., he lived near here 23 years. He was employed 24 years by Empire-Detroit Steel division, Cy-clops Corp., Mansfield. He attended the Church of God in Hanna road. He was a veteran of Marine Corps service in World War II. He is also survived by his wife, nee Rose Vineyard; two sons, Ronald L., Greenwich, and Kenneth A., at home; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Peyton, Greenwich; two brothers, ELLIAM E. Sr., Mansfield, and J. C., Mr. Carmel, Tenn.; two sisters, Mrs. Harlan Stump, Piney Flats, Tenn., and Mrs. Georgia Brown, Kingsport, Tenn., and one grandchild.

The Rev. Harold Nickell conducted services from the church Oct. 7 at 2 p. m. Burial was in Mansfield Memorial park.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers went to Farmerstown to pick up Mr. and Mrs. Ira Stall, and they attended the pony pull and horse pull at Balding.

Because Joan Douglass shops for groceries every Thursday like I do!

Mrs. Douglass knows the frustration of having her grocery dollar shrink every week, and I think it's time I had someone to speak up for me and my friends. I want a voice in my government!

Joan understands many of my problems, like educating these college students at one time, or finding a good nursing home for my aging grandmother, and all the worries that come with the high cost of living.

I want a State Representative for me... a housewife and mother DON'T YOU?
