Girl, 16, fined $10 on unruliness charge

Fines by her attorney, Vincent Phelan, 546 E. By, that a 16-year-old Plymouth girl was detained four days in an adult cell before a hearing on charges of unruliness were rejected by Judge W. W. Badger in Richland county juvenile court last week.

The Holmes county jurist, sitting on assignment because Judge Ralph E. Johns disqualified himself, fined her $10 and assessed court costs of $84.

He ruled that Phelan's arguments did not alter the fact that she was charged with unruliness in that she violated Shelby's a curfew ordinance.

Phelan suspended Richland county commissioner-ers (on the grounds they failed to provide suitable juvenile detention quarters) and Richland county sheriff's deputies (on the grounds that she was infact detained because she was a suspect in the burning of Rome's covered bridge).

She was taken into custody Feb. 13. A detention hearing was conducted Feb. 22, since Feb. 21 was a legal holiday.

Her mother testified she was not allowed to see her daughter in the county jail because visiting hours occur on Thursdays. In this case, that date would have been Feb. 24.

Trojans lace Red, 20-6

Cunningham runs 55 yards with interception

The cracklerjack South Central band played "Hail to the Conquering Heroes" as it marched on the field in Mary Fete park Friday night.

It was a prophetic choice, for the visiting Trojans administered a sound 20 to 6 beating of Plymouth in the season's opener for both Class A schools.

Aside from a brief moment in the early moments of the second period, when the Big Red had first down at the Trojan seven yard line, Plymouth was never in the game.

South Central's Roy Howard was Mr. Inside and when Plymouth's defense keyed on him, Chuck Rinehart ran the Big Red ragged as Mr. Outside.

Offensively, Plymouth was not able to do much. It made only seven first downs all night — just one of them in the second half — and gained a net of 89 yards rushing.

Defensively, the Big Red's line play was less than satisfactory and the tackling in the secondary and tertiary not wholly admirable.

THE TROJANS BROKE out on top the first time they got their hands on the ball.

Plymouth took the opening kickoff and was unable to advance. After Kim Carter punted 33 yards to the Trojan 26, South Central drove 74 yards in eight plays to score.

Howard was the work horse in this drive. The big 195-pound fullback hit right tackle for 41 yards and a first down at the Red 13 and then, two plays later, bolted in from 11 yards out. The hole over left guard would have admitted a dress thought.

Howard booted the PAT from placement and South Central had enough to win. The clock read 6:36.

The Trojans nearly scored with a neat bit of deception early in the third period. On fourth down, with 15 to go, Guy Ebinger found big Don Pettit alone in the secondary and hit him with a strike. Sadly, Pettit dropped the ball.

Plymouth threatened a bit later. Carter took the ball on a tricky reverse and swept deep into Trojan territory, only to see the red flag for a clipping offense. Plymouth never recovered. Carter's punt went to Randy Garner at the Trojan 46.

On the first play, Chuck Rinehart hit the middle, broke free and swept 54 yards for the second Trojan score. The Plymouth defense was completely outrun.

The PAT kick was wide. PLYMOUTH RETALIATED, thanks to alert defensive work by Don Cunningham, in the next series.

On first down, the result of the smartest play in football — the recovery of a fumbled punt — Ebinger sought to throw a screen pass. Cunningham, a reserve end, was Johnny - on - the - spot, nalled the ball and sped untouched 55 yards for the score.

The pass for PATs was not good.

The Trojans weren't finished. With 2:40 remaining, they obtained first down at the Red 29 and after Howard, who carried 22 times for 118 yards, hit left tackle for six, Rinehart hit the middle, bounced off a tackler, then swept to his right and went 23 yards for the final TD. Howard's placement was good.

Plymouth was dead thereafter.

It was not an encouraging performance. Pre-season forecasts were that South Central would be the weakest opponent of the season. If this is so, only dismal days and nights face Red supporters, who may find the only bright spot to be the comely brunette in red pants who directs the improved Red band. She is certainly a handsome thing and she seems to know what she's about.

a fool and his money are soon parted...

Armstrong Roberts

Today, the newer meaning of this wise proverb is that money spent on the spur of the moment--money that just slips out of your hands--is usually spent unwisely and on a whim. Be smart by opening a Peoples National Bank CHECKING ACCOUNT! With this convenience, you have a permanent record of expenses and receipts for your purchases. In this way, you budget your pleasure . . . and avoid empty pockets like the clown, the proverbial "fool."

Why it pays to feed a lawn in Fall

The Fall-fed Lawn

LATE SUMMER	FALL	WINTER	SPRING
Summer-weakened grass needs feeding badly to "bounce back" from hot weather and wear and tear.	Fall feeding stimulates root and rhizome growth. Encourages new side shoots (fillers) and restores good green color.	Lawn lies dormant waiting for Spring weather to start the growth cycle again.	Previous Fall's feeding encourages early green-up. Last Fall's new fillers and rhizomes develop rapidly making thick green turf.

To fertilize your lawn this Fall we recommend Scotts TURF BUILDER. It is the prolonged-release fertilizer that gives up its nutrients only as the grass needs them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing. Instead, TURF BUILDER makes your lawn grow thicker, greener and sturdier. TURF BUILDER is a pleasure to use--it's clean, odorless and light in weight. This week end would be a great time.

W. M. Miller takes bride

Culminating a schoolyard romance, Miss Vicki Lynn Redden was married Saturday at 4:30 p. m. before the altar of First Evangelical Lutheran church by the Rev. Ronald F. Graham to William Martin Miller, a student of veterinary medicine in Ohio State university.

The bride is the only daughter of the Wallace Redden, 360 West Broadway. The bridegroom is the elder son of the William R. Millers, 77 North street.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and gladioli lighted by two seven-branched candelabra, the bride was attired in a full-skirted, floor-length gown of dacron polyester organza fashioned with neckline outlined by scalloped cotton gurgare Venice lace. The skirt formed a red-tinge effect that swept to a Venice lace edged wateau and chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil was suspended from a headpiece of Venice lace. She carried white chrysanthemums, yellow roses and stephanotis, to which she added a handkerchief brought by her maternal grandfather, Sourwine from France over 50 years ago, the same handkerchief her mother carried at her own wedding.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Timothy Redden, was matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Mary Lee, and Miss Karen Yursak, the bride's college roommate, and Miss Melodie Sourwine, Akron, the bride's cousin, were bridesmaids.

Auntie cites a 'must' for citizen-taxpayer

BY AUNT LIZ
It seems that just about every six years a really good book appears, and there is one now.

Like the other two I read with gusto and remember vividly, Edmund Wilson's "Dead Sea Scrolls," and Truman Capote's, "In Cold Blood." It was published in the New Yorker before coming out in book form. It is called "Fire in the Lake - The Vietnamese and Americans in Vietnam." Like the other two, it will probably become the best seller of the year.

For all the reading we do, this is the first time I have had the chance to read the complete history and background of Vietnam in one place. The young author, Frances FitzGerald, has done a terrific job. She is a true scholar, a graduate of Radcliffe and has studied at Yale.

If you have to wait in line too long at the library to get your turn, just find the five issues of the July of the New Yorker and read the condensed form. Everyone, and mostly tax payers, should read this.

If you are building a library, then spend $1.250 and buy it. It will most likely become the classic work on the war.

IT IS A LITTLE strange, but just as I had finished reading the five issues of the New Yorker, our daughter asked if we could send her a reading list of older library books since all the newer ones had long waiting lists of names, and she wouldn't stand much of a chance at them for months.

It really wasn't easy to come up with titles which were really good. I think one's age and reading one's age and reading have to go together. At 12, Zane Grey was really fascinating. Then there were the Charlie Chan stories which really set a sixth grader apart from the others. I don't even think our teacher read them. She caught me once either one on my map when I should have been struggling with long division and made a nasty remark. Some of the classics of English literature, though, have no peers. The Bronie sisters who dreamed up "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights" might have been old maids, but they knew their stuff. If you have never seen the movie of the latter with Lawrence Olivier and Merle O-beron, where she runs around on the moors calling, "Heathcliffe, Heathcliffe," your life is missing something. It is like the Borgia murder of that den of inquiry in Casablanca where Sam ponds on the piano. That movie probably did more for the tourist trade of the country than anything else.

There does come a time, when you can get a little tired of all the porno there is around us. Then go back to something like Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us," or T. E. Lawrence's "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," and if you really want to be entertained and it doesn't matter how old you are, there is nothing like Milton's "Winnie the Pooh." It may be a child's book, but adults can laugh more at it. Mary Poppins is also in this class. I didn't see the movie, but I doubt if it could have captured what Mary Poppins was really like.

HERE IS ANOTHER book I would highly recommend for the adventure, the history, and the pathos of human suffering. I doubt if you could find it in any library. It is titled simply, "General Greeley," and is written by General William Mitchell, who was the planner of our Air Force. It is the story of an expedition in the Arctic attempting back in the late 1860's of exploring toward the North Pole. They were lost for three years, and by the time they were found there were about five left. Mitchell wrote his book from diaries and the official Congressional report of the expedition.

Now that football season is starting, it calls for something special for all the hungry people who worked so hard in the stands through four long quarters.

You can always pop a pizza in the oven, but this is served rather late at night, no one need worry about its main ingredient, onions, onions.

Start with bread dough: The frozen can work very well. Follow the directions and when it is on its second time, roll it out to fit a cookie sheet that has been greased. For the filling, finely chop about six large onions so you have about four cupsful. Measure two tablespoons of butter, melt and cook four slices of diced bacon in it. Add the onion, some salt two tablespoons of caraway seeds, stir up and cook until the onions are a nice yellow shade. Sprinkle in a tablespoon of flour and stir quickly so as to mix it all up. Add three-fourths cup of sour cream into which two eggs have been beaten. Add to the onions, cook a few minutes until it is all blended.

Spread this over the dough which is still rising for the second time, and let it sit for a few minutes before putting in to the oven. It should bake at about 400 degrees until the onion mixture is set and the dough is nice and crisp around the edges.

Red underdog vs. Eagles

Monroeville seems too strong defensively for Plymouth and should win in Mary Fata park tomorrow night by at least a touchdown.

The score could be higher if the Eagles find themselves offensively.

Plymouth did not show much against what was regarded as a weak South Central eleven Friday night and took a 20 to 6 lacing.

Kim Carter was the bellwether of such Plymouth attack as the Big Red could mount. But he can't do it alone.

Coach Larry Root's offensive line did not perform up to expectations - there is no doubt that the loss of Sid Ream handicaps the Big Red (he is probably out for another five weeks) - and this failure to sustain any offense worthy of the name put enormous pressure on the defense.

South Central is not especially fast but was able to gain on Plymouth outside. The Eagles have in Marc Jones a power runner of the stripe of Roy Howard and Plymouth's defense will have to come up with a special performance to contain the inside game.

DON LONG IS A MORE experienced quarterback than his opponent, Ray Hughes, and the Eagles

Club told how to dry flowers

Shiloh Town & Country Garden club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Dooson, when 12 members and one guest, Mrs. William Schuller, were present. They gave hints for winter care of house plants for roll call. County meeting will be Wednesday, Oct. 11, at Kingwood meeting rooms. Speaker will be Charles Applegate on "Strong Bulbs."

Theme of the flower show will be "Nature's Bounty". Specimen classes will include berried shrubs, berried vines, dried flowers and dried pods.

A letter was read from the Richland Soil and Water Conservation service concerning the county tour Oct. 14 and 15.

Kingwood report was given by Mrs. C. O. Butler.

Mrs. Dean Hammen gave the program, assisted by Mrs. Harold Cobin. It concerned "How to Dry Flowers". Various methods may be used. Air drying is satisfactory for cecils, statice and strawflowers. A group may be tied together and hung upside down in a dry place. For a graceful curve for some materials, drying in a vase accomplishes this.

A commercial product, silica gel, is good for drying asters, simlins, marigolds, Queen Ann's lace and similar flowers.

One part borax, mixed with six parts of corn meal or two parts of borax to one part sand may be used to dry flowers. Blossoms should be cut from the stems and wires inserted into the blossoms and then placed in the drying agent with blossom end down, with only the wire stem exposed. Flowers with more substance such as roses should be placed with the stem end down. Drying may take two to three weeks for this type of flowers while some will require only three to four days to dry.

To preserve foliage, use one part glycerine to two parts of water. Crush the stem end of shrubs or tree foliage and place in the mixture. The leaves should cure in two weeks or longer and will remain soft and pliable.

Pressing is another method of drying small types of flowers and foliage. Place paper towels on a double thickness of newspaper, and then the flowers. Cover with paper towels and more newspaper and weight with a heavy object. Drying time is about a week. These preserved items are used for pictures, trays or screens.

Members are planning to have a township sale including a bake sale in October.

Officers for the coming year are Mrs. Ethel Steele, president; Mrs. Ben Drake, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Dooson, secretary; Mrs. John Gundrum, assistant; Mrs. C. O. Butler, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene Russell, assistant.

Next meeting will be Oct. 9 at the home of Mrs. Gundrum.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dick and Mrs. Grace Barnd were in Van Buren Saturday to call on their sister, Mrs. Carl Wagner.

What Time Is It?

"Behold, now is the accepted time: behold, now is the day of salvation."

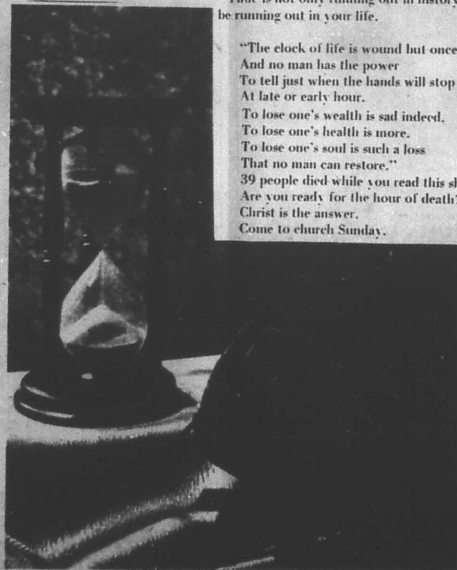

A question often asked is, "What time is it?" Then we often hear it said, "It is later than you think." All prophets points to the fact that it is late in the history of the world, and Christ will soon return. At this late hour we need to be ready to meet Him.

Time is not only running out in history, but it may be running out in your life.

"The clock of life is wound but once, And no man has the power To tell just when the hands will stop At late or early hour.

To lose one's wealth is sad indeed, To lose one's health is more. To lose one's soul is such a loss That no man can restore."

39 people died while you read this short poem. Are you ready for the hour of death? Christ is the answer. Come to church Sunday.
