

Red to face Hopewell-London, seeking first win of year

Plymouth goes on the road again tomorrow, seeking to pick up the pieces after two successive losses.

The opposition is Hopewell-London, at Bascom, in Seneca county, which was mauled by Lakota, 35 to 7, Friday night.

The Chiefs intend to be a running team. Their coach,

Wayne Stevenson, said this week, "From what I hear about the South Central game, Plymouth can be run against and our team is a running team. We pass just enough to keep the defense honest."

The Chiefs couldn't run a lick against Lakota. In fact, they wound up with a minus two yards for the night's rushing efforts.

The key to the Hopewell-London offense is Steve Swander, the quarterback, who's a better than average passer, and Johnny Craft, a good runner and receiver.

Swander's passing game produced the only Chiefs' score Friday night. He connected with Craft on a 37-yard play in the second period. But in the second half, he was the victim of three interceptions, one of them good for a 40-yard touchdown play.

If there was a bright spot in the defeat at South Central, it was that Plymouth kept hitting despite the huge Trojan lead. Coach David Coulter was pleased with the determination of his team. Plymouth must learn to avoid mistakes. It sprung a double reverse that resulted in a missed connection between Scott Harris and Jim Jamerson, a fumble, a Trojan recovery and the third South Central touchdown.

A ninth grader, Jeff Jacobs, went all the way at quarterback for the Big Red and he performed creditably, considering his inexperience. He was twice intercepted. Where Steve Tackett's sore leg will be healed enough to play in tomorrow's game is a day-to-day thing.

Best route to the Hopewell-London stadium:

Proceed north in Route 61 to New Haven, turn west in Route 224 and continue to Route 18. Proceed northwest in Route 18 to Bascom, turn in to the Hopewell-London stadium at 400 yards to stadium. Parking is available on school grounds.

Trojans' 23 points in first half too much for Plymouth

South Central administered a drubbing to Plymouth at Greenwich Friday night, 23 to 0, and it did so with a splendid performance by another Plymouth Connection.

Doug Fidler, whose family lives at the extreme south edge of the South Central district—across the road and they'd be in Plymouth district—and whose grandfather and parents do business here, played tailback for the Trojans. All he did was rack up 101 yards in 16 carries. His running mate, Randy Conway, was called on 15 times and he produced 105 yards.

All of the scoring came in the second period, but the fans on this cool night had to wait for the first of their interest. Because the scoreboard didn't work.

The Trojans dominated the first period, as indeed they did the entire game, and showed their disdain of Plymouth's defense by refusing to punt on fourth down from the Red 42, having advanced from their 31. But the Big Red could get no farther than the 50 and punted to the Trojan eight.

Again South Central put on a drive that carried to the Red 29, where on fourth down a broken play resulted in a loss of five yards.

Plymouth was forced to punt just after the second period began. It was a poor kick, carrying only 16 yards from scrimmage. But the Trojans could not get untracked, either. A bad snap from center on fourth down forced Co-Capt. Craig Dotson to run with the ball and Plymouth took over at the South Central 46. It was the first time Plymouth had reached Trojan territory.

The Big Red sustained a brief drive. In seven plays it managed to reach the South Central 34, where Gary Blankenship was stranded on fourth down for a loss of three yards.

It was at this point that the roof fell in.

After Fidler got five through left tackle, Scott Lewis took an inside handoff and broke away for 58 yards and the first score. He went through the right side of the Plymouth defenses with ease. The run for PATs was short.

South Central was back in the end zone in the next series. Phil Gowitzka couldn't punt because the pass from center was poor. He danced about with the ball and then passed. It wasn't such a bad pass but the intended receiver couldn't handle it and the Trojans had possession at the Red 32.

One that got away is Jason Goth, son of William H. Goth, Plymouth, and of Mrs. Monette F. Goth, Mansfield. He was chosen to the all-star team of the Mansfield Southwest minor league. He plays shortstop, pitcher and first base for Mansfield Asphalt. The boy is the grandson of Mrs. D. B. Faust and of Mrs. Bernita Goth and the great-grandson of Mrs. H. R. Nesbitt.

Conaway got 14 through left guard, Fidler six through right tackle and Tom Hall nine on a rollout. Repeated the maneuver on the next play and scored from three yards away. Fidler's run for PATs was good.

Plymouth lost no time in affording South Central another opportunity to score. And the Trojans did not miff it.

After the kickoff, Plymouth fumbled. Scott Shepherd recovered for a seven yard loss at the Red 22. Conway scored on the third play, this time from four yards away. The kick for PAT was wide.

On the second play after the kickoff, Jeff Jacobs, the ninth grader who went all the way at quarterback, was intercepted at the Red 43.

Hall passed 24 yards to Conway. A personal foul call against Plymouth, resulting in the ejection of a player, gave the Trojans first down at the 19. With just 10 seconds left, Mallory Clemens kicked a field goal and that was it.

South Central made several forays deep into Red territory in the second half but couldn't produce a touchdown. In the third period, the Trojans pushed to the Red 19 before losing six yards on fourth down.

The next time they had the ball, the Trojans punched to the Red 28 but fell short of a first down.

Plymouth here began to show some signs of life. It managed another first down and, despite 25 yards in penalties, reached the South Central 43. Blankenship could get only three yards on fourth down and the Trojans took over.

Second stringers peopled the Trojan backfield by this time and they could not advance through Plymouth's front wall.

When the Big Red got possession at the Trojan 40, Jacobs threw to Scott Harris for 12 and Jim Jamerson ripped off 42 yards outside right tackle. This drive carried to the Trojan one, where on fourth down Plymouth could not score.

It was the last gasp. The game ended four plays later.

Senate bean soup? Here's right recipe!

By AUNT LIZ

Since collecting various things has become a hedge against inflation instead of the fun thing and hobby thing it was a few years ago, a lot of folks are missing the boat.

Right now oriental or Persian rugs are really in, along with coins and diamonds.

They are readily available anywhere if you want them. But try to find a male calico cat. They exist to the ratio of one to 10,000. For some reason, because of the make-up of the genes which determine if all of us are boys or girls, male calicos just keep on producing girls.

Now a couple of those would be a real collector's item.

This does sound far fetched, but I did not make it up. I just finished reading about it all. It simply is a scientific fact.

It is also a very proven scientific fact that when you mix certain ingredients, you get certain results. It does help a to be able to read a little. I once threw in a bunch of cayenne pepper in an apple pie, thinking it was cinnamon, because being so nearsighted and not having my glasses on, I just saw the first letter on the can. Fortunately, I caught it just as the pie went in the oven, and was able to wash off the apples and rescue them.

It is the famous bean soup recipe which has been served for years and years in the dining room of our senators in Washington, and once it got on the menu, it has stayed put, because everyone loves it.

It will do close to a dozen servings. Soak two pounds of Michigan navy beans overnight. Rinse them off with hot water so they turn white again.

Then in a largish pan heat up four quarts of water, add the beans and one and a half pounds of smoked ham hocks. Cover and boil slowly for about three hours.

Saute a chopped onion in a little butter until deep golden, add to the soup. Throw in some pepper. Stay off the salt because the ham can take care of that.

You don't even have to bother running for the senate now that you have this and can, simply pretend your kitchen is the senate dining room. Think of all the wear and tear you will be saving on yourself.

Also you need not spend a mint going to a really good French restaurant. Just try this one.

It is simple and most likely would cost a mint if you ordered it any place.

Slice up some beets. Use your own judgment of how many: maybe enough for four servings would be best. Peel them, natch, before slicing.

Boil them and when tender, add a sauce of three tablespoons of butter (do not cheat on this, it is the flavor you want), a fourth of a cup of lemon juice and sugar and two cups of orange juice. Cook this until it thickens and pour over the cooked beets.

Over the years I have wondered how the French became such good cooks. Frankly, I think they are simply overrated. I have eaten in a number of countries, and I always said the Italians were the very best, providing they could get the right ingredients. Not every Frenchman eats like we would think. Some hardly may be eating.

I know this was years ago, but once we were on the road to Paris to take our mother back for the boat trip to England, and our English car simply stopped in the middle of the road. So you-know-who pulled up the hood

Six complete 27-hour course

Six members of the Plymouth ambulance service and two of the Shiloh service have completed a 27 hour refresher course for emergency medical training.

From Plymouth were Richard Roll, James H. Cashman, Rita Phillips, William G. Hamilton, Donald Vanderpool and Kenneth Echelberry.

Mrs. Kenneth Shaffer and Mrs. Karol Hempfield are the Shilohans.

to see what might have happened, and I saw smoke coming out of a chimney, so I said, "Let me go there for help." When I approached the place, it was obvious that the smoke was coming from what looked like a barn. There was a fairly substantial house which looked very empty. No one home, I thought, so I headed toward the barn.

I knocked, and someone opened the door. In my horrible French I said, "we need help" and they came forth, but I had a chance to look around. A couple with a grown son was living in one room with sort of a campfire going in the middle of the room. You never saw such poverty in your life, and this is one of our most enlightened nations which leads the world in all we wear, eat and drink.

What really says is that we have so much more, but simply do not let the rest of the world know we have the oomph. All they look to us for is pure moola. Perhaps we should send out some of our recipes and they could all eat better.

'77 alumnus wed at Shelby

Andrew James Daron, a 1977 alumnus of Plymouth High school, and Miss Sally Jean Swanger were married Aug. 25 in Trinity United Methodist church, Shelby, by the Rev. Eugene L. Priest.

Rita Eldridge and Lauri Lewis were organists. Laura Shepherd was pianist. Terry Haise was soloist.

Candelabra lighted the altar, decorated with pink gladioli and carnations.

Daughter of the Glenn Swangers, Shelby route 4, the bride was given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in her mother's ivory satin gown styled with fitted bodice, long fitted sleeves and a gathered skirt that flowed into a train of chapel length. Gathered poplin edging with white Chantilly lace marked the dropped waistline. The same lace also edged the V-neckline.

A fashet headpiece covered with Chantilly lace supported a waltz-length veil edged in lace. The headpiece was embroidered with seed pearls.

She carried white silk carnations and pink rosebuds with streamers.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cheryl Swanger, was matron of honor. The Misses Tami Bechtel, Belinda Yetzer, Mindy Kahn and Kim Daron, the bridegroom's sister, were bridesmaids.

Loren Company was best man. John Adams, Edwin Kanney, David Seaman and Robert Daron, the bridegroom's brother, ushered. Kevin Swanger was ring bearer.

The Misses Lori DeVier, Janet Kehres, Denise Kuhn and Cindy Swanger served guests at the reception, where a four-tiered cake decorated with hearts, cherubs, roses and pink frosting covered with Cornelli lace was served.

Miss Kelly Shepherd registered guests.

A 1977 graduate of Shelby High school who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school, the bride is employed by the state auditor at Mansfield. The bridegroom is engaged in farming.

They will live in Plymouth.

To the editor —

Sir:
The newly created Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce has made substantial progress in organizing committees and clarifying its objectives. Our greatest need at this point is the involvement of interested individuals of the community.

The primary goal of our organization is to perform various projects to better the business and social climate of the village. The need for more individuals to be a part of this work is great. Business owners are only a small part of the membership of any Chamber of Commerce as the involvement of the non-business people of the community is essential.

Our next meeting will take place today at 7:30 p.m. in the Board of Education building. Please attend and help make a good community better.

Sincerely,
James M. Holloway, D.D.S.
President, Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce
