

Elbow grease and love formula of Miss Fogal

(Ed. Note: This piece was contributed by Jim Richards, director, communications office, Catholic Diocese of Toledo.)

Teresa Mary Fogal believes that her mission in life is to serve God and the way to serve God is by using the talents God gave her.

Miss Fogal is not a theologian or scholar, she is a retired factory worker and a member of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic parish, Plymouth.

"God gave me so much in my life, the world, pleasures of all kinds, and the ability to make my own way in life -- I can never pay the Lord back -- but I can keep working for Him," she says.

To Miss Fogal, God's work is usually simple. "Praying and going to church, those are things that we owe God -- but the real work of God -- for me that is simple, everyday things that I can do for others or for the church," she said.

Miss Fogal's efforts range from making sure that there are flowers on the altar at her parish church, St. Joseph's in Plymouth, to distributing Bibles for the parish, to helping with the dishes at a social event, or soliciting funds for the Diocesan Development Fund (DDF), a stewardship program of the Catholic Church of Northwestern Ohio.

Her most recent project consists of cataloging religious books and periodicals in the library of the religious education center at Shelby, a diocesan educational institution intended to serve the community in the Mansfield - Shelby - Plymouth area financed by the DDF.

"I'm not a great speaker or very smart," Miss Fogal said, "all I can give God is a little elbow grease and my love".

Miss Fogal lives at 48 Mill street, where her family has maintained a home since 1901.

The Voice of The Advertiser --

On spirit

The plaint of the young cheerleader recorded here earlier disturbs us.

Anyone with the ability to see and count can note that attendance at high school athletic functions by pupils is not what it ought to be. Not only here, either.

As we read the rules of the OHSAA, the purpose of interscholastic athletics is to build school spirit, to develop pride, to build character and respect for rule and order, to encourage fair play for ALL pupils, not just the 33 boys on the basketball squad or the 24 boys on the baseball nine, or on (whatever aggregation the school fields.

If the program does not cater to and divert the pupils, it should not be undertaken, if we read the rules correctly.

It's no secret that pupil participation in activities wholly designed for them is weak. Even when they're paying the whole bill, as at the Junior-Senior Prom, attendance is weak. Only a small proportion of those eligible show up for the affair.

Could it be that tastes have changed? That high school pupils aren't interested in competitive athletics?

Nobody will make us believe that it's a matter of price. The 75-cent ticket doesn't hurt a single pupil, so far as we can see. And we have been assured that there're ways to "work out" the cost of a ticket by the boy or girl who honestly can't afford it.

Where do our young people go of a Friday or Saturday evening?

There is certainly no place in either of the municipalities in the school district where they congregate in any number, and certainly not in female numbers. There is no movie house in Shelby or Willard. To drive to Norwalk, Ashland or Mansfield implies having transportation and the $2 for a movie ticket.

Perhaps the school would be well advised to make a detailed study of the habits of its pupils to determine:

1. Whether the present program appeals to a MAJORITY of the pupils;
2. If not, whether the present extra-curricular program should be continued for a MINORITY of pupils, given its relatively high cost to the electors of the school district;
3. Whether some other program ought to be instituted to afford the pupils a wholesome, well-rounded assortment of activities;
4. If so, what form this other program should take.

The pupils enrolled in our school are certainly entitled to their own values. If they disdain social dancing, then drop it. If they aren't interested in dramatics, forensics, athletics or whatever, do we have the obligation to compel them to perform? Or even to what their interest? If they have the right to wear their hair long, or their skirts short, they also have the right to choose how they will divert themselves, subject to the laws applicable to society as a whole.

We wouldn't for the world deprive a single pupil of an opportunity if we can afford it. The question is, do we have sufficient participation to warrant the cost of what we're doing? And, by corollary, what can we do to increase participation to reduce the per capita cost to a respectable figure?

Council asks for conference on Square plan

After studying the second set of plans for the Square and traffic pattern prepared by Urban Livengood, Jr., Norwalk, at the suggestion of Councilman, Hubert Akers, the council decided to meet with him for an explanation.

Jacobs said that many persons in the village favor a flat monthly charge on their utility bill ($1 has been suggested in the past) to provide them with fire, ambulance service. With about 850 electrical users, the sum realized would readily pay for the service and a fund could be created for a future vote. McKown said he thought there may be a problem of enforcing payment of such a service and several councilmen agreed with him.

10 local boys arrested in 1972 in traffic court

Ten male Plymouth juveniles living in Huron county were dealt with by Huron county juvenile court during 1972 as traffic offenders, none on complaint of Plymouth police, Judge Russell T. Antrim says in his annual report.

One male juvenile was dealt with as an unlicensed driver, described as one who does not subject himself to the reasonable control of his parent or guardian, teacher, or custodian, by reason of being wayward or habitually disobedient; who is an habitual truant; who deposits himself as to injure or endanger the health or morals of himself or others; who attempts a marriage in Ohio or elsewhere without parental consent; who is found in a disreputable place, visible or patronizes a place prohibited by law, or associates with vagrant, vicious, criminal, notorious or immoral persons; who engages in an occupation prohibited by law, or who has violated a law applicable only to children.

Legion burns mortgage

Forty-four members received 25-year membership pins when Ebert Parsel Post 447, American Legion, burned its $10,000 mortgage Saturday night.

The Ohio and 5th district commander gave impromptu remarks.

Speaking for the post, A. L. Paddock, Jr., said the mortgage represented only 40 per cent of the investment in the building and credited a "strong community spirit" by members and non-members alike for completing the building program.

James C. Davis, adjutant, and Harold Laser, commander, presented 25-year pins to Robert L. Bachrach, Clarence Barnes, Robert Brothers, Norwalk; Fred L. Buzzard, Earl C. Cashman, Gerald W. Caywood, W. Lawrence Cornell, James C. Davis; Also, John T. Dick,

Four council seats on Nov. 6 ballot

Terms of four village councilmen and three members of Plymouth Board of Education will expire Dec. 31.

Nominating petitions bearing the signatures of at least 25 registered voters must be filed by a candidate with the Richland county board of elections 90 days before the general election on Nov. 6.

Councilmen whose terms expire -- none of them elected by popular ballot to his office -- are Edward O. Ramsey, Donald E. Akers, Tom Patton and Frank R. Garber.

Each is completing the unexpired term of a councilman who resigned.

The other two councilmen, James L. Jacobs, Sr., and Hubert V. Akers, are serving terms that expire Dec. 31, 1975.

Jacobs was elected by popular ballot in November, 1971, to a four-year term. The other councilmanic vacancy was one filled for an unexpired term.

The council in January, 1972, elected Hugh M. Washburn to that term. When he resigned, the mayor appointed Hubert V. Akers to it.

Both officers of Plymouth Board of Education, President R. Harold Mack and the vice-president, the Rev. Arthur Hamman, and Richard D. Fackler, who was appointed to an unexpired term, face reelection in November.

The village clerk's term expires Dec. 31, 1975. Terms of two township trustees will expire Dec. 31. Incumbents in Plymouth township whose terms expire are Virgil Baird and Paul Stoodt. Incumbents in New Haven township who face reelection or retirement are Willard Baxter and Thomas Haas, Jr.

Ellis named

Carl V. Ellis is chairman for Richmond, Norwalk, New Haven and Greenfield townships and the Village of Plymouth during the annual Heart Drive fund that begins Feb. 17.

Mark Haas, son of the James Haases, Old State road, who underwent open heart surgery in September will be "King of Hearts" this year.

He is now a pupil in the second grade of Milan Elementary school.

Spiger goes on field trip

Douglas Spiger, son of Mrs. George Spiger, Shiloh, is one of 12 Bluffton college students currently involved in a field biology course in Florida during the January module.

The students, all science majors with interest in biology, were to camp in the John Pennekamp Coral Reef State park about 50 miles south of Miami, Fla. in the Florida keys. Richard Pannabecker, professor of biology, is the group's leader.

Warriors rip Big Red

Visitors' defense too much for Plymouth in JAC play

Ontario outshot, outrebounded and outplayed Plymouth in the second half here Friday night to earn a 77 to 62 Johnny Appleseed conference victory.

The Warriors fell behind in the second period — Plymouth led by three at the half, at 35 to 32 — and tied the score at 35 at 17 of the third period.

Rex Linkenbach fired one in from the corner at 6:54 to establish a two point Ontario lead that was more than sufficient. Plymouth never was in the ball game after that.

The Big Red could not cope with the Ontario defense. It failed to work its plays toward the basket and took its shots from the foul line and farther out.

A technique that works only when a team is a good shooting one. This Plymouth was not. OUTREACHED BY ONTARIO, Plymouth could not rebound with the Warriors.

And its shaky shooting put a high premium on rebounding. Plymouth took down 36 rebounds, 19 of them by Craig McPherson, who scored 15 points.

It was the failure of Ray Hughes to score at his usual level that prevented Plymouth from making a contest of it.

Hughes scored only six, well below his average. Since Plymouth was beaten by only 17, it is plain that the off night of Hughes was a contributing factor to the defeat.

One other oversight cost Plymouth dearly: it failed to bring along its trusty shotgun, with which to deal with Don Kline.

THIS TRANSFER FROM Shelby scored 32 points, 30 of them on field goals.

Vernon Yancey, the reboundable guard, bagged 18 for the visitors. Linkenbach had 14, the only other Warrior in two figures.

Joe Lasch, coming into his own offensively of late, scored 16 to lead the Big Red.

Chuck Willford had 12 and Ralph Noble 11. Ontario had 34 free throws and connected on only nine. A better performance here would have skyrocketed the Warriors' score. Plymouth shot four of only seven tries.

The Warriors got off 89 tries for field goal, converting 34 of them. Plymouth 29 of 72.

THIS IS NOT A GREAT Ontario team but it can shoot well, it goes to the boards effectively and it defense soundly. It is a worthy competitor for the league championships, which with a break or two it might just win.

Gas is precious, pure energy. Use it wisely.

Because natural gas has always been so inexpensive, there has never been a great urge to conserve it.

Until now, there's just not enough natural gas to supply all the new demands for the cleanest-burning fuel. Of course, as a gas customer, you don't have to worry about getting the gas you need for the appliances now in your home ... or their replacements.

But the shortage of natural gas, indeed, the shortage of all clean-burning fuels, is becoming a grave threat to our community's economic growth. More clean-burning gas is desperately needed. Not only to stimulate economic growth and provide more jobs, but simply to maintain current requirements.

A healthy economy needs natural gas. And a healthy environment needs natural gas. Use gas wisely in your home and business. It's too valuable to waste.

And the gas you leave, together with the new gas Columbia is working hard to develop, can help ease the gas shortage. Write to Columbia Gas for the free booklet: "30 Ways to Save."

Bellyflopping days

Auntie yearns for simple pleasures of yesteryear, recites recipe for applesauce cake

By AUNT LIZ
Is there anyone old enough to remember going "belly flop" down a nice long hill on a sled that was maybe a little shorter than he?

You can outgrow the things, you know.

We had a particularly good hill in our neighborhood when I was quite small, and because it was so scenic, some clowns built a beautiful house on it, and that ended that. It was fun while it lasted, though.

Sleds go way, way back in history. Some one has found a wooden runner in Finland that they date back to 6500 B.C.

In our country, the earliest manufacturers began in the New England states, in the 1800's, and in 1844 there were 11 such companies. Later a company in Paris, Me., was turning out 200,000 a year. Along about 1890, the first steering sled was put out. Remember the American Flyer? I think they still make them.

Back then you could buy a good sturdy one from Montgomery Ward from 60 cents to $1.88.

Now we are in the snowmobile age. I heard a radio broadcast several years ago when they were just beginning to become popular, in which someone made the statement that the sound of the motor could cause a definite deafness. They must be a riot to ride with their speed, but can they take the place of flying down a long hill and that nice walk pulling your sled behind you back up again? That is probably what kept us so healthy.

No doubt you have all read the story about the college boy who was let loose in a wooded area in California before the holidays as a fraternity prank. It was a tragedy.

But did you read the comment one of his parents made, that he was not used to walking and had been driven everywhere?

We all love Detroit, naturally, because just about our whole economy depends on it, but perhaps it has gone a little too far. One place, perhaps, they ought to cut down is on school buses.

Old fashioned, no doubt, but a good idea so a walk each way isn't going to hurt anyone and will do more good than all the vitamin pills in the world. And it is certain to work up good healthy appetites for something worthwhile eating rather than a Coke and potato chips.

THIS WILL HELP YOU to use up any left overs from your holiday baking that will not last until the next season.

It's for a fruity applesauce cake, and eaten practically out of the oven with a little bit of vanilla ice cream, which will get melty on it, is "right soothing".

It may be a dessert, but you can rationalize that it is downright healthful because of what is in it. Cream a cup of brown sugar with a half cup of any kind of shortening.

Add a teaspoon each of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Mix two teaspoons of soda with three cups of flour and add this to the creamed mixture with a cup and half of applesauce. It will be a little hard to beat, but keep going until it is all mixed. Then you add a cup of chopped up nuts, one of raisins and two cups of candied fruit.

This recipe will make two loaf pans' worth. Bake for an hour in a slow oven, about 325 degrees. It will keep very well for a few days if it is not all eaten. Just wrap it well in tin foil.

If you do not have kids around, you can make a rum sauce to pour over the slices and serve it for guests. This is also "right soothing". Cream a half cup of butter with a cup of sugar, then stir over a low flame until it boils. Take off the stove and add a fourth of a cup rum, light or dark. It makes no difference. Serve it hot on the slices of cake.

Ex-Plymouth boy wins 'man of year' award Trinity coach is 'Man of the Year'

By Robin Garr III
Staff Writer

Is a prophet without honor in his own country?

Not in St. Matthews, where last Wednesday the local Optimist Club presented its "Man of the Year" award to hometown grid coach Jim Kennedy. Kennedy, it almost goes without saying, is the coach who guided the Trinity High School football Shamrocks to an undefeated season and their second Triple A state football championship this fall. Kennedy, guest speaker at the Optimist meeting, told the group of "the ingredients for building a winner, both on and off the field."

Ferment among these ingredients, the coach told the Optimists, is discipline; with an infusion of integrity, pride and enthusiasm.

It was the installation of these spirits in his Trinity teams, Kennedy said, that led the squad from the depths of grid mediocrity to state dominance over a six-year period.

"When I was ready to leave Flaget in 1966," the coach recalled, "I was told I'd made a horrible, horrible mistake.

"Young men in the East End," Kennedy said, "were supposed to drive Cadillac. They told me they're rosy-cheeked, pink-kneed little boys who don't want to win."

But, the coach said, "I didn't believe that. I figured their parents were winners, or they wouldn't live where they did."

When he came to the St. Matthews school, though, Kennedy added, "I was almost ready to believe that I'd been told was true. I found young men there who were total individualists, filled with false pride, and apathetic about life in general. But deep down, I knew it wasn't so."

Over 100 players turned out for the team that first spring training season, the coach recalled, but only 24 stuck with the team after the first three days. "I said we'd win three games our first year, and we were fortunate enough to do so," the coach said. "The next year, the squad rose by five men, and we were fortunate enough to win four, five and six."

"But at the end of that season," he said, "I could see the light at the end of the tunnel." The men had lost some of their less desirable traits," he said, "and began to understand what it took to be a winner."

In 1969, the team won nine, lost only one and became state champions for the first time. "They'd learned goal-orientation, discipline, true pride and enthusiasm," the coach said. "It was beginning to pay off."

The next year, the Shamrocks piled up another imposing 9-1 slate, traveling to Ohio to beat the state's champions. "People write us letters," Kennedy said. "They wanted to know if we were a military school, because they were so impressed with our discipline."

Again the following year, 1970, the 'Rocks were city champions. "But we lost to a better team -- Butler -- whose coach thinks the same way I do, for the state," Kennedy added.

Then in 1971, Trinity slipped to a dismal 3-8 season. "Frankly, I became sad, dumb and happy," Kennedy admitted. "I taught techniques, but I forgot to teach attitude."

Placing on himself complete blame for the team's bad year, Kennedy told of a serious drinking problem among some members of the squad.

"I got to the point where we had to compromise or not compromise," the coach said, "I got to the point where the boys were drinking and running around everywhere, and everybody knew it except me."

The offenders were banned from the team, "and we finished out the season the best we could."

Placing discipline over winning last year paid off this year, the coach is convinced. "I've never been so proud of a team in 19 years of coaching," he said, "I don't check on my kids, but I'd shake my life on it, there was no alcohol, no tobacco on the team this year."

"The boys had great integrity, high intelligence, and some talent -- not a great deal -- but they had integrity."

Athletics is important in schools, Kennedy said, though "not no Catholic school and only a few of the public schools in the county does 'the tall wag the dog.'"

Athletes, Kennedy concluded, "is the last vestige of discipline left in our country. Take athletics out of our schools, and we're in trouble."

"Though all can't play," the coach said, "sports is the lowest common denominator in the school -- everyone can identify with the team."

Receiving the "Man of the Year" plaque from Optimist President Jack Kleinholder, Kennedy said, "It's the greatest honor. I'm rarely speechless, but I'm speechless about this."

Other head table guests included Optimist vice president and Trinity Freshman grid coach, the Rev. Jack Beatty, Optimist Kentucky-West Virginia Governor Dick Beard, and Optimist Zone Five Lt. Gov. Tom Brown.

After the meeting, Optimist John "Santa Claus" O'Leary, clad in black and white instead of the traditional red, distributed small gifts to the members and guests.

COACH JIM KENNEDY talks to his winning team of players and fans at the Trinity athletic banquet Sunday, Dec. 17.

--from THE VOICE-JEFFERSONIAN, Jefferson county, Ky., Dec. 21, 1972

Jim Kennedy's team takes Kentucky AAA championship

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Driveway private, church says

Str: The driveway between the Presbyterian church and the post office is church property. When the driveway was built, there was an understanding between the church and the post office that its personnel could use the church driveway, in return for the use by the church of the post office's parking lot during church activities.

As time goes on, it appears that many assume the driveway is public property. Consequently the driveway is getting so much through traffic it is difficult to keep it in repair.

The cooperation of everyone in helping us to solve this problem will be most deeply appreciated.

Sincerely,
Trustees of First Presbyterian church.

Pupil lashes 'sneatiness'

Str: After reading the editorial concerning school spirit, I would like to share my feelings toward this problem.

As a pupil in P.H.S., maybe I can help explain why the situation is so bad as it is. This is my second year in high school and I have noticed the decrease of school spirit in one year. Last year it was really cool to see not only the team fired up at pep rallies, but also the pupils, and this spirit never died -- until this year!

It was also mentioned in the letter to the editor that if the fans don't have any spirit the team doesn't care if it wins or loses.

How false! The spirit should, and must, start within the team -- then then the fans can have spirit to boost! Therefore, if cheerleaders are to boost spirit within the school, why don't they?

The cheerleaders may say that the pupils give little cooperation. But is it a wonder? As a pupil I feel that the cheerleaders this year want attention more than they do cooperation! I also feel it is hard to give any cooperation to someone who thinks he is too good to even talk to many pupils. And this seems to be the situation at P.H.S. So I think that if the cheerleaders would quit their ego tripping, the pupils would be more helpful and cooperative!

20,000 tax bills for Huron county sent in mails

More than 20,000 real estate tax bills for the first half of 1972 collection are in the mails, John M. Arthur, new Huron county treasurer, announces.

They are slightly behind schedule because extra time was required in their preparation owing to roll-back, homestead exemption for senior citizens and even delay in getting printed forms.

Final date for payment with penalty will be Feb. 22.

As usual remittance may be made directly at the office through the mail or at all banks in the county. The rollback does not apply to special assessments.
