Engineer directed to explain failure to submit sewer papers

Engineer Eugene Gerken will be directed to explain why he has not replied to requests of the village and the Farmers Home administration with the papers he must prepare for the new sewer project. Mayor Elizabeth Paddock said he promised on several occasions during the last two months that the papers would be forthcoming. Specific requests of the FHA have been unanswered also, she said. The delay is costing the village money in extra repairing of sewers, which could be avoided if the project gets underway at once, she said.

The council passed a number of resolutions requested by Solicitor Robert A. McKown relating to the required legal work for Contract III.

McKown pointed out that once the village attempts to sell bonds for the financing of the construction, it must show that it is not involved in any litigation.

He was authorized by motion to undertake the writing of a pending court cases, those of Lorne Caudill and Leroy King.

He is also to inquire about the village's insurance coverage.

Goat fancier dies of cancer at Willard

A barber in Shelby 35 years, Lawrence Caplinger, 74, Kuhn road, died early Saturday morning in Willard Area hospital of a lengthy illness.

He was a widely known fancier and breeder of goats. Born June 20, 1897, in Highland county, he was a member of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, here and an honorary life member of O'Brian Post, American Legion, Shelby.

He is survived by his wife, Alice; two daughters, Mrs. Wayne Holt-house, Willard route 2, and Mrs. Robert Kleffer, Jeromesville route 2; three brothers, Delbert, Akron, Floyd, Hillsboro, and Harold, Cleveland; a sister, Mrs. Raymond Jordan, Akron, and nine grandchildren.

His son, Donald, died in the attack at Pearl Harbor. The Rev. Allan Colgan, Plymouth, Method-odist church, conducted services Monday at 1:30 p. m. from McQuate P. n. home, where Mas-sonic services were con-ducted Sunday at 7 p. m. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

The family requests memorial contributions be made to the Shelby-Plymouth-Shiloh unit, American Cancer society.

gain the minimum charges from each user.

Mrs. Paddock said the FHA requires that 665 users be accounted for. Now there are 647. If the additional 126 are accounted for, this, she explained, would spread the expected sewer charge in-crease over more people and would lower it to each.

VILLAGE FINANCES hit another new low. The clerk was authorized to borrow $5,000 to cover expenses for June. The village received tax money this week of over $4,000 for the general fund, but money withheld for the semi-annual workmen's compensation of roughly $1,800 and a charge for auditing and examiners fees of close to $2,400 hasled the net sum down to $358. The next tax money should arrive after the middle of this month.

The financial situation evoked a discussion of the costs of running the police department, which are paid from the general fund. With Police Chief Robert J. Meiser still under doctor's care, overtime pay has been "eating us up," Councilman Frank R. Garber said. Councilman James L. Jacobs, Sr., of the police committee, said he has been trying to keep hours down and will continue to do so.

Jacobs pointed out that this year some $11,000 for a five month period has been spent in salaries for the police department. He said the cruiser needs replacing and there is no money for it. No further discussion ensued, except for the suggestion that the committee meet with Sgt. Robert Seel to discuss needed repairs.

'22 class conducts 50th year reunion

All 15 members of the Class of 1922, Plymouth High school, attended their dinner reunion at Harenstein's May 27 at 6 p. m.

Color schemes using the school colors of red and white and class colors of red and black were table decorations. The tables were covered with red cloths. White napkins were used at each place. A black robed miniature graduate with robe and mortar board marked each man's place; white robed graduates were at the women's places. A red rose, the class flower, was at each place.

Background music was records of the 1918 to 1922 era, the popular music of their high school days. Bouquets of old fashioned flowers were room decorations.

Thoburn S. Davis, who became one of the faculty in January, 1922, promoted the first annual, "The Mayflower". This class published this book of school activities. Many of the books were autographed 50 years later.

Raymond Pugh was master of ceremonies. He had copies made of each member's picture from the annual. These were pinned on each one to compare resemblances of 50 years ago.

Copies of the class invitation, the commencement program and the class play program, "All on Account of Polly" were also given to each. An account of each person's acting ability had been published in The Advertiser of May 25, 1922 and this was copied and given to each member.

Mr. Davis told of his early teaching experiences and compared them with the educational methods of today.

Mothers of three classmates are living and one attended the reunion. Mrs. Florence Blosser Yohn, mother of Beatrice Blosser Tullis and Beulah Blosser Zink, responded with amusing remarks.

Mrs. D. W. Ellis, mother of Carl Ellis, was unable to attend.

A bag of gifts, souvenirs of the five business establishments which were in Plymouth in 1922, was given to each person. McIntire's presented the women with a boxed handkerchief and the men a pair of socks. Webber's store gave a deck of cards to each. Hill-Curpen Jewellers gave a plastic wall hanger. The Peoples National bank presented a ball point pen and The Advertiser gave an envelope containing the sequenti-centennial issue and two recent issues of the newspaper.

Those attending were, in addition to the Davises, who live in Rocky River,

The Energy Crisis is threatening your way of life!

It's a proven fact that America is in the beginning stages of an energy crisis...at a time when it must have abundant supplies of clean energy to protect both its economy and its environment.

The growing shortage of all forms of energy is the most serious problem confronting our nation today. Without adequate supplies of energy, there is no way to solve many of our other major problems.

Let's face the facts, before the energy crisis turns into a disaster:

1. The welfare of the nation and its citizens is directly dependant upon an adequate availability of energy fuels. With only six percent of the world's population, America uses one-third of the world's energy.
2. The nation is in the beginning stage of an energy crisis due to increasing shortages of all forms of energy. Natural gas, which supplies one-third of U.S. energy needs, is already unable to meet current demands.
3. The situation is getting worse every day and unless the public recognizes the problem and urges government to cooperate with industry for an early solution, disaster could strike as early as the winter of 1973-74. Industries could shut down because of lack of energy, resulting in great unemployment. Homes and commercial establishments could be without enough energy for their daily needs.
4. The day of low cost energy is past. The prices of all forms of energy must increase sharply if the nation is to have the supplies it needs. Congress, the Administration and the public must be prepared for these higher energy costs, and greater efforts must be exerted to conserve energy by stopping wasteful practices.

These facts are evident from an abundance of studies and official energy reports. They lead to the inescapable conclusion that early development of adequate supplies of energy must have the highest priority among our national goals.

The present-day America of 200 million people would be crippled without continuous development of new energy sources.

Energy needs have doubled since 1950, and are projected to double again by 1985 and triple by the end of the century, according to a government forecast.

While the shortage is becoming dramatically clear as to natural gas, it is by no means limited to natural gas.

Oil which in 1971 supplied 44% of the nation's energy needs is also in short supply. The nation is increasingly dependent on foreign oil imports, with all their related uncertainties.

Coal in 1971 supplied 18% of our energy needs. While the nation has substantial reserves, environmental requirements limit their utilization. Substantial research and development programs are needed to develop new technology to make these vast reserves available, such as coal gasification, and programs to remove pollutants so coal can be used directly. Such projects are long-term, so coal cannot be counted on as an immediate or short-term alternative to other energy fuels.

Hydropower provided about 4% of energy needs in 1971 and is being counted on to supply an even smaller portion of total energy needs in the future.

Nuclear energy, which in 1971 provided less than 1% of our energy needs, is being counted on to provide a substantial portion of the nation's future energy needs, but not to a significant degree before 1985. In the meantime it is already far behind schedule and more costly than expected because of environmental delays.

You owe it to yourself and your community to become more informed about the grave national energy situation. Write for a free copy of the brochure we have prepared which presents the facts of the energy crisis together with the details of the Action Program Columbia Gas has developed to help correct this crisis. Congress and the Administration have been informed of our Action Program.

What can you do?

Raise your voice. Your government and your elected officials are sensitive and responsive to your needs, when you make them known.

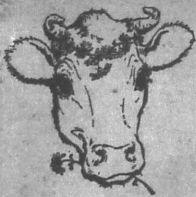

Write to your Senators and Representative. Tell them you are concerned about our nation's energy crisis. Urge each of them to support the positive actions that are needed if we are to prevent this crisis from becoming a disaster.

Father doesn't 'give' a bride —

Lutherans modernize marriage ceremony

June is the traditional month for marriage in this middle class society.

And those who profess the Lutheran concept of the Protestant faith will find that things have changed.

Fathers are no longer able to give their daughters away in marriage.

Lutheran brides and bridegrooms may write their own wedding vows.

The new look is authorized in the publication of a new marriage service by the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship.

The commission comprises representatives of the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran church, the Lutheran church-Missouri synod and the Evangelical Lutheran church of Canada.

ALL LUTHERAN CHURCHES IN HURON, RICHMOND, CRAWFORD, Seneca and Erie counties belong to one or another of those branches of Lutheranism.

The new service has been published for use on a trial basis. Action to make it normative is left to the separate denominations.

"The bride is not the property of her father to be turned over to the husband whose property she becomes," says the Rev. Dr. Eugene L. Brand, director of the commission on worship of the Lutheran Church of America.

But in order to involve parents in the wedding, the new rite permits them to do so by laying their hands on the heads of their children in parental blessing.

As to writing of vows, the following suggestion is made in the section titled "Notes on the Service":

"The promises are the bride's and the bridegroom's own, and provision should be made for those who want to write their own form of promises, provided that they indicate the complete sharing which marriage implies and make clear that the promises are to be for a lifelong commitment. For it is not a formula that makes a marriage, but the promise of fidelity."

A SUGGESTED MARRIAGE VOW IS:

"I, _____, take you, _____, to be my wife (husband), and these things I will promise you:

Write a letter to the editor!

Classifieds Sell

I will be faithful to you and honest with you;
I will respect, trust, help and care for you;
I will share my life with you;
I will forgive you as we have been forgiven;
And I will try with you better to understand ourselves, the world and God;
Through the best and the worst of what is to come as long as we live."

In the new service, the Rev. Dr. Brand points out, the pastor does not pronounce the couple to be man and wife because "what constitutes the marriage is the pledge of faithfulness of the two people."

He says, "They have made themselves husband and wife through their promises."

SPADE WORK, THE KEYSTONE TO THE FUTURE

"Spade work" is necessary in any building operation whether it be a summer camp or a skyscraper. It is also necessary in character building. In each instance it means foundation preparation, initial work or training.

Starting a child in church is spade work for character building but the church does not stop there. As we grow to maturity it is all important in the building of a secure spiritual life, so that when the pleasures of youth begin to pall there will be a calmness of spirit and deep faith in the future as His hand guides it. You are never too young, never too old to find peace and joy in the Church of your faith.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir: I am taking this opportunity to let you know how much I appreciated and enjoyed the Memorial Day program held as a part of centennial celebration of the Plymouth High School. I thought it was especially fitting and proper to have the young folks involved, since any ceremony involving the centennial of the local school system must of necessity involve the present members attending the school system as well as the past graduates.

While I was a guest in the home of local friends and community celebration of the local schools' centennial gave me the opportunity of visiting with many old friends as I am sure the centennial celebration and Memorial Day observance gave to innumerable other visitors to Plymouth.

I would especially like to advise you how well I thought the program was organized and conducted as well as to compliment Rev. Paetznick on his patriotic thoughts and expressions of love and affection for this land of ours which all true Americans honor and respect. Again thank you for a memorable weekend and best wishes to you and all of my Plymouth friends. Affectionately, an old Plymouth resident and friend,
Clara M. Darling
10 Traxler St.
Butler, Ohio

Sir: I just finished reading "Drug Abuse", distributed by the Richmond county sheriff's department. I hope this book will be made required reading material of all Richland county school children as well as their parents. All people concerned about the drug problem in Richland county should read this well prepared book. The sheriff's department is concerned. Why must we wait until it happens to our very own children to be concerned? Drug abuse can be prevented if our children are thoroughly educated and fully informed about drugs. We can't turn our backs anymore, the problem will not go away if it is ignored. I hope that all Richland county schools will make plans to use this book and other materials available through the sheriff's department to provide a drug education program next September.

This book also gives twelve rules on "How to Raise a Delinquent Child". I am going to put these rules in my kitchen where my family and myself can see them each day.

1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way, he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.

2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think he's "cute". It will also encourage him to pick up "cute" phrases that will blow off the top of your head later.

3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21, and let him decide for himself.

4. Avoid use of the word "drug". It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe, later, when he is arrested for stealing a car, that society is being persecute him and he is being persecuted.

5. Pick up everything he leaves lying around -- books, shoes, toys. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibilities on others.

6. Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Have no censors whatever for what goes into his mind. Be careful that silverware and drinking glasses are sterilized, but let him feast on garbage. Provide him with sanitary cups for his lips, but let his mind drink out of any dirty container.

7. Quarrel frequently in front of him.

8. Give him all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

9. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink and comfort. See that every desire is gratified. Denial may lead to harmful frustration.

10. Praise him in the presence of all the neighbors. Show how much smarter he is than the neighbors' children. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.

11. When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I never could do anything with him."

12. Prepare for a life of grief. You will be likely to have it.

It is much better to give than receive if we, as parents, give more of ourselves (not material things), we would receive much more from our children. For once just stop and think what a terribly confusing world our kids are living in. I don't believe I would want to be the teenager of today. You know, they have to be very strong individuals to withstand all the pressures of today's world. I pray that he will be the kind of parent my children need to draw their strength from, with hope for their future,
Karen Caudill

Frosh coach moves up at Crestline

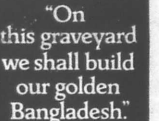

By THE OLD TIMER
Gary Strong, freshmen basketball coach at Crestline for five seasons, has been promoted head coach, succeeding Steve Staton. He teaches sixth grade. Strong is an alumnus of Kent State University. His freshmen coaching record is 46-and-28. A native of Geneva, he was chosen over 19 others. Now only the Lexington job is vacant in the strong eight-school Johnny Appleseed conference. Successful John Barr, who led the Minutemen to the finals of the Class AA tournament in March is leaving to become head basketball coach of Grove City College, Grove City, Pa.

WILLIAM VOSELO, former head grid coach at Loudonville and lately assistant at Malabar High School, is the new head football coach at Wellington.

The 38-year-old Vose succeeds J. Gawan Stokel, who quit to return to his home town in Pennsylvania. A graduate of Muskingum college, New Concord, Vose coached at Mansfield in 1959-60, was head coach at Loudonville from 1960-65 (record was 14-15-1), left teaching in 1963 and worked as a salesman near Mansfield for five years. He reentered coaching at Malabar in 1966.

CARD OF THANKS
My family and I wish to thank our friends who so kindly remember me while I was in the hospital. Now, I am at home and I feel better.
Dr. C. E. Hatnum Sr.

Millions of Bengali children have a dream. But dreams needs medicine, good-water and a roof over it. A dream needs food, blankets, and money. $1 sent to the United Nations Children's Fund brings high-protein foods to three infants for three months. $2 buys a blanket. A dream needs money if it's going to be more than a dream.

The Bible Answer To:
CAN MARRIAGE BE HAPPY??

God intended marriage to be heaven on earth. He created marriage for human pleasure, human partnership and human parenthood. God intended marriage to be a very wonderful experience and He never meant it to be a matter of "putting up with each other." Sad, but true, there are few happy marriages. Every day in the papers across the country there are sometimes more couples filing for divorce than for marriage licenses.

Marriage can be happy if we follow God's pattern. The Bible tells us there is only one way to have a marriage as God designed. YOU MUST LOVE EACH OTHER. Love is the pattern for a happy marriage. Often, couples have come to my study to talk about getting married and you know they will be unhappy because they enter marriage looking for something rather than with the idea of giving themselves to one another.

Eph. 5:81 tells us what it means to love one another. "Submitting yourselves one to another . . ." Love is self-giving and self-denying. Love wants to give but most people only want to receive. Most couples are self-centered and so they are quick to find fault with one another. Do you have a happy marriage?

ROBERT KELLY, HEAD basketball coach at Black River, in the Firelands conference, will also serve as athletic director. He succeeds David Ritchie, high school principal, who took the job from Rol Harring, who resigned.

Former Plymouth resident, Steven Kleer, Shelby, has been chosen No. 1 player on the all-Northen Ohio league football squad. He carded an average of 39 for nine holes during the season. He is the second son of the John Kleers.
