Miss Pry wed to law student

Miss Ginger Elaine Pry became the bride of Mark Gayland Mangie in immaculate Conception Roman Catholic church, Columbus, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Paul Schmidt was celebrant of the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the Everett Prys, Jr., 56 Scott street, Shiloh. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Mangir, Youngstown.

Randy Currie, organist, played The Lord's Prayer, "Ave Maria", Handel's "Watermusik" and "Processional" and "The Prince of Denmark".

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tulle lace over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice, wedding ring neckline and long sleeves. Three damny lace ruffles girt the hemline of the floor-length bell skirt. A bow of wide satin ribbon was tied in back. A Camelot headpiece of lace supported the bouffant shoulder-length veil.

She carried a handkerchief that her mother carried in her wedding.

Her only jewelry was a heirloom cameo necklace that was her great-grandmother's.

She carried white sweetheart roses, miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Her sister, Gwendolyn, was maid of honor, attired in a white sheer dotted with velvety flowers in pink, rose and lavender, styled with fitted bodice, round neckline, and long bishop sleeves. The skirt defined with a rose ribbon belt at the high rise waistline and tied in back with a flat bow flowed softly to the floor.

A shoulder-length veil fell from a cluster of rose velvet loops clustered about orange blossom buds.

She carried hot pink carnations.

Craig F. Mangie, Youngstown, was his brother's best man.

Edward Czopur, Youngstown, and Samuel Fry, Shiloh, ushered.

Across the aisle, Mrs. Mangie was attired in a floor-length gown of beige crepe.

Each wore gardenias. Mrs. Roy Hat, Columbus, a college roommate of the bride, registered guests.

IN LUTHERAN CEREMONY --

Miss Miller bride of L. B. Taylor here

Miss Mary Lee Miller was married before the taper lighted altar of First Evangelical Lutheran church Friday night to Larry G. Taylor.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Miller, were married in the same setting.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ronald F. Graham in the chancel decorated with bouquets of fall flowers set among the candles.

The family pews were marked with small bouquets of shaded fall chrysanthemums. Tapers lighted the other pews.

An organ prelude was played by Mrs. Charles Ness. The bride's cousin, Mrs. Ronald Coakley, the former Jennifer Gullett, Canal Winchester, was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was designed in crocheted lace with a wide neckline bordered with pearls. The full sleeves ended in a wide tight cuff at the wrist. The straight skirt fell to the floor to an edging of scalloped lace.

A small attached lace headband held her long veil, which fell into a train bordered with matching lace.

She carried a nosegay set in lace with tiny pearls of white daisies and stephanotis with small green leaves. It was tied with long rolled velvet ribbons.

Mrs. B. Mark Ream, Richmond, Ky., was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Melody Brooks, Mrs. Harold Smedley, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. William M. Miller, the bride's sister-in-law.

Becky Turson was the junior bridesmaid.

They all wore long sleeved chiffon gowns with bodices of light orange and full skirts of a brighter shade of orange. The waistlines were accented with green and orange embroidered bands.

The same embroidered bands extended to the ruffled necklines to a dark green velvet bow.

Orange Dior bows held their small veils. They carried baskets of fall colored chrysanthemums.

John Conley was best man. James Cutright, Harold Smedley, John Taylor and James Miller ushered.

Mrs. Miller wore a long sleeved gown of deep orange. The cowl neckline ended with a row of small buttons on one shoulder. A wide black velvet belt accented the waistline.

She carried a corsage of orange rosebuds with silver ribbon on her handbag.

The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of orange crepe simply designed with a high neckline and an Empire waist. The long sleeves ended in wide cuffs at the wrists. She wore a corsage of white and orange roses with olive green ribbon.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Orville Gullett, wore deep orange with a matching coat and an arrangement of orange roses on her small handbag.

Mrs. E. Beryl Miller, the bride's paternal grandmother, also wore orange. The long sleeved gown was fashioned with a rolled neckline with a long tie. Her flowers were fall colored chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Kate Shorrledge, wore brown with fall colored flowers.

A reception took place at Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion.

Tables for the bridal party and guests were decorated with orange placemats on white cloths with bouquets of fall flowers set in lighted tapers. Miss Jean Ann Smith and Douglas Dickson greeted guests, registered by Miss Ann Fenner. Miss Marle Larmer, Richard Gullett, Mrs.

Fred J. Buzard, and the Misses Martha Frazzini, Beth Hamman, Debbie Jacobs and Gale Turson served.

The newly married couple left for a wedding trip to Florida and New Orleans, La. They will live at 1 1/2 East Main street.

Mr. Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, Shiloh, and his bride are both graduates of Plymouth High school, she in 1971 and he in 1972.

The Gas Company urges you to use its HOTTEST competitor, the sun.

We're still in business to supply clean-burning energy. And we plan to be in business for generations to come. The future looks bright. But, the problem is . . . now. We've been telling you about it. The natural gas shortage. So now we're going to give you some ideas for using less gas. In fact, we recommend our hottest competitor. The sun. Even on the coldest day, you should let direct sunlight in through your windows.

When there's no sun, close your drapes to keep your heat from leaking out. It will make a difference.

And here are some other ways you can conserve gas: Insulate your home and seal the drafty areas around doors and windows. Have your furnace checked periodically by your heating dealer to make sure it is operating efficiently. Check your furnace filters often to be certain they're clean. Turn your thermostat down to the lowest comfortable temperature and leave it there. All these things will add to your comfort and you'll use less gas. Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy. . . use it wisely.

Strong Chamber plank in Auntie's program

By AUNT LIZ
When the world gets to be too much, just get on an airplane, even though you have no place in particular to go. The trouble is that people only use them when they need to get someplace in a hurry, but they can be a pure joy.

Flying above the clouds can be so beautiful. Granted it is nice to see the countryside, but above a large layer of clouds that look as though you could walk over them, like on snow, and have trillions of miles of blue sky above, it does something to you. You are something new up there with nothing to hang onto. Then you come down out of the clouds to a great city, and there is something you know quite well, buildings, streets, cars and people. Somehow, up 30,000 feet, is another world, not the materialistic one we all know so well. But, very unfortunately, it is here and we will all hang on to it. At least down here, there is something sturdy to stand on. And what are we all doing with it?

This really hit home this week. We visited a city in North Carolina that hit me between the eyes. Granted it is an extremely wealthy town with industries you would not believe, but it was the town itself. Somewhere along the line, and this had to happen since World War II, it is all new. We hardly saw an old picturesque house or building. They were all new, and all very well planned. There seemed to be a very strong civic pride about the place. The local government had set up rules and regulations as all do, and from the few people we talked with, no one questioned them. There was no obvious hint of "I will scratch your back if you do mine." Knowing people, I am sure this probably does exist, but the average person seems to take such a pride in it all that most abided by the decision of where what was built, when and how. If a city of over 100,000 can do it, then our very small communities can do so more easily. It is hard er for us, though, because there are no great gifts that a Vicks or Barling-ton executive can make to help, but it can be done somehow with each person pitching in.

In case you have not caught on, I am aiming for a good strong Chamber of Commerce with members who really want to help the community, not just their own businesses. Think it over, and it can be done. It takes everyone, just not a few. And this can be done with everyone pitching in with-out spending too much. Each must do his share (women's lib is out here, since it is males who seem to own everything).

But it is the gals who really do the stuff that counts. It keeps the boys going. Now how many gentlemen can whip up a recipe like this?
It is a faked-up fruit cake, and I do not remember where I ever found the recipe, but one year I made scads of them and they are good, and this year we are making more. It is to be baked in a regular angel food tin, but you can divide it up in small loaf pans if you want. The bigger size is ideal for a buffet.
Cream a cup of butter

(you can use margarine) with two cups of sugar. Then add, one at a time, four eggs. Dissolve a teaspoon of soda in a half cup of buttermilk. In another bowl, chop up somewhere between a half to a pound of dates, a pound of orange gumdrops (cut them up into cubes) and two cups of chopped walnuts.

Sprinkle them all with a little flour out of three and a half cups' worth. Then start adding it all together with a can of coconut. Bake for about two and a half hours at 250 degrees. When it comes out of the oven, have a sauce ready to pour over it immediately.

Mix a small can of condensed orange juice with two cups of powdered sugar. This should sit at least over night so it soaks in. If you want, you can add another little dash of flavoring, but it is that good.

You can also use other flavored gumdrops except for those tasty licorice ones which could discolor it all, but we found the plain orange ones work the best. You could cut down on a few gumdrops and add some colored cherries, and it will still work.

Minister shoots 10-pointer

The Rev. Howard Wynn laid aside his religious duties Nov. 20 to hunt deer. At 10 a. m., near Starkville, Herkimer county, N. Y., about 10 miles from where he lives with his wife and child, he shot this whitetail buck bearing a rack of 10 points. He is the son of Mrs. Evelyn Wynn and the grandson of the Howard A. Billers, a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High school.

Red opens here

Loudonville isn't going anywhere in the Johnny Applesed conference basketball race this season, but the Redbirds think they'll go past Plymouth.

Big Red fans can turn out here tomorrow to see if that's so.

Plymouth opens its 1972-73 season on the home floor against the Redbirds, with the task of stopping Gary Kauffman, who bagged 19 in the season opener against Hillsdale last week. The Redbirds won, 57 to 46, overcoming a slim halftime lead with a monumental 37-point last half effort.

The front court of Dudge, Haudenschild and Kauffman scored 47 of the Redbirds' points.

Coach Bryan Neff is cautiously optimistic about his team's chances. Plymouth doesn't have much overall height and will be compelled to rely on Craig McPherson, who stretches to six-three, as its principal rebounder.

And its best shooter is Ray Hughes.

Chuck Willford will quarterback and club as they playmaker, with assistance from Hughes.

Other starters are likely to be John Lasch and Ralph Noble, up from last year's reserve quintet. Neff expects great things of Noble.

The Big Red reserve strength is thin on experience and lacking in height, so Neff will be compelled to rely on the first five for much of the scoring.

Game time is 6:45 p. m.

Make Your Day Brighter With A Car From SUNSHINE'S MOTOR SALES OPEN 8 TO 3 Six Days A Week Center 23 and Myrtle Willard, Ohio

By computer — Here's how it was done!

By THE OLD TIMER How were values assigned to teams rated in the 1972 computerized ranking of Ohio high school football teams? How did it happen, for example, that Buckeye Central, which won only one game, lost five and tied three, ranks ahead of Plymouth, which won three, all of them in league play and two of them against Class AA teams, and lost seven? Some light was thrown on the questions last week.

Jack Harbin, Wickliffe, is the originator of the system of assigning values.

It's supposed to be as near letter perfect as can be. It's built so a team can't be rated on the basis of potential, so ratings can't be affected by the margin of victory, so that teams in one part of the state can't be compared with teams in another region, so that a team's prestige (wide Massillon) can't be reflected and so that no one's personal opinion can influence results.

How? There are three point levels.

On the first level points are earned for each game a team wins or loses.

On the second level points are earned for each game a defeated opponent wins or ties, and for each game a tied opponent wins or ties.

On the third level points are earned for each game that a defeated opponent's defeated opponent may win and for each game that a defeated opponent's defeated opponent may tie.

Three points are earned for defeating a Class AAA school, two points for defeating or tying a Class AA school.
