Cost of Willard water: $97,000 annually

A proposed contract by the City of Willard to furnish the village with its daily supply of water was reviewed during a special meeting of the council Monday evening.

Mayor Eric J. Akers pointed out the contract calls for a charge of $1.26 for each 1,000 gallons used. Based on usage of 200,000 gallons a day, which has been the average consumption, this will cost roughly $7,500 a month.

During preliminary talks between Willard officials and the village's water committee, the monthly sum discussed was $3,800.

Along with the charge for the water, the village would pay the interest on the funding, which was figured for periods of 15, 20 and 25 years at various rates.

The average rate of eight per cent for a 15-year period would be approximately $1,600 a month, thus making the annual costs for both water and interest close to $97,000.

At the present rates the water fund derives about $60,000 annually, so a substantial rate increase will be necessary for local consumers.

Councilman Michael R. Taylor expressed the opinion that the several sections of the proposed contract need much clarification. "At least it is a start," he said.

Councilman Ervin and David A. Howard and Dean A. Cline agreed with him. The proposed 20-year contract states the village will only service customers not over 1,000 feet from the northern corporation line, prohibits the village from using any other water system (which could be the present wells) unless it is mutually agreed; that the village would increase its water rates in keeping with any increases Willard enacts; and that Willard would not be held liable for any unforeseen emergencies, such as inadequacy of water pressure.

Each section of the contract was reviewed, although no formal action was taken. The mayor said he plans to rewrite some of the provisions.

James C. Root, village administrator, who was visibly disappointed with the contract as it is now written, said that for what Plymouth would be paying Willard, perhaps another source of water would be a wise decision.

Shane Tuttle is the Tommy John of PML Yankees. He already has three no-hitters. And he throttled defending champion Tigers Monday night on four hits.

"Under Ohio law," say Huron county commissioners, "each individual elected office holder is responsible for setting his or her own hours of operation. This decision is not made by the county commissioners. This board of commissioners has not stated that it wishes to close the court house on Saturday nor has any of the members. In any case this is not a decision for the commissioners to make. Each office must decide what hours to maintain and the commissioners must keep the court house open during those hours. Anyone with comment regarding the hours of the court house should direct them to each and all of the following: auditor, clerk of courts, recorder, sheriff, treasurer and each judge."
