

Gas rate to go down slightly

A decrease in the natural gas rate in Plymouth was announced today by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc.

Beginning Mar. 1, residents of the community will pay .237 cents for each 1,000 cubic feet for natural gas, or about 36 cents a month for the average customer who heats his home with natural gas.

Cubs to revive at New Haven Monday night

An effort to revive Cub Scout Pack 224 at New Haven will be launched Monday at 7 p. m. in United Methodist church there.

All boys should be accompanied by a parent.

Van Wagner gets job of Smith

William L. Van Wagner, 212 Trux street, is the new assistant fire chief, succeeding W. Odrow Smith, who resigned after nearly a quarter of a century.

A graduate of Shiloh High school, the new assistant is a veteran production employee of Mansfield Tire & Rubber Co. He and his wife are the parents of two sons and a daughter, all grown.

Police trap obscene caller

James Andrew Eldridge, 25, 79 1/2 Plymouth street, was arrested there Tuesday afternoon on a charge of making obscene telephone calls.

He was detected by a call he made at 1:28 p. m. to The Gallery restaurant. Detection equipment held the line open and when Police Chief Robert L. Meiser accosted Eldridge, the telephone was open to The Gallery number.

Kin of Mrs. Moore, L. E. Barnhouse, dies at Mansfield

Uncle of Mrs. G. Thomas Moore, 137 Plymouth street, Leroy Edward Barnhouse, 66, Greenwich route 1, died Thursday in People's hospital, Mansfield, of an illness of nine months.

A native Indianan, he was retired from the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

He was a member of Greenwich Church of Christ.

He is also survived by his wife, Carrie; four sons, Lauren, Portage, Ind.; Kermit, Ashland, and Frederick and Hager, Greenwich; three daughters, Mrs. Shirley Moser, Greenwich; Mrs. Catherine Hawks, Hayesville, and Mrs. Mark Desires, Shiloh; three sisters, Mrs. Sylvia Predd, New Haven; Mrs. Lela Stevens, Gallon, and Mrs. Iez Means, Shiloh, and 24 grandchildren.

The Rev. Leonard Willard conducted services Friday at Willard. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

Workmen of Richland county were busy last week applying all-but-finishing touches to new bridge over Black Fork south of Rome, at cost of $28,000.

New bridge installed

Span replaces burned covered bridge

A $28,000 bridge of 20-foot width now spans the flood of the Black Fork south of Rome in Rome South road.

It replaces the covered bridge built in 1874 that was destroyed by fire in August, 1971, in what authorities said was an act of arson. They are still seeking clues to the identity of the arsonists.

One Plymouth juvenile sought redress in the courts because, she alleged, she was mistreated by police during their investigation of her connection with the fire.

IRS to offer tax advice at office in Mansfield

Internal Revenue Service office at 180 North Diamond street, Mansfield, will be open Saturdays starting Mar. 24 through Apr. 14 from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

James C. Glenn, local IRS representative, says IRS employees will be on duty at the office to help taxpayers fill out income tax returns. Telephone number for income tax assistance in Mansfield is 522-2402.

Fire slight, truck damaged

Firemen responded to a general alarm Jan. 24 to cope with a blaze in a refuse truck in the rear of 101 North street. Damage was slight.

Two rings for peace in 54 years

Ringed the fire siren Saturday at 7 p. m., to herald the cease fire, in Vietnam, proved to be an historical event for the village.

Mrs. Francis E. Guthrie rang it as she did on Nov. 11, 1918, to signify the end of World War I. Her father, William Fetters, was then serving as Plymouth's fire chief. It is also the same siren.

Willardite, 37, held for DWI, refuses test

Mary J. Holbrook, 37, Willard, refused to submit to breathalyzer test Saturday after she was charged with drunken driving at 9:20 p. m.

She was lodged in the village jail overnight and posted bond of $250 against appearance in mayor's court Feb. 15.

Thomas P. Marvin, 35, 62 Portner street, was charged with failure to stop within an assured clear distance and driving without a valid operator's license Saturday at 2:15 a. m.

Police said his car struck that driven by James Curtright, 18, 140 Plymouth street, in East Main street.

A son was born Sunday in Shelly Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Stover, Plymouth.

Eddie Arnold Francis, 25, 55 Petit street, Shiloh, was found guilty of drunken driving in Huron county court Jan. 8. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, 27 days to be suspended if he pays a fine of $200 and costs. His operator's license was suspended for 30 days.

Police committee will investigate.

Joseph J. Cibula was re-appointed fire chief by Mayor Grady McDonald. Bids to construct the new fire house will be opened Feb. 17 at noon in the village hall.

Shiloh will participate in acquisition of additional police radio equipment by paying $300 of the costs, the remainder to be funded by federal grants. City of Mansfield is the statutory agent for acquisition and will advertise for bids.

The apparatus consists of a mobile unit and two walkie talkies.

Suit for divorce lodged in Richland county common pleas court against Vincent Cole by Maudie C. Cole, also known as Maudie C. Fannin, has been dismissed.

Mrs. Gundrum seeks divorce

Suit for divorce lodged in Richland county common pleas court against Vincent Cole by Maudie C. Cole, also known as Maudie C. Fannin, has been dismissed.

So has the suit filed by Abby Shepherd, Shelly, against George Shepherd, Shiloh route 1.

First woman elected as officer by bank

Peoples National bank chalked up a first Thursday when Jean Ann Smith was appointed assistant cashier and an officer of the bank.

She is the first woman in the history of the bank to become an officer.

The late Mrs. Marion Franks, Shelly, was the bank's first woman employee.

A lifelong resident of the village, Miss Smith, 26, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Smith. She graduated from Plymouth High school in May, 1964, and immediately began working as a bookkeeper in the bank.

Deed corrected after 92 years

Plymouth Methodist church has acquired land in Plymouth from James S. Babcock, Huron county recorder reports.

The transaction clears a title that dates to 1880, when 12 feet of land in Lot 34 at Dix and Sandusky streets was conveyed to the church by another. The deed was improperly recorded and lay undetected until the Babcocks purchased the property formerly belonging to the David E. Scrafieles.

Corps to defend sewage plans

A public hearing is set at Willard High school Thursday at 8 p. m. in which the Army Corps of Engineers will tell the why and wherefore of its several proposals to dispose of waste water from Cleveland and Akron.

Donald Liddell, chief of the planning division, Buffalo district, and Craig DeRemer, public affairs officer, will present the Corps side of the proposals, several of which have already been determined to be unfeasible.

ONE OF THEM THAT has not, so far as the Corps goes, is a plan to pipe effluent through an enormous conduit across Medina, Lorain, Ashland and Huron counties to a settling basin about five miles square in the northeastern part of Crawford county.

The effluent would then be sprayed on farmfields for fertilizing purposes, crops from which could not be used for human consumption, and eventually trickle back into Lake Erie.

An area as large as 14 whole townships is encompassed in the most elaborate scheme.

The point where Seneca, Crawford and Huron counties join, about seven miles due west of here along the Base Line road, would be the center, more or less, of this proposal.

She became a teller in 1967.

During the bank's annual meeting, Quentin R. Ream was also promoted. He is now a vice-president and auditor.

Ream, also a lifelong resident of the village, began working at the bank in 1959 after serving as communications officer for 15 years for Wilkins Air Force depot, Shelby.

He graduated from Plymouth High school in 1944 and served for 26 months in the Pacific with the navy during World War II.

He is married to the former Joy Lee Bradford and they are the parents of a daughter, Rene, a senior in Bluffton college, and a son, Sidney, a 12th grader in Plymouth High school. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Ream.

Renamed directors for the bank are J. Elden Nimmons, Robert L. McIntire, James C. Davis, Earl C. Cashman, J. Harold Cashman, H. James Root and Francis A. Miller.

Other officers are Mr. Nimmons, chairman of the board; Earl C. Cashman, president; J. Harold Cashman, vice-president; James C. Davis, vice-president and cashier; Richard D. Fackler, assistant cashier and branch manager.

Other employees are Mrs. W. Lawrence Cornell, Mrs. I. D. Breyman, Mrs. Arthur Jacobs and Mrs. Byron Ream, tellers; Mrs. James Gullett, teller and bookkeeper and Mrs. Donald Strassbaugh and Miss Norma Barnes, bookkeepers.

Sewer bids due here Feb. 26

An emergency ordinance was passed Saturday by village council authorizing Clerk Dolores A. Baker to advertise for bids for the construction of Contract III of the sewerage system.

Bids will be opened Feb. 26 at 12 noon in the council room. Approximately 47,000 linear feet of sanitary sewer lines are to be installed at an estimated cost of $806,000.

During the special meeting, a resolution was also passed to allow the engineer, Eugene Gerken, to draw plans and specifications to extend the lateral sewer lines south of the Huron river in Springmill road and east of the river in Plymouth East road, providing there will be funds available to install the lines.

Births exceeded deaths by 337 in Huron county

Births exceeded deaths by 337 during 1972, Dr. George F. Linn, Sr., Huron county health commissioner, reports.

Leading cause of death was heart and circulatory ailments, of which 293 died. Cancer took 59 lives, respiratory diseases 24, accidents 14, early infancy diseases 10, homicide and suicide three and other causes 50.

Two hundred 55 deaths were recorded in Norwalk, 125 in Willard, 73 elsewhere.

Births included 420 males, 370 females, compared with deaths of 247 males and 206 females in 1971. There were nine stillbirths.

Births numbered 446 in Norwalk and 344 in Willard.

Births in 1972 were one fewer than in 1971 and deaths were 39 greater. Births in Willard decreased by eight. Deaths in Willard decreased by six. Births in Norwalk increased by eight and deaths there by 46.

Minutemen massacre Red, 108 to 50

Four records were set Saturday night in Lexington High school gymnasium, where the Minutemen defeated Plymouth, 108 to 50.

Record No. 1: No team has ever before scored so high as 108 points in basketball against a Plymouth team.
Record No. 2: No Lexington team has ever before scored so many as 108 in a single basketball game; the previous record was 105, also scored against Plymouth, in 1969.
Record No. 3: John Webster, 6-1 senior, scored 38 points, a new school standard, breaking the previous mark set in 1965 by Terry McCannion of 36 points.
Record No. 4: Coach Dan Roseberry set a new level for gal by offering to shake hands with his Plymouth counterpart, Bryan Neff, after Roseberry liberally and intentionally ran up the score before a mob of mostly adults who howled like banshees for more blood after the public address announcer had inflamed them; Neff refused the offer.

PLYMOUTH WAS NOT in the game after the third minute of play and it was plain then that this would be a disaster.
Coach Neff did not call a time out. It is doubtful that a time out would have helped. Plymouth's game depends upon fine shooting by the guards and a tight defense.
Neither of the Big Red guards could hit a bull in the tail with a hanjo and the defense was too tight -- by the end of the first period Craig McPherson had three personal fouls.
He was to foul out in the third period, one of four

PLYMOUTH WENT INTO the final period regular play when Ken Bise sank a rebound it trailed by 10.
But after Jim Tuttle made it 57 to 47, Plymouth sprung through 10 straight points to tie it at 57.
Ray Hughes' jumper at :58 tied it at 57.
Crestview had two more opportunities to win at the foul line but could not.
Plymouth stole the ball with one second left and Hughes' shot from out of bounds rimmed the basket.
NEWMAN, WHO TOOK an average-per-game of 15.4 into this one, was little short of sensational.
Plymouth applied the man-to-man defense early in the game and Newman's trailer couldn't hold him down.
Crestview outshot Plymouth, 29 to 24, from the field. And its shooting percentage was superior. The Cougars got off only 65 shots, Plymouth 76.
The Big Red missed only three free throws. Crestview missed 10.
Turnovers were equal, 22 apiece. Plymouth won the battle of the boards, 46 to 38. Craig McPherson had 15, Ralph Noble 10.
Plymouth was beaten because it did not shoot well enough and because its defense collapsed in the overtime.

The Big Red missed only three free throws. Crestview missed 10.
Turnovers were equal, 22 apiece. Plymouth won the battle of the boards, 46 to 38. Craig McPherson had 15, Ralph Noble 10.
Plymouth was beaten because it did not shoot well enough and because its defense collapsed in the overtime.
Lineups:

PLYMOUTH WENT INTO the final period regular play when Ken Bise sank a rebound it trailed by 10.
But after Jim Tuttle made it 57 to 47, Plymouth sprung through 10 straight points to tie it at 57.
Ray Hughes' jumper at :58 tied it at 57.
Crestview had two more opportunities to win at the foul line but could not.
Plymouth stole the ball with one second left and Hughes' shot from out of bounds rimmed the basket.
NEWMAN, WHO TOOK an average-per-game of 15.4 into this one, was little short of sensational.
Plymouth applied the man-to-man defense early in the game and Newman's trailer couldn't hold him down.
Crestview outshot Plymouth, 29 to 24, from the field. And its shooting percentage was superior. The Cougars got off only 65 shots, Plymouth 76.

Dinner be changed! Invite guests in now!

By AUNT LIZ
Now it's time you invited someone to dinner? By now the house should be all picked up from the holidays and one should have ideas about spring house cleaning.

And while you may be thinking of cleaning closets, do not forget your friends who are making quilts; they just may have an old cotton dress that can be cut up or something woolen that the hook rug people will relish. And if you have any old things or old quilts, if you do not know anyone who got a bottle cutter for a gift, I do, and will be happy to take four to give to her. Just don't throw anything away until you have combed the neighborhood and see what can be used. Before you tear down curtains and draperies, have a nice fling with guests. It will get dark early, so they will not notice when you are washing. Electric lights and candles tend to cover what bright sunlight shows up, so do not ask any one for lunch. The later the dinner, the better.

Have you ever realized that if you serve your meal in courses, it will be like more to eat rather than putting it all on the table?

Years ago I discovered this when we visited some French friends who lived near the Spanish border. They had something like eight courses for a supper; it was just one after the other. It was a plate or some salami and cheese, but it took a lot of dishes, and looked like a lot which it really was. Most hosts can scrounge up the plates, the knives and forks are simply set aside and used again. The French have little bowls and little things you set them on so they do not dirty the tablecloth. They are very practical and an surprise to find they are not become popular in this country.

Decide whom you are going to invite and go from there. First get them a shrimp dish. Buy fairly good sized ones, frozen, natch, since that is all you can find. Cook them according to the directions, but put a little cheap white wine in the water. When you are ready to serve them, shred lettuce nicely, put the shrimp on it all in a small bowl for each person) and on top put a sauce made of mayonnaise, chili sauce, a dash of cream and parsley. This you can guess at. Spoon a little over the shrimp. You can leave out the bread if you like and put in a few drops of tabasco.

For the main course, bake Rock Cornish hens, either whole or in halves, whichever you think can be eaten. Rub them with butter, sprinkle a little salt on them, and stick them in the oven. They can be baked bare or can be baked with white wine.

With the hens, serve broccoli, either fresh or frozen, with lemon butter. For dessert, you can always take the easy way which people rally like after a wide meal or sherbet -- or you can create a banana deal. Because of such good transportation, bananas are always with us the year around.

Do a banana per person, maybe throw in a couple oranges. Slice them up, about a third or not of an inch. Arrange them in a baking dish so they overlap a little. Do not forget to grease it first, or you will never get it all out. Do them with bits of butter and guava jelly. Actually, strawberry will work real well and raspberry even better. Just depends on what you yourself really like. Serve with that new squirting whipped cream which you can make designs.

This is really a very economical meal. You can even substitute chicken for the hens. And you can always change the shrimp for a really sturdy soup -- canned, or even use tuna fish. But if you should have to imp, this is a good excuse for it.

TER. The sauce is easy. Melt some butter, about a stick, with the juice of a lemon and some salt and pepper. For those who are really dieting, no sauce, just sprinkle a little Parmesan cheese around. That little bit will not hurt any diet.

It's JAC problem —

Massacres went out with Custer!

By THE OLD TIMER
What happened at Lexington Saturday night deserves the attention of every right-thinking enthusiast of wholesome interscholastic athletics. It was wrong of Coach Roseberry to be stampeded by the situation and allow his team to run up the score. That it was deliberate and intentional was obvious to anybody watching. That he had no such aim at the outset is, we think, equally obvious.

But he was man enough to admit that his team resented having been beaten here in December by a lowly underdog and it sought to "hold Plymouth to 30 points".

WHOLE SOME RIVALRY based on friendship is what we seek everywhere. Win with honor and lose without bitterness — that's what we strive for!

The Johnny Applesed conference ought to sit down and work out some hard-and-fast rules to prevent this sort of thing.

One factor that aroused the citizenry — and make no mistake about it, not since the Romans watched the wild animals devour the Christians has there been such a howling mob, almost exclusively adult, as there was at Lexington Saturday night — was the conduct of the public address announcer.

He deliberately put drama and electricity into his voice and stirred the players and the spectators into a frenzy that was neither necessary nor useful.

The fact that he had at his fingertips the records of years past shows that the aims of the program need to be reexamined.

That's Lexington's problem, not ours. Doubtless that Lexington finished second in the Class AA playdowns last season has something to do with it.

There was no need to keep the boy who scored 38 points to establish a new record in the game. It is not wholesome in schoolboy athletics to encourage that sort of thing. Young Webster is a fine player and that he is a 12th grader, it may have been that the stands were full of scouts who, on the performance, would offer him some grand grant-in-aid to go on to school to play basketball. Possible, but unlikely. At this point in the season he hasn't been that great. Good, but not great.

WEBSTER WAS SO SUPERIOR to any Plymouth player that the mismatch was pitiful. At the half Lexington was 52 points ahead and Coach Roseberry could have played the waterboy and not lost. Yet he did not sub-sisture freely with second and third line players until late in the third period, when Lexington led by 40 points. And he kept Webster in there until the bitter end, bestirred no doubt by the PA announcer who, at point No. 31, announced that the record was 36.

The conduct of PA announcers in JAC games has been suspect before. A one-time football announcer used to make like Clem McCarthy on the mike and there were coaches of opposing teams who bitterly resented his instantaneous description of the offensive plays. They argued that to do so was to tip off the defense.

IT IS THE PATTERN in the Buckeye state for schools to emulate Ohio State. Let those in the JAC do so by instructing the PA announcers to do as it's done at Columbus: "Jones carried the ball. Smith made the tackle. Ball is on the 22-yard line", or "Baker by Allen. Foul is on Brown. One shot."

These facts are more than sufficient for the spectators and should be transmitted in a matter-of-fact tone that does not arouse emotions that may not be controllable. Enough of this Jimmy Crum malarkey of "How about that!" What's particularly sad about this situation is that, given the facts of life (larger enrollment now and likely to grow into a greater disparity before it grows smaller), it is most unlikely that Plymouth, in its time, will have the opportunity to do unto Lexington what Lexington has done, not once, but twice, unto Plymouth.

Ned McDowell dies

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Garrett attended in Columbus Tuesday services for Ned McDowell, who died Friday at 10:30 a. m. His parents, Ed and Helen McDowell, were Shiloh natives. Survivors are his wife and several children, his mother, a sister, Corinne, and two brothers, Jack and James, all of Columbus.

Services in Mr. Hope Lutheran church Sunday at 10:45 a. m. will include communion and installation of new members of the church council.

WCS will serve a noon meal Thursday.

Ca-Boom met at the Kenneth Beck home Saturday evening, with eight members present. Discussion was on the availability of physicians in this area. The guide line discussed was the emergency crisis of the heating problem. The club will meet with the Kenneth Sniders in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Noble, Mansfield, are parents of a 9 lb. 2 oz. son born Jan. 25, who has been named Douglas Larry. The Nobles have another son, Kevin, two. Grandparents are Mrs. Howard Noble and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hugh Hamman are parents of an 8 lb. 15 1/2 oz. son, Douglas Aaron, born Jan. 21. Mrs. Ina Boyce spent last week at the Hamman home in Hayesville, caring for her three-year-old great-grandson.

Miss Cecil Sturtz, dismissed from Shelby Memorial hospital Saturday, is now at home.

Mrs. C. H. McQuate spent several days last week at the Paul Gordon home in Mansfield and on Sunday afternoon attended the band concert at Madison school.

Mrs. J. J. Cihla joined a group from Ashland at the mid-winter conference of the American Legion auxiliary in Columbus, Friday evening, Saturday and Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dick called at the Robert McQuillen home in Monroeville on Sunday afternoon to see their new great-grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Arnold and family were Sunday callers of Woodburn Arnold.

Douglas Spiger returned home from Florida Friday and resumed classes in Bluffton college yesterday.

Corps to defend sewage plans

How much clout will the federal government apply to its approved solution?

That's a question I can't answer.

Will the principle of "one man, one vote" apply so that the enormous population of Cuyahoga and Summit counties overrides the sentiments of Huron, Crawford and Seneca counties?

You do have a way of asking me questions I can't answer?

The United States is bound by treaty with Canada not to remove from the Lake Erie basin waters that properly flow into it.
