The voice of The Advertiser -- $4,111

That the village council has insisted that $4,111 of revenue sharing funds be earmarked to pay for a police vehicle should cause some alarm.

Revenue sharing by the federal government is not an absolutely guaranteed procedure and there is reasonable doubt that it will continue beyond the current fiscal year. Revenue sharing, as the mayor rightly said in her report on Jan. 2, should be regarded as a windfall and used properly for capital improvements.

Surely a police vehicle cannot be considered to be capital improvement.

When the budget for 1973 was prepared, a police vehicle was encompassed within the general fund items. When the appropriations for 1973 were prepared, a police vehicle (admittedly one a bit less expensive than what we got, but who's going to quibble over $511?) was encompassed therein.

How does it happen that the council now must dip into windfall funds?

That the village council has earmarked an additional $2,500 of revenue sharing funds to pay off a note owed by the general fund shows that we have been living beyond our income. Not only is this forbidden by Ohio law, it is plain damned foolishness.

Of what avail is clearheaded leadership if the votes aren't cast to support it?

There is still time for the council to change its mind. If it does, it'll get applause from here.

Two teachers retire

Last day of school was also last day of teaching careers for Mrs. Nettie M. Hull and Herman Workman, retirees, who received certificates of appreciation from Thomas Needs, president, Plymouth Teachers' association. Mrs. Workman, who also retired, got a certificate as well.

Mrs. Hass to quit July 5

Resignation of Mrs. Barbara Hass as utilities clerk effective July 5 was accepted by village council June 5.

Mrs. Hass did not say why she resigned.

How should the village notify its residents of the likelihood of impending disaster?

During the threat of a tornado June 3, the police vehicle cruised the village with a public address system to notify householders that tornado might strike.

The occupants of a trailer court in Plymouth township at the south edge of the village fled their dwellings in great haste and confusion, causing a traffic jam in June 6.

No solution to the problem was forthcoming. It was suggested the fire department utilize the fire siren in some distinctive fashion as a means of tornado warning. The fire department will decide later if this can be done.

Cost of installing a four inch commercial water service will be increased by $100 to $350 and a six inch service by $100 to $450, the council ruled. Revenue sharing funds in the amount of $9,461 will be applied thus: financial administration, $2,500; zoning, $2,000; police vehicle, $4,111, and public transportation, $850.

When the sanitary sewer project begins, it will start in West Broadway near the lift station, Roy Brown, foreman for Quentin Alderman, Inc., general contractor, told the council.

Bids will be sought by public advertisement for the sale of gravel at the sewer lagoon site. On advice of its solicitor, the council decided this is probably the wisest course, despite the fact the village can probably sell the gravel without taking bids, provided the gravel is used on a village project.

An ordinance accepting the Fenfor development on condition that approved streets be installed by Dec. 30, 1973, was passed on first reading.

Local police work leads to dope raid

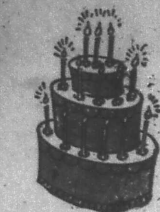

A 25-year old former Plymouth woman was among four arrested Friday night after a drug raid in their homes in Weis road in the southwest corner of Huron county.

The search warrants for the raid were obtained on information furnished by Plymouth police.

The woman, Mrs. Sunday Robinson Ohl, is the wife of Dennis Carroll Ohl, 22. They and Bruce Edward Carpenter, 25, and his wife, Aitha Sexton Carpenter, 18, were taken into custody after a Huron county sheriff's posse including three Plymouth police officers confiscated a small suitcase of pills and some green vegetable matter believed to be marijuana, two pistols, one rifle, a leather holster of the type used by police officers and a motion picture projector. The projector was identified as one stolen recently from Richmond United Brethren church.

The raid began at 8:25 p. m. and was concluded about midnight.

Carpenter is a parolee.

Tornado?

Here's what to do when funnel is sighted

SUPPOSE YOU ARE standing at a window in your home, watching the sky darken ominously after a tornado watch issued by the Weather Service has been broadcast on radio and television. Suddenly, a dirty gray funnel swings from the thunderclouds to the ground, and begins moving toward you, its winds whirling at 300 miles per hour as they twist and rip the buildings.

twister is to move quickly away from its path, at a right angle to it.

* In a mobile home, a structure especially vulnerable to high winds, go to a designated community shelter area. If none exists, do not stay in the mobile home as the twister approaches. Seek refuge in a sturdy building, ditch, culvert, or ravine.

* In an office building, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor.

The National Weather Service points out that since tornadoes can strike so swiftly, having a specific plan of action in mind can save lives by preventing panic.

The Weather Service offers this advice if you are: At home, seek shelter under heavy furniture in the basement. In homes without a basement, go to the center part of the house on the ground floor, in a small room such as a closet or bathroom or under sturdy furniture. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them.

71 attend SHS reunion

Annual Shiloh High school alumni banquet took place Saturday in Shiloh Elementary school with 71 in attendance.

Business meeting was conducted by President Kirby Nesbitt. It was voted that all officers would be held over for another year. A letter from William Page, Camp Hill, Pa., Class of 1901, was read by the secretary. Mr. Page is the oldest living graduate.

Edward Kinsel conducted the remainder of the meeting. The 25 year class, Class of 1948, was honored. Only three members were able to attend. Those were Dorothy Brook Oswalt, Green- wick; Raymond Dean Eng- land, Louisville, and Don Campbell, Lexington.

Roy Fidler, Mansfield, Class of 1923, was the only one from the 50- year class present.

Those over 50 years present were Geneva Mc- Ciellan Brinson, Ply- mouth, Class of 1922; Mae Wilson Cleland, Shelby, Class of 1921; Abby Cris- tith Smith, Shelby, and Lela Hodges Mason, of Detroit, Mich., both of the Class of 1913; Ruth Pit- tenger Forsythe, Shiloh, Class of 1912, and Dollie Rose Ludin, Shelby of Class of 1905.

Mrs. Rudy Rader was hostess to the Thursday Nigh Bridge club at her home last week. Two tables were in play. Miss Eleanor Company was high scorer, Mrs. Greta Stroup was low, and Mrs. Paul Kranz won the traveling prize.

Fiftieth anniversary meeting of the White Hall club took place June 6 at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Humbert, with 11 members, seven former

The meeting opened with devotions led by the hostess, followed by group singing.

The program consisted of the reading of the minutes of the first meeting 50 years ago and the reading of the original constitution.

Miss Gerrie Latimer, a charter member, gave the names of all charter members and told where each one lived and how they were related.

Loneta Markel, former member, gave a reading "My Get Up Got Up and Went".

A list of the presidents for the last 50 years was read by Dorothy Bisel.

A carnation corsage was presented to all charter members, and each one present received a replica of an old flat iron as a favor. The program ended by singing "How Great Thou Art." Eleanor Myers accompanied on the piano. After the meeting, group pictures were taken, and refreshments served.

Next meeting will be on Thursday, July 5, at the home of Joan Schuller.

Auntie laments lack of real cream

By AUNT LIZ
What has happened to all the real things?

One by one they seem to have disappeared. When we came to Ohio, we were very fortunate to know several people who had cream producing animals. One by one, they vanished. We really weren't good customers, it was about a four-times-a-year treat to have a whole quart of cream so thick it had to be scooped out with a spoon. I can even remember when the top part of the milk bottle was pure cream, and if you saved it for a couple of days, it whipped up like mad. And now?

Where has it all gone? It is not only a national problem here, but it has hit Russia, too. The Soviets are now making artificial caviar. Real or artificial, it is something I have never developed a taste for. Frankly, I do think a lot of people say they like it just because it is so darn costly. People are that way: the more expensive things are, the better everyone thinks they are. There is a meeting point on that subject, you do pay for what you get, but fish eggs should not taste good because they are $80 a pound. That is carrying it all too far. And as a food, there isn't much you can do with the stuff except sprinkle some bits of hardboiled egg on it and serve it in an iced bowl or a small piece of toast.

I've often wondered why certain foods that are found on this planet have had such fads. It is logical that they are for the most part those which are not very plentiful, although there was a time when a child could catch lobsters by hand along the shores of the northeastern states. In this country, the misbegotten looking beast has become the status symbol of what to order when you go out to dinner. And everyone must admit that it is downright tasty, but more people are discovering it and with more lobster eaters and fewer beasts, lobster is blamed for the shorter supply. Because the lobsters find the shorelines absolutely impossible, they have now resorted to deeper waters, like 2,000 feet down, and that is a long way to fish them up.

But since there is a shortage at the moment, you can buy canned lobster meat, and in the long run it goes a long way. Check the amounts on the can for this recipe. You will need one and a half cups.

And this will serve six very well, so with some chilled soup, a large salad, rolls and fruit, you have a meal easily served inside or out.

Soften a tablespoon of unflavored gelatin in a fourth of a cup of cold water. Put the cup you are dissolving it in over hot water and stir until it does dissolve. Add this with three tablespoons of lemon juice to about three fourths of a cup of mayonnaise.

Have a cup of finely minced celery ready, and cut the lobster meat into tiny bits. Add the gelatin to the mix all together and then fold in very gently a third of a cup of whipped cream (no Cool Whip, it is flavored). Sprinkle some salt and pepper and mix. Pour it all into a mold and chill. When you are ready to serve it, you can pretty it up with sliced cold vegetables and hard boiled eggs, arranged around it on a plate.

FOR A TASTY BACKYARD dinner with your neighbors, because you do not have to go a great distance, this works and will stay hot. It is a recipe for baked beans, the real kind with a touch of the Caribbean added. Soak two cups of white pea beans overnight. The next morning, drain, and start cooking them with just enough water to cover them, an inch or two. Be sure to sprinkle them rather lavishly with salt. Bring to a boil, and let them simmer for about an hour, until barely tender. In a bean pot, start with some slices of onions with several cloves stuck in them. Add layers of beans with salt pork, about a pound, which is cut into cubes. Then mix up half of a cup of dark rum, two teaspoons of dry mustard, a teaspoon of pepper and a dash of thyme. Pour this over the beans and add boiling water to cover them. Stash in the oven at 250 degrees for at least five hours. You must watch them a little, though, and add more water if necessary. At the end, uncover and bake for a half hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Moser spent the weekend camping in Michigan. They visited in Holland and attended the summer festival in Frankenmuth.

Miss Minnie Fazzini, Mansfield, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fazzini, Saturday.

Gary D. Levering, Tampa, Fla., and his daughter, Montelle, left Saturday for a visit in Hawaii. They will return June 25 and Mrs. Donald H. Levering will meet them in Tampa. Then she and Montelle, will go to Denver, Colo., to visit Mrs. Michael Stevenson.

What is clean energy really worth?

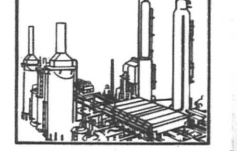

Clean energy—energy that doesn't blacken skies or pollute rivers—is obviously worth quite a bit. And here's the paradox. The cleanest-burning fuel—and thus the most valuable fuel—is drastically under priced. That fuel is natural gas.

But, because natural gas is so clean, and so inexpensive, the demand has far outgrown conventional supplies. We need new sources of clean energy. And we need them now.

Columbia Gas is investing hundreds of millions of dollars in developing dramatic new sources, such as gas from the Arctic, from overseas, from under the sea, from petroleum liquids... even from plentiful coal. Gas from these new sources costs more to find and deliver, and eventually we'll probably all notice it in our gas bills. But natural gas will continue to be your best energy buy.

What is clean energy really worth? Try to imagine your world without it. Imagine your children without it.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis. It's expensive to duplicate nature's work, but we can do it. We're building a reforming plant, at a cost of over forty million dollars that turns petroleum liquids into pipeline quality gas. It is designed to deliver eighty-eight billion cubic feet of gas each year. It's only a trickle of the new energy America needs. Still, it's shedding a bright hope on tomorrow.

Columbia Gas is precious, pure energy... use it wisely.

HOT LINE TO THE FUTURE
Ignoring Hell for Convenience

Ignoring the plain Bible teaching on Hell does not change the facts, for if you die un saved you will be damned forever. Jesus said it and He fully expects you to believe His Word. Yet many choose to ignore this fact for the convenience it gives them to live in this life just as they please... no need to get concerned about repentance, salvation, sanctification, second coming of Christ, the great tribulation, antichrist, mark of the beast, study of the Bible, living right, missions, Heaven, Hell and much more.
