

How soon regional government?

Huron county commissioners may decide Wednesday whether to accede to a proposal to place ambulances in each municipality of the county with the aid of a federal grant which won't pay for all of the cost of doing so. And if they decide to accept the proposal, what happens is that Uncle Sam steps in.

It was made clear during earlier conversations with the backers of this program that before long the ambulance would be dispatched by Toledo and Toledo would become the medical center of Huron county, whether Huron county likes it or not.

Already the council at Willard has said it will go along with the proposal if its reservations are included in it. These are that local control and dispatching of ambulances bought with federal funds are essential title to each ambulance will repose in the municipal corporation where it is assigned, parts of the county be self-supporting (debts incurred in, say, Wakarusa, would not be subsidized by citizens of, say, Willard), ambulances would be assigned to Willard, Greenwich, New London, Wakarusa, Norwalk and Monroeville and would remain in service where assigned unless needed voluntarily for mutual aid.

Willard's order is a big one and we predict the federal people won't buy it. Where do you get them?

A new commissioner, Thomas Carabin, Norwalk, said at Willard Apr. 21 some prophetic words that everybody ought to consider:

"Regional Emergency Medical Service of Northwest Ohio is not the first step nor the second step in regionalization of government, but it is one of the steps of breaking down town and county lines. We are going to be told where we are going to take our prisoners and patients and how we are going to run as a regional government. It becomes more apparent that without federal funds, we can't exist. They know that and so they're saying regional government is more efficient."

He added, "Regional government will destroy us."

But even if Willard's objections are peace off by including all its stipulations in the basic plan, there are bound to be some objections. Why, for example, should the citizens of Willard and Plymouth, which towns have already long since spent money to establish an efficient and suitable ambulance service, be taxed twice to pay for new services elsewhere in the county? Plymouth isn't even considered in the proposal. But Plymouth depends heavily on revenues from New Haven township to pay for its ambulance. Why should Plymouth be made to suffer by forcing New Haven township into a Huron county plan? The township already supports the Willard ambulance as well.

Forty years ago, in our home town in New Jersey, a volunteer (in the eastern, not middle western, sense of that word) ambulance service was established, with volunteer contributions. Today it has a modern building, three brand new ambulances with the most sophisticated equipment imaginable, a squad of perhaps 40 men and women on 24-hour call, an effective radio and telephone-in-the-vehicle system, and still does not depend for one penny of its cost on the public tax purse.

It may be too much to expect that this sort of thing should occur in Huron county. But the beginnings of it did so in Willard and Plymouth. What happens in such instances is that the few foot the bill for the many. Public spirited individuals dig into their pockets and give till it hurts. Most of them never get to use the service. Perhaps it would be fairer to fund the whole cost of ambulance service from the public purse, on the theory that prompt and efficient care for the sick and injured is a proper public concern. Even so, it'll still be the case that there will be freeloaders, those who won't or can't pay their way, and for those who can't but would if they could, there is sympathy here). So what else is new?

Masons to mark 125th year

Richland Lodge 201, Free & Accepted Masons, will observe the 125th anniversary of its founding with a special ceremony in the Masonic temple Monday night.

The grand worshipful master of Ohio, Charles S. Ward, Mentor, and other state and district dignitaries will be present.

Richland lodge was chartered Oct. 19, 1851. On Dec. 26, 1850, members of Venus Lodge, Mansfield, led the dispensation of the grand master appointing James Drennan worshipful master of a Free and Accepted Masons lodge to be formed in Plymouth. The charter was delivered Oct. 19, 1851. Erastus S. Spencer was appointed senior warden and Rouse S. junior warden. Spencer became the first elected worshipful master Dec. 15, 1851.

Meetings were conducted in the International Order of Odd Fellows hall, which was purchased from the IOOF in 1854. Six years later, the building was destroyed by fire. So was the lodge's charter.

In 1871, the second floor of a newly constructed building was purchased. It is the present lodge hall. Richland lodge over the years has been instrumental in organizing new lodges in North Fairport, on Oct. 23, 1853, and in Monroeville, on Oct. 10, 1858. On Oct. 27, 1864, Richland lodge saw its efforts to organize a lodge in Shelby reach

Two running for trustee

Two new figures have come forward to contest election as trustees of Bloominggrove township.

These are Ollie Wagers, Shiloh route 2, and Kenneth Burrer, who lives in Ganges.

Shiloh, 16, held at Shelby

A 16-year-old Shiloh boy was arrested in Shelby Friday night in connection with a series of breaking and enterings near there. Huron county sheriff's deputies took him to the county detention center.

Nine plots sold in school district

Kenneth R. Wagers bought from Roy Barber one acre in Plymouth township, Richland county recorder reports.

Arlen Blankenship bought Lots 22 and 222, Shiloh, from Norville Blankenship. Charles Shepherd bought part of Lot 137, Shiloh, from Charles J. Hughes.

Daniel R. Hubert has acquired from Chester Jose 743/1000 of an acre in Plymouth township.

Richard Tallman bought part of Lot 48 and part of Lot 280, Shiloh, from Cass A. Kennard.

Karen Sue Forquer acquired 3.679 acres in Cass township from her father, William A. Forquer, and 1.795 acres in Cass township from her sister, Kathryn Ann Forquer.

New fire contract ready for signing

A tentative agreement with Plymouth township on higher rates for fire protection was reached by village council Tuesday night, but the big news is that a councilman was re-elected in his effort to obtain early connection to the sanitary sewer line.

Councilman James L. Jacobs, Sr., asked the council for authority to connect to the sewer line in front of his house in Mill street, delaying until "later" the actual tapping in the effect of this request is that he would be prepared to use the sewer when he receives authorization to do so by removing a plug in his basement.

Councilman Edward O. Ramsey said, "The public won't believe you're not tapped."

Councilman D. Douglas Brumback said, "The council will be criticized." He added that Jacobs had refused to approve other such requests.

Jacobs argued he plans to remodel his house and that preparation of the sewer connection now would save him time and money. If the connection is delayed, he further argued, "I couldn't get a backhoe in there because the addition to the house would obstruct it."

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP trustees agreed in a proposal to increase the fire protection rate by $350 for the first year and by $500 for each of the next two years thereafter on a three-year contract to be executed at once.

Dispute arose between trustees and the council over whether the fee for a false alarm should be $25 or $100. Ramsey said the fee should be $100. Trustee Frank C. Fenner said in his 12 years as trustee there has been

Shiloh police target of suit

Unnamed officers of Shiloh police department are among defendants in a $500,000 suit filed in federal court by Robert Risner, 31, and Harold Risner, 25, Bowman Street road near Shiloh, who allege they were illegally struck and arrested by the officers on Feb. 5.

Sheriff Thomas E. Welkel and five deputies are also accused in the suit.

only one false alarm and he insisted on the $25 rate. He prevailed.

Ramsey and Councilman Duane Keene voted nay. The contract will be presented to the trustees tonight by the mayor.

A DELEGATION REPRESENTING Plymouth Board of Education pressured the council to ratify again an agreement made in 1975 to pay one half of the expense of repaving the access road to Mary Fark park. The delegation was comprised of Mrs. Roger Pugh, president of the board; R. Harold Mack, chairman of the housing and grounds committee, and Supt. John Fazzini.

Upshot of the confrontation was that the council knuckled under. The case of the Board of Education was obviously carefully orchestrated. To protect her intervention, Mayor Elizabeth Paddock had summoned former councilman Hubert V. Akers, who negotiated the settlement with the school board by which the village agreed to pay 50 per cent of the cost of repaving. This amounts to $1,299.

For the first time, it was disclosed that Brumback was a party to the agreement, although he tried to deny that he was present. The school board delegation and Akers vigorously protested this denial and in time Brumback admitted he was present.

Jacobs, who had been the main protagonist in refusal to pay the village's share, did not offer any comments. Keene proposed a motion, which was carried, that in the future the village will undertake and contract for all repairs to the park roadway.

His wife, Ann, died Apr. 1.

AFTER A COMPLAINT by a bus driver that parents of children in Plymouth Elementary school obstructed access to the bus discharge point during inclement weather, the mayor ordered a crackdown on illegal parking in New street. Four parking summonses have been issued. On representation of the elementary school principal, the village will prepare an ordinance that will prohibit parking in that area during the school day.

One person to whom a ticket was issued Monday night complained that she parked partly off the street when she attended a meeting at the school. The patrolman who issued the ticket said under the village ordinance adopting the state traffic and criminal code she was illegally parked.

Ramsey said one ticket has "already been turned up". The mayor demanded to know which one and who did the turning, but received no answer.

Keene is to meet with school officials to determine if the hour of dismissal in the elementary school can be altered so that traffic congestion at New street and West Broadway caused by the egress of Fate Root-Heath Co. employees can be avoided.

E. S. Grochowski dies at home

Edward S. Grochowski was found dead Tuesday noon in his home at 328 Trux street. He had lately been hospitalized.

His wife, Ann, died Apr. 1.

McQuate Funeral home is in charge of arrangements, incomplete at press time.

Don't call PPD!

Plymouth police department requests villagers do not call the department when the siren is rung for an approaching storm.

To assure the safety of the village, the telephone should be free for official calls.

Shiloh sure to raise water, sewer rates

Shiloh's village council put off an increase in water and sewer rates Apr. 27.

But higher rates, by as much as 300 per cent, will take effect in July, in all probability.

Whether the sewer rate for the school will be increased at the same time hasn't been said. It's now $4 a pupil or teacher a year. The water rate is a flat $600.

Proposed water rate is $6 a month. Present rate is $2. Proposed sewer rate is $6 a month. Present rate is $3.33.

Annual water revenue about $8,000. A new rate would triple that figure.

Why weren't the rates put into effect now? No body said, but the possibility that fewer voters would support the $1.15 million school bond issue on June 7 was clear enough.

Large appliances that are intended to be discarded will be collected free of charge if placed at the keystone on May 13 and 14.

Pappy day in Shiloh will be May 20-21.

Richland county engineer will be asked to assist in resurfacing Superior street later in the summer.

It's mother who holds family together, Auntie claims

By AUNT LIZ
Just in time for Mother's Day, a couple of researchers in California have come up with enough data to prove that mothers are the ones.

After interviewing 992 persons to the tune of 90 minutes each, they say that it's us girls who keep families going.

I really think if they had come and asked a couple of us, they could have saved a lot of time.

Of course, it's mothers who keep things in order, like sending presents (well, at least they buy them, but it's fathers who have to wrap and mail them and give free advice like it is going out of style). Once a mother, one becomes a real expert on everything, and who shows off pictures like mad to every unsuspecting soul she can trap.

One thing the study did produce, which is great, is that the family is not falling apart like everyone has been saying for years. It's remaining just as stable as in the past, which is good to hear. These two guys say that pure affection and love still hold it together.

They also come up with the theory that kids are definitely following the religious beliefs of parents. This is heartening to know. But they are not following the political beliefs of their elders. This is good, too, because some of the political beliefs are really outmoded. Too many parents are living in the past and thinking things should be the same way they were 30 years ago.

One thing these researchers say is that family fights are not serious, because it all ends up with everyone loving everyone else again. This I cannot agree with. There is nothing so long lasting as a family feud. Maybe the Martins and Coys did make up, and that is one of the most famous family fights this country has ever seen. But there are perhaps millions of families not speaking. Most of these large family fights come after someone dies and things are being divided up. This is a real tragedy.

The nicest story I have ever heard was about the mother who had quite a bit to leave in antiques. When her two daughters went to break up her home, they found every piece of value labelled as to whom it would go. This solved a problem for them. They would never have had a problem, anyway; they're that kind.

So Sunday is a big day for millions. Some kids will cook for their mothers, but there are going to be a bunch of mothers cooking for their kids, happy that they can come home.

IF THERE HAD BEEN a special day for mothers back in the 1600s, I am sure some would do this old Dutch recipe. It is called Dutch Spekkie Slaas. I have no idea how it translates, but it is a potato dish which is different.

It is expandable, just add another potato and an egg for each extra person over six.

Boil six large potatoes, then mash, add a teaspoon of salt and a half cup of milk.

Then fry a half pound of diced bacon until crisp. Put this aside, and add two-thirds of a cup of finely chopped onion to the bacon fat and cook until transparent, not brown.

With a slotted spoon, remove the bacon. Add two-thirds of a cup of vinegar to the bacon grease. Then in a little bowl mix a third of a cup of cold water with two tablespoons of flour to make a paste for thickening. When this is stirred smooth, add it to the vinegar mixture.

Meanwhile, have a large head of Boston lettuce coarsely shredded, which will probably take two of the sizes we can buy here. Mix it all together and put it on a platter as a mound with six hard-boiled eggs cut in half around the bottom. Sprinkle the top generously with ground pepper.

Vote booth to open tomorrow

Huron county board of elections will open a temporary branch for voter registration at Mack's Foodland, 262 Sandusky street tomorrow from 1 to 7 p.m.

Prospective voters living in either Huron or Richland counties may register to vote or make a change of residence name at this time.

Huron county has permanent branch offices for voter registration in the Bellevue, New London and Monroeville libraries, the Wakeman bank, Willard United bank, main office, and the Green-wood and North Fair- field branches of the field branches of the Willard United bank, during their regular hours of business. For the benefit of pupils, there is also a permanent branch in each of the high schools in the county.

Registration will close May 9 for the June 7 primary and special election and will resume again June 17.

CAC to open local service for elderly

Staff members of the Erie-Huron Counties Community Action Commission and of the Richland county commission are making plans to be in Plymouth one afternoon a week to aid senior citizens.

The starting date will be announced. Hours will be from 1 until 4:30 p.m. in the village utility office.

The program is designed to help persons with welfare problems, vocational rehabilitation, health problems, housing and social security questions.

The commission will also furnish a bus which will take persons weekly to either Mansfield or Norwalk.

Revival set at Rome church

Evangelist Bill Haken will conduct a crusade at Rome Community church beginning Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and continuing through May 13 at 7:30 p. m. daily.

Evangelist Haken will present a program of special music, gospel magic and Bible preaching. Mrs. Haken will join her husband in the meetings as crusade soloist.

The Rev. Mr. Haken travels thousands of miles during nine months of each year, conducting crusades. The summer months are spent in Harrisburg, Pa., as the program director of Mr. Lou San Bible camp. This is an independent youth camp located in the Blue Mountains north of Harrisburg.

Look ...

It's not so much where you say it, in this newspaper, anyway, as what you say and how well you say it.

Mrs. W. H. says, "I always get good response when I run ads in your paper." (She never spends more than $2 an issue.)

C. R. says, "The business I have developed over the years is in part because we used The Advertiser to serve our friends in Plymouth, old friends that we had before we started to advertise and new friends that we made after we started to advertise."

You don't need a whole page to tell your story. But you need to tell your story professionally.

Why not rely on a pro? We haven't many pretensions, but one is that we know how to write ad copy, whether to sell a barn, a baby carriage or a bathroom (remember?).

Our cheapest rate is 20 words for $1. You could hardly go wrong at that price.

You can reach us at 687-5511. We'll come a-run-in to serve you, or we'll deal via Alexander Graham Bell.

How to beat the savings squeeze.

It's so hard to save a buck. By the time all the bills are paid, there's nothing left to squeeze out of your paycheck for savings. But there is a way to build a nest egg without having to worry about it. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. By saving a little from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch. And before long, you'll find you've a sizable nest egg stashed away. And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds - for B Bonds, 5 1/2%, when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4 1/2% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds. Ease your savings squeeze. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.
