

Consensus

Phase III of the Search for Consensus -- what those who pay the bills expect from their public schools -- is concerned with the formulation of goals and objectives for elementary and secondary schools and how to develop accountability measurements to attain these goals.

The findings of the previous two go-arounds come as no surprise to us.

In order of priority, they are:

1. Communication between the school and the community must be improved;
2. More individual instruction is desired;
3. More vocational education classes are needed;
4. Qualified teachers should be employed who will work with enthusiasm and dedication to provide each pupil with a positive educational experience;
5. More paraprofessionals should be employed to allow teachers additional time for working individually with pupils;
6. The public should be kept informed about their schools through additional printed materials such as a school newsletter or the local newspaper;
7. Teacher performance should be evaluated on a regular basis;
8. The curriculum should contribute to the social, physical and academic growth of the individual;
9. Special education should be expanded to provide additional services for the gifted and the physically and mentally handicapped;
10. Basic education -- the three R's -- should be emphasized to provide every pupil with the fundamental skills necessary to function in this technological age.

The ideal communication between school and the public is a note of appraisal of performance and advancement of the pupil sent home with him each day. Obviously this is impossible. But weekly or bi-weekly, with a bit more than just a check mark? Why not? If item 5 is adopted, teachers will have more time to do just that.

Teachers everywhere lament to us that "families just aren't what they used to be -- there isn't the interest any more."

One way to redevelop family participation in the child's school career is to keep that family informed.

The best school, a wise man once said, is a boy on one end of a log and a teacher on the other.

Doubtless size of class affects learning. Some of our classes are too big. Some teachers do not perform so well with more than 28 pupils in a class. None performs so well with, say, 35 or more.

Item 4 stands by itself but needs implementation. Do not teacher training institutions require revision? Doesn't the public have a right to sit in on such revision? Do we not need some practical way to remove from the teaching lists those who go sour, who aren't doing so well as they should, who have tenure and intend to stand on it with minimal performance sufficient to qualify for pay and allowances but not sufficient to stimulate every child as he deserves?

The hardest job in the world is to grade a teacher on his teaching performance. What's one pupil's delights another's disaster. By whose standards do we judge?

Good teachers deserve the best. Recent developments have made of the teaching profession one of the most regarded callings in our society. The good teacher ought to rank in public esteem with the bravest hero, the most devoted public servant. Now that he has been brought to the door of that station financially, it's time that he and we join to make of him what he ought to be. The wisest counsel of every citizen is hardly enough to achieve this aim. But we must try.

Can cemetery be reforested?

What can be done about reforesting Greenlawn cemetery? Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock reported to village council Feb. 20 what's happening.

What ought to be done about the eastern part of Mills avenue? Councilman James L. Jacobs, Sr., had some thoughts on that question.

David Wireman succumbs at 81

David Wireman, 81, Plymouth route 1, died Saturday in Willard Area hospital.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Frankie Miller, New London; Mrs. Mary Stephens, Plymouth, with whom he lived; Mrs. Susie Boen and Mrs. Lonnie Pelham, Greenwich, and Mrs. Sally Tackett, Willard; four sons, Charles, New London; Jake and Marvin, Greenlawn, and David, Plymouth; eight sisters, Mrs. Lane Neely and Mrs. Ella Shephard, Silver Lake, Ind.; Mrs. Rebecca Miller and Mrs. Carma Stanley, Presburg, Ky., and Mrs. Marie Prater, Salyersville, Ky.

The Rev. Jesse Herndon conducted services Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. from Shiloh Pentecostal church. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

May Page, 96, dies in Florida

Miss May Page, 96, Bradenton, Fla., died in a hospital there Monday.

She was born in Shiloh May 4, 1876, and lived here all her life until she retired and moved to Florida. She was an employee of McIntire's Dry Goods store and was a member of First Evangelical Lutheran church. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Pearl Culver, with whom she lived; a brother, William Ray Page, Camp Hill, Pa., and a niece, Mrs. M. M. Sanders, Ashland.

Funeral services will be conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Ronald F. Grant, tomorrow at 2 p. m. from McQuate Funeral home. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery, Shiloh.

Mourners may call at the funeral home today from 7 until 9 p. m.

Tickets on sale for tourney

Tickets for tomorrow's Class A tournament game at Willard are on sale today and tomorrow from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the high school office.

Adult tickets are $1.75, pupil tickets $1.50. All tickets are $2 each at the gate.

Icy road results in collision

Icy roads and poor visibility resulted in a head-on collision the afternoon of Feb. 21 in Springmill road.

State patrol said the car driven by Thomas Carpenter, Ramada Inn, Mansfield, went into center and hit one driven by Pamela Briner, Shelby. Both drivers sustained injuries and were taken by the Shelby ambulance to Mansfield General hospital.

The mayor reported cemetery trustees are considering purchase of 15 crimson maples, five to be planted in Pioneer's Rest, the remainder in Greenlawn. If purchased early, they will cost less, about $8 a tree. She suggested that if the bridge approves the purchase Feb. 26, some of the cost could come from revenue sharing money. She said the committee that raised money to construct the entrance and landscape hopes to put in a new flag pole, using the large slabs of stone taken from the old Biddinger house on the sewer lagoon site, which were saved for the purpose. It also hopes to plant pink dogwood trees near the entrance.

Jacobs said too many cars are parking in Mills avenue near Mulberry street, which make it impassable. Harry Forquer asked if a fire lane past that in Trux street should exist. Ordinances are to be checked to see if provisions were made in either situation.

Ramsey said Eugene Gerken, the village's engineer, called him late Feb. 20 to urge him to say test borings are necessary and that the use of backhoe to determine the type of soil to sustain the sewer lines is the best way. Gerken said several who have complained about the various diggings should not do so. The mayor said there was no objection to the borings and that notification to the police should have been forthcoming. The complaints are that the borings have been made in private property without either an easement or an undertaking to repair the damages.

The council by motion approved, declaring March "A Youth Art Month." A formal edict will be issued. Plymouth High school art classes will exhibit their art work in the windows of Millers' Hardware & Appliances.

Gas bill to rise 2 1/2¢ a month

Plymouthites will begin paying a few cents more per month for natural gas beginning Mar. 31, Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., announces.

The adjustment -- 1.37 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, or about 2 1/2 cents a month -- is the average customer who heats his home with gas -- is a result of an increase in the cost of gas from a wholesale supplier.

The adjustment is being passed on to customers through provisions of the village's contract with the gas company.

Kentucky firm low bidder on Phase III of sewer project

A Flatwoods, Ky., firm is the apparent low bidder on Plymouth's $935,000 sanitary sewer project. Quentin Alderman Co., Inc., submitted a low bid of $812,252.88 when tenders were opened Monday at noon.

A discrepancy in the bidding procedure may be protested by the second low bidder, R. L. Edgington Excavating Co., New London, who bid $842,025.48. The bid schedule was not signed by a principal of the low bidder, but the bid proposal was signed.

Opinion of the bonding attorneys, Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland, will be sought by the village solicitor, Robert McKown, 1000 Ned Place, Findlay, district supervisor for northwest Ohio, Farmers Home administration, and David McDaniel, Columbus, FHA specialist in community programs, accompanied Maynard J. McFadden, Norwalk FHA chief, during the opening of the bids.

There were five other bidders. McDaniel Construction

Co., Amherst, was third low at $881,786.

The project will be financed by a 40-year loan negotiated with FHA and is the culmination of over 20 years of effort by the village to comply with Ohio law to cease pollution of the Huron river. Village council will meet Tuesday night to consider award of a contract.

The work entails installation of laterals to about 95 per cent of all dwellings in the village and interceptors installed earlier with a federal grant and a $150,000 general obligation bond issue. The effluent discharges into two lagoons installed on village property in New Haven township north of the village.

Plymouth ousts Western Reserve, 66-54

Plymouth outshot Western Reserve from the foul line in the Class A sectional tourney at Willard Friday night to win for its coach his first playground victory ever.

The score was 66 to 54. Plymouth led all the way.

And it did so because it forced the Roughriders into fouling and then converted the penalty shots -- 20 of them in 27 tries.

Because elsewhere and otherwise, the two teams were about even.

Here're scores last week --

- Here're tourney scores:
- Wynford 45, Crestline 36;
 - Fredericktown 60, Granville 57;
 - Tuslaw 35, Loudonville 25;
 - Plymouth 66, Western Reserve 54;
 - South Central 91, St. Paul 59;
 - Mapleton 73, Wellington 57;
 - St. Peter's 68, Seneca East 39;
 - Lucas 71, New London 59;
 - Ontario 77, Clear Fork 67;
 - Shelby 51, Crestview 48;
 - Huron 87, Edison 43.

Hughes, McPherson 2nd teamers

Ray Hughes and Craig McPherson are all second team choices by Johnny Applesseed conference coaches this season.

Steve Doyle, Fredericktown; Gary Kauffman, Loudonville; Rex Linkenbach, Ontario; Jim Watson, Clear Fork, and Dave Wirick, Lexington, won the first team berths.

Jerry Daddo, Loudonville; Terry Newman, Crestview, and John Webster, are the other second team choices.

Honorable mention went to Randy Gates, Don Kline and Vernon Yancey, Ontario; Tim Glauer, Crestline; Tim Scarborough, Fredericktown, and Steve Stitzlein, Loudonville.

Inferior height-wise, so far as the printed program went, the Roughriders showed they can rebound by taking down 37, two more than Plymouth had.

AND THE HURON county team shot for field goal 71 times and made 22 of them, compared with 67 tries and 23 shots for Plymouth.

So the difference between these two clubs this night was at the foul line. The pre-game advice to Plymouth was to "keep watch on Weisenberger and Strimpfel." The Big Red held them down to 30 points between them -- Strimpfel had 17 before he fouled out and Weisenberger got 13 -- and turned its own big guns, Craig McPherson and Ray Hughes, loose for 45, 23 for the former and 22 for the latter.

Where Plymouth really hurt the Roughriders was in the third period, when the Big Red scored 15 to only eight for the visitors, and in the opening quarter, when Plymouth bagged 16 to just 11 for Western Reserve.

It was not an artistic success, this contest, and the wonder is that Plymouth won it at all.

But it carried the fight throughout and with three minutes to go held a 10-point lead that it miraculously clung to throughout.

Western Reserve used its bench more frequently than did Plymouth and got some performance from it. But in the playdowns they pay off on victory and that was what Plymouth achieved Friday night.

THE LOB PASS TO McPherson who then proceeded to outjump his defenders with layups worked eight times and was the difference.

Hughes had a hot hand just after the second half began and scored six field goals during those eight minutes.

Indeed, were it not for Hughes and McPherson, Plymouth might have been shut out in the second half. Only four free throws by Joe Lasch and three by Chuck Willford, a total of seven points, were not scored by McPherson and Hughes.

It would be hard to fault the coaching on either side. If this was a dull game to watch, so be it. Apparently scores of Big Red supporters thought it might be because they strayed away in great numbers.

Wakeman is a much smaller town than Plymouth and the school district of Western Reserve is less populous than Plymouth, but the Roughriders fans certainly outnumbered Plymouth enthusiasts by many.

Can Plymouth pull it off another time?

Can the Big Red put its several talents together consistently and with speed to defeat Lucas in the second round of the Class A playdowns?

The odds are that it can't.

Lucas had a 15-and-4 record this season and on form and record rates a solid favorite to defeat Plymouth for the dubious honor of facing either powerful St. Peter's or unbeaten South Central in the finals.

Plymouth scouted the Cubs in Saturday's contest against New London. WHAT BIG REDSCOUTS saw was a run-and-gun ball club with four outstanding scorers in John Scott, Scott Farst, Greg McNeely and Thom Harvey.

In Harvey the Cubs have a strong rebounder.

"This team plays together; on our floor, which is so small, you either play together or you don't play mach," said one Lucas supporter.

"We haven't played so many Class AA teams as you have but we've played some and we've come away respectfully so we think we'll give you all you want and then some."

He may be guilty of underestimation.

The Cubs gave New London all it wanted Saturday night and a bit more to boot.

THE CUBS DID NOT shoot exceptionally well

-- they were 31 of 67 -- but well enough to win the average game. There defense was sound, sound enough to contain New London, at any rate.

Plymouth doesn't plan any changes. It must get strong outside shooting from Ray Hughes and Chuck Willford and it must get the big underneath game from Craig McPherson.

If Coach Bryan Neff can count on 50 points from this trio and a good defense, Lucas can be beaten.

His attitude is positive. What else can it be under the circumstances?

As one died-in-the-wool Red fan put it, "This is not a great team and we haven't any great players, but it's showing some signs of improvement and now is not the time to desert it -- the team needs all the help and encouragement it can get!"

Game time is tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Beer's good in cooking -- with right recipe

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing like a new cook book to perk up a dull day. Our newest one is really a pamphlet, free, too, and it is called "The Secret Ingredient in Cooking".

The U. S. Brewers association has published it, so you can readily guess what the great secret ingredient is.

Having just about flunked chemistry when I was forced to take it in high school, I do not know what chemical reaction is set up when beer is added, but it does do something, and that something does give an added zing. We found that out with our meat balls, which would just be meat balls if a little beer were not added, so now they are called beer balls.

Until now, that has been the only recipe we have used beer in, but now a whole new world has been opened. This should make all the brewers happy.

For those who do not like liver too well, try this. The liver is very good for you and makes a nice change once in a while from those heavy steaks.

For four, start with eight small slices of liver in a shallow dish, cover with beer and let it stay at room temperature for an hour.

Then drain it, add salt and pepper, and add a dash of garlic if you want.

In another baking dish, empty two packages of cauliflower au gratin. Sprinkle it with four tablespoons of beer and bake until it is bubbly in a hot oven for about a half hour. When it looks about done, cook the liver in butter, timing it so it is done when the cauliflower is.

NOW WHAT COULD BE simpler for a nourishing meal? And because there is such a thing as a six pack, you have five cans or bottles left over to waste a thing.

And don't think those foxy brewers stopped with just main dishes. They went right on to desserts. They got together with the gelatin people too.

Since this recipe we have not tried yet, I am not sure about it, but a picture of it looks very pretty in a paraffin glass.

Dissolve a three ounce package of orange gelatin in a cup of boiling beer. Add two tablespoons of light brown sugar, a stick of cinnamon and three whole cloves and let them stay together until it is almost cool. Then remove the cloves and cinnamon and stir in a cup of cold water. Chill until almost thick. Fold in a 12-ounce can of drained mandarin oranges and put into paraffin glasses.

When ready to serve cover the top with a spoon of whipped cream.

What if you lost your job tomorrow?

Things may be going pretty good now. But you never know what tomorrow will bring. An unemployment how-to book!

What will you do to tide you food over while you look? Excuse! Let's hope you never have to find out. But just in case, why not start saving now, while you have a "job." How the Payroll Savings Plan works: You work and buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an easy way to build a nest egg. And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds! For example, 5 1/2% when bid to maturity of 1 year, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970, with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.
